FOREWORD

A country's tax regime is always a key factor for any business considering moving into new markets. What is the corporate tax rate? Are there any incentives for overseas businesses? Are there double tax treaties in place? How will foreign source income be taxed?

Since 1994, the PKF network of independent member firms, administered by PKF International Limited, has produced the PKF Worldwide Tax Guide (WWTG) to provide international businesses with the answers to these key tax questions.

As you will appreciate, the production of the WWTG is a huge team effort and we would like to thank all tax experts within PKF member firms who gave up their time to contribute the vital information on their country's taxes that forms the heart of this publication.

The PKF Worldwide Tax Guide 2019/20 (WWTG) is an annual publication that provides an overview of the taxation and business regulation regimes of the world's most significant trading countries.

On a country-by-country basis, each summary addresses the major taxes applicable to business; how taxable income is determined; sundry other related taxation and business issues; and the country's personal tax regime. The final section of each country summary sets out the Double Tax Treaty and Non-Treaty rates of withholding tax relating to the payment of dividends, interest, royalties and other related payments.

While the WWTG should not to be regarded as offering a complete explanation of the taxation issues in each country, we hope readers will use the publication as their first point of reference and then use the services of their local PKF member firm to provide specific information and advice.

Services provided by member firms include:

- Assurance & Advisory;
- Tax Advisory & Compliance;
- Financial Planning / Wealth Management;
- Corporate Finance;
- Management Consultancy;
- IT Consultancy;

In addition to the printed version of the WWTG, individual country taxation guides are available in PDF format which can be downloaded from the PKF website at www.pkf.com

Capital gains include the sale of a trade or business (including goodwill), a factory (including equipment, machinery, buildings and land, or any part of such assets), equipment used in the business of transporting persons and property, and shares of stock in corporations or limited liability companies.
- The calculation of tax on the taxable profits of branch offices of non-resident companies is the same as for other businesses. The tax is calculated at 20% of income after allowing certain deductible expenses.
- Individuals are subject to tax at progressive rates. The monthly maximum limit is 20% + AFN 8,900 fixed amount.

A. TAXES PAYABLE

CORPORATE TAX

All businesses irrespective of the legal status of the entity or company are subject to 20% corporate income tax under Article 4 of the Income Tax law in Afghanistan.

Business Receipt Tax

Business Receipt Tax (BRT) is also applicable on the gross revenue of businesses at the rates given below. BRT is treated as a deductible expense from revenue.

- Automobiles and their spare parts: 4% or 7%;
- Travel agents: 4%;
- Revenue from public entertainment, exhibitions and support events: 4%;
- Sale of merchandise and services: 4%;
- Restaurant earning less than AFN 750,000 per quarter: 4%;
- Guest house, restaurant and hotel earning AFN 750,000 per quarter: 5%;
- Club hall (without any threshold): 5%.

BRT does not apply to the following categories of income:

- Interest income;
- Fees earned from banking transactions;
- Proceeds of futures contracts whether settled in cash or otherwise;
- Insurance or reinsurance premiums;
- Distributions received by shareholders with respect to their interest in the company;
- Export of goods and services;
- Salaries, dividends, royalties and other payments that are subject to withholding tax;
- Income received from the rent or lease of residential property to a natural person if the tenant uses the property for residential purposes for more than six months of the tax year;
- Income of persons not having a business license that are taxed at a fixed rate.

CAPITAL GAINS TAX

Capital gains under Article 23 of the tax legislation refer to any gain from the sale, exchange, or transfer of the following assets:

- 1) A trade or business, including goodwill;
- 2) A factory including equipment, machinery, buildings and land, or any part of such assets;
- 3) Equipment used in the business of transporting persons and property; and
- 4) Shares of stock in corporations or limited liability companies.

Chargeable capital gains are treated as and included in taxable income. A gain from the sale or transfer of movable or immovable property acquired by inheritance is excluded from the provisions of paragraph (1) of this Article.

A loss incurred on the sale or exchange of capital items used in a business is deductible from the taxable income of the business from other sources for the year. While a loss on the sale of shares can only be offset against the sale or exchange of other shares in the same year.

Method of calculation of Capital Gains

Gains (receipts less allowable expenses) arising from capital asset transactions are divided by the number of years of usage of the said asset. The average rate so obtained is then applied to the total income of the person (natural or legal) for the year. The rate so calculated cannot be less than 2%.

BRANCH PROFITS TAX

The calculation of tax on the taxable profits of branch offices of non-resident companies is the same as for other business. The tax is calculated at 20% of income after allowing certain deductible expenses.

The only exception to the rule is that any amount remitted outside Afghanistan to principal office or any other branch office shall be regarded as a dividend and shall be subject to withholding tax at 20%.

SALES TAX / VALUE ADDED TAX

VAT is levied on only very few items and services such as hotel services etc. and no separate comprehensive regulation exists for VAT. The Government of Afghanistan planned to levy VAT on various services and goods in 2017, however, the matter has been deferred.

LOCAL TAXES

No local taxes are payable in respect of income of companies.

OTHER TAXES

Other important levies in Afghanistan include customs duty and various import duties.

B. DETERMINATION OF TAXABLE INCOME

Taxable income is calculated as revenue for the year from all sources less the following admissible expenses:

1. Any expense related to the cost of production or trade and business, such as insurance and freight expenses, etc.;

2. The cost of supplies, materials, fuel, electricity, water, and ordinary and necessary expenses used in the production of income, or in a trade or business;
3. Wages, salaries, commissions, and fees paid for services rendered by employees in trade or business;

5. Rent paid on property necessary to and used in trade or business;
6. Cost of repairs and maintenance of properties and equipment necessary to and used for purposes of the business or trade;

Taxes imposed by this Law and taxes not qualifying as a necessary business expense are not deductible, except as otherwise provided for by this Law;

6. Taxes paid to foreign countries by non-resident persons on income from sources within Afghanistan, if the double tax treaty is not entered into with that country.

C. FOREIGN TAX RELIEF

Any income tax paid to the government of a foreign country may be taken as credit on the principle of reciprocity. The tax credit on a foreign tax payment is calculated as follows:

D. RELATED PARTY TRANSACTIONS

The tax authorities have the power in respect of a transaction between associates to distribute, apportion, or allocate income, deductions, or tax credits between such associates to reflect the income that would have been realised in an arm's-length transaction.

E. EXCHANGE CONTROL

For the purpose of tax calculations, official rates issued by the Central Bank in Afghanistan (DAB) must be used. In case the exchange rate is not available for a transaction currency, the amount shall first be converted into USD and then into Afghani.

KEY TAX POINTS

- All companies are liable for corporate income tax on their profits arising from any business they carry on in Algeria, except for certain restricted categories mentioned in the tax code.
- All economic activities conducted in Algeria, including sales operations, imports, construction works and services, which are of an industrial, commercial or handicraft nature made in Algeria on a regular or occasional base are subject to VAT.
- Dividend withholding tax at a rate of 15% is imposed on dividends paid from Algerian sources to individual residents or non-resident individuals and legal entities, subject to the application of a double tax treaty.
- Relief from foreign taxes in Algeria depends on whether the country in question has entered into a double tax treaty with Algeria.
- Withholding tax applies to interests, dividends, royalties and technical service fees.

A. TAXES PAYABLE

INCOME TAX

Resident companies incorporated in Algeria and non-resident companies that have a permanent establishment in Algeria are liable for corporate income tax on their profits arising from any business carried on in Algeria. Depending on the activity, the rates vary as follows:

- 19% for the sector of the production of goods;
- 23% for construction, public works and hydraulic activities as well as thermal and tourist activities, excluding travel agencies;
- 26% for other activities.

Foreign companies not established in Algeria and foreign companies without a permanent establishment in Algeria are generally subject to withholding tax at a rate of 24%. However, a double tax treaty may foresee a lower rate.

TAX ON PROFESSIONAL ACTIVITY

This tax is levied on turnover and depends on the sector. The rate varies as follows:

- 3% for transportation by pipeline of hydrocarbons;
- 1% for the sector of the production of goods;
- 1.5% for construction;
- 2% for other activities (trade, services, ...etc.).

VALUE ADDED TAX (VAT)

VAT applies to the supply of most goods and the provision of services in Algeria. All economic activities conducted in Algeria, including industrial and handicraft activities and liberal or commercial professions, are subject to VAT. Exports by definition are consumed abroad and are in principle not subject to VAT. Any VAT charged under such circumstances is usually refundable. This avoids downward pressure on exports.

(1) Rates.

Two different VAT rates apply in Algeria:

- A special reduced rate of 9% applies to goods and services of particular economic, social or cultural interest; and,
- 19% for operations related to services and goods not subject to another rate.

(2) Filing and payment.

Monthly returns and any tax payable are generally due by the 20th day of the following month.

SINGLE FLAT TAX (Alternative taxation)

This is a tax that replaces several taxes (Income Tax, VAT, and Tax On Professional Activities) and is applied to taxpayers whose turnover does not exceed 30 million DZD.

The rates of this tax are as follows:

- 5%: applicable to production and sales activities;
- 12%: applicable to all other activities.

These taxpayers can also submit a request to be taxed according to the general scheme.

PROPERTY TAX

It is a tax that applies to developed and undeveloped properties. The rate of PT varies between 3 and 10%.

OTHER TAXES AND LEVIES VOCATIONAL TRAINING TAX

Companies that employ more than six (6) permanent employees are subject to a tax of 1% on the annual payroll for vocational training. An additional tax of 1% on the annual payroll is also payable (for learning) for all companies that employ more than 20 permanent employees. Taxpayers may be exempt from paying this tax provided they initiate training and learning activities.

DOMICILIATION TAX

A bank domiciliation tax is imposed on the importation of goods or services.

The tax is paid at the rate of 0.3% on the amount of the importation for any request to open a file of a transaction of importation of goods. The amount of the tax cannot be less than DZD 20,000.

The rate of the tax is fixed at 3% of the amount of the domiciliation for the imports of services.

Equipment and raw materials that are not intended for resale in the State, subject to registration prior to each import commitment are exempt from this tax.

BRANCH PROFITS AND REMITTANCE TAX

Branches of non-resident companies are subject to the same corporate tax rates as regular resident Algerian companies, i.e. the abovementioned 19%, 23% and 26%.

However, also a branch remittance tax was introduced by the Finance Act 2009 (Section 6). This tax is applicable to profits transferred to a non-resident by the branch or permanent establishment of a foreign company. The tax is payable on the profit after deduction of company tax at a rate of 15%.

LUXURY VEHICLE TAX

Vehicles registered in the category of passenger cars (PC) which are less than five (5) years old and disclosed in the Balance Sheet of a company established in Algeria, or rented by the company for a cumulative period equal to or greater than three (3) months during a tax period, are subject to an annual tax determined as follows:

Vehicles rented

- Between DZD 3,500,000 and DZD 6,000,000 = DZD 250,000;
- Over DZD 6,000,000 = DZD 500,000.

Vehicles acquired by the company

- Between DZD 3,500,000 and DZD 6,000,000 = DZD 350,000;
- Over DZD 6,000,000 = DZD 600,000.

However, the tax does not apply to vehicles intended exclusively for sale, either to rent or to execute a transport service available to the public, when these operations correspond to the normal activity of the owning company.

B. DETERMINATION OF TAXABLE INCOME

Taxable income is determined on the basis of regular accounting results. When there are discrepancies between tax rules and accounting principles, adjustments are made to the accounting results. Profits are in principle considered to be gross revenue less production, salary and wages and rental expenses. Generally, all expenses generated in the conduct of a business are deductible if they are incurred in gaining or producing assessable income. However, expenses exceeding DZD 300,000 (USD 3,000) paid in cash are non-deductible from the taxable base.

DEPRECIATION

Fixed assets owned by a company are normally written off over their normal useful life. For tax purposes, the straight-line method is normally adopted but other methods may be used in certain circumstances and with the authorisation of the tax authorities following a request.

STOCK / INVENTORY

For the determination of net income, inventories must be evaluated at their cost price. If, at the end of the year, the market or realisable value is lower, the company must set up reserves for depreciation of the inventories. The tax authorities are very strict regarding the deductibility of provisions as they require that provisions be documented.

DIVIDENDS

Dividends paid by a company established under Algerian law to another company established under Algerian law are not taxable at the level of the company receiving the dividends.

LOSSES

Losses may be carried forward for four years. The carry back of losses is not permitted.

FOREIGN SOURCED INCOME

Revenues from a foreign source that are subject to tax at source on the payment in the country of origin are in principle not subject to tax in Algeria in case there is a double tax treaty. Non-resident legal entities are taxable on their Algerian source income and on gains from the disposal of buildings and the disposal of shares in real estate companies. The taxable capital gain is the difference between the sale price and the purchase cost. Relief from foreign taxes in Algeria depends on whether a double tax treaty has been concluded by Algeria.

INCENTIVES

The Algerian tax legislation has established a number of incentives to facilitate investment and the creation of projects in certain sectors. Incentives are aimed at accelerating the growth rate and job creation within activities related to fields determined by the specific legislation. Major incentives are available for investments made by enterprises located in areas that require development. Investment project can be granted tax advantages during the launch phase and for three years during the operational phase.

INTERCOMPANY LOANS

Interest paid to shareholders in respect of sums they surrender or make available to the company in addition to their capital shares, irrespective of the form of the company, is deductible within the limits of the average effective interest rate as established by the Central Bank of Algeria.

However, this deduction is subject to two conditions:

- The capital has been fully paid up; and
- The sums placed at the disposal of the company do not exceed 50% of the capital.

For the purpose of determining corporate income tax, the sums made available to the shareholders by the company shall be deemed to be distributed (as a dividend).

Interest on loans between related companies is deductible within the limits of the average effective interest rates as established by the Central Bank of Algeria.

For the purpose of determining corporate income tax, the proceeds of loans granted between enterprises without interest or at a reduced interest are determined by applying to the sums lent the average effective interest rates as established by the Central Bank of Algeria.

C. FOREIGN TAX RELIEF

No unilateral double taxation relief is granted under domestic Algerian tax law for foreign taxes. Bilateral relief of foreign taxes in Algeria depends on whether the country in question has concluded a double tax treaty with Algeria. Algeria has concluded more than 30 double tax treaties.

D. CORPORATE GROUPS

When an Algerian joint-stock company holds 90% or more of the shares of one or more Algerian joint-stock companies, the group may choose to be taxed as a single entity. Hence, the subsidiaries are treated as branches of the parent company and corporate tax is payable only by the parent company. Under this system, the profits and losses of all controlled branches, subsidiaries and partnerships in Algeria are consolidated. Once elected, the option is binding for four years.

Companies operating in the hydrocarbon sector are excluded from this regime.

E. WITHHOLDING TAX

For certain categories of income, the payer of income has to withhold tax at source, file tax returns and submit the amount of tax withheld to the tax authorities.

- Dividends paid to shareholders are subject to a 15% withholding tax which may be reduced under a double tax treaty;
- The withholding tax on royalties is 24% which may be reduced under a double tax treaty.
- Interest paid to a non-resident is subject to a 10% withholding tax, unless the rate is reduced under a double tax treaty;

- The withholding tax on technical service fees is 24% and applies to the gross income derived from any service fee paid abroad by a local company to a foreign company;
- Interest paid to a non-resident is subject to a 10% withholding tax, unless the rate is reduced under a double tax treaty;
- Most services performed in Algeria by non-resident companies are generally subject to a 24% withholding tax.

F. PERSONAL TAX

Personal income tax is a direct tax levied on the income of an individual. Taxpayers are classified into residents and non-residents. Income subject to tax is called assessable income and is divided into six categories:

1. Professional benefits;
2. Farm income;
3. Rental income from built and/or undeveloped properties;
4. Income from shares;
5. Salaries, wages, pensions and life annuities;
6. Capital gains on the sale of built or undeveloped buildings against payment.

For each category of income, certain deductions and allowances are granted in the calculation of the taxable income. Taxpayers should keep their accounting records in compliance with the accounting legislation in order to benefit from these deductions. In general, a person liable for personal income tax has to compute his tax liability, file a tax return and pay tax, if any, on a calendar year basis. There is no obligation to submit a tax return for taxpayers who do not receive other remuneration than salary.

Married couples file tax returns as separate individuals. Income of children is reported on the tax return of the head of the family. A spouse can report the income of their children on his/her tax return in certain circumstances.

Wages and salaries are subject to withholding tax and paid by the employer after deducting the personal income tax. The tax base includes all the pay sections subject to tax at the progressive rate detailed in the table below:

FRACTION OF REVENUE (ANNUAL)	TAX RATE
not exceeding 120,000 DZD	0%
from 120,001 DZD to 360,000 DZD	20%
from 360,001 DZD to 1,440,000 DZD	30%
exceeding 1,440,000 DZD	35%

G. TREATY AND NON-TREATY WITHHOLDING TAX RATES

KEY TAX POINTS

- Income obtained by corporate entities established in Angola is subject to three different taxes: (i) Industrial Tax, which is levied on the corporate taxable income, including capital gains on the sale of fixed assets; (ii) Capital Investment Tax, applicable to capital gains on the sale of securities, royalties, interest and dividend income; and (iii) Rental Income Tax, on rents collected from rented real estate as well as on deemed rented income from real estate owned by companies.

- Corporate taxable income, determined on the basis of accounting profits, is taxable under Industrial Tax at a rate of 30%. Taxpayers are divided into two groups, each group having different tax payment deadlines.
- Angola has not concluded any double tax treaty and no international double taxation relief is available in Angola.
- Most types of services are subject to withholding tax at a rate of 6.5%.
- Transfer pricing legislation enables the tax authorities to make corrections to taxable income when either the conditions (or prices) agreed between related parties are different from those that would have been agreed and accepted between independent entities in comparable transactions.
- The VAT Code was published on 24 April 2019 and will enter into force on 1 July 2019. VAT is levied on domestic supplies of goods, services and imports at a rate of 14%, although certain specified products and services are exempt from tax.

A. TAXES PAYABLE

COMPANY TAX

Income from Angolan companies is taxed under Industrial Tax ("Imposto Industrial"). Taxpayers liable for Industrial Tax are divided into two groups: A and B. Taxpayers included in Group A as well as Group B taxpayers that opt for keeping organised accounts are subject to Industrial Tax on the income effectively obtained and determined in accordance with the accounting records. Group B taxpayers that do not keep organised accounts are subject to tax on the basis of their turnover.

In general, commercial companies as well as permanent establishments of non-resident companies are mandatorily included in Group A. Group B is comprised of companies with a share capital of less than AOA 2,000,000 and with a turnover not exceeding AOA 500,000,000.

Resident companies are subject to Industrial Tax on their worldwide income.

CORPORATE INCOME TAX RATE (INDUSTRIAL TAX) AND TAX RETURNS

Corporate taxable income, determined on the basis of accounting profits and adjusted according to non-taxable revenues and non-deductible expenses, is taxed at a 30% rate. For Group A taxpayers an annual corporate income tax return ("Modelo 1") must be submitted by 31st May of the following year, together with the financial statements and the general ledgers of the year as well as a documentation set that forms part of the technical report. For Group B taxpayers that voluntarily prepare accounting records, an annual corporate income tax return ("Modelo 1") must be submitted by 30th April of the following year, together with a documentation set that forms part of the technical report. For Group B taxpayers that do not prepare accounting records, an annual corporate income tax return ("Modelo 2") must be submitted by 30th April of the following year, signed by an accountant and with the description of the sales and services provided.

WITHHOLDING TAX ON DOMESTIC SERVICE CHARGES

Most types of services are subject to withholding tax at a rate of 6.5%. This withholding tax should be retained by the company paying for the service, and may be deducted on the corporate income tax return ("Modelo 1") presented by the supplier of the service as an advance payment, up to the amount of the tax assessed. The excess of the amount of tax withheld over the amount of tax assessed may be carried forward and offset against the corporate tax liability of the subsequent 5 years. Services provided by resident companies not subject to withholding tax are:

- Educational services;
- Medical services;
- Hospitality services;
- Passenger transport services;
- Rental of equipment subject to Capital Application Tax;

- Telecommunications services;
- Financial broker and insurance services.

ADVANCE PAYMENT OF INDUSTRIAL TAX ON SALES

An advance payment equivalent to 2% of the sales made during the first 6 months of the year must be made by the end of August. Income from services subject to withholding tax will be excluded from the basis of computation of such advance payment. The advance payment amount can be offset against the final Industrial Tax liability. The excess, if any, can be carried forward and offset against advance payments of the subsequent five years.

OVERSEAS SERVICE CHARGES

Management and technical services contracts concluded with foreign service providers must be supported by a contract and are subject either to communication to or to approval by the Ministry of Economy, depending on the amount of the contract. The total amount of services contracted with overseas service suppliers shall not exceed 10 times the equity value of the Angolan company acquiring such services. In case this condition is not met, the excess amount will be treated as non-deductible expenditure. The payment of services to non-resident companies is subject to a final withholding tax rate of 6.5%, except in the case of the following services, which are not subject to such levy:

- Educational services;
- Medical services;
- Transportation services, including passengers;
- Rental of equipment subject to Capital Application Tax.

PERMANENT ESTABLISHMENT

In accordance with the Angolan General Tax Code, a fixed place of business from which the company exercises the whole or a part of its activity, namely an office, a branch or a factory is deemed to be a permanent establishment. The continued provision of services for periods longer than 90 days within any 12-month period may also be deemed to be a permanent establishment. Foreign companies with a permanent establishment in Angola are subject to Industrial Tax on:

- (a) the profits obtained by the Angolan permanent establishment;
- (b) the profits obtained by the head office from the sale of goods in Angola of a similar nature to those sold by the permanent establishment in that territory; and
- (c) the profits obtained by the head office from other commercial activities carried out in Angola of a similar nature to those carried out by the permanent establishment in that territory.

An Angolan branch of a non-resident company is taxed on its profits and capital gains in the same way as a resident Angolan company. The repatriation of Angolan branch profits to its head office is subject to Capital Application Tax at a rate of 10%.

CAPITAL GAINS

Capital gains obtained by resident companies on the sale of fixed assets are included in their taxable income, which is taxed under Industrial Tax at the standard flat rate of 30%. Capital gains on the sale of shares and other securities are taxed under Capital Application Tax at a rate of 10%.

VAT

The VAT Code was published on 24 April 2019 and will enter into force on 1 July 2019.

Companies which are classified as Large Taxpayers as well as all imports of goods into Angola will be subject to the general VAT regime as from the date the Code enters into force (1 July 2019). Taxpayers with an annual turnover of over USD 250,000 will be subject to a simplified scheme until 1 January 2021, but have the option to adopt the general regime. As from 1 January 2021 onwards, all taxpayers will be subject to the general VAT scheme.

VAT is levied on domestic supplies of goods, services and imports at a rate of 14%, although specified products and services are exempt from tax.

CONSUMPTION TAX

As a result of the publication of the VAT Code on 24 April 2019, the Consumption Tax Code has been revoked.

At the same date the new Special Consumption Tax Code has been introduced, which will enter into force as from 1 July 2019. The new consumption tax (IEC) is levied on specific products, including alcoholic beverages, tobacco, jewels, airplanes, firearms and art items at rates varying from 2% to 19%.

STAMP DUTY

Stamp Duty is levied on a wide range of operations and contracts. Both the operations on which the tax is levied and the applicable rate are listed in the table annex to the Stamp Duty Code. Tax rates vary from 0.1% to 1%. Certain items are taxed at a determined fixed amount. Some examples are:

- (i) Amounts collected by a company from its customers (1%);
- (ii) Loans (0.1% to 0.5% on the principal amount of the loan depending on the period for which the loan is contracted);
- (iii) Notary acts (AOA 2,000).

In the particular case of loans granted by foreign companies as well as in the case of interest charged by a foreign bank, the tax must be self-assessed (under the reverse charge mechanism) and paid by the borrower.

CAPITAL APPLICATION TAX

Capital Application Tax applies to investment income, such as interest, dividends, royalties and capital gains on the sale of shares and other securities. The tax rates vary from 5% (e.g. loan interest with maturity over 3 years and dividends from listed companies) to 10% (e.g. dividends, royalties, capital gains, bank deposits interest) or 15% (interest on loan agreements). In the case of non-remunerated loan contracts, the tax authorities may deem that the principal is remunerated at a 6% interest rate. Dividends paid between Angolan resident companies are exempt from tax if a participation of 25% has been held for a 1 year period prior to the dividend distribution, if not a tax of 10% must be withheld.

URBAN REAL ESTATE INCOME TAX (IPU)

This tax is levied on both rented and non-rented urban real estate. In the case of rented real estate, the tenant is required to withhold 15% tax on the rents paid to the landlord. Non-rented urban real estate with a taxable value exceeding AOA 5,000,000 is subject to IPU at a rate of 0.5%.

REAL ESTATE TRANSFER TAX (SISA)

This tax is levied on all acts involving the sale of real estate at a rate of 2% and is payable by the buyer.

SPECIAL TAX REGIME - PETROLEUM INDUSTRY TAX

Income from the oil industry is subject to a specific tax regime. This tax regime is applied to all companies that perform activities of search, development, production, storage, treatment and sales of oil and its components. Oil Corporate Income Tax Rates are as follows:

- Production or sharing agreement: 50%;
- Other types of joint-ventures: 65.75%;
- Angolan companies members of the national concessionaire: 30%.

SPECIAL TAX REGIME - MINING INDUSTRY TAXATION

Mining companies are subject to a specific tax regime. The general tax rate applied under this regime is 25%.

B. DETERMINATION OF TAXABLE INCOME

GENERAL REGIME

Taxable income is calculated by adjusting the accounting profits according to non-taxable income and non-deductible expenses. As a general principle, costs are only deductible when necessarily incurred for the purpose of producing income.

EXPENSES DOCUMENTATION

Business expenses that are not properly documented will not be accepted as tax deductible. Furthermore, they will give rise to an additional adjustment in computing the corporate taxable income, as follows:

- In case of improperly documented expenses (expense supported by document that does not contain all relevant elements an invoice must contain): an additional amount of 2% of the expense must be adjusted in computing the corporate taxable income.

- In case of undocumented expenses (expenses not supported by a valid document, but where it is possible to verify the effectiveness of the expense): an additional amount of 4% of the expense must be adjusted in computing the corporate taxable income.
- In case of confidential expenses: an additional amount of 30% of the expense must be adjusted in computing the corporate taxable income (50% in the case of exempt taxpayers).

DEPRECIATION OF FIXED ASSETS

Fixed assets can be depreciated for tax purposes over the useful life of the asset. The depreciation rates are set by specific legislation and the normal method of calculation is the straight-line method.

STOCK / INVENTORY

Inventory must normally be valued at the effective acquisition or production cost (historical cost).

DIVIDENDS

When subject to Capital Application Tax dividends are excluded from the tax basis for CIT purposes. The same applies to other income subject to Capital Application Tax, such as capital gains on the sale of shares.

INTEREST DEDUCTION

Interest charges related to shareholder loans are not tax deductible for corporate income tax purposes. Interest on loans contracted with other parties are eligible for deductibility.

LOSSES

Operating losses incurred by resident companies or by a branch of a non-resident company may be carried forward and offset against taxable profits for the following three years.

FOREIGN SOURCED INCOME

Angolan companies are taxed on their worldwide income, including any foreign branch income.

INCENTIVES

Foreign private investment in Angola requires a minimum capital of USD 500,000 and a reduction of the tax rate (at CIT, Capital Application Tax and Property tax level) could be contracted with the Angola Government ranging between 5% and 100%, subject to certain conditions, i.e.:

- (i) Number of jobs created;
- (ii) Investment amount;
- (iii) Investment location;
- (iv) Sector of investment;
- (v) Percentage destined for export;
- (vi) Percentage of Angolan shareholders in the share capital; and
- (vii) National value added.

Additionally, foreign investments in electricity and water production, hospitality, transportation and logistics, construction, telecommunications, information and information technology, and media areas, shall only be accepted when in partnership with Angolan citizens, publicly owned companies or Angolan private companies, where the Angolan partners hold at least a stake of 35% in the share capital and have effective participation in the management.

C. FOREIGN TAX RELIEF

There is no tax relief for foreign taxes paid by Angolan companies.

D. CORPORATE GROUPS

Companies which are classified as Large Taxpayers may opt to be taxed on the aggregated value resulting from the sum of the taxable profits and losses computed in the group.

E. RELATED PARTY TRANSACTIONS

There is a general transfer pricing provision that allows the tax authorities to adjust the taxable income of any taxpayer as a result of non-arm's length transfer pricing practices. A company listed as a Large Taxpayer is required to prepare transfer pricing documentation.

F. WITHHOLDING TAX

Under domestic law, dividends paid to non-resident companies are subject to a 10% withholding tax. Dividends paid between Angolan resident companies may be exempt from withholding tax if a participation of at least 25% is held for a period of longer than 1 year prior to the dividend distribution. Dividends paid to resident or non-resident companies with stocks traded on a recognised stock exchange market are subject to a reduced withholding tax rate of 5%, applicable for the years 2015 until 2019. All royalties paid to resident or non-resident companies are subject to a 10% withholding tax.

Interest paid to resident or non-resident companies are subject to withholding tax usually at a rate of 15%. However, certain interest, such as interest on shareholders loans, corporate bonds, bank deposits, treasury bills, treasury bonds and securities issued by the Angolan Central Bank (BNA) are subject to a 10% rate. Interest on treasury bonds and securities issued by the BNA are subject to a reduced rate of 5% if the maturity is at least three years. Services are usually subject to a 6.5% withholding tax regardless of whether they are paid to a resident or a non-resident service provider. Some exemptions may apply depending on the type of service.

G. EXCHANGE CONTROL

At present, foreign currency transfers are subject to a 10% tax. This rate has been announced as temporary and is aimed at facing the financial impact on the economy resulting from the reduction in oil prices.

H. PERSONAL INCOME TAX

Individuals receiving employment income for work performed in Angola are subject to personal income tax. These taxpayers are divided into three groups:

Group A: Employment income (including salaries of board direction members);

Group B: Independent professionals (listed in the annex to the Personal Income Tax Code);

Group C: Industrial and commercial activities.

INDUSTRIALS AND COMMERCIALS ACTIVITIES (Group C)

Income derived from industrial and commercial activities is subject to a rate of 30% determined according to the Minimum Profits Table or to a rate of 6.5% in other situations.

- it is incorporated or registered in Antigua and Barbuda;
- it is centrally managed and controlled in Antigua and Barbuda.

Corporate income tax is currently imposed at a rate of 25%. However, international business corporations (IBC) are exempt from tax and a reduced rate of 22.5% applies to banks that offer mortgages provided they maintain an interest rate throughout the year of maximum 7%. The tax return must be filed within three months after the end of the tax year, along with the financial statements.

CAPITAL GAINS TAX

Capital gains are generally not taxable. If capital gains occur regularly and frequently, they are considered income from trade or business.

BRANCH PROFITS TAX

Branch income is taxed on the same basis and at the same rate (25%) as that of corporations.

SALES TAX / VALUE ADDED TAX (VAT)

Antigua and Barbuda sales tax (ABST) is a value added type tax introduced in Antigua in 2007. ABST is levied on local consumption and is borne by the consumer. Taxable activities are sales of goods and supplies of services within Antigua and Barbuda and the import of goods into Antigua and Barbuda.

The standard rate of ABST is 15%. Also, a 12.5% reduced rate applies to hotel or holiday accommodation, along with supplies that are ancillary or incidental to the supply of hotel or holiday accommodation while certain goods and services may also be zero-rated (international transportation, export, basic food items, water, electricity for residential use, sale of new residential property and fuel) and exempt (financial services, local transportation, education, services related to long-term accommodation (over 45 days), medical and veterinary services) from ABST.

The registration threshold for ABST is a total value of supplies exceeding XCD 300,000 in a continuous period of 12 calendar months.

OTHER TAXES

REAL ESTATE WITHHOLDING TAX

Property is subject to tax yearly at the level of the owner and is assessed by the Property Valuation Department on the market value of real property with rates ranging from 0.1% (agricultural land) to 0.5% (commercial buildings), depending on the use.

SOCIAL SECURITY

Employers are subject to 6% social security contributions and 3.5% medical benefits scheme contributions of the employee's salary or wages. The social security contribution ceiling is XCD 6,500 per month.

STAMP DUTY

Stamp duty on the sale of real property is 7.5% for the vendor and 2.5% for the purchaser. Non-resident sellers are subject to a 5% stamp tax on the appreciation value of the real property. Non-resident purchasers must obtain an alien land holding licence at 5% of the property value and pay a stamp duty of 2.5%. Transfer stamp tax is levied on the market value of the shares or book value of the shares, whichever is higher. Vendors pay stamp tax at a rate of 5%, purchasers pay stamp tax at a rate of 2.5%.

CUSTOMS AND EXCISE DUTIES

Customs duties are imposed under the CARICOM Common External Tariff. There is a general exemption from duties with respect to goods imported from other CARICOM member states. Customs import duties range from 0% to 70%. Most basic food and drink items (juices and sodas) and baby-related items are subject to a 20% duty while guns and ammunitions are subject to a 70% duty. An excise duty is imposed on all spirits at varying rates.

B. DETERMINATION OF TAXABLE INCOME

Taxable income is calculated as net profit before tax, adjusted for non-deductible expenses and allowable deductions.

DEPRECIATION

Depreciation allowed for tax purposes is computed by way of the reducing balance method at prescribed rates. Initial allowances are granted on industrial buildings and on capital expenditures incurred on plant and machinery by a person carrying on a trade or undertaking. In addition, an annual allowance of 2% is granted on all buildings.

Assets	Depreciation rate (%)
Buildings, roads, fencing and pavements	2
Leasehold improvements	4
Furniture, fixture, fittings and equipment	7.5
Plant and machinery and office equipment	10
Motor vehicles, golf carts, boats and aircrafts	20
Motor trucks and lorries	22.5
Computer hardware and software	33.33

There are no provisions regarding depreciation or amortisation of expenditure on intangible property such as patents or goodwill, or pre-incorporation and similar expenses.

STOCK / INVENTORY

Inventory is generally stated at the lower of cost or net realisable value. The first in first out (FIFO) and average cost methods of valuation are generally used. However, the tax authorities will generally accept a method of valuation that conforms to standard accounting practice in the trade concerned. The last in first out (LIFO) method is not allowed.

CAPITAL GAINS AND LOSSES

Capital gains are generally not taxable while capital losses are not deductible. However, capital gains that occur regularly and frequently are considered ordinary business income.

DIVIDENDS

Dividends received by a company resident in Antigua and Barbuda from another company resident in Antigua and Barbuda are taxed at the corporate income tax rate of 25%. Credit is given to the recipient for the tax already paid on the dividend in computing the tax liability.

INTEREST DEDUCTIONS

All outgoings and expenses wholly and exclusively incurred in the production of taxable income are deductible and thus are paid interest and royalties. There are no thin capitalisation rules.

LOSSES

Losses can be carried forward for up to 6 years while losses cannot be carried back. Losses may only offset 50% of chargeable income in an income year. Loss carry-back is not permitted.

FOREIGN SOURCE INCOME

Resident companies are subject to tax on their worldwide income. Foreign income is subject to the general rules of income tax and foreign business income is calculated similar to domestic business income while capital gains on foreign assets are not taxable. Foreign dividends, interest and royalties received by resident companies are included in chargeable income for their gross amount, less related outgoings and expenses.

TAX INCENTIVES

International Business Corporations Act 1982

An international business company (IBC) is exempt from the payment of corporate income tax and other direct taxes and stamp duties. International activities performed under the umbrella of an IBC could for example be banking, insurance (broking), manufacturing, commercial, industrial, trading or business services, trust business and international shipping and aircraft.

Investment Authority Act 2006

The 2006 Act sets the framework for the promotion of investment opportunities in Antigua and Barbuda by introducing a system of registration of businesses, an investment code and a range of incentives which are available for both local and foreign investors, like exemption from income tax, withholding tax and customs duties and reduction of stamp duty and property tax.

C. FOREIGN TAX RELIEF

In the absence of a double tax treaty, unilateral relief of double taxation is restricted to relief for British Commonwealth taxes. In case of income taxed both in the Commonwealth country and in Antigua and Barbuda, limited relief is available for resident companies against Antigua and Barbuda income tax for the income taxes of British Commonwealth countries assessed on or deducted at source. Unilateral relief for an eligible Commonwealth income tax is half the Antigua rate (12.5%). However, Antigua and Barbuda will only grant the unilateral relief if the source country grants similar relief to its residents for Antigua and Barbuda taxes. Unilateral relief is granted on a per-country basis and no further credit is granted for underlying tax. Foreign taxes of non-Commonwealth countries are considered to be an expense and therefore deductible.

D. CORPORATE GROUPS

Group taxation is not permitted in Antigua and Barbuda.

E. RELATED PARTY TRANSACTIONS

There are no transfer pricing regulations as such, nor are there rules on Controlled Foreign Companies (CFC).

F. WITHHOLDING TAX

There is no withholding tax on payments to resident companies. Dividends, interest, royalties, rentals, technical services fees and management fees paid by a resident company to a non-resident company are subject to a 25% final withholding tax unless a tax treaty applies.

G. EXCHANGE CONTROL

There are no limits on foreign exchange transactions.

H. PERSONAL TAX

There is no personal income tax in Antigua and Barbuda.

KEY TAX POINTS

- Companies domiciled in Argentina are subject to income tax on their worldwide income. Non-resident companies are subject to tax on Argentina-sourced income.
- There is no separate capital gains tax levied on capital gains of companies as they fall under the scope of corporate income tax.
- VAT is applied at all stages of the production and selling processes (output tax). Tax suffered in the immediately preceding stage is deductible (input tax).

- Any foreign taxes paid on foreign-accrued income may be credited against Argentine income tax up to the limit of the Argentine tax on the same income.
- Transactions between Argentine companies and related parties are deemed to take place at arm's length rates for tax purposes. For income tax assessment purposes, Argentine Law provides for the traditional methods generally used for transfer pricing (comparable uncontrolled price, resale price, cost plus, profit split, transaction net margin) to demonstrate that an arm's length price has been used.
- Argentine-sourced income paid to foreign recipients not having a permanent establishment in Argentina is subject to 35% withholding tax. However, for each activity, the law establishes a percentage of presumptive net income on which 35% withholding tax is applicable, thereby reducing the effective tax rate.
- Income tax is levied on income earned by resident individuals in Argentina and abroad.
- Personal assets tax (wealth tax) is levied on all assets, wherever situated, of Argentine domiciled persons, on Argentine assets of non-domiciled persons and on shares issued by an Argentine company (the company pays the tax on behalf of the shareholders). In the case of trusts (excluding financial trusts), the trustee pays the tax on behalf of the beneficiaries.

A. TAXES PAYABLE

COMPANY TAX

Companies domiciled in Argentina are subject to income tax on all their income, whether sourced in Argentina or in a foreign country. Non-resident companies are subject to tax on Argentine-sourced income. Income from the export of goods situated in Argentina is deemed to be fully taxable and, for other specific international activities (e.g. news agencies, insurance, commercial use of films produced abroad, international transport etc.), the tax law sets a certain percentage as presumed income.

The tax rate for corporations (Sociedades Anónimas, Sociedad de Responsabilidad Limitada - Limited Liability Corporation - en Comandita) and branches of foreign companies (permanent establishments) domiciled in Argentina is:

- 30% applicable for fiscal years beginning as of 1 January 2018;
- 25% applicable for fiscal years beginning as of 1 January 2020.

For partnerships, the tax is charged to each partner according to a progressive tax rate scale ranging from 5% to 35% depending on the amount of the taxable income.

Foreign recipients not qualifying as a permanent establishment in Argentina are subject to withholding tax at source. The rate is 35% on the applicable presumptive net income percentage, depending on the type of payment made (i.e. interest, fees, royalties, rentals, etc.). For companies organised or incorporated in Argentina, any income tax (or similar tax) paid abroad on a foreign source income is creditable against Argentine income tax, up to a certain limit.

Company income is taxed on an accrued basis during the company's business year. The tax is assessed annually within five months after the fiscal year end. Advanced payments must be made monthly on the basis of the tax amount paid the previous year. Moreover, the AFIP (Tax Authority) has enforced several withholding tax rulings that involve almost every type of activities. The income tax withheld during the fiscal year is creditable against the income tax assessed, as well as the advanced payments. The balance must be paid at due date. Taxpayers can submit an instalment plan (up to six instalments) accruing interest at a monthly 3% rate.

CAPITAL GAINS TAX

There is no separate tax levied on capital gains for companies organised in the country or for branches as they fall under the scope of income tax. For foreign corporations, capital gains are also included under a withholding at source income tax regime at the time the payment is made.

For foreign resident companies and individuals, capital gains derived from the sale of shares, stocks, bonds and other securities (whether listed or unlisted on the Stock Exchange) are levied on income tax at a rate of 15%. Foreign resident taxpayers can elect to be taxed on the gross sales price. In this case, 90% on the gross sales price will be deemed to be the amount of capital gains that will be subject to a rate of 15%. Therefore, the effective tax rate on the gross sales price will be 13.50%.

VALUE ADDED TAX (VAT)

This tax is applied to all stages of the production and sales processes (output tax) and the tax amount of the immediately preceding stage is deductible (input tax). The tax is imposed on the following transactions:

- Sale of personal property situated in Argentina;
- Leases and services, including financial and insurance services;
- Real estate leases;
- Work performed on third-party real property;
- Work performed on owned real property, in the case of constructors;
- Production of personal property commissioned by a third party;
- Procurement of natural goods commissioned by a third party;
- Permanent import of personal property;
- Services provided from abroad and used in Argentina (including interest). In this case, input tax must be paid by the local company and it automatically becomes 'input tax' for VAT purposes in the following month;
- Digital services provided from abroad whose use or exploitation takes place in Argentina. The definition of "digital services" includes, among others, the following: the supply and hosting of computer sites and web pages, maintenance, online technical support, the provision of digitised products in general (computer programs, digital books, designs, reports, etc.), memory services and online advertising, software, cloud-based downloads (images, text, information, video, music, games (including casinos), movies, or any digital content), online clubs, blogs, magazines, newspapers, learning , online market services and online auctions, etc.

VAT is assessed on a monthly basis. The inception of the taxable event is to issue the invoice, deliver the goods and render the service or the receipt, whichever is the earliest. The standard tax rate, currently 21%, is charged on the net price of the transaction. There are some leases and services levied at 27% (electricity, telecommunications, etc.). Some goods and services are levied at 10.50% (bovine meat, fresh vegetables, lodgings, interests on loans received from Argentine financial institutions, certain property plant and equipment, newspapers and magazines, transportation for individuals, etc.).

Exports are subject to a zero rate (destination country method). Exporters can apply input tax (incurred in making exports) against output tax arising from other taxable transactions. In case of a net input tax (internal charge), exporters are entitled to a refund (under a special procedure established by the tax authorities).

Input tax arising from the purchase of fixed assets is eligible for a refund if not used to offset output tax after 6 months. Foreign tourists are also entitled to a VAT refund (cash or in credit card account) included in personal property purchases and lodging services in some tourist areas. There are several withholding and 'collection at source' regimes in force. The VAT withheld or collected at source is creditable against the internal charge. In case of a reminding tax credit, it can be offset against any other federal tax liability.

FRINGE BENEFITS

No tax is levied specifically on fringe benefits, since they are taxed along with income tax and social security contributions.

MINIMUM PRESUMPTIVE INCOME TAX (MPIT)

This tax is levied on all assets located in Argentina or in foreign countries owned by companies domiciled in Argentina or branches of foreign companies located in Argentina. The Tax Act sets out how to value the assets to which, in general, the current market value must be attributed. Some assets are not liable for MPIT, e.g. shares of other companies domiciled in Argentina, dividends earned, investment in construction (for two years), and new personal property purchases (for two years). Companies having less than ARS 200,000 of assets are not liable for MPIT. Field Real Estate property is levied allowing a special deduction of up to ARS 200,000. The tax rate is 1%.

Financial institutions and insurance companies, subject to the control of state entities, are subject to MPIT on 20% of their assets value. Although this is an 'assets tax', the spirit of the law is to set a company's minimum income tax liability (for example, in the case of tax losses). Income tax assessed on the company may be creditable against MPIT for the same fiscal year.

If, in the same fiscal year, the income tax assessed is higher than the MPIT assessed, the net amount will not generate a tax credit. On the other hand, if in the same fiscal year the MPIT assessed is higher than the income tax assessed, the net amount of the MPIT may be carried forward and offset against income tax in the following ten fiscal years.

Despite this tax credit, the company must pay effectively at least the amount of MPIT assessed every fiscal year. Therefore, every year the company must assess both taxes, yet pay either income tax or MPIT, whichever is the highest.

This tax will be repealed as from 1 January 2019. For the fiscal years 2017 and 2018, this tax was repealed only for Small and Medium Size Business (SMSB) that qualify and are duly registered as SMSB.

PERSONAL ASSETS TAX PAID ON BEHALF OF SHAREHOLDERS

Companies residing in Argentina are levied on Personal Assets Tax on behalf of their shareholders (see section "H. Personal Assets Tax (Wealth Tax)" below).

SINGLE SIMPLIFIED TAX

Single simplified tax is a volunteer tax applicable to individuals and small partnerships that perform little activity and where the income does not exceed a threshold set by the Act. The taxpayer can choose whether to pay income tax and VAT or substitute both by paying a monthly single simplified tax. The tax is determined taking into account an income scale.

LOCAL TAXES

The different provinces and jurisdictions within the territory of Argentina apply local taxes. A brief description is provided as follows:

TURNOVER TAX

This is a provincial tax levied on the various stages of production and selling processes but no input tax is deductible from the tax amount of the immediately preceding stage (waterfall effect). In general, it applies to gross revenues accrued during each fiscal period (month). The tax rate is approximately 3% to 5% for commercial activities, 1.5% to 4% for industrial activities, and 1% to 3% for primary activities, according to the taxpayer's turnover and other regulations enforced by each provincial Tax Act.

Under an agreement signed between the National Administration and the Provincial Administrations, several exemptions to some productive activities have been established and the tax scheme will be gradually reshaped until this tax becomes ineffective and replaced by a 'neutral' tax. In general, small industrial activities are not liable for this tax in the jurisdiction where the factory is located.

STAMP DUTY

The duty is levied in each of the country's jurisdictions (Provinces) on juristic acts and instruments entailing a flow of wealth between the parties involved in the legal relationship. Thus, Stamp Duty is applicable inter alia to acts whereby for profit transactions on real estate, personal property, services rendered and civil, commercial or financial obligations are documented. Rates vary according to the jurisdiction and the type of instrument involved, the most common one being 1% of the contract value.

Under the aforesaid fiscal agreement, Stamp Duty is also to be phased out in the future but currently it is still in effect.

LAND AND CAR TAXES

These taxes, typically 'ad valorem', are levied on land and automobiles located or registered within any of the country's 24 provinces. The fiscal assessment value of the assets and the applicable tax rate varies according to each jurisdiction.

MUNICIPAL LEVIES

These are municipal levies applied on a range of taxable bases in the various jurisdictions, in consideration of services provided by each township. The taxable event is the performance of an activity for profit in a town. The tax rate, set by each Municipal Act, is applicable to turnover and depends on the activity performed.

OTHER TAXES

EXCISE TAX

This is a federal tax on specific goods and services, levied on a variety of items such as cigarettes, tobacco, alcoholic beverages (whisky, other spirits, liquor, etc.), soft drinks, beer, automobiles, ships and aircrafts, mobile phone services, insurance premiums, luxury items (jewellery, stones, pearls, furs, etc.), some electronic products (microwave oven, television set, radio, several home appliances, etc.). Excise tax is levied on the sales price. The tax rate varies depending on the item. This tax is generally levied at the production or importing stage (first stage). Furthermore, a fuel and gas tax is levied on the sale of some of these products.

SOCIAL SECURITY CONTRIBUTIONS

These are federal taxes levied on both employers and employees. The taxable base is the salary. An employer files the tax return with the official authority under self-assessment and pays the tax withheld from the employee together with his/her liability. Employee contributions on salaries (withholding) are 17% of salary (including health care).

Employers' contributions are assessed deducting a non-taxable minimum, applying the following rates:

Employer	Until 31/12/2018	Until 31/12/2019	Until 31/12/2020	Until 31/12/2021	As from 1/1/2022
Non-taxable minimum	ARS 2,400	ARS 4,800	ARS 7,200	ARS 9,600	ARS 12,000
Small and medium sized employer (including health care)	26.70%	26.40%	26.10%	25.80%	25.50%
Large sized employer (including health care)	22.50%	24.00%	24.50%	25.00%	25.50%

Employers' social security contributions can be partially considered as input tax for VAT purposes in some provinces. The amount that can be offset depends on the employer's location, ranging from nil in Buenos Aires up to 10.75%. A schedule with a gradual reduction of this credit is in force. The coefficients of input tax credit applicable are to be reduced by 25% per year in 2019, 2020 and 2021 respectively, until its repeal as from 1 January 2022.

TAX ON CHECKING ACCOUNT DEBITS AND CREDITS

This tax is levied on financial transactions. The taxable event is not only each debit and credit in a checking account but also a large variety of financial transactions (money remittances, money orders, cheque deposit on saving accounts, etc.). The law sets out several exceptions (i.e. saving accounts, stock exchange agents, non-profitable associations, etc.), and provides for reduced rates for certain transactions such as time deposits.

To prevent tax avoidance, any amount over ARS 1,000 must be paid by cheque as a binding procedure. The tax rate applicable is 0.60% on each debit and 0.60% on each credit on checking account. Thus the whole transaction is liable for tax at a 1.2% rate. For specific activities performed by some taxpayers (who might use checking accounts to make payments on behalf of a third party) a 0.075% rate is applicable.

17% of the tax amount paid each month is creditable against income tax or minimum presumptive income tax. The remaining 83% of the tax is a non-recoverable expense. The idea is that Financial Institutions act as withholding agents in order to ensure the revenue of the most important taxes.

Small and Medium Size Business (SMSB) that qualify and are duly registered as SMSB can consider 100% of this tax creditable against income tax subject to certain specific conditions.

B. DETERMINATION OF TAXABLE INCOME

Deductions for income tax assessment purposes include expenses incurred necessarily to obtain, maintain and preserve such income. The Income Tax Act lists specific regulations for dealing with the cost of products, fixed assets, real estate, or securities sold, as well as deductible bad debts, and property plant and equipment depreciation.

INVESTMENT ALLOWANCE

At present, for general business, there is no income tax incentive scheme in force allowing additional deductions, in whole or in part, for investment in facilities and equipment.

Small and Medium Size Business (SMSB) that qualify and are duly registered as SMSB can deduct 100% depreciation of some property plant and equipment in one year subject to certain specific conditions.

DEPRECIATION OF FIXED ASSETS

For real estate, the law sets a depreciation rate of 2% annually on the portion attributable to the building. The Tax Act indicates that fixed assets may be depreciated over their estimated useful life on a straight-line basis. Assets subject to depletion (mines, quarries, etc.), may be depreciated, not under the straight-line method, but proportionally to the units extracted in each period.

STOCK / INVENTORY

In the case of resale goods and raw materials, inventories should be valued for tax purposes at the end of each business year at their acquisition cost (last purchase value). For self-manufactured items, the inventory value is determined on the basis of the sales price at the end of the fiscal year after deducting any direct expenses associated with the sale and the net profit margin. In special cases, where cost accounting systems are maintained, own-production goods can be valued at their production cost.

CAPITAL GAINS AND LOSSES

Capital losses are deductible, subject to the limitations noted in the paragraph under 'Losses' below.

DIVIDENDS

- Earnings arising from fiscal years beginning as from 1 January 2018:
 - Dividends and profit distributions are subject to tax.
 - Dividends arising from fiscal years beginning between 1 January 2018 and 31 December 2019 are taxed at a 7% rate.
 - Dividends arising from fiscal years beginning as from 1 January 2020 are taxed at a 13% rate.

- Earnings arising from fiscal years ending up to 31 December 2017:

Dividends and profit distributions are not subject to tax.

Equalisation tax applies to dividends paid to residents and non-residents when commercial profits (i.e. the profits before tax as reported in the company's financial statements) exceed taxable profits.

If the distributed dividend does not exceed the taxable profit, equalisation tax is not levied, whomever its recipients are, provided that the dividend is distributed on nominative (registered) shares. If the dividend exceeds taxable profit, a 35% withholding tax is due on the difference (equalisation tax). No tax credit is derived from the tax withheld because dividends are not levied as income for the recipient (the whole tax was withheld).

INTEREST DEDUCTION

Interest is generally deductible provided that it is incurred on loans taken out for business purposes. Otherwise the deduction is denied. Notwithstanding this, there is a threshold set on deductible interest.

Interest on financial debts (excluding commercial debts) arising from indebtedness with related parties (domiciled in Argentina or abroad), will be deductible up to the limit of 30% of the net profit before deducting such interest and depreciations. The threshold not applied can be deferred for 3 years and the non-deductible interest can be deducted in the following 5 years up to the limit applicable to each year. This rule is not applicable in some situations (financial entities, among others).

Furthermore, interest on debts arising from indebtedness with related parties domiciled abroad or any party domiciled in "non-cooperative countries" will be deductible only when paid (not when accrued).

LOSSES

Income tax losses made in a given fiscal year may be carried forward for five years but taxpayers may only offset losses against the same type of income. Thus, stocks and foreign-sourced losses may only be offset against income of the same type.

FOREIGN CAPITAL INFLOWS

No special regulations exist to control incoming funds disclosed as capital contributions, as the current policy is designed to encourage inflows of foreign capital. However, foreign companies should pay personal assets tax (see below) because Argentine law deems that the stock belongs to a resident individual. On the other hand, there are specific regulations in force to control outgoing funds set by the Central Bank (general anti-money laundering procedures apply).

INCENTIVES

Promotional tax schemes are available for new investments in agricultural transactions and tourism in certain areas of Argentina. Approval of new industrial investment projects has been suspended.

CORPORATE MERGERS

Corporate reorganisations (de-mergers and mergers/consolidations) are to be considered 'tax-free' provided that certain legal requirements and proceedings are met. These relate, in particular, to maintenance of the shareholders' interest and continuance of the business activity carried out (two years before and after the reorganisation process). In such cases, any outstanding tax loss may be carried forward and other existing allowances and liabilities may be passed on to the successor companies.

SHARES AND BONDS

For corporations domiciled in Argentina, the income produced by shareholding is liable for tax when share alienation takes place (not just because of holding shares). On the other hand, bonds must be valued at their current value. Therefore, the income produced by bond holding is liable for tax whether they are sold or not. For foreign residents domiciled abroad, the disposal of shares (issued by an Argentine Company) is liable to Income Tax (see paragraph A – Capital Gains Tax).

C. FOREIGN TAX RELIEF

Any overseas income taxes paid on foreign-sourced income may be creditable against Argentine income tax up to the limit of the increase in the tax liability resulting from aggregating the foreign-sourced income.

D. CORPORATE GROUPS

Companies belonging to the same group or holding, but having separate legal status, should pay their taxes separately and the transfer of losses from loss-making to profit-making members of the same group of companies is not permitted. Nevertheless, payment is waived in the case of taxes arising from corporate reorganisations (de-mergers and mergers/consolidations) which comply with established legal requirements (particularly, maintenance of the shareholders' interest and continuance of the business activity carried out) for two years before and after the reorganisation process.

E. TRANSFER PRICING AND RELATED PARTY TRANSACTIONS

Under Argentine law, transactions between Argentine companies and related parties domiciled abroad are deemed to take place at arm's length rates for tax purposes. When the pricing used corresponds to normal market practices as between non-related entities, no adjustment is required for tax purposes.

For income tax assessment purposes, Argentine law provides for the traditional methods generally used for transfer pricing (comparable uncontrolled price, resale price, cost plus, profit split, transaction net margin) to demonstrate that an arm's length price has been used in transactions performed with related parties residing abroad, or any parties residing in 'non-cooperative countries'. Income tax rulings provide a positive list of 'cooperative countries' available at <http://www.afip.gob.ar/jurisdiccionesCooperantes/#ver>.

The related parties test is broad and not only includes transactions between a local subsidiary and its parent company but also other relationships, (e.g. local company and foreign subsidiary, local permanent establishment and foreign head office, local company and foreign permanent establishment, local company and related or non-related party residing in 'non-cooperative countries', among others).

F. WITHHOLDING INCOME TAX FOR FOREIGN TRANSACTIONS

When Argentine-sourced income is paid to foreign recipients who do not have a permanent establishment - branch, office, etc. - in Argentina, such income is subject to a 35% withholding tax rate.

For each activity, the law sets a percentage of presumptive net income on which 35% withholding tax is applicable, thereby reducing the effective tax rate. The following chart shows the presumptive net income percentages:

Income	Presumptive net income % A	Effective withholding tax rate % 35% x A
Interest on loans granted by overseas financial institutions only on the condition that the lender: a) Is domiciled in a jurisdiction not considered a "jurisdiction of low or nil tax", and, b) Has supervision on financial activity provided by the Central Bank (Federal Reserve). Offshore banks domiciled in any territory are not included in this category.	43%	15.05%
Interest on debt arising from the import of property plant and equipment subject to depreciation (except cars) provided that the exporter is the creditor.	43%	15.05%
Interest on time deposits made by foreign residents (either companies or individuals) in financial institutions located in Argentina, provided the interest is not subject to income tax in the country of residence.	43%	15.05%
Other interest. This category includes (among others): a) Interest on loans granted by overseas corporations or individuals; b) Interest on loans granted by offshore banks domiciled in any territory considered a "jurisdiction of low or nil tax" or who's Central Bank (Federal Reserve) does not apply supervision on financial activity.	100%	35.00%
Royalties arising from technical assistance or consulting not available in Argentina under specific regulations (the contract must be duly registered with the official authority).	60% - 80%	21% - 28%

Other income.	90%	31.50%

G. EXCHANGE CONTROL

Exchange controls are currently in effect, basically following anti-money laundering procedures. Foreign currency can be transferred into Argentina provided that the recipient files a disclosure with the official authority. To transfer outbound, the reason must be proved by filing forms with the Central Bank (i.e. dividends, loans, etc.).

H. PERSONAL TAX

Two taxes are currently levied on individuals:

- Income tax; and,
- Personal assets tax (wealth tax).

INCOME TAX

The tax is levied on income earned in Argentina and abroad by individuals residing in Argentina. It is payable on an annual basis with five advanced payments (every two months). Any expenses incurred in generating such income may be deducted from gross income. The law sets fixed deductions: non-taxable minimum, special tax-free amount, allowance for dependents, etc.

Resident individuals are liable to tax on the basis of a progressive tax rate scale ranging from 5% to 35% of annual taxable net income. Employees are subject to withholding tax at source, for which the employer is responsible (withholding agent).

Capital gains not related to an income-generating activity are generally not subject to tax.

Financial investment profits are subject to Income Tax:

- Income (interest and others) for the placement of capital, which generates Argentinean sourced income;
- Income arising from the alienation (purchase - sale) of shares, securities, stock, bonds and other securities, which generates Argentinean sourced income.

Taxable earnings include bank deposits, time deposit in financial entities, securities, mutual funds, among others. In both cases the income is taxed at a 5% rate when capital is in ARS; or 15% for investments made in foreign currency. Under the Income Tax Act, some exemptions are provided for the financial and capital markets, whereby income from shares that are quoted on the Local Stock Exchange is not subject to tax.

In the case of the disposal of real property not assigned to such an activity, the following tax is applicable:

- Real Estate purchased before 1 January 2018: a 1.50% real estate sales tax is charged on the sales value of the property, regardless of whether or not a loss or a profit is made.
- Real Estate purchased as from 1 January 2018: a 15% Income Tax is levied on the net income (sales price minus acquisition cost).

PERSONAL ASSETS TAX (WEALTH TAX)

This tax is levied on:

- All assets located in Argentina or in foreign countries that belong to individuals resident in Argentina;
- All assets located in Argentina that belong to individuals resident in foreign countries;
- Shares issued by Argentine companies. In this case, the company pays the tax on behalf of the shareholders;
- Trusts (excluding financial trusts). In this case, the trustee pays the tax on behalf of the beneficiaries.

INDIVIDUALS RESIDING IN ARGENTINA

This tax is levied on all assets located in Argentina and in foreign countries. Similar tax paid overseas in respect of assets located in foreign countries is creditable against personal assets tax. The only deduction allowed is the amount of liabilities arising from the purchase or construction of the taxpayer's home. Investments in shares issued by an Argentine company are not to be included in the taxable base because the company pays this tax on behalf of the shareholders (a situation that does not mean shares are exempted).

The tax is assessed on the value of property that exceeds the tax free amount (ARS 2,000,000 from the year 2019 onwards and ARS 18,000,000 only for real estate that serves as the taxpayer's home). If the taxable base is higher than the tax free amount, the tax is assessed on the net amount. A progressive tax rate scale is applicable, ranging from 0.25% to 0.75% on the value of the property.

INDIVIDUALS AND COMPANIES RESIDING IN A FOREIGN COUNTRY

The tax is also charged on assets located in Argentina and owned by individual non-residents at a 0.25% rate. Neither deductions nor a taxable minimum are allowed. In the case of certain assets (i.e. securities, non-exploited real estate property, etc.) located in Argentina and owned by foreign companies, these are deemed to belong to individuals and are subject to personal assets tax at a 0.50% rate.

Shareholders of an Argentine company who reside in foreign countries are liable for personal assets tax. The tax liability is not assessed directly but is paid by the company on behalf of its shareholders (see the next paragraph).

SHARES ISSUED BY ARGENTINE COMPANIES OR TRUSTS

Shares whose holders are non-resident companies or individuals are deemed to belong to non-resident individuals and the tax is levied on those shares. The taxable base is the Argentine company's equity value assessed on the company's last financial statements. The tax rate is 0.25%.

In all such cases, the tax is assessed and paid by the Argentine company on behalf of the shareholders. The tax paid is not deductible for income tax purposes because the company is allowed to claim the tax paid to the shareholders. A foreign company's branch (a permanent establishment in Argentina) will be subject to personal assets tax in respect of the capital assigned to the branch. In the case of trusts (excluding financial trusts), the trustee pays the tax on behalf of the beneficiaries. The taxable base is the amount of the assets.

Up to AMD 150,000 inclusive	23%
From AMD 150,000 to AMD 2,000,000 inclusive	AMD 34,500 plus 28% of the amount exceeding AMD 150,000
More than AMD 2,000,000	AMD 552,500 plus 36% of the amount exceeding AMD 2,000,000

- The income tax on interest shall be calculated at a 10% rate, according to the withholdings prescribed by the Tax Code.
- The income tax on royalties shall be calculated at a 10% rate.
- The income tax on rentals shall be calculated at a 10% rate, whereas in case the total of the rentals received during the tax year exceeds AMD 58.35 million, an additional income tax at a 10% rate shall be calculated on the surplus.
- The income tax on dividends received by foreign nationals and stateless persons shall be calculated at a 10% rate, while the calculation of the income tax on dividends received by citizens of the Republic of Armenia shall be carried out at a 5% rate.
- The income tax on the total income received from tax agents as a result of the alienation of property shall be calculated at a 10% rate.
- The income tax on income received from the alienation of a building, its apartments or other premises by a constructor shall be calculated at a 20% rate.

KEY TAX POINTS

- Australian resident companies are subject to company income tax on income derived from all sources. Non-resident companies are required to pay income tax only on Australian-sourced income.
- There is no branch profits tax in Australia. However, Australian branches of foreign companies will generally only be taxed on Australian-sourced income at the prevailing company tax rate.
- All entities that carry on an enterprise in Australia are required to register for the goods and services tax (GST) if their annual turnover meets the registration turnover threshold.
- Australia has a CFC regime which is designed to ensure certain types of passive and associated party income of a CFC is included in the controlling Australian resident's taxable income each financial year.
- Where foreign sourced income is included in assessable income, tax credits are available equal to the lesser of the foreign tax paid and the Australian tax payable. Credits are also available to Australian companies for foreign tax paid under the CFC regime on attributed income.
- Wholly-owned groups of Australian companies and trusts can elect to have their income tax liability calculated on a consolidated basis.
- Non-arm's length international profit-shifting arrangements and other international transactions between related parties are governed by transfer pricing rules which give the Commissioner of Taxation the power to calculate the income tax payable based on arms-length prices.
- Withholding tax must be deducted from interest, royalties and dividends (to the extent they are not franked) paid to non-residents.
- Income tax is payable by Australian resident individuals on non-exempt income derived from worldwide sources. Non-resident individuals are only required to pay tax on Australian-sourced income.
- There is no separate capital gains tax, but capital gains are included in taxable income. The tax treatment of capital gains and losses is generally the same for individuals and trustees as for companies, but there are some differences (e.g. Australian resident individuals and trustees, unlike companies, can claim a 50% discount of capital gains on assets held for more than one year). Small business CGT concessions may also reduce capital gains where certain conditions are met.
- There is no net wealth tax, real estate tax or inheritance or gift tax.

A. TAXES PAYABLE

COMPANY TAX

Australian resident companies are subject to company income tax on their income derived from all sources. Non-resident companies are required to pay income tax only on Australian-sourced income. Resident companies are those that are incorporated in Australia or those that carry on business in Australia and either have their central management and control in Australia or their voting power controlled by shareholders who are Australian residents.

The tax year runs from 1 July to 30 June. Companies' financial years usually coincide with the tax year. A taxpayer can choose to have an accounting period different to the tax year if they wish but this will require additional costs of preparing another set of accounts based on the tax year. Alternatively, if a taxpayer has a good reason for having a financial year other than 1 July to 30 June they can apply to the Australian Tax Office to have a substituted accounting period (SAP) and align the tax year with their financial year. The Australian Tax Office will generally accept applications for an SAP where an Australian subsidiary wants to align its tax year with its foreign parent company's financial year. The company tax rates applied to the company's taxable income are:

- 27.5% for companies with aggregate annual turnover of less than AUD 50 million for the 2018/19 income year); and
- 30% for all other companies.

Note, the reduced rate of company tax does not apply to entities which derive more than 80% of revenue from passive income.

A company is generally required to 'self-assess' its likely tax liability in a financial year and pay tax by quarterly instalments with the final tax liability being reconciled in an annual tax return. 'Likely tax' is the latest estimate of tax payable made by the company in a current financial year. If no estimate is made, 'likely tax' is the tax assessed in the preceding year. Company tax is payable on a quarterly basis (except for companies with a turnover of greater than AUD 20 million which are required to remit instalments monthly). Companies that are not required to report their goods and services tax (GST) on a monthly basis and with income tax payable of less than AUD 8,000 for the most recent income year can elect to pay an annual instalment of tax rather than quarterly instalments. Generally, the annual payment date is 21 October when the income year ends on 30 June.

Monthly or quarterly company tax instalments are payable within 21 days after the end of each month/quarter of the financial year. However, where taxpayers are eligible to pay other quarterly obligations on a deferred basis (namely those entities that are required to pay GST on a quarterly basis); the due date is the 28th day after the end of the quarter (except for the December quarter in which case payment date is 28 February). There are two methods of working out the instalment payment amount as follows:

- Instalment Income Option: the payment amount is the amount of gross assessable income earned for that month or quarter (less capital gains) multiplied by the instalment rate. The instalment rate is advised by the Tax Office and is based on the company tax paid on the most recent tax assessment divided by the company's turnover (less capital gains). This method is available to all taxpayers.
- GDP adjustment notional tax option: the payment income amount is based on the assessable income figure from the most recent tax return multiplied by a GDP factor. The income amount is advised by the Tax Office. This method is available for individual taxpayers or other entities where their most recent assessed taxable income was under AUD 2 million. Certain categories of taxpayers such as farmers, sports people and artists may meet their liability for these four instalments by making two payments per year.

BRANCH PROFITS TAX

There is no branch profits tax in Australia. However, Australian branches of foreign companies will generally only be taxed on Australian-sourced income at the prevailing company tax rate.

GOODS AND SERVICES TAX (GST)

All entities that carry on an enterprise in Australia are required to register for the goods and services tax (GST) if their annual turnover meets the registration turnover threshold of AUD 75,000 or AUD 150,000 for not-for-profit organisations. Once registered, entities are required to charge 10% GST on all goods and services that they supply within Australia, unless the supplies are specifically excluded, such as education, health, child care services and certain types of food.

Registered entities are entitled to claim an 'input tax credit' equal to the amount of GST paid on purchases, provided that those purchases were used for a 'creditable purpose' in carrying on their enterprise. This means that the cost of the GST is effectively borne solely by the end user. However, there are two exceptions to the general rule:

- (1) GST-free supplies (zero rated supplies): These supplies are provided by enterprises to their customers free of GST, and the enterprise is also allowed to claim input tax credits on its creditable business acquisitions. Examples include education and health providers and certain types of food.
- (2) Input taxed supplies: These supplies are provided by enterprises to their customers free of GST, but the enterprise is not allowed to claim any input tax credits on its creditable business acquisitions, effectively treating the supplier as an end user. Examples include financial services providers and residential accommodation supplies.

The GST collected from customers is remitted to the Federal Government on a quarterly or monthly basis, depending on the size of the entity's annual turnover.

There are new rules regarding the supply of goods and services by non-residents to Australian consumers which should be considered particularly digital services such as software.

FRINGE BENEFITS TAX (FBT)

Fringe benefits tax is a federal tax that is payable by resident and non-resident employers (with sufficient connection with Australia) on certain benefits that are provided to their employees. The tax is levied at a rate of 47% for the FBT year ending 31 March 2019 on the 'grossed-up taxable value' of each benefit that is provided to employees. FBT is separate from income tax.

In calculating the 'grossed-up taxable value' of a fringe benefit, the provider must first determine whether they are entitled to a GST input tax credit on that benefit. If so entitled, the value of the benefit must be 'grossed up' using a rate of 2.0802 for the 2018 FBT. In all other cases, the value of the benefit is grossed up using a rate of 1.8868 for the 2018 FBT year.

The grossing up methodology effectively levies tax on the benefit at the rate of tax that an employee on the highest marginal tax rate would pay on the cash salary required for them to pay for the benefit out of after tax salary and taking into account any GST input tax credit the employer can claim on providing the benefit. Employees can make non-tax deductible contributions towards the private use component of a benefit to reduce the taxable value, thereby reducing the FBT payable.

The FBT year runs from 1 April to 31 March. If the prior year's FBT liability is AUD 3,000 or more, it is payable on a quarterly basis on the same payments dates as quarterly company tax (see above). If the total FBT liability is less than AUD 3,000, an annual payment is required. The annual FBT return is due for lodgement by 21 May of each year. Any FBT paid in Australia by an employer is generally deductible for Australian income tax purposes.

SUPERANNUATION CONTRIBUTIONS

Employers are required to make superannuation contributions on behalf of their employees at a rate of 9.5% (from 1 July 2014) of the employee's salary and wages. The rate will remain at 9.5% up until 30 June 2021; this will increase to 10% from 1 July 2021 and will increase gradually until the rate reaches 12% on 1 July 2025. Contributions are required on a quarterly basis.

If insufficient contributions are made, employers are liable for a Superannuation Guarantee Charge. The 'charge' includes the shortfall in the contributions together with an interest component and an administration fee. Employers who have a superannuation guarantee shortfall are required to lodge a Superannuation Guarantee Statement together with the 'charge' on the 28th day of the second month following the end of the quarter.

Superannuation contributions made by employers for their employees are generally income tax deductible and subject to 15% contributions tax payable by the superannuation fund. Where the employee's aggregate taxable income and concessional superannuation contributions exceed AUD 250,000 additional tax of 15% of the excess contributions is payable. Employees can make superannuation contributions on a "salary sacrifice" basis which effectively means these contributions are also tax deductible. There is a cap on the annual deductible aggregate superannuation contributions of AUD 25,000 for employees of all ages applying from 1 July 2017. Where concessional contributions exceed the cap, the excess amount is included in the individual's assessable income and taxed at their marginal tax rate. From 1 July 2018, individuals with superannuation balances of less than AUD 500,000 will have the ability to carry forward unused concessional contributions from up to the five previous financial years, and use the amounts to make additional concessional contributions during a particular financial year.

OTHER TAXES

Other Federal taxes include:

- (1) Customs & Excise duties on certain imported items.
- (2) The Petroleum Resource Rent Tax (PRRT) regime applies to onshore petroleum projects - including coal seam gas, tight gas and shale oil projects - as well as the offshore North West Shelf project. The PRRT is payable on the taxable profit of a person in relation to a petroleum project. If a person has an entitlement to assessable petroleum receipts from a production licence they will have a petroleum project.
- (3) Minerals resource rent tax: this tax was repealed effective September 2014.
- (4) Excise on fuel, tobacco and alcohol.
- (5) Luxury Car Tax of 33% is payable on the value of certain vehicles that exceed the luxury car threshold of AUD 65,094 for the 2017/2018 year.
- (6) Wine Equalisation Tax is a tax of 29% of the whole sale value of wine imported into Australia or sold by wholesale.

LOCAL TAXES

The States and Territories of Australia impose the following taxes:

- (1) Stamp Duty: payable on specified transactions, including certain transfers of property.
- (2) Payroll tax: payable by employers who have total payrolls exceeding specified thresholds which vary from State to State. Payroll tax rates between each State and Territory varies from 4.75% - 6.85%.
- (3) Land and property taxes.
- (4) Work-care / workers compensation levies or premiums.
- (5) Insurance Duty: payable on certain insurance premiums.

B. DETERMINATION OF TAXABLE INCOME

Taxable income equals assessable income less allowable deductions. Assessable income includes ordinary income under common law and statutory income but does not include specifically exempt or non-assessable income. Generally, to be deductible, losses and outgoings must relate to the gaining or producing of assessable income. Some items are specifically non-deductible, such as penalties and fines. Capital expenses are generally non-deductible but may be deducted over time as a capital allowance or included in the capital gains tax (CGT) cost base. Expenses incurred in producing exempt income are also non-deductible. It is possible to claim a portion of expense items that have dual purposes. Special rules apply in respect of the categories listed below.

CAPITAL ALLOWANCES

Plant, equipment and other depreciable items are generally written off over their effective life. There are alternative rules for small business taxpayers with average turnover less than AUD 10 million. Taxpayers may self-determine the effective life of plant to calculate the tax depreciation rate or instead may rely on tax rates published by the Commissioner of Taxation. Either the straight-line or diminishing-value methods of depreciation can be used for each item of plant and is determined as follows:

- (1) Straight-line method: 100% divided by the Asset's effective life.
- (2) Diminishing-value method: 200% divided by the Asset's effective life.

Motor vehicles are subject to an indexed depreciation cost limit. The limit for the 2018/2019 financial year is AUD 57,581. A small business can pool depreciable assets in a general small business pool to be written off at one rate. The deduction for an asset acquired during an income year and allocated to the general small business pool is 15% of the taxable purpose proportion of its adjustable value. The general small business pool is written off at 30% per income year thereafter.

Effective from 12 May 2015 until 30 June 2020 small business taxpayers can claim an immediate write-off of eligible assets costing less than AUD 20,000 (expected to increase to AUD 25,000). This temporary upfront write-off will revert to the AUD 1,000 threshold for assets acquired after 30 June 2020. Most business-related capital expenses that are not otherwise deductible, included in the cost of depreciable assets or included in the CGT cost base of an asset, are deductible over five years.

STOCK / INVENTORY

All trading stock on hand at the beginning of the year of income and all trading stock on hand at the end of that income year must be taken into account in determining taxable income.

Each item of inventory must be valued at the end of each financial year at:

- Cost price valued at full absorption cost;
- Market selling value (the current selling value in the taxpayer's trading market); or,
- Replacement cost.

The closing value adopted becomes the opening value at the beginning of the following income year. Acceptable valuation methods include FIFO, average cost, standard costing and retail inventory method. Non-acceptable valuation methods include LIFO and the base stock method. Certain small business taxpayers who have an annual turnover of less than AUD 10 million are only required to make such valuations where the value of their stock changed by more than AUD 5,000.

CAPITAL GAINS AND LOSSES

Net capital gains are generally included in the determination of assessable income. Capital losses cannot be deducted from assessable income, and can only be offset against capital gains. Capital losses can be carried forward indefinitely to offset against future capital gains. Net capital gains are determined by deducting the cost base of an asset from the proceeds received on disposal of that asset. The purchase price of an asset purchased prior to 21 September 1999 can be adjusted for inflation indexation to the quarter ending 30 September 1999. Indexation is not available for assets purchased after 21 September 1999. In lieu of indexation, individuals and trustees may be eligible for a 50% reduction in their assessable capital gain if certain conditions are met. Complying superannuation funds are eligible for a 33.33% discount. This reduction is not available for companies.

Small business taxpayers which meet the eligibility conditions may access the Small business CGT concessions which contain CGT exemptions and reduction concessions, which may allow the taxpayer to disregard or defer some or all of a capital gain arising from an active asset utilised in a small business. Other exemptions from capital gains tax may also be available, such as the main residence exemption, gains from foreign branches or small business exemptions for businesses that satisfy certain criteria. Foreign residents are exempt from Australian CGT except on Australian real property; business assets used in an Australian permanent establishment (PE); or equity interests in Australian or foreign companies or trusts with substantial interests in Australian real property either directly or indirectly through interposed entities. Australian real property includes Australian land and mining, quarrying and prospecting rights over Australian land.

The 50% CGT discount for non-residents was removed on capital gains accrued after 8 May 2012 on Taxable Australian Property such as real estate and mining assets. However, non-residents will still be entitled to the 50% discount on capital gains accrued prior to this date (after offsetting any capital losses) provided they obtain a market valuation of assets as at 8 May 2012.

DIVIDENDS

In general, dividends received by resident shareholders from resident companies are taxable but grossed up for any franking credits attached. The franking credits are equivalent to the tax paid by the company on its profits out of which the dividend was paid. However, the resident shareholders are allowed a tax offset of tax equal to the amount of any franking credits on the dividend. Dividends received from non-resident companies do not qualify for this tax offset, but may be entitled to a foreign tax credit (see foreign tax relief below). Alternatively, the dividend may be tax-exempt if the recipient is an Australian company that has a 10% or greater interest in the foreign company.

Dividends paid by non-resident companies in certain foreign countries are also exempt to the extent that they represent profits already taxed in Australia under Australia's Controlled Foreign Corporation (CFC) rules. Dividends paid by resident companies to non-resident shareholders are not subject to income tax but may be subject to withholding tax to the extent that the dividends are not franked (i.e. have been paid out of Australian-taxed profits). Payments of dividends are not generally tax deductible.

INTEREST DEDUCTIONS

Interest is generally deductible to the extent it relates to funds borrowed for income-producing purposes. Interest deductions may be restricted by the thin capitalisation provisions. The thin capitalisation rules seek to deny deductions for interest payments if the taxpayer's debt exceeds 60% of the value of its assets. The interest attributable to this excess is denied deductibility. An exception to this rule is where the taxpayer can satisfy an 'arm's length test', which focuses on the taxpayer's likely borrowings if it had acted at arm's length and what independent lenders would lend to the taxpayer on arm's length terms.

The thin capitalisation provisions apply to foreign controlled Australian entities and the inward investments of foreign nationals and Australian-based entities with foreign investments. A de minimis rule ensures that all corporate entities and their associates (regardless of their nature or business) that claim no more than AUD 2 million for the financial year in debt deductions per income year will not be subject to the thin capitalisation rules.

MANAGED INVESTMENTS

Managed Investment Trusts (MIT) that make fund payments to an address outside Australia are required to pay withholding tax to the Tax Office. The rate of withholding is 30% but this rate is reduced if the country has an exchange of information agreement with Australia, in which case the rate is 15%. A concessionary rate of 10% applies to fund payments by a clean building MIT, that is an MIT that holds only energy efficient commercial buildings constructed on or after 1 July 2012. There are various other MIT concessions as well.

LOSSES

A tax loss is the excess of allowable deductions over assessable income (not including exempt income) and can be carried forward indefinitely to offset against future taxable income. For companies and trusts the deductibility of losses is restricted by a 'continuity of ownership' test (more than 50% of voting, dividend and capital rights). Alternatively, the loss is deductible if the company passes a 'same business' or 'similar business' test.

FOREIGN SOURCED INCOME

- (i) Controlled Foreign Corporations (CFCs): Australia has a CFC regime which is designed to ensure certain types of passive and associated party income of a CFC is included in the controlling Australian resident's taxable income each financial year. In general, a foreign company will be regarded as a CFC where:

- Five or fewer Australian residents hold an associate inclusive 50% interest in the foreign corporation or have de facto control of the foreign entity;
- An Australian entity (and its associates) has 40% or greater control in the foreign corporation, unless they can prove that their interest is not a controlling interest; or,
- Irrespective of the interests in a foreign company, a group of five or fewer Australian entities (either alone or together with associates) has actual control of the company.

CFCs in seven listed countries (USA, UK, France, Germany, Japan, Canada - and New Zealand) are largely exempted from the CFC rules. There are several exemptions to the CFC rules including an active business exemption. The Government is currently reviewing the CFC provisions with a view to simplifying the rules.

- (ii) Most foreign branch profits and capital gains of a resident company are generally not taxed when the income or gain is derived in carrying on a business through a permanent establishment in the following listed countries: UK, US, Canada, France, Germany, Japan and New Zealand. Losses from branches in the countries listed above cannot be claimed. Foreign branches of resident companies in other countries (unlisted countries) are generally not subject to tax on profits or gains where the income is from an 'active business' and for capital gains where the company used the asset wholly or mainly in an active business. Associated losses are also not deductible against the Australian source income of the entity.

CONDUIT FOREIGN INCOME

The conduit foreign income rules allow foreign income and certain foreign capital gains to flow through Australian companies and other interposed entities to foreign residents without being taxed in Australia.

INCENTIVES

Specific write-offs are provided for the mining and primary production industries. Special taxation treatment is also afforded to investment in innovative Australian companies through a 'venture capital tax concession'. The Research & Development (R&D) tax incentive provides a tax offset for eligible R&D activities targeting R&D activities that benefit Australia. The two core components of the incentive include:

- Refundable tax offset for certain eligible entities whose aggregated turnover is less than AUD 20 million;
- A non-refundable tax offset for all other eligible entities.

OTHER

- (i) Debt Forgiveness: Where a commercial debt is forgiven, special provisions operate in some circumstances to effectively tax the borrower on the benefit received as a result of the forgiveness of the debt. The 'net forgiven amount' is not included directly in the borrower's assessable income but is applied against the borrower's tax attributes in the following order:
- (1) Reduction of revenue losses.
 - (2) Reduction of net capital losses.
 - (3) Reduction of deductions for particular expenditure.
 - (4) Reduction of the cost base of certain assets.
- (ii) Debt/Equity Rules: The debt equity rules determine the nature of an instrument for taxation purposes. Broadly speaking, the rules are based on the substance of the arrangement rather than its legal form. The rules determine whether a return on a debt or equity interest in an entity may be frankable and non-deductible (like a dividend) or may be deductible to the entity and not frankable (like interest).
- (iii) Taxation of Foreign Exchange (forex) Gains or Loss: Special rules tax forex gains and allow tax deductions for forex losses. The rules apply to transactions where there is a disposal of foreign currency or a disposal of a right to foreign currency, a ceasing of a right or obligation to receive foreign currency, or a ceasing of a right or obligation to pay foreign currency. These provisions will not apply where the taxpayer has made certain elections.
- (iv) Taxation of Financial Arrangements (TOFA): Broadly, the TOFA regime defines what constitutes a financial arrangement and provides a framework for calculating gains and losses on financial arrangements through default and elective tax timing methods. In broad terms, it is directed to entities that have:
- Aggregated turnover of greater than AUD 100 million; or,
 - Assets of greater than AUD 300 million
- However, certain exceptions apply.

C. FOREIGN TAX RELIEF

Where foreign sourced income is included in a taxpayer's assessable income, foreign income tax offsets are available at the lesser of the foreign tax paid or the Australian tax payable. Any withholding tax paid on an assessable dividend from a foreign company will generally be allowed as a foreign income tax offset.

D. CONSOLIDATED CORPORATE GROUPS

Wholly-owned groups of Australian companies and trusts can elect to have their income tax liability calculated on a consolidated basis. This means that the entire group is treated, and taxed, as a single corporate taxpayer. Where the parent of Australian subsidiary entities is a foreign entity, the consolidation regime allows for the Australian subsidiary entities to be grouped under the consolidation regime where certain conditions are met.

E. RELATED PARTY TRANSACTIONS

Non-arm's length international profit-shifting arrangements and other international transactions between related parties are governed by transfer pricing rules which give the Commissioner of Taxation the power to calculate the income tax payable based on arm's length prices.

Documentation requirements and arm's length conditions aim to better align Australian requirements with OECD Guidance material. Contemporaneous documentation should be prepared prior to lodgement of the entity's income tax return and records should be made readily available to avoid failing to demonstrate a reasonably arguable position in the event of a transfer pricing adjustment.

The Australian Government has adopted a number of the recommendations of the OECD/G20 Base Erosion and Profit Shifting (BEPS) Action Plan. Australia is currently one of 49 countries that will facilitate the exchange of Country by Country reports between tax authorities in different jurisdictions to better assess transfer pricing risks. The measure takes effect from income years commencing on, or after, 1 January 2016. It requires multinational entities with an annual global income of AUD 1 billion or more to provide the ATO with reporting statements within 12 months after the end of their income tax year.

It is also necessary for all Australian entities who are part of a consolidated accounting group where revenue exceeds AUD 1 billion to annually lodge a Master File and Local File with the ATO. It is also necessary to lodge a Country-by-Country report or notify the ATI if a group entity has lodged this overseas.

F. WITHHOLDING TAXES

Withholding tax must be deducted from interest, royalties and dividends (to the extent they are not franked) paid to non-residents. Liability for the remittance of withholding taxes rests with the payer of such amounts. Withholding tax is collected through the PAYG system and is determined according to the payer's PAYG withholding status. The payer is also required to lodge an annual report with the Commissioner of Taxation where such amounts have been withheld during the financial year. The relevant withholding tax rates are:

Type of income	Rate
1. Dividends - franked	0%
2. Dividends - unfranked ¹	0 - 15% (treaty countries); 30% (non-treaty countries)
3. Interest	10% (NIL for financial institutions under certain treaties)
4. Royalties	5% - 15% (treaty countries); 30% (non-treaty countries)

Note:

1. Australia does not impose withholding tax on dividends to the extent they are franked. To the extent dividends are unfranked, i.e. when paid out of profits of a company that have not borne Australian tax, the rate can be as low as 0% or 5%, if the beneficial owner of the dividends is a company that holds at least 80% or 10%, respectively, of the voting power in the payer. In all other cases, the rate is generally 15%.

G. EXCHANGE CONTROL

Where more than AUD 10,000 of Australian currency is physically taken out of Australia, the departing individual must report this to an Australian Customs Officer, or to the Australian Transaction Reports and Analysis Centre, (AUSTRAC). Equivalent amounts of foreign currency that are brought into Australia must also be reported.

A H. PERSONAL TAX

Income tax is payable by Australian resident individuals on non-exempt income derived from worldwide sources. Non-resident individuals are only required to pay tax on Australian-sourced income. Residency is generally determined by reference to common law principles of residence. However, an individual can also be deemed an Australian resident if the individual's domicile is in Australia (unless they have a permanent place of abode outside Australia) or where the individual has spent more than one half of the relevant year of income in Australia (unless their usual place of abode is outside Australia and they do not intend to take up residence in Australia).

Individuals that become residents for a short time may be eligible for the temporary resident tax exemptions on their foreign income and capital gains. If they are holders of a temporary resident visa (generally for up to four years but may be longer), they will not be taxed on foreign-sourced income unless the income relates to employment or services rendered while they are a resident of Australia. In addition, temporary residents are not taxed on capital gains except for gains on 'Taxable Australian Property' (see capital gains section above). Income tax is payable on taxable income, which is the 'excess' of assessable income less allowable deductions.

Assessable income includes business income, employment income, capital gains on certain assets, dividends, rent and interest. Allowable deductions include outgoings incurred in gaining or producing assessable income such as interest expenses and statutory deductions such as tax-deductible gifts to specified charitable entities.

Most individual taxpayers that are employees will generally have Pay-As-You-Go (PAYG) tax instalments withheld from their salary or wage payments by their employers. Most individuals who are either self-employed or who earn non-salary income are required to make interim payments of tax during the financial year. The amount of these instalments is calculated using the same method outlined in section 'A' above for companies. Individuals with a most recent notional tax assessment of less than AUD 8,000 can elect to make an annual payment, otherwise interim payments are generally required either 21 days after the payment period (or 28 days if they are deferred business activity statement (BAS) payers).

A 2% levy, called the Medicare Levy, is payable by resident individual taxpayers. This levy covers basic hospital and medical expenses for all Australian residents and is assessed on the taxable income of resident individual taxpayers with no maximum ceiling on the amount payable. Low income taxpayers may be eligible for an exemption or reduced levy.

Temporary residents will generally be eligible to obtain a Medicare levy exemption. Higher income individuals without private health insurance are subject to an additional Medicare Levy Surcharge of between 1% and 1.5%.

A rebate is available to resident taxpayers for the cost of private health insurance. The rebate is subject to an income test and differs depending on the age of the taxpayer. A low income tax offset of AUD 445 is available to taxpayers with a taxable income of less than AUD 37,000. This tax offset is phased out when taxable income reaches AUD 66,667. Various other tax offsets are also available to resident individual taxpayers such as medical expenses rebate, zone offsets and superannuation offset. The tax rates for Australian individual residents and non-residents in the 2017/2018 financial year are outlined as follows:

Resident Individuals - rates 2018/2019

Notes:

1. Franked dividends paid by Australian resident companies to non-residents are exempt from dividend withholding tax. To the extent dividends are unfranked, i.e. when paid out of profits of a company that have not borne Australian tax, the rate can be as low as 0% or 5%, if the beneficial owner of the dividends is a company that holds at least 80% or 10%, respectively, of the voting power in the payer. In all other cases, the rate is generally 15%.
2. Non-resident interest withholding tax in Australia is limited to 10% under Australian tax law.
3. Withholding tax of 30% is generally imposed on the gross amount of royalties paid from Australia to non-residents. A reduced rate is applicable to residents of treaty countries as listed above.

The various rates may change according to categories and circumstances. Taxpayers should consult the applicable DTAs to ascertain the applicable rate.

KEY TAX POINTS

- Public and private limited companies and certain other entities, such as cooperative purchasing societies and mutual insurance companies, are subject to corporate income tax at 25%.
- Resident companies are subject to tax on their worldwide income. Non-resident companies are taxed on income attributable to an Austrian permanent establishment and certain other Austrian-sourced income.
- There is no specific capital gains tax for limited companies. Capital gains and losses are generally treated as ordinary business income (or loss) and are taxed at regular corporate income tax rates.
- The group taxation regime allows for offsetting losses against group profits. In certain cases, losses incurred by non-Austrian resident members of the group may be utilised.
- VAT is generally imposed on the delivery of goods and the supply of services within Austria by entrepreneurs within the scope of their business and on imports into Austrian customs territory.
- Austria imposes a 27,5% withholding tax on dividends, unless double taxation treaties provide otherwise. Withholding tax is also levied on royalties at 20% and interest from banks and financial instruments at 25%.
- Austrian resident individuals are subject to unlimited tax liability on their worldwide income, including income from trade or business, professional services, employment, property and investments.
- Non-resident individuals are only taxed on Austrian-sourced income. An individual is generally treated as resident in Austria if he or she is domiciled or establishes a habitual place of abode in Austria (including a six-month stay in Austria).

A. TAXES PAYABLE

COMPANY TAX

Public and private limited companies and certain other entities, such as cooperative purchasing societies and mutual insurance companies, are subject to corporate income tax at 25%. Limited companies incurring a tax loss or earning small profits must pay a minimum tax of EUR 1,750, EUR 3,500 or EUR 5,452 depending on the legal status of the company and the industry. A reduced minimum tax applies to the first 10 years upon incorporation. Non-resident companies are not subject to a minimum tax. Minimum tax may be credited against corporate tax payable in the following years.

Resident companies are subject to tax on their worldwide income. Non-resident companies are taxed on income attributable to an Austrian permanent establishment, immovable property located in Austria, deposits with Austrian banks, income from silent partnerships in Austria, income from leasing or renting certain property in Austria and income from commercial or industrial consulting or providing labour for domestic use. Companies are deemed to be resident if they are incorporated in Austria (i.e. the registered office is in Austria) or have their place of effective management in Austria. The fiscal year usually runs from 1 January to 31 December, although a company can choose a different fiscal year under certain circumstances. Corporate income tax is assessed on an annual basis. However, quarterly advance payments have to be made.

CAPITAL GAINS TAX

There is no specific capital gains tax for limited companies in Austria. Capital gains and losses are generally treated as ordinary business income (or loss) and are taxed at standard corporate income tax rates. Special rules apply to capital gains and losses on property sold by legal entities other than limited companies. The sale of a property by individuals and non-corporate businesses is subject to income tax at a reduced rate of 30% regardless of the holding period. Special rules apply to the calculation of the tax basis for long holding periods and property purchased before 2002. Deductions are quite restricted.

Exemptions apply to privately owned, main residencies. Another exemption from capital gains taxation applies to real estate newly built at the seller's own risk unless rented out during the last 10 years before sale. Capital gains from financial instruments held by private persons are taxed at a reduced rate of 25% or 27.5% regardless of the holding period. Some capital gains are also taxed with the regular income tax rate (e.g. income from personal loans).

BRANCH PROFITS TAX

There is no branch profits tax in Austria. Austrian branches of foreign companies are subject to Austrian (corporate) income tax on Austrian-sourced income only.

SALES TAX / VALUE ADDED TAX (VAT)

VAT is generally imposed on the delivery of goods and supply of services within Austria by entrepreneurs within the scope of their business and on imports into Austrian customs territory.

The standard VAT rate is 20%. A reduced rate of 10% or 13% applies for example to food or hotel stays. Some transactions such as exports and intra-community sales B2B are zero-rated. A number of transactions are exempt from VAT, e.g. sale of financial assets, insurance premiums. VAT is generally assessed on a calendar year basis. Monthly or quarterly preliminary returns have to be filed.

FRINGE BENEFITS TAX (FBT)

Fringe benefits are subject to salary tax according to the value of the benefit in kind. The fringe benefits are taxed on the employee. These include e.g. the private use of a company vehicle, free meals or interest-free loans.

LOCAL TAXES

A municipal tax of 3% is levied on the gross payroll of enterprises. In addition, municipalities levy land and property taxes.

OTHER TAXES

Austria imposes a number of other taxes such as:

- A real estate transfer tax of 0.5% to 3.5% of the real estate value or, alternatively, based upon a deemed tax value for some transactions (which is usually not less than the market value).
- Insurance tax on insurance premiums, ranging from 1% to 11%.
- Social security is payable both by employers and employees with a capped basis of EUR 73,080 p.a. or EUR 5,220 per month (14 salary payments). The employee rate ranges from 14% to 18% depending on the employee's status, age and type of income. The employer rate ranges roughly from 18% to 22%. Apart from social security contributions, employers have to pay up to 7.32% salary-related charges on top of gross salary. The total staff costs amount to approximately 130% of gross salary.
- Stamp duties are due on certain transactions and documents.
- Austria does not levy any tax on inheritance or gifts. No tax is imposed on gratuitous transfers (except for land transfer tax) but mandatory reporting on such transfers exceeding certain limits has been implemented.

B. DETERMINATION OF TAXABLE INCOME

Taxable income is calculated as balance between taxable income and allowed deductions. Generally, to be deductible, losses and expenses must have been incurred to generate taxable income. Restrictions on deductions apply to capital gains from the sale of properties and financial instruments. From 2014 management compensation exceeding EUR 500,000 per annum is disallowed as deduction for the employer's corporate income tax. Another restriction applies to long-term (exceeding one year) provisions where the deductible amount is calculated as the net present value at a discount rate of 3.5% per annum.

Taxable income is based on the profit or loss shown in the financial statements prepared according to Austrian GAAP (called UGB). The accounting profit/loss is then adjusted for special tax rules according to the Income Tax Act. Non-deductible taxes (e.g. corporate tax) and non-deductible expenses (such as donations and general provisions) are added. On the other hand, special allowances and non-taxable income (dividends and losses carried forward) may be deducted. Under certain circumstances Austria also allows to deduct foreign losses incurred in permanent establishments or in subsidiaries under the group taxation regime.

CAPITAL ALLOWANCES

There are some special capital allowances in Austria that are particularly applicable to small and medium-sized enterprises.

DEPRECIATION

Assets subject to wear and tear have to be depreciated using the straight-line method. If an asset costs less than EUR 400 it can be written off immediately in the period of acquisition. The Income Tax Act stipulates fixed depreciation rates for buildings, ranging between 1.5% and 2.5% (depending on the use and type of building). For company cars, the Income Tax Act stipulates a fixed useful life of eight years for both acquisition and leasing. The costs of goodwill must be depreciated over fifteen years. The allocation key of the acquisition costs of a developed property between land and building has partially changed from 20/80 to 40/60 (disputable assumption, guilty in case of lending property). Other assets are depreciated over their useful life.

STOCK / INVENTORY

Stock is valued at the lower of cost or market value. Where inventory is valued according to the cost price, the FIFO method is generally accepted. Fungible goods may also be valued by using the weighted average cost method.

CAPITAL GAINS AND LOSSES

Under certain circumstances, roll-over of capital gains is allowed for individuals, trusts or partnerships but not for limited companies. If fixed assets are sold, gains resulting from disposal may be deducted from the cost of investments made in the same period or may be allocated to a tax-free reserve to be used against investments within the following 12 or 24 months. Any amounts not used within this period are subject to tax.

Several restrictions apply to the roll-over of capital gains (e.g. not applicable for limited companies). For corporate businesses there is no difference in the tax treatment of capital losses versus trading losses. For international participations, one can choose between tax-free treatment (capital gains and losses, depreciation is treated as neutral for tax-assessment) or taxable treatment. The declared option is irrevocably binding for the future. For privately held financial instruments the bank collects a withholding tax of 25% to 27.5% on capital gains.

DIVIDENDS

There is a final withholding tax of 25% on domestic dividends (27.5% if the participation is held by a private person). Withholding tax does not apply to dividends received by:

- An Austrian company holding an interest of at least 10% in the distributing company;
- A foreign resident company holding an interest of at least 10% in the distributing company for a minimum period of one year.

Where withholding tax is incurred on dividends paid between Austrian resident companies, this is creditable against the recipient's corporate income tax liability. In accordance with double taxation treaties withholding tax on dividends may be reduced at source or through a refund procedure.

INTEREST DEDUCTIONS

Interest is deductible on an accruals basis. Austria does not apply a general thin-capitalisation regime but allows deduction of costs from debt financing rather to a large extent. An important exception however was introduced on 1 March 2014 whereby interest payable on intra-group loans is only allowed for deduction if the lender is subject to a 10% income tax on the interest earned in his domicile. In other words, there is no deduction for interest paid to intra-group financial holdings in tax havens. The same restriction applies to royalties.

Interest income from bank deposits and securities is subject to a withholding tax of 25%. The withholding tax on interest is a final tax (income, donation, inheritance) for individuals. Interest income earned by a company is part of its business income and therefore subject to 25% corporate tax. For such companies, the withholding tax will be credited to corporate income tax due.

CONTROLLED FOREIGN CORPORATION (CFC) RULES

In accordance with the requirements of the EU Anti-Tax Avoidance Directive (ATAD), passive income (in particular interest, royalties and dividends) of affiliated companies (more than 50% shareholding) taxed at low rates abroad (below 12.5% effective tax rate) can, as of 2019, be taxed in Austria. This is intended to eliminate the incentive to shift passive sources of income to countries with low tax rates.

LOSSES

Losses incurred by companies may be set off against trading income and capital gains of the same accounting period. Excess losses may be carried forward indefinitely, but not carried back. However, losses carried forward may only be set off against the current income, i.e. a minimum of 25% of the income is subject to corporate income tax, regardless of losses carried forward. The excess loss may be credited against profits in consecutive years.

Losses incurred by individuals can be carried forward indefinitely if they stem from business sources; losses from other sources, e.g. rental income or capital assets on the other hand cannot be carried forward by individuals. Losses by individuals that incur from business investments without active participation in management, are limited to the contribution paid. Any further losses can only be offset against future profits from the same income. The 25% minimum taxable income does neither apply to individuals.

FOREIGN-SOURCED INCOME

A resident company is subject to corporate income tax on its worldwide income. Income from foreign sources is taxable in Austria according to double taxation treaty rules. Austria does not apply specific controlled foreign company (CFC) legislation. However, to avoid tax abuse, dividends from international participations located in tax havens may be taxed in Austria if certain anti-abuse criteria are met.

INVESTMENT ALLOWANCE / INCENTIVES

Under certain circumstances, the taxation of realised capital gains can be avoided or deferred by transferring the amount to an untaxed roll-over reserve. There are special allowances and/or tax incentives for apprenticeships and research and development (up to 14% allowance).

A further allowance for individuals and partnerships allows for 13% of annual profits to be exempt from tax provided the allowance amount (other than the first EUR 30,000 of profit) is invested in certain tangible assets or specific securities with a holding period of at least four years. The allowance is reduced to 7% for that proportion of annual profits between EUR 175,000 and EUR 350,000 and to 4.5% for that proportion of annual profits between EUR 350,000 and EUR 580,000. No allowance is available for annual profits that exceed EUR 580,000.

TRUSTS (PRIVATE FOUNDATION)

An Austrian Trust is a legal entity in civil law in which a donor transfers assets in order to achieve the objects of the trust. Quite often, the purpose of a trust is part of estate planning to care for family members ('family trust'). Trusts enjoy some minor tax advantages as certain forms of income (e.g. certain capital gains, dividends, interest) are not subject to corporate income tax at the trust level. The transfers to private trusts are subject to a fixed rate of 2.5% donation tax.

Where real estate is transferred, transfer tax (from 0.5% to 3.5% of the real estate value) and donation tax must be paid. Transfers by the trust to its beneficiaries (natural persons) are subject to withholding tax. Trusts (Private Foundations) are subject to special tax regimes that vary from company taxation in quite a number of significant aspects.

C. FOREIGN TAX RELIEF

Austria has concluded a number of double taxation treaties with other countries. Generally, an Austrian resident is subject to taxation in Austria. The double taxation treaties may either exempt foreign-sourced income or grant a credit against Austrian tax for foreign taxes paid on the same income or gain in the same fiscal period.

D. CORPORATE GROUPS

There is a special regime for the taxation of corporate groups where profits and losses can be set off within the group. The parent (or head of the national group) must be a resident corporation or permanent establishment of an EU-corporation. Basically, the parent must hold more than 50% of the shares and voting rights in any member of the group directly or indirectly and the group status must be kept for a minimum period of three years. Losses from non-resident group members (restrictions apply to members in tax havens and countries where Austria has not concluded a treaty with a comprehensive administrative assistance clause) reduce the Austrian tax basis (subsequent taxation of these losses applies if the foreign group member can realise losses carried forward in the future). If a member leaves the group for whatever reason before expiration of the minimum period, tax will be assessed as if it had never been a group member.

Losses arising in relation to a member's investment in another member of the corporate group are generally not deductible (for example, a realised loss on disposal of a subsidiary or impairment loss). The group taxation provides a considerably attractive tax instrument for corporate groups in Austria. However, thorough long-term tax planning is key to efficient utilisation of these provisions.

E. RELATED PARTY TRANSACTIONS

The arm's length principle applies. In this context, the 'substance-over-form' principle, which is a general principle of Austrian income tax, has to be strictly observed. This implies that a transaction must be assessed according to its economic effect and not according to the legal form it takes. The tax administration introduced guidelines for transfer pricing basically relying on the OECD Transfer Pricing Guidelines. Particular restrictions apply to deductibility of intra-group interest and royalty payments to related parties in low tax jurisdictions.

F. WITHHOLDING TAX

Austria imposes a withholding tax of 25% (for companies) or 27.5% (for private persons) on dividends, unless double taxation treaties provide otherwise. A withholding tax exemption applies if the recipient is resident company in another EU member state, holds at least 10% of the share capital and has done so continuously for one year prior to the dividend payment. Otherwise, the amount withheld can be credited by the recipient company against its own tax liability. For international participations, the EU Parent-Subsidiary Directive applies.

If the tax authorities suspect cases of tax avoidance or abuse, the withholding tax exemption can only be claimed through a refund procedure. In principle, Austria levies a 25% withholding tax not only on dividends but also on certain interest payments and capital income derived from securities. Corporate investors may achieve a tax exemption if certain conditions are met, even for portfolio dividends. Austria imposes a withholding tax regime also on royalties and income from artists, musicians, actors, sportspersons and the like. The tax rate is usually 20% of the gross receipts. The royalty case, however, is reduced to zero by many of Austria's double taxation treaties.

G. EXCHANGE CONTROL

Most exchange controls have been abolished in recent years. There are hardly any restrictions on the transfer of capital and currency transactions. However, there are reporting requirements for capital outflows from accounts of individuals exceeding an amount of EUR 50,000 (national or international). In addition, all accounts of individuals are kept in a register. The tax authorities may be allowed to get information from this register. Furthermore, even access to the content of accounts is possible under certain circumstances.

H. PERSONAL TAX

Austrian resident individuals are subject to unlimited tax liability on their worldwide income. Non-resident individuals are only required to pay tax on Austrian-sourced income. Taxable income consists of the following seven sources:

- (1) Agriculture and forestry;
- (2) Independent (professional) services (including scientific, artistic, literary, educational, or other professional services);
- (3) Trade or business, including gains on the sale of a business or partnership share;
- (4) Employment, e.g. wages and salaries, social security pensions;
- (5) Capital assets (dividends, interest and capital gains from financial instruments);
- (6) Rentals and royalties;
- (7) Annuities and other income of a recurring nature, capital gains from property, speculative gains, and income from certain non-recurring services.

The current average tax rates are as follows:

Taxable Income (EUR)	Marginal Tax Rate %
0 - 11,000	0
11,001 - 18,000	25
18,001 - 31,000	35
31,001 - 60,000	42
60,001 - 90,000	48
90,001 - 1,000,000	50
Over 1,000,000	55 ¹

1. The income tax rate of 55% is limited to the years 2016 to 2020.

The tax payable is reduced by certain tax credits, depending on marital status, number of children and other personal circumstances. Special regulations and rates apply for non-residents. Approximately 1/7 of an employee's salary is paid as extra payments, e.g. 13th and 14th salary (which are mandatory pays in most industries) per year is taxed at a fixed rate of 6%. For higher income the reduced rate on extra payments is not applicable anymore or limited. The favourable taxation rates are as follows:

Extra payments p.a. (EUR)	Tax Rate (%)
0 - 620	0
621 - 25,000	6
25,001 - 50,000	27
50,001 - 83,333	35.75

A. TAXES PAYABLE

FEDERAL TAXES AND LEVIES COMPANY TAX

Legal entities incorporated in Azerbaijan are treated as residents and are taxable on their worldwide income. Legal entities incorporated abroad are treated as non-residents and are taxable on income from sources in Azerbaijan. Companies are required to make quarterly advance tax payments based on the previous year's net income. Corporate profit tax returns should be submitted by 31 March of the following year. The corporate profit tax rate is 20%, which is applied to the difference between revenue and taxable expenses.

CAPITAL GAINS TAX

Capital gains are treated as ordinary income and taxed at the corporate profit tax rate of 20%.

BRANCH PROFITS TAX

There is no separate branch profits tax in Azerbaijan Republic. Branches are taxed at the standard corporate income tax rate of 20%. A branch remittance tax of 10% applies.

SALES TAX / VALUE ADDED TAX (VAT)

Each taxpayer with a sales turnover in excess of 200,000 AZN during consecutive 12 months must register for VAT. Provision of goods, works, rendering of services and import of goods are subject to taxation. VAT payers are entitled to recover VAT paid on purchases and are liable to pay VAT generated on sales of goods and rendering of services. VAT is the difference between VAT on sales and the sum of VAT on purchases and VAT on import of equipment. Reimbursement of VAT on purchases and import occurs through the receipt of an electronic tax invoice from the supplier via an electronic tax system (www.e-taxes.gov.az) and customs declarations appropriately.

The following VAT rates apply in Azerbaijan:

- 18% standard rate;
- 0% for the following categories, among others:
 - goods and services intended for use of diplomatic and consular representations accredited in the Azerbaijan Republic;
 - import and supply of goods and services undertaken in the context of receiving financial aid from abroad;
 - export of goods and services;
 - international and transit cargo and passenger transportation, except for international postal services;
 - entities operating under Special Economic Regimes for PSAs and HGAs.

The following categories, among others, are exempt from VAT:

- the supply of financial services (banks, etc.);
- supply and import of the national and foreign currencies (except for numismatic purposes) as well as of securities;
- editing, publishing and printing activities in connection with the production of text books for schools (except work books), children's literature and state publishing funded by the state budget.

Zero VAT operations can be reimbursed unlike operations exempt from tax.

Under the newly introduced VAT Refund system, consumers would be eligible to receive a refund for VAT paid on the purchase of goods from retail or public catering businesses.

Consumers are going to be entitled to cashback up to 15% of VAT for cashless payments and 10% for cash payments. The Regulations prescribing the rules and conditions of the VAT Refund system will be adopted by the President.

LOCAL TAXES

Local taxes are applied by resolution of municipalities and obligatory for payment on the territory of municipalities. The following are the local (municipal) taxes:

- land use tax levied on natural persons;
- property tax levied on natural persons;

FRINGE BENEFITS TAX

Any fringe benefits provided to employees are considered as employees' additional income, which is taxable at personal income tax rates (14% and 25%).

REGISTRATION DUTY

State registration of legal entities is executed by the Ministry of Taxes of Azerbaijan in line with the "one stop shop" principle, which includes electronic query and lasts 1 day in case of a local shareholder and 2 days in case of a foreign shareholder.

Foreign companies may open a branch office or representative office in order to carry out activities in Azerbaijan. The tax treatment is the same for both but the branch office would have more benefits because of a right to perform commercial operations on behalf of its head office.

REAL ESTATE WITHHOLDING TAX

Rental fees paid to individuals are taxed at the source of payment at the rate of 14%. The minimum threshold for the rental fee amount from immovable property in Azerbaijan is determined in accordance with market prices for taxation purposes.

B. DETERMINATION OF TAXABLE INCOME

Taxable income for residents is worldwide generated income. Taxable income of non-residents comprises income generated in Azerbaijan. All expenses related to business activities of the company are deductible from revenue. The following categories relate to non-deductible items:

- expenses that must be capitalised;
- non-commercial expenses which do not relate to the company's business activities;
- entertainment expenses and food and accommodation costs;
- travel, logistics and other costs spent in excessive of allowed standards established by the Azeri Tax Code.

- Vehicles, equipment and computers - up to 25%;
- Other fixed assets - up to 20%
- Fixed assets with a determined period of use - at an annual rate, pro-rata to that determined period of use;
- Intangible assets - up to 10%;

Land and facilities that are historical or architectural monuments may not be depreciated.

STOCK / INVENTORY

Inventory includes raw materials, work-in-progress and finished goods. Each item of inventory must be valued at acquisition cost or cost of production. Accepted valuation methods include 'first in, first out' (FIFO), average cost and specific identifications.

DIVIDENDS

Dividends paid from profit are liable to 10% withholding tax. Income from the distribution of property upon liquidation of a legal entity, as well as payments made with distribution of shares without changes to percentage of shares owned by shareholders and shares buy-backs at their nominal price, shall not be considered as a dividend.

INTEREST DEDUCTIONS

Interest expenses paid or incurred by the company in the course of its business activities are tax deductible. An exception to the rule relates to loans received from abroad or related parties, which cannot exceed the expense calculated using an interest rate of 125% of the inter-bank credit auction rate set forth by the Central Bank of Azerbaijan.

LOSSES

Taxpayers have a right to carry losses forward during a period of 5 years without limitation. In case of a change in principal ownership of a legal person of at least 50% as compared the previous year's ownership, the carry forward of a credit, deduction or loss from a previous taxable year may be disallowed.

TAX INCENTIVES

The following tax incentives have been implemented in Azerbaijan:

- Production of agricultural products is exempt from VAT, profits tax and property tax until the end of 2018.
- Entities operating in industrial and technology parks are entitled to a VAT exemption on import of equipment for construction, scientific research and other works in these parks for seven years or an indefinite period, depending on the nature of their activities.

- The Law on the Special Economic Regime for Export-Oriented Oil and Gas Activities applies the following incentives to contractors and subcontractors who should obtain a special confirmation certificate from the Ministry of Industry and Energy:
 - Local companies are permitted to choose between profit tax at a rate of 20% or 5% withholding tax on gross revenue;
 - Foreign subcontractors are subject only to a 5% withholding tax;
 - A 0% VAT rate;
 - Exemption from dividend withholding tax and taxation on branch's net profits;
 - Exemption from customs duties and taxes;
 - Exemptions from property tax and land tax.

C. FOREIGN TAX RELIEF

Foreign taxes paid on income taxable in Azerbaijan may be credited against tax payable in Azerbaijan. The amount credited in Azerbaijan may not exceed the domestic tax payable on the foreign income. This limitation is calculated on the overall basis. The carry-forward of excess credit is not applicable in Azerbaijan. Treaty relief may be granted upon request by the taxpayer. Azerbaijan has concluded double tax treaties with 49 countries (see Section I below).

D. CORPORATE GROUPS

There is no group taxation in Azerbaijan.

E. RELATED PARTY TRANSACTIONS

The Tax Code provides that relations between associated entities must be based on the arm's length principle. Associated persons, for the purposes of taxation, are natural and/or legal persons, the relations between which might have a direct effect on the economic results of their activities or the activities of persons they represent. As from 1 January 2017, the concept of transfer pricing has been formally introduced in Azerbaijan whereby transactions between the following entities/persons are covered:

- a resident and an entity established or registered in a jurisdiction with a favourable tax regime;
- a resident and a related non-resident;
- a PE of a non-resident and an entity established or registered in a jurisdiction with a favourable tax regime; and
- a PE of a non-resident and the non-resident enterprise, as well as between that PE and any PE (or subsidiary/group member) of the non-resident enterprise in another country.

Only transactions with a total value in excess of AZN 500,000 in a calendar year are targeted by this legislation. The Administration needs to be notified about such transactions before 31 March of each year.

As per the new article 110.2 of the Tax Code, transfer pricing will be applicable to loans between related parties. If loans received from abroad (except for loans issued by foreign banks and credit organisations, as well as loans on bonds traded on foreign stock exchanges) are more than twice the amount of a taxpayer's net assets (the capital), the interest expenses attributable to the principal amount of loans that exceed at least twice the taxpayer's net assets will not be deductible for corporate income tax purposes. However, these provisions will not apply to resident banks and credit organisations.

F. WITHHOLDING TAX

Income received from Azerbaijan sources not attributable to a PE of a non-resident in Azerbaijan is subject to WHT at the following rates:

- Dividends paid by resident enterprises: 10%.
- Interest paid by residents: 10%.
- Rental fees for movable and immovable property: 14%.
- Royalties: 14%;
- Technical or management fees: 14%

- Leasing, risk insurance, or reinsurance payments: 4%.
- Telecommunications or international transport services: 6%.
- Payments made by Azeri residents to 'electronic cash wallets' belonging to non-residents.
- Difference between earnings from lotteries and betting games minus the cash investment in connection with the participation in the same.
- Other Azeri-source income: 10%.

Interest on deposits is taxed at a 10% withholding tax rate on the amount in excess of 500 AZN.

G. EXCHANGE CONTROL

Withholding tax at the rate of 20% is introduced for foreign currency transferred outbound Azerbaijan for the following:

- foreign direct investment by resident and non-resident legal entities and individuals;
- acquisition of investment securities and immovable property by resident and non-resident legal entities and individuals;
- transfer of capital by resident legal entities to subsidiaries, branches and representative offices and other affiliated bodies with respect to the amount that exceeds the equivalent of USD 50,000 in a calendar year.

Banks and insurance companies are an exception to the aforementioned rules. A bank transfer by an individual to the foreign account is subject to a withholding tax of 20% with respect to the amount that exceeds USD 50,000 in a calendar year. Withholding tax does not apply if the transferred amounts:

- are paid back as they were previously transferred to Azerbaijan;
- are paid for medical fees of a foreign health care provider, educational fees of a foreign education institution or bills related to decisions of foreign judicial and law enforcement institutions.

H. PERSONAL TAX AND SOCIAL INSURANCE

Personal income of a resident in Azerbaijan consists of worldwide generated income, while a non-resident's income is generated only on the territory of Azerbaijan.

Taxable monthly income (AZN)		Tax on lower amount (AZN)	Tax rate on excess (%)
From	To
0	30,000	-	14
30,000		4,200	25 (on the amount exceeding 30,000 AZN)

Residents and non-residents who generate income in connection with their work in Azerbaijan must contribute 3% of their gross salary to the Social Insurance Fund. Contributions are withheld from employees' salaries and paid to the Social Insurance Fund by the employer. In addition to this, the employer pays 22% of employees' gross salaries to the Social Insurance Fund.

Taxable income of individuals engaged in business activities without establishing a legal entity is taxed at a rate of 20%. An individual has a right to choose the type of taxation - VAT (18%), income (20%) or simplified taxpayer (2% for the entire territory of Azerbaijan). The selected type appears in the electronic tax personal office (www.e-taxes.gov.az) and serves as a confirmation of the type of taxes paid by the individual.

The following taxpayers are not eligible to be simplified taxpayers as from 1 January 2019:

- Producers of goods subject to the compulsory marking;
- Taxpayers engaged in the manufacturing industry employing more than 10 people;
- Taxpayers engaged in the wholesale of goods industry (trade);
- Service providers, with the exception of taxpayers providing services to persons (individuals) not registered as a taxpayer.
- Transportation service providers and service providers who are subject to flat tax are subject to simplified tax;
- Sellers of gold and jewellery made of gold, as well as diamonds;
- Sellers of fur goods.

Previously, businesses engaged in the sale of goods (trade) had a right to opt out to be simplified taxpayers (6% of turnover) even when their annual income exceeded 200,000 AZN, without becoming VAT payers. According to new updates, this clause has been removed and such businesses must pay 20% corporate tax and register as VAT payers when their annual income exceeds 200,000 AZN.

I. TAX PENALTIES

- New tax penalties have been introduced and some of the current penalties are also amended.
- New penalty for failing to submit social contribution reports or letters by the users of agricultural lands has been set at 3% of the minimum salary for the first offence and 6% for subsequent offences;
- Penalty for failing to provide book-keeping and financial documents to the tax authorities has been increased to 1,000 AZN from 100 AZN;

This will be applicable to producers of agricultural goods starting from 1 January 2020;
- Penalty for off-record funds, and for failing to keep the registry of income and expenses, as well as where e-bills and e-VAT invoices are lacking for purchased goods, and where purchase certificates, import declarations and documents required by the Tax Code are lacking where the goods are manufactured by the taxpayer: 10% of unrecorded or hidden funds exceeding 1,000 AZN for the first offence and 20% of the amount exceeding 1,000 AZN for recurrent offences shall be imposed as a penalty (these were previously 5% and 10% respectively);

- Penalty where income and cost of the taxpayer is not recorded: 10% of the undocumented expenses shall be imposed as new penalty;
- New penalty has been introduced regarding failure of tax filing by taxpayers exempted from tax obligation or enjoying some tax relief. According to this new penalty, 6% (without deducting expenses) of the non-declared income or reduced income will be subject to a penalty by such taxpayers. This penalty will be applicable to producers of agricultural goods as from 1 January 2020 while for other taxpayers exempted from tax obligation or enjoying some tax relief this penalty is applicable as from 1 January 2019.

J. TREATY AND NON-TREATY WITHHOLDING TAX RATES

Azeri tax law allows to claim a refund of taxes withheld from payments to non-residents who are subject to the provisions of double tax treaties signed between Azerbaijan and 49 countries. DTA-05 statement serves a confirmation to withholding tax payment. The certificate may be obtained within 20 days of the moment of application.

In case a non-resident company pays all its taxes in its home country, it must provide a DTA-03 certificate, which would entitle it to receive full payment from the Azerbaijani resident taxpayer.

A. TAXES PAYABLE

No form of personal, corporate or withholding tax is applicable in Bahrain. There is no personal tax except for municipal tax of 10% on the monthly rental of residential and business property. In addition, a 5% government levy on gross turnover is imposed on hotel services and entertainment.

Customs (Import) duties are generally levied at a rate of 5% but there are many items such as medicines, most food products, capital goods and raw material for industries which are exempt from customs duty. After implementation of the new Uniform Customs Tariff which became effective on 1 January 2003, all non-Gulf Co-operation Council (GCC) products, except for those exempted, are subject to 5% customs duty. However, the products of GCC countries shall enter into each other's markets free of customs duty subject to the provision of the required documentation.

Products are considered as originating in a GCC country if the value added to such a product in the said country is more than 40% of the value of the product in question and if the factory that manufactured the product is at least 51% owned by GCC nationals. In the event of re-export to non-GCC countries, a customs deposit has to be made and this will be refunded when proof of re-export is given to the authorities. In the event of re-export to GCC countries, customs duty at 5% will be levied at the first point of entry. The provisions of the GCC Customs Union, which was implemented from 1 January 2003, will be applicable.

B. VALUE-ADDED TAX

On 1 February 2017, the Kingdom of Bahrain signed the GCC unified VAT and Excise Treaties. Accordingly, the Bahrain VAT Law and Executive Regulations have been published by the end of 2018 and a 5% VAT rate was implemented effective 1 January 2019. The VAT Law set out a number of differences from the VAT laws that have been implemented in the KSA and the UAE. Some of the key differences relate to the zero-rating and VAT exemption provisions in the law. In particular, the zero rating applies to basic food items, construction of new buildings, education and healthcare services, local transport services as well as oil and gas and derivatives.

The Bahrain National Bureau of Revenue required any resident business selling more than BHD 5 million taxable supplies per annum to register on the VAT registration portal by the end of 2018. Non-resident businesses have no threshold and must register immediately. Voluntary registration is also permitted. Businesses with turnover exceeding between BHD 500,000 and BHD 5,000,000 annually are required to register for VAT by June 2019, and businesses with turnover exceeding between BHD 37,500 and BHD 500,000 are required to register by December 2019.

Excise Tax was introduced in Bahrain with effect from 30 December 2017, with tobacco products subject to excise tax at 100%, soft drinks at 50% and energy drinks at 100%. Other goods may also become subject to the tax.

C. WITHHOLDING TAX

Bahrain has around 43 double tax treaties with countries such as Algeria, Austria, Belarus, Belgium, Brunei, Bulgaria, China, the Czech Republic, Egypt, Estonia, France, Hungary, Iran, Ireland, Jordan, Korea, Lebanon, Luxembourg, Malaysia, Morocco, the Netherlands, the Philippines, Singapore, Sri Lanka, Syria, Thailand, Turkey, Turkmenistan, the United Kingdom, Uzbekistan and Yemen.

Dividends, interest and royalty payments made by Bahraini companies to non-residents under these treaties are not subject to any withholding tax as Bahrain has no such withholding tax under its domestic tax law.

A Free Trade Treaty agreed between Bahrain and the US was signed on 14 September 2004 by the Kingdom.

KEY TAX POINTS

- In Bangladesh, the principal taxes are Customs Duty, Value-Added-Tax (VAT), Supplementary Duty, personal income tax and corporate income tax.
- The standard rate of VAT is 15% levied on the transaction value of most imports and supplies of goods and services.
- For Bangladesh tax purposes, income is categorised into seven areas, namely, salaries, interest on securities, income from house property, agricultural income, income from business or profession, capital gains and income from other sources.
- Among direct taxes, income tax is one of the main sources of revenue. It is a progressive tax system. Income tax is imposed on the basis of ability to pay, based on the principle of "the more a taxpayer earns, the more he should pay". It aims at ensuring equity and social justice. The top income tax rate for individuals is 30%.
- For the 2017/18 tax year (1 July 2017 to 30 June 2018) the top corporate tax rate is 45%. However, publicly traded companies registered in Bangladesh are taxed at a lower rate of 25%. Banks (except Merchant Bank), financial institutions and insurance companies are taxed at 40% whilst all other non-publicly traded companies are taxed at the 35% rate. Co-operative Society registered under the Co-operative Society Act 2001 are taxed at the 15% rate and Manufacturer and Exporter of Knitwear & Woven garments are taxed at the 12% rate (10% for factory having green building certifications).
- An individual is treated as a resident of Bangladesh if that person stays in Bangladesh for 182 days or more in any income year; or 90 days or more in an income year if that person has previously resided in Bangladesh for a period of more than 365 days during the 4 preceding years. Residence is determined in Bangladesh purely on the period of presence in Bangladesh, irrespective of residency in other countries.

Short-term visitors and dependents of foreign nationals not earning any income in Bangladesh are not taxed and are not required to file a tax return in Bangladesh.

- In general, all remuneration and benefits received by an employee who is resident in Bangladesh, or for services rendered in Bangladesh, are taxable. Taxable remuneration and benefits include salary, bonuses, commissions, accommodation allowances, transport benefits, education allowances for children, employer-provided domestic assistance and medical allowances.

A. TAXES PAYABLE

TAX AUTHORITY ADMINISTRATION

The National Board of Revenue (NBR) is the central authority for tax administration in Bangladesh. Administratively, it is under the Internal Resources Division (IRD) of the Ministry of Finance (MoF) which is split into 4 divisions, namely, the Finance Division (FD), the Internal Resources Division (IRD), the Banking Division (BD) and the Economic Relations Division (ERD). Each division is headed by a Secretary to the Government. NBR is responsible for formulation and continuous re-appraisal of tax policies and tax laws in Bangladesh.

Negotiating tax treaties with foreign governments and participating in inter-ministerial deliberations on economic issues having a bearing on fiscal policies and tax administration are also the NBR's responsibilities. Its main responsibility is to mobilize domestic resources through collection of import duties and taxes, VAT and income tax for the government. Side by side with the collection of taxes, facilitation of international trade through quick clearance of import and export cargoes has also emerged as a key role of NBR. Other responsibilities include administration of matters related to taxes, duties and other revenue related fees/charges and prevention of smuggling. Under the overall control of IRD, NBR administers the excise, VAT, customs and income tax services consisting of 3,434 officers of various grades and 10,195 supporting staff positions.

COMPANY TAX ADMINISTRATION

Company tax returns should be submitted by 15th July following the income year or, where the 15th July falls before the expiry of six months from the end of the income year, before the expiry of such six months. The consequences of not submitting a tax return (including a return of withholding tax) are that a penalty arises of 10% of the tax of a taxpayer's last assessed income or BDT 5,000, whichever is higher and in the case of continuing default, a further penalty of BDT 1,000 is levied for every month or fraction thereof during which the default continues. There are also penalties for using a false Taxpayer Identification Number (TIN).

There is a formal dispute resolution system for taxpayers in Bangladesh, and where a return has been submitted under the normal scheme a taxpayer can make his case at a Hearing, where a decision (assessment) will then be made. For returns submitted under the Universal Self-Assessment Scheme, the issue of an acknowledgement slip is determined to be an Assessment Order. Universal Self-Assessment is subject to audit.

PERMANENT ESTABLISHMENT CONSIDERATIONS

There is the potential that a permanent establishment (PE) could be created as a result of extended business travel, but this would be dependent on the type of services performed and the level of authority the employee has. The concept of a PE primarily exists in tax treaties.

VALUE ADDED TAX

Value Added Tax (VAT) is levied on the importation of goods and the making of taxable supplies in the course of carrying out a taxable activity. The standard rate is 15%. Reduced rates are available depending on the nature of the taxable supply, which ranges from 0% to 15%. VAT operates in Bangladesh partly as a sales tax.

FRINGE BENEFITS TAX

There is no separate Fringe Benefits Tax. However, all benefits received by an employee who is a resident in Bangladesh, or for services rendered in Bangladesh, are taxable.

Belarus has several tax regimes as follows:

(1) Simplified system of taxation:

Under the simplified system of taxation business entities are not subject to corporate profits tax and, under certain conditions, neither to VAT (and some other taxes), but instead pay a unified tax of either 5% of gross revenues or, if the business entity continues to pay VAT, 3% of gross revenues, or 16% for certain non-sales income.

(2) Unified tax on agricultural producers:

A 1% unified tax rate applies to the gross revenues of agricultural producers from the sale of goods (works and services) and other property and income derived from non-sales transactions. For an agricultural entity to apply the unified tax method at least 50% of its annual gross revenue must be from the sale of its own manufactured crop products (excluding flowers and ornamental plants), livestock products, fish breeding and bee breeding products, otherwise the unified tax is paid at a rate of 3%.

- (3) Tax on gambling industry:
Gambling (except for lotteries) is subject to fixed tax rates. The rate depends on the type and number of operational gambling equipment used. An additional gambling tax of 4% applies to the positive difference between the amount of received bids and the fund to be paid to the winner.
- (4) Tax on income generated by lottery sales:
Lottery sales are subject to an 8% tax rate on the gross revenue less the awarded prize fund.
- (5) Tax on electronic interactive games:
An electronic interactive games tax applies at 8% to the difference between the amount of revenue from the electronic interactive games and the fund to be paid to the winner(s).

COMPANY TAX - ADMINISTRATION

The basic tax reporting period is the calendar quarter and tax returns must be filed within 20 days of the month following the end of the reporting quarter. Any corporate profits tax liability must be paid within 22 days of the month following the end of the respective reporting quarter.

Corporate profits tax for the fourth quarter of a year must be paid by 22 December of the current year in an amount equal to two-thirds of the tax payable in the third quarter of the current year with subsequent additional payment or reduction not later than 22 March of the next year.

A fine of 40% of the unpaid tax, at a minimum of 10 base values, may arise where there is non-payment or an incomplete payment of tax. A fine of up to 1 base value may arise if a tax return is submitted late but not later than 3 working days. A fine of 2 base values applies increased by 0.5 base values for every complete month of delay in submission, at a maximum of 10 base values. Furthermore, a penalty is applied for every calendar day of delay in tax payment. The penalty is assessed on the basis of the refinance rate established by the National Bank of the Republic of Belarus.

CAPITAL GAINS TAX

Capital gains are taxed at 18%. Capital gains are not taxed separately but included in the total income of an individual taxpayer.

BRANCH PROFITS TAX

There is no specific branch profits tax however a permanent establishment (PE) of a non-resident legal entity will pay tax on profits attributable to it. A PE can include any place through which a foreign legal entity regularly carries out its business activities in Belarus. There is no branch remittance tax in Belarus.

VALUE ADDED TAX (VAT)

Broadly, local supplies of goods and services in Belarus provided by a taxpayer as well as the importation of goods, are subject to VAT. Supplies may be zero-rated, exempt, standard or preferential rated. The standard rate of VAT is 20%. A preferential rate of 10% applies to the following:

- Local supplies of crop products (excluding floriculture, cultivation of ornamental plants), beekeeping, livestock (except for fur production) and fisheries locally produced; and,
- Import and/or local supplies of certain food products and goods for children.
- Telecommunication services are subject to 25%.

Normally taxpayers recognise revenue for VAT purposes on an accrual basis however, as an exception to this, revenue is recognised on a cash basis by taxpayers using the simplified taxation system and keeping simplified tax records without accounting records. VAT returns should be submitted to the tax authority on either a monthly or quarterly basis, within the first 20 days of the month following the reporting period. The payment of any VAT liability should be made within the first 22 days of the month following the reporting period.

OTHER TAXES - CUSTOMS DUTIES

The Eurasian Economic Union exists between Russia, Kazakhstan, Belarus, Armenia and Kyrgyzstan with its unified trade regulations and Customs Code. The following charges are considered as customs duties:

Belarus

- Import duties;
- Export duties;
- Special anti-dumping and countervailing duties;
- VAT and excise taxes due upon importation of goods; and,
- Fees for customs processing/services.

OTHER TAXES - ESTATE AND GIFT TAXES

Belarus does not impose estate and gift taxes or a net worth tax.

B. DETERMINATION OF TAXABLE INCOME

The net profit shown in the financial statements, calculated in accordance with the Belarus accounting standards, is adjusted for tax purposes in accordance with the Tax Code. Broadly, all costs are deductible for tax purposes that are incurred in earning income or receiving an economic benefit, unless the Tax Code of Belarus or Presidential Regulations provide otherwise or limit or restrict the deduction.

CAPITAL ALLOWANCES

Fixed assets (buildings, premises, equipment and vehicles) may be depreciated using the straight-line method, the indirect disproportionate method, and the production method in accordance with the rates prescribed in the Tax Code. Land is not depreciated. Broadly, fixed assets can be divided into five basic groups and the depreciation rate or rates of each group are as follows:

Group	Description of the assets	Annual rate of depreciation
1	Immovable property	0.8% to 20%
2	Plant, machinery and equipment	3.33% to 20%
3	Trademarks, patents and other intangible property	5% to 10%
4	Computers	7.14% to 33.33%
5	Transport vehicles	2.5% to 33.33%

INVESTMENT DEDUCTION

For corporate profits tax purposes, a percentage of the initial value of acquiring or reconstructing tangible assets (value of investments for reconstruction) can be deducted, as follows:

- Not more than 15% - Buildings and structures.
- Not more than 30% - Machinery and equipment, and certain transport vehicles.

The tax base (the initial cost of the asset) is not reduced by the investment allowance for tax depreciation purposes. After taking an investment deduction the taxpayer may accrue depreciation on the initial value of fixed assets.

STOCK / INVENTORY

The domestic accounting legislation allows for the following stock / inventory valuation methods:

- First in first out (FIFO);
- Cost of each unit; and,
- Average cost.

The stock / inventory valuation method used for corporate income tax purposes must be the same as the taxpayer's accounting policy.

DIVIDENDS

Unless otherwise provided by a double tax treaty, dividends paid to foreign legal entities not having a permanent establishment in Belarus are subject to 12% withholding tax. Dividends distributed by a resident company to another resident company are subject to 12% withholding tax. However, the tax rate is reduced in the following cases:

- To 6% if a resident company has not distributed profit between its members (shareholders) for three successive calendar years;

- To 0% if a resident company has not distributed profit between its members (shareholders) for five successive calendar years.

Since the dividends have been subjected to withholding tax at source they are not again taxed under corporate income tax in the hands of the recipient. Where a foreign entity pays a dividend to an entity in Belarus, the dividend received is subject to 12% corporate income tax even though withholding tax may have been deducted at source by the foreign paying entity.

INTEREST DEDUCTIONS

Thin capitalisation rules apply to legal entities in Belarus which restrict the deduction of interest to a debt-to-equity ratio of 3:1 and apply to the following controlled debt obligations:

- Between parties being founders (participants) of one company, if direct and/or indirect participation between each of these persons is not less than 20%;
- Between organisations if one party directly and/or indirectly participates in these organisations and its participation in each of these organisations is not less than 20%, as well as when their beneficial owner is one and the same natural person;
- Between organisations in which the collective executive body or board of directors has more than 50% of the same natural persons in common with related parties as described in the sixth bullet below.
- When one party (including a natural person together with its related parties as described in the sixth bullet below) acts as a founder (participant) of another organisation, if direct and/or indirect participation of the former is not less than 20%;
- When one party executes (directly or indirectly) control over another (other) party (parties);
- When natural persons are in accordance with domestic legislation married, close relatives or in an in-law relationship, an adoptive parent and adopted person, guardian, curator and ward as well as between organisations in which such natural persons are founders (participants), if direct and/or indirect participation between such natural persons in these organisations is not less than 20%.

However, the thin capitalisation rules do not apply to banks, insurance companies, or to lessors or landlords subject to certain conditions.

LOSSES

Tax losses can be carried forward and utilised against future taxable profits arising in the subsequent 10 years (commencing with 2011 tax losses), although some restrictions apply. Tax losses which have arisen from certain operations may only be utilised against taxable profits arising from the same operations. If tax losses are not attributable to a particular group, they are carried forward generally regardless of the operations or activities in which they were incurred. Tax losses may not be carried back.

INCENTIVES

There are several locations where incentives arise in Belarus:

- (1) Taxation of residents of the High Technologies Park;
- (2) Taxation of the members of the Augustow Canal Special Tourist and Recreation Park;
- (3) Taxation of the members of the China-Belarus Industrial Park;
- (4) Free-economic zones; and,
- (5) Taxation of commercial organisations and individual entrepreneurs engaged in medium-sized or small towns and rural areas.

Special conditions and procedures apply for claiming the above and other benefits.

C. FOREIGN TAX RELIEF

Subject to the Belarus tax authorities being provided with the certificate issued by the foreign competent authority confirming the amount of tax paid (withheld) in the foreign state, a tax credit for the foreign tax paid by, or withheld from, a Belarusian taxpayer will be granted. Tax paid abroad on foreign-source income derived by a Belarusian legal entity may be credited against its corporate income tax (CIT) liability. The amount deducted however cannot exceed the equivalent amount of Belarus tax calculated on the foreign-sourced income.

D. CORPORATE GROUPS

Each entity in Belarus is taxed separately as a stand-alone entity. The tax legislation does not provide for tax groups or group taxation.

E. RELATED PARTY TRANSACTIONS

The Tax Code empowers the tax authority to ensure that transactions between related parties reflect a third party arm's length price, i.e. an objective market value. The tax authorities can check whether prices set by particular taxpayers are in line with market prices when conducting a tax audit. In particular, they can apply the market price to:

- (1) A foreign-trade transaction with a related party when the transaction price (sum of transactions prices) in one calendar year exceeds BYN 400,000 (net of indirect taxes) for organisations not included in the List of large-scale payers and BYN 2,000,000 (net of indirect taxes) for organisations included in the List of large-scale payers, except for transactions with an offshore zone resident;
- (2) A transaction on sale or acquisition of goods (works, services) property rights with a related party – tax resident of the Republic of Belarus not calculating and paying profit tax in the year when the transaction is performed when the transaction price (sum of transactions prices) in one calendar year exceeds BYN 400,000 (net of indirect taxes) for organisations not included in the List of large-scale payers and BYN 2,000,000 (net of indirect taxes) for organisations included in the List of large-scale payers;
- (3) A transaction with a related party or a taxpayer applying special tax regimes on sale or acquisition of immovable property (its part) or housing bonds in the process of their circulation after state registration of erection of a construction object;
- (4) A foreign-trade transaction on sale or acquisition of strategic goods included in the list issued by the Council of Ministers of the Republic of Belarus when the transaction price (sum of transactions prices) in one calendar year exceeds BYN 2,000,000 (net of indirect taxes).

The following transactions are equated with related party transactions:

- A set of transactions with participation of (through) a third person not being a related party provided that such a person does not perform in this set of transactions significant functions, except for sale and/or acquisition of goods (works, services), property rights by one party for another party recognised as related to this party; does not use any assets and/or does not take risks for organising sale and/or acquisition of goods (works, services), property rights by one party for another party recognised as related to this party;
- A transaction on sale or acquisition of goods (works, services), property rights with an offshore zone resident when the transaction price (sum of transactions prices) in one calendar year exceeds BYN 400,000 (net of indirect taxes).

The Belarus tax authorities apply the following transfer pricing methods:

- Comparable uncontrolled price method (CUP);
- Resale price method;
- Cost plus method;
- Comparable profits method;
- Profit split method.

F. WITHHOLDING TAX

Dividends paid to non-resident companies are subject to a 12% final withholding tax on their gross amount, subject to the application of a double tax treaty. Interest and royalties not connected to a permanent establishment are subject to a 10% and 15% final withholding tax respectively on the gross amount, subject to the application of a double tax treaty. Non-resident companies without a permanent establishment are subject to a 6% final withholding tax on freight and forwarding charges connected with international shipping transactions, subject to the application of a double tax treaty.

A 15% final withholding tax applies to income derived from:

- Sale of goods in the territory of Belarus under agency agreements, commission agreements, other similar civil law agreements;
- Holding or participation in cultural and entertainment events in the territory of Belarus, as well as work of amusement rides and wild beast shows;
- Contractual fines and penalties;

- Research and development, scientific and research, development of design and technological documentation for pilot units (pilot batch) of goods, production and testing of pilot units (pilot batch) of goods;
- Provision of guarantees and/or surety;
- Provision of disc space and/or communication channel for hosting on a server and services related to its technical maintenance;
- Alienation of immovable property in the territory of Belarus; an enterprise (its part) as an asset complex owned by a foreign organisation, securities (except for shares) and/or their redemption; stakes in equity capital (participatory interests, shares) of organisations in the territory of Belarus or their parts;
- Performing works, rendering services: consultancy, accounting, auditing, marketing, legal, engineering; trust management of immovable property in the territory of Belarus; courier; intermediary; managerial; HR; educational; storage of property; insurance; advertising; installation, adjustment, inspection, servicing, measurement, testing lines, mechanisms, equipment, devices, instruments, structures, intangible assets in the territory of Belarus; cargo escorting and protection;
- Immovable property in the territory of Belarus transferred for trust management;
- Data processing and information hosting, activities of web portals on web sites subject to conditions in the Tax Code.

G. EXCHANGE CONTROL

Belarus imposes restrictions, special reporting and controls with respect to transactions involving foreign and national currency. The Belarusian Rouble (BYN) has restricted convertibility. Companies doing business in Belarus must open a bank account with a bank in Belarus.

H. PERSONAL INCOME TAX

The tax year in Belarus is the calendar year. Belarus resident individuals are subject to personal income tax on their worldwide income whereas non-resident individuals are taxed on their Belarusian-sourced income only. For tax purposes, an individual is treated as a tax resident of Belarus if they are present in Belarus for more than 183 days in a calendar year otherwise they are considered a non-resident.

The general personal income tax rate is 13%. The tax rate of 4% is applied to income in the form of gambling gains from gambling organisers being legal persons of the Republic of Belarus. Fixed tax amounts are set in relation to personal income from leasing out to natural persons of residential and/or non-residential premises and parking spaces in the territory of Belarus.

Employment income includes salary, any other compensation and bonuses received in cash or in kind. Employment income received by an individual from a foreign company or entrepreneur is treated as foreign income for personal income tax purposes, regardless of the place where the employment duties were actually performed. Belarusian tax residents may claim several deductions in determining their taxable income. Employers calculate, deduct and pay the relevant tax on the compensation paid to their employees. Social security contributions are payable by an employer at a rate of 34% (28% for pension insurance and 6% for social insurance) and by an employee at a rate of 1% of their gross compensation (withheld by the employer).

A flat personal income tax rate of 13% applies to all dividends received by a resident. However, the tax rate is reduced in the following cases:

- To 6% if a resident company has not distributed profit between its members (shareholders)-residents of Belarus for three successive calendar years;
- To 0% if a resident company has not distributed profit between its members (shareholders)-residents of Belarus for five successive calendar years.

Non-residents receiving dividends from local sources are subject to 13% personal income tax which is withheld at source.

Generally, interest received from bank deposits in Belarus is subject to personal income tax withheld by the bank except for cases when at least one of the conditions below are met:

- Such interest is accrued at an interest rate not exceeding the interest rate for call bank deposits;
- The actual deposit term is not less than one year for deposits in BYN and two years for deposits in a foreign currency.

Self-employed individuals having a business and being registered as a private entrepreneur with the appropriate registration authority are subject to (upon their choice):

- Personal income tax at a flat rate of 16% (although a specific flat rate of 9% applies to certain types of income);

- Simplified taxation (in this case individual entrepreneurs are not subject to corporate profits tax and, under certain conditions, neither to VAT (and some other taxes), but instead they pay a unified tax of either 5% of gross revenues or, if the individual entrepreneur continues to pay VAT, 3% of gross revenues);
- General taxation (like a legal entity);
- Unified tax under certain types of activities.

Self-employment income, assessed on an annual basis, consists of annual gross income less associated documented expenses.

Personal income tax is paid on a quarterly basis where a self-employed individual has a business and has registered as an individual entrepreneur with the appropriate registration authority.

Where a self-employed individual has not registered as a private entrepreneur with the appropriate registration authority, personal income tax is paid on an annual basis.

Generally, any other income is included in regular income and taxed at 13% (or 9% which applies to certain types of income). Capital gains are not paid separately but included within the total income of an individual taxpayer. Under Belarusian tax law, relevant deductions in the following four categories are deductible against a taxpayer's personal income tax liability:

- Social tax deductions;
- Standard tax deductions;
- Property tax deductions; and,
- Professional tax deductions.

I. TREATY AND NON-TREATY WITHHOLDING TAX RATES

KEY TAX POINTS

- A resident company is liable for Belgium resident corporate tax on its worldwide profits (with Belgium tax relief for eligible foreign-source profit). A non-resident company – i.e. a legal branch or permanent establishment – is liable for Belgium non-resident corporate tax levied on Belgian-source income only.

- Capital gains are normally treated as ordinary business income and are taxable at the normal corporate tax rates, be it that both tax exemptions and roll-over tax relief are available if certain conditions are met.
- Belgium tax law comprises controlled foreign company (CFC) legislation as of 2019.
- Belgian tax law comprises group relief for corporate tax purposes as of 2019. In addition and subject to certain conditions, separate taxable persons can form a VAT unit and hence be considered as a single taxable person for VAT purposes.
- The standard Belgium withholding tax rate applicable to dividend, interest or royalty income is 30%. However, both Belgium domestic tax law and tax treaties concluded by Belgium comprise numerous withholding tax exemptions that can be claimed by various investors, mainly non-residents and financial institutions.
- An individual resident in Belgium is liable for progressive personal income tax rates that apply to worldwide income. Qualifying foreign-source income can be eligible for a Belgian personal tax exemption with progression reserve if conditions are met.
- Belgium tax law does not comprise asset tax nor a general capital gains taxation for individuals.
- Belgium has a very tax-attractive expatriate tax regime for foreign executives that are temporarily working in Belgium after being seconded to Belgium or being recruited outside Belgium.
- Belgium has a very extensive tax treaty network and a very active tax treaty policy.
- Belgium has a very active upfront tax ruling practice. No-name pre-filing meetings with the Belgium tax ruling commission are common practice.
- Taxable persons performing supplies of goods or services have to charge 21% VAT on these supplies unless these transactions are subject to a reduced rate, 'exempt' from VAT, 'outside the scope' of VAT or subject to 'reverse charge'.

A. TAXES PAYABLE

COMPANY TAX

A resident company is liable to corporation tax on its worldwide profits. A company is resident in Belgium if its registered office or centre of management is situated in Belgium. The place of incorporation is irrelevant.

The standard Belgium corporate tax rate is 29.58% (including a 2% crisis levy). As of 2020, the standard corporate tax rate will be 25% whereas the crisis levy will be abolished. Currently, a small or medium-sized company is subject to 20% corporate tax on the EUR 100,000 fraction of the taxable basis.

A company with tax residence outside Belgium that has a legal branch or permanent establishment in Belgium is subject to the same Belgium corporate tax rate of 29.58% (or the reduced tax rate if the conditions are met), be it on Belgium-source income only.

A company with tax residence outside Belgium that has no legal branch or permanent establishment in Belgium is basically only subject to Belgium non-resident corporate tax on income derived from Belgium based real estate. In addition, Belgium-source dividend, interest or royalty income is subject to 30% Belgium withholding tax. However, it is very likely that either a reduced tax treaty rate or even 0% withholding tax applies at the level of a non-resident beneficiary of this type of income.

CAPITAL GAINS TAX

Capital gains are normally treated as ordinary business income and are taxable at the normal corporate tax rates. However, there are exceptions such as realised capital gains on eligible shares which can be 100% tax-free. In addition, realised capital gains on business assets can be eligible for spread taxation – i.e. roll-over tax relief – if, amongst others, the sales proceeds are timely reinvested in qualifying other business assets (including real estate).

BRANCH PROFITS TAX

There is no separate branch profits (remittance) tax in Belgium.

VALUE ADDED TAX (VAT)

VAT is a tax on 4 types of transactions: the supply of goods, the supply of services, the importation of goods from outside the EU, and the acquisition of goods from another EU Member State. In case these transactions are deemed to take place in Belgium for VAT purposes, as a general rule 21% Belgian VAT will be due. However, many exceptions to this main rule exist:

- Certain supplies are zero-rated (e.g. daily and weekly publications) or subject to 6% (e.g. food and water) or 12% (e.g. restaurant and catering services);
- Certain supplies are VAT exempt (e.g. export of goods, intra-Community supplies of goods, social-cultural services, insurance, some financial operations);
- For certain supplies, the liability to pay the Belgian VAT is shifted to the customer (reverse charge).

Although many of these exceptions stem from EU legislation, the relevant Belgian rules often have a different scope or are interpreted differently by the Belgian VAT authorities (as is the case in most other EU Member States as well). It is therefore advised to carefully examine the correct VAT treatment of the operations taking place in Belgium.

The VAT legislation is formalistic, and imposes various administrative and document retention requirements. Non-compliance with these rules often leads to adverse VAT consequences, such as the rejection of input VAT deduction, the rejection of the application of a VAT exemption (resulting to a VAT claim) or administrative penalties.

Businesses that are VAT registered in Belgium need to file periodical VAT returns and an annual client listing. Depending on the type of transactions performed, possibly also intra-Community sales listings and Intrastat returns may need to be filed. As a general rule, these returns and listings need to be filed on a monthly basis. The VAT returns and intra-Community sales listings however only need to be filed on a quarterly basis if certain thresholds are not exceeded.

VAT should in principle be neutral for businesses, since a taxable person (even foreign businesses that are not VAT registered in Belgium) can recover the input VAT on goods or services they have purchased. However in practice this is not always the case, as the business can be faced with:

- Non-recoverable VAT: In some cases, a taxable person cannot fully deduct the input VAT either due to the fact that it partly/only performs activities that are out of scope or exempt from VAT or due to the fact that for certain types of costs no VAT deduction is allowed.
- VAT pre-financing: There can be a significant timing difference between the moment the input VAT is paid and the moment this input VAT is actually recovered.
- VAT penalties: Infringements on the VAT legislation (even minor ones) can lead to severe penalties.
- VAT administration costs: the costs associated with having a Belgian VAT registration, filing returns and listings, complying with invoicing and bookkeeping requirements.

In many cases, the scenario's in which VAT can become a cost for a business can be avoided or optimised by careful planning. The Belgian VAT legislation e.g. contains various simplification rules that, if applied correctly, can avoid the need to VAT register or to pre-finance VAT.

LOCAL TAXES

Other than some minor and very specific local taxes that may apply to e.g. advertising, office furniture, producing copies, etc., there are no significant and general local taxes in Belgium.

OTHER TAXES: REGISTRATION DUTY

Registration duties are indirect taxes and are therefore applied on a transaction basis, in particular when a notary deed is required. The tax rate can be different in either the Brussels Region, Flemish Region or Walloon Region. Transactions that are subject to proportional registration duties include the transfer of legal title of real estate situated in Belgium. A registration duty of 12.5% (10% in the Flemish Region) applies to the price or market value of the real estate (except in restructuring scenarios in which case an exemption can apply). However, as of 1 June 2018 the registration duty applied to the price or market value of a family house in the Flemish Region has decreased from 10% to 7% if certain formalities are met in due time.

In general, no Belgium registration duties are due when increasing the capital of a Belgium based company.

REAL ESTATE WITHHOLDING TAX

Owners of real estate located in Belgium pay real estate taxes on the deemed rental value - this is a fictitious, but fairly low, income - of their property. The applicable rate depends on the location and use of the property.

B. DETERMINATION OF TAXABLE INCOME

The taxable income of a Belgium company or Belgium permanent establishment is based on its Belgium GAAP accounting profit as laid down in its annual accounts. This accounting profit is then adjusted for Belgium corporate tax purposes. We will list the main tax adjustments hereunder.

DISALLOWED EXPENSES

Some accounting charges are not (fully) tax-deductible. The main disallowed expenses are as follows:

- Restaurant costs are only 69% tax-deductible;
- Reception costs and business gifts are only 50% tax-deductible;
- Car costs are only tax-deductible depending on the CO₂ emission rate of the car. Generally, they are only 75% tax-deductible;
- Hospitalisation insurance premiums are not tax-deductible;
- Meal cheque expenses are not tax-deductible.

INVESTMENT ALLOWANCE

Companies are entitled to “investment allowance” tax relief – called “investment deduction” – if conditions are satisfied. Specifically, in the event of an investment in qualifying assets that are used for own business purposes, the taxpayer cannot only amortize the asset for Belgium corporate tax purposes, but is also eligible for an additional tax deduction. Such tax deduction is either:

- A one-off tax deduction applied to the total investment value, or;
- A spread tax deduction applied to the annual accounting amortisation of the asset.

The actual percentage of the investment allowance depends on the type of investment. If the taxpayer at hand has insufficient tax capacity in a given financial year to fully utilize the investment deduction, the excess deduction can be carried-forward without limitation in terms of time and amount. In addition, if conditions are met, an increased investment deduction is available for, amongst others, the following types of investments:

- Energy-saving investments;
- Environmental-friendly R&D investments;
- Investments in safety measures;
- Investments contributing towards the re-utilisation of the packaging of beverages and industrial products.

DEPRECIATION

Generally, all tangible and intangible business assets owned by the company and whose value diminishes over time, are depreciable for both BE GAAP and corporate tax purposes. Both the straight-line depreciation method and the declining-balance method are widely used.

STOCK / INVENTORY

Stocks should be valued at the lower of acquisition cost or year-end market value. The most common acceptable valuation methods are actual cost, FIFO and weighted average. The Belgium tax authorities require that the method chosen is justified and applied consistently.

CAPITAL GAINS AND LOSSES

Capital gains are treated as ordinary business income and are therefore taxable at normal corporate tax rates. However, there are a few exceptions:

- Revaluation gains are tax-free provided that they remain recorded on a specific “intangible account” of the company’s balance-sheet;
- As explained above, under certain conditions roll-over tax relief is granted for eligible realised gains on business assets;
- Realised capital gains on shares are tax-free if the underlying dividends qualify for the Belgium participation exemption (see below). There is however one exception to this rule: if the shares are not held for at least one year then 25.5% Belgium capital gains tax is due.

Capital losses are tax-deductible if they relate to fixed assets used for business purposes. Both unrealised (i.e. impairments recorded for BE GAAP purposes) and realised capital losses on shares are not tax-deductible. However, capital losses on shares realised upon the liquidation of a subsidiary are tax-deductible up to the value of the capital actually paid-up by the Belgium corporate shareholder.

DIVIDEND INCOME - PARTICIPATION EXEMPTION

A corporate shareholder can apply a 100% Belgium participation exemption for a shareholding of at least 10% or with an investment value of at least EUR 2.5 million in the distributing company. Also, the Belgium shareholder needs to hold this minimum shareholding for an uninterrupted period of at least one year, before or after the dividend distribution date. In addition and in summary: the dividend distributing subsidiary should be subject to normal taxation. Subsidiaries based in the EU are deemed to anyhow meet this subject-to-tax test.

Note that the participation exemption cannot be applied if the dividend distributing company can deduct the distributed dividend amount from its taxable basis and if the overall business structure is “artificial”, i.e. lacks relevant substance.

If the taxpayer at hand has insufficient tax capacity in a given financial year to fully utilize the participation exemption, the excess can be carried-forward without limitation in terms of time and amount.

INTEREST DEDUCTIONS

At arm's length interest expenses are fully tax-deductible.

However, Belgium tax law provides for three specific thin capitalisation rules:

- A 1:1 debt-equity ratio applies to loans granted by individual directors and shareholders to the company;
- A 5:1 debt-equity ratio applies to loans granted by related companies prior to 17 June 2016 and by lenders based in a tax haven. However, the 5:1 thin capitalisation rule does not apply in the event of a genuine “finance centre” transaction between related companies that are not based in a tax haven.
- As of 2019, a 30% fiscal EBITDA thin capitalisation rule applies if the net interest expense exceeds EUR 3 million per annum whilst various exceptions apply.

NOTIONAL INTEREST DEDUCTION (NID)

The notional interest deduction (NID) is a unique Belgium tax deduction. NID is a deduction for Belgium corporate tax purposes only and thus does not require any BE GAAP accounting entries or any cash-out cost. NID applies to basically all Belgium corporate taxpayers, regardless of the nature of their business. In essence, to have an equal treatment between the equity-funding and debt-funding of a Belgium company or permanent establishment, NID comes down to a corporate tax deduction of a “notional – i.e. fictitious - interest” expense that is deemed to arise for tax purposes only. The basis for the tax deduction is the average 5 year increase of the company's qualifying BE GAAP net equity while the interest rate is determined in function of the market interest rates. Small and medium-sized companies are entitled to an additional 0.5% NID rate. As market interest rates are currently low, the current (i.e. tax year 2019 – financial year 2018) NID rate is 0.746% while a small and medium-sized company can claim a 1.246% NID rate.

If a taxpayer has insufficient tax capacity in a given financial year to fully utilize the NID, the excess cannot be carried-forward and thus permanently forfeits. To avoid double-dips, the NID basis - i.e. the prior-year net equity - needs to be decreased by the net book value of certain “bad assets”, including:

- Shares, as the latter are generally eligible for the Belgium participation exemption;
- Tax treaty assets, as the latter's income is tax-free in Belgium;
- Assets used for private purposes by the company's director.

PATENT INCOME DEDUCTION (PID) AND INNOVATION DEDUCTION

The patent income deduction (PID) regime is a tax-attractive rule providing for an 80% corporate tax exemption of at arm's length patent income. Consequently, only 20% of the patent income is taxable at the normal corporate tax rate of 29.58% resulting in a maximum 5.92% effective corporate tax rate for income derived from patents. However, as e.g. R&D expenses, the R&D investment deduction and tax losses carry-forward are also fully tax-deductible, the patent income can be subject to a 0% effective Belgium corporate tax rate.

PID applies to both self-developed and acquired patents. The taxpayer can use the patent to grant licenses on the use of the patent and can use the patent for its own production process. In the latter case, the taxpayer will have to identify the patent income on a stand-alone basis. PID can be claimed if the following conditions are complied with:

- The Belgium taxpayer needs to hold the legal ownership or usufruct of a patent;
- The Belgium taxpayer needs to have an own R&D centre in Belgium or abroad. R&D activities can be outsourced, but this process needs to be supervised and coordinated by the Belgium taxpayer.

Note however that the PID has been abolished with a phase-out period until 30 June 2021.

However, meanwhile the so-called Innovation Deduction tax regime has been introduced as an alternative for PID. The Innovation Deduction has the following features:

- In essence, the Innovation Deduction is a 85% corporate tax deduction of net royalty income derived from qualifying IP whose underlying R&D activities were carried on by the Belgium taxpayer;
- The scope of qualifying IP is much broader than for PID since also royalty income derived from, amongst others, data and market exclusivity rights and eligible software is included;
- Non-utilised Innovation Deduction can be carried forward to a subsequent financial year;
- Also realised capital gains on the IP can benefit from Innovation Deduction tax relief;
- The Innovation Deduction can already be applied as of the financial year in which the IP approval request is filed;

LOSSES

Tax losses can be carried-forward indefinitely, i.e. without limitation in terms of time and amount. A carry-back of tax losses is not allowed. However, tax losses may forfeit in the event of a purely tax-driven change of control at the level of the Belgium company with tax losses. Furthermore, when a Belgium company with tax losses is part of a tax-free business restructuring (like e.g. a merger), the tax losses carry-forward may only survive the tax-free reorganisation on a prorate basis.

Furthermore, if a company or a permanent establishment has a taxable basis exceeding EUR 1 million, a maximum of 70% of the part of the taxable basis exceeding EUR 1 million can be offset against tax losses carried-forward, whereas 30% is effectively subject to corporate tax.

FOREIGN SOURCE INCOME

Belgium tax law comprises controlled foreign company (CFC) legislation as of 2019. However, CFC legislation only applies if the overall business set-up is deemed to be artificial, i.e. lacks genuine local substance and is not at arm's length.

C. FOREIGN TAX RELIEF

Please consider the following Belgium foreign tax relief rules:

- Income derived from tax treaty sources (a permanent establishment or real estate based in a tax treaty country) is completely tax-free for Belgium corporate tax purposes;
- Definitive tax losses of permanent establishments situated outside Belgium are deductible from Belgium source profits (be it that a future claw-back rule may apply);
- Foreign-source dividend income can be eligible for the Belgium participation exemption (see above);
- Foreign-source interest and royalty income can be eligible for a Belgium foreign tax credit if that income was subject to foreign withholding tax or if a tax sparing clause laid down in a tax treaty concluded with Belgium applies.

D. CORPORATE GROUPS

As of 2019, Belgium tax law is featured by group relief for corporate tax purposes. If conditions are met, group relief for VAT purposes can currently already be applied for.

E. RELATED PARTY TRANSACTIONS

All transactions with group companies must be conducted on an arm's length basis. This means that the prices applied must be set as if the parties involved were genuine independent third party companies, taking into account the normal market prices for similar transactions in identical or similar circumstances.

For Belgium tax purposes, transfer pricing documentation is only mandatory if the following conditions are satisfied in the hands of a group with a presence in various countries. Specifically, every Belgian tax resident affiliate of a multinational Group which exceeds one of the below criteria in the financial year preceding its most recently closed financial year according to its BE GAAP annual accounts on a non-consolidated basis should file both a Local File and a Master File in Belgium:

- Gross operational and financial turnover (excluding one-off transactions) exceeding EUR 50 million;
- Balance sheet total exceeding EUR 1 billion;
- Average personnel exceeding 100 full-time equivalents.

In summary, the Group Master File should give an overview of the multinational Group as such. The Local File shares more information about the nature and activities of the Belgian affiliate.

In addition and in summary, “if” the Group has a consolidated gross turnover of more than EUR 750 million, a country-by-country (“CbC”) reporting formality will have to be satisfied. Without entering into details, in such a CbC report the Group has to disclose a general overview of its worldwide income and its economic activities and in which countries the Group pays its taxes. Such a CbC report will, in principle, have to be filed by the parent company of the Group in the country of which this parent company is a tax resident. However, in some cases, a Belgian tax resident company of the Group can be obliged to file the CbC report in Belgium. Every Belgian tax resident company of a “large” multinational Group will in any event have to inform the Belgian tax authorities of the identity of the company that will file the CbC report, and this before the financial year of the parent company is closed.

F. WITHHOLDING TAX

According to Belgian domestic tax law, in principle 30% withholding tax is due on dividend, interest and/or royalty income that is attributed or made payable by the company. However, Belgium tax law comprises numerous withholding tax exemptions, especially for corporations, banks and non-residents. Also, pursuant to tax treaty rules there may be Belgium dividend, interest and royalty withholding tax mitigation and relief. This includes:

- 0% Belgium dividend withholding tax applies if the shareholder resides in the EU or in a tax treaty country and has a minimum 10% shareholding for at least 1 year in the Belgium subsidiary;
- 0% Belgium interest or royalty withholding tax applies if the beneficiary resides in the EU and has a direct or indirect minimum 25% shareholding for at least 1 year in the Belgium company;
- 0% Belgium royalty withholding tax applies based on many tax treaties concluded by Belgium.

G. EXCHANGE CONTROL

There are no exchange controls in Belgium.

H. PERSONAL TAX - EXPATRIATE TAX REGIME

An individual resident in Belgium is liable to progressive personal income tax rates (maximum 50%) on his worldwide income. There is no general capital gains taxation for individuals. Only in very specific circumstances, an individual can be subject to capital gains taxation. A non-resident individual is liable to progressive personal tax rates on his Belgian-source income only. There is no asset tax under Belgian tax law.

However, the Belgium tax practice includes a tax-efficient expatriate tax regime since 1983. The main objective of this expatriate tax regime is to both lower the overall payroll cost for the employer and to optimise the net-in-hand salary for the expatriate. If they meet all the conditions, an expatriate – although temporarily living with his/her family in Belgium – is considered to be a non-resident for Belgium personal tax purposes. The benefits of the Belgium expatriate tax status are twofold:

- Each calendar year, the expatriate is entitled to so-called “tax-free allowances”, i.e. allowances granted by the employer to cover additional expenses incurred as a direct result of the assignment to or employment in Belgium are, within certain limits, tax-free for the expatriate, and;
- Each calendar year, the expatriate is entitled to a so-called “business travel exclusion”, i.e. the part of the salary that relates to actual business days spent outside Belgium is tax-free in Belgium (and presumably not taxable in the visited jurisdiction either).

KEY TAX POINTS

- Income tax is levied on the gross revenue receipts (sales) of companies at rates set out from time to time in the Ninth Schedule to the Income and Business Tax Act.
- A general sales tax (GST) applies to the supply of goods and services at a standard rate of 12.5%. Certain supplies are exempted or zero-rated. Registered businesses can set off their input GST (GST paid to suppliers) against their output GST (GST charged to customers).
- Other local taxes apply including stamp duty, land and property taxes, customs duties, excise duties, environmental tax, vehicle licenses, and trade license.

- Personal income tax is chargeable at a flat rate of 25% on persons employed in Belize.
- Residents are entitled to a personal allowance of between BZD 19,600 and BZD 25,600 before being chargeable to the flat rate.
- Belize has double taxation agreements with the United Kingdom, Austria, and the countries of the Caribbean Community (CARICOM).

A. TAXES PAYABLE

COMPANY TAX

On 1 July 1998, income tax on the profits or net earnings of companies and self-employed persons was replaced by a new tax, named 'business tax', which is a tax on gross receipts. The tax is charged as a percentage of gross receipts, without any deductions, and is declared and paid each month to the Tax Department. The rates vary according to the source of the income and range from 0.75% in respect of receipts from radio, on-air television and newspaper business to 25% in respect of management fees, rental of plant and equipment, and charges for technical services paid to a non-resident.

Effective 1 January 1999, income tax on business profits was reintroduced but revised so that it could co-exist with the business tax regime introduced in 1998. The corporate income tax rate was reduced from its former level of 35% to 25%. The business tax paid is now considered to be a credit towards income tax payable with any excess paid being carried forward as an expense to the next basis (tax) year, provided that an income tax return is duly filed with the Commissioner of Income Tax.

Where the business tax paid is less than the income tax payable, the excess is to be treated as taxes forgone by the Commissioner, provided that an income tax return is duly filed. Tax returns are to be filed with the Belize Tax Administration (Income Tax Department) within three months after the close of the taxpayer's fiscal year. When filing an income tax return, the taxpayer (other than a company engaged in petroleum operations) has an option to 'accept the business tax assessed'. This choice is made by ticking a window on the income tax return form. The business tax paid for the year is then considered to be the tax payable for the year. The tax return is completed by signing the Certification section.

There is no need to provide financial statements or any additional supporting schedules to support the tax return submitted. Where losses are incurred and the taxpayer elects not to accept the business tax as a final tax, the taxpayer must submit a complete tax return which would include an income tax computation, financial statements and supporting schedules in order to have the trading losses agreed and relief obtained in the form of tax credits against future business taxes payable.

With effect from 1 January 2006, the rate of income tax for companies engaged in petroleum operations was increased from 25% to 40%. These companies must file income tax returns and pay income tax; they cannot elect to be chargeable to tax under the business tax regime. Subsequent amendments made to date to the Income and Business Tax includes the addition of the following provisions:

- To introduce a petroleum surcharge on revenues derived from petroleum operations;
- To facilitate tax information exchange agreements with other countries;
- To abolish the withholding tax on royalties and commissions paid to non-residents;
- To vary the rates of business tax on casinos, commissions, real estate business and utilities that provide telecommunication and electricity services.

GENERAL SALES TAX

Effective 1 July 2006, the 'sales tax' which was in force was repealed and replaced by a general sales tax (GST). GST is effectively a value added tax, with tax becoming payable at each stage in the supply chain and with tax incurred on inputs being recoverable by offset against output GST (the tax charged by a business to customers on taxable supplies). For GST purposes, "business" has a very wide meaning and can include activities on which no profit is made. "Taxable supply" is a supply of goods and/or services made in the course or furtherance of any business. Therefore, where a supply is not specifically exempted, it will be considered a taxable supply.

Effective 1 April 2010, the rate of GST was increased from 10% to 12.5%. Exempt supplies of goods and services include:

- Some financial services and gambling supply;
- Some supply of goods and services by an educational institution within the meaning of the Education Act;
- Medical, dental, hospital, optical and paramedical services, other than veterinary services and cosmetic surgery;
- Supply of residential accommodation or accommodation in a hotel or similar establishment;

- Public postal services, domestic public transport of passengers, lease of aircraft and maintenance services in connection with the supply of public air transport;
- International transport of passengers or goods;
- Some supplies of services provided to diplomatic missions, international and regional organisations; and,
- Goods and services provided to the Government of Belize.

Providers of exempt goods and services are not allowed to charge GST to customers and cannot recover any GST paid on inputs. Taxable supplies may be zero-rated (chargeable to tax at 0%) or standard-rated (chargeable to tax at 12.5%). Zero-rated items include:

- Exported goods and services;
- Some food items for human consumption, water supply (other than bottled water) and some medicines and medical supplies for human use;
- Some items and supplies for use in education; and,
- Some supplies connected with agriculture, livestock, birds and fish, crustaceans and molluscs.

Items not specifically exempted or zero-rated are considered to be standard-rated.

OTHER LOCAL TAXES

These include:

- Stamp duty on certain transactions, including the transfer of property;
- Land and property taxes;
- Trade licence, motor vehicle licence and other taxes charged by local authorities; and,
- Customs, excise, environmental tax and other taxes charged by the Customs and Excise Department.

B. WITHHOLDING TAXES

- 15%: Dividends paid to non-residents. However, effective 1 January 2011, dividends paid to shareholders by entities licensed to provide telecommunication services that offer real time voice services are exempt from tax.
- 3%: Gross contract payments in connection with contracts exceeding BZD 3,000.
- 15%: Interest paid to non-residents.
- 25%: Management fees, rental of plant and equipment and charges for technical services paid to non-residents.

C. FOREIGN EXCHANGE CONTROL

The Foreign Exchange Control Act provides that only the Central Bank of Belize and authorised dealers may deal in foreign currencies. A foreign exchange permit must first be obtained from the Central Bank for all remittances of foreign exchange, including the payment of goods and services procured outside Belize. Central Bank approval is also required to secure and repay a loan outside Belize denominated in a foreign currency.

D. PERSONAL TAX

Effective 1 January 2010, employed persons, resident in Belize, are allowed a basic deduction of:

- (a) BZD 25,600 in the case of an employed person whose total income, from all sources in a basis year, does not exceed BZD 26,000;
- (b) BZD 24,600 in the case of an employed person whose total income, from all sources in a basis year, exceeds BZD 26,000 but does not exceed BZD 27,000;
- (c) BZD 22,600 in the case of an employed person whose total income, from all sources in a basis year, exceeds BZD 27,000 but does not exceed BZD 29,000; and,
- (d) BZD 19,600 in the case of all other employed persons. There are no other deductions in ascertaining chargeable income except for allowable charitable donations which is restricted to one-sixth part of the chargeable income.

The rate of tax on chargeable personal income is a flat rate of 25%, with a standard tax credit deduction of BZD 100 available to all residents.

E. TREATY AND NON-TREATY WITHHOLDING TAX RATES

A. TAXES PAYABLEFEDERAL TAXES AND LEVIES
COMPANY TAX

The tax base in Bolivia is territorial, i.e. tax is only due on business income derived from activities performed, property situated, or economic rights used in Bolivia, regardless of nationality, domicile or residence of those who take part in the operations. Therefore, business income realised through companies operating outside of Bolivia is not considered for Bolivian tax purposes.

The standard corporate income tax rate is 25% and the tax year-end is 31 December of each year. Annual tax returns and financial statements need to be submitted with the IRS and income tax paid within 120 days from tax year-end. Advance corporate tax payments need to be made.

CAPITAL GAINS TAX

Capital gains derived from the sale of fixed assets immovable property and securities are normally included in gross income and are subject to the standard corporate income tax rate of 25%. However, capital gains derived from transactions on the Bolivian Stock Exchange are tax-exempt.

BRANCH PROFITS TAX

Branches of non-resident companies are subject to the standard corporate income tax rate of 25%. However, a branch remittance tax applies at the rate of 25%, which is levied on 50% of the Bolivian-sourced profits distributed to the foreign head office, i.e. the effective rate is 12.5%. Branch profits are deemed remitted when the corporate income tax return is due (120 days after the end of the tax year, see higher).

SALES TAX / VALUE ADDED TAX (VAT)

VAT is levied on taxable supplies of goods and services as well as on imports of taxable goods and services into Bolivia. Exports are zero-rated. Some specified transactions are exempt without credit for previously paid VAT.

The standard VAT rate is 13% while certain goods and services are tax-exempt:

- bona fide imports made by travellers arriving to the country;
- all transactions of public offer securities registered with the Stock Exchange Register (RMV) performed in Bolivia and having effect in the national territory;
- cession of goods and assets subject to procedures for issuing securities;
- goods imported by diplomatic service members;
- transactions involving the transfer of financing intermediation, insurance, pensions and stock exchange portfolios, whether resulting from sale or cession;
- the importation of printed books, newspapers and magazines.

B. DETERMINATION OF TAXABLE INCOME

Taxable income is the income reported in the company's financial statements prepared in accordance with Bolivian GAAP, subject to certain adjustments for tax purposes. Generally, all expenses necessary to obtain income and to maintain the existence of the company are deductible. Donations and other gratuitous transfers to non-profit organisations that are exempt from income tax may be deducted up to a maximum limit of 10% of taxable income derived in the year of the donation or gratuitous transfer. Non-deductible items include, among others, income tax itself, penalties and fines and related surcharges, losses incurred in illegal activities, goodwill and gifts, except for those to qualifying recipients.

DEPRECIATION

Fixed assets are generally depreciated using the straight-line method at rates specified by law. The following are some of the annual depreciation rates:

Asset	Annual rate (%)
Industrial buildings and warehouses	2.5
Machinery, equipment and installations	12.5
Office furniture and equipment	10
Aircraft	20
Motor vehicles	20
Computer hardware	25
Intangibles	5

STOCK / INVENTORY

Inventories are valued at the lower of market value or replacement cost.

CAPITAL GAINS AND LOSSES

Capital gains derived from the sale of fixed assets immovable property and securities are normally included in gross income and are subject to the standard corporate income tax rate of 25%. However, capital gains derived from transactions on the Bolivian Stock Exchange are tax-exempt. Capital losses resulting from “force majeure” or civil and criminal liabilities by third parties are deductible only to the extent that they are not covered by insurance or indemnity awards, as long as the taxpayer informs the tax authorities within a 15-day period following the relevant incident.

DIVIDENDS

Domestic dividends received by a resident company are not subject to income tax at the level of the recipient and neither are these dividends subject to withholding tax. Dividends received from non-resident companies, including those paid by a foreign subsidiary to its parent company in Bolivia, are not subject to tax. A Bolivian company remitting profits to foreign shareholders or partners has to withhold 12.5% tax on the gross payment.

INTEREST DEDUCTIONS

There are no thin capitalisation rules as such in Bolivia. However, interest paid by a domestic company to its non-resident shareholders or partners that is considered excessive, i.e. higher than LIBOR + 3%, is treated as a non-deductible expense for the domestic company's income tax purposes. The excessive interest payment must be included in the domestic company's taxable income for tax purposes. Tax-deductible interest cannot exceed 30% of the total interest paid out by the enterprise to third parties in the reported period.

LOSSES

Losses may be carried forward for 3 tax years, but may not be adjusted for inflationary effects. Losses may not be carried back.

FOREIGN SOURCE INCOME

The corporate tax system is based on the territoriality principle, whereby tax is only due on income received or accrued from sources within or deemed to be within Bolivia.

C. FOREIGN TAX RELIEF

As foreign-source income is not subject to corporate income tax (territoriality principle), no relief is granted for foreign taxes.

D. CORPORATE GROUPS

There are no generally applicable group consolidation rules in Bolivia.

E. RELATED PARTY TRANSACTIONS

A legal framework for transfer pricing was introduced in 2014, with effect from tax year 2015. The transfer pricing rules are based on the arm's length principle, established a new concept of related parties and introduced transfer pricing methods. In the case of income tax, the arm's length principle is applicable to commercial and/or financial operations performed between related parties.

Related parties are deemed to exist whenever one person takes part in the management, control, or administration, or possesses capital equity in another company, or whenever a third party directly or indirectly participates in the management, control, or administration, or possesses capital equity in two or more companies.

The tax administration is empowered to perform adjustments when the transaction values do not comply with the arm's length principle. For this purpose, the tax administration can use the following methods: comparable uncontrolled price, resale price, cost-plus, profit split, transactional net margin or notorious price in transparent markets (applicable to the import or export of commodities).

Furthermore, a formal transfer pricing obligation has been established. Taxpayers, within the scope of transfer pricing rules, are obliged to present transfer pricing documentation which includes a technical transfer pricing study.

F. WITHHOLDING TAX

Bolivian-sourced dividends and other profit distributions by a domestic subsidiary to its non-resident parent company are subject to a 25% final withholding tax, which is levied on 50% of the Bolivian-sourced dividend, thus giving rise to an effective tax rate of 12.5%.

Bolivian-sourced interest, royalties and fees paid to non-resident recipients are subject to a 25% final withholding tax, which is levied on 50% of the Bolivian-sourced income, thus giving rise to an effective tax rate of 12.5%. Rental income derived by non-residents from the leasing, subleasing or other exploitation of any Bolivian-situs real property is subject to a 25% final withholding tax, which is levied on 50% of the Bolivian-sourced rental payment, thus giving rise to an effective tax rate of 12.5%.

Bolivian-sourced capital gains derived by non-residents are subject to a 25% final withholding tax, which is levied on 50% of the Bolivian-sourced capital gain, thus giving rise to an effective tax rate of 12.5%.

G. EXCHANGE CONTROL

No restrictions are imposed on foreign-exchange transactions, including the repatriation of capital and the remittance of dividends and royalties abroad. A system of free-floating exchange rates exists in Bolivia.

H. PERSONAL TAX

Individuals are subject to tax on all items of income, unless expressly exempt. For income tax purposes, the term income means the total value or amount in cash or in kind derived from capital investments, dependent services or a combination of both.

The individual income tax liability is subject to tax at a rate of 25% on professional activities and at 13% on other activities.

2. Domestic rate applies, no reduction under the tax treaty. Source state has exclusive right to tax.
3. The standard rate under the treaty is 15%. However, the application of a most favoured nation clause (items 5 and 4 of the Treaty's Protocol for France and the UK respectively) reduces the rate to 10% if the recipient company owns at least 25% of the capital of the dividend-paying company. The rate for such dividends under the Bolivia-Spain double tax treaty is 10%.
4. The 10% rate applies if the beneficial owner is a company (other than a partnership) which holds directly at least 25% of the capital of the dividend-paying company.
5. The 0% rate applies if the beneficial owner is a company (other than a partnership) which holds at least 25% of the capital of the dividend-paying company.

'x' in the above formula represents the taxable income as a percentage of gross income. Please note that the tax rate cannot be less than 22% (the CIT rate) and is normally a rate between 22% and 55%. Diamond mining is generally taxed in accordance with the terms of a specific agreement agreed with the Botswana government.

VAT is payable by the importer of services not utilised in the making of taxable supplies. Input tax includes Transfer Duty payable under the Transfer Duty Act and any tax deemed to have been paid in respect of the supply of second hand goods. Farming, mining and prospecting losses can be carried forward indefinitely until utilised by set off against available taxable profits arising in subsequent periods.

Similarly, only capital gains arising in Botswana or deemed to arise in Botswana are subject to tax in Botswana. Therefore, all foreign-sourced income or capital gains that are not otherwise deemed also to be derived from a Botswana source, are not subject to tax in Botswana.

C. FOREIGN TAX RELIEF

Unilateral relief is available, the method being an ordinary credit, i.e. the lesser of the foreign tax paid and the tax charged under domestic income tax law. A. TAXES PAYABLE

CORPORATE TAX

There are three different methods to calculate corporate income tax (CIT): the actual profit method (Lucro Real), the presumed method (Lucro Presumido) and the arbitrated method (Lucro Arbitrado).

ACTUAL PROFIT METHOD

The Actual Profit Method called "Lucro Real" is the method whereby the taxpayer pays CIT called "IRPJ" based on its actual taxable income, after computing all income, gains and tax deductible costs and expenses, including net operating losses of prior years. The taxpayer is required to maintain current and accurate accounting and tax books and records, and also corresponding supporting documentation. Failure to maintain accurate accounting and supporting documentation may lead to disallowance of an expense requiring it to be added back to taxable income.

In general, taxable income must be recognised monthly following the accrual basis criteria and subject to IRPJ. The tax return must be filed annually. Corporate taxable income is taxed under a unitary system whereby a single tax rate is applied. This rate is 25%, being 15% plus 10% on pre-tax profits over BRL 240,000 annually. Corporate income tax is generally computed on a calendar year basis. However, payments are made monthly on estimated advance taxes. Social Contribution on Net Profit called "CSL" is another federal tax and is calculated on pre-tax profits. The rate is 9% computed on an annual or quarterly basis. Calculations and payments are made monthly as estimated advance taxes. Both taxes on profits add up to 34% (25% plus 9%).

PRESUMED PROFIT METHOD

The Presumed Profit Method called "Lucro Presumido" is a simpler IRPJ calculation method that allows the taxpayer to pay income tax and CSL based only on its quarterly gross revenues. That means that costs and expenses are irrelevant to determine IRPJ and CSL liability at the end of the quarter. Due to its simplicity, Lucro Presumido is more suitable for small and medium-sized businesses not to mention the method's limitations and restrictions of use by large companies. Companies with prior year revenue of up to BRL 78 million can choose, under certain circumstances, to pay income tax and social contributions under the Presumed Profit Method, which is calculated as a percentage of the quarterly gross revenue on a cash basis.

Under Lucro Presumido IRPJ is calculated quarterly and, for most activities the presumed profit margin is 8% of monthly gross income corresponding to sales operational activities and 32% to services revenues, and depending on the specific industry other rates apply. Based on the presumed net income resulting from the application of the profit margins on gross income a 15% IRPJ rate applies while net income in excess of BRL 60,000 per quarter is subject to an IRPJ surtax of 10%, similar to the "estimated" calculation for Lucro Real.

ARBITRATED PROFIT METHOD

Lucro Arbitrado applies to only a few situations, most of them related to inaccuracy or unreliability of the taxpayer's accounting records (under Lucro Real). It is an extreme tool used by the tax administration to determine unilaterally and ex officio the taxpayer's taxable income and IRPJ due. Lucro Arbitrado has also consequences for other federal taxes, in particular CSL, PIS and COFINS because they are determined based on the taxpayer's accurate gross income.

FRINGE BENEFITS TAXATION

Companies participate mandatorily in different forms of social security obligations to federal agencies. These either directly or indirectly benefit pension programs, working time compensation, social work assistance and health programs, among others. All contributions are deductible for corporate income tax purposes.

PROGRAM FOR SOCIAL INTEGRATION CONTRIBUTION (PIS)

PIS is a federal social contribution levied on taxpayers' monthly gross income. PIS has been subject to several changes, many of them creating separate PIS regimes depending on the taxpayer's business or income tax calculation method. There are two basic PIS regimes dependent on the corporate income tax method elected by the taxpayer (Lucro Presumido or Lucro Real): the cumulative and the non-cumulative regime.

These contributions are payable each month as a fund to employees. This is calculated based on 1.65% of monthly gross revenue. The PIS rate is generally 1.65% of the monthly sale, in a non-cumulative way. It means, deductions are allowed in respect of services and material costs applied in companies' operating activities. For companies that choose to be taxed by the Presumed Profit Method, PIS will be 0.65% of the monthly sale in a cumulative way, without the aforementioned allowed deductions.

CONTRIBUTION FOR THE FINANCING OF SOCIAL SECURITY (COFINS)

COFINS is also a federal social contribution levied on the corporate taxpayer's monthly gross income. COFINS also has three basic tax regimes: the cumulative, the non-cumulative (created in 2004) and the single-phase regime. The COFINS tax rate under the cumulative regime is 3%, while the rate is 7.6% under the non-cumulative regime. Rates under the single-phase regime vary from business to business.

Although regulated by different laws, PIS and COFINS regimes, whether cumulative or non-cumulative, are almost identical. For cumulative COFINS the difference is basically the rate (3% for cumulative COFINS and 0.65% for cumulative PIS). Companies under the Lucro Presumido pay COFINS according to the cumulative regime, i.e. at the rate of 3% with no COFINS tax credit available.

PAYROLL TAX

This is a monthly obligation for social security and other funds levied on payroll.

Tax	Rate
Social Security (INSS)	20%
Accident Insurance (SAT)	1% to 3%
Employee Indemnity Guarantee Fund (FGTS)	8%
Education Fund (SE)	2.5%
Other	3.3%

Employees contribute monthly to the social security system at rates from 8% to 11% on a progressive-scale base salary taking into account a maximum base salary of BRL 5,531.31. Federal law obliges companies to distribute part of their annual net income to employees. Participation is negotiated by each company and disputes are settled by arbitration. Amounts distributed are deductible for corporate income tax purposes and not subject to social security.

The Brazilian Government changed the criteria for companies in some business sectors to calculate the collection of INSS. Basically, the law changed the basis for calculation of INSS from 20% under payroll salary to apply 4.5% or 2% under revenue generated monthly by the companies which are subject to the new rules. According to Law 12.546/2011 and 13.161/2015, companies that render IT services, technologies, and hotels will be subject to contribute 4.5% of their monthly gross revenue except for call centres that increase to 3%. Companies that manufacture fluids for hydraulic brakes, plastic, clothing and accessories, fur, leather, silk, wool, rugs and other coatings to floors, hats and artefacts of similar use, machinery and appliances, pressure reducing valves, among others will be subject to contribute 2.5% of their monthly gross revenue.

LOCAL TAXES

STATE VALUE ADDED TAX (ICMS)

ICMS is a near Value Added Tax on sales of most goods and certain services. It is payable to state governments upon imports of goods into Brazil and sales or transfers of goods within Brazil. It is also payable upon supply of electricity, the provision of interstate and inter-municipal transport services and communication services. ICMS is levied on the sale or physical movement of goods, freight, transportation, communications services and electric energy. Intrastate transactions are taxed at 18%, interstate transactions are taxed at 7% or 12%, and most imports are taxed at a rate between 18% and 25%. The lower rates are normally charged on transfers to less developed states. Some states offer rate reductions or later payment dates as a tax incentive for the installation of factories. Communication services are taxed at a rate between 13% and 25%.

As of 1 January 2013, the ICMS rate for interstate transactions involving imported goods is at 4% (instead of the standard 7% or 12%) subject to certain conditions. The new tax rate, established by Senate Resolution no. 13/2012, aims to eliminate unfair competition among Brazilian states to encourage customs clearance (and, thus, ICMS revenues) of imported goods even when the goods are destined for another state.

REAL ESTATE TRANSFER TAX (ITBI)

ITBI is the municipal real estate transfer tax that applies on most onerous transfers of real estate. The tax is payable upon each and every taxable transfer of real estate property. Rates vary according to the actual value of the relevant transaction, or the recipient party value of property (as determined by the municipal tax administration), whichever is higher. The Constitution allows ITBI rates to be progressive according to the value of the property. It also allows the application of different rates according to the location and destination of the relevant property average. The ITBI rate is 2% in most municipalities.

SERVICES TAX (ISS OR ISSQN)

ISS is the municipal tax levied on the provision of services of any kind by taxpayers located within the jurisdiction of a given municipality. ISS can also include services rendered within the boundaries of a given municipality even though the services provider is located in another municipality.

The ISS rates vary from municipality to municipality, but rates cannot be lower than 2% and not exceed 5%. The minimum 2% tax rate for ISS was established businesses to their jurisdictions. But some municipalities bypass this minimum 2% rate by granting other incentives that reduce the ISS overall tax burden, such as tax base reductions. The tax applies to the taxpayer's monthly services gross income and is payable on a monthly basis. The ISS also applies to imported services.

OTHER TAXES

TAX ON MANUFACTURED PRODUCTS (IPI)

IPI is a federal excise tax levied on manufactures products as they leave the plant where they have been manufactured. It also applies to imported products at the time of importation and the first resale of the imported product by the importer. IPI is not levied on exports. IPI tax rates vary depending on the products: the more essential the lower the rates. The rates are listed per tariff code in the IPI Table called "TIPI", which uses the Mercosur Common Tariff (NCM) as a basis.

The exports (export of manufactured products) are exempt from IPI. Imports of goods (raw material and products) are normally taxed at the same rate as Brazilian-made products. Rates change frequently. For imported goods or products, the IPI (and other taxes due) must be collected upon customs clearance of the goods or products.

IMPORT TAX

The import tax is a federal tax due upon customs clearance of the imported products, usually pursuant to an ad valorem tax rate. The tax rate varies according to the tariff classification of the imported goods under the Mercosur Common Tariff (NCM), as described above in section IPI (Tax on Manufactured Products). The tax base is the sales price shown in the commercial invoice issued in the country of origin. However, during customs clearance procedures, the administration has discretionary powers to reject the transaction price if there is evidence that it is not the market value. A review of the sales price is usually based on international customs valuation rules.

FINANCIAL OPERATIONS TAX (IOF)

IOF is a federal tax that generally applies to different types of transactions such as loans and credit operations, insurance policies and foreign exchange operations for certain services rendered. IOF regulations are extensive and change constantly. The tax is mainly used as an instrument of economic policy to regulate the credit, currency exchange, insurance, and securities markets rather than to generate tax revenues.

CONTRIBUTION FOR INTERVENTION IN THE ECONOMIC DOMAIN (CIDE)

The government introduced a special contribution in the year 2000. Brazilian legal entities that license, purchase or otherwise acquire technological knowledge must pay a special contribution of 10% on activities such as: trademarks, technical services assistance, administrative services and any royalty payments. Based on the law in force, CIDE must even be paid on activities that do not involve the transfer of technology.

TAX ON FUEL (CIDE)

The CIDE will be paid monthly on the import and export of petroleum, derived and natural gas, and fuel alcohol. The rate will be based on the value in Reals of the cubic meters or tons of fuel.

RURAL REAL ESTATE TAX (ITR)

Property taxation of rural and urban land receives a different tax treatment. Urban land is subject to the municipal real estate ownership tax called IPTU and rural land is taxable by ITR. The definition of land as rural or urban is then relevant because it determines the competent authority to levy tax on property ownership. Classification stems from exclusion: when land is considered to be urban it will be subject to IPTU while if it is not considered to be urban it will be treated as rural for tax purposes and will consequently be subject to ITR.

The basic rate is calculated annually based on certain premises on assessed property values and depending on the stage of use and exploration of the property. Very small properties are exempt and the maximum rate applied corresponds to 20% of the land value without any improvements.

B. DETERMINATION OF TAXABLE INCOME

IFRS - INTERNATIONAL FINANCIAL REPORTING STANDARDS

Brazil adopted the IASB's International Accounting Standards in 2008 on a gradual basis and the full IFRS since 2010. As a consequence, there are several important changes to Brazilian accounting practices, the most important of which is that these new accounting practices are required not only in consolidated financial statements but also in the individual financial statements (Law 11638/07). These include the recognition of leasing transactions, depreciation treatment, the recognition of intangible assets, the impairment concept, etc.

Taxable income is generally computed in accordance with accounting rules and tax legislation (i.e. accounting profits adjusted for tax purposes), subject to certain exceptions. Brazilian GAAP were adjusted in 2007 in order to be aligned with IFRS. Law 12.973/2014 of 13 May 2014 dealt with the tax effects arising from the changes to the new accounting standards (previously, a transitory regime applied, in which legal entities could use old accounting rules for tax purposes). According to this Law, as from 2015 legal entities must observe the new accounting standards also for tax purposes (and no longer apply the transitory regime), unless regulated otherwise by the law. In view of this, Law 12.973/2014 brought into force relevant changes to tax legislation concerning the assessment of CIT, PIS and COFINS, the tax treatment of dividends, interest on net equity, the equity pick-up (método de equivalência patrimonial) and tax amortisation of goodwill, among other things.

DEPRECIATION

Fixed assets shall be depreciated over their estimated useful lives for accounting purposes (IFRS). For tax purposes, the straight-line method is usually adopted, using the following annual rates: buildings 4%; machinery and equipment 10%; vehicles 20%; IT equipment 25% etc. Assets subject to depletion (mines, quarries, etc.) may be amortised proportionately to the units extracted in each period.

STOCK / INVENTORY

The cost of goods sold for production is generally valued using the weighted average cost method, although the FIFO (first in, first out) basis may be elected. The method adopted determines the basis for the valuation of closing inventory.

DIVIDENDS

Brazil follows a dividend exemption system. Amounts distributed to shareholders resident in Brazil or abroad (since the investment is registered at the Brazilian Central Bank (BCB)) are not subject to withholding tax.

INTEREST DEDUCTIONS

There is a limitation on interest expenses to be deductible:

- a) Loan from non-resident companies (thin capitalisation); and,
- b) Loan from abroad must be registered at Central Bank of Brazil (transfer pricing).

Interest due must be at fair market value and necessary to business activities and will be subject to withholding tax on an accrual basis. The calculation of interest on a partner's or shareholder's capital (JCP) is allowed. The interest is deductible for income tax and social contribution purposes up to the limit of the official long-term interest rate (TJLP). Profits for the current period or previous periods must be at least double the value of the interest to be distributed. Interest is subject to a 15% withholding tax. Interest should be paid or possibly capitalised.

Thin capitalisation

Brazil has thin capitalisation rules in force since 2010 that limit the ability for corporate taxpayers under "Lucro Real" to fully deduct interest expenses associated with loans contracted with foreign related parties or parties domiciled in low tax jurisdictions and/or under a favourable tax regime in a foreign location. Such law states a limitation for corporate income tax purposes related to deductible interest, accrued or paid, in favour of a foreigner not resident in a tax haven. Under the rules, interest paid to related parties that are not located in a tax haven jurisdiction or that do not benefit from a preferential tax regime may be deducted on an accrual basis for corporate income tax purpose only:

- If the expenses are necessary for the company's activities; and,
- Both of the following thresholds are met:
 - a) The related party debt-to-equity ratio does not exceed 2:1 (calculated on the proportion of related party debt to direct equity investment made by related parties); and,
 - b) The overall debt-to-equity ratio does not exceed 2:1 based on the proportion of total debt to total direct investment made by related parties.

If the debt payable to the non-resident investor exceeds the above ratios, then the excess portion of the interest expense payable by the Brazilian subsidiary is not deductible for the purposes of corporate income taxes.

In addition, interest payable by a Brazilian entity to a non-resident creditor (related or not) domiciled in a low-tax jurisdiction or benefiting from a privileged tax regime may be deducted for the purposes of corporate income taxes only if the interest expense is necessary for the company's activities and the amount of the Brazilian entity's indebtedness to all entities located in low-tax jurisdictions or benefiting from privileged tax regimes does not exceed 30% of the equity of the Brazilian borrower.

If the debt payable to the non-resident creditor exceeds the above ratios, then the excess portion of the interest expense recognised by the Brazilian subsidiary is non-deductible.

Finally, thin capitalisation rules also apply to transactions where a non-related financial institution is used as a mere intermediary between the Brazilian company and its related party domiciled abroad. However, loan transactions entered into between two Brazilian related residents are not subject to thin capitalisation rules, even if the guarantor, attorney-in-fact or any intervening party is a related party domiciled abroad or a resident of a low-tax jurisdiction or of a country with a privileged tax regime.

TAX LOSSES CARRIED FORWARD

Tax losses can be carried forward to offset against future profits of up to 30% of the real profits arising in each period (year). Losses that are offset may be carried forward indefinitely. There are restrictions on losses transferred as a result of a company merger or where there is a change in the control and activity of the loss generating company. Loss carry-back is not allowed.

INCENTIVES

Brazil offers incentives through the reduction of domestic taxes or exemption from withholding tax in the forwarding of royalties or commissions on international financing. In addition to incentives for exports, there are incentives for the implementation of industrial units in specific regional areas.

ROYALTIES AND TECHNICAL ASSISTANCE EXPENDITURES

Royalties are deductible expenses but are restricted to between 1% and 5% of sales revenue for companies that make cross-border trademark and patent royalty payments. Expenditure incurred in the creation of patents and manufacturing formulas and processes are considered capital intangible assets and are amortised over the life of the asset. This is also true for trademarks, whereas copyright, software, and franchising are generally deductible from operational results if they are related to the activities of the company.

Technical, scientific and administrative expenditures and royalties paid to foreign companies which have direct or indirect control of the Brazilian company are deductible if the contracts are duly registered with the Brazilian Institute of Industrial Property (INPI) and with the Brazilian Central Bank (BCB). There are no restrictions for the remittance of these monies abroad. However, some remittances of funds abroad are subject to 15% withholding tax and 10% CIDE or only 25% withholding tax, depending on the case.

C. FOREIGN TAX RELIEF

Unilateral relief is granted to corporate taxpayers by means of an ordinary foreign tax credit system.

Taxes paid abroad on income directly derived by the Brazilian resident taxpayer may be claimed as a credit against domestic tax liability. This foreign tax credit is limited to the amount of domestic tax that is imposed on the foreign-sourced income. For these purposes, the Brazilian tax liability includes both IRPJ and CSLL. The Brazilian tax administration holds the position that resident entities opting for the presumed profit regime of taxation (Lucro Presumido) and directly providing services abroad are not allowed to offset taxes paid abroad with taxes paid in Brazil. However, this exclusion does not apply if the service is provided within countries with which Brazil has signed a double tax treaty where the elimination of international double taxation is agreed upon through the use of the credit method, without restrictions connected to the taxation regimes opted by the taxpayer in Brazil.

An ordinary foreign tax credit is available in respect of the tax on profit distributions by foreign subsidiaries, if any, and the underlying tax paid by the distributing subsidiary in the jurisdiction where the foreign entity is located.

D. CORPORATE GROUPS

For tax purposes, consolidation of affiliated companies is not allowed. Losses can only be offset against profits of the same company. However, Law 12.973/2014 introduced a special treatment applicable until 2022 where positive and negative results (excluding foreign exchange results) by foreign entities controlled by Brazilian legal entities may be consolidated for purposes of application of the Brazilian CFC rules, subject to certain conditions.

E. RELATED PARTY TRANSACTIONS

Since 1997 Brazil has transfer pricing rules in place to prevent undue allocation of income in international transactions between related parties. The system adopted is one of determining the maximum amounts of deductible expenses, and the minimum amount of taxable income, for Brazilian companies engaged in transactions with related parties outside of Brazil or non-resident parties domiciled in a listed low-tax jurisdiction or under a listed favourable tax regime. Domestic transactions are not subject to transfer pricing regulations as they are governed by other anti-avoidance rules.

As opposed to other countries, where the arm's length principle and comparable prices are the rule, the Brazilian rules take another direction by basically establishing fixed formulas to determine the accepted transfer price. Although Brazil does not completely ignore comparable prices or the arm's length principle, it does limit its application by setting accepted standards for their application.

Brazil established a transfer pricing system for imports with affiliated companies of goods, services and rights acquired abroad. The prices are based on three methods: Comparative Independent Price (PIC), Resale Price Less Profit (PRL), or Production Cost Plus Profit (CPL) and Commodities Price Method (PCI). The same system applies to exports to non-resident related parties, with the following methods: Export Revenues Method - PVEx, Country Destiny Price of exports revenue Method - PVA and PW, Cost Acquisition or Manufacture plus Tax and Profit - CAP also known as Method of Price Under Quotation on Export ("PECEX"), which is briefly defined as the average amounts of the quotation of assets or rights subject to public prices in internationally recognised commodities and future exchanges.

Since the end of 2012, Brazil has been changing some of the methods applicable to Transfer Pricing on imports and also creating additional methods. Basically, PRL presumed profit margin was changed from 60% to 40%, 30% and 20% depending on the business sector in which companies operate. According to the Federal Law 12.715/2012, two new methods were established, one applicable to imports and other applicable to exports. In accordance with the method applied, the price is defined as the average daily amount of assets or rights subject to public prices in internationally recognised commodities and future exchanges.

The taxpayer must disclose transfer pricing methods in its annual tax return and eventually prove that the corresponding costs, expenses and charges that exceed the elected transfer pricing method must be added back as taxable income and be subjected to the IRPJ and CSL.

Country-by-Country Reporting (CbCR)

Normative Instruction 1.681/2016 provides for the obligation of submitting CbCR by the ultimate holding of multinational groups which is a resident for tax purposes in Brazil and whose economic group has generated consolidated revenue exceeding BRL 2.26 billion or EUR 750 million in the tax year prior to the tax year of the report. Through the CbCR, the Brazilian tax authorities will have access to information aggregated by each jurisdiction in which the multinational group operates:

- consolidated revenues, segregating those obtained in transactions with related and unrelated parties;
- income or losses before income tax;
- income tax and, in the case of Brazil, also the amount of CSLL paid;

- retained earnings;
- capital stock;
- income tax due;
- number of employees, workers and other associates;
- tangible assets other than cash and cash equivalents.

In addition to this, the reporting entity shall identify each entity that is a member of the multinational group, its jurisdiction of residence for tax purposes, the place of incorporation (only when the tax residence does not correspond to the place of incorporation) and the nature of its main economic activities. Multinational companies that are obliged to submit CbCR must provide information from the economic group to the Brazilian tax authorities, who will exchange this information with the other countries under the Multilateral Agreement of Competent Authority Agreement on the Exchange of Country-by-Country Reports, which was signed on 21 October 2016.

F. WITHHOLDING TAX

Almost all remittances (except dividends) to companies or persons domiciled abroad are subject to withholding tax. Interest, royalties and services paid to non-residents are generally subject to a 15% withholding tax unless when the beneficiary is resident of a low-tax jurisdiction in which case the rate is 25%.

G. EXCHANGE CONTROL

The Central Bank allows the official exchange rate to float freely within periodically established bands but participation is restricted to authorised dealers. The bank intervenes when there are signs of speculative operations. There is an official tourist rate that ranges normally close to the commercial rate.

H. PERSONAL TAX

Brazilian resident individuals are taxable on their worldwide income, as well as gains on the disposal of worldwide assets and rights. An individual is resident in Brazil if he:

- Has an habitual residence in Brazil;
- Works for a Brazilian government department or agency outside Brazil;
- Enters Brazil under a permanent visa;
- Enters Brazil under a temporary visa to work and remains in Brazil for more than 184 days within a 12-month period.

All personal income in general is subject to tax at progressive rates from 0% (monthly taxable income not exceeding BRL 1,903.98) to 27.5% (monthly taxable income exceeding BRL 4,664.68). Payments are made monthly and a personal income tax return is filed annually. Capital gains that do not arise from financial investments are subject to income tax at 15%.

CAPITAL GAINS TAX

There is no capital gains tax in the British Virgin Islands.

BRANCH PROFITS TAX

There is no branch profits tax in the British Virgin Islands.

OTHER TAXES

HOTEL ACCOMMODATION TAX

Hotel Accommodation Tax is levied on all charges made to the person in respect of accommodation and all services rendered to the person by or on behalf of the proprietor. The tax base is the figure to which the tax rate is applied. The tax base is calculated by deducting the charges that are not associated with those made to the person in respect of accommodation, and all services rendered to the person by or on behalf of the proprietor from the gross amount collected for the month. The tax rate is 10%.

STAMP DUTY

Instruments to which stamp duty would typically apply include share transfers, charges over and transfers of real estate. The amount of stamp duty payable on a particular instrument will depend on the nature of the instrument.

CUSTOMS DUTY

Customs duties are levied on most goods imported into the British Virgin Islands at ad valorem rates, expressed as a percentage of the value of the goods. These rates range from 5% to 20%. Goods are valued at the open market price. Some categories of imports are exempt from customs duties, such as personal effects of returning residents and diplomatic personnel, specified drugs and medical equipment and aircraft servicing equipment and fuel, and certain raw materials for local manufactures.

REAL ESTATE TAX

The Property Tax Act establishes an annual tax on real property which is either, or a combination of, land tax and a building or house tax. British Virgin Islanders are liable for land tax at USD 10 for the first acre and at USD 3 for each additional acre.

Rates for expatriates are as follows: USD 50 on one half acre or less, USD 150 on more than one half acre but not exceeding one acre and USD 50 on each additional acre or part thereof exceeding one acre.

PAYROLL TAX

Payroll Tax is charged on actual remuneration paid, given or assessed by any employer or self-employed person, to every employee and deemed employee, plus any benefits derived by the employee, deemed employee or self-employed person as a result of his/her employment, whether paid in cash or kind. Payroll tax rates are as follows:

- The Class 1 employer and the class 1 self-employed person pay at a rate of 10% of the tax base.
- The Class 2 employer and the class 2 self-employed person pay at a rate of 14% of the tax base.

Effective 2007, employment income up to USD 10,000 is tax free.

SOCIAL SECURITY

Social security is deducted from all employment income to a maximum of USD 40,714 (insurable earnings) as follows:

- Private employees: 8.5% of insurable earnings (employer's contribution 4% and employee 4.5%);

British Virgin Islands

- Civil servants: 7.5% of insurable earnings (employer's contribution 3.5% and employee 4%);
- Self-employed persons: 8.5% of insurable earnings;
- Voluntary contributors: 7% of earnings by the Board.

NATIONAL HEALTH INSURANCE

Employers are required to from insurable income (wages or salary) contribution rate of 7.5% (employer 3.75% and employee 3.75%). The maximum amount on which NHI premiums will be assessed, is two times the upper wage limit for social security contributions, which presently equals USD 6,716.68 per month. Therefore the maximum amount payable by employees and employers would be USD 251.87 each.

The following annual fees are levied on BVI companies. The fees vary by authorised share capital and by type of license.

B. DETERMINATION OF TAXABLE INCOME

Not applicable.

C. FOREIGN TAX RELIEF

Not applicable.

D. CORPORATE GROUPS

Not applicable.

E. RELATED PARTY TRANSACTIONS

The British Virgin Islands do not have anti-avoidance legislation in force.

F. WITHHOLDING TAX

There is no withholding tax on interest, dividends or royalties paid by BVI companies. However the BVI (like other dependent territories) applies the European Union (EU) Savings Directive effective since 1 July 2005.

G. EXCHANGE CONTROL

Not applicable.

H. PERSONAL TAX

As income tax in the British Virgin Islands is zero rated, there is effectively no personal income tax in the British Virgin Islands.

Payroll tax is charged on every employer who carries on business on the British Virgin Islands in respect of:

- remuneration paid by him to every employee; and
- deemed remuneration paid by him to every deemed employee for services rendered by the employee or deemed employee wholly or mainly on the British Virgin Islands, whether or not the remuneration is paid on the British Virgin Islands. In addition, a self-employed person is liable to payroll tax on his deemed remuneration.

An employer may deduct and retain from the remuneration paid to an employee during any financial year 8% of the remuneration to cover the employer's payroll tax liability. However, no deduction may be made with respect to the first USD 10,000 of actual remuneration paid to an employee, deemed employee or self-employed person in any financial year.

A self-employed person is deemed to employ himself and to pay himself "deemed remuneration", which is the greater of his actual remuneration or his "notional remuneration". A self-employed person is an individual who carries on business, otherwise than as an employee, and benefits from income of the business, otherwise than by way of being paid actual remuneration.

I. TREATY AND NON-TREATY WITHHOLDING TAX RATES

The British Virgin Islands have concluded double tax treaties with Australia, Denmark, Finland, New-Zealand, Norway, Sweden and the United Kingdom. In addition, the BVI has entered into tax information exchange agreements with Canada, China, Japan and the United States and with 22 European countries including France, Germany, Ireland, the Netherlands and the United Kingdom.

A. TAXES PAYABLE

COMPANY TAX

Resident and non-resident companies are taxed on income accruing in or derived from Brunei as well as on foreign income received (actual or deemed) in Brunei. Remittance of foreign income (dividends, branch profits, services income) may be tax exempt when remitted by a resident company under certain conditions.

A company, whether incorporated locally or abroad, is considered to be resident in Brunei for tax purposes if the control and management of its business are exercised in Brunei. The control and management of a company are vested in its directors and a company is normally regarded as resident in Brunei if, among other things, its directors' meetings are held in Brunei.

A resident company is taxed on its worldwide income, whereas a non-resident company is taxed solely on income that has a source in Brunei or on profits from businesses in Brunei operated through a branch or permanent establishment.

The standard corporate tax rate for non-oil and gas related companies is 18.5% with effect from the 2015 year of assessment. The corporate tax rate for companies that are engaged in the exploration and production of oil and gas is 55%.

A partial tax exemption is given for the first BND 250,000 of chargeable income (CI). Under this scheme, 75% of the first BND 100,000 of CI is tax exempt and 50% of the next BND 150,000 of CI is tax exempt. Qualifying newly incorporated Bruneian companies may enjoy a separate tax exemption scheme for their first 3 consecutive years of assessment. This scheme allows qualifying new companies to enjoy a tax exemption on the first BND 100,000 of CI and on 50% on the next BND 150,000 of CI.

The tax year, referred to as the year of assessment (YA), runs from 1 January to 31 December of each year. Income for the YA is computed based on the income derived in the preceding calendar year (known as the basis year) from all sources. For businesses with a non-31 December accounting year-end, the Collector of Income Tax of Brunei (CIT) accepts the accounting year as the basis year instead of the calendar year. Under such circumstances, tax is assessed for each YA on the income for the accounting year preceding that YA.

A company is required to file an estimate of its CI along with the estimated tax payment within 3 months after the end of its financial year. The annual corporate income tax return must be filed along with payment of tax by 30th June of the YA. All completed returns will be accepted under self-assessment and any tax adjustments must be submitted separately to the tax authority.

Failure to file returns is an offence against the Income Tax Act. Upon conviction, offenders are liable to a fine of BND 10,000, and in default of payment, can be sentenced to imprisonment for up to 12 months.

Books of accounts including complete and accurate records of opening and closing inventories, purchases, sales, receipts, invoices and all other documents relating to the business are to be kept for 7 years from the YA the income relates to.

GOODS AND SERVICES TAX (GST)

There is no GST in Brunei.

STAMP DUTY

Stamp duties are levied at fixed or ad valorem rates on various business documents.

B. DETERMINATION OF TAXABLE INCOME

Brunei-incorporated companies are required to prepare their financial accounts according to International Financial Reporting Standards (IFRS) for Public Interest Entities and Brunei Darussalam Accounting Standards (BDAS) for Non-Public Interest Entities.

The accounting profits are adjusted in accordance with Brunei tax rules to arrive at the taxable income.

Companies whose financial accounts are prepared with non-Brunei dollar functional currency are required to furnish their tax computation in Brunei dollar. Expenses must be incurred wholly and exclusively for the production of income in order to be tax deductible unless specifically disallowed or restricted (e.g. non-commercial motor vehicles, entertainment, expenses of a capital nature).

INTEREST DEDUCTIONS

Interest expenses are tax deductible unless they are incurred in respect of non-taxable income or are regarded to be of a capital nature. There are no thin capitalisation rules in Brunei.

STOCK / INVENTORY

There are no prescribed valuation methodologies under domestic income tax law. As such, the CIT will generally accept the valuation methodology under the IFRS and BDAS.

CAPITAL GAINS AND LOSSES

There is no capital gains tax in Brunei. Gains of a capital nature are not subject to income tax. Similarly, expenses of a capital nature are not deductible for income tax purposes. The tax authority will look at the facts and circumstances of the transaction to determine whether the gain is capital in nature or a trading gain which is subject to income tax.

DIVIDENDS

Dividends accrued in, derived from or received in Brunei by a corporation are included in taxable income. However, dividends received from a corporation taxable in Brunei are exempt from tax.

Dividends received in Brunei from the United Kingdom or from Commonwealth countries are grossed up in tax computations, and credit is claimed against the Brunei tax liability for tax suffered either under the double tax treaty with the United Kingdom or the provision for Commonwealth tax relief.

CAPITAL ALLOWANCE

Capital allowances, instead of accounting depreciation, are granted for plant and machinery acquired and used in trade or business. Most plant and machinery qualify for three-year straight line tax depreciation. Low cost items (costing not more than BND 2,000 per item) may be tax depreciated in full, subject to a total claim of BND 30,000 for each YA. Automation equipment qualifies for 100% tax depreciation in the year of acquisition.

Capital expenditure incurred for the construction or acquisition of an industrial building qualifies for the Industrial Building Allowance (IBA) if the building is used for qualifying purposes.

Effective from YA 2015, 150% capital allowance is given to companies in the manufacturing sector that have their plant and machinery installed from 1 January 2014 to 31 December 2019.

Unutilised capital allowances can be carried forward indefinitely but must be set off against income from the same trade.

TAX LOSSES

Losses that are incurred by a company can be carried forward for a maximum of 6 years and set off against future income.

TAX INCENTIVES

Full tax exemption is granted for pioneer status companies between 5 to 20 years, dependant on certain criteria being met.

Pioneer Status Companies
Exempt from Corporate Income Tax
Exempt from import duties on machinery
Exempt from import duties on raw materials
Tax exemption for up to 11 years
Expansion of Established Enterprise
Exempt from Corporate Income Tax
Minimum capital expenditure of BND 500,000
Additional tax exemption for up to 9 years
Foreign Loans for Productive Equipment
Exemption from withholding tax for interest paid
Minimum amount BND 200,000

Companies dealing with exports can choose to pay tax at a fixed rate of 1% on approved exports, in lieu of corporate tax. The total turnover of the exporter is treated as exports if local sales do not exceed 20% of total turnover.

C. FOREIGN TAX RELIEF

Brunei has signed Avoidance of Double Taxation Agreements (DTA) with 18 countries. Brunei will grant a tax credit for foreign tax suffered in the treaty country. The tax credit granted is limited to the lower of the foreign tax suffered and the Brunei tax payable on that income.

D. CORPORATE GROUPS

Group taxation is not permitted. The grouping of corporations has no tax implications as the tax laws treat each corporation in isolation.

E. RELATED PARTY TRANSACTIONS

Related party transactions have to satisfy the arm's length principle.

F. WITHHOLDING TAX

Withholding tax will arise if the following payments are made and such expenses are borne by a person resident in Brunei or having a permanent establishment in Brunei or which are deductible against any income accruing in or derived from Brunei:

	Nature of payment	Withholding tax rate
1.	Interest, commission, fee or other payment in connection with any loan or indebtedness	2.5%
2.	Royalties, lump sum payments or otherwise for the use of movable properties	10%
3.	Payment for the use of or the right to use scientific, technical, industrial or commercial knowledge or information	10%
4.	Payment for rendering assistance or services in connection with the application or use of scientific, technical, industrial or commercial knowledge or information	10%
5.	Payment for the management or assistance in the management of any business	10%

6.	Rent or other payments for the use of movable property	10%
7.	Non-resident directors' remuneration	10%

Branch profits being remitted and payment of dividends to non-resident are not subject to withholding tax.

G. EXCHANGE CONTROLS

Since 1967, the local currency has been at par and interchangeable with the Singapore dollar. There are no restrictions on currency movements or exchange controls; however, in line with international practice to deter money laundering, money brought in and out of the Brunei exceeding the equivalent of BND 15,000 must be declared.

H. PERSONAL TAXATION

There is no personal tax on individuals in Brunei (residents and non-residents).

There are no social security taxes in Brunei. However, all citizens and permanent residents of Brunei must contribute 5% of their salary to a State managed provident fund, Tabung Amanah Perkerja (TAP). The employer will have to also contribute the same amount for its employees to the provident fund.

In addition to the above, all citizens and permanent residents of Brunei must also contribute 3.5% of their salary to a Supplemental Contributory Pension Scheme (SCP). The employer will have to also contribute the same amount (subject to a minimum of BND 17.50) for its employees to the Scheme. However, both the employer's and employee's monthly contributions are capped up to a salary of BND 2,800 per month.

I. TREATY WITHHOLDING TAX RATES

The chart shows the withholding tax rates applicable under the tax treaties that are currently in force. Brunei adopts a refund method on DTA reliefs to ensure that the non-resident are entitled to the treaty benefits. The domestic withholding tax will apply when the payments are made to non-resident. The non-resident may claim treaty benefit for reasons such as having no Permanent Establishment in Brunei.

Brunei does not levy any withholding taxes on dividend payments.

KEY TAX POINTS

- Corporate Income tax in Bulgaria is a 10% flat rate on the taxable profit.
- The standard VAT rate is 20%. There is a reduced rate of 9% for hotel accommodation services.
- Withholding tax is due on dividends, interest, royalties and various other types of income, when distributed to a non-resident entity.
- Bulgarian tax residents are taxed on their worldwide income. Non-residents are taxed only on their Bulgarian-sourced income.
- An inheritance received by the surviving spouse, children and their descendants is exempt. Various rates of inheritance tax apply to other relatives.

A. TAXES PAYABLE

COMPANY TAX

Corporate income tax in Bulgaria is levied at a 10% flat rate on taxable profits. Taxable entities are:

- Companies and partnerships established under Bulgarian law; and,
- Permanent establishments of non-resident entities in Bulgaria.

The taxable profit is the financial result adjusted for tax purposes. Accounting and reporting rules usually apply IFRS or use local Bulgarian GAAP (for small and medium-sized enterprises). The annual corporate tax return has to be submitted by 31 March of the following year. The tax year is the calendar year. The corporate tax also has to be paid by 31 March. Quarterly or monthly advance corporate tax instalments are due during the year.

Possibility to file a corrective annual corporate income tax return

Taxpayers are able to file a one-off corrective corporate income tax return in case of errors identified after 31 March of the following year and the submission of the regular corporate income tax return. The corrective return may be filed by 30 September of the following year.

Mandatory electronic submission of tax returns

As of 1 January 2018, taxpayers are obliged to submit all returns under the Corporate Income Tax Act electronically.

ONE-OFF TAX ON CERTAIN EXPENSES

Certain expenses paid to employees, or on behalf of employees, are subject to a one-off tax. Expenses subject to the one-off tax are "representative" expenses; social expenses provided in-kind to the employees (e.g. fringe benefits) except for food vouchers and voluntary insurance contributions (social, health and life insurance) up to BGN 60 each per employee per month; expenses related to personal use of company assets. The one-off tax rate is 10% on the above expenses. Both the respective expense and the one-off tax applicable to it are deductible for corporate income tax purposes. The taxes are due by 31 March of the following year.

CAPITAL GAINS TAX

Capital gains of companies are treated as ordinary trading income and are taxed at the corporate tax rate of 10%.

BRANCH PROFITS TAX

Branch offices of foreign registered companies are taxed as domestic entities.

There is no branch remittance tax in Bulgaria.

VALUE ADDED TAX (VAT)

The Bulgarian VAT legislation is based on the EU VAT rules and Directive 2006/112/ EC. The VAT rates are:

- 20% for domestic supplies, intra-community acquisitions and importation from non-EU countries; and,
- 9% for hotel accommodation services.

Exemptions:

- With the right to deduct input VAT - intra-community supplies, export to non-EU countries, international transport of goods and passengers, certain supplies related to international transport, sale of duty free goods under certain conditions, certain transactions related to international trade, specific supplies under international treaties, etc.
- No right to deduct input VAT - transfer or rental of land or rights over land (except for building land and land adjacent to new buildings), the transfer of old buildings or parts thereof, rental for residential purposes to individuals (an option to tax these transactions is available); financial and insurance services; gambling; certain services related to health, education, religion, culture, etc.; other specific supplies (e.g. importation of certain goods and up to a certain limit).

VAT Registration:

Entities are obliged to register for Bulgarian VAT purposes if they have performed:

- Transactions with a place of supply in Bulgaria for which VAT should be charged by the supplier exceeding BGN 50,000 (approximately EUR 25,600) for the last 12 months;
- Intra-community acquisitions exceeding BGN 20,000 (approximately EUR 10,200) during the calendar year; or,
- Distance sales in Bulgaria exceeding BGN 70,000 (approximately EUR 35,800) during the calendar year; or,
- Businesses that are providing telecommunications, broadcasting and electronic services have to register for local VAT purposes if their customers are established in Bulgaria, subject to certain conditions. This is in accordance with the provisions of Directive 2008/8/EC, which establishes the rules concerning the place of supply of telecommunications, broadcasting and electronic services rendered to non-taxable persons within the EU.

Entities established in an EU Member State performing supply of goods with installation in Bulgaria to customers non-registered for VAT purposes are obliged to register irrespective of their taxable turnover. Foreign entities which receive services with a place of supply in Bulgaria for which the recipient has to self-charge Bulgarian VAT are also obliged to register irrespective of their taxable turnover. Any entity may apply for voluntary VAT registration. However, if voluntarily registered, such entity will not be able to deregister for two years following the year of registration.

VAT Returns and payment:

Monthly VAT returns are filed and the tax is due by the 14th of the following month. The tax period is a calendar month. European sales list (VIES) returns have to be filed monthly by the same deadline if intra-community supplies of goods or certain services have been performed during the respective month.

VAT Refund:

VAT can be refunded through a VAT return within:

- 2 months (period for carry forward and offsetting of input VAT against output VAT) and 30 days of filing the last VAT return (period for effective refund); or,
- 30 days of filing the VAT return for entities which have performed certain zero rated supplies exceeding 30% of the total turnover from taxable supplies for the last 12 months.

An investor in a large investment project which has received authorisation by the Ministry of Finance can receive a refund within 30 days. The investor can also apply reverse charge for VAT on import of goods (without effective cash outflow). EU based foreign entities which are not registered and established for VAT purposes in Bulgaria can receive a refund of the local input VAT incurred for goods and services used for supplies with a place of supply outside Bulgaria. A specific procedure with the authorities of the EU Member State of establishment has to be followed. Non-EU based entities may be entitled to a refund on a reciprocal basis (i.e. if their country of tax residence provides the right to a VAT refund to Bulgarian entities).

Pro-rata VAT deduction in specific cases:

VAT-registered persons will be obliged to claim a pro-rata VAT credit for the acquisition of long-term assets, which will be used both for business and personal use. A VAT credit can be claimed only for the part used for economic activities. The pro-rata should be determined based on an allocation key, which guarantees the most precise calculation of the VAT which can be deducted.

The pro-rata deduction above is different from the existing proportional (partial) deduction. The latter applies when the acquired goods or services are used both for taxable and exempt services. For example, if the part of the long-term asset used for the economic activity of the entity is utilised both for taxable and exempt supplies, the taxable person will be entitled to claim a pro-rata VAT deduction, as well as a proportional (partial) VAT deduction.

There is a new definition of long-term assets for VAT purposes. It includes real estate, vehicles and other goods and services, which are or would have been long-term assets under the Corporate Income Tax Act with a value of BGN 5,000 (EUR 2,550) or greater.

Taxable persons will be able to claim a pro-rata VAT credit for the acquisition of goods and services, which are not or would not have been long-term assets, if these goods and services are used partially for personal needs or VAT exempt supplies. In this case, the taxable person could claim a VAT credit only for the part used for taxable supplies. This part should be determined based on a reasonable method. If the taxable persons decide to use this option, they will not have to observe the rules for proportional (partial) deduction in respect of the same goods and services, when these are also used for exempt supplies.

LOCAL TAXES

REAL ESTATE TAX

Real estate tax is levied between 0.01% and 0.45% annually on the higher of the gross book value and the tax value of the immovable property (on the tax value for residential property). The exact rate is determined by the municipality in which the real estate is situated.

TRANSFER TAX

Transfer tax is levied between 0.1% and 3% on the higher of the sales price and the tax value of the transferred real estate/the insurance value of cars. The exact rate is determined by each municipality.

VEHICLE TAX

Vehicle tax is levied depending on the type and characteristics of the vehicle. It applies to cars, ships and airplanes. The tax rate is determined by each municipality within the ranges stipulated in the law.

DONATION TAX

Donation tax is levied between 3.3% and 6.6% on the value of the donation. The exact rate is determined by each municipality. Lower rates and exemptions apply to donations between relatives.

INHERITANCE TAX

An inheritance received by a surviving spouse, their children and their descendants are exempt. The tax is between 0.4% and 0.8% on an inheritance exceeding BGN 250,000 (approximately EUR 128,000) in favor of brothers, sisters and their descendants (between 3.3% and 6.6% for other heirs). The exact rate is determined by each municipality.

TOURIST TAX

Tourist tax is levied between BGN 0.2 and 3 (approximately EUR 0.1 and 1.5) per night. The exact rate is determined by the municipality in which the accommodation facilities are located.

B. DETERMINATION OF TAXABLE INCOME

Profits include all income and capital gains. The taxable basis is the accounting profit adjusted for prescribed items. Broadly, expenses incurred wholly and exclusively for business purposes are deductible. The accounting profit is adjusted in accordance with the rules of the corporate income tax legislation, the most important of which are listed below.

DEPRECIATION

For tax purposes, the straight-line method is normally adopted. Assets purchased during the year should have the depreciation time apportioned.

Asset	Annual rate of depreciation (%)
Buildings, industrial facilities, communication devices and lines, electricity grid	4
Machinery, fittings and manufacturing equipment	30/50*
Vehicles, excluding automobiles; roads and airplane runways	10
Computers, software and rights of using software	50
Automobiles	25
Assets with limited term of use under contract or under legal obligations	100/years of use; not more than 33 1/3
All other depreciative assets	15

* Possibility to be 50% when new investment is made and the equipment is brand new.

INVENTORY

Inventory is generally valued at the lower of cost or market value. Cost may be determined on the basis of FIFO or average cost method.

CAPITAL GAINS AND LOSSES

In general, capital gains and losses are included in the trading income of companies, and in normal income for individuals, and taxed accordingly with the normal rates of corporate or personal income tax.

DIVIDENDS

Subject to 5% withholding tax when distributed to individuals, resident non-profit entities and non-residents (except for EU/EEA entities). Dividends distributed to resident companies are not included in their taxable income except for dividends distributed by:

- Special purpose investment companies; and,
- Non-EU/EEA foreign entities.

INTEREST DEDUCTIONS

Interest paid by a company is treated as an ordinary business expense unless it falls under the provision of thin capitalisation. Under the thin capitalisation rules, if the debt-to-equity ratio of the company exceeds 3:1 (some of) the interest expense may not be tax deductible in the current year.

A new interest limitation rule in the Bulgarian Corporate Income Tax Act came into force as of 1 January 2019. If the threshold of EUR 3 million borrowing costs per year is reached, the excess interest costs will be deductible up to 30% of the taxpayer's EBITDA.

If the borrowing costs are under EUR 3 million per year, then a modified version of the existing thin capitalisation regime will be applied in parallel to the new interest limitation rules where the conditions for that are fulfilled. The existing 5-year limitation for carry forward of the non-deductible interest expenses under the thin capitalisation rule has been abolished.

LOSSES

Corporate tax losses can be carried forward over the next five consecutive years. Losses cannot be carried back against profits of previous years.

FOREIGN SOURCED INCOME

The Bulgarian tax authorities levy taxes on resident companies on all profits arising from foreign sources in the same way as income from local sources.

INCENTIVES - TAX HOLIDAY

The amount of the annual corporate income tax due by entities on their profits from manufacturing, including toll manufacturing, may be partly or fully reduced. The application of the tax holiday is subject to certain limitations and conditions, including EU state aid restrictions.

EXEMPTIONS FROM CORPORATE TAX

Special purpose investment companies, collective investment schemes authorised for public offering in Bulgaria and national investment funds are not subject to corporate income tax.

C. FOREIGN TAX RELIEF

Bulgaria has some 70 international treaties for avoiding double taxation (see table below and comments in the "Withholding Tax" section below). Foreigners may also be exempt from social security contributions in Bulgaria or the contributions they make can be recognised in their home country under an applicable bilateral or multilateral social security agreement.

D. CORPORATE GROUPS

There is no group taxation for corporate income tax or for VAT purposes in Bulgaria.

E. RELATED PARTY TRANSACTIONS AND TRANSFER PRICING RULES

Although Bulgarian legislation requires entities to prove the arm's length principle in related party transactions, there is no Act with legislative power that obliges the multinational entities to publish Local and Master Files, unless specifically required by the tax authorities. The OECD Transfer Pricing Guidelines are generally followed in such cases. However, Country-by-Country reporting is mandatory.

The following are subject to TP legislation, according to the National Revenue Agency (the main tax authorities in Bulgaria):

- Multinational Entities, whose ultimate parent entity is a Bulgarian resident, and when total consolidated revenues exceed BGN 100 million for the tax year preceding the reporting tax year; and
- Multinational Entities, whose ultimate parent entity is not a Bulgarian resident, and when total consolidated revenues exceed EUR 750 million for the tax year preceding the reporting tax year.

The Bulgarian transfer pricing rules require that taxpayers apply arm's length prices in their related party transactions. Bulgarian transfer pricing rules envisage five methods for determining arm's length prices:

- The Resale Minus Method;
- The Comparable Uncontrolled Price Method;
- The Cost Plus Method;
- The Transactional Net Margin Method; and,
- The Profit Split Method.

A taxpayer is obliged to prove the arm's length character of its related party transactions during a tax audit by applying one of the above methods. A transfer pricing manual released by the Bulgarian Revenue Administration in February 2010 mentions the items that would appear appropriate to be included in the documentation. The manual contains a set of other useful guidelines relating to different transfer pricing topics. For instance, with respect to intra-group services, the manual suggests specific profit mark-up ranges that have proved customary for Bulgaria.

F. WITHHOLDING TAX

Withholding tax is due on the following types of income when distributed to a non-resident entity:

- Dividends and liquidation quotas;
- Interest, royalties, franchising and factoring fees; exemptions apply to interest on bonds issued by EU/EEA entities, traded on regulated markets, and loan interests for loans provided by EU/EEA entities to local entities, where the EU/EEA entity has issued bonds in order to provide the loan, and these bonds are traded on a EU/EEA regulated market;
- Technical (including consultancy) and management services fees;
- Income from hiring out movable or immovable property;
- Capital gains from transfer of real estate;
- Capital gains from disposal of financial assets issued by resident entities or the State and municipalities (exemption for capital gains from disposal of shares on a regulated Bulgarian/EU/EEA market);
- Penalty or damages payments (except for insurance compensation) distributed to entities tax resident in low tax jurisdictions.

Withholding Tax Rates

- 5% on the gross amount of dividends and liquidation quotas (0% for distributions to EU/EEA entities);
- 0% on interest and royalties distributed to related party legal entities resident in the EU (subject to certain conditions);
- 10% on the gross amount for all other taxable income.

The withholding tax rates may be reduced under an applicable double tax treaty.

Refund Opportunities

Entities resident in the EU/EEA may declare tax deductible expenses and claim a corresponding refund of the withholding tax paid on a gross basis. The claim is annual and should be filed by 31 December of the following year.

Payment

The tax should be withheld by the resident payer and remitted to the budget within one month following the quarter of accrual of the income. In case of capital gains, it is their recipient which should remit the withholding tax due within the term indicated above.

Tax Treaty Application

If available, double tax treaty relief may be applied by the income recipient directly if the income accrued for the calendar year does not exceed BGN 500,000 (approximately EUR 255,000). In all other cases a non-resident can benefit from tax treaty relief if an advance clearance is obtained from the Bulgarian tax authorities under a specific procedure.

G. EXCHANGE CONTROLS AND LIMITATIONS OF PAYMENTS IN CASH

There are no exchange controls in Bulgaria. The limit for cash payments is BGN 10,000.

H. PERSONAL TAX

The personal income tax rate is a flat rate of 10% on the taxable income for individuals and 15% for the taxable income of sole traders. In general, individuals are considered Bulgarian tax residents if:

- They have stayed in Bulgaria for more than 183 days in any 12-month period;
- The center of their vital interests is in Bulgaria (determined in view of their personal and economic ties to the country, e.g. factors like permanent address in Bulgaria, family, employment, possession of property, etc.).

Generally, taxable income includes monetary income, as well as benefits received in-kind (except for non-taxable items and "in-kind social expenses"). Bulgarian tax residents are taxed on their worldwide income, while non-residents are taxed only on their Bulgarian-sourced income.

EXEMPT INCOME

Certain types of income are exempt from taxation, including capital gains from the disposal of shares on a regulated Bulgarian/EU/EEA market, income from disposal of certain real estate, etc.

DEDUCTIONS

Tax deductions apply in some cases, including:

- Mandatory social security and health insurance contributions;
- Statutory deductions for freelancers, for rental income, etc.;
- Voluntary personal insurance up to certain limits;
- Certain donations and other specific situations (e.g. disabilities).

LUMP-SUM TAXATION

Lump sum taxation is applicable to certain sole traders with annual turnover less than BGN 50,000 (approximately EUR 25,000).

FILING PERSONAL TAX RETURNS

The annual personal income tax return has to be submitted by 30 April of the following year (the tax year coincides with the calendar year). The tax has to be paid by the same deadline. A 5% reduction of the outstanding tax can be applied if:

- The annual tax return is filed electronically and the tax is paid before 31 January of the following year; and,
- The taxpayer currently has no outstanding liabilities towards the Budget.

Individuals who fulfil the above requirements may utilise the 5% discount from their outstanding tax liability, but no more than BGN 500 (EUR 256). Individuals are generally not obliged to file annual tax returns if they have received only employment income for which the full tax due has been withheld by the employer on a 'pay as you earn' basis, non-taxable income and/or income subject to one-off tax.

Individuals will be allowed to file a corrective tax return once until 30 September of the following year if they find an error in their submitted annual tax return. Certain types of foreign-sourced income under Art. 38 of the PITA (e.g. dividends, interest, etc.), which was previously subject to quarterly reporting and taxation by Bulgarian tax residents is now reported and taxed with the individual's annual Bulgarian tax return for the respective year.

Successors will be able to file annual tax returns for the income of deceased individuals. If one of the successors submits a tax return, the others are exempted from this obligation.

B

ONE-OFF TAXATION OF CERTAIN INCOME

One-off tax is due on income received by non-resident individuals from:

- Dividends and liquidation quotas distributed by a Bulgarian resident company;
- Management and technical services fees;
- Interest, royalties, franchising and factoring fees;
- Income from hiring out movable and immovable property;
- Capital gains from disposal of real estate and financial assets; and,
- Certain other income.

One-off tax is due on dividends and liquidation quotas distributed to a Bulgarian resident by a Bulgarian or by a non-resident entity. EU resident individuals may declare deductible expenses and claim a corresponding refund of the one-off tax paid on a gross basis under certain conditions.

ONE-OFF TAX RATES

- 0% for capital gains from the disposal of shares on a regulated Bulgarian/EU/EEA market by EU/EEA residents;
- 5% for dividends and liquidation quotas;
- 7% for income from voluntary life insurance received after the termination of the insurance policy (if the policy term is more than 15 years);
- Interest income from all types of bank accounts is taxed without exceptions at 8%;
- 10% for all other income.

The one-off tax rates may be reduced under an applicable double tax treaty.

SOCIAL SECURITY AND HEALTH INSURANCE MANDATORY INSURANCE CONTRIBUTIONS

Between 32.7% and 33.4% paid by both the employer and the employee according to 55:45 ratio. This includes:

- 14.8% - pension fund;
- 5% - universal pension fund;
- 0.4% - 1.1% - occupational accident and professional disease fund (rate depending on the field of activity);
- 3.5% - general illness and maternity fund;
- 1% - unemployment fund; and,
- 8% - health insurance fund.

The social security base is the gross remuneration less statutory deductions in some cases and is capped at BGN 3,000 (approximately EUR 1,500) monthly.

KEY TAX POINTS

- Cameroon operates a declarative tax system in which the taxpayer declares and pays monthly tax collections to the taxation authorities. False declarations are punishable by penalties and interest on late payments.
- In Cameroon, there are two types of income taxes:
 - Income tax on individuals;
 - Income tax on entities.
- There is a tax on turnover, borne by the final consumer, known as the value added tax.

A. TAXES PAYABLE

COMPANY TAX

Income tax in Cameroon is imposed on undertakings deemed to be operating in Cameroon, which are the following:

- Undertakings headquartered in Cameroon or with an effective management office in Cameroon;
- Undertakings that have a permanent establishment in Cameroon;
- Undertakings that have a dependent representative in Cameroon.

The profits of undertakings that do not fulfil the conditions referred to above are taxed in Cameroon if they carry out activities that form a full business cycle in Cameroon.

Tax Rates

The regular corporate income tax rate is 30% (plus a 10% additional tax council). For companies operating under the real earnings tax regime, the minimum tax payable is 2% (plus 10% additional council tax) of monthly gross sales (turnover). The minimum tax payable is higher for companies under the simplified tax regime (3.3% for non-importing traders, and 5.5% for producers, service providers and importation traders). The minimum tax is creditable against corporate tax due for the current financial year.

Introduction of the obligation for investors to use raw materials produced in an economic disaster area in order to benefit from tax incentives granted for the rehabilitation of the said area. Introduction of a tax credit of 30% for enterprises that invest in the reconstruction of their production facilities in an economic disaster area. The tax credit is capped at XAF 100 million and chargeable to taxable income for the three years following the year of investment, by taxpayers approved by the tax authorities. (Finance Law 2019).

The 2018 Finance law enshrines the option, already provided by the 2017 Finance Law Circular, between the income tax instalment on turnover and that on the gross margin (article 21 of the CGTC). The tax rate on gross margin being 14% while the rates on turnover remain the same as above.

CAPITAL GAINS TAX

Capital gains include gains on the sale of real estate, corporate shares and business assets.

With respect to the Finance law 2019, there is a reduction of the withholding tax due on capital gains earned on the disposal of real property from 10% to 5%.

BRANCH PROFITS TAX

Profits realised in Cameroon by branches of foreign companies are presumed to be distributed and are consequently subject to a branch withholding tax of 16.5% on after-tax income. This rate is subject to reduction by a double tax treaty.

In the 2019 Finance law, a special rate of 2% is payable on remunerations paid by Cameroonian shipping companies to foreign companies for vessel rentals and charter, space rentals in foreign vessels, as well as commissions paid to foreign port agents.

SPECIAL INCOME TAX (SIT)

Introduction of a super reduced rate of Special Income Tax (SIT) of 2% applicable on remunerations paid by Cameroonian shipping companies to foreign companies for vessel rentals and charter, space rentals in foreign vessels, as well as commissions paid to foreign port agents. (Finance Law 2019).

EXPORT TAX

Exports are no longer zero-rated as before though certain essential goods are still exempt.

The imposition of export duties at the rate of 2% on cash crops (cotton, rubber, palm oil, banana, beans and pineapple) previously excluded from this levy by the 2017 Finance law. The imposition of export duties at the rate of 5% on the following local products: Gum arabic, rice, palm oil, chilli, kola nut, millet, sorghum, pepper, vegetable (Gnetum Africanum / Eru Ekok). The taxation of timber exported in logs at the rate of 30% of the taxable value of each gasoline and no longer at the rate of 20% of the FOB value of each gasoline.

There is an imposition on the exit duties of the worked and semi-worked timber of tariff headings 44.06, 44.07 and 44.09 at the rate of 5.65% of the FOB value of their volume. Also, an imposition of the import of arms on excise duties except for the one imposed by the general government as well as customs, software, licenses, royalties regardless of the means of entry into Cameroon.

There is however an abolition of customs duties at the reduced rate of 5% on imports of capital goods intended for investment.

SALES TAX / VALUE ADDED TAX (VAT)

The effective standard VAT rate is 19.25% (a 17.25% VAT and 10% surcharge). All corporate businesses with taxable turnover are required to register. Non-resident VAT payers are required to appoint a solvent resident representative to be jointly responsible for the payment of VAT and the discharge of other VAT obligations.

VAT returns (and any tax payable) are due by the 15th of each month. Late payment incurs interest penalties at a rate of 1.5% per month up to a maximum of 50% of the principal liability. Fines are levied for various omissions in discharging VAT obligations. For taxable transactions of at least XAF 100,000, the right to deduction may be authorised only where they have been carried out through bank transfers.

There is a list of basic necessities that are exempted from VAT in the general tax code, also the following are exempted from VAT: real estate transactions of all kinds realised by non-professionals, consumption of water and electricity by households when these do not exceed 20 m³ per month for water and 220kw per month for electricity.

It should be noted that only companies in the actual regime with a turnover equal to or above XAF 50 million are eligible for invoicing VAT in Cameroon.

LOCAL TAXES

No local taxes are payable in respect of income of companies.

OTHER TAXES

Business license tax

New enterprises shall be exempt from the payment of the business licence tax during the first year of operation. After this first year the enterprises shall be liable to a business license tax. The business licence tax is paid annually and shall be calculated by applying a rate to the turnover of the previous financial year-ended as follows:

- 0.159% on the turnover of large companies (those under the jurisdiction of the large taxpayers unit), for a minimum contribution of XAF 5 million and a maximum contribution of XAF 2.5 billion.
- 0.283% on the turnover of medium-sized companies (those under the jurisdiction of the Medium Size Taxpayers Centre, Specialised Tax Centre, and Specialised Tax Centre for Liberal Professions and Real Estate), for a minimum contribution of XAF 141,500 and a maximum contribution of XAF 4.5 million.
- 0.494% on the turnover of small-sized companies (those under the jurisdiction of the divisional tax centres), for a minimum contribution of XAF 50,000 and a maximum contribution of XAF 140,000.

FRINGE BENEFITS TAX (FBT)

Fringe benefits are considered to be a part of the salary paid to an employee: they are subject to social security and personal income taxes. Taxable fringe benefits are evaluated on the basis of their market value and there is a maximum amount that can be taxed.

REGISTRATION DUTY

Registration duty on rent contract for commercial use is 10% of annual rent and 5% of annual rent when it is for residence use. Government Contracts are 4% of the contract amount.

REAL ESTATE WITHHOLDING TAX

Withholding tax on rent is 15% of annual rent retained and paid by the tenant.

B. DETERMINATION OF TAXABLE INCOME

General - Taxable income is based on financial statements prepared according to generally accepted accounting principles and the OHADA (organisation for the harmonisation of business law in French-speaking Africa) standard statements.

Business expenses are generally deductible unless specifically excluded by law or by the provisions of an international convention. Expenses that are not deductible include the following:

- Head office overhead, research costs and technical, financial and administrative assistance fees paid to residents or non-residents that exceed any of the following:
 - 5% of taxable profits for ordinary law companies before their deduction;
 - 2.5% of turnover for public works projects;
 - 7.5% of turnover for design and engineering services.
- Royalties from patents, brands, models or designs paid to a non-CEMAC corporation participating directly or indirectly in the management of, or owning shares in, the Cameroonian corporation are deductible up to an overall limit of 2.5% of taxable income before the deduction of the expenses.
- Rent expense for movable equipment paid to a shareholder that manages the company in fact or by right and holds, directly or indirectly, more than 10% of the capital.
- Losses related to bad debts that do not comply with the enforcement measures provided for in the OHADA Uniform Act relating to the organisation of simplified procedures for collection and enforcement.
- Liberalities, gifts and subsidies exceeding 0.5% of the turnover of research, philanthropic, development, educational, sports, scientific, social and family institutions or bodies.
- Gifts and subsidies exceeding 5% of turnover of clubs participating in official national competitions and the bodies in charge of organizing these competitions.
- Interest paid to shareholders in excess of the central bank annual rate plus two points. Under the 2014 Financial Law, the deductibility of interest paid to shareholders owning directly or indirectly at least 25% of the capital or voting rights of the company is subject to the following two cumulative conditions:
 - Interest paid may not exceed one and one-half of the amount of real capital for all shareholders;
 - Interest paid to such affiliates may not exceed 25% of the income before income tax and deduction of such interest and depreciation.
- Commissions and brokerage fees for services on behalf of companies located in Cameroon that exceed 5% of purchased imports and sales of exports.
- Remuneration granted to wage earners that are excessive in comparison to the services rendered and that do not correspond to effective work and conventional norms.
- Amounts set aside for self-insurance.
- Certain specific charges (such as contributions other than those for retirement paid to a foreign social security organisation, which are deductible up to a limit of 15%, and premium insurance paid to companies located in Cameroon for employees' retirement indemnities), gifts, subsidies and penalties (to some extent).
- Expenses paid in cash of XAF 500,000 or more. The XAF 500,000 limit is assessed with respect to the total amount of specific expenses recorded in the expenditures account. Accordingly, splitting an expense worth XAF 500,000 into two equal parts of XAF 250,000 each and paying them in cash does not result in the deductibility of the expenses. Under the 2014 Financial Law, all reimbursements of loan advances to shareholders paid in cash are treated as dividends and are accordingly subject to dividend withholding tax.

- Expenses paid to local suppliers without reference to a Cameroonian tax identification number and without an invoice that complies with the standard requirements for the deductibility of expenses.
- Remuneration paid to liberal professionals in violation of the regulations governing their respective professions.
- Expenses for services and certain purchases paid to natural persons or non-resident legal entities established in territories or states considered to be tax havens.
- Disbursements from tax havens invoiced to local companies by other companies located in or outside tax havens.
- Losses resulting from irregularities, misappropriation or fraud within an enterprise where the irregularities, misappropriation or fraud is directly or indirectly attributable to the directors, shareholders or partners.

CAPITAL ALLOWANCES

Land and intangible assets, such as goodwill, are not depreciable for tax purposes. Other fixed assets may be depreciated using the straight-line method at rates specified by the tax law. Small equipment and other items that have a value not exceeding XAF 500,000 without tax are directly accounted for as charges and considered deductible expenses.

DEPRECIATION

The Cameroon General Tax code specifies allowable depreciation rates: any deviation is disallowed for tax purposes.

STOCK / INVENTORY

Inventory is normally valued at the acquisition cost or at the lower of cost or market value. Cost must be determined on a weighted average cost-price method. The first-in, first-out (FIFO) method is also generally acceptable.

CAPITAL GAINS AND LOSSES

Capital gains are taxed at a rate of 16.5%, subject to tax treaties. Capital gains realised in Cameroon or abroad from the direct or indirect transfer of stocks, bonds and other capital shares of enterprises located in Cameroon are subject to tax. If the business is totally or partially transferred or discontinued (such as in the event of a merger, liquidation or sale of the business), only one-half of the net capital gains is taxed if the event occurs less than five years after the start-up or purchase of the business, and only one-third of the gains is taxed if the event occurs five years or more after the business is begun or purchased.

Capital gains realised on the Cameroonian stock market are exempt from corporate income tax and the tax on movable capital. However, under the 2014 Financial Law, capital gains realised in Cameroon or abroad that are derived from the sale of shares by an individual or corporate entity holding an exploitation or exploration permit for natural resources extracted from the Cameroonian subsoil are subject to income tax on the gains.

DIVIDENDS

Dividends paid to residents in Cameroon are subject to a 16.5% withholding tax (15% plus the 10% council surtax). Resident recipients must include the gross dividend in taxable income, but they receive a corresponding 16.5% tax credit to prevent double taxation. Dividends paid to non-residents are subject to a 16.5% withholding tax, which is a final tax.

A parent corporation may exclude up to 90% of the dividends received from a 25%-owned subsidiary if the parent company and the subsidiary have their registered office in a Central African Economic and Monetary Community (CEMAC) country (Cameroon, Central African Republic, Chad, Congo, Equatorial Guinea and Gabon). In this case, however, no withholding tax credit is allowed. Instead, the tax can be offset against any withholding tax due on its own dividend distributions.

INTEREST DEDUCTIONS

Interest paid to shareholders in excess of the central bank annual rate plus two points. Under the 2014 Financial Law, the deductibility of interest paid to shareholders owning directly or indirectly at least 25% of the capital or voting rights of the company is subject to the following two cumulative conditions:

- Interest paid may not exceed one and one-half of the amount of real capital for all shareholders.
- Interest paid to such affiliates may not exceed 25% of the income before income tax and deduction of such interest and depreciation.

LOSSES

Losses may be carried forward for four years. Losses attributable to depreciation may be carried forward indefinitely. Losses may not be carried back.

FOREIGN SOURCED INCOME

Generally, foreign tax credits are not allowed. Foreign-source income is taxable after deduction of any related foreign tax. Bilateral relief is provided under Cameroonian double tax treaties. Non-resident legal entities are taxable only on their Cameroon-sourced income.

TAX INCENTIVES

The law of 18 April 2013 introduced investment incentives, which are summarised below.

Installation phase:

Incentives that are available during the installation phase (five years after the issuance of the approval) include exemption from registration duties, transfer duties, customs duties and VAT for certain items.

Operational phase:

Incentives available during the operational phase (10 years for all companies qualifying for the incentives) include exemptions or reductions with respect to minimum tax, corporate tax, customs duties on certain items and other specified taxes and fees.

In the first year of operation, the company is exempt from the tax on the business license. In addition, companies may carry forward losses to the fifth year following the year in which the losses are incurred.

C. FOREIGN TAX RELIEF

In general, foreign tax credits are not allowed; income of residents and non-residents subject to foreign tax that is not exempt from Cameroonian tax under the territoriality principle is taxable, net of the foreign tax.

The French tax treaty, however, provides a tax credit that corresponds to withholding tax on passive income.

D. CORPORATE GROUPS

The Cameroon tax code does not provide for taxation of local group companies: each company is evaluated and taxed independently.

E. RELATED PARTY TRANSACTIONS

In 2012, Article M19*bis* in Book II of the General Tax Code on Manual of Tax Procedures was introduced to increase the regulation and control of transfer pricing. Under the new rules, if in the course of an accounts audit, the administration has evidence that a company has indirectly transferred profit, it may request that the company provides information and documents with respect to certain items, including the following:

- Relationships between the company and one or more companies or groups established outside Cameroon.
- The pricing method for industrial, commercial or financial operations in which the company engages with the related parties mentioned in the first bullet and justification for this method and the agreed consideration in these operations.
- The activities carried out by the related parties mentioned in the first bullet.
- The tax treatment for the company and related parties mentioned in the first bullet with respect to the operations performed with the related parties.

The 2014 Finance Law requires “a detailed statement of transactions with companies which control or which are controlled by them up to 25%, in addition to other existing disclosure and documentation requirements.” Companies in the large taxpayers unit must transmit the following information to the tax authorities by 15 March of each year at the same time as the filing of the annual tax return:

- A statement of their shareholdings in other companies if the holdings exceed 25% of the share capital;
- A detailed statement of intergroup transactions.
- TP documentation as per the 2018 Finance law.

Non-compliance with the above deadline after formal notice or the communication of false information or incomplete information exposes the taxpayer to penalties provided for in Article L104 of the CGTC, i.e. the application of a fixed fine that may go up to 50 million FCFA.

The Finance Act for the 2018 financial year strengthens the mechanism to combat indirect transfers of profits by extending the notion of transfer pricing to transactions with unrelated companies established in tax havens. A tax haven within the meaning of Article 8ter of the CGTC is considered to be a State or territory whose income tax rate is less than one-third of that practiced in Cameroon, or considered as non-cooperative in terms of transparency and exchange of information for tax purposes by the international financial institutions or the tax affairs committee of the OECD or the Economic and Social Committee of the European Union. Non-cooperative jurisdiction means any state or territory whose laws and practices are found to be in non-compliance with the transparency and exchange of information standards for tax purposes established by the OECD.

Interest on state bonds is exempt from corporate income tax and the tax on movable capital (this tax is withheld at a rate of 16.5% from income on shares and negotiable bonds and from certain other income). The 2014 Finance Law confirms that interest on loans paid to non-resident lenders or creditors is exempt from withholding tax. Special income tax applies to all types of deliveries that are part of public contracts or orders and that are paid for by state, regional or local authorities, public institutions, public corporations or semi-public companies, or that are paid for through external financing. The rate is 15%, which is withheld at source.

The withholding tax does not apply to payments made for services related to transport, bank interest, insurance premiums and commissions, air ticket expenses and commissions, and water, electricity and telephone expenses. The 10% surtax applies to the withholding tax rate of 5%, resulting in a total withholding tax rate of 5.5%.

G. EXCHANGE CONTROL

All transfers of funds outside the CEMAC, including loans obtained by resident companies abroad and the solicitation of foreign securities in the CEMAC Zone must be declared and are subject to special control measures for statistical purposes. Transfers of amounts in excess of XAF 5 million must be lodged with an authorised intermediary (i.e. a bank authorised by the Central Bank). Documentation must be submitted to the authorities for currency transfers in settlement of imports in excess of XAF 100 million. Expatriate employees may apply for authorisation to repatriate their net earnings on a regular basis. Any savings accumulated by expatriates may be repatriated upon departure from Cameroon. All foreign direct investment exceeding XAF 100 million is subject to prior notification to the Ministry of Finance and a post notification after realisation.

Progressive rates are imposed from 10% to 35%. A surcharge of 10% of the principal tax is also levied on the rates (for additional council tax).

KEY TAX POINTS

- Companies pay federal, provincial and municipal taxes. The combined federal and provincial or territorial corporate tax rates vary depending upon the province or territory where a corporation conducts business and the nature of its operations.
- There is a 25% branch tax on non-resident companies carrying on business in Canada, payable on notional distributions of branch profits to the foreign head office. The rate of tax is subject to reduction by treaty.
- The federal government imposes a Goods and Services Tax (GST) of 5% on a wide range of goods and services. Exemptions are provided for basic foods, health care and education.
- No provision is made for filing consolidated tax returns for corporate groups. However, loss utilisation among members of a corporate group is often implemented by amalgamation or merger of group members.
- Non-resident withholding tax applies to many types of income paid or credited to non-residents including dividends, interest, royalties, pension payments and rents. The statutory rate of withholding is 25% but this may be reduced or eliminated by treaty provisions.
- Individuals resident in Canada for tax purposes are subject to tax on their worldwide income. Non-residents are subject to tax in Canada on Canadian-sourced employment income and business income; 50% of the capital gains from the disposition of certain specified Canadian assets; and 100% of gains on dispositions of certain property such as resource property or certain life insurance policies.

A. TAXES PAYABLE

FEDERAL TAXES AND LEVIES

Legal entities subject to corporate income tax include the following:

- all corporations resident in Canada; and
- non-resident corporations, but only to the extent of income from certain Canadian sources.

The corporate income tax rate depends on the type of income earned, the status of the corporation and the Canadian province or territory in which the income is earned. The general federal tax rate on corporations is 38%. A 10% rebate applies to the extent the income has been earned in a Canadian province, bringing the federal rate down to 28%. The tax rate on corporate income that is earned in a Canadian province and that does not currently benefit from a preferential tax treatment is further reduced by a general rate reduction of 13%. This makes the general rate 15%.

Various types of corporate income currently benefit from a preferential treatment and do therefore not qualify for the reduced rate, including Canadian manufacturing and processing income, investment income earned by a Canadian-controlled private corporation, income from non-renewable natural resource activities and income earned by mutual fund corporations, mortgage investment corporations and investment corporations.

A non-resident company is subject to a 25% branch profits tax on taxable income earned in Canada (after deduction of federal and provincial income tax and after deduction of an allowance for investments in certain types of Canadian property), which may be reduced under a double tax treaty.

The appropriate provincial income tax rate is added to the federal rate (general or reduced) to get the effective combined tax rate. The rates of provincial income tax vary. Following are the combined general federal and provincial tax rates effective 1 January 2019:

Province	General rate (%)	General reduced rate (%)	M&P rate (%)	CCPC ¹ active rate (%)
Alberta	40	27	27	11
British Columbia	40	27	27	11
New Brunswick	42	29	29	11.5
Manitoba	40	27	27	9
Northwest Territories	39.5	26.5	26.5	13
Newfoundland	43	30	30	12
Nunavut	40	27	27	13
Nova Scotia	44	31	31	12
Prince Edward Island	44	31	31	12.5
Saskatchewan	40	27	25	11/16 ¹
Quebec	39.6	26.6	26.6	15
Yukon Territory	40	27	17.5	11
Ontario	39.5	26.5	25	12.5

1. For the first CAD 500,000 of active business income; the higher combined rate is for income between CAD 500,000 and CAD 600,000.

Corporate income taxes are payable in monthly instalments, with balances owing due two months after the corporation's taxation year-end or, in the case of an eligible CCPC, three months after the year-end. Returns must be filed no later than six months after the year-end, with no extensions available. Even if there is no tax liability, a non-resident corporation is required to file a return and is subject to a penalty if the filing deadline is not met. Generally, a refund will not be issued if the income tax return is not filed within three years of the end of the year (four years for a Quebec income tax return filed by a non-CCPC).

INVESTMENT TAX CREDITS (ITC)

Qualified expenditures in respect of scientific research and experimental development (SR&ED) in Canada qualify for a 15% federal ITC. Certain qualifying CCPCs are entitled to a 35% federal ITC on SR&ED up to specified maximums.

The ITCs may be used to offset federal income taxes payable in the current year, the preceding three years, or the 20 succeeding years. CCPCs may qualify to receive a cash refund when ITCs claimed exceed tax payable for the year. Nine provinces (all but Prince Edward Island) and the territories offer provincial or territorial tax credits as an incentive for conducting qualifying SR&ED activities in their jurisdiction. The amount of federal ITC claimed is included in taxable income in the year following the claim. Provincial credits are generally included in taxable income in the year of entitlement.

The acquisition of qualified property for use in Atlantic Canada, the Gaspé Peninsula or prescribed offshore regions (other than qualified resource property) may qualify for a federal ITC of 10%. Qualified property encompasses a wide range of assets related to manufacturing and processing operations as well as assets used in specific industries. The acquisition of qualified resource property used mainly in Atlantic Canada, the Gaspé Peninsula or prescribed offshore regions and used primarily for oil and gas, and mining activities, if acquired after 28 March 2012, and before 1 January 2016 may qualify for a 5% federal ITC. In 2016, a transitional relief rate applied for certain qualified resource property. This credit is eliminated for assets acquired after 2015. The federal ITC on certain pre-production mining exploration and development expenditures was eliminated for amounts incurred after 2015.

BRANCH PROFITS TAX

The federal government imposes a 25% branch tax on non-resident corporations carrying on business in Canada. The tax is payable on notional distributions of branch profits to the foreign head office. A treaty may reduce the rate of tax and may provide a cumulative exemption amount (e.g. CAD 500,000 under the Canada-US Treaty).

GOODS AND SERVICES TAX (GST)

The federal government imposes a goods and services tax (GST) of 5% on a wide range of goods and services. Exemptions are provided for basic foods, health care and education. All businesses providing taxable services or selling taxable goods in excess of CAD 30,000 in a single calendar quarter or in the last four consecutive calendar quarters must register for and collect the GST. All taxable purchases from a GST registrant bear the GST. GST paid on purchases made by a registrant is credited against its GST collections on its GST return. A net credit is refunded.

With the exception of the three territories and Alberta, all provinces impose a provincial sales tax on a wide variety of goods. The application of sales tax to services will vary depending on the province. General provincial sales tax rates vary from 6% to 10% as described below. The federal government and the provinces of Newfoundland, New Brunswick, Nova Scotia, Prince Edward Island, and Ontario are parties to a sales tax harmonisation agreement. Under the harmonised sales tax (HST) agreement, the participating provinces have ceased to collect provincial sales tax. In its place, the federal government collects HST under the GST rules. The HST is 13% in Ontario and 15% in Newfoundland, Nova Scotia, New Brunswick and in Prince Edward Island.

British Columbia, Saskatchewan, Manitoba and Quebec are not harmonised with the Federal government and have their own Provincial Sales Tax regimes (and independently collect their own Provincial Sales taxes). The rates of Provincial Sales Tax for these provinces are as follows: British Columbia (7%-discussed below), Saskatchewan (6%), Manitoba (8%) and Quebec (9.975% discussed below).

British Columbia was party to the sales tax harmonisation agreement, but as a result of a British Columbia referendum in 2011, British Columbia removed the HST and reinstated the former 7% British Columbia provincial sales tax (PST) and 5% GST effective 1 April 2013. In Quebec, the GST and Quebec sales tax (QST) systems are essentially harmonised and administered by Quebec. As of 1 January 2013, QST was increased to 9.975% but was levied on the price before GST. Therefore, the effective rate will remain unchanged at 14.975% (GST of 5% and Quebec sales tax of 9.975%).

FRINGE BENEFITS TAX (FBT)

The Northwest Territories and the provinces of Newfoundland, Quebec, Ontario and Manitoba levy a tax on payroll costs to support provincial health care and other programs. Rates and exemptions vary from province to province. The territory of Nunavut levies a payroll tax on high income employees.

The federal government does not impose FBT on employers but requires employer (and employee) contributions to Employment Insurance (EI) and the Canada Pension Plan (CPP) based on payroll costs. Employers are required to remit EI, CPP and income tax with respect to their employees who are in regular and continuous employment in Canada, regardless of whether the employees (or employer) are resident in Canada. This can be reduced by a social security agreement between Canada and the home country. Certain fringe benefits are taxable to employees and are required to be reported on their personal income tax returns.

LOCAL TAXES

Provincial, territorial and municipal governments impose various taxes that need to be confirmed in each particular situation. These taxes include real property taxes, real property transfer taxes, carbon taxes, business licences and a number of industry-specific taxes such as mining and petroleum resource taxes, logging tax and hotel tax.

OTHER TAXES

The federal government also imposes certain industry-specific taxes in addition to customs and excise duties. The federal large corporations tax, which was a minimum tax based on capital, was repealed effective 1 January 2006. There are no provincial capital taxes for general businesses. The federal government and several provinces still have capital taxes that apply to certain types of financial institutions and life insurance corporations. For corporations with a permanent establishment in Ontario, Ontario imposes a corporate minimum tax on corporations with total assets or gross revenues above certain threshold amounts in certain circumstances.

B. DETERMINATION OF TAXABLE INCOME

The taxable income of a corporation is determined using the accrual method of accounting. Certain professional, agricultural or fishing businesses are permitted to follow a cash or modified cash method of accounting. For a corporation resident in Canada, taxable income is based on its worldwide income less allowable deductions. For a non-resident corporation, taxable income earned in Canada is essentially defined to include:

- Income from carrying on business in Canada;
- 50% of capital gains from the disposition of certain specified Canadian assets or specified foreign assets with significant values attributable to underlying specified Canadian assets included in the definition of 'taxable Canadian property';
- Income from the disposition of resource property and certain other assets included in the definition of 'taxable Canadian property';
- Income from the disposition of certain other assets with a connection to Canada included in the definition of 'taxable Canadian property'; and
- Recaptured Canadian tax depreciation.

The scope of the definition of 'taxable Canadian property' was significantly narrowed effective 4 March 2010 to exclude shares of corporations and certain other interests (such as an interest in certain partnerships and trusts) that have not derived their fair market value principally from real property situated in Canada, Canadian resource property or timber resource property, at any time within the 60 months immediately preceding the disposition. A treaty may limit Canada's ability to tax a non-resident on the various components of taxable income earned in Canada listed above.

DEPRECIATION

Canada has a complex system of determining the tax depreciation in respect of capital assets. Depreciable property is subject to a number of detailed regulations that specify the amount that may be written off in any particular year. There are also a number of detailed restrictions that have the effect of limiting write-offs for depreciable property. Expenditures for exploration, development and maintenance of resource properties are subject to rules that categorise the expenditures and specify the amounts which may be deducted in a year. Qualifying Canadian exploration costs may be deducted at 100% against any type of income if desired. Canadian development expenses can be deducted at a rate of 30% per year. Other expenditures are subject to less generous deductions. Capital assets used for SR&ED are subject to regular tax depreciation rules rather than a 100% deduction if they were acquired after 2013.

INVENTORY

Inventory must be valued at the lower of cost or fair market value unless the taxpayer elects to value all inventory at fair market value. Special rules apply for the valuation of animals and certain derivatives.

CAPITAL GAINS AND LOSSES

Taxable capital gains are included in taxable income and taxed at normal rates. A capital gain is essentially the proceeds of disposition for a capital property less the aggregate of the cost of the property and costs of disposition. However, only 50% of the gain is taxable. Capital losses may only be used to offset capital gains but may be carried back three years and forward indefinitely, subject to change of control rules (discussed under the 'Losses' heading below). As noted above, under 'Determination of Taxable Income', non-residents are only taxed on certain specified capital gains.

DIVIDENDS

Dividends received by a private Canadian corporation from another resident corporation are subject to a refundable tax of 38.33% (2016: 38.33%) of the amounts received. In the event that the recipient corporation holds more than 10% of the payor-corporation (measured by votes and value), refundable taxes payable are based on the amount of tax refunded to the payor-corporation as a result of the dividend.

Dividends received by most public corporations from another Canadian corporation are effectively excluded from income. Dividends received from non-resident corporations are subject to tax unless received from a subsidiary out of its active business profits from a designated treaty country (a country with which Canada has entered into a comprehensive agreement or convention for the elimination of double taxation on income, or a comprehensive tax information exchange agreement).

Other dividends from foreign affiliates are netted against a grossed-up adjustment for the underlying foreign affiliate tax and withholding tax. Portfolio dividends from foreign corporations are included in taxable income, but the Canadian-resident recipient is entitled to a foreign tax credit for the foreign withholding tax.

INTEREST DEDUCTIONS

Interest paid on funds borrowed to finance business operations or the acquisition of income-producing assets is generally fully deductible. In certain cases, interest payable relating to the acquisition of bare land is only deductible to the extent the land generates net income. The deductibility of interest incurred during the construction of real property is also restricted. Interest payable on funds borrowed to pay dividends is deductible as long as the corporation has taxed retained earnings at least equal to the amount of the dividend.

Statutory 'thin capitalisation' rules restrict the deductibility of interest paid to a non-resident shareholder or group that owns 25% or more of the shares of a Canadian corporation. Essentially, these rules prevent the deduction of interest paid to these particular non-residents (or non-residents not dealing at arm's length with them) where the ratio of outstanding debt to shareholders' equity exceeds 1.5-to-1 for taxation years beginning after 2012. A ratio of 2-to-1 applies for taxation years that begin prior to 2013. The equity is measured by taking the aggregate of the retained earnings at the beginning of the year and the average paid-up capital of shares owned by certain non-resident shareholders and related contributed surplus computed on a monthly-average basis. Effective 29 March 2012, the disallowed interest will be treated as a deemed dividend paid to the non-resident and will be subject to withholding tax of 25%, unless reduced by a treaty.

For taxation years beginning on or after 29 March 2012, the thin capitalisation rules apply to partnerships which have a Canadian-resident corporation partner and for taxation years that begin after 2013, the thin capitalisation rules apply to Canadian resident trusts, and non-resident corporations and trusts that operate in Canada.

LOSSES

Losses arising from business operations may be carried back three years and forward twenty years. The carry-forward period increased from seven to ten years and from ten to twenty years for losses arising in taxation years ending after 22 March 2004 and after 31 December 2005, respectively. Capital losses are discussed separately above. In the event of a change of control of a corporation, there is a deemed taxation year-end. Business losses incurred prior to the change of control may only be deducted in subsequent years from income from the same or similar business but only if the business which generated the losses continues to be carried on with a reasonable expectation of profit. A similar restriction applies to the carry-back of subsequent business losses to the three years preceding a change of control.

On a change of control, a number of complementary rules come into play that have the effect of deeming most types of assets to be disposed of at fair market value if fair market value is less than that particular asset's tax carrying value. The purpose of these rules is to realize any unrealised losses that may exist at the time of the change of control. These deemed losses are added to the existing losses and are subject to the carry-forward restrictions mentioned above. Unclaimed net capital losses expire on a change of control. A special election to crystallize unrealised capital gains to use expiring capital losses should be considered when filing a change of control tax return. Post-change of control capital losses cannot be carried back to pre-change of control taxation years.

FOREIGN SOURCE INCOME

Canadian corporations are taxable on worldwide income regardless of source. Income earned by foreign affiliates in active businesses is generally not subject to taxation in the Canadian parent until the profits are repatriated (refer to the discussion on Dividends above). Corporations having an investment in a controlled foreign affiliate earning passive income, or deemed passive income, are subject to tax on that income in the year it is earned by the foreign corporation.

C. FOREIGN TAX RELIEF

Foreign income earned by a Canadian corporation is generally subject to tax in the year received or receivable. Credit is given for foreign income taxes paid, including withholding taxes. Depending upon the tax rate of the foreign country, foreign tax credits may or may not provide full relief for the foreign taxes paid. The amount of the foreign tax credits are effectively limited to the amount of Canadian tax paid on the foreign income. Foreign business income taxes not utilised in a particular year may be carried forward ten years (seven years if incurred before 23 March 2004) and back three years. Excess foreign non-business income tax paid cannot be carried over but may be available as a deduction in computing income.

Dividends arising from active business income received from foreign affiliates residing in treaty countries are not subject to further tax in Canada if the business is carried on in Canada or a designated treaty country. No credit is given for foreign withholding taxes in these cases. Dividends arising from other business income received from foreign affiliates are netted against a grossed-up adjustment for the underlying foreign tax and withholding tax. Dividends arising from passive income received from controlled foreign affiliates residing in treaty countries or arising from all sources in non-treaty countries are subject to tax as ordinary income. Deductions will be given for underlying foreign tax and withholding tax, as well as Canadian tax which may have been payable at the time the income was earned.

D. CORPORATE GROUPS

No provision is made for filing consolidated tax returns for corporate groups. Certain tax provisions require the aggregation of amounts for members of related groups for purposes of determining access to certain tax incentives and benefits. Loss utilisation among members of a corporate group is often effected by amalgamation or merger of group members.

E. RELATED PARTY TRANSACTIONS

Domestic transactions between related parties are subject to rules that require such parties to transfer property at fair market value. Failure to effect transfers at fair market value may result in one-sided adjustments to income or cost basis. Charges between domestic group members are also subject to reasonableness and income earning tests. Transactions with related non-residents are subject to both transfer pricing and foreign reporting rules. Contemporaneous documentation of transfer pricing methodologies is required to avoid exposure to transfer pricing penalties on adjustments. Substantial penalties may be levied where transactions with related non-residents are not in compliance with prescribed procedures.

Certain multinational entities, with taxation years commencing after 1 January 2016, will be required to disclose information relating to each country in which the multinational group operates; only multinational entities within multinational groups with combined revenues of EUR 750 million or more will be subject to such reporting requirements.

F. WITHHOLDING TAX

Canada imposes non-resident withholding tax on many types of income paid or credited to non-residents including dividends, interest, royalties, pension payments and rents. The statutory rate of withholding is 25% but may be reduced or eliminated by treaty provisions. Section I Treaty and Non-Treaty Withholding Tax Rates summarises the rates of withholding under Canada's present income tax treaties. As of 1 January 2008, withholding tax is not payable under Canada's domestic legislation on most interest payments made by Canadian borrowers to arm's length non-resident lenders.

Canada also has a clearance certificate procedure that requires a purchaser to withhold from the proceeds paid to a non-resident seller on the sale of certain Canadian properties.

The amount of withholding is generally 25% (50% for certain types of properties) of the net gain on disposition if proper notice is given to the tax authorities and a clearance certificate is provided to the purchaser. If a clearance certificate is not obtained, the amount of withholding tax increases to 25% (or 50%) of the gross proceeds instead of the net gain. Amounts withheld are creditable against Canadian taxes payable by the non-resident seller. In the event that the amount withheld exceeds the Canadian taxes payable by the non-resident seller, a refund will be given on filing a Canadian federal tax return. The March 2010 changes to the definition of 'taxable Canadian property' have streamlined the withholding and compliance procedures impacting non-residents and those that acquire property from them. In addition to the federal withholding tax, Quebec has a similar withholding tax regime on sales of taxable Quebec property. The general rate of withholding is 12.875% and can be higher for certain types of property.

Non-residents are also subject to a 15% withholding on amounts received for services rendered in Canada. This particular withholding is credited on the non-resident's Canadian income tax return and will reduce the tax due or result in a refund. A refund due to a corporation will not be processed if the particular return is not filed within three years of the end of the taxation year. In addition to the federal withholding tax, Quebec has a 9% withholding tax on services rendered in Quebec by non-residents of Canada.

G. EXCHANGE CONTROL

Canada imposes no currency or exchange controls.

H. PERSONAL TAX

Individuals resident in Canada for tax purposes are subject to tax on their worldwide income. Non-residents are subject to tax in Canada on Canadian-sourced employment income and business income; 50% of the capital gains from the disposition of certain specified Canadian assets; and 100% of gains on dispositions of certain property such as resource property or certain life insurance policies. Investment or passive income earned by non-residents is subject to withholding tax as discussed above.

Residency is determined based on common law tests of residency relating to social and economic ties. Individuals who stay in Canada for 183 days or more in a particular year may be deemed to be resident in Canada. Canada's tax treaties may contain further provisions regarding determination of residency. Tax returns are filed based on the calendar year and generally are due by 30th April of the following year. An extended deadline of 15th June of the following year is available for business proprietors and partners of most partnerships, as well as their spouses. There is no provision for joint spousal tax returns. Certain pension benefits may be allocated between two spouses by election.

Virtually all income earned is subject to taxation. Employment income (including certain employment benefits) and some forms of investment income are included in taxable income on a cash basis. Business income and some investment income, notably interest, are included in income on an accrual basis. Income earned from farming, fishing and certain professions is subject to a cash or modified cash method of accounting. Taxable Canadian dividends received by an individual resident in Canada are subject to a gross-up and dividend tax credit mechanism.

Employees are subject to withholding on their earnings from employment in respect of income tax and contributions for Canada Pension Plan and Employment Insurance. Self-employed individuals and those with income from other non-employment sources are required to make quarterly instalments of estimated taxes due for the year. The balance of taxes and Canada Pension Plan owing for a calendar year is due by 30th April of the following year for all individuals.

Individuals are permitted various deductions including contributions to Registered Pension Plans and Registered Retirement Savings Plans, interest paid on funds borrowed to earn income, and qualifying alimony or spousal support payments. Child maintenance payments are neither deductible by the payor nor taxable to the recipient if paid pursuant to an agreement entered into after 30 April 1997 or if an agreement or Court Order made before that date is modified after 30 April 1997. There are also tax credits available for personal exemptions, donations, medical and education expenses and Canada Pension Plan and Employment Insurance contributions.

Individuals pay income tax at graduated marginal rates, effective 1 January 2019, as follows:

Taxable income (CAD)	Tax rate (%)
Up to 47,630	15
47,631 – 95,259	20.5
95,260 – 147,667	26
147,668 – 210,371	29
Over 210,371	33

I. TREATY AND NON-TREATY WITHHOLDING TAX RATES

Due to space limitations, the following summary does not reflect detailed information on the statutory or treaty provisions relating to withholding tax rates. Rates shown are in effect on 1 January 2018 subject to the notes at the end of the table below.

The reader should ensure careful reviews of the statutory rules and treaty provisions are undertaken when considering a particular cross-border transaction. For example, refer to note 1 pertaining to the elimination of Canadian withholding tax on arm's length interest payments. The domestic rate may be lower than the treaty rate. Special care should also be taken to review the effective date of changes for new treaties and protocols. Particular care should be taken with respect to Canada-US payments involving fiscally transparent entities with changes effective in 2009 and 2010 (see note 14).

Canada

The Canada Revenue Agency (CRA) has provided declaration forms that are recommended for use by non-residents of Canada to provide the CRA and Canadian resident payers with information regarding their residency status and eligibility for treaty benefits.

Notes:

- Effective 1 January 2008, Canada's Income Tax Act eliminates the Canadian withholding tax on arm's length payments of interest (other than participating debt interest) to all non-residents of Canada.
- Depending upon the particular treaty, the lower rate applies where a corporate recipient of a dividend (beneficial owner) holds, at least, 10% to 25% of the voting control or at least 10% to 25% of the share capital of the company paying the dividend.
- The 5% rate applies if at least 70% of the voting power is controlled by the recipient corporation. The 10% rate applies if between 25% and 70% of the voting power is controlled by the recipient corporation.
- The lower rate only applies if the payment arises in Canada.
- The 15% rate is applicable where the payment arises in Canada or if paid from a company engaged in an industrial undertaking.
- Maximum withholding rate. Lower rates may apply depending on the nature of the royalty.
- Lower rates apply to banks, insurance companies and lending institutions.

8. A protocol signed on 12 September 2014 entered into force on 26 June 2015 and is effective as of 1 August 2015 (withholding taxes) and 1 January 2016 (other taxes) for Canada and as of 1 August 2015 (withholding taxes) and 1 April 2016 (other taxes) for New Zealand.
9. See separate listing for treaty with Hong Kong, signed on 11 November 2012 (entry into force on 29 October 2013).
10. Initial treaty which is not in force as of 10 January 2017. Table shows rates which will be in force when implemented. General rates are in effect until that time.
11. Canada is presently renegotiating a treaty with this country.
12. Canada is presently negotiating an initial treaty with San Marino.
13. The withholding rate for non-arm's length interest paid to the US was reduced to 0% effective 1 January 2010. The rate for arm's length interest payments was reduced to 0% effective 2008. Interest on participating debt is excluded from these exemptions, but the withholding rate on such interest is limited to a 15% withholding rate.
14. Effective 1 January 2010, changes to the Canada – US Tax Treaty eliminated treaty benefits for payments from an entity which is treated as a corporation by Canada but as a fiscally transparent entity in the US and certain other conditions are met. For example, a payment from a Canadian unlimited liability company to its US owner will not be eligible for a treaty rate reduction where the tax treatment of the transaction under US rules differs from the treatment it would have received if the payer was not fiscally transparent for US purposes. Effective 1 February 2009, payments from Canada to a US fiscally transparent entity such as a US limited liability company, or a US partnership require consideration of the US treaty status of the individual members of the recipient entity. A US S Corporation will also generally be a fiscally transparent entity subject to the same look-through rules but Canada has indicated that it will give an S Corporation a reduced treaty rate where it qualifies for such rate as a recognised entity under the treaty. Specific tax advice should be sought to establish the withholding rate for Canada – US cross-border payments involving fiscally transparent entities. In April 2011, the CRA issued forms NR302 and NR303 for declaring the eligibility for treaty benefits for a partnership and other fiscally transparent or hybrid entities. The applicable withholding rate is calculated on worksheets included with these forms.
15. The limitation of benefits clause in the Canada-US Tax Treaty became effective on 1 February 2009 for Canadian withholding taxes, and may in certain circumstances deny treaty benefits on payments to US entities with non-US owners.
16. Dividends paid by a company resident in Cyprus to a Canadian owner are not subject to withholding tax. Dividends paid by a company resident in Canada to an owner in Cyprus are subject to a withholding tax of 15%.

KEY TAX POINTS

- Resident corporations are subject to Cape Verde corporate income tax (IUR) on their worldwide income.
- The standard rate of VAT is 15%.
- Payments between resident companies are generally subject to withholding tax.
- Income tax is payable by individuals on employment income. Resident individuals are subject to income tax on their worldwide income whilst non-residents are liable to income tax only on income sourced in Cape Verde.

A. TAXES PAYABLECOMPANY TAX: GENERAL REGIME

Resident corporations are subject to Cape Verde corporate income tax (CIT) on their worldwide income. Resident companies are those which have their head office or place of effective management, in Cape Verde. Companies not having their head office or place of effective management in Cape Verde territory are subject to IUR only on income obtained in Cape Verde.

The IUR is charged on the profits of companies or other similar entities, of individuals treated as companies, of individual enterprises engaged in commercial, industrial, agricultural, fishing or service benefits, and of profit attributable to a permanent establishment located in the Cape Verdean territory.

For the purposes of determining taxable income, CIT payers can be taxed under two methods/regimes as follows:

- Special regime for micro and small-sized companies:
 - Micro-sized company: An entity that employs up to five persons with an annual turnover (gross amount of sales and services) that does not exceed 5 million Cape Verdean escudos (CVE).
 - Small-sized company: An entity that employs between six and ten persons with an annual turnover (gross amount of sales and services) of between CVE 5 million and CVE 10 million.
- Standard organised accounting regime (standard/normal regime under which the computation of profits follows the local accounting rules).

Resident companies are subject to a tax rate of 25%, where taxable income corresponds to the profit less any tax benefits and any losses carried forward, as stated in the tax return. The tax rate of 25% is also applicable to PEs of non-resident companies.

Micro and small-sized companies are subject to a single special tax (SST) of 4% levied on the gross amount of sales obtained in each taxable year, to be paid quarterly. The SST replaces the CIT, fire brigade surtax, and value-added tax (VAT), as well as the contribution to social security attributable to the company.

Non-resident companies without a PE are subject to withholding tax (WHT) rates applicable to each income category foreseen in the Tax Code, which range between 1% and 20%.

The tax year usually coincides with the calendar year (1 January to 31 December). Tax is payable as follows:

Taxable Persons	Tax Payment
Resident entities whose main activity is commercial, industrial or agricultural and non-residents with a permanent establishment in Cape Verde.	Payments on account in January. The balance is due by the date when the tax return is filed - generally 31 May.
Non-profitable entities.	Tax is payable by the end of the fifth month following the end of the tax year - generally 31 May.
Non-resident entities without a permanent establishment.	Tax is payable by the end of the fifth month following the end of the tax year - generally 31 May.

VALUE ADDED TAX (VAT)

Cape Verde has adopted VAT which is a sales tax levied on the supply of goods and services as well as on the import of goods into Cape Verde. The VAT system in Cape Verde closely follows the European Union (EU) VAT system and is assessed at the standard rate of 15%. The standard VAT rate of 15% is a general tax on consumption, applicable to the import and sale of goods and services in Cape Verde territory. VAT exemptions are laid down in particular to medical services, services related to education and social support and vocational training, banking and financial transactions, insurance and reinsurance operations, as well as exemptions for the importation of certain goods.

OTHER TAXES

MUNICIPAL TAX ON REAL ESTATE (IUP)

The IUP is a municipal tax levied on the value of properties in the territory of each municipality, dividing, in accordance with the classification of buildings in rustic and urban, the value of free transmissions or expensive real estate, the value of corporate transactions subject to public deed, such as social pacts changes, transfer of shares and other like nature, the value in use or enjoyment of motor vehicles subject to registration and, finally, capital gains arising from the valuation of land for building, broadcasts of buildings or other real estate.

The standard rate is 1.5%.

Exemption from IUP due on the acquisition is granted to:

- Cape Verdean emigrants who own saving bank accounts;
- Projects with Tourist Utility Status.

STAMP DUTY

The Stamp Duty (IS) focuses on different tax events, and in particular on financial transactions, corporate transactions, capital transfers and documented legal acts. The rates are as follows:

Item	Stamp duty rate
Loans	0.50%
Bank interest	3.50%
Bank fees and commissions	3.50%
Insurance	3.50%
Guarantees	0.50%
Promissory notes, securities	0.50%
Emoluments, registration acts	15%
Contracts	CVE 1,000

B. DETERMINATION OF TAXABLE INCOME (IUR)

GENERAL REGIME

Net income, or taxable income, is arrived at by adjusting the accounting profits for non-taxed income and non-deductible expenses. As a general principle, costs are only deductible when necessarily incurred for the purpose of producing income.

DEPRECIATION

Depreciation is considered a deductible cost with respect to all fixed assets (except land), up to the limits determined by the applicable tax law. As a general rule, depreciation must be computed by using the straight-line method. The tax authorities may allow other depreciation methods on the basis that the actual depreciation is higher than the one calculated at regular rates or according to the taxpayer's accounting practice. Under the straight-line method, the maximum depreciation that is deductible is calculated by applying the general depreciation rates set out by Decree No. 42/2015 of 24 August to the adjusted purchase cost or production cost.

Land is not depreciable.

STOCKS / INVENTORY

Tax law does not foresee any mandatory inventory valuation method that should be adopted by Cape Verdean taxpayers. For tax purposes, accepted inventory methods should be consistent with the accounting rules in force and with generally accepted policies. Such methods should be applied in a consistent manner over the financial years and based on the prices effectively paid or established by official documents. Inventory must normally be valued at the effective cost of acquisition or production (historic cost). Other methods which may be adopted include:

- The standard cost method, which must be calculated in accordance with the appropriate technical and accounting principles;
- The sale price method, based on the market value less a normal profit margin.

LOSSES

Operating losses incurred by resident companies may be carried forward to be set off against taxable profits for three years.

FOREIGN SOURCED INCOME

Resident companies are taxed on their worldwide income.

C. WITHHOLDING TAX

Payments between resident companies are generally subject to withholding tax. The rates vary between 10% and 20%. The following types of income are subject to withholding tax, according to the table below:

Type of income	Tax rate
Income capital application:
- Bank deposits interest, with the exception of emigrant deposits	20%
- Dividends and other income derived from capital investment including shares in profits of companies, profits and capital gains anticipation	10%
Royalties	20%
Revenue from games gains, lotteries and betting	15%

Dividends are subject to WHT at a rate of 10%. The WHT may be waived if the following conditions are cumulatively met:

- Direct or indirect participation in share capital of at least 10%;
- The participation is held consecutively for one year prior to the date on which the profits are made available;
- None of the entities benefit from a favourable tax regime as defined in the General Tax Code.

D. PERSONAL TAX

Personal income tax will be due by natural persons residing in Cape Verdean territory and also by those not residing in Cape Verde, but obtain income in Cape Verde. of an individual is taxed according to different categories. Personal income tax regulations provide for the following categories: property income, commercial and industrial income, including capital gains and the provision of services, and income agricultural, livestock and fishing, capital income and other income, such as from the game, lottery and betting, and finally, income from work, dependent and independent, including pensions and annuities or temporary.

Taxable income results from the aggregation of the various categories of income, although exempt, earned each year, after the deductions and rebates defined in Regulation IUR. Capital gains and losses realised on the onerous transfer of shares and other securities are subject to withholding tax. In determining the tax base, the gains must be subject to aggregation and are considered at 50% of their value. There are specific deductions for each category of income, using as criteria the costs or charges necessary to attain them. Thus, expenditure on health and education, pensions, housing rents, housing debt interest, construction and improvement of real estate, the premiums of illness or personal accident insurance, as well as some life insurance, and the amounts invested annually in government bonds and contributions to social security or single social tax for the taxable person or their dependents may be deducted from the taxable income. Can also be deducted from the total income, net of deductions, donations of public interest.

Employment and pension income

Employment and pension income is generally subject to monthly WHT. As a rule, the monthly WHT is levied as a final taxation, unless the taxpayer chooses to file a tax return in which case the withheld tax acts as an advance payment.

Bracket	Taxable income		WHT rate (%)
	From	To
1	0	80,000	16.5
2	80,000	150,000	23.1
3	150,000	--	27.5

Employees are subject to a tax payment of 8% (contribution to Social Security). Self-employed persons are subject to payment of contributions at 11% in restricted schemes, and at 19.5% in extended schemes. The payment of contributions shall take place by the 15th of the subsequent month to which they relate. Tax returns submitted in a paper form are due by 31 March of the subsequent tax year.

Non-habitual tax residents

A scheme has been introduced for non-habitual resident taxpayers, according to which non-habitual residents who obtain income from dependent and independent work resulting from activities considered to be of 'high added value with a scientific, artistic or technical character', to be defined in by the member of the Government responsible for the area of finance, will be subject to taxation at a special rate of 10%.

In addition, the regime establishes an exemption from taxation for foreign source income, provided certain conditions are met. The scheme shall apply for a period of 10 consecutive years. The scheme for non-resident residents applies to taxpayers who acquire tax residence in Cape Verde and who have not had tax resident status in Cape Verde in any of the previous 5 years.

The non-habitual resident status is acquired by registering this status in the taxpayer register of the Tax Administration until March 31 of the year following that in which they become tax residents in Cape Verde.

E. TREATY AND NON-TREATY WITHHOLDING TAX RATES

Cape Verde signed double tax treaties with Portugal and Macau. In addition, negotiations are ongoing to conclude a double tax treaty between Cape Verde and Spain.

	Dividends (%)	Interest ¹ (%)	Royalties (%)
Non-treaty countries	10	10/20 ²	20 ³
Treaty countries:

Notes:

1. The 0% rate applies, among others, to interest paid by public bodies.
2. As from 1 January 2015, interest paid to non-residents is subject to a final withholding tax of 20%, except interest on bonds, government bonds and similar public securities derived from public debt, financial investment instruments such as promissory notes and bills of exchange, which are subject to a final withholding tax of 10%.
3. Royalties (representing know-how, technical assistance and leasing of equipment) paid to non-resident companies are subject to a final withholding tax of 20%.

KEY TAX POINTS

- The Chilean income tax system applies to all individuals and entities domiciled or resident in Chile in respect of their worldwide income. Non-residents are subject to tax on Chilean-sourced income.
- Two categories of income tax apply in relation to different types of income (activities). The rules for calculating tax under each category are different.
- In general, profits from commercial activities (including relevant capital gains) are taxed at 25% under 'First Category tax'.
- Notwithstanding the foregoing, since 1 January 2017 two tax systems co-exist affecting profits made by enterprises that determine the income tax taking into account the results of financial statements based on full accounting records. These systems have a maximum tax burden of 35% (Attributed income system) and 44.45% (Partially integrated system), taking into account both the tax of the company (First Category tax) and the owners (Additional tax or Global Complementary tax). Under the Partially integrated system the higher burden results from the owners having to refund 35% of corporate tax (First Category Tax) on the same taxable profit distributed or withdrawn. There are exceptions that make the tax burden similar in both systems. In fact, the restriction in the use of corporate tax as a credit will not be applicable to investors domiciled or resident in countries that have a double tax treaty with Chile, in which the application of the Additional Tax on the income distributed or withdrawn has been agreed upon provided that the First Category Tax is deductible of said tax, or another clause is contemplated producing the same effect. This beneficial rule is also applicable when a double tax treaty with Chile has been signed before 1 January 2019 although it is not in force yet. This last rule will stay applicable up to 2021, the year when it is expected those conventions will be in force.
- Gross taxable income arising from wages, salaries, overtime payments, bonuses, fees, gratuities, profit sharing and any other form of remuneration is taxed under the Second Category which is a progressive tax, the highest rate of which is 35%.
- Profits remitted or withdrawn from Chile (such as by way of payment of dividends to non-residents in enterprises subject to the Partially Integrated System) are subject to a 35% 'Additional Tax', although relief is given for any First Category tax paid on the relevant profits. Some of the taxpayers domiciled or resident abroad may have to refund the 35% of the tax credit, which means that in practice they could only use the 65% of the First Category tax as a tax credit. This restriction is applicable only to taxable income generated since 1 January 2017.
- Transfers and other operations regarded as sales, as well as services other than those rendered by employees and consultants, are subject to 19% Value Added Tax (VAT). Exports of all products and services qualified as exports by the Customs Service are exempt for VAT purposes. VAT paid on imports and on local sales and services may be deducted from VAT surcharged on sales or services rendered.
- There are various other types of payments to non-residents which are subject to withholding tax. Chile has signed double tax treaties with a number of countries under which the withholding tax rate may be reduced or the tax may not be applicable.
- Credits are available for overseas taxes paid on foreign-sourced income. Where the income consists of dividends or overseas profits, the credit is capped at a maximum of 32% of the gross dividends or profits. The credit will be up to a 35% rate on any kind of income subject to First Category tax from countries that have a double tax treaty with Chile in which a credit has been foreseen. Any other unrelieved foreign taxes are generally relievable as a deduction against taxable income.
- Although individuals resident in Chile generally pay income tax on their worldwide income, foreigners who establish their domicile or residence in Chile pay income tax only on their Chilean-sourced income for the first three years of residence.

A. TAXES PAYABLE

COMPANY TAX

The income tax legislation provides for a scheduler system divided as follows:

FIRST CATEGORY TAX

First Category tax is due on income derived from commercial, industrial and agricultural activities, mining, fishing and other extractive activities, investment, and real estate. All income not specifically taxed under another category and not tax exempt is included. Capital gains are included in gross income subject to First Category tax with certain exceptions which include:

- (a) Gains from the sale of publicly traded Chilean corporations' stock acquired and sold under certain conditions such as to be carried out on the Stock Exchange, which are tax exempt.
- (b) Sale of mining rights up to the amount represented by the variation in the cost of living index between the date of purchase and that of sale, carried out by taxpayers not subject to the First Category tax on effective income.
- (c) Sale of real estate other than that included in the assets of a taxpayer subject to the First Category tax on effective income. The maximum cumulative income not taxable under this rule amounts to 8,000 UF (USD 328,000), regardless of the number of operations made by the taxpayer.

FIRST CATEGORY INCOME TAX SYSTEMS

The structure of income taxes is the same for taxpayers that obtain income other than those generated by employees and professionals. However, enterprises determining the First Category income tax taking into account the results of financial statements based on full accounting records could be subject to one of the two following income tax systems in force since 2017:

- a) Attributed income system. The corporate First Category income tax rate is 25% and it is fully credited against the income tax affecting stockholders, partners and individual entrepreneurs subject to personal income tax on such profits (Global Complementary Tax or Additional Tax, as the case may be). All of them must include such profits in their own income tax return, regardless of whether they have been distributed by the company. The tax burden on profits affecting investors without a domicile or residence in Chile under this system is 35% (Additional Tax). Income tax rates applicable to national investors range from 0% to 35% (Global Complementary Tax).
- b) Partially integrated system. The corporate First Category income tax rate is 27% from 2018 onwards. Stockholders, partners and individual entrepreneurs must include in their own income tax return only the profits distributed by or withdrawn from the company but in practice they can only use 65% of the corporate tax as a tax credit, since they have to refund 35% of the First Category corporate tax. Consequently, the maximum tax burden on profits affecting investors under this system is 44.45%. That restriction in the use of corporate tax as a credit is not applicable to investors domiciled or resident in those countries that have a double tax treaty with Chile, in which the application of the Additional Tax on the income distributed or withdrawn has been agreed upon provided that the First Category Tax is deductible of said tax, or another clause producing the same effect is contemplated. The same tax benefit is also granted when the double tax treaties have not yet entered into force yet but have been signed by Chile before 1 January 2017, but that rule will only stay applicable until 31 December 2021. Corporations and limited partnerships with share capital must be taxed under this system.

Some of the enterprises (except for corporations and limited partnerships with share capital) have the chance to opt for one of the tax systems, depending on their juridical structure. The tax system opted for cannot be changed by the taxpayer during a period of five years. However, in some cases a change in the juridical structure of the taxpayer can force it to switch the tax system.

SECOND CATEGORY TAX

Second Category gross taxable income refers to the one arising from wages, salaries, overtime payments, bonuses, fees, gratuities, profit sharing and any other form of remuneration. It is a progressive tax, the highest of which is 35%, applicable on a monthly basis to the excess of 120 monthly tax units (USD 8,640).

COMPLEMENTARY TAX (IMPUESTO GLOBAL COMPLEMENTARIO)

This is a progressive tax assessed on a resident individual or domiciled in Chile with respect to income received or withdrawn in the preceding year. Its highest rate is 35%, applicable to the excess of 120 yearly tax units (USD 104,400).

ADDITIONAL TAX (IMPUESTO ADICIONAL)

This tax affects, among others, the Chilean-sourced income withdrawn or remitted abroad to non-residents or non-domiciled individuals and of companies or juridical entities organised abroad with or without a permanent establishment in Chile in the form of branches, offices, agents or representatives. This tax also affects foreign payments such as royalties, technical assistance and others at varying rates.

SPECIAL TAX OF ARTICLE 21° OF THE INCOME TAX LAW

This tax affects almost all entities regardless of the legal structure they have (individuals, corporations, permanent establishments of non-resident entities, etc.). It is applied at a 40% rate on all amounts that are disallowed as an expense, when they represent disallowed actual disbursements or withdrawals of assets, regardless of the way in which they may have been accounted for. Under certain circumstances this kind of disallowed expense must be included in the income tax return of the correspondent shareholder, partner or individual owner which has to pay a 10% additional surcharge on such amounts.

SPECIFIC TAX IN OPERATIONAL MINING INCOME

Since 2006, there is a specific tax on the operational income of the mining activity obtained by a mining operator. This progressive tax rate currently ranges from 0.5%, if annual turnover is equal to or exceeds 12,000 metric tons of fine copper, to 4.5% if annual turnover is between 40,000 metric tons and 50,000 metric tons. If turnover exceeds 50,000 metric tons, the tax is applied on the mining operational margin and the progressive tax rate ranges from 5% on the operational margin not exceeding 35,000 metric tons to 14% if the operational margin exceeds 85,000 metric tons. The operational taxable income on which this tax is applied is determined in a specific way. Certain expenses such as losses from past periods, accelerated depreciation of fixed assets, etc. are not allowed for this purpose. The mining operational margin is determined as a ratio of the operational taxable income to the mining operational turnover.

CLASSES OF TAXPAYERS

Any person or entity domiciled or resident in Chile must pay tax on income, whatever its origin, whether its source is located in Chile or abroad. Non-residents are subject to tax on income, the source of which is located within Chile. An individual is considered resident for tax purposes when remaining in Chile for more than six consecutive months in the calendar year or for more than a total of six months within two consecutive calendar years. Foreigners working in Chile are subject to tax only on their Chilean-sourced income during the first three years of domicile or residence period which may be extended. After this period, they become subject to tax on their worldwide income.

Thus, the income tax system covers individuals and juridical persons, resident or non-resident, foreign or national, whose income source is located in Chile and also, in the case of a resident's income, from abroad. For example, partnerships are subject to a 25% First Category tax on an accrued basis. The amounts attributed to non-resident or non-domiciled partners (Attributed income system) are subject to a 35% Additional Tax payable regardless of its distribution or remittance with a 25% First Category tax credit. If partners are domiciled or resident in Chile, the amounts distributed by the entity are subject to Complementary Tax, which is a progressive tax. These shareholders also have a 25% tax credit. Under the Partially integrated system the income tax of partners is payable or included in the personal income tax return when distributed or remitted abroad. The credit is 27% First Category tax but 35% of it must be refunded, except in some cases such as that of taxpayers of countries that have a double tax treaty with Chile (see paragraph First Category Income Tax Systems). Corporations and their stockholders can only be subject to the latter system.

VALUE ADDED TAX (VAT)

Transfers and other operations regarded as sales, as well as services other than those rendered by employees and consultants, are subject to 19% VAT. In addition, certain items are subject to sales tax. For imports, the taxable basis is the customs value or CIF value, including customs duties. Certain capital goods forming part of foreign investments of at least USD 5,000,000 may be exempt from VAT, for which the investor must submit an application to the Ministry of Finance.

The tax applies to the sale of all movable and immovable physical assets (except land) sold by a person who is a customary seller. The tax basis is the sales price, including monetary correction, interests, finance charges and penalty interests. The tax itself is excluded from the basis. Exports of all products are exempt for VAT purposes. VAT paid on imports and on local sales and services may be deducted from VAT surcharged on sales or services rendered. VAT paid on importation and on acquisition or services received, when accessory to operations exempt from VAT (unless they are exports) or not related directly to the activities of the seller, is not recoverable.

Some products like alcoholic and non-alcoholic beverages, jewels, furs, articles made of gold, silver or ivory are subject to a sale surtax at different rates.

LOCAL TAXES

No local income taxes are payable in addition to central government taxes. However, Chile imposes taxes on real estate and a stamp tax on documents that contain loans and credit operations (bill of exchange, promissory notes, etc.). Enterprises have to pay an annual municipal licence, calculated on the taxpayer's equity at a minimum rate of 0.25% and a maximum of 0.5%, set by each municipality. The total amount cannot exceed 8,000 monthly tax units (about USD 576,000), which is allocated among the municipalities in which the taxpayer has an office, factory or other establishment.

B. DETERMINATION OF TAXABLE INCOME

Gross income is arrived at by deducting from gross receipts the direct cost of goods and services required to produce such receipts. The direct cost of locally acquired goods will be the purchase price, to which the cost of freight and insurance to deliver to the taxpayers' premises may be added. For imported goods, it will include CIF value, duties and customs charges as well as local freight and insurance costs as above. For manufactured or processed goods, direct cost will include raw material, costs in the manner described, and labour charges. Business income is determined on the accrual basis, whereas the dividend income on corporate shares is assessed on a cash basis. In the case of long-term projects, the tax authorities are empowered to issue rulings regarding the determination of income for tax purposes.

Business expenses are deductible from gross income provided that they have not already been deducted in arriving at such gross income and that the expenses are required for the income to be obtained. Expenses incurred in the acquisition, maintenance or exploitation of assets not used in the regular course of business are not deductible. The accounting period in Chile coincides with the calendar year.

CFC (Controlled Foreign Company) Rules

Certain foreign income is taxable in Chile not only when it is received but also accrued. In fact, profit consisting of passive income (interests, dividends, etc.) received or accrued by foreign entities controlled by Chilean taxpayers or patrimonies, must be considered as received or accrued by these Chilean taxpayers. The taxable profit of the foreign entity is determined by applying the Chilean tax regulations.

DEPRECIATION

Depreciation on fixed assets, except for land, is tax deductible under the straight-line method based on their useful lives in accordance with the guidelines of the Chilean Internal Revenue Service (IRS), computed on the restated value of the assets. A shorter lifespan is stated in the Income Tax Law as an option for depreciation, applicable to fixed assets purchased since 2003. The option means an accelerated depreciation for new assets when acquired locally, or new or used assets when imported, with useful lives of over five years. For this purpose, the assets will be assigned useful lives equivalent to one-third of the normal, eliminating fractions of months.

There is an alternative according to the amount of turnover of the taxpayers, which allows them to accelerate the depreciation to 1/10th of the normal lifespan of the fixed assets. The lifetime thus obtained cannot be less than one year. Taxpayers may discontinue the use of the accelerated method at any time but may not return again to the accelerated method. The difference between accelerated and straight-line method will not reduce the taxable profit that can be withdrawn by partners or distributed to shareholders.

No allowance is made for amortisation of intangible assets such as, patents, trademarks, etc. Goodwill in mergers and acquisitions that cannot be allocated to non-monetary assets, is considered as an expense only at the winding up of the enterprise. Depletion of ore in mining properties is not tax deductible.

STOCK / INVENTORY

The cost of goods sold or production materials and supplies consumed is based on the first-in, first-out (FIFO) basis, although the 'average' method may be elected. The method adopted determines the basis for the valuation of the closing inventory. The valuation so determined is, however, adjusted in the manner stipulated for the annual monetary correction procedures.

DIVIDENDS

Dividends received from Chilean corporations are exempt from First Category tax. Taxpayers subject to the Attributed Income system must add the taxable dividends received from a corporation to their taxable income, but they can use the First Category Tax which affected such dividends as a tax credit. The tax credit is 65% of the First Category Tax when the dividends are received from a company subject to the Partially Integrated income system. There is no distinction in Chile between dividends and inter-company dividends. A dividend in kind as such does not exist. Dividends are necessarily expressed in cash, notwithstanding the fact that the company may distribute certain assets corresponding in value to the dividend amount. Stock dividends in the form of bonus shares or increases in the par value of existing shares are not considered as income for tax purposes.

INTEREST DEDUCTIONS

Generally, interest accrued or paid in the financial year is a deductible expense, provided that it has been incurred in connection with loans related to the business. Regarding the interest and other amounts, when originating in acts or contracts concluded with related parties abroad, the expense will only be deductible in the year such amounts are paid, credited to account or placed at the disposal of the beneficiary. It is also required that the correspondent Additional tax is paid unless such amounts are tax exempt.

LOSSES

Losses incurred in the fiscal year are deductible. Furthermore, there is no limit on carry forward of losses. There are no loss carry-back provisions, nor is it available to group profitable and unprofitable affiliates for tax purposes. However, dividends received or income withdrawn from third companies can be offset against losses for tax purposes. This leads to a refund of the First Category tax that affected the dividends or the income withdrawn.

FOREIGN SOURCE INCOME

Non-domiciled or non-resident corporations are only subject to income taxes on their Chilean-sourced income. If the domestic corporation receives amounts in excess of the book value of an investment when a foreign subsidiary is liquidated, these are considered as income subject to regular taxes. From 2012 onwards, the income received or accrued from derivatives such as forwards, futures, swaps and options, by persons or entities without domicile or residence in the country, will not be subject to income tax, except for those arising from derivatives that are settled by physical delivery of shares or rights in companies incorporated in Chile.

INCENTIVES

Foreigners may remit their earnings or be paid abroad. Remittances have to be reported to the Central Bank of Chile. Non-domiciled or non-resident individuals in Chile are subject to an Additional income tax, at a rate of 35%. However, if the foreign activities' nature is scientific, cultural or sports, the tax rate is only 20% as a sole tax provided the period of service is less than six months. This tax is also applicable to engineering or technical jobs and professional or technical services rendered, in Chile or abroad, by individuals or juridical entities at a 15% rate. This rate will be 20% in the cases pointed out in the summary showed below.

ROYALTIES

Royalties are deductible expenses:

- (a) Provided they are necessary to produce income;
- (b) Provided the rate is that normally paid in similar circumstances with respect to their nature;
- (c) As a result of the relationship existing between the parties. In this case, the royalty is deductible when it is paid, credited to account or placed at the disposal of the beneficiary, and Additional income tax is paid unless the royalty is tax exempt.

Deduction of outbound royalties is limited to 4% of receipts from sales and services effected in the tax year. The 4% limit is not applied if in the tax year there is no capital, control or administration relationship, whether direct or indirect, between the taxpayer and the recipient of the royalties. Likewise, the 4% limit is not applied if the royalties are taxed in the recipient's country at a rate of at least 30%. In calculating the 4% limit, it is necessary to first compute the royalties not subject to the limit and then the royalties subject to the limit. Also the effect of double tax treaties entered into by Chile need to be considered.

C. FOREIGN TAX RELIEF

- Foreign tax credits are allowed in Chile. A resident taxpayer who is taxed in Chile on dividends or profits received from enterprises set up abroad which have already been taxed in the source country may be entitled to have the foreign tax levied on that income credited against his tax liability, with a cap equivalent to 32% of the gross dividends or profits. This credit must be computed into the tax basis. Foreign taxes paid in excess of the cap, which cannot be used as a tax credit, are allowed as a deduction from taxable income. The foreign tax is credited against First Category tax at the corresponding tax rate and the balance against the Additional or Complementary taxes.

Foreign tax on income from agencies or permanent establishments that Chilean enterprises have set up abroad, or other income such as the one derived from trademarks, patents and technical assistance, will only be able to be credited against First Category tax up to the corresponding tax rate on the foreign income. In these last cases, the excess credit can be used in subsequent tax years.

The credit will be up to a 35% rate on any kind of income subject to First Category tax from countries that have a double tax treaty with Chile in which a credit has been foreseen. This means that part of the tax credit is creditable against the corresponding First Category tax and the balance against the Additional or Complementary taxes. The part of the foreign income taxes that cannot be used as a tax credit is allowed as a deduction from taxable income.

- Law 19.840, published in the Official Gazette on 23 November 2002, allows foreign investors to establish Chile as a base for their investments into third countries. That law states special regulations (Article 41 D) to publicly traded corporations and closely held corporations ruled by the regulations of the former, constituted in Chile and in accordance with Chilean laws, incorporated with foreign capital permanently owned by partners or shareholders not domiciled nor resident in Chile, nor in countries or territories that are considered tax haven jurisdictions, or harmful preferential tax regimes. The same tax treatment will be applicable to non-domiciled or non-resident shareholders of said companies for remittances and distribution of profits or dividends obtained from them and from partial or total repatriations of capital, as well as for the capital gains obtained from the disposal of shares in companies governed by the abovementioned Article 41 D.

According to that article, such companies are not considered as domiciled in Chile for the purposes of the Chilean Income Tax Law and, therefore, they will only pay taxes in the country on their Chilean-sourced income. The line of business of the aforementioned companies must be the investment in Chile and abroad and the capital contributed by the foreign investor must have a foreign source. The regulations related to the bank secrecy will not be applied to them. This rule has been cancelled with effect from 1 January 2022. However, as of 23 November 2017 new companies cannot join this regime.

- Expenses incurred in approved training plans for personnel, up to 1% of the yearly payroll, are allowed as a credit against the First Category income tax.
- Immovable property tax will be creditable against the First Category tax only if paid by the owner or usufructuary of agricultural land or they have given the property on lease, usufruct or other forms of temporary assignment. Construction companies and real estate companies may credit property tax paid on immovable property built to be sold.

D. CORPORATE GROUPS

For tax purposes, consolidation of affiliated companies is not allowed. Losses can only be offset against profits of the same company or against dividends or taxable profits withdrawn from third companies.

E. RELATED PARTY TRANSACTIONS

Charges from foreign affiliates or head offices are only allowable for specific items related to the local company or branch. A pro-rata allocation of the foreign entity's expenses is not generally acceptable for tax purposes (see under 'Royalties' above).

F. PROFIT REMITTANCES, WITHDRAWALS OR DISTRIBUTIONS

Broadly speaking, profit remitted, withdrawn or distributed to investors not domiciled or resident in Chile that is taxed with the Additional Tax, is subject to a withholding tax. Regarding taxpayers subject to the Partially Integrated System, profit remittances and dividends paid to the shareholders not domiciled or resident in Chile are subject to Additional Tax on distribution at a rate of 35%, which has to be withheld. However, if the taxpayer has an accumulated credit originated in amounts subject to the First Category tax, a credit is given against the withholding tax, considering the First Category tax rate at the beginning of the year. It must be kept in mind that in such case 35% of the credit has to be returned by increasing the amount of the withholding, unless the taxable profit remitted has been generated before 2017, subject to the old tax regime. Anyway, such restriction is not applicable to investors domiciled or resident in those countries that have a double tax treaty with Chile (see paragraph "First Category Income Tax Systems" letter b). The same tax procedure is applicable to remittances of profit to partners or profit withdrawn by individuals not domiciled or resident in Chile. The withholdings applicable either on withdrawals of taxable profits or the yearly attributed income, are made by taxpayers subject to Attributed Income System at the end of the year, when the taxable income is determined.

G. THE 42% ALTERNATIVE

Foreign investors that have a Decree Law 600 contract entered into with the State of Chile and have opted for the 42% rate are subject to the First Category tax (payable by the branch or subsidiary) at the corresponding rate and an Additional tax at a rate that completes the 42%, on the same tax base. Thus, the total theoretical tax burden is 42% on pre-tax income instead of the 35% currently paid under normal taxation. The investor who has opted for the 42% invariable rate can elect at any time to be taxed at the normal rates. This election is irrevocable. Decree Law 600 has been abrogated with effect from the beginning of 2016, and has been replaced with a new regulation that does not consider any income tax rules. However, foreign investors are allowed in the next four years following the date the law is in force, to apply for investment contracts with the State of Chile subject to Decree Law 600. Anyhow, the invariable income tax rate will be 44.45%.

H. PAYMENTS ABROAD

Other payments to a non-resident not domiciled in Chile are subject to an Additional withholding tax as follows:

Type of Payment	Rate
Royalties	30%
Royalties paid abroad for patents of invention, industrial designs, new vegetal varieties, software and other specific cases	15% ¹
Engineering and technical jobs	15% ²
Professional and technical services	15% ²
Other services paid abroad	35%
Interest to foreign entities	35%
Interest to foreign banks	4%
Interest to foreign related banks, on the part of the loans that exceeds three times the equity (sole tax on excess indebtedness)	35%
Marine freight (exemptions on the basis of reciprocity)	5%
Insurance premiums to foreign insurers	22%
Reinsurance premiums to foreign insurers	2%
Individuals who carry out scientific, cultural or sports activities in Chile	20%

Notes:

- The rate is 30% when the creditor or beneficiary of the remuneration is incorporated, domiciled or a resident in a country considered as a preferential tax regime according to the rules stated in article 41 H of the Income Tax Law.
- The rate is 20% in the same situation as described in note 1 above.

I. PERSONAL TAX

All individuals, domiciled or resident in Chile are subject to income tax whatever the source of the income. Non-domiciled or non-resident individuals in Chile are subject to tax on their Chilean-sourced income. For tax purposes, a person is deemed to be non-resident when staying in Chile less than six months in two consecutive tax years. During the first three years of residence in the country, foreigners who establish domicile or residence in Chile pay income taxes only on their Chilean-sourced income. This term may be extended by the tax authorities for an additional three years after which they are taxed on their worldwide income. All remuneration for personal services as well as income derived from other services is included in gross income. All forms of remuneration are included in taxable salary. The only deduction is for social security contributions.

Items like reimbursement of travel expenses, housing provided for the sole interest of the employer, moving expenses, and reasonable relocation allowances are considered non-taxable income and are excluded from the tax calculation. Items like cost of living allowance, area allowance, car allowance, vacation travel, and utilities are taxable.

Capital gains of individuals are treated mostly as any normal income, subject to First Category tax and Complementary Tax. However, certain capital gains have special treatments as in the case of shares and immovables.

Necessary business expenses incurred on behalf of others are reimbursable and exempt from taxes, provided that they are duly proved. Professionals can deduct their effective expenses or standard deduction. The only deductible non-business expenses are social security contributions, on a voluntary basis where maximum amounts are determined in the same way as it is applicable to employees. (Employees must pay a variable percentage for pension plans of around 12% and 7% for health insurance, applicable on a maximum of up to 79.3 UF (USD 3,250), adjustable yearly. On a voluntary basis, employees are allowed to make additional contributions to the pension fund of up to 50 UF (USD 2,050), also deductible from salaries for tax purposes. Tax computation for individuals varies depending on the type of income.

Basically, the following categories exist:

- (1) Professionals - working as independent consultants must compute all their yearly income less the expenses necessary to produce such income or presumed expenses of up to 30% of the annual gross income with a top limit equivalent to 15 yearly tax units (USD 13,050). They can also deduct the social security contributions with equal caps applicable to employees.
- (2) Employees - taxable income is the salary minus social security contributions either mandatory or voluntary (see paragraph above). No other deductions from taxable income are allowed. The tax applicable is the Sole Second Category income tax, mandatorily withheld by the employer on a monthly basis.
- (3) Combined income - income received by individuals such as dividends, profits in partnerships or derived from personal business is subject to complementary tax. In the case of dividends and profits distributed by a First Category taxpayer, the individual has a credit originated in the payment of the First Category tax, whether the 35% tax credit should be returned or not. In the case of employment income, the individual has a credit for the payment of the Sole Second Category income tax.
- (4) Professionals and employees domiciled or resident in Chile subject to Sole Second Category tax or Complementary Tax have a credit equivalent to foreign tax levied on their income they have made from countries that have a double tax treaty with Chile as professionals or employees. There is a cap of 35% on the gross foreign income.

EMPLOYEE REMUNERATION

A deduction is allowed for wages, salaries and remuneration paid for personal services, including bonuses paid in accordance with the law or a contract. Voluntary participations and profit sharing granted to employees and workers are deductible, provided they are distributed in proportion to wages, salaries, seniority, number of dependants, or other general rules applicable to all employees or workers of the enterprise.

A deduction is also allowed for that part of remuneration on which social security contributions have been paid for actual and permanent work to owners of sole proprietorships, partners of companies or persons and managing partners of partnerships limited by shares. Such remuneration is subject to withholding. With respect to other remuneration paid to persons who, due to their controlling position in the enterprise, are able to influence the fixing of their remuneration, the deduction is limited to that part which, in the opinion of the tax administration, is proportionate to the importance of the enterprise, its reported income, services rendered by the recipient and capital profitability.

A deduction is allowed for remuneration paid for services rendered abroad, provided that it is substantiated by reliable documents and provided that, in the opinion of the tax administration, the remuneration is necessary or convenient for the production of income in Chile. In practice, taxpayers tend to limit these expenses because of the tax cost involved.

KEY TAX POINTS

- Corporate residents of China are taxed on their worldwide income. A foreign tax credit is allowed for income taxes paid in other countries. This credit is capped at the China income tax payable on the same income calculated under the Enterprise Income Tax Law.
- The Enterprise Income Tax Law unified the rate for domestic and foreign enterprises at 25% from 1 January 2008. For small profit making companies, the rate could be reduced to 20%. In recent years, the government authorities have issued favourite policies to promote the business of small profit making companies and thus the effective enterprise income tax rate could be further reduced to 5% and 10%.
- Foreign enterprises with establishments in China deriving the above income which is not effectively connected with that establishment is also subject to withholding tax. The statutory rate is 20% which is reduced to 10% by the Enterprise Income Tax Law Implementation Regulations. The 10% withholding tax may be reduced under an applicable treaty.
- Foreign enterprises without establishments in China are subject to Enterprise Income Tax on a withholding basis on the income of dividends, royalties, interest, rental income, earnings from assignment of assets in China and any other income derived from inside China.
- Individuals are taxed on the comprehensive income and business income at progressive rates.
- There is no separate tax on capital gains. Capital gains will be considered as general taxable income and thus subject to Enterprise Income Tax or Individual Income Tax.
- Turnover taxes include VAT on all goods and services and Consumption Tax on consumable or luxury goods. Starting from 1 May 2016, Business Tax is completely replaced by VAT and is no longer levied in China.

- Land Value Appreciation Tax applies to transfers of land use rights and immovable properties.
- Stamp duty is levied on a variety of contracts and certain legal documents.

A. TAXES PAYABLE

ENTERPRISE INCOME TAX (EIT)

All foreign invested enterprises (FIEs) and those foreign enterprises (FEs) having their effective management office in China are subject to EIT on their worldwide profits. FEs with permanent establishments (PEs) in China are subject to EIT on profits derived from and attributed to the PEs. FEs without PEs in China are subject to EIT on China-source income only.

The EIT Law introduced a wider concept of management in determining tax residency. A company is recognised as a Chinese tax resident if it is incorporated in China or its place of effective control and management office is in China.

All FIEs (i.e. sino-foreign joint ventures and wholly owned foreign enterprises) and foreign enterprises (FEs) with or without establishments in China are now taxed at the same rate as domestic enterprises. EIT is charged at the rate of 25% on taxable profits in a calendar year.

In recent years, the government has introduced a series of preferential tax policies to stimulate economic growth, such as a reduced EIT rate of 15% for HNTE, qualified technology-advanced service enterprises and qualified western region enterprises as well as an effective EIT rate at 5% or 10% for small-scale enterprises.

The tax year in China is the calendar year (i.e. year ended 31 December).

BRANCH PROFITS TAX

When a corporate resident enterprise has branch offices registered in different regions in China, the head office and the branches are consolidated to calculate EIT payables. If a corporate resident enterprise has overseas branch offices, the loss of overseas branch offices could not deduct the profit made in China, while the profit of overseas branch offices need to be subject to EIT in China. If a FE has branches in China, the branches are subject to EIT in China.

CAPITAL GAINS TAX

There is no separate capital gains tax. Capital gains are subject to income tax as ordinary income and are combined together with operating income to calculate income tax.

VALUE ADDED TAX (VAT)

VAT is levied on the sales amount in respect of selling, transferring or importing of commodities, selling or transferring of properties and intangible assets, provision of repairs and processing, as well as rendering services covering research and development, and technical services; information technology services; cultural creative services; logistic auxiliary services; certification and consulting services; and tangible movable property leasing services; radio and television services; postage services, telecommunication services; construction; financing and consumer services et in China.

VAT taxpayers could be classified into two categories: general VAT payers and small-scale VAT payers depending on the annual sales amount. Generally, a small scale business is broadly defined as one with an annual turnover of less than CNY 5 million.

For a general VAT taxpayer, the standard VAT rates for goods sales and services are listed below:

- Goods sale/processing/repair and replacement Revenue from provision of labour services: 16% or 10% (for a small category of goods such as agricultural products);
- Lease of movable tangible assets: 16%;
- Basic telecommunication services: 10%;
- Construction: 10%;
- Postal services: 10%;
- Transportation services: 10%;
- Real estate (leasing and sale of immovable properties): 10%;
- Transfer of land use rights: 10%;
- Consumer lifestyle services: 6%;

- Financial services: 6%;
- Value-added telecommunication services: 6%;
- Sale of intangibles (except land use rights): 6%;
- Other modern services: 6%.

A VAT credit mechanism is allowed for a general taxpayer where VAT payable equals output VAT less input VAT by means of VAT special invoices. Input VAT is incurred on the purchase of material, services as well as purchase or construction of fixed assets.

Taxpayers engaged in small scale business are subject to VAT at a special rate of 3%, but there is no credit for input VAT.

Generally, for ordinary VAT taxpayers, export goods are subject to a zero VAT rate and are entitled to a tax refund in relation to the purchase or manufacture of the exported goods on which VAT has previously been paid. The VAT refund rate depends on the categories of the goods exported.

Goods exported by small-scale VAT payers shall be exempted from VAT and consumption tax. However, the input tax shall not be deducted or refunded.

For the transition period of property industries, a collection rate of 5% may also be applied to property leasing or property transfer.

CONSUMPTION TAX (CT)

CT is imposed on 15 categories of consumable or luxury goods (e.g. cigarettes, alcohol, petrol and motor vehicles). The tax is calculated based on the sales value of goods, the sales quantity or a combination of the two. CT rates range from 1% to 56%. Part collection of this tax has been shifted to the retailer and is levied by the tax authorities of the retailer's site.

FRINGE BENEFITS TAX

No separate fringe benefits tax is levied in China.

REAL ESTATE TAX (RET)

RET is imposed on owners, users or custodians of houses and buildings. RET is imposed at a flat rate of 12% on annual rental income of the leased property or at the rate of 1.2% on the purchase cost of self-used property. For self-used property, a discount of 10% to 30% on the purchase/construction cost is often offered by some local governments in determining the RET. The tax also applies to FIEs, FEs and foreign individuals. RET is deductible for EIT purposes.

LAND VALUE APPRECIATION TAX (LVAT)

LVAT applies to domestic enterprises, FIEs, FEs and individuals realising gains from the transfer of land use rights, buildings and premises and associated structures. LVAT is charged at progressive rates ranging from 30% to 60% depending on the percentage gain realised from the transfer of land use rights, buildings or associated structures. LVAT could be deducted when computing EIT.

DEED TAX (DT)

DT is imposed on the transferee or assignee to which land use rights or building ownership rights are transferred (sales, exchange or gifts). The tax rate ranges from 3% to 5% depending on the location of the property. The transferee or the assignee is the taxpayer.

STAMP DUTY (SD)

Stamp Duty is levied on various contracts including purchase and sale contracts, property leasing, loan contracts, documents for the transfer of property rights, engineering and design contracts, construction and installation, commodity transportation, storage and property insurance contracts, and registered capital as well as accounting books. Tax rates range from 0.005% to 0.1%. A fixed amount of CNY 5 is charged on certificates evidencing rights, patents, trademarks, and licenses.

ENVIRONMENTAL PROTECTION TAX

Enterprises, entities, other producers and operators that directly emit taxable pollutants into the environment within the territory and other sea areas under the jurisdiction of the People's Republic of China are taxpayers of environmental protection tax. This Law shall become effective as of 1 January 2018.

SOCIAL INSURANCE CONTRIBUTIONS

All enterprises are required to contribute to social security insurance (including pension, medical, unemployment, work-related injury, maternity), and housing funds (in certain cities) every month for their employees including foreign employees in China.

B. DETERMINATION OF TAXABLE PROFIT FOR ENTERPRISES

The taxable profit of a corporate resident is calculated as 'taxable gross income less deductible costs, expenses, non-taxable and tax-exempt items, and losses incurred in a tax year'. It is normally calculated in accordance with audited accounts prepared on an accrual basis subject to tax adjustments by reference to the prevailing tax regulations.

TAXABLE GROSS INCOME

The taxable gross income of an enterprise refers to the revenues derived from various sources, whether in monetary terms or in-kind, which shall include:

- Revenue from sales of goods;
- Revenue from provision of labour services;
- Gross proceeds from transfer of property;
- Dividend income from private and listed enterprises and other distributions with respect to equity interests;
- Interest income;
- Rental income;
- Royalty income;
- Revenue from donations; and
- Other income.

DEDUCTIBLE COSTS DEPRECIATION

Fixed assets under the EIT Law mean the non-monetary assets owned and used for over 12 months in production or business operations. Generally, fixed assets are depreciable on a straight-line basis over their useful lives. Enterprises shall, in terms of the nature and operating conditions of the fixed assets, reasonably evaluate the new residual value of the fixed assets.

The minimum depreciation periods for various kinds of assets are as follows:		Years
(a)	For houses and buildings	20
(b)	For airplanes, trains, ships, machinery and other production facilities	10
(c)	For apparatus, tools and furniture and fittings in connection with production / business operations	5
(d)	For transportation facilities other than airplanes, trains and ships	4
(e)	For electronic equipment	3
(f)	For production-nature biological assets in the nature of forestry	10
(g)	For production-nature biological assets in the nature of livestock	3
(h)	For acquired software (subject to approval)	2

Recently, the scope of fixed assets to enjoy the accelerated depreciation method is expanded. Fixed assets acquired on or after 1 January 2015 by companies in the following industries may be allowed to depreciate the assets using accelerated depreciation method:

- Bio-pharmaceutical manufacturing;
- Special equipment manufacturing;
- Railway, ship, aerospace and other transportation equipment manufacturing;
- Computer, communications and other electronic equipment manufacturing;

- Instrumentation manufacturing;
- Information transmission, software and IT services industries;
- Light industry;
- Textile industry;
- Machinery; and
- Automobile industries.

In respect of equipment and instruments which are newly purchased from 1 January 2018 to 31 December 2020, and if the unit price is below CNY 5 million, the entire cost could be deducted on a one-off basis when computing taxable income. If the unit price of such newly purchased equipment exceeds CNY 5 million, the enterprises may either adopt the straight-line method or an accelerated depreciation method.

There are two ways the accelerated depreciation method can be used:

- Shorter of depreciation life: A shorter of depreciation life should not be less than 60% of the regular depreciation life of the asset.
- Accelerated depreciation: An accelerated depreciation method can be a double declining method or a sum of the years' digit method.

AMORTISATION OF INTANGIBLE ASSETS

Intangible assets, including technical know-how, patents and trademarks, can be amortised using the straight-line method over a period of not less than ten years or the stipulated time limit as set out in the acquisition agreement.

PRE-OPERATION EXPENSES

Pre-operation period starts from the date when the enterprise is approved for set up until the enterprise begins operations (trial operation is included). The deductible pre-operation expenses include salary, office expenses, training expenses, travelling, printing expenses, registration fees and interest (that would not be capitalised) and foreign exchange gain/loss during the pre-operation period.

Pre-operation expenses can be deducted on a lump sum basis in the year in which the enterprise commences business operations or amortised as a long term prepaid expenditure to be amortised within three years.

RESEARCH AND DEVELOPMENT (R&D)

R&D expenses incurred for new and high technology, new products or new craftsmanship can benefit from an extra 50% super-deduction of the actual expenses incurred as a tax incentive after proper filing with the relevant tax authorities. If the R&D expenses are qualified for capitalisation, an additional 50% super-deduction could be allowed for the amortisation when computing annual EIT settlement.

From 1 January 2018 until 31 December 2020, the extra/additional deduction ratio is increased from 50% to 75% for the eligible entities.

STOCK / INVENTORY

Inventory is to be valued at cost and the acceptable allocation methods include first-in, first-out (FIFO), weighted average, or specific identification basis. The last-in, first-out (LIFO) basis is not acceptable for tax purposes. The method chosen must be applied consistently.

MANAGEMENT FEE AND INTERCOMPANY CHARGES

Management fees between enterprises shall not be deductible for EIT purposes. As management fees are generally regarded as shareholder costs, they cannot be deducted before income tax for China enterprises.

The intercompany charges need to pass the six tests of benefit, necessity, duplication, value creation, remuneration and authenticity carried out by the tax authorities before China enterprises could remit the charges to the offshore companies.

A Cost Sharing Agreement (CSA) for joint development of intangible assets and sharing of services (generally limited to group procurement and group marketing synergies) are allowed. Under the CSA, the principle of matching costs with expected benefits shall be followed. The taxpayer can claim the tax deduction for shared costs provided the CSA could be filed with the local tax authorities.

LOSSES

Operating losses cannot be carried back but they can be carried forward for up to five years.

From 1 January 2018, high-tech enterprises or technology-oriented small- or medium-sized enterprises (SMEs) may carry forward losses for a maximum period of up to ten years.

TAX INCENTIVES

In general, enterprises engaged in encouraged projects may apply for certain tax incentives as follows.

HIGH AND NEW TECHNOLOGICALLY ADVANCED ENTERPRISES (HNTE)

If the enterprise is qualified as an HNTE, it can enjoy a reduced EIT rate of 15%. An enterprise has to fulfil a set of prescribed criteria and be subject to annual assessment in order to be qualified as an HNTE.

On 29 June 2016, the Ministry of Science and Technology, Ministry of Finance and State of Administration of Taxation jointly released an announcement regarding the guidance for HNTE recognition to replace the previous regulations. The government authorities will exert a much more severe administration on HNTE enterprises.

SPECIFIED BASIC INFRASTRUCTURE

When enterprises are engaged in basic infrastructure such as harbours, wharfs, airports, railways, highways, city public transportation, electric power and water resources utilisation projects, such income generated can enjoy a '3+3 years' tax holiday which means, starting from the first income generating year, three years of exemption from EIT followed by three years of 50% reduction of applicable EIT.

ENVIRONMENT PROTECTION PROJECTS

When enterprises are engaged in environmental protection projects and energy/water conservation projects such as public sewage treatment, public refuse treatment, comprehensive development and utilisation of methane, technologies alteration for energy-saving and emission reduction and seawater desalination projects, such income generated can also enjoy a '3+3 years' tax holiday.

This means, starting from the first income generating year, three years of exemption from EIT followed by three years of 50% reduction of applicable EIT.

QUALIFIED TECHNOLOGY-ADVANCED SERVICE ENTERPRISES

Since 1 January 2018, qualified technology-advanced service enterprises would qualify for a reduced EIT rate of 15%.

SMALL SCALE ENTERPRISE

EIT rate shall be reduced to 20% for small-scale enterprises if they meet the following criteria:

- The annual taxable income does not exceed CNY 3,000,000;
- The number of staff does not exceed 300; and
- The total assets do not exceed CNY 50 million.

From 1 January 2019 to 31 December 2021, small enterprises with annual taxable income equal to or lower than CNY 1 million may enjoy a 75% deduction on calculating the taxable income (i.e. an effective EIT of 5%); and if the annual taxable income exceeds CNY 1 million but is lower than CNY 3 million they may enjoy a 50% deduction (i.e. an effective EIT of 10%).

WESTERN REGION DEVELOPMENT POLICY

From 1 January 2011 to 31 December 2020, enterprises (1) that are based in the western region; (2) whose primary business is listed in one of the industry items provided in the Catalogue of Encouraged Industries in Western Regions; and (3) the annual primary business revenue of which accounts for more than 70% of the total enterprise revenue, may pay EIT at the reduced tax rate of 15% subject to their application to the competent tax authority and upon the examination and confirmation by the said authority.

C. FOREIGN TAX RELIEF

Corporate resident can claim tax credits for corporate income taxes paid by them or their branches in other countries in respect of income derived from sources outside China based either on a country-basket principle or on a comprehensive basis that income from all countries and of all types are considered together to calculate the tax credit starting from January 1, 2017. Once the credit basis is selected, it shall not be changed within 5 years. However, the amount of tax credit is restricted to the Chinese tax payable on the foreign income as calculated according to the EIT law.

D. CORPORATE GROUPS

There are no group relief tax consolidation provisions in Chinese tax law.

E. RELATED PARTY TRANSACTIONS

All companies should conduct business with their associated companies on an arm's length basis. The Chinese tax authorities are empowered to disregard, vary or make any necessary adjustments to the arrangements that are carried out for tax avoidance purposes.

TRANSFER PRICING

The New Law imposes transfer pricing documentation requirements. Specific information must be submitted to the Tax Authorities together with the enterprise's annual income tax returns or subsequently in the course of a transfer pricing audit. Interest will be payable in respect of any late tax payments arising from a transfer pricing adjustment.

China adopts stringent requirements on the related party transactions disclosure and taxpayers have to disclose related party transactions in Related Party Transaction Forms. The acceptable transfer pricing methods are comparable uncontrolled price (CUP); resale price method (RPM); cost-plus method (CPM); transactional net margin method (TNMM); profits split method (PSM); and other methods that are consistent with the arm's length principle approved by the in charge tax authorities.

In June 2016, the China tax authorities issued new transfer pricing compliance requirements whereby transfer pricing documentation has adopted a three-tiered structure, i.e. Master File, Local File and Special Issue File. The Local File and Special Issue File should be completed by 30 June 2017 for related party transactions carried out during the year 2016; the Master File should be completed within 12 months after the end of the same fiscal year of the group's ultimate holding company. Taxpayers should submit the transfer pricing report within 30 days upon the tax authorities' request.

If the company meets either of the following criteria, it shall prepare a Master File:

- Have cross-border related party transactions, and belong to a group which has prepared the Master File, or
- The total annual related party transactions exceed CNY 1 billion.

For the Local File, the thresholds for preparing a Local File depend on the types of related party transactions, which are listed below:

- CNY 200 million for tangible assets transfer (in the case of tolling manufacturing, the total amount in the annual customs record including raw material should be counted);
- CNY 100 million for financial assets transfer;
- CNY 100 million for intangible assets transfer; and
- CNY 40 million for other related party transactions in total.

The special issue file is required for taxpayers who are engaged in cost sharing agreements or fall in the thin capitalisation threshold.

The new transfer pricing compliance regulations also require the submission of a Country-by-Country (CbC) report if a Chinese resident company is the ultimate holding company of the group and the consolidated revenue is over CNY 5.5 billion or it is nominated as the reporting entity by the group.

Chinese companies that only have domestic related party transactions do not need to prepare a Master File, Local File and special issue file.

Single function enterprises, which are making losses, are also required to prepare the contemporaneous documentation regardless of the transaction amount threshold.

When an enterprise is audited for transfer pricing issues, the enterprise will be followed up by the tax authorities for five years and during the follow-up period enterprises are also required to prepare the contemporaneous documentation.

ADVANCE PRICING AGREEMENT (APA)

An Advance Pricing Agreement (APA) is available in China. The State Administration of Taxation encourages taxpayers to use an APA to ascertain the transfer pricing position and reduce the tax compliance burden.

THIN CAPITALISATION

In China, for non-financial enterprises, when the ratio of loans received from related parties to equity investments exceeds a prescribed ratio (2:1) (or 5:1 for financial institutions), the portion of interest expense related to the debt exceeding the ratio shall not be deductible when computing the taxable income in accordance with the thin capitalisation rule under the EIT law. However, enterprises could provide supporting documents to demonstrate that the financing is set at arm's length in order to claim the EIT deduction upon the agreement of the tax authorities.

GENERAL ANTI-AVOIDANCE

China requires a bona fide business purpose for any commercial arrangement that could result in reducing, deferring or avoiding taxable revenue or taxable income. When the absence of reasonable purposes is sustained, the tax authorities are authorised to disregard the arrangement and impose EIT. Nowadays, China is more focused on cross-border anti-avoidance.

CONTROLLED FOREIGN CORPORATION

Foreign controlled corporation (CFC) is defined as a non-Chinese company controlled by China tax residents (both companies and individuals, each of which must hold 10% or more of the voting shares and jointly own 50% or more of the shares) through direct or indirect share ownership.

CFC rules were introduced such that undistributed profits derived by CFCs located in low-tax jurisdictions with an effective corporate income tax rate of less than 12.5% may be taxed in China as a deemed distribution to the parent company in China.

BASE EROSION AND PROFIT SHIFTING (BEPS)

BEPS refers to tax planning strategies that exploit the gaps and mismatches in tax rules to artificially shift profits to low or no-tax locations where there is little or no economic activity, resulting in little or no overall corporate tax being paid. The OECD and G20 countries worked together on an equal footing to tackle BEPS issues. The BEPS initiative aims to enhance the integrity and fairness of the international tax system by aligning jurisdictional tax rights with the location where value is created and business activities are actually incurred.

The new transfer pricing compliance requirements discussed in the Transfer Pricing Section are one of the most important developments of China's commitment to the BEPS action plans.

F. WITHHOLDING TAXES

Foreign enterprises without establishments in China are subject to Enterprise Income Tax on a withholding basis on the income of dividends, royalties, interest, rental income, earnings from assignment of assets in China and any other income derived from inside China. Foreign enterprises with establishments in China deriving the above income which is not effectively connected with that establishment is also subject to withholding tax. The statutory rate is 20% which is reduced to 10% by the EIT Law Implementation Regulations. The 10% withholding tax may be reduced under an applicable treaty.

When foreign enterprises obtain active income in China, the revenue is subject to turnover taxes, and EIT will be levied on the active income if the foreign enterprises have or are deemed to have a permanent establishment ("PE") in China. The domestic payers are the withholding agents to retain such turnover taxes and EIT from the total payments to foreign enterprises.

G. EXCHANGE CONTROL

Foreign currency transactions are controlled by the State Administration of Foreign Exchange Control and its branch offices. Financial institutions cannot engage in foreign exchange business without prior approval.

H. PERSONAL TAX (Individual Income Tax)

China is enforcing new individual income tax (IIT) laws effective from 1 January 2019 onwards.

According to the new IIT law, a tax resident is determined as follows:

- (1) A person who has a domicile in China; or
- (2) A person who does not have a domicile in China but has resided in China for more than 183 days in a calendar year.

A tax resident is subject to IIT on his/her worldwide income. A non-China-domiciled individual would generally be exempt from China IIT on foreign-source income that is not paid by a China domestic entity or resident individual, unless the non-China-domiciled individual has stayed in China for more than 183 days in each calendar year for six consecutive years in China.

Under the IIT Law, the following nine categories of income are subject to IIT in China:

Comprehensive Income	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Wages and salaries • Income from labour service • Remunerations to authors • Royalties
Income from Business Operation	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Income of individual industrial and commercial operators from production or business operation
Other Income	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Interests and dividends • Income from leasing of property • Income from transfer of property • Contingency income

(1) Comprehensive Income

Effective from 1 January 2019, the first four categories including salary, personal labour service income, royalty income and author's remuneration are combined into one comprehensive income base to be taxed together at the level of resident individuals. However, it will still be taxed on a separate basis for non-resident individuals.

Comprehensive Income shall be taxable at the following rates:

Annual Taxable Income (CNY)	Tax Rate (%)
0 – 36,000	3
36,001 – 144,000	10
144,001 – 300,000	20
300,001 – 420,000	25
420,001 – 660,000	30
660,001 – 960,000	35
960,001 or above	45

For comprehensive income, a yearly deduction of CNY 60,000 is allowed (CNY 5,000 per month). Apart from that, the following items are newly introduced to be deducted from comprehensive income.

- Dependent children's education expenditure;
- Serious illness medical expenditure;
- Continuous education expenditure;
- Rental or housing mortgage interest;
- Dependent parents.

From 1 January 2019 to 31 December 2021, non-resident individuals working in China could enjoy certain deduction items including rental, car leasing, children's education, home leave trip transportation expense, laundry, etc.

Where there is a withholding agent, the withholding agent shall withhold and prepay tax on a monthly basis or based on each income item.

Where there is no withholding agent for the taxable income, the taxpayer shall file tax returns within the first 15 days of the following month after obtaining the income, and pay tax.

Annual filing for the comprehensive income is required the next year from 1 March to 30 June. Non-resident individuals are not subject to annual filing for comprehensive income.

(2) Income from Business Operation

Net income derived from production and business operations by individuals (i.e. annual gross income less business costs, expenses and losses) shall be taxable at the following rates:

Annual Taxable Income (CNY)	Tax Rate (%)
0 – 30,000	5
30,001 – 90,000	10
90,001 – 300,000	20
300,001 – 500,000	30
500,001 or above	35

Taxpayers obtaining income from business operation shall compute individual income tax on a yearly basis, file tax returns within 15 days after the end of each month or quarter, make prepayment of tax, and complete the annual filing before 31 March of the following year.

(3) Other Income

Income derived from interest, dividends and bonuses, or contingency income and other income is taxed at a flat rate of 20%.

ANTI-TAX AVOIDANCE CLAUSES FOR INDIVIDUALS

The new IIT law also introduced anti-tax avoidance clauses for the first time. The tax authorities may perform tax adjustments and collect additional tax plus interest thereon pursuant to the law under any of the following circumstances:

- Related Party Transactions

If a transaction between an individual and his/her related party does not comply with the arm's length principle, and the tax payable amount of the individual or his/her related party is reduced as a result, when there are no justifiable reasons.

- CFC Rules

An enterprise established in a country (region) with significantly lower tax burden which is controlled by a resident individual or jointly controlled by a resident individual and a resident enterprise, does not distribute or reduces distribution of profits which are attributable to the resident individual, when there are no reasonable business purposes.

- Others

An individual makes other arrangements without reasonable business purposes and obtains improper tax gains.

Notes:

1. Dividends received by non-resident shareholders holding at least 25% of the shares in FIEs were eligible for a reduced withholding tax rate in China based on the percentage of equity holding. This exemption was repealed under the New Law. The withholding tax rate for dividends under the New Law is 10%, effective from 1 January 2008. However, distribution of pre-2008 profits can still enjoy withholding tax exemption even if the dividend is declared and distributed after 1 January 2008.
2. Exemption of interest from withholding tax generally applies in the following situations:
 - a. Interest on loans made by international financial organisations at a preferential rate to the Chinese government or resident enterprises; or
 - b. Interest on loans made by foreign governments to Chinese government. A lower withholding tax rate may apply to interest paid by an enterprise in China to a foreign enterprise without establishments in China.

3. The rates of withholding tax on royalties for the use of industrial, commercial or scientific equipment is 10% and the taxable income is generally taken to be 60% or 70% of the remittance depending on the location of the enterprises. Accordingly, the effective withholding tax rate is 6% or 7% as shown above.
4. A double taxation agreement between Angola and the People's Republic of China was signed on 9 October 2018 but is not yet in force until both jurisdictions have completed their legislative procedures. The official content has not yet been published.
5. A double taxation agreement between Argentina and the People's Republic of China was signed on 2 December 2018 but is not yet in force until both jurisdictions have completed their legislative procedures.

7. A double taxation agreement between Gabon and the People's Republic of China was signed on 1 September 2018 but is not yet in force until both jurisdictions have completed their legislative procedures.
8. A new amendment to double taxation agreement between Hong Kong or Macau and Mainland China to specify for the tax levying on the royalty income arising from airplane and ship leasing shall be less than 5%.
9. A double taxation agreement between Kenya and the People's Republic of China was signed on 21 September 2017 but is not yet in force until both jurisdictions have completed their legislative procedures.
10. A double taxation agreement between Taiwan and Mainland China was signed on 25 August 2015 but is not yet in force until both jurisdictions have completed their legislative procedures.
11. A double taxation agreement between the Republic of Congo and the People's Republic of China was signed on 5 September 2018 but is not yet in force until both jurisdictions have completed their legislative procedures.
12. A double taxation agreement between Uganda and the People's Republic of China was signed on 11 January 2012 but is not yet in force until both jurisdictions have completed their legislative procedures.

On 27 August 2013, China signed the Convention on Mutual Administrative Assistance in Tax Matters (Convention). The Convention can be described as a multilateral agreement designed to promote international cooperation regarding tax laws. The Convention includes provisions aimed at preserving the rights of taxpayers in relation to the exchange of information between countries.

On 16 December 2015, China signed the Multilateral Competent Authority Agreement on Automatic Exchange of Financial Account Information.

On 7 June 2017, China signed the Multilateral Convention to Implement Tax Treaty Related Measures to Prevent Base Erosion and Profit Shifting.

Nature of the new regime: the regime transitions from being a mere mechanism of payment of taxes along with the realisation of works to a convention concluded with public entities of national order for the accomplishment of works in the areas most affected by the armed conflict (ZOMAC), for which will be received as a consideration negotiable securities for the payment of taxes. This scheme will apply from 1 July 2019.

C. FOREIGN TAX RELIEF

Colombia relieves international double taxation unilaterally by granting an ordinary foreign tax credit, i.e. taxpayers may credit the amount of foreign tax paid on foreign-source income up to the amount of domestic Colombian tax that would be due on the income, subject to certain conditions.

D. CORPORATE GROUPS

There is no concept of group relief for Colombian tax purposes.

E. RELATED PARTY TRANSACTIONS

As a general rule, transactions between related parties must be carried out on arm's length basis, i.e. the prices should be the same as those that would be arrived at in comparable transactions with independent parties. The tax authorities may adjust the prices at which the taxpayer acquires or sells goods, as well as the consideration of other transactions, and modify the taxable base or the relevant loss of a taxpayer for income tax purposes. None of the double taxation treaties between Colombia and other countries reduce the withholding tax rates below the domestic rates.

Additionally, taxpayers who carry out operations with related parties with offices or residence abroad, with gross assets of more than USD 3,315,600 and with gross revenue in excess of USD 2,022,516 are required to file an annual informative report of all of the operations carried out with their related parties and to prepare for those transaction that exceed the sum of USD 1,492,020 and file previous request of the tax authority probative documentation in order to prove the correct application of the current transfer pricing regulations. This probative documentation must be kept for a period of five years beginning on 1 January of the year following its preparation.

F. WITHHOLDING TAX

A 20% income tax withholding applies to foreign payments of interest, commission, fees, royalties, technical services and advisory services and a 33% income tax withholding applies to administration or management fee payments made to headquarters, whether Colombian source income or foreign income.

- Import of property;
- Export of property;
- External indebtedness;
- Foreign investment in Colombia;
- Colombian investment in foreign countries;
- Financial investments and fixed assets based in foreign countries;
- Endorsements and guarantees;
- Derivative transactions.

2. Domestic rate applies, no reduction under the tax treaty. Source state has exclusive right to tax.
3. The lower rate applies in case of a shareholding of at least 10% in the distributing company's capital.
4. The lower rate applies in case of a shareholding of at least 25% in the distributing company's capital.
5. The lower rate applies to interest derived by banks or insurance companies.
6. The lower rate applies to interests derived by the government, central bank or any financial institution performing functions of a governmental nature.
7. Exclusive taxation by the resident country.
8. The lower rate applies in case of a shareholding of at least 20% in the distributing company's capital.

I. TAX FOR FISCAL NORMALISATION

A tax amnesty was introduced to normalise unreported assets or non-existent liabilities that were included in a tax return. The amnesty will apply only for 2019 (25 September 2019 is the due date for filing the normalisation tax) and the applicable tax rate is 13% of the value of the unreported assets or non-existent liabilities. Money that is repatriated to Colombia before 31 December 2019 and kept in the country for two years will be subject to a reduced 6.5% tax rate. The normalisation tax applies to assets in private foundations, assets in trusts, insurance with savings components, investment funds and other fiduciary business activities.

Requirements:

- Direct or indirect participation of at least 10% of the capital of two or more Colombian and/or foreign companies or entities for a minimum period of 12 months;
- Have at least three employees, a self-management in Colombia and demonstrate that strategic decision making regarding the investments and assets of the CHC is carried out in Colombia. The simple formality of the annual assembly of Shareholders will therefore not suffice.

Benefits:

- Dividends or shares distributed by non-resident entities in Colombia to a CHC would be exempt from income tax and will be declared as capital-exempt income;
- Dividends distributed by a CHC to an income taxpayer (resident natural person or resident legal person) would be taxed at the dividend income rate;

A. TAXES PAYABLE

COMPANY TAX

Costa Rica has a classical corporate tax system, where a general income tax (impuesto sobre las utilidades, GIT) is taxed both at the corporate level and at the shareholder level.

Under the territoriality principle, both residents and non-residents are only taxed on Costa Rican-source income. The GIT is levied on net income derived by resident corporations. Non-resident corporations are subject to a final withholding tax.

The corporate tax year runs from 1 October to 30 September. However, as from 2020, the fiscal year will run from 1 January until 31 December 31. It is therefore possible that the fiscal year of 2020 contains 15 months: from 1 January until 31 December 2020, and including October, November and December 2019.

Companies need to make 3 installments of income tax during the year: 6 months after the start of the fiscal year, 3 months after the first installment and 3 months after the second installment.

Corporate income is taxed at a rate of 30%. However, special regulations for small companies are in place.

Corporate income tax (CIT) brackets are adjusted yearly, effective 1 October to 30 September of the following year. In the new Law that will come into play as of 1 July 2019, a new tariff scale is established for legal persons whose gross income does not exceed CRC 106,000,000 (approximately USD 188,000) during the fiscal period:

- 5% on the first CRC 5,000,000 of annual net income;
- 10% between CRC 5,000,000 and CRC 7,500,000 of annual net income;
- 15% between CRC 7,500,000 and CRC 10,000,000 of annual net income;
- 20% on the excess of CRC 10,000,000 of annual net income.

In addition, the following exemptions are established for micro and small businesses registered with the Ministry of Economy, Industry, and Commerce or with the Ministry of Agriculture and Livestock:

- 0% of tax on profits in the first year of commercial activities.
- 25% of tax on profits in the second year of commercial activities.
- 50% of tax on profits in the third year of commercial activities.

Dividends distributed by a CHC to a non-resident natural or legal person in Colombia would be qualified as foreign source income.

BRANCH PROFITS TAX

In Costa Rica branches of foreign companies are subject to corporate income tax according to the rates set out in the table under 'Company Tax'.

CAPITAL GAINS TAX

As from 1 July 2019, the Tax Reform law will create a capital gains tax of 15% which will apply to investment income and real estate. For real estate the law provides a one-time exemption for those property owners that own property before the law comes into effect. Those will pay 2.25%. Also the primary residence is exempt from capital gains.

SALES TAX / VALUE ADDED TAX

From 1 July 2019, Costa Rica will move from a sales tax system to a VAT system. The current sales tax rate in Costa Rica is 13% and it only applies to a limited number of products. Changing to a Value Added Tax system will cover products and services. The general tax rate will remain at 13% while there will be a 4% tax on airline tickets and healthcare services. A 2% tax will be levied on medical products, raw materials and machinery used for production, insurance premiums, purchase and sale of university issued products. Basic food necessities from a specific list will be charged a 1% tax.

LOCAL TAXES

Costa Rica's income taxes affect the whole national territory equally.

OTHER TAXES

- Municipal Office Taxes: taxes are paid according to set rates and total assets of the company but the local municipality imposes the payment depending on several factors.
- Corporation Tax: all commercial companies have to pay this tax in January. The rates are as follows:

	Tax due (CRC)
Companies without commercial activities	66,930
Companies with gross income not exceeding CRC 53,544,000	111,550
Companies with gross income between CRC 53,544,000 and CRC 124,960,000	133,860
Companies with gross income exceeding CRC 124,960,000	223,100

- Social Security Tax: payments made monthly by employees and employees on the payroll of companies for the purpose of guaranteeing the functioning of the worker social security system and retirement benefits at the national level.
- Consumption tax: imposed on the import or domestic manufacture of goods. The rates are variable and selective, affecting only certain types of goods.

B. DETERMINATION OF TAXABLE INCOME

CAPITAL ALLOWANCES

There are currently no capital allowances in Costa Rica.

DEPRECIATION

Depreciation methods allowed are the straight-line method and the sum-of-the-year's digits method although the tax authorities may authorize the use of other methods.

Annual rates of depreciation based on the straight-line method are the following:

- Buildings in general: 2%;
- Wooden buildings: 4%-6%;
- Construction machinery and equipment: 15%;

Costa Rica

- Motor vehicles: 10%;
- Machinery and equipment: 10%;
- All types of boats: 10%;
- Farming machinery: 10%.

STOCK / INVENTORY

Stock / inventory is not taxable in Costa Rica.

CAPITAL GAINS AND LOSSES

Capital gains are not taxable in Costa Rica subject to certain exceptions (see above under 'Capital Gains Tax').

DIVIDENDS

Dividends are not taxable at the level of corporations in Costa Rica, i.e. dividends received by a resident company from another resident company are exempt from corporate income tax. However, this income is subject to a 15% final withholding tax when paid to individuals or foreign entities.

INTEREST DEDUCTIONS

Thin capitalisation rules are introduced further to the 2019 Tax Reform and will be applicable to financing from shareholders or related parties. In such cases, interest will be deductible up to 20% of the earnings before tax, depreciation, and amortisation (EBDITA). The difference may be deducted in the following years until the expense is amortised. Thin capitalisation rules will not apply to loans granted by local banks or non-domiciled financial entities supervised in their country of origin.

LOSSES

- Business losses from industrial enterprises may be carried forward for 3 years and deducted in equal or different percentages, provided the aggregate does not exceed 100%.
- Agricultural enterprises may carry forward losses for up to 5 years.
- Losses incurred by commercial enterprises may not be carried forward.
- There is no carry-back of losses.

FOREIGN SOURCED INCOME

The corporate tax system is based on the territoriality principle. Tax is only due on business income generated in Costa Rica, i.e. income from services rendered, capital invested and goods located in the country.

INCENTIVES

Companies operating in a Free Zone enjoy a number of exemptions which are valued according to the conditions of each company that wants to be established in these zones.

C. FOREIGN TAX RELIEF

There is no double taxation relief for foreign taxes as the Costa Rica tax system is based on the territoriality principle. Foreign taxes paid are not deductible for income tax purposes.

D. CORPORATE GROUPS

Costa Rican law does not allow group consolidation.

E. RELATED PARTY TRANSACTIONS

Since 2013 there are first-time transfer pricing rules applicable to business entities or individuals conducting transactions with related parties. These rules follow the OECD Transfer Pricing Guidelines and are based on the at arm's length principle. They provide for advance pricing agreements (APAs), documentation requirements, an annual information return and a transfer pricing methodology.

On 2 February 2018, Costa Rica gazetted Resolution No. DGT-R-001-2018, setting out the rules for filing a Country-by-Country ('CbC') report.

The parent company of a multinational group resident in Costa Rica with consolidated group revenue of the equivalent of EUR 750 million in the Costa Rican currency – presently CRC 529.3 million (USD 924.7 million)

– must comply with the obligation to file a CbC report, in line with the rules set out in the Resolution, which is intended to align Costa Rica's transfer pricing documentation regime with the recommendations put forward by the OECD in its Action 13 report on tackling base erosion and profit shifting.

The Resolution provides that groups covered by the regime must identify the entity that will file a CbC report by the last working day of the month of March each year, beginning in March 2018, through an official letter that must be sent digitally and signed by the local representative of the entity, addressed to the Director General of Taxation. The same deadline and rules apply to groups whose ultimate parent entity is in Costa Rica that have elected to file a CbC report in a different territory.

The Resolution provides that regardless of the month in which a reporting entity's fiscal period ends, the first CbC report must be furnished by 31 December 2018, at the latest, relating to the 2017 fiscal year. The same schedule applies to future years: the CbC report is required by 31 December 31 of each year following the relevant fiscal period.

F. WITHHOLDING TAX

Dividends paid to individuals or foreign entities are subject to a 15% final withholding tax. A lower rate of 5% applies if the stock of the company distributing dividends is traded on the Stock Exchange and if such stock was acquired on that market.

Interest, commission, fees and other financial expenses paid or credited to non-residents are subject to a 15% final withholding tax applied to the gross amounts.

However, interest is exempt from tax when paid to:

- multilateral or bilateral development institutions;
- development banks; or
- non-profit entities that are exempt from income tax.

Royalties from a Costa Rican-source paid or credited to non-residents are subject to a 25% final withholding tax on the gross amount.

Technical and financial advice fees are subject to a 25% final withholding tax on the gross amount.

G. EXCHANGE CONTROL

There is no foreign exchange control. Repatriation payments may be done in any currency. Both residents and non-residents may hold bank accounts in any currency.

H. PERSONAL TAX

An executive decree gazetted on 1 October 2018 updated the salary and income tax brackets and tax credit amounts for individuals for the 2019 tax year (i.e. 1 October 2018 to 30 September 2019). The changes are effective as from 1 October 2018.

A. TAXES PAYABLE

FEDERAL TAXES AND LEVIES

COMPANY TAX

Resident companies with a registered office or place of management and supervision in Croatia are taxed on their worldwide income. Non-resident companies are taxed only on income derived in Croatia.

The tax year is usually the calendar year. However, the taxpayer can choose to have a fiscal year different from the calendar year, which is subject to approval by the Tax Administration.

The profit tax is paid based on the determined tax base at the rate of:

1. 12% if, during the tax period, revenue has been generated up to HRK 3,000,000; or
2. 18% if, during the tax period, revenue has been generated equal to or higher than HRK 3,000,000.01.

Taxpayers are required to submit a corporate income tax return no later than four months following the end of the tax period.

CAPITAL GAINS TAX

Companies - Capital gains derived by a company from the sale of any capital assets are generally included in its ordinary profits. However, gains from the company's own shares (treasury shares) are not taxed.

BRANCH PROFITS TAX

There is no separate branch profit tax in Croatia. Trading profits and capital gains of a Croatian branch of a foreign company are calculated and taxed on the same basis as those of a Croatian resident company and only for Croatian sourced income. There is no branch remittance tax in Croatia.

SALES TAX / VALUE ADDED TAX (VAT)

VAT is payable on sales of goods and supplies of services, import of goods and intra-community acquisitions of goods.

The general VAT rate is 25%. A reduced rate of 13% (organised stays, newspapers and magazines, edible oils, water delivery, supply of electricity, etc.) and 5% (bread and milk, books, certain medicines, etc.) are also levied.

2. coffee and non-alcoholic beverages;
3. vehicle liability insurance premiums and comprehensive car insurance premiums.

Excise duties are applicable to:

1. alcohol and alcoholic beverages;
2. tobacco products;
3. energy;
4. electricity.

2. motor vehicles tax;
3. vessels tax;
4. slot machines tax;
5. surtax;
6. consumption tax;
7. holiday homes tax;
8. use of public areas tax.

OTHER TAXES

FRINGE BENEFITS TAX

Fringe benefits are subject to salary tax according to the value of the benefit in kind. The fringe benefits are taxed in the hands of the employee and include the private use of a company vehicle, free meals, interest free loans and any other non-business-related expense for the benefit of the employee. Non-alcoholic drinks during work hours are allowed.

REAL ESTATE TRANSFER TAX

Tax is charged at a rate of 3% of the market value of the real estate for transactions that include sale and any other means of transfer of ownership of real estate. If VAT is paid, the transaction is not subject to real estate transfer tax.

B. DETERMINATION OF TAXABLE INCOME

The taxable income of a company (corporate income tax base) is determined in accordance with the accounting regulations as the difference between revenue and expenses assessed in the profit and loss statement, adjusted for certain items that increase or decrease the tax base. The tax base can also be determined by the cash principle for realised revenue not exceeding 3 million HRK in the previous tax period. The option is granted to taxpayers who are at the same time VAT taxpayers and are paying VAT based on the realised income.

DEPRECIATION

Depreciation is calculated by using the straight-line method over the estimated useful life of an asset. Standard annual depreciation rates prescribed by the Corporate Income Tax Act can be doubled for tax purposes. The deduction for tax depreciation cannot exceed the expense for accounting depreciation. Depreciation expense for personal cars and other vehicles used for personal transportation, whose purchase cost exceeds 400,000 HRK, is tax deductible only for depreciation calculated on the amount of up to 400,000 HRK.

Standard depreciation rates prescribed by the Corporate Income Tax Act (max. tax deductible):

Assets	Rate
Buildings and ships over 1,000 gross registered tons	10%
Personal cars and basic herd	40%
Intangible assets, equipment, vehicles (excluding personal cars), machinery	50%
Computers, computer hardware and software, mobiles and network equipment	100%
Other non-mentioned assets	20%

STOCK / INVENTORY

Inventories are valued at the lower of acquisition cost or net realizable value. They include acquisition costs, conversion costs and other costs incurred in bringing inventories to their current location and condition. Accepted valuation methods include "first in, first out" (FIFO) or weighted average method.

Allowable limits of inventory shortages are prescribed.

CAPITAL GAINS AND LOSSES

Capital gains and losses are included in taxable income and are subject to regular corporate income tax rates. Specific rules apply to unrealised gains and losses on certain types of assets and may not be taxable or not tax deductible, and may be recognised for tax purposes in the period of the realisation of the asset.

DIVIDENDS

Dividends (profit distribution) are subject to:

- income tax on income from capital for resident natural persons - 12%;
- income tax on income from capital for non-resident natural persons - 12% (when a double tax treaty is not applicable);
- withholding tax for foreign companies - 12% (when a double tax treaty is not applicable).

Profit distribution to domestic companies is not taxable.

INTEREST DEDUCTIONS

Interest on late payment is tax deductible unless due to related companies.

Interest expense on loans between related companies is deductible up to the amount prescribed by the Finance Minister and published by the Croatian National Bank. For 2019 the maximum allowed interest rate is 3.96%. Interest expense calculation must also comply with thin capitalisation rules.

The interest rate determined according to the transfer pricing rules and applicable to all contracts may be applied instead of maximum interest rate allowed of 3.96%.

Thin capitalisation

Interest paid or accrued on a loan is not deductible if (i) the loan is granted by a shareholder or member owning more than 25% of the share capital or voting power of the company and (ii) the loan exceeds the amount of four times the shareholder's or member's share in the capital or voting rights. The thin capitalisation rules do not apply to loans granted by banks or other financial institutions.

LOSSES

Tax losses can be carried forward for up to five years. Carry-back of tax losses is not allowed.

Tax losses carried forward may be lost after a business combination (merger, acquisition, etc.) and/or change of ownership of more than 50% if the taxpayer did not perform any business activity in the two years preceding such an event or if the business activity of the taxpayers changed within two years after such an event.

TAX INCENTIVES

Tax incentives are available in accordance with the Corporate Income Tax Act and other special legislation regulating incentives. Incentives can be granted for investment activities, business support activities, and activities with higher added value. The tax base can hence be reduced by 50% to 100%.

Investment incentives depend on the amount invested and number of employees contracted. Employment incentives are granted for creating new jobs and for training required by the new job.

C. FOREIGN TAX RELIEF

Foreign tax paid on income earned by a Croatian resident may be credited against his income or corporate tax liability. The income should be earned directly or through a permanent establishment abroad. The tax relief may be granted up to the amount of the Croatian corporate tax payable.

D. CORPORATE GROUPS

Consolidated returns or other tax reliefs for corporate groups are not allowed. Companies within the group must submit separate tax returns and are taxed separately.

E. RELATED PARTY TRANSACTIONS

Related parties shall mean parties wherein one party participates directly or indirectly in management, supervision, or capital of the other party, or both parties participate directly or indirectly in management, supervision or capital of the company.

Transactions between related parties must be contracted under the terms and conditions that would be agreed between unrelated parties. Companies should prepare and maintain transfer pricing documentation. Interest paid or accrued between related parties must correspond to interest as would have been agreed between unrelated parties. Excessive interest payment is not deductible.

Transfer pricing rules also apply to transactions between related domestic entities if one of the entities is entitled to tax relief or has a right to carry forward tax losses from previous tax years.

F. WITHHOLDING TAX

Withholding tax at the rate of 15% is applied to payments of fees related to intellectual property rights, services of market research, business consulting, tax consulting, auditing, and interest to foreign legal entities, performance of artists, entertainers and athletes. Withholding tax on dividends and profit sharing is taxed at the rate of 12%.

The Corporate Income Tax Act and certain EU Directives provide for special treatment for dividends, royalties, and interest paid to related companies in other EU states. A full exemption may be applied under certain conditions.

A 20% withholding tax rate is applied to fees for services, other than those taxed at the 15% withholding tax rate, if paid to entities located in countries considered to be tax heavens or financial centres.

If a country has a double tax treaty signed with Croatia, withholding tax rates may be lower than the non-treaty rates. To benefit from lower rates, a special application needs to be completed and submitted.

G. EXCHANGE CONTROL

The Croatian National bank and the Foreign Exchange Act regulate domestic and foreign currency transactions. There are no restrictions on transfers of paid-in share capital, dividends, profit, interest, loyalty, and similar payments.

H. PERSONAL TAX

Income tax is chargeable on Croatian residents natural persons for income generated in Croatia and abroad.

Croatian residents are taxed on the following types of income:

1. income from employment (progressive taxation, rates 24% and 36%);
2. income from self-employment (progressive taxation, rates 24% and 36%);
3. income from property and property rights (tax rate 12%);
4. income from capital (tax rate 12%, 24% and 36%);
5. other income (tax rate 24%).

Income from employment, self-employment and other income are annual income. For these types of income, the annual tax calculation is carried out. When calculating the annual tax liability, advanced paid tax (paid withholding tax for salaries and other income) is included.

Income from property and property rights, capital and insurance is final income. They are subject to withholding tax and are not included in the annual tax liability.

CAPITAL GAINS

- Capital gains from the sale of movable property and securities are currently not subject to tax. The capital gains tax at a rate of 12% plus city surcharge applies to gains derived from financial instruments. However, such gains are not taxable if the financial instruments are held for more than 2 years.
- Capital gains from the sale of immovable property and proprietary rights are taxed by way of final withholding. The taxable amount is the market value of the property less the acquisition price (adjusted for inflation) and costs of alienation. However, such gains are not taxable if (i) the sale takes place after 2 years of ownership, (ii) the taxpayer or his dependants lived on the property before the sale or (iii) the sale is directly connected with a divorce or with an inheritance.

ANNUAL INCOME

The withholding liability for personal tax lies with the employer. The taxable base is calculated by applying prescribed tax deductions and tax allowances to the total amount of the so called "annual income". Tax rates are progressive and applicable to the taxable base when assessing annual income, comprised of employment income, self-employment income and other income not considered as final other income.

The applicable tax rates are:

Taxable income (HRK)	Rate (%)
Up to 360,000	24
Over 360,000	36

Employers are obliged to withhold tax from salaries at the following progressive rates:

Taxable income (HRK per month)	Rate (%)
Up to 30,000	24
Over 30,000	36

Municipalities are authorised to introduce a surcharge on the income tax at rates between 10% and 30%, depending on the number of inhabitants. The actual highest rate of the surcharge is currently 18% (e.g. in Zagreb).

SOCIAL CONTRIBUTIONS

Employers calculate and pay contributions for their employees. Pension insurance contributions are calculated at a rate of 20% on gross salary. Pension insurance contributions are withheld from the salary. Contributions for health insurance (16.5%) are calculated on the gross salary but are at the employer's expense.

I. TREATY AND NON-TREATY WITHHOLDING TAX RATES

Croatia has signed double tax treaties on avoidance of double taxation with 62 countries listed below. If double tax treaty applies, double taxations avoidance is ensured in accordance with the provisions of relevant treaty, mostly by granted tax relief on a credit basis.

KEY TAX POINTS

- Companies resident in Cyprus are subject to corporation tax on all their income: non-resident companies only on profits derived from Cyprus. Branches managed and controlled from Cyprus are taxed as resident companies.
- Capital gains tax applies to residents and non-residents disposing of immovable property situated in Cyprus, and shares in companies owning such assets.
- VAT is charged on taxable supplies and imports. A reduced rate, zero rate and exemption regime applies to the supply of certain goods and services.
- In the absence of a tax treaty, the tax paid on overseas income in a non-treaty country is normally allowed as a tax credit by concession and proof of payment. The tax credit may not exceed the Cyprus corporation tax on the overseas income.
- Cyprus tax resident individuals are subject to income tax on worldwide income, non-residents are subject to income tax on Cyprus-sourced income only.
- Cyprus tax resident and domicile individuals are subject to defence contributions on dividend, interest and rental income. Cyprus tax residents who are not Cyprus domiciles are exempted from defence contribution.
- An individual is considered of a Cyprus domicile if he/she has a domicile of origin in Cyprus based on the provisions of the Will and Succession legislation. Examples of domicile may include domicile of the parents at the time of birth or permanently living and intending to live in a country.
- Notwithstanding the above, an individual who although not of a Cyprus origin has been a Cyprus tax resident for 17 out of the last 20 years, prior to the relevant tax year, is considered as a Cyprus domicile.

A. TAXES PAYABLE

COMPANY TAX

A Cyprus resident company is subject to corporation tax on its worldwide income. Non-resident companies are subject to corporation tax only on profits derived in the Republic. Resident companies are those companies whose management and control is exercised from Cyprus.

The corporation tax rate is 12.50%. Taxes are paid by two instalments in advance based on a provisional assessment, which should be at least 75% of the final tax charge. A fiscal year is the calendar year.

CAPITAL GAINS TAX

Gains in respect of the sale of immovable property situated in Cyprus (including shares of a company having immovable property) are subject to Capital Gains Tax. Both residents and non-resident persons are subject to capital gains tax if they own immovable property in Cyprus. The applicable rate on the taxable income is 20%.

No tax is levied in respect of immovable property situated abroad. No tax is levied on capital gains in respect of profits on disposal of shares of companies (other than the ones which own immovable property).

BRANCH PROFITS TAX

Branches of foreign companies managed and controlled from Cyprus are taxed as if they were Cyprus resident companies. Foreign branch profits of Cyprus companies are relieved from Cyprus tax.

VALUE ADDED TAX (VAT)

VAT is generally imposed on taxable supplies of goods and services and undeveloped land for business purposes at the standard rate of 19%.

Certain supplies of goods and services are charged at the reduced rates of 5% - 9%; others are zero-rated, notably ship management services. Some supplies of goods and services are exempt from VAT: specifically, financial services, health and welfare, insurance, and education.

The annual VAT registration threshold is EUR 15,600.

Cyprus has adopted the provisions of the EU Directive 2008/8/EC effective from 1 January 2010. Exports of goods or provision of services to non-EU or to EU VAT registered persons are subject to 0%.

FRINGE BENEFITS TAX

Certain benefits such as use of cars for private purposes, rent, school fees etc are considered as benefits in kind and taxed accordingly.

LOCAL TAXES

Local taxes include transfer fees on sale and purchase of property, stamp duty (only in respect of assets situated in Cyprus or agreements executed in Cyprus).

OTHER TAXES

Contributions to the social insurance fund are paid on the salaries of resident employees. The total amount paid by an employer can vary from 12 to 14% of the gross salary. The employee pays a further 8.3%. As from 2019 onwards, employers contribute a further 1.85% and the employees 1.70% on the National Health Scheme. The maximum salary on which contributions are paid is currently EUR 4,554 per month and for the NHS EUR 180,000 per annum.

B. DETERMINATION OF TAXABLE INCOME

Resident companies pay taxes on their net taxable profits. These are determined by pooling their worldwide income and deducting allowable expenses, charges and capital allowances. Non-resident companies pay taxes on their Cyprus-sourced income only.

CAPITAL ALLOWANCES

Annual wear and tear allowances are allowed on various assets including plant and machinery; fixtures and fittings; commercial vehicles; hotels; commercial buildings; industrial buildings; computer hardware and software; and loose tools. Allowances range from 3% to 33% per annum. No capital allowances are given for saloon cars not used in the business.

DEPRECIATION

Depreciation included in the financial statements of entities is disallowed for tax purposes, as capital allowances are given instead. For accounting purposes, depreciation rates applied are those which write-off the assets over their useful life.

STOCK / INVENTORY

Opening and closing stocks are normally stated at the lower of cost and net realizable value on a FIFO basis.

CAPITAL GAINS AND LOSSES

Capital gains are computed separately and do not form part of the annual taxable income for corporation tax purposes. Indexation allowance is available for the determination of the taxable gains and losses. Capital losses can be offset against capital gains.

DIVIDENDS

Dividends receivable are exempt from corporation tax. Resident companies withhold contributions to the defence fund of the Republic on dividends paid only to Cyprus tax domicile and resident individuals at the rate of 17%.

INTEREST DEDUCTIONS

Interest expense is deductible if the borrowing is wholly and exclusively for the purposes of producing income. Interest paid to a connected party is a deductible expense.

Notional interest deductions are given on issue of share capital to encourage avoidance of thin capitalisation up to 80% on the annual taxable income. Interest deductibility restrictions exist to the extent that a company has non-business assets.

Under the new proposed CFC provisions, which are expected to be passed with effect as from 1 January 2019, exceeding borrowing costs shall be deductible in the tax period in which they are incurred only up to 30% of the taxpayer's earnings before interest, tax, depreciation and amortisation (EBITDA). Exceeding borrowing costs means the amount by which the deductible borrowing costs of a taxpayer exceed the taxable interest and related revenues that the taxpayer receives according to national law. In cases where the companies are part of the same group, exceeding borrowing costs and the EBITDA are calculated at the level of the group and comprise the results of all its members.

The above provisions do not apply in the following circumstances:

- a) When exceeding borrowing costs are up to EUR 3 million;
- b) When the taxpayer is a standalone entity.

Exceeding borrowing costs which cannot be set off against the taxable income in the current tax period can be carried forward to be set off against the income of the taxpayer for the next five subsequent years.

INTEREST INCOME

Where interest is considered as profit close to the ordinary activities of the company, then such type of income is considered as trading profit and not interest. Hence it is not subject to defence contribution and taxed at the corporate tax rate of 12.5%. Examples include financing and insurance companies, interest from trade receivables, etc.

Interest income is subject to a 30% defence contribution tax. If the recipient is a Cyprus non domicile individual defence contribution is exempted.

INCOME FROM INTANGIBLE ASSETS

Please note the following with respect to income from Intangible assets:

- The cost of acquisition or development of the Intellectual Property is amortised equally for a period of 5 years, giving a 20% taxable allowance each year.
- The existing IP Box regime grants deductions under a formula with a maximum deduction up to 80% of the profit deriving from either royalty income (including compensation for improper use), or sale of qualifying intellectual property is deducted as a tax expense, leaving only 20% of the net profit being taxed.
- Qualified IP include, inter alia, computer software and patents but not trademarks and goodwill.

LOSSES

Trading losses may be carried forward for a period of 5 years. Losses from overseas activities can be set off against chargeable income for the year and can be carried forward subject to the 5 year period.

If, within any period of three years, there is both a change in the beneficial ownership of a company and a major change in the nature of trade and, at any time before the change of ownership the activities in the trade become small or negligible, then no trading losses incurred prior to the change in ownership are allowed.

FOREIGN SOURCE INCOME

Cyprus has controlled foreign company legislation (CFC) legislation as to the extent of dividends from an overseas company. Such dividends are taxed if the companies paying the dividend have activities the nature of which amounts to more than 50% investment income and their country of residence imposes corporation tax which is less than 6.25% per annum. Both criteria must apply in order for the tax to be charged.

Under the new proposed CFC provisions, which are expected to be passed with effect as from 1 January 2019, an entity or a permanent establishment of which the profits are not subject to tax or are exempt from tax in Cyprus, is treated as a CFC where the following conditions are met:

- a) In the case of an entity, the taxpayer by itself, or together with its associated enterprises holds a direct or indirect participation of more than 50% of the voting rights, or owns directly or indirectly more than 50% of capital or is entitled to receive more than 50% of the profits of that entity; and
- b) The actual corporate tax paid on its profits by the entity or permanent establishment is lower than 50% of the corporate tax that would have been charged on the entity or permanent establishment under the applicable corporate tax system of Cyprus.

Where an entity or permanent establishment is treated as a CFC, Cyprus shall include in the tax base the non-distributed income of the entity or the income of the permanent establishment which is derived from the following categories:

- i. Interest or any other income generated by financial assets;
- ii. Royalties or any other income generated from intellectual property;
- iii. Dividends and income from the disposal of shares;
- iv. Income from financial leasing;
- v. Income from insurance, banking and other financial activities;
- vi. Income from invoicing companies earning sales and services income from goods and services purchased from and sold to associated enterprises, adding no or little economic value.

There are certain exemptions to the CFC rules.

TAX INCENTIVES

Some of the main incentives are as follows:

- (a) Low corporation tax of rates at 12.50%;
- (b) Non-resident entities are only taxed on their Cyprus-sourced income;
- (c) No withholding tax on payments of dividend and interest to non-residents and Cyprus domiciled individuals;
- (d) Profits and dividends from abroad are tax-free free subject to CFC rules stated above;
- (e) Restructuring legislation in line with the EU Merger Directive extending to companies in non-EU countries;
- (f) Up to 80% deduction from income from qualifying intellectual properties (royalties, etc.);
- (g) A Cyprus holding company can pay virtually no tax on its profits; and
- (h) Tax incentives for employees coming to Cyprus from overseas (see further).

C. FOREIGN TAX RELIEF

Foreign tax paid on income of a Cyprus resident company is credited against the corporation tax, subject to Double Tax treaty conditions. In the absence of a tax treaty, the tax paid in a non-treaty country is normally allowed as a deductible expense. Tax paid is credited only if a similar concession is given to Cyprus companies in that particular country. The foreign tax relief cannot exceed the Cyprus corporation tax on these profits.

D. CORPORATE GROUPS

Group loss relief is available to a group of Cyprus resident companies in relation to current year losses. Two companies will be considered as part of a group if one company holds 75% of the voting share capital or distributable profits of the other, or both companies are 75% subsidiaries of a third company. The group must be in existence within the whole fiscal year unless a company was incorporated in the year.

E. RELATED PARTY TRANSACTIONS

Transactions between related parties do not need to be adjusted for tax purposes as long as they are on 'an arm's length' basis. When there are transactions which are deemed as not at arm's length, then tax adjustments apply on a notional basis.

F. WITHHOLDING TAX

Irrespective of the existence of a double tax treaty, national tax legislation does not impose withholding tax with the exception of certain royalty payments if the IP is utilised in Cyprus. Cyprus has entered into double tax treaties with over 60 countries. Non-resident companies have no obligation to withhold taxes on any payments they make.

Dividends paid (directly or indirectly) to non-resident shareholders and interest paid to non-residents are not subject to withholding tax.

G. EXCHANGE CONTROL

There are no exchange controls in Cyprus.

H. PERSONAL TAX

A person who is resident for 183 days or more in aggregate during the tax year is deemed to be tax resident.

A person who is resident for more than 60 days and does not spend more than 183 days in another country has the option to become a Cyprus tax resident.

All individuals who are tax residents of the Republic are taxed on their worldwide income. Non-resident individuals are taxed on income derived from Cyprus only. Income tax is payable on assessable income less allowable deductions. Assessable income includes income from employment, rent, interest and profits from trade and business or professions.

Allowable expenses include social insurance and national health contributions and pension contributions.

Individuals taking up employment in the Republic, who were non-resident prior to employment are entitled to an allowance of 20% of remuneration up to a maximum of EUR 8,543 for a period of five years. Individuals with annual remuneration in excess of EUR 100,000 are entitled to an increased allowance of up to 50% for a period of five years, without a maximum ceiling. Salaried services rendered abroad for a total period of more than 90 days to a non-resident employer or at a PE abroad of a resident employer are exempt from income tax.

The current tax rates are as follows:

Taxable income (EUR)	Normal tax rate (%)
0 – 19,500	0
19,501 – 28,000	20
28,001 – 36,300	25
36,301 – 60,000	30
Over 60,000	35

Pensions receivable from abroad by a resident in respect of services rendered outside Cyprus are still taxed at 5%, after deduction of the first EUR 3,417 if the individual elects to do so.

KEY TAX POINTS

- Czech resident companies are subject to tax on their worldwide income. Non-resident companies are subject to tax on Czech-sourced income.
- Capital gains are not taxed separately but included within ordinary income.
- VAT is applied to the provision of goods, transfer of real estate, provision of services and imports. The basic rate is 21% although there is a lower rate of 15% and from 1 January 2015 a second lower rate of 10%.
- Transfer pricing rules apply to non-arm's length profit-sharing arrangements agreed between related parties.
- A real estate tax is levied on land and buildings.
- Ordinary credits for foreign income tax on overseas income are available for Czech resident taxpayers where a relevant double tax treaty exists. If there is no tax treaty, the overseas tax is included in the tax expenses for the following period.
- Czech resident individuals are subject to income tax on worldwide income, whereas non-resident individuals are only required to pay tax on Czech-sourced income. For 2019, the personal income tax rate is 15%. An additional 7% "solidarity surcharge" applies to the part of the gross employment income (including taxable benefits) and tax base from business income which exceeds 48 times the annual average salary (CZK 1,569,552 for 2019).
- In addition to income tax, employees also pay social security and medical insurance contributions at the rate of 11% withheld by their employers from their gross wages. Employer's part of social security and medical insurance represents an additional cost of 34%.
- Withholding tax applies to dividends, licence fees, interest and related income and royalties.

A. TAXES PAYABLE

COMPANY TAX

Company tax is payable by Czech resident companies on income derived from worldwide sources. Non-resident companies are required to pay the tax on income sourced in the Czech Republic. Resident companies are those which have their registered office or place of management located in the Czech Republic. The corporate income tax rate is 19% for 2019 and this is applied to all taxable profits of a business, including capital gains from the sale of shares (if not exempt under the participation exemption regime). A 5% and 0% tax rate applies to income from defined investments and pension funds respectively. A special tax rate of 15% applies to dividend income received by Czech tax resident entities from non-resident entities (unless a participation exemption applies).

A company may choose either a calendar year or an accounting year as its tax year. Tax returns are due within three months of the end of the tax period (or within six months for audited entities or entities represented by a chartered tax advisor). Tax is required to be paid within three months of the end of the tax period (or within six months for audited entities or represented by a chartered tax advisor). Estimated company tax payments (advance tax payments) are paid semi-annually or quarterly.

Online registration of sales

Taxpayers in the Czech Republic (individual entrepreneurs and legal entities who carry out business activities) are obliged to electronically evidence sales derived from business activities, e.g. when they are made in cash, by credit card, cheque, voucher or in any similar way. Entrepreneurs will get involved in the electronic registration of sales in four phases:

- 1 December 2016: accommodation and food services;
- 1 March 2017: retail trade and wholesale;

- In the course of 2019: third phase of electronic registration of sales should be launched: other professions, such as freelance, transport, agriculture;
- In the course of 2019: fourth phase of EET should be launched: selected crafts and manufacturing activities. The launch has been postponed though.

A taxpayer who is obliged to register his sales is supposed to report each single transaction in real-time to the Financial Authority and to also issue a receipt to the customer. Effective 1 March 2018 receipts are voluntarily marked with a Fiscal Identification Code (FIC) generated by the Financial Authority. With this code (FIC) all sales are registered. A violation of the registration of sales can be fined up to CZK 500,000.

From 1 March 2018, the obligation to register sales will not be applied to payments by card.

Implementation of exit tax

The relocation of the taxpayer's business assets from the Czech Republic to another state will be treated as a transfer of assets for a consideration and corporate income tax will be levied. The consideration is determined as the price agreed between unrelated parties under current business conditions. The legislation will come into force in the course of 2019.

CAPITAL GAINS TAX

Capital gains such as dividends, interest from owed securities, deposit accounts and deeds are subject to a 15% withholding tax. Where capital gains are paid to residents of non-treaty countries the rate of withholding tax is 35%. Dividend income is exempt from withholding tax if paid to a resident of an EU member state in accordance with the EU Parent-Subsidiary Directive No. 90/435/ EU.

The parent company must have a minimum 10% holding in the subsidiary's registered capital for an uninterrupted period of at least 12 months. The subsidiary must have the form of the entities indicated in the Parent-Subsidiary directive, be a tax resident in an EU Member State and be subject to corporate income tax in this State. An exemption also applies under the same conditions to dividends distributed by subsidiaries with their seat in Switzerland, Norway, Iceland or Liechtenstein. Moreover, a similar exemption applies to the income arising from a transfer of shareholdings by a parent company in its subsidiaries within the EU.

The scope of exemption is extended to dividends distributed by qualified subsidiaries with their seat outside the EU where a relevant double tax treaty is applicable and that are subject to a tax rate at a minimum of 12% both in the year of payment of distribution of the dividend and in the previous year. The exemption also applies to income from the transfer of shareholdings by parent companies in subsidiaries outside the EU under the same conditions.

Interest and royalties are tax exempt when paid from a Czech company to a parent company in another state in the EU or EEA (which is a shareholder of the Czech company and has held the shares for a period of at least 24 months). It is necessary to apply for this tax exemption with the Czech tax authorities. The following documents must generally be: tax domicile certificate of the parent company, extract of the commercial register of the parent company, extract of commercial register of the Czech company, the title of the licence fees, and confirmation from the tax authority of the parent company that it has its tax domicile in the EU or EEA state.

For companies, capital gains are included within ordinary income in the year they arise and are taxed as part of their respective taxable profits for the period. Capital gains are not taxed separately in the Czech Republic except for those from a foreign source.

BRANCH PROFITS TAX

There is no separate branch profits tax in the Czech Republic. The income of a Czech branch of a foreign company is subject to taxation at the standard applicable 19% rate for 2019. Attribution of profits to a branch, if it does not result from its separately held bookkeeping, is commonly determined on the basis of the margins that are generally realised by resident companies undertaking similar activities.

VALUE ADDED TAX (VAT)

Value Added Tax (VAT) is imposed on the domestic provision of goods, transfer of real estate, provision of services, including the transfer or use of rights and importation of goods. There are three rates of VAT; basic rate 21% and lower rate 15% and from 2015 10%. The 21% rate applies generally to supplies of goods and most services with some exceptions while the 15% rate applies to selected services and some goods such as foodstuffs, accommodation, restaurant, and transport services. The 10% rate applies in particular to pharmaceutical products, printed books, certain children's nutrition and qualified mill products.

With effect from 1 January 2015, changes in the Value Added Tax (VAT) legislation were made which:

- 1) Implemented a 'mini one-stop shop regulation' for companies providing electronic, telecommunication and broadcasting services to private customers;
- 2) Provided for additional categories of goods to be subject to the reverse charge mechanism; and,
- 3) Provided changes to the VAT treatment of a transfer of immovable property.

Goods and services exported from the Czech Republic to non-EU countries are exempt from VAT. The principles of the Sixth VAT Directive (77/1388/EU) have applied since 1 May 2004 to goods and services exported from the Czech Republic to EU countries. A group of related parties may register as a single VAT taxpayer.

Selected VAT payers will be obliged to submit the VAT Control Statement after 1 January 2016.

It is introduced as an effective tool to detect and prevent tax evasion and fraud. Its aim and purpose is to enable the tax authority to obtain information on selected transactions carried out by taxable persons registered for VAT and along with other available information to identify suspicious groups of taxable persons (chains, carousels), which are illegally withdrawing funds from the public budget. VAT Control Statement is based on records for the purposes of VAT, which taxable persons registered for VAT are already obliged to keep. Transactions which are declared in the VAT Control Statement:

1. Domestic taxable supplies (CZ) or receipt of advance payment;
2. Domestic acquisition of goods/services or providing of advance payment;
3. Received transactions from which the acquirer is obliged to declare VAT;
4. Special scheme for investment gold:
 - Received Intermediary Service for which VAT is applied;
 - Supply of VAT exempt investment gold for which a taxable person registered for VAT is entitled to deduct VAT; or
 - Production of investment gold or transformation of gold into investment gold.

Deadline for submission of the VAT Control Statement (CZ taxable persons registered for VAT):

- Legal persons or group registration have to submit the VAT Control Statement no later than the 25th day after the end of each month,
- Natural persons have to submit the VAT Control Statement on the same day as their VAT return (no later than the 25th day after the taxable period: month or quarter, or special taxable period e.g. in an insolvency procedure, etc.).

The VAT Control Statement has to be submitted electronically.

OTHER TAXES

Tax on real estate property is levied on buildings, structures and land situated within the Czech Republic. The taxpayer is the actual owner or in limited cases the user of the property. The rate depends on the size, quality, type and location of the property. This tax is deductible for corporate income tax purposes.

Income from inheritance and gifts is not subject to a specific tax but is included within the income tax regime and subject to tax at a rate of 15% for individuals and 19% for companies (broad exemptions apply to donations for individuals while income from inheritance is exempt for all taxpayers).

From 2014 a separate law was introduced for real estate transfer tax which was broadly in line with the previous system. Property transfers are liable to real estate transfer tax at the rate of 4% on the official valuation or actual price, whichever is higher. This tax is a deductible cost for income tax purposes. From December 2016 the sole taxpayer is the acquirer.

The employers' payment on behalf of their employees towards the workers' social security and medical insurance is at the rate of 34% of the gross payroll (social security premium payments are capped at CZK 1,569,552 in 2019).

There is no Stamp Duty in the Czech Republic although the operation of a notarial fee may apply for certain documents. There is no net wealth/worth tax in the Czech Republic.

B. DETERMINATION OF TAXABLE INCOME

The company's taxable income is determined by ascertaining assessable income and then subtracting all allowable expenses. In general, to be tax deductible, all expenses must be related to the gaining or producing of assessable income and are not exempt pursuant to the law on income tax.

DEPRECIATION

The tax law prescribes six groups of tangible assets for tax depreciation purposes using depreciation periods ranging from three to 50 years. Either straight-line or accelerated depreciation methods are available. The choice of a method is made by the taxpayer and, once selected, cannot be changed for the remaining life of the asset.

Assets	Depreciation group	Depreciation period (minimum years)
Office machines and computers, tools	1	3
Engines, motor vehicles, machines, audio-visual equipment	2	5
Elevators, escalators, turbines, air conditioning equipment, electric motors, and generators	3	10
Buildings made of wood and plastic, long-distance lines, and pipes	4	20
Buildings (except for those listed in groups 4 and 6), roads, bridges, tunnels	5	30
Administrative buildings, department stores, historical buildings, and hotels	6	50

Tangible assets with economic useful lives of longer than one year and acquisition prices higher than CZK 40,000 are subject to tax depreciation. Buildings are always considered as tangible assets. Intangible assets which are acquired for CZK 60,000 or more, have a useful life of longer than one year and were acquired from a third party or developed internally for the purpose of trading are also subject to tax depreciation. It includes software, valuable rights or the intangible results of research and development.

For tax purposes, intangible assets are depreciated over the life of the license held by the taxpayer (if the licence is for a limited number of years), otherwise it depends on the category of intangible asset, for example, research and development and software are depreciated over 36 months and audio-visual works are depreciated over 18 months.

STOCK / INVENTORY

All trading stock is valued at purchase price, including ancillary costs incurred. Stock produced by the company's own operation is valued at internal costs. If a temporary reduction of stock value is non-tax deductible, corrective provisions are applied. Accepted valuation methods include the use of the arithmetical average cost and first in first out (FIFO) methods but not last in first out (LIFO) or the replacement-cost methods (except for livestock).

DIVIDENDS

If dividends are not tax exempt under the participation exemption regime, they are subject to a final withholding tax of 15% or the rate agreed in an applicable double tax treaty if paid to a non-resident. A tax exemption does not apply to a profit share paid out as result of the liquidation of a company. A withholding tax of 35% applies to dividends paid to resident entities of countries which are not part of the EU or EEA and do not have an enforceable double tax treaty or tax information exchange agreement with the Czech Republic.

INTEREST DEDUCTIONS

Interest incurred for business purposes is broadly tax deductible. However, thin capitalisation rules apply which can restrict its deduction. Notably, financial costs (e.g. interest plus other related costs, such as bank fees) of credits and loans for the relevant tax period shall be considered non-deductible expenses for the proportion of related-party loans which exceed four times the accounting equity (based on Czech GAAP) of the borrower. The non-deductible expense is the amount of the interest connected to the part of the sum of credits and loans (including financing costs) from related parties by which it exceeds a 4:1 debt-to-equity ratio (6:1 for banks and insurance companies) in the period for which the tax return is submitted.

Apart from the thin capitalisation rule, an additional interest limitation rule has been introduced:

- The part of financial costs that exceeds 30% of EBITBA or 80 million CZK is non-deductible;
- All financial costs are taken into account for calculation purposes (not just interest paid to related parties);

- For calculation purposes the financial costs are reduced by financial costs which are non-deductible according to the thin capitalisation rule and by the financial revenue.

LOSSES

Tax losses may be carried forward for five years following the year when the tax loss has been declared. Losses may not be carried back. Losses arising (after 2004) may be transferred within the framework of common taxation of parent and daughter companies within the EU territory (transfers of enterprises, mergers and demerger of enterprises) subject to strict conditions.

INCENTIVES

Investment incentives including tax relief are governed by the Investment Incentives Act and apply only to Czech entities (including Czech subsidiaries of foreign companies). A variety of incentives are available including financial support for training or retraining of employees or the creation of new jobs, capital expenditure grants and income tax relief. There are also incentives to support technology centres, strategic services and the manufacturing industry of the Czech Republic.

C. FOREIGN TAX RELIEF

Ordinary credits for foreign income tax are available to resident taxpayers under Czech law where a double tax treaty exists which indicates a tax credit as a method of avoidance of double taxation. The clearance or exemption method is available, according to the particular double tax treaty. If there is no tax treaty relief, the legal entity will include the foreign tax paid as a tax expense for the following period provided it was imposed on income which has been included in the Czech entity's taxable income.

D. CORPORATE GROUPS

There is no group taxation in the Czech Republic. Each company is taxed as a standalone entity regardless of its ownership or control relationships.

E. RELATED PARTY TRANSACTIONS

Non-arm's length pricing arrangements between related parties are addressed by transfer pricing legislation which allows the tax authority to adjust the prices to reflect third party arm's length values.

Where such adjustments are made by the tax authorities, which can be the result of an audit, additional tax liabilities and penalties can arise which can also affect a company's ability to claim investment incentives. As of the tax period 2014 qualified companies are obliged to file a special form describing arrangements between related parties together with the corporate income tax return. The Czech Republic tax authorities follow OECD pricing guidelines and an Advance Pricing Agreement (APA) between a company and its related parties can be agreed upon.

CFC legislation has also been introduced in 2019. A Czech entity will have to include in its tax base selected income of its controlled foreign company, i.e. a company in whose capital the Czech company participates directly or indirectly for more than 50%.

Another condition for the inclusion in the domestic tax base is that the foreign company does not carry out any substantial economic activity and its tax liability abroad is lower than one half of the tax liability that such company would have if it were taxed under domestic tax laws. If the foreign subsidiary qualifies as a controlled company under these conditions, its Czech parent will have to include its selected income, such as income from dividends, interest and royalties in its own tax base. The Czech parent may then offset any tax paid by the subsidiary on this foreign-sourced income against its tax liability.

F. WITHHOLDING TAX

Certain types of income of companies are subject to withholding tax at source. In the case of resident taxpayers, dividends from Czech sources are subject to a final withholding tax at 15% whereas interest and royalties are not subject to withholding tax and are included in the general tax base. In the case of non-residents, dividends, interest and royalties are all subject to 15% withholding tax if an exemption does not apply – see more precisely above under the chapter 'Capital Gains Tax'. Residents of countries outside the EU or EEA which do not have an enforceable double tax treaty or tax information exchange agreement with the Czech Republic are subject to 35% withholding tax.

G. EXCHANGE CONTROL

The Foreign Exchange Act allows the Czech currency to be used freely to pay for business and other costs, for direct investment and reinvestment and for purchase of real estate property abroad. Capital transfers have been deregulated but the reporting duty has been retained. Sales of foreign currency and gold are permitted where one of the parties is an entity holding a licence or foreign currency permit.

H. PERSONAL TAX

Income tax is payable by Czech resident individuals on income derived from worldwide sources. Non-resident individuals are only required to pay tax on Czech-sourced income. Tax residence is determined by reference to permanent home or whether the individual has spent at least 183 days of the relevant calendar year in the Czech Republic.

Income tax is payable on the total tax base from different types of income. Taxable income of individuals includes employment income, business income, certain capital gains, dividend income, rental income, interest income, annuities and other income including benefits in kind related to such income. Generally, the tax base is calculated as the difference between assessable income and tax deductible allowable expenses. Expenses cannot be claimed for employment income or capital gains (most of which are subject to withholding tax). Employment income cannot be reduced by losses of any other categories of income. The tax base for employment income is increased by the amount of social security and health insurance contributions to be paid by the employer (34%, so called super-gross wage). Income from business or rental operations can be reduced by losses derived from other categories. Income from employment is taxable individually and is reduced by some deductible items and personal allowances.

For 2019, the personal income tax rate is 15%. However, income from employment and business income are also subject to "solidarity surcharge" that represents an additional 7% applied to the amount which in total exceeds 48 times the annual average salary (CZK 1,569,552 for 2019). Employees hired under an employment contract under Czech law pay social security and medical insurance contributions at the rate of 11% withheld by their employers from their gross wages. This represents 6.5% for social security and 4.5% for health insurance. The contribution rates for the employer are 25% for social security and 9% for health insurance. Medical insurance and social security contributions are also paid by self-employed individuals.

The maximum annual social security contributions cap which applies to both employees and entrepreneurs is 48 times the average monthly wage per year (CZK 1,569,992 for 2019).

- A deduction of up to CZK 24,000 per year is available subject to certain conditions for private contributions paid on private life insurance. A deduction is also available for up to CZK 24,000 per year (subject to certain conditions) for private contributions paid to a private pension insurance fund.
- A deduction is available for up to CZK 300,000 per year for interest paid on a mortgage for the taxpayer's permanent home, although several strict conditions apply.
- Income from a sale of shares represents part of an individual's total income tax base subject to a 15% tax rate. For a taxable period, shares sold below CZK 100,000 are exempt from taxation. Similarly, if an individual has owned property for longer than a certain time (depends on property), gain arising from the sale of that property is exempt from tax.

Tax returns are due on 1st April, or 1st July if prepared by a chartered tax advisor. Advances to income tax from employment income are paid monthly. Payments on account of tax on income from business operations, rental income, etc. are made half-yearly and quarterly, as for corporations, based on the last known tax liability.

Inheritance and Gift Taxes have been abolished. From 2014 any income from an inheritance and from gifts is part of the personal income tax (therefore subject to the flat rate of 15%). Any income from an inheritance is exempt from income tax whereas the exemption of the income from the gift depends on the level of next of kin of the beneficiary of the gift with the donator. Real estate property and property transfer taxes are deductible.

Notes:

1. If the recipient is a company that owns at least a certain amount of the capital, or a certain amount of the voting shares of the company paying the dividend directly, then the lower rate applies. Dividends paid to residents of countries outside the EU and the EEA which do not have an enforceable double tax treaty or tax information exchange agreement with the Czech Republic are subject to 35% withholding tax.
2. When interest is received by the government or a state-owned institution or is paid by the government then the lower rate applies. Interest paid to residents of countries outside the EU and the EEA which do not have an enforceable double tax treaty or tax information exchange agreement with the Czech Republic are subject to 35% withholding tax.
3. Cultural royalties are generally subject to the lower rate. Royalties paid to residents of countries outside the EU and the EEA which do not have an enforceable double tax treaty or tax information exchange agreement with the Czech Republic are subject to 35% withholding tax.

BASIC FACTS

Full name:	Democratic Republic of Congo
Capital:	Kinshasa
Main languages:	French
Population:	86.42 million (2019 estimate)
Monetary unit:	Congolese Franc (CDF)
Internet domain:	.cd
Int. dialling code:	+243

KEY TAX POINTS

- The Democratic Republic of Congo (the 'DRC') operates a declarative tax system in which the taxpayer declares and pays monthly tax collections to the taxation authorities. False declarations are punishable by penalties and interest on late payment.
- In the DRC, there are two types of income taxes:
 - Income tax on individuals;
 - Income tax on entities.
- There is a tax on turnover, borne by the final consumer, known as Value Added Tax (VAT).

A. TAXES PAYABLE

CORPORATE INCOME TAX

Congolese companies are taxed on the territoriality principle. As a result, companies carrying on a trade or business outside the Democratic Republic of Congo (DRC) are not taxed in the DRC on the related profits. Congolese companies are those registered in the DRC, regardless of the nationality of the shareholders or where the company is managed and controlled.

Foreign companies (for example, branches) engaged in activities in the DRC are subject to Congolese corporate tax on Congolese-source profits only. A company is considered to have a permanent establishment in the DRC if it satisfies either of the following conditions:

- It possesses a fixed or permanent place (for example, head office, branch office, factory, plant, workshop, or buying and selling counter);
- In the absence of such place, it carries out a professional activity under its corporate name for at least six months in the DRC.

Rate of corporate tax

The regular corporate income tax rate is 35%. The minimum tax payable is 1% of the annual turnover for larger corporations.

For small corporations with annual revenues of less than CDF 10 million, the corporate income tax is set at CDF 50,000.

For average-sized corporations with annual revenues between CDF 10 million and CDF 200 million, the corporate income tax rate is 1% of the annual revenue for sales of goods and 2% for the provision of services. The corporate income tax rate is 30% for companies holding mining or quarry titles.

CAPITAL GAINS

Increases resulting from capital gains and depreciation that are realised and either realised or expressed in the accounts or inventories are included in profits and are subject to tax at a rate of 35%.

Increases resulting from unrealised capital gains that are expressed in the accounts or inventories and that are not treated as profits are not yet taxable. This rule applies only if the taxpayer holds a regular accounting and if it fulfils its declarative obligations.

Increases resulting from realised capital gains on buildings, tools, materials and movable assets (regardless of whether they result from rent payments), as well as on participations and portfolios, are taxable to the extent that the sales price exceeds the acquisition price or cost. A deduction is made from the amount of the depreciation that has already been claimed for tax purposes.

ADMINISTRATION

The fiscal year extends from 1 January to 31 December. Tax returns must be filed by 30 April.

Corporate tax must be paid in two instalments before 1 August and 1 December. Each instalment must equal 40% of the preceding year's tax (increased by any tax reassessment received by the tax office during the current year). The balance of tax due must be paid by the following 30 April. A penalty of 4% per month is assessed for late payment of tax.

Tax is fixed automatically if a tax return is not filed.

DIVIDENDS

In general, dividends paid are subject to a 20% withholding tax. The rate of dividend withholding tax for mining companies is 10%. A notional dividend withholding tax applies to branches. The rates of this tax are 8% for public limited liability companies and 10% for other limited liability companies.

INTEREST DEDUCTIONS

There are no thin capitalisation rules in the DRC. However, under the 2014 Finance Law, outbound interest payments to a foreign resident shareholder or any other related party are deductible only if the loan is repayable within a maximum period of 5 years and the interest rate does not exceed the annual average rate applied by banks established in the country of the lending entity.

LOSSES

Tax losses incurred in a tax year may be carried forward indefinitely. However, the deduction of the available tax losses is capped at 60% of the annual taxable income.

Loss carry-back is not allowed.

B. DETERMINATION OF TRADING INCOME

GENERAL

Taxable income is based on financial statements prepared in accordance with principles set by the Organisation for the Harmonisation of Business Law in Africa (Organisation pour l'Harmonisation en Afrique du Droit des Affaires, or OHADA) Accounting Act, except for banks and insurance companies. The net amount of income is taxed. This amount equals gross income minus business expenses incurred during the tax year to acquire and retain the income. Business expenses are generally deductible unless specifically excluded by law. The following expenses are not deductible:

- Head office, remuneration or management fees for services paid to non-residents that are not justified;
- Head office overhead or remuneration for certain services (studies and technical assistance) paid to non-residents;
- Expenditure of a personal nature, such as maintenance of household, appraisal fees, holidays and other expenses not necessary for the profession;
- Corporate income tax, as well as real tax (tax on movable assets, tax on vehicles or tax on mining concessions), to the extent that the real tax does not constitute an operating expense;
- All judicial or administrative fines, and fees and charges relating to breaches by income beneficiaries;
- Certain specific charges, gifts, subsidies and penalties;
- Directors' fees allocated under the Corporations Act to members of the General Council;
- Expenditures on leased property, including depreciation of the property;
- Provisions for losses, expenses or depreciation of assets, excluding provisions for the recovery of mineral deposits and provisions for the recovery of bank capital;
- Commissions and brokerage fees if it cannot be proven that the tax on turnover has been paid for these items;
- Most liberalities (payments that do not produce a compensatory benefit, such as excessive remuneration paid to a director).

TAX DEPRECIATION

Land and intangible assets, such as goodwill, are not depreciable for tax purposes. Other fixed assets may be depreciated using the straight-line method at rates specified by tax law. The following are some of the specified annual rates.

Asset	Rate (%)
Buildings	2 to 5
Office equipment	10
Motor vehicles	20 to 25
Plant and machinery	10
Shipping and aviation equipment	10 to 33

Companies can also opt for a regressive method for tax depreciation of specific assets with an annual rate of two to three times the straight-line rate.

INVENTORIES

Inventories are normally valued at their historical cost or acquisition cost.

PROVISIONS

In determining accounting profit, companies must implement certain provisions, such as a provision for risk of loss or for certain expenses. These provisions are not deductible for tax purposes. However, provisions for recovery of bank capital and provisions for the recovery of the mineral deposit are deductible for tax purposes.

C. FOREIGN TAX RELIEF

In general, foreign tax credits are not allowed. Income subject to foreign tax that is not exempt from Congolese tax under the territoriality principle is taxable.

D. CORPORATE GROUPS

The DRC does not have a fiscal integration system equivalent to a consolidated filing position.

E. RELATED PARTY TRANSACTIONS

The DRC has several measures applicable to related-party transactions that are not conducted on an arm's length basis. The 2014 Finance Law introduced tighter provisions for deductions with respect to cross-border transactions carried out with related parties. These provisions include the disallowance of loan interest with respect to rates exceeding those offered on the international finance market (for example, the London Interbank Offered Rate [LIBOR]) and the repayment of principal beyond five years. Management fees paid to a related party may be deducted from the corporate income tax base if the following conditions are satisfied:

- The services rendered can be clearly identified (i.e. they are genuine services that are effectively rendered and directly related to operating activities);
- The services cannot be rendered by a local company (that is, overhead expenses recharged to the local entity are excluded);
- The amount paid for the services is not exaggerated in view of the nature of the services. These arm's-length requirements are consistent with those set forth in the Mining Code. The 2015 Finance Law introduced transfer pricing documentation requirements. As a result, companies must put at the disposal of the tax administration during a tax audit, general and specific information on an affiliated group of companies (Master File and Local File), including the following:
 - General description of the deployed activity, including changes that occurred during the year;
 - A general description of the legal or operational structures of the affiliated group of companies, including identification of the related companies engaged in transactions involving the company established in the DRC (local company);
 - A general description of the function performed and risk assumed by the affiliated companies as soon as they affect the local company;

- A list of the main intangible assets owned, including patents, trademarks, trade names and know-how, relating to the local company;
- A general description of the group's transfer pricing policy;
- A description of transactions made with other affiliated companies, including the nature and amount of cash flows, such as royalties;
- A listing of the cost-sharing agreement, copies of preliminary agreements related to transfer pricing that are concluded under the conditions of the regulation, and the prescription relating to the determination of transfer pricing, affecting the results of the local company;
- Presentation of the method or methods for determining transfer pricing, in compliance with the arm's-length principle, including an analysis of the functions performed, assets used and risks assumed, and an explanation concerning the selection and application of the methods used;
- An analysis of comparative elements considered as relevant by the company if the selected method requires it. In addition, the corporate income tax law disallows branches from deducting overhead charges incurred by the parent company and charged back to the branch.

F. WITHHOLDING TAX

Description	Rate (%)
Dividends	20 (a)
Interest	20 (b)
Royalties from patents, know-how, etc.	20 (c)
Fees for technical services, digital services and professional activities	14 (d)

- The rate of dividend withholding tax for mining companies is 10%. A notional dividend withholding tax applies to branches (branch remittance tax). The rates of this tax are 8% for public limited liability companies and 10% for other limited liability companies.
- Interest on loans abroad to mining companies is not subject to withholding tax.
- The net amount of royalties is subject to tax. For this purpose, net royalties equal gross royalties minus professional expenses, or 30% of gross royalties (resulting in an effective tax rate of 14%).
- This withholding tax applies to payments for services provided to Congolese companies by foreign companies and individuals without a permanent establishment in the DRC. The tax base is the gross amount of the applicable invoice.

G. EXCHANGE CONTROL

The currency in the DRC is the Congolese franc (CDF). The exchange rate is variable. In the DRC, the Central Bank of Congo regulates foreign exchange controls. It also supervises the regulation on the transfer of currency. Cash transfers from or into the DRC are not subject to restrictions if they do not exceed the equivalent of USD 10,000. An exchange control fee of 0.2% is levied on payments to or from abroad.

H. PERSONAL TAX

The standard progressive rates applicable to wages are as follows:

Taxable income	Rate (%)
Up to 524,160	0
524,161 – 1,428,000	15
1,428,001 – 2,700,000	20
2,700,001 – 4,620,000	22.5
4,620,001 – 7,260,000	25
7,260,001 – 10,260,000	30

10,260,001 – 13,908,000	32.5
13,908,001 – 16,824,000	35
16,824,001 – 22,956,000	37.5

Notes:

- The 15% rate applies if dividends are paid by a company whose profits are exempt from Congolese tax under the Investment Code or under a particular law organizing investments in the sectors listed in Article 3 of the said Code, provided that the beneficial owner is a company which holds directly at least 25% of the capital of the company paying the dividends. The 10% rate applies in all other cases.
- The 5% reduced rate applies if the beneficial owner is a company (other than a partnership) which holds directly at least 25% of the capital of the company paying the dividends.

KEY TAX POINTS

- Danish resident companies are subject to corporate income tax on Danish profits (including gains) and to some extent on foreign-sourced income. Non-resident companies pay tax on income sourced in Denmark.
- Branches of foreign companies are subject to tax on income derived from activities in Denmark.
- Danish companies within a group, along with Danish permanent establishments and real estate owned by foreign subsidiaries are subject to compulsory Danish joint taxation.
- Value added tax is applied at a standard rate, but subject to zero-rating and exemption. Danish legislation generally follows EU Directives.
- A property tax is levied locally.
- A controlled foreign company (CFC) system operates to attribute profits of a foreign subsidiary to a Danish parent where the activities of the subsidiary are mainly financial.
- Unilateral and tax treaty relief are available for foreign tax levied on profits subject to Danish corporate income tax.
- Dividends, interest and royalty payments are subject to withholding tax, unless exempted under a relevant double tax treaty.
- Individuals resident in Denmark are taxable on worldwide income, non-residents on Danish-sourced income.
- A special basis of assessment is available for some expatriates employed temporarily in Denmark for a maximum of 72 months.

A. TAXES PAYABLE

FEDERAL TAXES AND LEVIES

COMPANY TAX

Resident corporations are subject to Danish corporate income tax on their profits in Denmark and, to some extent, on income sourced abroad. Non-resident companies are required to pay tax on income sourced in Denmark. Resident corporations include all Danish companies registered with the Danish Commerce and Companies Agency, as well as certain non-registered companies that are treated as residents. Companies incorporated under the laws of another country may be considered to be resident in Denmark if their central management and control is exercised in Denmark.

Corporate income tax is charged at 22%. Tax is paid on account on a current year basis in two instalments on 20 March and 20 November during the tax year, with a final instalment due on 20 November following the end of the tax year.

CAPITAL GAINS TAX

Capital gains/losses on disposals of assets are, in general, included in taxable income and subject to tax at the normal corporate tax rate. Capital gains on disposals of shares are exempt unless the shareholding is less than 10% in a listed company. Capital losses on disposals of other shares are deductible, if they can be offset against gains on other shares in a listed company. Capital gains on disposals of assets and liabilities of a Danish permanent establishment are taxable in Denmark. This applies also to Danish real estate.

BRANCH PROFITS TAX

Branches of foreign companies are taxed on income derived from their activities in Denmark. Tax is calculated at the corporate tax rate of 22%.

VALUE ADDED TAX (VAT)

Danish value added tax (VAT) is levied at a standard rate of 25% of the sale price of most goods and services and the legislation generally follows EU Directives. No graduated rates exist. Certain services are exempt, including most banking and medical services. Instead, a payroll tax of between 3.54% and 14.5% is charged on the actual payroll or, in certain cases, on the result before interest and capital gains. Exports are zero rated.

FRINGE BENEFITS TAX (FBT)

The tax value of most benefits in kind is, in principle, the fair market value. Employees are taxed on benefits in kind received. The cost of benefits in kind is deductible for tax purposes by the company.

LOCAL TAXES

PROPERTY TAX

Owners of real estate are subject to a local property tax based on the value of the land. The tax is levied at various local rates ranging from 1.6% to 3.4%.

OTHER TAXES

Transfer tax is levied on registration only. A change in ownership of real estate is charged at the rate of 0.6% + DKK 1,660 and on mortgages at 1.5% + DKK 1,660. Different rates apply to registrations of ships and aircraft.

Stamp Duty only applies to certain insurance policies.

SOCIAL SECURITY TAXES

Social security is funded almost entirely through income taxes. The only exceptions are the ATP and Health Contribution. ATP is a supplementary State pension scheme. The employer pays DKK 2,271 (2019) annually and employees pay DKK 1,136 (2019) annually.

Health Contribution is collected from employees and self-employed persons. The contribution is levied on gross salary and business income respectively at the rate of 8%. The employer withholds the contribution for the employee and the amount of the contribution is deductible when computing the employee's personal income.

B. DETERMINATION OF TAXABLE INCOME

Net or taxable income is arrived at by adjusting the accounting profits for non-taxable income and non-deductible items.

DEPRECIATION

Assets which cost less than DKK 13,800 (2019) or have an estimated useful life of less than three years can be written off immediately. Ships of less than 20 tons, machinery, furniture and other equipment are generally depreciated collectively using the declining-balance method. The balance may be written off at a maximum rate of 25%.

Buildings for manufacturing etc. are depreciated under the straight-line method according to the useful life. The normal rate is 4% per annum. If the useful life is less than 25 years, the rate will be increased accordingly. Depreciation of office buildings and dwelling houses is not allowable for tax purposes.

The cost of goodwill, know-how, etc. may be depreciated over seven years using the straight-line method.

STOCK / INVENTORY

Inventory may be valued at cost or market value.

CAPITAL GAINS AND LOSSES

See discussion above.

DIVIDENDS

Dividends received from a subsidiary are basically exempt from tax if the parent company owns 10% or more of the share capital during a 12-month period in which the dividend is received. It is a requirement that the dividend-paying company is resident within the EU or in a tax treaty country and that it is not a 'flow-through' entity. Specific rules apply to dividends received from a subsidiary in a non-EU and non-treaty country. Withheld tax will be considered as a tax payment on account.

INTEREST

Interest income, except interest on overpaid corporate tax, is included in taxable income. Companies must compute this income on an accruals basis. In general, interest paid is deductible whether due to foreign or resident creditors and regardless of the purpose of the debt. However, limitations may apply due to Danish thin capitalisation rules and limitations apply if net financial expenses exceed DKK 21.3 million (2019). Interest on overdue tax is not deductible.

LOSSES

Losses may normally be carried forward indefinitely. It is possible to deduct DKK 8,385,000 (2019). If the profit exceeds DKK 8,385,000 (2019), it is possible to deduct 60% of the remaining profit. However, losses may not be offset against interest and other capital income, net of interest paid, if more than 50% of the shares in the company have changed ownership since the loss was incurred. If a company enters into a settlement with creditors, losses carried forward are reduced by the nominal amount of debt cancelled.

In cases where the company receives a capital contribution in connection with a reconstruction from a principal creditor and the company subsequently repays its debts to the creditor, tax losses from income years up to and including the year of the capital contribution will be reduced by an amount equal to the capital reduction. Furthermore, tax losses cannot be offset against future taxable income if the company has no activity at the time the transfer was agreed. Losses cannot be carried back.

CONTROLLED FINANCIAL COMPANY (CFC) INCOME

Profits made by Danish financial companies or foreign subsidiaries will be taxed in Denmark if the Danish parent company (directly/indirectly) controls the company (votes/decisive influence) and if the business of the company is mainly of a financial nature (i.e. more than half of its gross income is derived from certain financial activities).

Credit is given for foreign taxes paid on foreign income. Losses resulting from activities in foreign countries cannot generally be deducted from the Danish-sourced income unless voluntary global joint taxation has been chosen.

C. FOREIGN TAX RELIEF

Danish tax law provides for unilateral relief for foreign taxes paid on some types of income (dividends, royalties, etc.). Such relief may not exceed the Danish tax liability that relates to the foreign income concerned. If a tax treaty is in force, relief may be restricted to the tax that the foreign state is entitled to levy under the treaty. If income is earned in a country with which Denmark has no tax treaty, any foreign tax is relieved by the credit method under domestic tax rules. No Danish tax credit is given for foreign permanent establishment profit or real estate profit unless voluntary global joint taxation is elected for. Thus, Denmark has adopted the territoriality principle for Danish companies.

D. CORPORATE GROUPS

Danish companies within a group, along with Danish permanent establishments and real estate of foreign subsidiaries are subject to compulsory Danish joint taxation. Such companies must have the same financial year. The group taxation allows the pooling of profits and losses. Losses of one company can be offset against profits of another company.

Such a group may elect to enter into a voluntary global joint taxation arrangement with foreign group companies and foreign permanent establishments and real estate. If voluntary global joint taxation is opted for, all foreign group companies, permanent establishments and real estate 'above' and 'below' Denmark must be included in the joint taxation (cf. 'global'). In this case, capital gains derived by non-residents from disposals of Danish shares or bonds may be subject to tax in Denmark.

The foreign entities' income, assessed according to Danish rules, is then included in the Danish taxable income of the group, but normally no additional Danish tax is imposed because a tax credit for foreign corporate tax paid is allowed. The inclusion may allow foreign tax losses to be offset against Danish taxable profits. Special rules apply with respect to exemption/credit for foreign taxes and claw back provisions respectively.

E. RELATED PARTY TRANSACTIONS

Related party transactions must be in accordance with the arm's length principle.

F. WITHHOLDING TAX

Danish outbound dividends are generally subject to a 27% withholding tax. Outbound interest payments are generally subject to a 30% Danish withholding tax. However, several modifications apply, and under most tax treaties this withholding tax is reduced or refunded. Outbound royalty payments under industrial, commercial or scientific agreements are subject to a 30% withholding tax. Under most tax treaties, this withholding tax is reduced or refunded.

G. EXCHANGE CONTROLS

In general, Denmark does not impose exchange controls on business activities.

H. PERSONAL TAX

Individuals are deemed to be residents of Denmark for tax purposes if they occupy accommodation in Denmark as their permanent place of abode or remain in the country for a period of six months or more. Tax residency is normally terminated upon emigration. Some assets will be deemed to be taxed as sold at market value on the date of departure. Any profit will be taxed in Denmark.

Residents are subject to Danish taxation on their worldwide income. Non-resident individuals are subject to tax on Danish-sourced income, including dividends, royalties, profits from Danish permanent establishments, profits from real estate and salaries earned from work performed in Denmark.

Profits made by more than 50% held (shares/votes) financial companies established in low tax countries are taxable in Denmark at 22% (CFC). The CFC taxation generally only applies if the company's financial income is more than 50% of its total income but may not apply if the company is established in an EU or a tax treaty country. Dividends and gains and losses on the disposals of shares are taxed jointly. The tax rate on this income is 27% on amounts up to DKK 54,000 and 42% on the surplus (2019).

Personal income includes all remuneration received from the taxpayer's employer, whether in cash or kind, such as free lodging, free use of a car, free use of the telephone etc. Pension payments, unemployment benefits etc. are also included in personal income. After deduction of Labour Market Contributions of 8% (for 2019) on gross salary and business income, tax due on the total taxable income and its components is determined as follows:

- A basic charge of 25.6% (average) on taxable income is due to the municipality and church, in which the taxpayer lives;
- The basic State tax rate is 12.16% on taxable personal and positive interest income (2019); and,
- An additional higher rate of 15% is levied on income exceeding DKK 513,400 (2019).

Some expatriates who are employed in Denmark for a maximum period of 72 months can, under certain conditions, choose to be taxed on their gross salary by a final tax instead of ordinary income tax. The tax rate is 26% plus Labour Market Contributions of 8%.

KEY TAX POINTS

- The corporate tax system is based on the territoriality principle. Corporate income tax is only due on business income generated by enterprises operating in the Dominican Republic. Certain types of investment income derived by Dominican residents from sources outside the Dominican Republic are also subject to Dominican taxation.
- Non-resident companies operating through a permanent establishment in the Dominican Republic are taxed on income attributable to the permanent establishment as well as on Dominican-sourced income. Non-residents without a permanent establishment in the Dominican Republic are taxed on Dominican-sourced income only.
- Companies are subject to the higher of corporate income tax (at 27%) or alternative minimum tax (1% of the total asset value after deducting depreciation).
- The standard rate of VAT is 18%.

A. TAXES PAYABLE

COMPANY TAX – GENERAL REGIME

The corporate tax system is based on the territoriality principle, whereby tax is only levied on business income derived from Dominican sources. Companies are subject to the higher of corporate income tax (27%) or alternative minimum tax. Dividends paid to residents or non-residents out of Dominican-source income are subject to withholding tax at the rate of 10% on the gross amount. This is a final tax on dividends.

Corporate income tax is levied on residents and non-residents deriving Dominican-source income. Resident entities are subject to corporate income tax on certain items of investment income derived from foreign sources. Non-residents without a permanent establishment in the Dominican Republic are only taxed on Dominican-sourced income.

Corporate income tax on resident companies and branches of foreign companies is levied at a rate of 27% or alternative minimum tax is applied, whichever is higher. The latter is assessed at a rate of 1% on the assets registered in the taxpayer's accounting books.

Companies will make monthly advance tax payments, which are 1/12 of the equivalent of the tax amount paid in the prior year and at year-end they should correspond to the abovementioned 27% or 1% calculated taxes. When current year taxes are calculated, the monthly payment is compensated in the following period. If the monthly payment was insufficient then the corporation needs to make up for the payment. Tax is payable as follows:

- Payments on account are estimated on the basis of the previous tax year's corporate tax liability, less any tax withheld at source, and are subject to the following limits:

Dominican Republic

- Twelve instalments of (total 100%) – taxpayers with turnover or 1% of their total assets (whichever is higher when computed).

CAPITAL GAINS TAX

Capital gains derived from the sale of assets, immovable property or shares included in gross income and are subject to the 27% standard corporate income tax rate. The capital gain is calculated by deducting the acquisition cost – adjusted for inflation – from the sales price and adding the accumulated earnings/losses.

BRANCH PROFITS TAX

Only the income attributable to the Dominican branch (permanent establishment) is subject to corporation tax. Remittances by permanent establishments of non-residents are subject to a final withholding tax at the rate of 27%.

VALUE ADDED TAX

VAT (ITBIS) is levied on taxable supplies of goods and services as well as on imports of taxable goods and services into the Dominican Republic. Exports are zero-rated. The standard rate is 18%.

Professional services, rental of movable goods and professional security services are subject to a withholding of the invoiced ITBIS at the rate of 30%.

LOCAL TAXES

No local tax applies.

OTHER TAXES

Municipal tax: owners of real estate property are subject to a 1% tax rate. For rural properties, no tax applies.

FRINGE BENEFITS TAX

There is no fringe benefits tax in the Dominican Republic.

B. DETERMINATION OF TAXABLE INCOME (ISR)

GENERAL REGIME

Net income or taxable income is arrived at by adjusting the accounting profits for non-taxable income and non-deductible expenses. As a general principle, costs are only deductible when necessarily incurred for the purpose of producing income.

SIMPLIFIED SCHEME

Companies who a) during the previous year had a total turnover under DOP 6 million and b) have not elected to be assessed under the General Regime referred to above, are subject to the simplified taxation scheme. Under this scheme, taxable income is computed as 27% of the turnover from sale of goods and merchandise.

DEPRECIATION

All the items of fixed assets, except land, can be depreciated or amortised for tax purposes. The depreciation rates are set by specific legislation and include 5% for office buildings, 25% for cars and furniture and 15% for other assets.

STOCK / INVENTORY

Inventory must normally be valued at the effective cost of acquisition or production (historic cost). Other methods which may be adopted include:

- The standard cost method, which must be calculated in accordance with the appropriate technical and accounting principles;
- The sale price method, based on the market value less a normal profit margin.

CAPITAL GAINS AND LOSSES

Gains realised by resident entities from the disposal of shares are exempt from tax.

DIVIDENDS

Dividends are normally subject to withholding tax at 10% (when it is paid in cash).

INTEREST DEDUCTIONS

Interest is deductible on an accrual basis. The Fiscal Administration is entitled to disregard expenses related to interest where related parties are involved.

Thin capitalisation

Deductible interest may not exceed the result from multiplying the total amount of interest accrued in the tax period by three times the annual average net equity divided by the annual average balance of all of the taxpayer's interest-bearing debt. Non-deductible interest may be carried forward for 3 years as from the year in which the interest was accrued. The limitation in the interest deduction is not applicable to interest paid to resident individuals and entities and also not to regulated financial entities.

LOSSES

Operating losses incurred by ordinary corporate taxpayers may be carried forward for 5 years to set off against taxable profits, but only 20% of the amount each year. No carry-back is allowed.

FOREIGN SOURCE INCOME

Regarding active income, taxation of resident companies takes into account only their Dominican-sourced income. However, Dominican-resident companies, branches, and permanent establishments are subject to taxation on income from Dominican sources and on income from foreign sources arising from investments and financial gains, i.e. certain items of passive income.

TAX INCENTIVES

Incentives under Dominican tax legislation include the free-trade zones, investment in tourism, and companies established in the border between Dominican Republic and Haiti.

C. FOREIGN TAX RELIEF

Resident companies can obtain a credit for any foreign tax paid abroad on income that is also subject to Dominican corporate income tax. The foreign tax credit is limited to the amount of Dominican tax to which the foreign-source income would be subject in the Dominican Republic.

D. CORPORATE GROUPS

None. There are no special measures for controlled foreign companies.

E. RELATED PARTY TRANSACTIONS

Transfer pricing rules are based on the OECD guidelines. The following methodologies are accepted: (i) comparable uncontrolled price method (ii) resale price method (iii) cost plus method (iv) profit split method and (v) transactional net margin method. APAs (advance pricing agreements) are available for all taxpayers and sectors.

On 1 September 2017, the tax authorities published a new (the sixth) version of the transfer pricing information return. All taxpayers within the scope of the transfer pricing regulations must file the return on an annual basis within the first 180 days after the end of the fiscal year. The new version of the return requires taxpayers to:

- Summarise transactions by type;
- Report the profit level indicator of the tested party of each transaction;
- Use the same format as the previous version to allow the information to be validated;
- Complete the information regarding related parties and transactions on the tax administration's virtual platform.

This new version of the return applies for fiscal year 2017 and onwards and as of 1 September 2017 all taxpayers must adopt this new version.

F. WITHHOLDING TAX

Income paid to non-residents is subject to withholding tax at the following rates:

Dominican Republic-Ecuador

- Dividends: 10% (final tax);
- Interest: 10%, subject to exceptions;
- Royalties: 27% (final tax);
- Management/technical service fees: 27% (final tax).

G. EXCHANGE CONTROL

Capital movements are freely transferable.

H. PERSONAL TAX

Income tax is payable by individuals on income obtained from employment, from a business, from an independent profession, from investment income, from immovable property, capital gains, pensions, and betting and gambling profits. Resident and non-resident individuals are subject to income tax on Dominican-sourced income only. When determining the taxable income, besides some specific deductions concerning each category of income, other deductions may be allowed, such as expenses on health and education.

Tax returns are due on 15 March of the subsequent tax year for taxpayers with income derived solely from employment or pension. The following rate table applies in tax year 2018 to the aggregate net result of employment income, business income, investment income (except interest on bonds and deposits), income from land, capital gains and income from pensions.

Taxable Income (DOP)	Rate on Excess (%)

624,329.01 – 867,123	20% over DOP 624,329
In excess of 867,123	25% over DOP 867,123

I. TREATY AND NON-TREATY WITHHOLDING TAX RATES

Non-treaty countries	10	10	27
Treaty countries:
Canada	0/10/18 ³	18	18

Notes:

1. The 0% rate applies in case of a 75% holding in the paying company.
2. The lower rate applies to interest paid by public bodies.
3. The rate for dividends under the treaty is 18%. However, by virtue of a most favoured nation clause the rate is reduced to 0% if the beneficial owner is a company (other than a partnership) which holds directly at least 75% of the capital of the dividend-paying company and 10% in all other cases.

- Income tax is payable by Ecuadorian resident individuals on non-exempt income derived from all sources. Non-resident individuals are required only to pay tax on Ecuadorian-sourced income.

A. TAXES PAYABLE

CORPORATE TAX

Corporate tax is payable by Ecuadorian resident companies on non-exempt income derived from all sources. Non-resident companies are required to pay tax on income sourced in Ecuador. Resident companies are those that are incorporated in Ecuador or carry on business in Ecuador and have either central management and control in Ecuador or voting power controlled by shareholders who are Ecuadorian residents.

The corporate tax rate for year 2019 is 25% and 28% in case the shareholders reside in tax havens or low-tax jurisdictions, if together or individually they own at least 50% of the company's capital. When that participation is less than 50%, the corporate tax rate of 25% and 28% will be applied proportionally to the income tax base for each shareholder.

Resident companies that fail to fully disclose the required information about their ultimate beneficiaries, will also be subject to the 28% corporate tax rate.

Capitalised profits are subject to a 15% tax rate. The tax year runs from 1 January to 31 December.

Tax is payable from 2–28 April, depending on the 9th digit of tax identification number. Individuals and other companies not required to keep accounting records are subject to make an advance tax payment equal to 50% of the previous year's income tax, less withholdings for that period. Individuals and entities required to keep accounting records are required to make an advance tax payment equal to the sum of the following items:

- 0.2% of total equity.
- 0.2% of total deductible costs and expenses.
- 0.4% of total assets.
- 0.4% of total taxable income.

The effect of revaluations on equity and assets, salaries and social benefits (such as thirteenth and fourteenth month salaries, and the mandatory contribution to social security) are excluded from the calculation.

The advance tax payment is done in two instalments, according to the following chart:

9 th RUC digit	Expiry date (1 st portion)	Expiry date (2 nd portion)
1	July 10 th	September 10 th
2	July 12 th	September 12 th
3	July 14 th	September 14 th
4	July 16 th	September 16 th
5	July 18 th	September 18 th
6	July 20 th	September 20 th
7	July 22 nd	September 22 nd
8	July 24 th	September 24 th
9	July 26 th	September 26 th
0	July 28 th	September 28 th

The advance tax payment can be claimed for refund with a proportionate share that exceeds the effective tax rate determined by the tax authority for each industry/economic sector.

These advance tax payments constitute a tax credit for income tax purposes. Exonerations and reductions for advance tax payments apply when there is evidence of (1) losses, (2) a decrease in the current year operating activities in relation with prior years, or (3) withholdings exceed the income tax liability for the current year. All payments or registration of purchase of merchandise and service are subject to withholding tax at the following rates:

- 1% - electricity, private/public transport of passengers and private freight;
- 1% - purchase of all type of goods (except oil products);
- 1% - all construction activities;
- 1% - on 10% of the premium billed;
- 1% - on quotes and option purchasing in leasing;
- 1% - those carried out by media services and advertising agency;
- 1% - interest and commissions derived from credit operations between institutions of the financial system. The financial institution that paid or charged financial returns will act as a withholding agent;
- 2% - those realised by individuals for services in which workforce is involved in intellectual work;
- 2% - payments by credit card issuers to their merchants;
- 2% - income generated from loans and investments;
- 2% - those interests that any public entity recognised on behalf of taxpayers;
- 2% - any other payments;
- 8% - fees, commissions and other payments to professionals or other persons who are present in Ecuador for more than six months for services that are predominantly intellectual or for sport or artistic services, always when such service is not related to the professional title of the person who provides the service; royalties paid to resident individuals or Ecuadorian branches of non-residents; payments for letting of immovable property;
- 10% - fees, commissions and other payments to professionals or other persons who are present in Ecuador for more than six months for services that are predominantly intellectual, always when those services are related to their professional title. Payments and credits not included in withholding rates. Amounts paid to non-resident individuals for services rendered from time to time in Ecuador and that constitute taxable income, and other payments different to earnings or dividends that are sent, paid or credited abroad. (Fees for professional activities);
- 25% for year 2019 - payments to non-resident foreign individuals for subject-to-tax services occasionally performed in Ecuador and other payments other than dividends or profit distributions.

The amounts paid become credits available for income tax purposes at the end of the period. Interests paid to financial institutions are not subject to withholding tax. Employment income is subject to a specific withholding regime.

CAPITAL GAINS TAX

Capital gains are taxed according to the following rates:

Excess of	Up to	% tax rate
0	10,000	0%
10,000	20,000	2%
20,000	40,000	4%
40,000	80,000	6%
160,000	320,000	8%

There is a 0% rate on food items, agricultural inputs, medical goods, books and government purchases, and some professional services. This tax is payable one month following the transaction from the 6th to the 28th depending on the taxpayers' tax identification number.

FOREIGN MONEY TRANSFER TAX (ISD)

This tax is charged on the foreign currency value of all monetary transactions and operations carried out abroad with or without the intervention of the institutions of the financial system or on the value of payments made from accounts abroad for any reason. The rate of ISD tax is 5%. The ISD should be paid by all individuals, foreign banks and private companies, local and foreign.

Financial Institutions (IFIs) act as withholding agents when transferring foreign currency abroad by their clients. Withholding agents and collecting officers must collect from their customers, at the time they request the transfer abroad of foreign currency subject to this tax, a Form of "Information Statement of Foreign Money Transfer Tax" through financial institutions or couriers.

Payments for imports of capital assets and raw materials and dividends distributed to effective beneficiaries (residents or not) are exempt from ISD for new productive investments, subject to certain requirements.

Regular exporters can be refunded by the ISD paid in the import of inputs, capital assets and raw materials incorporated into productive processes.

FRINGE BENEFITS TAX

No fringe benefits are deductible as expenses in income tax liquidation. The only exception is that the company is allowed to pay and expense its employee income tax and social security contribution if the company has contracted to do so.

LOCAL TAXES

There are many and diverse taxes which are applied at local or regional level including: urban property, rain water drainage, fire insurance, individual and corporate net worth, state university funds, fire department, transfer of property, etc. Nominally, there are no stamp duties.

OTHER TAXES

INTEREST DEDUCTIONS

Interest is deductible. The deduction of both interest and the cost of foreign financing are allowed only if the loan has been registered within the Central Bank of Ecuador (BCE) and the interest rate is lower than established by the BCE. If not, to be deductible, a withholding of 25% is required (for year 2019) on the excess.

LOSSES

Companies that have sustained operating losses in a tax year may carry forward such losses to subsequent tax years and offset them over 5 years at the rate of 20% per annum, provided that no more than 25% of the profits obtained in each year are allotted for such purposes. Loss carry back is not allowed.

FOREIGN SOURCE INCOME

Domestic corporations are subject to tax on their worldwide income with tax credits allowed for income taxes paid abroad.

INCENTIVES

Specific write-offs are provided for the mining and primary oil production industries. Expenditure on research and development also qualifies for special treatment. Recently approved incentives include the following:

- New investments in priority sectors are exempt from income tax and advance tax for 12 or 8 years, depending on the location where the investment takes place.
- New investments in basic industries (copper and aluminum treatment, steel foundry, oil refining, petrochemical industry, cellulose industry, construction and repair of naval vessels) are exempt from income tax for 15 years. In case the new investment takes place in border areas, the exemption is increased by 5 additional years.
- Productive investments that subscribe to investment contracts with the Ecuadorian government are exempt from ISD payment with regards to the import of goods and raw materials and for dividends paid to effective beneficiaries domiciled or not in Ecuador.
- The advance tax payment is cancelled as a "minimum payment of income tax". The excess incurred income tax can be claimed for refund with a proportionate share that exceeds the average effective tax rate.
- Tax credit on VAT can be used for up to 5 years.

Other incentives for public-private partnerships include the following:

1. 10-year exemption of income tax payment; this exemption also applies to dividends and income paid to partners or beneficiaries of the partnership;
2. Payments (capital and interests) for external financing to foreign financial institutions or specialised non-financial institutions approved by regulatory bodies in Ecuador are exempt from tax on payments abroad; these financing operations should be related to housing, microcredit or productive investments and registered with the Central Bank of Ecuador;

3. Money transfers are exempt from the tax on payments abroad;
4. Import of goods and acquisition of services made by public-private partnerships in the execution of a public project, as well as capital, interest and commissions paid to the financiers of a public project, dividends and income paid to beneficiaries, and the acquisition of shares, rights or participations of the entity created for the execution of a public project, are all exempt from the tax on payments abroad;
5. Income tax exemption for organisations from the popular financial sector with assets of more than USD 5 million which entered into merger transactions;
6. Three-year income tax exemption for new micro enterprises, given that they promote employment and add value to their productive processes;
7. Threshold increase to carry accounting records for individuals and undivided estates (now at USD 300,000).

C. FOREIGN TAX RELIEF

Ecuador has double tax treaties with countries listed under Chapter I (see further).

D. CORPORATE GROUPS

No provisions exist for filing consolidated returns or relieving losses within a group.

E. RELATED PARTY TRANSACTIONS

Prior to administrative service fees being deductible when paid to foreign affiliates, the appropriate government authority must grant approval. Such payments are exempt from withholding tax. Other payments to foreign affiliates will only be deductible where income tax at 25% has been withheld.

F. WITHHOLDING TAX

Dividends paid to a non-resident are generally not subject to withholding tax. As from tax year 2018, the effective withholding tax rate on dividends paid to shareholders resident in a tax haven is 10%, which is the difference between the standard income tax rate of 25% and the maximum rate applied to individuals of 35%.

Interest paid on foreign loans, including interest paid to non-resident suppliers financing export, is subject to a 25% final withholding tax. Interest paid to foreign governments, private international financial institutions and non-financial specialised companies is exempt from tax, even if the institutions are located in tax havens, provided that the transaction is registered with controlling agencies in Ecuador and the interest rate does not exceed the one from the central bank.

Royalties paid to non-residents are subject to a 25% final withholding tax. The rate increases to 35% when royalties are paid to a recipient in a tax haven or a low-tax jurisdiction.

G. EXCHANGE CONTROL

Limited control is exercised. Direct foreign loans generally must be registered with Ecuador's Central Bank.

H. PERSONAL TAX

Income tax is payable by Ecuadorian resident individuals on non-exempt income derived from all sources. Non-resident individuals are required only to pay tax on Ecuadorian-sourced income. Residence is determined by reference to common law or to domicile or where the individual has spent more than one-half of the relevant income year in Ecuador, unless he or she has a usual place of abode outside Ecuador and does not intend to take up residence in Ecuador.

Income tax is payable on assessable income less allowable deductions. Assessable income includes business income, employment income, certain capital gains, rent and interest. Allowable deductions include interest and certain other expenses paid in gaining the assessable income and gifts to specified bodies. Most individual taxpayers have tax installments deducted from each salary and wage payment made by their employers. Self-employed individuals and those with non-salary and wage income ordinarily pay a provisional tax which is an interim payment during the year in anticipation of the assessment of tax after the end of the income year. Personal income tax rates for the year 2019 are the following:

KEY TAX POINTS

- Egyptian resident companies are taxable on their worldwide income, except for profits derived from permanent establishments abroad. Non-residents are only taxed on Egyptian-sourced income.
- Dividends paid to residents and non-residents are not subject to withholding tax. Companies and individuals are not taxed on dividends received from resident companies but are taxed on dividends and other payments from non-residents.
- A credit system is available for relief of double taxation on foreign source income. The credit is subject to a maximum of the Egyptian tax paid on the overseas income concerned.
- There are provisions which limit the tax deductibility of interest based on the rate of interest charged and the debt to equity ratio of the company concerned.
- Transfer pricing rules are based on at arm's length principles. An advance pricing arrangement is available.
- Domestic tax law provides for a 20% withholding tax applicable to the payment of interest and royalties to non-residents. Double tax treaties with various countries reduce the rate of withholding tax to be applied.
- General sales tax is payable on the supply of goods and services and imports. The standard rate of tax is 10% although rates vary from 0% to 30%.
- Resident individuals are subject to income tax on their worldwide income whereas non-residents are taxed on Egyptian-sourced income.

A. TAXES PAYABLE

CORPORATE INCOME AND GAINS TAX

Egyptian corporations are subject to corporate profits tax on their profits derived from Egypt, as well as on profits derived from abroad, unless the foreign activities are performed through a permanent establishment located abroad. Foreign companies resident in Egypt are subject to tax only on their profits derived from Egypt. Oil prospecting and production companies are subject to tax on their profits at a rate of 40.55%. The Suez Canal Company, Egyptian General Petroleum Company (EGPC) and Central Bank of Egypt are subject to tax on their profits at a rate of 40%.

ADMINISTRATION

Companies must file their annual tax returns, together with all supporting schedules and the original financial statements, before 1st May each year or four months from the financial year-end. The tax return should be signed by the taxpayer. Taxpayers can file a request to extend the due date of filing of the tax return provided they pay an estimated amount of tax. The request must be filed at least 15 days before the due date and the estimated tax due must also be paid before the due date. The extended period can be up to 60 days. An amended tax return can be filed within 30 days from the due date. Any tax due must be paid when the tax return is filed. A late penalty is applied at the rate of 2% plus the credit and discount rate issued by the Central Bank of Egypt as of January each year.

The law has set up appeals committees at two levels - the Internal Committee and the Appeal Committee. The Appeal Committee's decision is final and binding on the taxpayer and on the tax department unless a case is appealed by either of them to the court within 30 days of receiving the decision, which is usually in the form of an assessment.

DIVIDENDS

Dividends distributed by an Egyptian company are not subject to withholding tax because they are paid out of corporate profits that are taxed under the normal rules. Dividends received by residents from foreign sources are not taxed in Egypt. Interest on bonds listed on the Egyptian stock exchange is exempt from tax if certain conditions are satisfied. Certain exemptions may be provided in some cases.

- Employer = 24%
- Employee = 11%

B. DETERMINATION OF TAXABLE INCOME

Corporate income tax is based on taxable profits computed in accordance with generally accepted accounting and commercial principles, modified for tax purposes by certain statutory provisions primarily concerning depreciation, provisions, inventory valuation, inter-company transactions and expenses. Start-up and formation expenses may be capitalised and amortised in the first year.

The deductibility of a branch's share of head office overhead expenses is limited to approximately 7% of general expenses. Head office expenses other than overhead and general administration expenses are subject to negotiation with the tax authorities. They are fully deductible if they are directly incurred by the branch and are necessary for the performance of the branch's activity in Egypt. Such expenses must be supported by original documents and approved by the head office auditors.

DEBIT INTEREST

Debit interest of loans/overdraft used in the company's activity is a deductible item after offsetting the interest income. Interest expense paid to individuals who are not subject to tax or exempted from tax is not deductible. Interest expense is limited to the interest rate which will not exceed twice the discount rate determined by the central bank of Egypt.

DEBT-TO-EQUITY RULES

The tax law has determined the maximum debt to equity ratio to be 4:1. In the event the debt exceeds such ratio, the excess interest is not considered by the Tax Authority to be a deductible expense.

INVENTORIES

Inventories are normally valued for tax purposes at the lower cost or market value. Cost is defined as purchase price plus direct and indirect production costs. Inventory reserves are not permissible deductions for tax purposes. For accounting purposes, companies may elect to use any acceptable method of inventory valuation such as first-in, first-out (FIFO) or average cost. The method should be applied consistently and the reasons for such change should be stated if the method is changed.

PROVISIONS

Provisions are not considered as deductible costs except for the following:

- 80% of loan provisions made by banks (required by the Central Bank of Egypt);
- Insurance companies' provisions determined by Law No. 10 of 1981.

BAD DEBTS

Bad debts are a deductible cost if the company provides a report from an external auditor certifying the following:

- The company is maintaining regular accounting records;
- The debt is related to the company's activity;
- The debt appears in the company's records; and,
- The company has taken the necessary actions to collect the debt.

DEPRECIATION AND AMORTISATION ALLOWANCES

Depreciation is deductible for tax purposes and may be calculated using either the straight-line or declining-balance method. Depreciation rates are as follows:

Type of Asset	Rate	Method of Depreciation
Buildings	5%	Straight-line
Intangible assets	10%	Straight-line
Computers	50%	Declining-balance
Heavy machinery and equipment	25%	Declining-balance
Small machinery and equipment	25%	Declining-balance
Vehicles	25%	Declining-balance
Furniture	25%	Declining-balance
Other tangible assets	25%	Declining-balance

Accelerated depreciation is allowable only once at a rate of 30% on new machines and equipment in the year they are placed into service. Normal depreciation is calculated after considering the accelerated 30% depreciation on the net value of new assets, provided that proper books of account are maintained. Tax losses may be carried forward for five years. Losses incurred in long-term projects can be also carried back within the same project.

REAL ESTATE TAX

Egypt introduced a new tax law No. 196 of 2008 to be applied with effect from 1 January 2009. Tax rate: 10% of the annual rental value after excluding the following assumed maintenance expenses:

- 30% of the rental value for properties used for living accommodation;
- 32% of the rental for properties used for other purposes.

C. FOREIGN TAX RELIEF

Foreign tax paid by a resident entity outside Egypt can be deducted provided there is supporting documentation. Losses generated outside Egypt cannot be offset against the taxable amount in Egypt. Double tax treaties concluded between Egypt and other countries regulate the credit for taxes paid abroad on income subject to corporate income tax in Egypt.

D. CORPORATE GROUPS

Associated or related companies in a group are taxed separately for corporate income tax purposes. Egyptian law does not contain a concept of group assessment under which group losses may be offset against profits within a group of companies.

E. RELATED PARTY TRANSACTIONS

Egyptian tax law contains provisions for transfer pricing. The transfer pricing provisions are based on the at arm's length principle. Under these provisions, the tax authorities may adjust the income of an enterprise if its taxable income in Egypt is reduced as a result of contractual provisions that differ from those that would be agreed to by unrelated parties.

However, it is now possible to enter into arrangements with the tax department to agree on a transfer pricing policy in advance (Advance Pricing Arrangement). This provides assurance that transfer prices will not be challenged after the tax return is submitted, with the consequent exposure to penalties and interest on late paid taxes.

F. WITHHOLDING TAX

No withholding tax is levied on dividends distributed by resident companies, regardless of the residence status of the recipient. Interest derived by non-resident legal persons is subject to a final withholding tax at the rate of 20% on the gross amount, unless a lower treaty rate applies. Royalties derived by non-resident legal persons are subject to a final withholding tax at the rate of 20% on the gross amount, unless a lower treaty rate applies.

G. EXCHANGE CONTROL

Egypt has a free market exchange system. Exchange rates are determined by supply and demand without interference from the central bank or the Ministry of the Economy.

H. PERSONAL TAX

Income tax is imposed on the worldwide income of Egyptian residents. Non-residents are subject to tax on income earned or realised in Egypt. An individual is deemed to be a resident of Egypt if:

- The individual is present in Egypt for more than 183 days in a fiscal year;
- The individual's principal place of residence is Egypt. Article 2 of the Executive Regulations states that an individual is considered to have a permanent residence in Egypt if:
 - a) The taxpayer stays in Egypt for the majority of the year, either in his own property, in a rented property or in any other place;
 - b) The taxpayer has a local commercial presence, professional office, industrial site or any other place where he carries on his activities in Egypt;
 - c) The individual is an employee who performs his duties abroad and receives a salary from an Egyptian public or private source.

Income tax is assessed each year on the aggregate of the net amounts from each category of income realised during the preceding year. There are four recognised categories of income, namely:

- 1) Employment income;
- 2) Business income (which includes income from commercial and industrial activities);
- 3) Non-commercial income;
- 4) Income from real estate assets.

Graduated rates apply with effect from 1 July 2005 to the aggregate of the four categories of income, as follows:

Income (EGP)	Rate
Up to 8,000	0%
8,000 to 30,000	10%
30,000 to 45,000	15%
45,000 to 200,000	20%
Over 200,000	22.5%

Individuals are not subject to tax on capital gains except in the case of the disposal of real estate or building sites within the boundaries of Egyptian cities. Such gains are not subject to income tax but are taxed at the rate of 2.5% on the value of the property.

I. TREATY WITHHOLDING TAX RATES

The tax year of companies corresponds to the calendar year.

CAPITAL GAINS TAX

The tax involved is a 10% income tax on the net profit of the transaction. Net profit is calculated by deducting the cost of the property plus any related expenses from the sales price. Income from the sale of securities is taxable as follows: the buyer will withhold 10% of the profit and remit it to the Tax Department.

Special rules apply in respect of certain expenditures.

DEPRECIATION

Depreciation is normally calculated by the straight-line method over the estimated useful life of the asset.

KEY TAX POINTS

- Estonian resident companies do not pay tax on their profits until they are distributed to shareholders. The taxable period is the calendar month.
- There is no separate capital gains tax. Gains derived by resident companies or branches of foreign companies are exempt until a distribution is made.
- Value added tax applies to most goods and services.
- Local taxes are imposed by only a few municipalities.
- Foreign tax is mostly relieved by exemption by virtue of the provisions of the double tax treaties with most overseas jurisdictions.
- Withholding taxes apply only to certain royalties and in special cases (fees to artists and sportsmen from Estonian source).
- Income tax applies to individuals at a single, flat rate.

A. TAXES PAYABLE

COMPANY TAX

Estonian resident companies are liable for corporate income tax on their worldwide income. Corporate income tax is not levied when the company makes profits but when those profits are distributed to the company's shareholders. The rate is 20% on the gross profits distributed or 20/80 (i.e. 25%) on the net amount of the dividend distributed to the shareholders. Although the tax applies like a withholding tax on the recipient of the dividend it is, strictly speaking, a tax on the company. The taxable period is the calendar month.

As from 2019, dividends distributed at an amount lower than or equal to the amount of the average of distributed dividends (i.e. excluding distributions of tax-exempt dividends, liquidation proceeds, capital reductions and permanent establishments income) in the previous 3 years, on which income tax has been paid by the resident taxpayer, are taxed at the rate of 14% of the distribution tax (the tax rate on the net amount being 14/86 instead of the regular 20/80). According to the transitional rules, one third of taxed profits of 2018 and one third of taxed profits of 2018 and 2019 may be distributed at the lower rate in 2019 and 2020, respectively.

If dividends are paid to resident or non-resident individuals and the distributing company has paid the distribution tax at the lower 14% rate, the individual recipient is subject to an additional withholding tax of 7%. A lower withholding rate may apply under an applicable tax treaty. Withholding tax will not apply if the recipient of the dividends is a company.

CAPITAL GAINS TAX

There is no separate capital gains tax in Estonia. Gains derived by resident companies or branches of foreign companies are exempt until a distribution is made.

BRANCH PROFITS TAX

There is no specific branch profits tax in Estonia. Branches of foreign companies are taxed under the same principles as resident companies, i.e. taxed on the distribution of profits at a rate of 20%.

VALUE ADDED TAX (VAT)

The supply of most goods and services is subject to VAT. Some goods and services are exempt from VAT. The standard VAT rate is 20%. A lower rate of 9% applies to certain items such as books, medicinal products etc. Exports from Estonia are zero rated.

FRINGE BENEFITS TAX

Fringe benefits are taxed as income. With effect from 1 January 2008, 20% income tax is levied on the gross value of the benefit plus 33% social security contribution.

LOCAL TAXES

The local government has the right to impose local taxes but presently only a few municipalities do so.

B. DETERMINATION OF TAXABLE INCOME

As the income of Estonian-resident companies is exempt from tax, there is no requirement for determining trading income for tax purposes. Tax is levied on the payment of dividends and distributions of profit in other forms such as fringe benefits, gifts and other non-business related payments.

C. FOREIGN TAX RELIEF

Under Estonia's double tax treaties, foreign tax is mostly relieved by exemption.

D. CORPORATE GROUPS

Corporations are taxed separately in Estonia. There is no concept of consolidated tax returns.

E. RELATED PARTY TRANSACTIONS

Related party transactions may be adjusted for tax purposes if the transactions are not at arm's length.

F. WITHHOLDING TAX

Withholding taxes apply only to certain royalties (see table below) and in special cases (fees to artists and sportsmen from Estonian source).

G. EXCHANGE CONTROL

There are no exchange controls in Estonia.

H. PERSONAL TAX

The income tax depends on the person's annual income. The annual income is tax-free up to an amount of EUR 6,000. From a gross annual income of EUR 14,400, the tax-free income will start to decrease until it reaches zero at a gross annual income of EUR 25,200. The income tax rate of 20% applies to income over the annual tax-free threshold of EUR 6,000.

Employers are obliged to withhold income tax from employees' salaries. In addition, the following social security rates apply:

- Social security tax of 33% of gross salary;
- Unemployment insurance:
 - Employer 0.8% of gross salary;
 - Employee 1.6% of gross salary.

Dividends received from resident companies and interest received from EU credit institutions are tax free.

I. TREATY AND NON-TREATY WITHHOLDING TAX RATES

There is no withholding tax on dividends nor interests in Estonia.

A. TAXES PAYABLE

COMPANY TAX

The income tax system is source-based, i.e. income from a source within or deemed to be within Swaziland will be subject to taxation. Taxes are paid in two instalments in advance based on a provisional assessment, which should be at least 90% of the prior year tax charge. The tax year is the year ending 30th June. The Swaziland Revenue Authority (SRA) has implemented an electronic system for filing and paying taxes which benefits both the tax authorities and the taxpayer. E-tax is an electronic platform through which taxpayers may submit returns as well as access tax information and forms online. This platform is a live feed into the SRA Revenue Management System (RMS) and was rolled out in 2014.

The estimate of taxable income may not be less than the taxable income assessed for the preceding year of assessment (where an assessment has been issued not less than twenty one (21) days before the date such an estimate is made), unless the taxpayer can satisfy the Commissioner General that the taxable income for the current year will be less than that of the preceding year. Provisional tax payments are made as follows:

First payment:

This payment must be made within six months from the commencement of the year of assessment or approved financial year-end date. The estimate of taxable income may not be less than the taxable income assessed for the latest preceding year of assessment, unless the taxpayer can satisfy the Commissioner General that the taxable income for the current year will be less than that for such preceding year.

Second payment:

This payment must be made not later than the last day of the year of assessment or approved financial year end date. Where there has been an increase in the taxable income during the course of the current tax year, all taxpayers are obliged to make good for the difference realised when paying either the first or second provisional tax.

Third payment:

It must be paid on or before the due date of the income tax return. Interest at the rate of 18% per annum will be charged on any amount not paid by the date stated and in addition a penalty equal to 20% of such amount may be imposed.

TRUSTS

- (1) Every trustee who makes any payment from trust income to a beneficiary who has a vested right to such income shall withhold tax at the rate of thirty-three per cent of the gross amount.
- (2) The tax withheld shall be on account of the liability to tax of such beneficiary on the income derived from the trust.
- (3) Every trustee who has withheld any tax shall:
 - (a) Within fifteen days from the date of payment remit to the Commissioner the amount of tax so withheld; and,
 - (b) Furnish within thirty days after the end of the year of assessment to the beneficiary to whom the payment is made a certificate, showing the amount of the payment made and the tax withheld during the year of assessment.
- (4) Every trustee making any payment shall maintain a record showing in relation to each year of assessment:
 - (a) The payment made to each beneficiary; and,
 - (b) The tax withheld from such payment, and such record shall be kept for the period specified for examination by the Commissioner as and when required.
- (5) The deduction of tax shall not relieve a beneficiary from the obligation to furnish a return for the assessment of the tax or any return from any other obligation imposed by the Income Tax Order of 1975 Amended.
- (6) A trustee who fails to withhold any tax or having withheld such tax fails to remit such tax to the Commissioner, as required shall, in addition to any penalty for which he may be liable, be personally liable to pay the Commissioner that amount of tax as if it were tax due and payable by such person under Part VII of the Income Tax Order of 1975 as Amended.

BRANCH PROFITS TAX

Branches of non-resident Companies are subject to tax on Swaziland profits as if they were resident companies. In addition, branch profits tax of 15% is charged on the deemed repatriated income. Such branch profits tax being paid or payable to a company incorporated or registered as such in a neighbouring country (South Africa, Botswana, Lesotho, Mozambique and Namibia) and that it is neither a subsidiary nor a branch of a company incorporated or registered outside a neighbouring country, the rate of tax for which such first mentioned company shall be liable is 12.5%.

SALES TAX / VALUE ADDED TAX

There is no sales tax in Swaziland. This was replaced by Value Added Tax (VAT) introduced in Swaziland in April 2012. It is administered by the VAT Act No.12 of 2011 as well as the VAT Regulations of 2012. VAT is tax that is charged on the consumption of goods and services in Swaziland and on the importation of goods and services into Swaziland.

Standard rated supplies:

These are taxable supplies that are neither exempt nor zero rated. VAT charged on standard rated supplies is 14%.

Exempt supplies (first schedule of the VAT Act no. 12 of 2011)

- These are goods and services that do not attract VAT at all;
- Suppliers of these goods and services cannot register for VAT purposes;
- Businesses dealing in exempt goods and services when purchasing taxable supplies have to pay VAT;
- They cannot claim the VAT they incurred from their purchases as input tax because they are not VAT registered.

- These are goods and services that attract VAT at 0%;
- Suppliers of these goods and services can register for VAT;
- Such businesses can claim the VAT they incurred from their purchases as input tax at the end of each tax period.

VAT Declaration – Payment /VAT Return

Where a taxpayer elects to claim the deduction of wear and tear allowances on a straight-line basis, such taxpayer shall obtain approval from the Commissioner of Taxes before claiming the wear and tear on straight-line basis. Requests for allowances to be granted on the “straight-line” will be considered if the following conditions in respect of the assets to which such method will be applied are satisfied:

- (a) The taxpayer maintains adequate records;
- (b) The straight-line basis will apply to all assets of the same class;
- (c) The annual return of income contains a schedule disclosing in respect of each asset disposed of during the year of assessment:
 - (i) The date of acquisition and the original cost;
 - (ii) The income tax value as at the end of the immediately preceding tax year;
 - (iii) The price realised on disposal or scrapping as well as the tax value of any profit or loss.
- (d) The rates of allowance granted will be such that the rate per annum reduces the value of the asset to nil at the end of its agreed estimated life;
- (e) An asset written off in full shall be brought into account at a residual value of E1 for record purposes.

Where a taxpayer applies the straight-line method, the asset shall be written off in equal annual instalments over its estimated useful life. The wear and tear deduction must be reduced proportionately if the asset was acquired and commissioned during the year of assessment. Where a taxpayer has been granted permission to apply the straight-line method, the write-off periods shall be in line with the periods prescribed by the Commissioner. Taxpayers must obtain prior approval to apply a different write-off period to an asset approved, for the proposed write off period from the Commissioner of Taxes.

TRADING STOCK

- (1) There shall be taken into account, in the determination of the taxable income derived by any person, during any year of assessment, from carrying on any trade (other than farming), the value of all trading stock held and not disposed of by him (hereinafter referred to as “the value of trading stock held”) at the beginning and end of each year of assessment.
- (2) The cost of trading stock disposed of during the year of assessment is determined by adding to the opening value of trading stock the cost of trading stock acquired during the year, and subtracting the closing value of trading stock.

Eswatini (formerly Swaziland)

- (3) The value of trading stock held by any person at the beginning of any year of assessment shall be deemed to be:
- (a) Where the person carried on trade on the last day of the previous year of assessment, the value of trading stock held on that date; or,
 - (b) Where the person commenced the trade during the year of assessment, the cost to the person of any stock acquired prior to the commencement of the trade.
- (4) The value of trading stock held at the end of a year of assessment shall be deemed to be the lower of cost or market value to the person carrying on the trade.
- (5) For the purposes of this subsection, the cost of any trading stock in relation to any date shall be:
- (a) The cost incurred in acquiring such trading stock; and,
 - (b) Any further costs incurred up to such date in getting such trading stock into its then existing condition or location.
- (6) Where any trading stock has been acquired by any person:
- (a) For a consideration which cannot be valued; or,
 - (b) Otherwise than by way of a transaction at arm's length, such trading stock shall be deemed to have been acquired at a cost equal to the price which, in the opinion of the Commissioner, was the current market price of such trading stock on the date of acquisition.
- (7) Where particular items of trading stock are not readily identifiable, a person may account for that trading stock on the first-in-first-out method or the average cost method but, once chosen, a stock valuation method may be changed only with the written permission of the Commissioner.

LOSSES

Tax losses can be carried forward to offset against future profits. Losses that are offset may be carried forward indefinitely. Losses cannot be carried back against profits of previous years.

E

FOREIGN SOURCED INCOME

Foreign tax relief is limited only to countries which have a double tax treaty (DTT) with Swaziland.

INCENTIVES

The Memorandum of Understanding (MOU) sets out terms and conditions, which shall apply in respect of the grant of a Development Approval Order (DAO) by the Minister of Finance to whichever company that has applied for the (MOU). The tax concession is granted under the DAO for a period of 10 years.

C. FOREIGN TAX RELIEF

Relief for double taxation is provided by means of a credit for overseas tax suffered on overseas income. The credit is the lower of the foreign tax paid and the Swaziland tax on the income concerned. Foreign tax relief is limited only to countries with double taxation relief. These include; Mauritius, South Africa and the United Kingdom.

D. CORPORATE GROUPS

There is no special regime for the taxation of groups of companies. Each Company is taxed as a separate entity. Losses incurred by one affiliate may not be offset against profits made by another affiliate.

E. RELATED PARTY TRANSACTIONS

Inter-company pricing between affiliated companies must be carried out on an arm's length basis or the income of both companies is adjusted for income tax purposes. Taxpayers are obliged to provide the tax authorities with documentation containing data about the activities of the taxpayer and other parties to the transaction. This includes a list of the parties to the transaction, the description of the transaction, the terms of the transaction, methods of pricing, terms and conditions of payments, etc. Functions of the parties of the transaction, information about accepted risks considered by the taxpayer when concluding the transaction and so on.

F. EXCHANGE CONTROL

The currency in Swaziland is Lilangeni (SZL). There are no exchange controls in effect.

G. ASYCUDA WORLD

ASYCUDA (Automated System for Customs Data Administration) is a computerised customs management system which covers most foreign trade procedures and was rolled out as of 1 February 2016 whereby importers/exporters are required to lodge declarations with Customs electronically through ASYCUDA. Capturing of data can be done remotely or at the border post or any one of the inland offices and the airport.

Registration

Businesses that have the newly introduced Taxpayer Identity Numbers (TIN) for VAT are not required to be registered on ASYCUDA. Their TINs will be used for all Customs related transactions.

Traders who have not yet been registered for TINs are required to register with ASYCUDA; the following are required on registration:

- Tax clearance certificate
- Trading licence

Eswatini (formerly Swaziland)

- Contact details including physical address.

A declarant, other than the owner of the goods, must be licensed as an agent with Customs. Individuals are required to submit a copy of the national identity document and contact details which include the physical address.

Declarations may be made by:

Remote Connection (also known as the Direct Trader Input (DTI)): This allows a trader to capture a declaration at his own premises and forward hard copies to customs at his convenience. This has benefits including:

- Entries can be lodged prior to arrival of goods at the border
- Trader can access any of his declarations passed through Customs at any time.

Using the Bureau at the port of entry (border post or airport or any of the inland offices):

- Provided (at a fee) for people who are not remotely connected
- Mainly used by once off importers/exporters.

ASYCUDA PREPAYMENT ACCOUNTS

1. Prepayment accounting

The prepayment facility is to be used at all SRA Customs offices where duties / taxes are not deferred but payable upon entry. Under this facility declarants need to pay first the amount of duties / taxes that are reflected on the SAD500 on presentation of their entries to SRA for processing.

2. Prepayment (Cash) Account Numbers

- a. Each declarant / importer is allocated an 8-digit account number (Series 500) which is attached to their Taxpayer Identification Number (TIN). The TIN is an SRA wide number that is to be used across all SRA tax heads while the Prepayment Account Number and deposits therein is managed at and confined to the Customs office of clearance.
- b. The account number must be inserted/captured in Box 48 of the SAD500. As a security measure the account number may be validated by a secret PIN code. The security of the PIN code is the responsibility of the account holder.

3. Submission of Entries and Payment of Duties / Taxes due

- a. All entries are to be submitted to Customs through the Cash Office at the port of entry concerned. Once received at the Cash Office the entry will remain always within Customs control and will not be returned to the declarant until it is assessed and released after validation of payment due.
- b. No entry will be accepted without being paid for. The SRA will not accept responsibility for delays in clearance of goods arising from an insufficient balance existing in the prepayment account. No entries will be cleared until the account is restored to a credit balance covering the duties / taxes payable.
- c. The payment being made will be recorded in ASYCUDA against the prepayment account declared in Box 48 of the SAD500. Where payment is made into a single account, a single receipt for the whole amount being deposited will be issued to the declarant as an acknowledgement of payment.
- d. Payment may be effected by any of the methods approved by the SRA. This may be by:
 - Confirmed Electronic Funds Transfer (EFT);
 - Point of Sale (POS);
 - Limited Cash (not more than E10,000.00 per declarant);
 - Company cheque for approved clients or bank cheque (only at remote border posts).
- e. A statement of the prepayment account can be produced by the account holder and Customs when required. This will detail entries cleared against the account number, any credit amounts paid in during the selected period and the account balance. Remotely connected declarants will be able to view their accounts status at any time.

4. Assessment

- a. Upon assessment of a declaration, funds equal to the duties / taxes due on the entry will be automatically transferred from the prepayment account into the SRA Revenue Account. A combined assessment notice and payment receipt will be printed for each assessed entry. If the duties / taxes due are less than the balance in the prepayment account, a credit balance will remain in the account. Such balance will be used for future imports.

- b. Where there is an insufficient credit balance in the prepayment account, the entry will not be assessed. Resultantly the goods will not be released from the Customs controlled area.
- c. Declarants / importers will get a combined assessment notice and receipt for each consignment declared on a separate SAD500.
 - It is proof of duties / taxes paid for imported goods;
 - It is proof of legitimate release by Customs; and
 - It can be used to support VAT input tax credit claims (along with a copy of the SAD500 and supporting invoices, etc.).

5. Benefits to trade:

Prepayment Accounts have been put in place for the following reasons:

- To reduce delays associated with the cashier issuing a receipt against each declaration;
- To ensure once a declaration is submitted SRA may be held fully responsible for the time taken to release cargo;
- Confirmation of cash received will be combined with the assessment stage of the declaration as well as the generation of the Customs receipt;
- The assessment notice / receipt shall will support VAT input credit claims.

H. PERSONAL INCOME TAX

Personal income tax is levied on resident and non-resident individuals, whether or not they are citizens of Swaziland.

Individuals – 2013 to date:

Taxable Income Exceeds	But Does Not Exceed	Tax Rate
SZL 0	SZL 100,000	0 + 20% of the excess of SZL 0
SZL 100,001	SZL 150,000	SZL 20,000 + 25% of the excess of SZL 100,000
SZL 150,001	SZL 200,000	SZL 32,500 + 30% of the excess of SZL 150,000
SZL 200,000		SZL 47,500 + 33% of the excess of SZL 200,000

When applying the above rates the following should be taken into account:

- Tax payable by a natural person will be reduced by a tax rebate amount not exceeding SZL 8,200 per tax year (with a further SZL 2,700 for persons over the age of 60 years);
- The rates are applicable on total income exceeding SZL 41,000 per annum;
- The tax rebate does not apply in the case of redundant or retiring individuals.

Taxpayers who are liable to tax on business income are obliged to submit their income tax declarations on business income to the Swaziland Revenue Authority by 31st October of every year. All taxpayers must keep records of their income. They are obliged to keep records for at least five years from the year to which they relate. To avoid double taxation, Swaziland has concluded a number of double tax treaties.

Exemptions

There are a number of exemptions within each category of income which are defined in Section 12 of The Income Tax order of 1975 Amended. There shall be exempt from normal tax:

- (a) The receipts and accruals of:
 - (i) A pension fund, a retirement annuity fund, a benefit fund or a provident fund;
 - (ii) Any company, society or other association of persons, whether or not registered under any law, the profits or gains of which, other than profits or gains from investments, are derived solely from transactions with or on behalf of its individual members, and the constitution of which does not admit of the distribution of its profits or gains to any persons other than the members with whom or on whose behalf the transactions took place, and does not confer upon any person any benefit other than benefits accruing to that person from transactions with or on behalf of such person, except as regards any receipts or accruals from investments by any such company, society, or association of persons; and,

Eswatini (formerly Swaziland)

- (iii) Any exempt organisation other than business income that is not related to the function constituting the basis for the existence of the organisation.
- (b) The income of any person entitled to privileges under the Diplomatic Privileges Act to the extent provided in such Act;
- (c) The salaries and emoluments of any person in respect of services rendered to the Government of any country other than Swaziland if that person is not ordinarily resident in Swaziland or is ordinarily resident solely for the purpose of performing such services;
- (d) War pensions or gratuities;
- (e) Dividends received by or accrued to or in favour of:
 - (i) Any person not ordinarily resident or carrying on business in Swaziland;
 - (ii) The estate of any deceased person who at the date of his death was not ordinarily resident or carrying on business in Swaziland, if, but for this exemption, such estate would have been liable for normal tax in respect of such dividend; and
 - (iii) Any company.

KEY TAX POINTS

- Finnish resident companies are liable to corporate income tax on worldwide income. Non-resident companies are taxed on their Finnish-sourced income only.
- Capital gains are normally taxed as ordinary income. In specific circumstances, capital gains arising on the disposal of shares in a subsidiary are exempt.
- In principle, all sales of goods and services are subject to value added tax, subject to reduced rates and exemptions.
- A local real estate tax is levied on properties owned by companies.
- The transfer of immovable property attracts a transfer tax.
- A controlled foreign company (CFC) system applies.
- Under double tax treaties, foreign tax is most frequently relieved by way of credit, sometimes the exemption method is also applied. Where there is no relevant tax treaty, Finnish domestic tax law grants a credit for foreign tax paid once that foreign tax is final.
- Dividends and royalties paid to non-resident companies are subject to withholding taxes. Tax treaties may provide benefits and exemptions to this.
- Finnish resident individuals are subject to tax in respect of their worldwide income. Non-residents are taxed on their income derived from Finland.
- Individuals are taxed separately on earned income and investment income.

A. TAXES PAYABLE

COMPANY TAX

Finnish resident companies are liable to corporate income tax on their worldwide income. Non-resident companies are taxed on their Finnish-sourced income only. Corporate residence is not defined in the tax legislation but residency is usually associated with registration. The corporate income tax rate is 20% of the taxable income. The tax year consists of the financial period (or periods) that ends during the calendar year. The final tax assessment for the tax year is determined based on the tax return. Corporate bodies must file the tax return within four months of the end of their accounting period. Tax returns are processed within ten months of the end of the accounting period.

CAPITAL GAINS TAX

Capital gains are normally taxed as ordinary business income. Where shares or land have been held for business purposes, the disposal is subject to normal income tax. In specific circumstances, capital gains from the disposal of shares of a subsidiary are tax exempt. The shares need to be owned for at least one year prior to disposal and the seller has to have owned at least 10% of the company whose shares are being disposed of. There is more detailed legislation for applying this exemption.

BRANCH PROFITS TAX

There is no specific branch profits tax in Finland. The taxable income for branches of foreign companies in Finland is calculated on the same basis as for Finnish resident companies at a rate of 20%. There is no branch remittance tax in Finland.

VALUE ADDED TAX (VAT)

VAT is paid on the sale of goods and services, on the importation of goods, on intra-community acquisitions and on the removal of the goods from a fiscal warehousing arrangement when the removal takes place in Finland. In principle, all sales of goods and services are subject to VAT. However, there are some supplies of goods and services which are exempt under the conditions defined in the VAT Act. The general VAT rate is 24%. Other applicable rates are as follows:

- 14% for individuals' food and animal feed and restaurant services;
- 10% for medicines, books, cultural events, passenger transportation, hotel accommodation and other services;
- Exports outside the European Union are zero rated.

FRINGE BENEFITS TAX (FBT)

The benefits in kind are added to the gross salary according to the annual decision of the Finnish Tax Administration on the valuation of taxable in-kind benefits to be applied. However, the employer has a legal responsibility to withhold income taxes and social security contributions from salaries and benefits paid to their employees.

LOCAL TAXES

Basically, there are no local taxes imposed on companies. However, municipal real estate tax is levied on properties owned by companies. It is normally 0.37% to 0.80% (residential buildings) and 0.8% to 1.55% (other buildings) of the taxation value of the immovable property, depending on the municipality where the property is situated, and is deductible, up to certain limits, for income tax purposes.

OTHER TAXES

Employers must make social security contributions to cover the costs of health insurance at the rate of 0.86% on gross remuneration paid to employees between 16 and 68 years of age. Pension insurance contributions are also payable at 18.95% (on average), unemployment contributions (0.65% on the first EUR 2,044,500 and 2.60% on the excess) and accidental injury insurance contribution of approximately 1% of annual gross wages and salaries.

B. DETERMINATION OF TAXABLE INCOME

Taxable income is determined based on financial accounting income adjusted for non-taxable and non-deductible items. In practice, the determination of taxable income is closely connected to the determination of net income for financial statement purposes. Generally, all expenses incurred in acquiring or maintaining business income are deductible (however, e.g. entertainment expenses are 50% deductible only).

DEPRECIATION

Buildings and other constructions are depreciated for tax purposes using the declining balance method. Depreciation for each building is calculated separately, with the maximum percentage varying from 4% to 20%, depending on the type of the construction. Depreciation of machinery and equipment is calculated using the declining balance method with a maximum rate of 25%. Patents and other intangible rights, such as goodwill, are amortised on a straight-line basis for ten years for tax purposes, unless the taxpayer demonstrates that the asset has a shorter useful life.

Assets with a useful life of less than three years may be written off using the free depreciation method, i.e. deduct up to 100% of the costs of assets in a single tax year where the value for each item is less than EUR 850 and the total value of such assets is no more than EUR 2,500 per tax year. The allowable annual rates of depreciation are doubled for the tax years 2015 – 2016 for the following:

- New industrial buildings and workshops used for production activities (increase from 7% to 14%);
- New machinery and equipment used for production activities, as specified in the act (increase from 25% to 50%).

STOCK / INVENTORY

In principle, the acquisition costs of inventories are deducted when assets are sold, consumed or lost. Inventories on hand at the end of the tax year are valued at an amount not exceeding the lower of acquisition cost or market value. Acquisition cost is usually calculated on a FIFO basis, other methods may also be possible. Certain overhead costs can be included in the acquisition cost of products.

CAPITAL GAINS AND LOSSES

As discussed above, capital gains are usually taxable as ordinary income. Broadly speaking, gains on the disposal of shares in resident companies in which the seller had at least a 10% interest throughout the year ending on the date of disposal are exempt from tax. There are more prerequisites in the relevant act for this exemption.

F

DIVIDENDS

Inter-company dividends are tax exempt in most cases, although they are partly (75%) taxable if they are distributed by a quoted company to a non-quoted company that holds less than 10% of the capital in the distributing company, or the recipient company is a financial or insurance company holding the shares as investment assets. Tax agreements may entitle non-residents either to benefit from a lower withholding tax rate or to receive an imputation credit. Dividends are exempt from withholding tax when paid to a company resident in a European Union country if the company pays national corporate tax and holds at least 10% of the share capital in the distributing company. Tax exemption does not apply if the recipient is entitled to an imputation credit. The individual treaty in question must always be verified.

INTEREST DEDUCTIONS

Normally, interest on loans obtained for business purposes is deductible in full on an accruals basis. New thin capitalisation rules have been introduced from tax year 2014 onwards which apply to interest paid between related parties. Broadly speaking, a company may deduct up to EUR 500,000 of interest expense per year without restriction. Similarly, if a company can demonstrate that the proportion of its net assets represented by equity is at least as high as the group's consolidated equity to net assets ratio, then the thin capitalisation rules will also not apply, as specified in more detail in the relevant legislation.

Where neither of these exemptions apply, the maximum deductible amount of interest paid to related parties is 25% of EBITDA determined for tax purposes. Any interest restricted under these rules can be carried forward to use in future years, but similar restrictions on e.g. EBITDA apply each tax year.

LOSSES

Losses may be carried forward and set off in the subsequent ten tax years. If more than 50% of the shares of the company are sold during a loss year or thereafter, losses from previous years cannot usually be deducted. There is a dispensation procedure possible to this main rule.

FOREIGN SOURCED INCOME

If a foreign company falls under the Finnish controlled foreign company (CFC) legislation, then the foreign company's undistributed profits can be allocated to the taxable income of a Finnish shareholder. The preconditions for the application of the CFC legislation are as follows:

- One or more Finnish resident shareholders directly or indirectly own at least 50% of the capital or of the voting rights in the CFC or they are entitled to at least 50% of the yield of the net wealth of the CFC;
- The Finnish resident shareholder owns, directly or indirectly, at least 25% of the CFC;
- The effective tax rate of the CFC in its country of residence is less than three-fifths of the tax of an equivalent company resident in Finland (currently 12%).

INCENTIVES

Accelerated depreciation is available to small and medium-sized companies that make investments in certain development areas. The investment must be in assets that will establish or enlarge production facilities or tourist businesses in those areas. The increased rate of depreciation is available for the year of investment and the following two years. A calculative 100% added deduction is available only until 31 December 2015 in respect of salary costs incurred on research and development activities where those costs are between EUR 15,000 and EUR 400,000.

C. FOREIGN TAX RELIEF

Under tax treaties, foreign tax is most frequently relieved by a tax credit. If a tax treaty does not apply, Finnish domestic law grants a credit for foreign tax paid, as specified in more detail. The credit is granted only if the foreign tax is final. From 2010, a requirement to calculate available credits on a source country-by-country basis was removed and the ability to carry forward unused credits was extended from one year to five years.

D. CORPORATE GROUPS

Corporations are taxed separately in Finland. There is no concept of consolidated tax returns. However, it is possible to make group contributions if the parent company owns at least 90% of the subsidiary during the whole financial year. The payments will be tax deductible at the level of the payer and taxable at the level of the recipient. There are additional requirements in the relevant act.

E. RELATED PARTY TRANSACTIONS

Related party transactions are usually accepted if they are at arm's length. Arm's length pricing applies to transactions of all types including the purchasing of inventory and the provision of services and financial facilities.

Mandatory transfer pricing documentation requirements apply to foreign-owned subsidiaries and branches in Finland and Finnish Groups with more than 250 employees and an annual turnover of above EUR 50 million or a balance sheet of more than EUR 43 million.

F. WITHHOLDING TAX

Withholding tax is not imposed on dividends paid to resident companies. Dividends paid to non-resident companies are generally subject to a withholding tax of 20% which may be reduced or eliminated under tax treaties. Non-resident shareholders are not entitled to an imputation credit unless a tax treaty provides otherwise. Interest paid to resident companies is not subject to withholding tax. Interest paid to non-residents is generally exempt from tax. However, the abovementioned thin capitalisation restrictions may apply.

Withholding tax is not imposed on royalties paid to resident companies. Royalties paid to non-resident companies are generally subject to a withholding tax of 20% which may be reduced or eliminated under a tax treaty. Royalties are, in certain cases, exempted from withholding tax when paid to a company resident in a European Union country. In certain circumstances, tax must be withheld on payments for work carried on by non-residents if they are not registered in Prepayment Register.

G. EXCHANGE CONTROL

In principle, there are no exchange controls in Finland.

H. PERSONAL TAX

Finnish resident individuals are subject to tax in respect of their worldwide income. Non-residents are taxed on their income derived from Finland. The tax year for individuals is the calendar year. Married persons are taxed separately both on earned income and investment income. Interest and insurance deductions may be dependent, in certain circumstances, on the marital status of the taxpayer. In general, married persons will have their own deductions.

Individuals are entitled to deduct from their investment income and earned income all expenses incurred in acquiring and maintaining such income, as regulated in more detail. Individuals usually have a right to deduct interest expenses from investment income. Interest expenses are deductible if the debt is related to the acquisition of taxable income. In 2017, 45% of interest on a loan used to purchase the individual's permanent home is deductible. For 2018, the deduction is 35% and it will decrease to 25% in 2019.

An individual is taxed separately on earned income and on investment income. Earned income is subject to national income tax, municipal income tax and church tax. Earned income includes salaries, wages and benefits in kind. The rate table for the national income tax levied on earned income is as follows as from 1 January 2019.

Taxable income (EUR)	Tax on lower amount (EUR)	Rate on excess (%)
17,600 – 26,400	8.00	6.00
26,400 – 43,500	536.00	17.25
43,500 – 76,100	3,485.75	21.25
Over 76,100	10,413.25	31.25

Investment income includes dividend income, capital gains, certain interest income and income from rental activities. Capital income up to EUR 30,000 is taxed at 30% whereas amounts over EUR 30,000 are taxed at 34%.

Finnish nationals are, in addition, subject to the three-year rule. According to this rule, a Finnish national is considered to remain resident in Finland for three years after the end of the year in which he left the country, unless he shows that he has not maintained essential ties in Finland during the tax years concerned. However, under the terms of tax treaties, the three-year rule may be excluded if the individual is deemed resident in another country. Finland imposes both inheritance and gift tax. The minimum taxable amount for inheritance taxation is EUR 20,000 and for gift tax EUR 4,000. Tax rates for both inheritance and gift tax vary from 7% to 35%, depending on who is the receiver of the inheritance and the value inherited or gifted.

Wages and salaries paid by an employer are subject to an employee withholding tax. The amount withheld is based on the amount of wages or salary as well as on the individual circumstances of the employee.

I. TREATY AND NON-TREATY WITHHOLDING TAX RATES

Notes:

1. Tax at source on dividend.
2. The recipient is a company whose share in the company making the payment is at least the percentage indicated in the tax treaty. In some cases, the holding refers to share capital and in others to voting power. The relevant tax treaty should be checked to determine the exact requirements.
3. According to the domestic tax law, interest paid to a non-resident is usually exempt from taxation in Finland.

KEY TAX POINTS

- Companies are subject to French corporate tax on the profits of any business carried on in France. There is a lower rate for SMEs.
- Capital gains generated by companies are generally deemed to be ordinary income. Under the participation exemption, 88% of the gains derived from the disposal of qualifying shares are tax exempt. The remaining 12% is taxed in the normal manner.
- The standard tax system is territorial and applies to each company individually. Foreign branch profits are exempt from French corporate tax. French branches of foreign companies will generally only be taxed in France on French-sourced income.
- In general, all supplies of goods and services and importations of goods and most services are subject to Value Added Tax (VAT) at a standard rate of 20% in mainland France.
- Territorial Economic Contribution; which has two elements: a tax on real estate utilised by the business and a tax on the value added generated by the company.
- Other significant government levies include: a land tax (based on the rental value of real estate) and residential tax on the occupation of property.
- Credit for foreign tax on dividends, royalties and interest is allowed under double tax treaties. Where no tax treaty applies relief is granted by way of deduction.
- Transfer pricing requirements apply to related party transactions with overseas parties. Certain transfer pricing documentation must now be provided annually.
- Withholding tax applies to dividends, interest and royalty payments to non-residents, the rate being subject to the status of the recipient and the terms of tax treaties. There are significant exceptions for payments to EU parent companies. Permanent establishments are automatically subject to withholding tax unless specific conditions are met.
- Personal income tax is applied at progressive rates, subject to mitigation by a family quota system.
- There is a progressive exemption from tax on capital gains on French property. There is an exemption from capital gains tax on the disposal of the principal residence.
- A wealth tax applies, based on worldwide real-estate assets for French residents and on French real-estate assets for non-residents.
- Inheritance tax is paid by the inheritors of a French resident's estate, the French assets of a non-French resident, and also by the French resident inheritors of the estate of a non-French resident.
- Businesses subject to business taxes, e.g. VAT and corporate income tax must produce a Standard Audit file for tax.

A. TAXES PAYABLECOMPANY TAX

Companies are subject to French corporate tax on profits of any business carried on in France. A company is said to be carrying on a business in France if it has a permanent establishment, a dependent agent or carries out a 'complete commercial cycle' in France. The fiscal year runs to 31 December, although each company can choose its own accounting year end. The standard corporate income tax rate is currently 31% (2019). Small and medium sized enterprises (SMEs), i.e. enterprises with fully paid up capital owned by individuals or by other SMEs for at least 75% and with a turnover of EUR 7,630,000 or less, are subject to a 15% reduced tax rate on the first EUR 38,120 of profits, 28% up to EUR 500,000 and to the standard rate (currently 31% - 2019) on any excess.

The current standard rate will be progressively reduced to 25% by 2022 as follows:

- 2018: all companies are subject to a 28% rate on their profits up to EUR 500,000. Profits above this threshold will be subject to a 33.33% rate;
- 2019: companies will be subject to a 28% rate on their profits up to EUR 500,000. Companies with profits over EUR 500,000 will be subject to a 31% tax rate;
- 2020: all companies will be subject to a 28% rate on their total profits;
- 2021: all companies will be subject to a 26.5% rate on their total profits;
- 2022: all companies will be subject to a 25% rate on their total profits.

Companies whose turnover exceeds EUR 7,630,000 also have to pay 3.3% social security contributions, but only when the amount of the corporate tax due exceeds EUR 763,000. The 3.3% contribution applies to the amount of the corporate income tax.

In addition, there was an exceptional contribution of 15% for companies with a turnover of more than EUR 1 billion and a further contribution of 15% for companies with a turnover of more than EUR 3 billion with an accounting year ending at the latest on 30 December 2018.

Tax is payable in four instalments, the due dates being respectively 15 March, 15 June, 15 September and 15 December for accounting years ending on 31 December. The balance must be paid by the 15th of the fourth month after the accounting year-end. Instalments are determined by applying the current year's tax rates to the taxable profits of the last complete accounting period. Additional rules apply for payments on account due by very large companies.

CAPITAL GAINS TAX

Capital gains are generally deemed to be ordinary income. Under the participation exemption, 88% of the gains derived from the disposal of qualifying shares are exempt from tax. The remaining 12% is taxed in the normal manner. Shares qualifying for the participation exemption are those in which the parent has held at least 5% of the subsidiary's capital for at least two years. In addition, proceeds from the licensing of patents, patentable inventions and their improvements and associated manufacturing processes qualify, subject to certain conditions, for a reduced capital gains tax rate of 15% although they constitute royalty income in the strictest sense. The reduced rate also applies to the disposal of such patents, except between related companies. Such disposals are classified as producing 'long term' gains or losses.

A net long-term loss can generally only be carried forward to offset against long term capital gains arising in the following ten years. Net long-term capital losses can no longer be offset against gains arising on the disposal of qualifying shares.

Capital gains on shares held in subsidiaries established in a non-cooperative state or territory will not benefit from the long-term gains regime (except if it can be demonstrated that the business carried out by the foreign company is real and is not constitutive of tax fraud) or the participation exemption and will be taxed at the standard corporate income tax rate. Moreover, it will only be possible to offset capital losses sustained on the disposal of such securities against capital gains of the same type and not against profits taxed at the standard corporate income tax rate.

BRANCH PROFITS TAX

The normal system is territorial and applies to each company individually. Foreign branch profits are exempt from corporate income tax. French branches of foreign companies will generally only be taxed in France on French-sourced income, subject to the same corporate income tax rules as a resident company. The rate of the tax and the surcharges thereon are also the same as for resident companies.

As a principle, branch profits are deemed to be distributed to the foreign head office. Withholding tax is levied at the rate of 30% (or a reduced tax treaty rate) on the net profits of the branch. A refund of tax may be claimed to the extent that the branch's net taxable profits exceed the amounts actually distributed by the head office during the 12 months following the end of the fiscal year concerned, or to the extent the amounts are distributed to residents of France. Profits of foreign companies whose head offices are located in the European Economic Area and which are subject to local corporate income tax, without being exempted, are exempt from the branch remittance tax.

VALUE ADDED TAX (VAT)

In general, all economic activities conducted in France are subject to VAT (sales (and importations) of goods, supplies of services, certain self-supplies and intra-community acquisitions). The 20% standard VAT rate applies to transactions in metropolitan France (different rates apply in Corsica and the overseas departments and collectivities) other than those that are expressly exempt from VAT or subject to one of the reduced rates (10% on for example passenger transport, hotel accommodation, restaurants (except alcohol)), 5.5% reduced VAT rate (e.g. most foods, books) or to the special rate of 2.1% - applicable to reimbursed drugs and to most press items.

The taxpayer is liable for VAT on supplies of goods and services but may offset against this amount any VAT on the purchase (or importation) of goods, equipment and services. VAT returns and payments of VAT must generally be remitted monthly (special rules apply to small businesses). Certain types of supply are subject to the reverse charge mechanism e.g. most sub-contract building construction works, certain transactions in non-investment gold, supplies of gas, electricity, telecommunications services and transfers of CO2 emission quotas.

Subject to certain conditions VAT registered businesses can 'reverse charge' the VAT due on imported goods. The system will be further simplified from 1 January 2020.

Companies must produce and retain a 'VAT audit trail documentation file' to fully justify VAT that is deductible and chargeable.

FRINGE BENEFITS TAX (FBT)

Goods and services provided to employees are considered as salaries paid in kind, liable to social contributions and income tax.

LOCAL TAXES

Various taxes are levied by the Government for the benefit of local government. The most important are as follows:

LAND TAXES

a) Real Estate tax

This is based on 50% of the deemed rental value of real estate owned by the taxpayer.

b) Territorial Economic Contribution (hereafter CET)

The CET consists of two separate contributions which apply in combination:

- Corporate Real Estate Contribution (CFE): The CFE is based on the deemed rental value of real estate assets available to the taxpayer for the purposes of its business activity;
- Contribution calculated on the corporate added value (CVAE): The CVAE is based on turnover, increased by certain income and reduced by certain deductible charges.

RESIDENTIAL TAX

This is a tax on the occupation of property based on the deemed rental value of the property reduced by an allowance for the number of dependants of the occupant. This tax is being substantially reduced over the next few years.

OTHER TAXES

These include the following minor and indirect taxes:

SALARIES TAX

Tax rates vary from 4.25% to 13.6% based on the level of remuneration (including benefits in kind) paid to employees. This tax is payable by companies which are not subject to VAT on at least 90% of their turnover (or turnover giving rise to the right to deduct).

APPRENTICESHIP TAX

Payable at the rate of 0.68% (0.44% in the 3 departments in Alsace-Moselle) on total annual gross wages and salaries. This tax and the employers' training tax (see below) will be substantially revised from 2020 and merged into one tax.

EMPLOYERS' TRAINING TAX

All employers with at least 11 employees pay a contribution of 1% of total annual wages and salaries as an investment into vocational training programmes. The rate is reduced to 0.55% where there are fewer than 11 employees.

CONSTRUCTION PARTICIPATION TAX

All employers with 20 employees or more must pay a minimum of 0.45% of total gross wages and salaries for the construction of social dwellings.

COMPANY CAR TAX

Companies pay a tax based on the number of cars registered in France which they own or rent for more than one month or are used by their employees for their professional needs. The tax has two elements – the level of CO2 emissions and the type of fuel used. Non-polluting vehicles are exempt from this tax. This tax is not deductible from the tax base for corporate tax.

F

ORGANIC TAX

This tax (which is effectively a social charge) applies to companies at a rate of 0.16% on annual turnover (as determined from certain lines on the VAT return) exceeding EUR 19 million. This tax is deductible from the tax base for corporate tax.

RATES OF STAMP OR TRANSFER DUTIES

The sale of goodwill/business is subject to transfer duties at a rate of 2% (between EUR 23,000 and EUR 107,000) and 0.6% (between EUR 107,000 and EUR 200,000) and 2.6% over EUR 200,000. The rate of transfer duties on the disposal/transfer of shares, such as shares in an SAS, SA is at 0.1%, but at 3% on shares of an SARL and Sociétés civiles. Exemptions may apply for sales between entities part of the same group. For certain companies having substantial real-estate assets the rate is 5%. There are also registration duties on sales/transfers of real estate at varying rates.

FINANCIAL TRANSACTION TAX (TAXE SUR LES TRANSACTIONS FINANCIÈRES)

A 0.3% tax applies to the acquisition of shares in listed companies which have their head office in France and whose market capitalisation exceeds EUR 1 billion on 1st December prior to the fiscal year in which the transaction takes place.

B. DETERMINATION OF TAXABLE INCOME

Taxable income is determined on the basis of the accounting results. When a tax rule diverges from an accounting principle, adjustments are made to the accounting results to determine the taxable result. Business profits are defined as gross trading profits less manufacturing, administrative and selling expenses. All expenses incurred in the conduct of business are deductible if they are directly related to the corporate purpose of the taxable entity. Special rules apply in respect of the categories listed below.

Interest, royalties and payments for services provided by private individuals and legal entities established or domiciled in a non-cooperative state or territory are only deductible if:

- The debtor provides proof of the transactions;
- The transactions are not abnormal or exaggerated; and,
- Has a bona fide commercial purpose.

The paying company will be required to submit a detailed breakdown of the expenditure along with its tax return.

DEPRECIATION

Fixed assets are generally written off over their normal useful life. The straight-line method is the most commonly used. Companies can choose the declining-balance method to compute depreciation although certain assets are excluded from this. Assets acquired for a cost of less than EUR 500 excluding VAT can be completely written off in the first year.

The cost of cars exceeding certain limits cannot be depreciated: the maximum is set at:

- EUR 30,000 for electric cars (less than 20g/km of CO₂);
- EUR 20,300 for hybrid cars (more than 20g/km and less than 60g/km of CO₂);

France

- EUR 18,300 for cars with more than 60g/km and less than 155g/km of CO₂ for cars acquired in 2017, 150g/km of CO₂ for cars acquired in 2018, and 140g/km of CO₂ for cars acquired in 2019; and
- EUR 9,900 for cars with more than 155g/km of CO₂ if acquired in 2017, with more than 150g/km of CO₂ if acquired in 2018, with more than 140g/km of CO₂ if acquired in 2019.

Other items can be written off at specific rates, depending on their effective life and their date of purchase. A company can elect not to take all the depreciation to which it is entitled if it so wishes but the depreciation claimed on its assets in total must be at least equal to the depreciation that would have been claimed on the same assets on a straight-line basis.

STOCK / INVENTORY

Stock may be valued at each year-end at cost price, market selling value or replacement cost. On the balance sheet, inventories must be shown at cost price. If the market value is lower, a reserve for depreciation of inventories must be disclosed separately as a deduction from cost.

Cost is defined as the actual purchase price or actual production cost (excluding financial charges) or, if lower, the price at which the goods may be sold. FIFO or the average cost method must be applied. LIFO is prohibited.

CAPITAL GAINS AND LOSSES

See 'Capital Gains Tax' above.

DIVIDENDS

Dividends distributed by French or foreign companies that meet the parent subsidiary regime conditions (holding of at least 5% of the capital for at least 2 years; subsidiary subject to corporate income tax and which has an economic substance) are 95% exempt at the level of the parent company.

Dividends that do not meet the conditions of the parent-subsidiary regime are taxed at the common income tax rate by the recipient company – currently 31%.

However, in the following cases, only 1% of the value of dividends received by a French company are taxed:

- Dividends distributed between French companies, part of a tax consolidated group;
- Dividends distributed by an EU company (or established in Iceland or Norway) to a French company which is a member of a tax consolidated group, if this EU company is subject to local corporate income tax and would have met the conditions to be part of the French tax consolidation group if it had been located in France;
- Dividends distributed by an EU company (or established in Iceland or Norway) to a French company which is not a member of a tax consolidated group (because not fulfilling the conditions), if this EU company is subject to local corporate income tax and would have met the conditions to form a French tax consolidation group if it had been located in France.

Dividends from companies established in non-cooperative countries or territories, are excluded from this regime, except if it can be demonstrated that the foreign subsidiary has genuine activities whose purpose or effect is not to locate profits in those non-cooperative countries or territories, with a fraudulent intent.

INTEREST DEDUCTIONS

There were major changes made to the interest deduction rules – effective from 1 January 2019 – to comply with the EU's ATAD.

New general limitation: net interest expenses will be deductible from a company's taxable income only to the extent that they do not exceed the higher of two thresholds: (i) EUR 3 million or (ii) 30% of the adjusted taxable income of the company (i.e., corresponding to the taxable income before the offset of tax losses and without taking into consideration net financial expenses and – to some extent – depreciation, provisions and capital gains/losses). This is referred to as the "regular threshold." An additional deduction limited to 75% of the non-deductible amount is available when the ratio equity-to-assets is equal to or greater than the same ratio determined at the level of the consolidated group to which the company belongs. Interest expense that cannot be deducted during a year, can be carried forward without any limits as regards time or amount.

Debt-to-equity ratio: should the company be thinly capitalised and exceed a specific 1.5:1 debt-to-equity ratio,

- a portion of the net interest expense, determined by application of the following ratio to the net interest expense, is subject to the regular threshold:

- Average amount of indebtedness to unrelated parties + [1.5 x equity] (numerator);
- Average amount of indebtedness (denominator).
- a portion of the net interest expense, determined by application of the following ratio to the net interest expense, is deductible up to the higher of the two following thresholds: (i) EUR 1 million or (ii) 10% of the below mentioned adjusted taxable income:
 - Average amount of indebtedness to related parties exceeding 1.5 x equity (numerator);
 - Average amount of indebtedness (denominator).

There are new 'safe harbour' rules and rules for dealing with excess interest expense, deduction capacity, impact of reorganisations and tax groups.

LOSSES

Losses carried forward are subject to a restriction whereby the maximum amount that can be utilised in any one year is EUR 1,000,000 plus 50% of the profit exceeding this threshold. The portion of the losses that cannot be offset can be carried forward indefinitely by applying the same limitation each year.

Losses can be carried back against undistributed taxable income for the previous financial year up to the lower of EUR 1,000,000 and the profits of that earlier tax year. The portion of losses that cannot be carried back may still be carried forward.

Corporate income tax paid in the preceding years is not immediately repaid to the company when this option is exercised but the company becomes entitled to a tax credit. It can be used to pay its corporate income tax liabilities arising in the following five years. If the credit is not used during these five years, the tax is reimbursed by the Administration.

PATENT INCOME

The tax rate on patent income is, from 2019, reduced to 10%. This tax rate will apply, on an election basis only, to the net income derived from the licensing of qualifying patents, after deduction of R&D expenses, and after the application of a ratio which takes account of the taxpayer's share of the expenses incurred in the creation of the patent to the total costs incurred.

FOREIGN SOURCE INCOME

Profits earned by subsidiaries not established in an EU country and paying a low rate of tax (below 15.5%) are presumed to have been earned in France and are subject to corporate tax in France, if more than 50% of the shares are owned by the parent company. A tax credit is given for the corporate tax paid in the country where the subsidiary is established.

Withholding tax suffered on dividends, interest and royalties from such subsidiaries is only creditable if the subsidiary is resident in a territory that has signed a double tax treaty with France and that is not on the list of non-cooperative states or territories (Botswana, Brunei, Guatemala, Marshall Islands, Nauru, Niue and Panama). To avoid the application of the aforementioned rule, if the subsidiary is established or set up in a non-cooperative state or territory, the French parent must either:

- (i) Demonstrate that the profits of the subsidiary are generated from an effective industrial or commercial activity and do not exceed the ratios for passive income and intra-group services; or,
- (ii) Provide to the tax authorities all the documents necessary for it to evaluate the activity performed and the ratios as well as to substantiate that the transactions of the subsidiary have a primary purpose other than to divert profits into that country.

INCENTIVES

- Research tax credit (CIR): Businesses that spend money on research may be granted a tax credit, which can be offset against the corporation tax they owe. Since 2013, the Research Tax Credit has been extended to cover certain innovation investments by SMEs. The tax credit rate for R&D expenditure is 30% of outlays up to EUR 100 million per year, and 5% over this limit. The tax credit rate for innovation expenditure is 20% of the eligible outlays up to a maximum of EUR 400,000 per year. In certain cases, the tax credit rate may be more than 100% of the research expenditure. The nature of the expenses giving rise to the credit must be disclosed if above EUR 2 million.
- Innovative start-ups: New businesses, created no later than 31 December 2019, that invest in R&D and that have innovative start-up (JEI) or university start-up (JEU) status are eligible for exemptions from taxes and social security contributions. The exemption from tax on profits can be combined with the research tax credit (CIR – see above) and innovative start-ups can also receive an immediate refund of their CIR receivables.

- Competitiveness and Employment Tax Credit (CICE): The purpose of the Competitiveness and Employment Tax Credit (CICE) is to enhance the competitiveness of businesses in France, mainly by funding capital expenditure, R&D, innovation, training, hiring, canvassing of new markets, environmental and energy transition costs and the replenishment of working capital. The tax credit is not capped. From 1 January 2018 the rate was 6% of the wages paid (the rate was 7% in 2017). It is 9% in France's overseas departments since 2016. The CICE was subject to conditions and for example was capped on salaries up to 2.5 times the minimum wage.

The measure is abolished with effect from 1 January 2019 and is replaced by a reduction in the employer's health insurance contributions on a company's gross salaries up to 2.5 times the minimum wage.

In certain privileged 'priority zones', companies created to carry out new industrial, commercial or even, under certain conditions, non-commercial activities, are exempt from corporate income tax during the first two years of their operation. They are also exempt from tax on 75%, 50% and 25% of their profits for the next three years respectively. The exemptions also apply to local business taxes, reduced transfer taxes and accelerated depreciation. Various tax incentives are available to enterprises operating in Corsica, Overseas Departments and specified, disadvantaged urban and suburban zones.

OTHER

Deferred remunerations paid to directors or managers (such as golden parachutes) are deductible up to a maximum of EUR 121,572.

C. FOREIGN TAX RELIEF

Foreign tax paid on dividends, royalties and interest may be allowed as a credit against the French tax due from a French resident under a double tax treaty (or by way of deduction under domestic law when received from a non-treaty country).

D. CORPORATE GROUPS

Where a French company holds 95% or more of the shares of one or more French companies, the group may elect to be taxed as a single entity, corporate tax is payable only by the company head of the tax consolidated group. Therefore, profits and losses of group companies may be offset. The French tax consolidation regime also applies to "horizontal" tax consolidated groups (i.e. tax consolidation between sister or cousin companies).

Transactions between group members at cost – goods and services - are now permitted.

E. RELATED PARTY TRANSACTIONS

Pre-tax income indirectly transferred abroad either through an increase or decrease of purchase or sales price, or by any other means, to an enterprise established outside France which controls or is controlled by the French corporate taxpayer may be added back to taxable income by the Tax Authorities. Groups of companies may obtain an advance transfer pricing (APA) agreement from the French Ministry of Finance. Transfer pricing documentation for companies of a certain size must be made available to the tax authorities on request. Certain transfer pricing information must be provided each year.

F. WITHHOLDING TAX

Withholding tax must be deducted from dividends, interest and royalties paid to non-residents to the extent they are not franked. See section J below for more details.

G. EXCHANGE CONTROL

In principle, inbound non-resident investments in France are free of prior review and approval by the government unless they are in a sensitive economic sector where prior authorisation must be obtained from the French Treasury.

H. PERSONAL TAX

Income tax is payable by French residents on non-exempt income derived from all sources (worldwide income subject to tax treaties). Non-residents are only required to pay tax on French-sourced income.

French law establishes three criteria, any one of which is sufficient to indicate that an individual is resident in France for tax purposes:

- Home in France (or, in the absence of any home, the place where he/she mainly stays is in France);
- Professional activity in France whether salaried or not, unless that activity is being performed on an ancillary basis;
- Centre of economic interest (i.e., the place where the individual has his/her major investments, place of business, from where he/she manages their assets).

Income tax is payable on assessable income less allowable deductions. Assessable income includes property income, industrial or commercial profits, certain directors' remuneration, agricultural profits, wages, salaries, pensions and life annuities, non-commercial profits and investment income. Allowable deductions include expenses incurred in performing the duties of an office of employment, interest on certain loans and pension contributions.

There are other deductions such as an allowance paid to members of the taxpayer's family and investment incentives. The family quota or coefficient system mitigates the effect of the progressive nature of the tax rate bands. A single person with no dependents has a coefficient of one and pays tax on his actual taxable income. By comparison, a married couple with two children has a coefficient of three and pays tax by dividing their income first by three, calculating an amount due as if they were single, and then multiplying the amount due by three (there are ceiling constraints to limit the benefit of this system).

The tax return is generally due by the latest at the end of May (year Y) (returns must now be filed online). The tax return relates to the income derived in the previous year (year Y-1). The following table gives the rates of tax for 2019:

Bracket of taxable income (EUR)	Rate (%)
0 – 9,964	0
9,965 to 27,519	14
27,520 to 73,779	30
73,780 to 156,244	41
Over 156,245	45

Those individuals earning the highest incomes are subject to an additional extraordinary contribution.

This contribution is equal to 3% or 4% of the taxable income depending on the amount of the income. Interest paid on the mortgage for the purchase of the taxpayer's principal residence cannot be deducted from his taxable income.

From 1 January 2019 employers, pension providers etc apply a withholding tax as and when salaries/pensions are paid such that income tax will be paid in year Y on the basis of the revenues of year Y (and no longer on the basis of the revenues of year Y-1). There are complex transition rules for revenues earned in 2018.

Capital Gains: Capital gains on any immovable property are exempt if the sales price does not exceed EUR 15,000 or the asset concerned is the taxpayer's principal residence (applicable to French tax residents).

The sale of a French situs property (or of shares in a deemed French real estate investment company) is subject to capital gains tax as follows:

- French resident: the capital gain is taxed at a rate of 19% plus social contributions (17.2%). A decreasing scale applies if the property is held for more than 5 years. Capital gains are exempted from tax if the property concerned has been held for at least 22 years and are totally exempted from tax and social charges if the property concerned has been held for at least 30 years.
- European Union and Swiss residents: the capital gain is taxed at a rate of 19% plus 7.5% of social contributions. The progressive exemption of the capital gain applies.
- All other non-French residents: The capital gain is taxed at a rate of 19% plus 17.2% of social contributions (if the sale of the property is made by a non-French corporate structure, the taxable gain increases by 2% each year). The progressive exemption for capital gains applies. The rate increases to 75% if the seller is a resident of a non-cooperative state.

In addition, and if greater than EUR 50,000, the capital gain (with certain exceptions) is subject to an additional tax ranging from 2% to 6% (depending on the amount of the capital gain).

Wealth tax: has, from 1 January 2018, been limited in scope and now only applies to real estate assets, including 'paper', and is assessed on individuals whose net wealth exceeds EUR 1,300,000 (threshold), the tax due is computed on the value of the real-estate assets held by the taxpayer on 1 January exceeding EUR 800,000. French residents are subject to wealth tax on worldwide real-estate assets, while the tax basis for non-residents is limited to real-estate assets situated in France. It is only possible to deduct debts that are related to taxable assets (there are special rules for non-repayment mortgages). The wealth tax return is generally filed with the tax return. The tax is payable upon filing of the return. The tax rates range from 0.5% to 1.5%.

A capping system applies only to French residents, whereby income tax and wealth tax cannot exceed 75% of the worldwide net income received by the taxpayer in the preceding year.

Inheritance tax is paid by the inheritors of the estate of a French resident or the French assets of a non-French resident. Inheritance tax is also due by French resident inheritors on all the estate of a non-French resident. The tax is due on all property transferred by will, by intestate succession or donation before death.

If the deceased is a French tax resident, all assets owned are subject to inheritance tax, whether the beneficiary is a French tax resident or not, and whether the assets are located in France or not.

But, if the deceased and the beneficiary were not French tax residents, only the assets located in France would be subject to French taxation (except in certain specific cases: art. 750ter of the FTC).

Transfers of assets held through a trust, or earnings capitalised as such, are subject to inheritance tax. A declaration giving a description and valuation of the assets received must be sent to the Administration within six months following the death. Certain tax-free allowances are granted, the amount of which depends on the relationship with the deceased. The tax rates range from 5% to 60%.

I. STANDARD AUDIT FILE FOR TAX (FICHER D'ÉCRITURES COMPTABLES)

All businesses subject to business taxes, e.g. corporate income tax or VAT, must produce, at tax audit, a Standard Audit file for tax in a predetermined format (providing transaction level detail) as set down by the French tax authorities.

J. TREATY AND NON-TREATY WITHHOLDING TAX RATES

France has signed a number of supplemental clauses modifying some international tax treaties. Notably, these relate to the exchange of information.

Notes:

1. Unless a tax treaty provides for a lower rate, gross dividends distributed to non-resident corporate shareholders are subject to a final withholding tax of 30% (articles 119bis and 187 of the CGI). The 30% rate is reduced to 15% for dividends distributed by French companies to non-profit organisations (e.g. pension funds) resident in another EEA country (articles 187 and 219bis of the CGI). Dividends distributed by a resident company to a company resident in an NCST (Non-cooperative states or territories) are subject to a 75% final withholding tax, unless the distributing company proves that the distribution made to a resident of an NCST neither seeks nor allows abusive profit shifting to the NCST.

2. Under article 119ter of the CGI implementing the provisions of the (EU) Parent-Subsidiary Directive (2011/96), no withholding tax is levied on dividends paid by a French company to a qualifying parent company resident in the European Economic Area (EEA). The exemption also applies to dividends paid to a permanent establishment located in France with a qualifying EEA parent company. The exemption applies if:
 - i. the parent company is the beneficial owner of the dividends;
 - ii. the parent company has its place of effective management in an EEA state with which France concluded a tax treaty containing an administrative assistance clause, and is not deemed to be domiciled outside the EEA pursuant to a tax treaty concluded with a non-EEA state;
 - iii. the parent company has one of the legal forms listed in the Directive, or a comparable form if its place of effective management is located in an EEA state;
 - iv. the parent company holds directly at least 10% of the full or bare ownership of the share capital of the French subsidiary for an uninterrupted period of at least 2 years (or commits to hold the shares for at least 2 years). The 10% participation threshold is reduced to 5% if the parent company holds shares that fulfil the conditions provided for in the French participation exemption rules, and is unable to make use of a tax credit for French withholding tax in its country of residence; and
 - v. the parent company is subject to corporate income tax in the EEA state where its place of effective management is located, with no possibility to opt for such tax and without being exempt from it.
3. A 10% shareholding is required.
4. A 15% shareholding is required.
5. A 20% shareholding is required.
6. A 25% shareholding is required.
7. A 50% shareholding is required.
8. No reduction under the treaty. The domestic rate applies.
9. Treaty concluded between France and the former USSR.
10. Treaty concluded between France and the former Yugoslavia.
11. Extension of the 1950 treaty with the United Kingdom.
12. Generally, no withholding tax is levied on interest paid to non-resident companies and individuals. Only interest paid to a company or an individual located in an NCST (Non-cooperative states or territories) is subject to a final 75% withholding tax, unless the taxpayer proves that the payments are not motivated by tax avoidance.
13. Gross royalties are subject to a 31% withholding tax (2019) unless a tax treaty provides for a lower rate (article 182 B of the CGI). This withholding tax is not final as it is credited against the corporate income tax assessed under the general rules. Under article 182 B bis of the CGI implementing the provisions of the EU Interest and Royalties Directive (2003/49), outbound royalty payments are exempt from withholding tax, provided that the beneficial owner is an associated company of the paying company and is resident in another Member State or such a company's permanent establishment is situated in another Member State. Royalties paid to a company resident in an NCST (Non-cooperative states or territories) are subject to a 75% final withholding tax, unless the taxpayer proves that the payments are not motivated by tax avoidance.

- Value Added Tax (VAT) at a standard rate of 15% is payable on taxable supplies made in the Gambia, taxable imports of goods and on taxable supplies of imported services.

A. TAXES PAYABLE

COMPANY TAX

Corporation tax is payable based on the higher of 27% of chargeable profit or 1% of total revenue for the tax year. This implies that even if a company has an adjusted tax loss figure for any particular year, it will still be liable to tax. Note that if for any reason a company is not audited, tax on its total revenue will be 2% and not 1%.

Income tax is payable in quarterly instalments, i.e. the three-month period ending on the last day of the third, sixth, ninth and twelfth month of the tax year. This instalment is based on 1% of total revenue for a company with audited accounts or 2% for a company without audited accounts and is due by the 15th of the following month, failing which a penalty equal to 5% of the unpaid tax per month can be applied. Advance payments during the tax year are credited against income tax assessed.

Corporate Income Tax Return form is mandatory for all taxable entities and is expected to be submitted by 31 March of the year following that to which it relates. The form is used to determine annual tax liability.

CAPITAL GAINS TAX (CGT)

CGT is payable on the disposal of a capital asset. In the case of a partnership, company or trustee, tax is paid on the greater of:

- 25% of the capital gain arising on disposal or;
 - 10% of the consideration received for the disposal.
- In the case of an individual, body of persons or trustee of a deceased estate:

- 15% of the capital gain arising on percentage of the disposal or;
- 5% of the consideration received on disposal.

Capital gains tax is exempt on the disposal of agricultural land, private residence and if the gain does not exceed GMD 7,500.

BRANCH PROFITS TAX

A branch's profit is taxed at the higher of 27% on chargeable profit or 1% of total revenue as the branch is considered a permanent establishment meaning a resident company. There is no branch remittance tax in the Gambia.

- a taxable supply made in The Gambia;
- a taxable import of goods;
- a taxable supply of imported services.

Registration requirements

- A person is required to register for VAT at the end of any 12-month or shorter period if, during the period, the total value of supplies of goods or services made by the person equals or exceeds GMD 1 million.
- A person is required to register for VAT at the beginning of any 12-month period if there are reasonable grounds to expect that the total value of supplies of goods or services to be made by the person during that period will equal or exceed GMD 1 million.
- A person who is not required to register for VAT is permitted to register within six months of the end of a 12-month or shorter period in which the total value of supplies made by the person exceeded GMD 500,000.

VAT is payable on a taxable supply of goods made in the Gambia. In the case of certain taxable supplies of goods the rate is 0% and in any other case, the rate is 15%. A registered person shall provide a VAT return for each tax period within 15 days after the end of the period, whether or not tax is payable for the tax period.

Fringe benefits are specific and direct payments of expenditure for and on behalf of an employee, in addition to his /her salary. The tax levied is at a rate of 27% on the grossed-up taxable value of each benefit provided and is payable by the organisation that provides the benefit to the employee. The total amount of fringe benefits plus tax thereon is an allowable deduction for corporate income tax calculation purposes.

- Value Added Tax (VAT) applies to a taxable supply of goods or services in Georgia and is chargeable on the customs value of goods imported. The standard VAT rate is 18%.
- Property tax is a local tax administered by local self-government bodies (up to a maximum limit specified within the Tax Code) and comprises land tax and property tax of individuals and enterprises.
- Individuals resident in Georgia are subject to personal income tax (PIT) on their worldwide income, whereas non-residents are subject to PIT on Georgian-sourced income only, subject to double tax treaty relief. Unless other rates apply (for example, for interest and dividends), the income of an individual is taxed at the flat rate of 20%.

A. TAXES PAYABLE

The principal source of tax law in Georgia is the Tax Code, with the new Tax Code being adopted by the Parliament of Georgia and effective from 1 January 2011. Tax concessions and exemptions are granted through amendments to the Tax Code. There are six main taxes in Georgia:

- Personal Income Tax (PIT) – a nationwide tax;
- Corporate Income Tax (CIT) – a nationwide tax;
- Value Added Tax (VAT) – a nationwide tax;
- Import Duty – a nationwide tax;
- Excise Tax – a nationwide tax; and,
- Property Tax – a local tax.

COMPANY TAX (old regime)

Companies incorporated and tax resident in Georgia (tax residents) are subject to tax on their worldwide income, whereas companies incorporated overseas are normally treated as non-resident tax residents and taxable on Georgian-sourced income only or income arising from business activities carried on through a permanent establishment in Georgia. Georgian and foreign enterprises are subject to Profit Tax on their taxable profits and the following types of income are treated as received from Georgian sources:

- Income earned from employment in Georgia;
- Income or benefit earned from the supply of goods within the territory of Georgia;
- Income earned from the delivery of services in Georgia;
- Dividend income from a resident entity;
- Royalty income received from a resident entity;
- Interest income on debt obligations issued by a permanent establishment of a foreign company or resident entity;
- Income from immovable property, i.e. arising from the sale of immovable property located in Georgia;
- Some other types of income.

The profit of a Georgian enterprise, which represents all taxable income from its economic activities less allowable deductions, is taxed at a flat rate of 15%. A foreign enterprise carrying on economic activities through a permanent establishment in Georgia is also subject to profit tax at a flat tax rate of 15% on its net taxable income (gross income received from Georgian sources which relate to the activities performed by its permanent establishment less any deductions allowable under the Tax Code). The tax period for corporate income tax is a calendar year. Annual profit tax returns must be submitted to the tax authority by 31 March each year.

COMPANY TAX (new regime)

A new system of corporate income taxation was introduced in Georgia in 2016, which has become effective as of 1 January 2017. This new system has radically reformed the existing classical corporate income tax system. The core idea behind this reform is to exempt undistributed profits (reinvested or retained profits) from corporate income tax and to only tax profit distributions (including 'deemed' profit distributions), i.e. the so-called 'Estonian model'. Corporate income tax is payable at the time of profit distribution only.

According to the amendments made to the Georgian Tax Code (hereinafter the TCG), entrepreneurial entities including PEs (except for commercial banks, credit unions, insurance organisations, microfinance organisations and pawnshops, as well as organisations) have been transferred to the new income tax model. According to the new model of profit tax, the tax is calculated by dividing the object of taxation by 0.85 and then multiplying it by 15%. This model is intended to stimulate reinvestments as businesses will have an incentive to retain their earnings and reinvest in growth upgrading their facilities and increasing their competitiveness.

According to the new model the following items are to be taxed:

1. Distribution of profit (profit, which can be distributed by the enterprise as a dividend to its partner(s), in cash or non-cash form);
2. Taxation of distortions (difference between the cost and market price of the transaction with a related party (who is not subject to profit tax according to the new regime) or the person exempted from income tax/profit tax (except for a budget organisation, the Legal Entity under Public Law – the Deposit Insurance Agency and the National Bank of Georgia) and the carrying out of a controlled operation if the conditions set out in this operation do not meet the market principle);
3. Costs incurred or other payments that are not related to economic activity, e.g.:
 - Expense which is not documented, if this obligation is established in accordance with the TCG;
 - Costs of reimbursement that are not intended for profit, income or compensation;
 - Costs for goods/services purchased from a natural person with a micro business/fixed taxpayer status;
4. Temporary taxation of some kind, e.g. a loan to a natural person or a non-resident, a person registered in a country with a preferential taxation, as well as a payment to a person exempted from profit tax in accordance with the TCG, etc.;
5. Delivery of goods/services and/or transfer of cash to gratuitous goods supplied free of charge or rendering of services which is not intended for profit, income or compensation;
6. Costs above limit:
 - Interest paid with respect to a credit (loan) above the annual interest rate set by the Minister of Finance;
 - A donation to a charitable organisation that does not exceed 10% of the net profit earned during the previous calendar year;
 - Representative expenses incurred during the calendar year above the limit. The marginal amount is 1% of the revenue received during the previous calendar year and 1% of the cost incurred if the expenditure exceeds the received income.

These amendments have resulted in the abolition of the deferred tax concept. Because the profit tax rate is calculated based on the outcome of the financial statements, temporary differences are no longer the basis for accounting for deferred taxes.

Also, if a resident enterprise distributes a dividend from a net profit gained during the reporting periods from 1 January 2008 to 1 January 2017, it may offset the amount of profit tax assessed and paid based on the reporting periods.

Until 1 January 2019, the object of profit taxation for commercial banks, credit unions, insurance organisations, microfinance organisations and pawnshops is the difference between the gross income gained during a calendar year and deductible amounts under the TCG (according to the announced amendment, it is planned to transfer the deadline up to the year 2023).

BRANCH PROFITS TAX

Corporate tax is levied at a rate of 15% on profits derived through and distributed from a permanent establishment. There is no branch remittance tax in Georgia.

CAPITAL GAINS TAX

There is no separate capital gains tax legislation in Georgia. Capital gains are subject to regular income tax when they are realised. Unrealised capital gains are not subject to taxation.

VALUE ADDED TAX

VAT applies to a vatiable supply of goods or services in Georgia and chargeable on the Customs value of goods imported (as set by the Customs legislation of Georgia). Advances received by a supplier of goods/services will also be subject to VAT within the limits of such supply operations. Advances will be taxable when:

- It is possible to identify the delivered goods/services;
- It is possible to identify the quantity and volume of delivered goods/services;
- It is possible to identify the cost of delivered goods/services;
- It is possible to identify whether the delivered goods/services are exempt from VAT or are the subject of taxation.

This will not be applicable to cases when goods are supplied regularly or continuously (firm capacity, electric or heat energy, gas or water) and also not when services are delivered regularly or continuously.

The standard VAT rate is 18%, which is applied to most goods/services. Certain transactions however are exempt from taxation. There are two types of exempted transactions:

- Transactions exempted with the right of deduction (zero-rated), e.g. where the export of goods is exempted but VAT input rights remain; and
- Transactions exempted without the right of deduction, e.g. where the import of certain medicines, machinery, mass media and baby products are exempted without input VAT rights.

VAT returns should be submitted to the tax authorities by the 15th day of the following month.

LOCAL TAXES

Property tax is a local tax administered by local self-government bodies (up to a maximum limit specified within the Tax Code) and comprises land tax and property tax of individuals and enterprises.

PROPERTY TAX (physical person)

The property tax rate applying to an individual depends on the amount of his annual income, regardless of their tax residency status, from sources in and outside Georgia. The tax is levied on:

- Real estate (including an unfinished construction, building or structure, or a part thereof), yachts (cutters), helicopters, airplanes, and motor cars specified under Code 8703 (National Commodity Nomenclature of Foreign Economic Activities) that are owned by him;
- Fixed assets used for economic activities, immovable property (building or a part thereof) and construction in progress (it does not apply to land);
- Property received from a non-resident under a lease agreement.

The property tax rate ranges from 0.05% to 0.2% of the fair market value of the property that is located in Georgia if the individual's family worldwide income is between GEL 40,000 and GEL 100,000 during the reporting calendar year. However, if the individual's family worldwide annual income exceeds GEL 100,000, the tax rate is between 0.8% and 1%. A tax return must be submitted by the individual before 1st November following the reporting calendar (tax) year and tax must be paid to the tax authority by 15th November.

Income of a non-resident natural person being a citizen of Georgia shall be determined as per the income received from Georgia-based sources.

PROPERTY TAX (Georgian enterprises)

Georgian enterprises and foreign enterprises engaged in economic activity in Georgia through permanent establishments and organisations whose property or part of property is used for economic activity may be subject to property tax. For Georgian enterprises as for foreign enterprises, property tax is imposed only on property located in Georgia.

Unless specifically exempted, property tax applies at a flat rate of 1% of the average annual net book value of fixed assets, uninstalled equipment and construction in progress (or similar property of an enterprise utilised for economic activity) listed on its balance sheet.

LAND TAX

Physical and legal persons are subject to land tax if they possess land plots or use state owned areas, including land used for agricultural and non-agricultural purposes as of 1 April of the tax year. The land tax depends on where the land is located and its quality. It is not based on the taxpayer's economic position.

The base maximum annual rate for non-agricultural land is GEL 0.24 per one square meter and the tax is calculated by multiplying the annual base tax rate by the territorial coefficient, however, a territorial coefficient shall not exceed 1.5.

The annual basic property tax rates on agricultural land and forest land are differentiated according to administrative-territorial units and land categories for 1 ha, in GEL and the tax is calculated by multiplying the annual basic tax rate by the territorial coefficient, which is determined by a decision of the representative body of local self-government. However, such rate shall not exceed 150% of the annual basic rate.

A (physical) person is required to submit an annual tax return by 1st November each year. A legal entity is required to submit an annual tax return by 1st April each year.

OTHER TAXES - CUSTOMS DUTIES

The taxation of the import and export of goods is regulated by the Tax Code. Customs duties include VAT, Import Duty and Excise Duty.

According to the TCG, the export of goods from the territory of Georgia is exempt from VAT and excise tax, with VAT and excise input deduction rights.

IMPORT DUTY

Depending on the type of goods being imported, customs tax can be applied at a rate of 0%, 5% or 12%.

EXCISE DUTY

Excise Duty applies to certain goods such as alcoholic beverages, tobacco products, oil and gas, cars and for termination services for international calls received from a resident or a non-resident person in a mobile or fixed network). Excise tax rates are fixed per physical unit of excisable good (1 cigarette, pcs, litre, cm³, m³, kilogram, tonne, ml, etc.) and can vary from product to product.

B. DETERMINATION OF TAXABLE INCOME

FOR ENTERPRISES WHICH HAVE NOT YET MOVED TO THE NEW INCOME TAX MODEL

Generally, expenses connected with earning gross income can be deducted to arrive at the net taxable income. Therefore, expenses not connected with the economic activities of an entity such as personal expenses and entertainment expenses are not deductible (unless entertainment is considered to be the taxpayer's economic activity).

Any limitations or restrictions relating to certain expenses or deductions which otherwise would be deductible in full, are provided within the Tax Code. Restrictions, conditions and limitations can apply, e.g. to the deduction of interest, doubtful debts, repairs, insurance payments and reserve funds, scientific research expenses, depreciation of fixed and intangible assets.

CAPITAL ALLOWANCES

The general rules for the operation and deduction of tax depreciation are provided within the Tax Code and they provide a taxpayer with the option to either deduct tax depreciation on fixed assets over a period of time or deduct 100% of the purchase (production) cost of the asset immediately. Whatever option is selected by a taxpayer, it should be consistently followed for the following five years and applied to all purchased, produced or leased fixed assets.

Tax depreciation allowances can generally be claimed for all capital assets, including fixed and intangible property, except for land, art (such as paintings, jewellery and antiques), historical objects (except for buildings), biological assets, museum items, and any other assets that are not subject to wear and tear. Fixed assets costing below GEL 1,000 are not subject to tax depreciation but can be deducted in full against the gross income of the accounting year of purchase or production.

Fixed assets are categorised into five groups and the rate of tax depreciation applying to each group is shown below. Please note that tax depreciation is charged individually on buildings and structures as each building or structure is effectively considered as a separate group.

Group	Types of Fixed Assets	Rate %
1	Motor cars; motor-and-tractor equipment for the use on roads; office furniture, movable parts of motor transport; trucks, buses, special motor vehicles and trailers; machinery and equipment for all sectors of industry and the foundry industry; black smith and pressing equipment; construction equipment; agricultural vehicles and equipment.	20
2	Special tools, stock and equipment; computers, peripheral devices and equipment for data processing; electronic devices.	20
3	Railway, maritime and river transport vehicles; power vehicles and equipment; thermos-technical equipment turbine-powered equipment; electric engines and diesel generators; electricity transmission and communication facilities; pipelines.	8
4	Building and structures.	5
5	Assets subject to depreciation not included in other groups.	15

The expenses of an intangible asset can be written off for depreciation (amortisation) over their limited useful life and recorded as a separate group for this purpose. If it is not possible to determine the useful life of an intangible asset it should be depreciated at the rate of 15%.

DIVIDENDS

Dividends paid to resident companies are not subject to withholding tax and are not included within the taxable income of the recipient resident company. Dividends paid to resident and non-resident individuals, organisations and non-resident companies are subject to withholding tax. Where a resident natural person/non-entrepreneurial (non-commercial) legal entity receives dividends that have been taxed at source, they will not be subject to further taxation and will therefore be excluded from the taxable income of the recipient. Dividends earned from the shares/interest of an international financial company, from a FIZ Enterprise in a Free Industrial Zone or an agricultural cooperative (until 1 January 2023) are not subject to withholding tax and are not included in the taxable income of the recipient. Also, dividends paid to the State by a resident enterprise shall not be taxed at the source.

INTEREST DEDUCTIONS

Where a taxpayer incurs interest in the course of its business activities it is generally deductible subject to certain limitations. Where the interest paid and/or payable (using the accruals method) does not exceed 24% of the credit (loan) per annum, it is deductible. Please note that thin capitalisation rules are expected to come into force on 1 January 2018 and it is expected that a debt-to-equity ratio of 3:1 will be applied (5:1 for a leasing company). It is also expected that certain entities will be outside the scope of these rules, such as financial institutions and entities with gross income below GEL 200,000 as well as certain others.

LOSSES

Georgian legal entities can carry forward tax losses and offset them against future taxable profits arising in the following five years. Where the statute of limitation is increased from 5 to 11 years a taxpayer can elect a 10-year loss carry forward period. Losses cannot be carried back. However, the carry forward of losses is not permitted for an international financial company, a special trade company or a free-zone industrial company. The statute of limitation for assessing taxes on a taxpayer and for submitting a notice of assessment to the taxpayer shall be three years (effective from 2017), unless otherwise provided for by the Tax Code.

C. FOREIGN TAX RELIEF

Where income from a foreign source has been subject to overseas tax a credit for the overseas tax paid is available that is the lower of:

- i. The amount of the foreign tax paid; and,
- ii. The amount of Georgian corporate income tax levied on the foreign income.

Therefore, the maximum relief available is only up to the amount of the tax that would be payable on the foreign income in Georgia. In order to support the foreign tax relief claim, supporting evidence of the overseas tax paid should be made available to the Georgian Tax Authority.

D. CORPORATE GROUPS

Companies must file individual tax returns and report their taxes separately. Consolidated tax returns are not permitted. Branches and other units of Georgian companies do not file separate returns or pay CIT independently. They consolidate their taxable profit (or loss) within the main company, which pays corporate income tax on the total taxable profit.

E. RELATED PARTY TRANSACTIONS

Comprehensive transfer pricing rules are contained within the Georgian tax legislation and specific provisions exist in the Tax Code that are aimed at regulating the taxation of transactions between related parties (where a Georgian enterprise performs one or more financial or commercial transactions with a related enterprise, which is not a Georgian enterprise). Georgian transfer pricing rules generally follow OECD transfer pricing principles and five pricing methods are recognised by the tax authority, namely, the comparable uncontrolled price, cost plus, resale price, profit split and net profit margin methods.

Income and expenses may be allocated between related parties by the tax authorities to reflect a third-party arm's length position with the principle of fair market value also being taken into account. Where possible, the tax authority will compare the cost of related party transactions with the cost of similar transactions between unrelated parties. A taxpayer is obligated to maintain supporting records to evidence that its related party transactions were conducted on a third-party arm's-length basis and the documentation should be made available to the tax authority, if requested, within 30 calendar days.

Principles of market price are used for internal transactions carried out between related parties, except where the existence of related parties does not affect the result of such a transaction.

F. WITHHOLDING TAX

Foreign companies which do not conduct economic activities through a permanent establishment in Georgia are subject to withholding tax on the Georgian-sourced gross income. The tax is withheld by the payer at source and no deductions from the gross income are permitted. However, non-resident taxpayers who receive certain types of income can be treated as if the income is connected to a permanent establishment in Georgia and the Tax Code allows the non-resident taxpayer to file a tax return and claim any allowable deductions.

The following withholding tax rates apply to the Georgian-sourced income of non-residents where such income is not attributable to any permanent establishment of the non-resident in Georgia:

Income from Georgian Sources	Tax Rate
Dividends	5%
Interest	5%
Oil and gas subcontractors	4%
International telecommunication and transportation services	10%
Royalties	5%
Management fees	10%
Income received in the form of wages	20%
Payments to non-residents in respect of other Georgian-source income not connected to their PE in Georgia	10%

Where a non-resident is registered in an offshore or low tax jurisdiction, royalty, interest and service fee payments will be subject to withholding tax at the rate of 15%.

Royalties paid by a non-resident's permanent establishment or by a resident to a resident natural person (other than a natural person registered as a VAT payer) are subject to withholding tax at the rate of 20%.

Dividends are subject to withholding tax regardless of whether they are paid to individuals or foreign entities. Please note:

- Dividends received by entrepreneurial legal entities are excluded from taxable gross income; and,
- Dividends paid to Georgian legal entities are exempt from withholding tax at source.

G. PERSONAL INCOME TAX

Individuals resident in Georgia are subject to personal income tax (PIT) on their worldwide income (but exempted for income received which is not Georgian-sourced), whereas non-residents are subject to PIT on Georgian-sourced income only, subject to double tax treaty relief. An individual is considered to be a resident of Georgia for PIT purposes if they are present in Georgia for more than 183 days in any 12-month period ending in a tax (calendar) year.

PIT is levied on salaries and any other compensation paid to employees including benefits-in-kind, subject to certain exceptions. PIT is deducted at source from an employee's salary by an employer. Tax is levied on the annual income of an individual entrepreneur, which consists of gross income less the relevant expenses in earning that gross income (except for non-deductible or partially non-deductible expenses). Unless other rates apply (e.g. for interest and dividends), the income of an individual is taxed at the flat rate of 20%.

Annual personal income tax returns must be submitted to the tax authority by 31 March of each year.

There is no liability to social security payments on income paid or received by employers, employees or individual entrepreneurs. Similarly, there is no inheritance tax or wealth tax in Georgia.

FRINGE BENEFITS TAX

Broadly, all payments or benefits-in-kind provided by an employer to an employee are taxable unless specifically exempted.

H. TREATY AND NON-TREATY WITHHOLDING TAX RATES

KEY TAX POINTS

- Companies resident in Germany are subject to tax on all of their income. Non-resident companies are subject to tax on German-source income.
- Business enterprises operating in Germany are also subject to a trade tax on business income, as assessed by each municipality.
- There is no separate capital gains tax - broadly, capital gains from business assets are taxed at the ordinary tax rate. Capital gains realised by a corporate shareholder on the sale of shares held in an enterprise are tax free.
- VAT is applied on the supply of goods and services in Germany by a taxable person, subject to exemptions.
- Profits of foreign companies may be attributed to German shareholders under a controlled foreign companies (CFC) regime.
- A transfer pricing regime imposes record-keeping requirements and provides for income to be adjusted on an arm's length basis.
- Capital gains realised by individuals or partnerships are added to annual income, subject to a 40% participation exemption on the sale of shares held as business assets. Roll-over relief may be available where gains are reinvested in shares.
- Dividends paid to residents and non-residents are subject to a 25% withholding tax, although this is reduced to nil in certain circumstances under the EC Parent/Subsidiary Directive or a Double Tax Treaty.
- Both personal and corporate income taxes carry a surcharge at the rate of 5.5% of the tax.
- Income tax is payable by German resident individuals on their worldwide income. Non-resident individuals are only required to pay tax on German-sourced income.
- Assets transferred by gift or inheritance are subject to tax. Other taxes include an annual real estate tax, an insurance tax and a church tax.

G

A. TAXES PAYABLE

FEDERAL TAXES AND LEVIES

COMPANY TAX

German-resident companies are subject to tax on their worldwide income. Non-resident companies are required to pay tax in various forms on income derived from German sources. Resident companies are those that are incorporated in Germany or have their place of management and control in Germany.

The corporation tax rate is 15%. In addition, a solidarity surcharge is levied at the rate of 5.5% of the corporation tax. The tax year in Germany is the calendar year. Companies are required to make quarterly prepayments of tax based on the previous year's income. As of the tax year 2018 corporate tax returns shall be submitted by 31 July of the following year and returns prepared by a tax consultant by 28/29 February of the year after the following. Tax balance sheets have to be handed in electronically following a special tax account mapping.

TRADE TAX

Trade tax is applied only to business income. All business enterprises operating in Germany are subject to this tax. The trade tax rate is assessed independently by each municipality. The effective tax rates range from 7% to 19.25%. Individuals may deduct trade tax as a block credit to a certain extent against individual income tax. No tax relief by deduction or credit is available to companies.

CAPITAL GAINS TAX

There is no special or separate capital gains tax. For privately held shares a flat withholding tax of 25% plus solidarity surcharge of 5.5% of the tax due applies (for details see below under 'Capital gains and losses').

BRANCH PROFITS TAX

There is no separate branch profits tax in Germany. Trading profits and capital gains of a German branch of a foreign company are calculated and taxed on the same basis as those of a German resident company.

SALES TAX / VALUE ADDED TAX (VAT)

This is a tax on the supply of goods and services, other than exempt supplies and services, rendered in Germany by a taxable person. The tax rates are as follows:

- Standard rate: 19%;
- Reduced rate: 7%.

FRINGE BENEFITS TAX

For some services provided to its employees (e.g. canteen food, office outings, transportation of employees, accident insurances and payments to retirement funds), the company has the option to pay the income tax on account for the employee. The tax is paid at a flat tax rate which varies depending on the service provided, from 15% to 25% of the given value.

OTHER TAXES

In Germany a net wealth tax is not levied. Other taxes include real estate transfer tax (RETT) at a rate of 3.5% to 6.5% and insurance tax (excluding life insurance and private medical insurance) at 19%. RETT is not only due on the transfer of real estate but may also apply in cases of a transfer of shares in companies owning real estate. Certain exemptions for RETT on intra-group restructurings may apply.

B. DETERMINATION OF TAXABLE INCOME

The taxable income of a company is determined by ascertaining assessable income and then subtracting all allowable deductions. Business expenses are generally deductible for tax purposes, although there are some exceptions such as entertainment expenses which are only 70% deductible. Special rules apply in respect of the categories listed below.

DEPRECIATION

Tangible fixed assets, other than land, are written off over their estimated useful lives at rates prescribed by the tax law or an administrative regulation. Generally the straight-line method of depreciation is used. In the case of a long-term devaluation of assets, an extraordinary depreciation is allowed. This write-down has to be reversed if the value of the asset increases again. Assets with purchase costs from EUR 250 to EUR 1,000 exclusive of VAT can be pooled every year. The pool for each year has to be written off in five years. Taxpayer may elect for an immediate write-off of goods with a value of less than EUR 800. Good with a value of less than EUR 250 are written off immediately.

STOCK / INVENTORY

Inventory includes raw materials, work-in-progress, finished goods and payments on account. Each item of inventory must be valued at acquisition cost or cost of production. Accepted valuation methods include 'last in, first out' (LIFO) and average cost.

CAPITAL GAINS AND LOSSES

In principle, capital gains from business assets are taxed at the ordinary tax rate. Profits on the sale of land and buildings may be reinvested tax-free (roll-over relief). Where the shareholder is a corporation, capital gains relating to the sale of shares held in an enterprise (German or foreign) are tax-free. Correspondingly, a write-down of participation does not have tax consequences. Losses arising from the sale of such a stake will not be recognised. However, a lump sum of 5% of the gains is added back to taxable income representing non-deductible business expenses.

Where the shareholder is an individual or a partnership, capital gains arising from the sale of shares held as business assets are taxable, but only 60% of the capital gain is added to the individual's/partner's annual gross income. The remainder is tax-free (40% participation exemption). Correspondingly, only 60% of the losses are deductible. Capital gains realised by partnerships may be tax-free if reinvested in shares within two years (roll-over relief).

Where the shareholder is a private individual, capital gains arising from the sale of privately held shares bought after 31 December 2008 are subject to a 25% flat withholding tax plus a solidarity surcharge of 5.5% of the tax due if the participation is below 1%. Capital gains arising from the sale of privately held shares bought before 31 December 2008 are generally not taxed. If the participation is 1% or more, the rules for shares held as business assets apply. Losses from the sale of privately held shares may be deducted only from gains arising on privately held shares. Non-deductible losses may be carried forward.

Capital gains arising from the sale of other privately held movable assets are not taxed unless the assets are sold within one year. Capital gains arising from the sale of privately held land and buildings are not taxed unless the assets are sold within ten years.

DIVIDENDS

Dividend income is subject to 25% withholding tax plus a solidarity surcharge of 5.5% of the tax due. The withholding tax rate may be reduced in accordance with tax treaties or EU regulations (Parent-Subsidiary Directive).

Where the shareholder is a corporation, the dividend income is tax-free (100% participation exemption). However, a lump sum of 5% of the gross dividends is added back to taxable income representing non-deductible business expenses, irrespective of the actual expenses incurred by the company. This applies to dividends received from both German and foreign enterprises. Recently a minimum participation requirement of 10% for corporate tax purposes (trade tax: 15%) as at the beginning of the calendar year was introduced.

Where the shareholder is a partnership, only 60% of the dividend income is added to the partner's annual gross income. The remainder is tax-free (40% participation exemption). Correspondingly, only 60% of the expenses directly connected to the dividend are deductible. A resident taxpayer may credit the withholding tax which has been deducted by the corporation against his own individual tax liability. Corporation tax cannot be credited against the individual tax.

Where the shareholder is an individual, dividends are subject to a 25% flat withholding tax plus a solidarity surcharge of 5.5% of the tax due. However, if the withholding tax rate exceeds the marginal income tax rate of the shareholder, the shareholder may opt to report the dividend in his income tax return instead. Economically connected expenses such as financing fees are not deductible.

INTEREST DEDUCTIONS

Interest is deductible to the extent that it is payable on credits raised to generate taxable income. Where interest is paid in order to finance a participation in another company, the above mentioned special provisions concerning business expenses which are directly related to tax-free dividends apply.

In order to combat abusive transfers of profits, an "interest barrier" limiting the deductibility of interest payments as business expenses has been introduced. Interest payments are generally deductible if they do not exceed interest income for the period. The excess amount is only deductible up to 30% of EBITDA as defined for tax purposes. An 'exemption threshold' for interest payments of less than EUR 3,000,000 per annum applies. An EBITDA carry-forward mechanism also exists.

The interest barrier is only applicable to companies belonging to a group. Such a group is deemed to exist if a German company may be consolidated with other companies. The interest barrier does not apply to companies that are part of a group if, under IFRS, the ratio of equity to total assets of the company is equal to or higher than the ratio of equity to total assets for the group as a whole. In addition, a shortfall of up to 2% compared to the group ratio is permissible. This escape clause will not be applicable for corporations if more than 10% of the interest expenses are on related party debt, i.e. to shareholders with participations of 25% or more.

Whether the interest barrier is in line with the constitution is currently under review by the constitutional court.

LOSSES

In the year in which losses are incurred, they may, in principle, be deducted without restrictions. Remaining losses may be carried back to the preceding accounting period up to an amount of EUR 1,000,000. Excess losses may be carried forward indefinitely to future years. However, in each future year, the deduction must not be more than EUR 1 million. Profits in excess of this may be set off only to an amount of 60% by a loss carry-forward. Loss carry-forwards may be forfeited by certain share transfers or corporate restructurings. For trade tax special rules apply.

FOREIGN SOURCED INCOME

Foreign sourced income is generally taxable. In addition, Germany has a controlled foreign company (CFC) regime. Its objective is to ensure that profits of German controlled companies are not transferred to, or generated in, low tax jurisdictions. A low tax jurisdiction is deemed to be any country which taxes income at a rate of less than 25%. Where German residents hold more than 50% of the shares or the voting rights of an intermediate corporation with passive income, the income is deemed to be distributed to the German shareholders and taxed at their level if the intermediate corporation is located in a low tax jurisdiction. Under certain conditions, a participation of 1% in the foreign intermediate corporation is sufficient to trigger the CFC taxation.

Profit distributions by corporations and capital gains arising from the sale of these participations are deemed to be active income. Income derived by foreign holding companies is thus effectively exempt from CFC tax.

INVESTMENT ALLOWANCE/INCENTIVES

Qualifying investment aids are tax-free and available in selected areas from local authorities for the improvement of the regional economic structure. Investment grants are provided by the tax authorities for the acquisition of new buildings or depreciable, new movable assets in the new federal states.

C. FOREIGN TAX RELIEF

Even in the absence of a double tax treaty, foreign tax on income derived by a German resident may be credited against his income or corporation tax liability. The tax relief must not exceed the German tax charged on the same profits. Alternatively, the foreign tax may be deducted from the income of the German resident.

D. CORPORATE GROUPS

Profits and losses of German group companies may be pooled for corporate tax and trade tax purposes, if the requirements of the so-called 'Organschaft' are met. The controlling company must hold, directly or indirectly, the majority of the shares of the controlled company and there must be a profit and loss pooling agreement between the two companies.

E. RELATED PARTY TRANSACTIONS

Inter-company pricing between affiliated companies must be carried out on an arm's length basis. If this is not the case, the income of both companies is adjusted for tax purposes. Arbitration proceedings are available within the European Union. Legislation is in force that specifies the duty to document the way in which a taxpayer arrives at the transfer prices on transactions with foreign closely related persons/enterprises. The documentation must encompass the nature and contents of the business relationship and the economic and legal basis underlying the arm's length prices. Specific legislation applies to a "transfer of functions" between intra-group companies.

F. WITHHOLDING TAX

Under domestic law, all dividends, regardless of whether they are paid to a resident or a non-resident, are subject to a 25% withholding tax plus a solidarity surcharge of 5.5% of the tax due as a flat tax. This is reduced to nil in the case where the shareholder satisfies the conditions of the EU Parent Subsidiary Directive (broadly that the shareholder is an EU resident company with a 10% or more interest in the company paying the dividend).

Interest is subject to 25% withholding tax plus a solidarity surcharge of 5.5% of the tax due if it is paid to a resident. Interest paid to a non-resident is not subject to withholding tax. Royalties paid to a non-resident are subject to 15% withholding tax plus a solidarity surcharge of 5.5% of the tax due. Certain German double tax treaties provide for an exemption or a reduced rate (see below).

G. EXCHANGE CONTROL

There are no exchange control requirements.

H. PERSONAL TAX

Income tax is payable by German resident individuals on their worldwide income. Non-resident individuals are only required to pay tax on German-sourced income. Individuals are deemed resident if they have a residence in or their customary place of abode is in Germany. The latter is generally the case if the continuous stay lasts more than six months while short-term interruptions are not taken into account.

Income tax is payable on assessable income less allowable deductions. Assessable income includes business income, income from agriculture and forestry, income from self-employment, income from employment, certain capital gains, capital investment income, and rental and royalty income. Allowable deductions include personal allowances, deductions for business/professional expenses and contributions to specified (insurance) bodies.

Tax instalment payments are withheld from employees' salaries by their employers. Self-employed individuals and those with non-salary income have to pay instalments on a quarterly basis with reference to the income realised in the previous year. The tax rates effective for single taxpayers are as follows:

Annual taxable income (EUR)	Marginal rate (%)	Tax payable (EUR)
Up to 9,168	Nil	0
9,169 to 14,254	14 - 23.97	0 - 966
14,255 to 55,960	23.97 - 42	967 - 14,722
55,961 to 265,326	42	14,722 - 102,656
More than 265,326	45	From 102,656

The highest tax rate is 45% for taxable income of individuals that exceeds EUR 265,326 (EUR 530,652 for married couples). Retained profits from a trade or business, agriculture or self-employment generated by individually-owned firms or partnerships are taxable upon application at a reduced tax rate of 28.25%. When profits are withdrawn, the amount withdrawn is subject to a further tax charge (tax rate 25%) in the assessment year of the withdrawal but is reduced by taxes already paid on the profits distributed.

Interest and dividend income is subject to a 25% flat withholding tax plus solidarity surcharge of 5.5% of the tax due only. Expenses connected with the receipt of investment income are not deductible but a lump sum of EUR 801 can be deducted. The shareholder may opt to report the interest in his income tax return if the withholding tax rate exceeds his marginal income tax rate. If the taxpayer is married, the income of the taxpayer can be combined with the income of the spouse. Then the tax on 50% of the combined income is doubled correspondingly. In addition to the personal income tax, a solidarity surcharge is levied at the rate of 5.5% of the personal income tax.

Social security contributions are withheld from employees' salaries and wages. The employer and employee each generally contribute 50% of the total social security contributions. Members of the Roman Catholic, German Protestant, Lutheran and Jewish churches have to pay church tax. The tax rate amounts to about 8% or 9% of the annual income tax liability and varies according to the district of residence. It is a deductible expense for income tax purposes. Assets transferred by gift or inheritance are subject to tax. If either the transferor or the recipient is resident in Germany, all transferred assets are taxed wherever situated. If neither party is a German resident, the tax is limited to property located in Germany. The Federal Republic of Germany keeps tax treaties with six countries for these purposes: Denmark, France, Greece, Sweden, Switzerland and USA.

The tax rates and exemptions for Inheritance and Gift Tax vary according to the relationship between the transferor and the recipient and the value of the assets. Where children or the spouse are the recipients, the rates range between 7% (where the assets have a value of EUR 75,000 or less) and 30% (where the assets have a value of more than EUR 26,000,000). The rates for brothers and sisters have been reduced and vary between 15% and 43%. If the transferor and the recipient are unrelated, the rates vary between 30% and 50% respectively. The spouse of the transferor is granted a personal allowance of EUR 500,000 and the children of the transferor are granted an allowance of EUR 400,000.

- The 5% rate applies where the dividend is paid to a company which holds directly at least 10% and has invested more than EUR 100,000 in the capital of the distributing company. The 0% rate applies where the dividend is paid to a company which holds directly at least 50% and has invested more than EUR 3 million in the capital of the distributing company.

Two companies are associated companies if (i) one of them has a direct minimum holding of 25% in the capital of the other or (ii) a third company has a direct minimum holding of 25% in the capital of two companies.
- Royalties paid to non-residents are subject to a 15% withholding tax rate (15.825% including the 5.5% solidarity surcharge). For a 0% rate under the application of the Interest and Royalties Directive (2003/49), see footnote 10.

KEY TAX POINTS

- The assessment period in Ghana is the calendar year (i.e. January to December). Companies and bodies of persons are allowed to choose their accounting year.
- Companies that are resident in Ghana are liable to income tax on income earned domestically and from foreign sources. Tax credit from foreign sources is allowable as tax credits domestically.
- Non-resident companies are liable to tax only on income with a source in Ghana.
- Companies deemed as permanent establishments are liable to tax on all source of taxable income.
- The basis of assessment is the net profit of the companies. This is adjusted by tax laws to arrive at the chargeable income.
- Repatriated branch profit is taxable at 8%.
- There is no separate rate for capital gains and gifts for companies. Income from the realisation of assets is subsumed in corporate income for tax purpose. Individuals may however opt for a rate of 15%.
- Local production and importation of goods and services attract VAT. Business with annual income of GHS 200,000 are required to register and charge Value Added Tax. There is no obligation to register if you deal in exempt supplies. Rate for goods (wholesale and retail) have a flat rate of 3%. VAT on other supplies is 12.5%. National Health Insurance Levy of 2.5% and GetFund Levy of 2.5% applies in tandem with the 12.5% VAT.
- Transfer pricing regulations apply to related party transactions.
- Subject to treaty agreements and exemptions, various withholding tax rates apply to payments made for transactions between companies resident in Ghana and non-residents.
- Subject to exemptions that may be available, resident individuals pay tax on income (cash and kind) earned in Ghana and abroad. Non-residents are taxed only on income with a source in Ghana.
- Statutory and voluntary pension deductions apply to employment benefits.
- There is no wealth or inheritance tax due in Ghana. However, municipal authorities charge property rates.

A. TAXES PAYABLE

National taxes and levies apply in all regions of the country.

COMPANY TAX

Unless specifically exempted in the law, resident companies are required to pay tax on all income (domestic and foreign) relating to business and investment. Non-resident companies pay tax on income with a source in Ghana. Necessary adjustments are made to the net profit based on tax laws to determine the chargeable income. The rate of tax generally is 25%. There are different rates applicable to certain companies (see 'Incentives' below). Mining and petroleum companies are to pay corporate tax at a rate of 35%.

The corporate entity is taxed separately from its shareholders.

The tax year in Ghana is January to December. Companies prepare financial statements on an accrual basis. They may choose their own accounting date without permission, on commencement of operation. However, companies desiring to change their chosen accounting date must obtain prior permission from the Commissioner General of Ghana Revenue Authority (GRA).

All companies have to file tax returns within four months after their accounting year. It is also required that they make quarterly tax payments on the current year's income based on the provisional assessment made by the Domestic Tax Revenue Division (DTRD) of GRA or the companies' own estimates (where the DTRD has granted that permission).

CAPITAL GAINS AND GIFT TAX

What used to be known as Capital Gain and Gift Tax have been incorporated into Corporate or Income Tax and taxed at the corporate tax rate. However, for an individual, the rate of tax for capital gain can be 15% on the gain realised or the income is added to the Chargeable Income of the person and taxed at the graduated rates.

In ascertaining the income of a person from investment or business for a year of assessment one has to include all gains and deduct all losses.

BRANCH PROFITS TAX

A branch of an external company or a deemed permanent establishment of non-resident companies pay domestic corporate tax at the specified rate applicable to the industry. When the domestically taxed profit is repatriated, branch profit tax of 8% is applied. This operates as dividend tax as may be applicable to local companies.

Income exempted from tax

Included in exempt income are as listed below. Exemptions apply to other categories of income that may not be relevant to business.

- Income of a non-resident from the business of operating aircrafts where reciprocal exemption is extended to Ghana in the country if residence of the carrier;
- Gains from the realisation of securities that are traded on the Ghana Stock Exchange up to 31 December 2021;
- The income of an approved unit trust scheme or mutual fund;
- The income of an approved Real Estate Investment Trust;
- Interest paid to an individual by a resident financial institution or on bonds issued by the Government of Ghana;
- The interest or dividend paid or credited to a holder or member on an investment in an approved unit trust scheme or mutual fund and housing scheme;
- Income of privately-owned universities shall be exempt from tax when they plough back a hundred percent of their profit after tax into the business.
- The income of a state-owned or state-sponsored educational institution.
- The income of an institution or trust of a public character established by an enactment solely for the purpose of scientific research.

SALES TAX / VALUE ADDED TAX (VAT)

These are indirect taxes charged by businesses on the supply of some goods and services in Ghana. VAT applies to all the stages of production of goods and services. However there are supplies that are exempt from VAT. Exports attract VAT at zero rate.

VAT rate

All persons registered to charge Value Added Tax (VAT) and are currently operating the standard rate scheme are required to charge and account for VAT at the rate of 12.5%. Act 970 now considers the GetFund and NHIL as levies at a rate of 2.5% each of the taxable value of their supplies. This in effect amounts to a total charge of more than 17.5% of the taxable value of the supply.

VAT flat rate

The existing VAT law (The Value Added Act, 2013 (Act 870)) was amended in 2017 by Act 948 to re-introduce the Flat VAT Rate Scheme. Under this scheme, a taxable person who is a retailer or wholesaler of goods is to account for VAT at a flat rate of 3% calculated on the value of the taxable supply without deducting any input VAT. The Flat Rate Scheme does not include the supply of the following goods:

- Any form of power heat;
- Refrigeration or ventilation;
- Goods manufactured in Ghana;
- Goods imported through the ports of entry.

Threshold

As earlier indicated the current threshold for registration of VAT is GHS 200,000 for a 12-month period or GHS 50,000 for a period of 3 months.

However, the following entities are not bound by the threshold and are required to apply for registration upon operation:

- Promoters of public entertainment;
- An auctioneer;
- A national, regional, local or other authority or body.

VAT WITHHOLDING TAX

In line with the Value Added Tax (Amendment) (No.2) Act 2017, (Act 954) the Commissioner-General of GRA appointed Withholding Tax Agents, effective 1 May 2018, to collect and perform the following:

- Withhold 7% of output VAT charge on payments to registered VAT Standard Suppliers;
- Issue Withholding VAT Credit Certificate to Standard Rate VAT suppliers;
- Submit Withholding VAT Returns together with payment of VAT withheld to the GRA for every month not later than the 15th day of the following month.

It is not every registered VAT person who is authorised to withhold VAT. Authorised Withholding Agents include the following:

- 28 Financial institutions;
- 36 Government institutions;
- 24 Petroleum Subcontractors;
- 17 Mining Companies and 8 Manufacturing companies;
- 3 Telecommunication companies; and
- Meridian Port Services.

- The loan is from an employer to an employee;
- The term of the loan does not exceed 12 months; and
- The aggregate amount of the loan and any similar loan outstanding at any time during the previous 12 months does not exceed 3 months of basic salary.

Benefit for tax purpose

In cases other than the above, the employee is considered to have benefited and is to suffer tax at the individual tax rate. The benefit is computed as 25% of Interest at Bank Of Ghana Rediscount Rate less interest at employer's rate. For all other benefits, the open market value or a reasonable value is added to taxable income and subject to tax.

As stated earlier, the only notable national levies in the country are:

- The National Health Insurance Levy of 2.5% imposed on certain goods and services. The National Health Insurance Levy is administered on the lines of Value Added Tax.
- National Fiscal Stabilisation Levy (NFSL). The NFSL was introduced in 2009 but was abolished in January 2012. It has been reintroduced by Act 862, effective 30 September 2013. The expiry date has been subsequently extended to year of assessment 2019. The rate of levy is 5% on the profits before tax, payable on a quarterly basis and covers the following entities:
 - Banks (excluding Rural and Community banks);
 - Non-Bank Financial Institutions;
 - Insurance Companies;
 - Telecommunication companies liable to collect and pay Communication Service Tax under Act 754 of 2008;
 - Breweries;
 - Inspection and Valuation Companies;
 - Shipping lines, Maritime and Airport Terminals.

The levy is collected upfront by the Ghana Revenue Authority. The levy is not an allowable deduction for the purpose of ascertaining the chargeable income of an entity under the Income Tax Act, 2015, Act 896. For the purpose of enforcing the recovery of the levy, the provisions of the Revenue Administration Act, 2016 (Act 915) relating to collection, enforcement, refund and penalties apply.

- The Special Import Levy which was extended in 2015 to end in 2017 has again been extended to 2019. The Levy is charged on the cost, insurance and freight value of all imported goods into Ghana. This excludes importation of petroleum, fertilizer, machinery and equipment that are listed under Chapters 84 and 85 of the Harmonised System and Customs Tariff Schedules.
- GetFund Levy. Act 970 amended the Value Added Tax (ACT 870) to reduce the rate from 15% to 12.5% by treating the GetFund of 2.5% as a levy.
- Luxury Vehicle Levy Act, 2018 (Act 969) imposes a levy on motor vehicles with an engine capacity of 2950cc and above as follows:

	Engine Capacity (cc)	Levy (GHS)
1	2950cc-3549cc	1,000.00
2	3550cc-4049cc	1,500.00
3	4050cc and above	2,000.00

Exemptions

The following motor vehicles are exempt from the Levy:

- a. tractors;
- b. ambulances;
- c. commercial vehicles with a capacity to transport more than 10 persons;
- d. commercial vehicles for the transport of goods; and
- e. other motor vehicles that the Minister responsible for Finance may exempt by legislative instrument.

Commercial vehicle means a vehicle registered by the Driver and Vehicle Licensing Authority as a commercial vehicle.

B. DETERMINATION OF TAXABLE INCOME

Chargeable income is defined by the Income Tax Act 2015, (Act 896):

- 'The chargeable income of a person for a year of assessment is the total of the assessable income of that person for the year from each employment, business or investment less the total amount of deduction allowed that person under this Act.

CAPITAL ALLOWANCE

Capital allowance is granted in respect of fixed assets (depreciable assets), both tangible and intangible, acquired by persons in businesses for each year of assessment. To qualify for these allowances, the following conditions must be met:

- a) The assets should be capital in nature;
- b) The asset should be owned by the business;
- c) The asset should be in the business up to the end of the year of assessment;

d) The asset should be used in carrying on business during the period.

Capital Allowance Schedule

Class	Comments	Rate
1	Computers and data-handling equipment	40%
2	Automobiles, buses, minibuses, construction and earth-moving equipment, trailers and trailer-mounted containers, plant and machinery used in manufacturing Assets resulting from expenses relating to timber concern or large scale rubber, oil palm or other long term crop plantation	30%
3	Railroad cars, locomotives and equipment, vessels, barges, tugs and similar water transportation equipment, aircraft, specialised public utility plants, equipment, machinery office equipment and fixtures, and any other depreciable asset not included in another class	20%
4	Buildings, structures and similar works of a permanent nature	10%
5	Intangible assets	Useful life

*An importer or manufacturer of excisable goods who acquires affixing machinery and equipment imported for the implementation of the Excise Tax Stamp Policy shall be granted an accelerated depreciation of 50% of the initial value (i.e. depreciated over two years).

There are five classes of Depreciable Assets with the removal of the Mining and Petroleum Class.

- All classes operate under the Pooling System;
- A Class 4 or 5 asset is to be placed in a pool of its own separately from other assets of that Class or any other assets. Additions to that asset are to be added to the pool. Disposal of the asset amounts to disposal of all the assets in the pool;
- Capital allowance cannot be deferred;
- An additional capital allowance is to be granted where a written down value (WDV) of a pool falls below GHS 500 and the pool emptied.

Disposal of depreciable assets in a pool will result in additional income or additional allowance.

- For Class 1,2 or 3 pool, the additional income is arrived at by this formula:
Consideration received less the depreciation basis of each pool at the end of the year;
- For Class 4 and 5 pool, the additional income is arrived at by this formula:
Consideration received less (WDV of pool at the end of the year and capital allowance granted);
- For Petroleum Operations, the additional income is arrived by this formula:
Total Consideration received;
- For Mining Operations, the computation is as follows:
 - Reduce the total WDV of the pool by the total WDV of the asset disposed (X)
 - Where the consideration received is higher than X the excess is treated as income
 - Where the consideration received is lower than X, additional depreciation allowance is granted.

Repairs and Improvements - Sec 12

- An expense is deductible to the extent that it is wholly, exclusively and necessarily incurred in the production of the income from the business or investment;
- Amount deductible shall not exceed 5% of the WDV of the pool at the end of the year;
- Deduction is allowed in the order in which the expense is incurred;
- Any excess expense is to be added to the depreciable basis of the pool to which it belongs.

CAPITAL ALLOWANCE ON LEASED ASSETS

The lessee of an asset under a finance lease arrangement is entitled to capital allowance on the principal/ capital portion of loan. The interest is however deducted against income.

In the case of the lessor, capital allowance is claimed under an operating lease. The full amount of rent received is included in the lessor's income for the year. Where the arrangement is a finance lease, the lessor does not qualify for capital allowance. The amount of rent payment is included in taxable income for the year is reduced by capital amounts determined by the Commissioner.

DEPRECIATION

Depreciation of any fixed asset is not an allowable deduction in arriving at the assessable income. The same goes for amortisation of intangible assets. These are compensated for by the granting of capital allowance.

STOCK / INVENTORY

For the purpose of tax, a person who is ascertaining the income of that person or of another person from a business for a year of assessment shall deduct in respect of trading stock of the business an allowance calculated as follows:

- Adding the opening value of the trading stock to the purchases for the year;
- Deducting from the sum obtained above the closing value of trading stock for the year.

The closing stock is valued at the lower of:

- The cost of the trading stock at the end of the year; or
- The market value of the trading stock at the end of the year. However, any method of stock valuation accepted by accounting principle that is consistently applied is accepted.

In determining the cost of trading stock:

- Cost of repair, improvement or depreciation of a depreciable asset is not to be included;
- The absorption-cost method is to be used.

Trading stock or any type of asset prescribed by regulation to be fungible and not readily identifiable, may be determined using the first-in-first-out method or the average-cost method. However, the method opted for may be changed with the written permission of the Commissioner-General.

CAPITAL GAINS AND LOSSES

As earlier indicated, there is no different rate for capital gains. In ascertaining the income of a person from investment or business for a year of assessment one has to include all gains and deduct all losses.

Gains

A gain made from the realisation of an asset or liability is the amount by which:

- The sum of the consideration received for the asset exceeds the cost at the time of realisation; or
- The sum of the consideration offered for the liability is less than the amount outstanding at the time of realisation.

The calculation of cost includes:

- Expenditure in the acquisition of the assets (including expenditure of construction, manufacturing or production of the assets)
- Expenditure incurred in altering, improving, maintaining or repairing the assets
- Incidental expenditure in acquiring and realizing the assets (including legal fees, advertisement/canvassing)

Exemptions and adjustment of computation

The following exemptions and adjustments apply under Sections 42 to 50 of Act 896:

- Realisation with retention of asset;
- Transfer of asset to spouse or former spouse;
- Transfer of asset on death;
- Transfer of asset for no consideration;
- Realisation of asset with replacement asset;
- Realisation of asset by way of merger, amalgamation or re-organisation;
- Transfer by way of security, finance lease or instalment sale;

- Realisation by separation;
- Apportionment of costs and consideration received.

Realisation

A person who owns an asset realises the asset under the following conditions/instances:

- Parting with ownership of that asset, including when that asset is sold, exchanged, transferred, distributed, redeemed, destroyed, lost, expired or surrendered;
- In the case of an asset of a person who ceases to exist, including by way of death, immediately before that person ceased to exist;
- In the case of an asset that is a debt claim owned by a person other than a financial institution, if that person:
 - Reasonably believes that the debt claim will not be satisfied;
 - Has taken reasonable steps in pursuing the debt claim; and
 - Has written off the debt claim as a bad debt.
- Where the underlying ownership of an entity changes by more than 50% at any time within a period of 3 years;
- An asset owned by a resident person immediately before he becomes non-resident is considered as realised by that person on the date the person becomes non-resident.

Losses

A loss from the realisation of an asset or liability is the amount by which:

- The cost of the asset exceeds the sum of the consideration received for the asset at the time of realisation; or
- The sum of the consideration offered for the liability is more than the amount outstanding at the time of realisation.

This treatment of gains and losses is in line with the Income Tax law that does not recognize depreciation policies set out by businesses. The pool system adopted by the Ghana Revenue Authority (GRA) for capital allowance purposes for Classes 1, 2 and 3 makes it almost impossible to ascertain whether a loss or gain was made on the disposal of a particular asset.

It should be noted that assets disposed of are subject to Value Added Tax (VAT) and National Health Insurance Levy (NHIL).

DIVIDENDS

A shareholder earning dividend from a resident company is subject to a final withholding tax at the rate of 8%. Capitalisation of profit is treated as dividend paid to each of the company's shareholders in proportion to their respective interest in the company and is taxed at 8%.

Where a company (controlled by not more than five persons) records profit over a reasonable period but does not declare dividends, the Commissioner has the authority to treat part of the company income as distributed and demand tax on dividends.

Exemption Clause

A dividend paid to a resident company by another resident company is exempt where the company that received the dividend controls directly or indirectly at least 25% of the voting power of the company paying the dividend.

INTEREST DEDUCTIONS

Interest incurred in respect of a borrowing employed by a business entity in the production of income is a deduction allowed for the purpose of ascertaining the assessable income of the person. Thin Capitalisation rules apply to allowable interest deductions. The debt-equity ratio of 3:1 (2:1 from 2001 to 2015) is applied. Prior to 2016, the ratio was restricted to shareholder or related party debt. However, rules from 2016 apply to all forms of debt.

TAX LOSSES

In ascertaining the income from a business for a year of assessment, the following deductions are allowed:

- Unrelieved loss of a business in a specified priority sector for any of the previous 5 years of assessment;
- Unrelieved loss of a business in any other sector for any of the previous 3 years of assessment.

The following should be noted:

- An unrelieved loss from a business may be deducted in calculating income from an investment and not the reverse. An unrelieved loss from investment shall be deducted from investment income only.
- Where a person makes a loss and if the loss were a profit, the profit would be taxed at a reduced rate the loss shall be deducted only in calculating income taxed at the same reduced rate or exempt amounts.
- Where a person makes a loss and if the loss were a profit, the profit would be exempt, the loss shall be deducted only in calculating exempt amount.
- Specified Priority Sector include:
 - Petroleum Operations;
 - Minerals and Mining Operations;
 - Agro Processing;
 - Tourism;
 - Information and Communication Technology;
 - Farming;
 - Manufacturing;
 - Venture Capital Financing;
 - Energy and Power.
- Unrelieved loss is the amount of loss that is deducted in calculating the income of the person for tax purpose;
- Loss from operation is the excess of amount deducted in calculating the income of that person from investment or business over the amount included in calculating that income;
- Tax Losses are deducted in the order in which they occur (apply the principle of 'first come first served');
- In computing tax losses, it should be reminded that capital allowance cannot be deferred.

Definitions

- Manufacturing business means an entity that manufactures mainly at least 70% for export;
- Information Technology-ICT involved in software development;
- Tourism-Entity should be registered with Ghana Tourist Authority.

Foreign currency exchange losses

- Gains on foreign currency and financial instruments are taxable whether realised or unrealised;
- Losses on foreign currency and financial instruments are deductible whether realised or unrealised, subject to the rules under Financial Cost.

The amount of financial cost other than interest deductible shall not exceed the sum of:

- Financial gain included in the income from business or investment; and
- 50% of the income from business or investment calculated without including a financial gain derived and also not deducting the financial cost incurred.

Any financial cost denied may be carried forward in the order in which it is incurred during any of the following 5 years of assessment.

FOREIGN SOURCED INCOME

Foreign sourced income of a resident person is included in that person's income for the year and taxed. The same principle applies to Ghanaian permanent establishment (PE) of a non-resident. The person is allowed the deduction of foreign tax credits or entitled to some reliefs where there is a double taxation agreement.

The income of a resident individual from employment exercised in a foreign country is exempt if the employer is non-resident or if the employer is resident but the employee is present in the foreign country for 183 days or more during the year of assessment.

For a non-resident person only incomes which have its source from Ghana are assessable to tax.

The Minister of Finance may by legislative instrument, make Regulations to prescribe the following:

- Criteria for exempting from tax, the income of a foreign Permanent Establishment (PE);
- Criteria for exempting from tax, the foreign income of a resident person;
- Circumstances in which the income of a foreign PE is not exempt, but is taxable in the hands of the resident owner with a foreign tax credit;
- Circumstances in which the income of a foreign trust or company that is controlled by residents is attributed and taxed to the members of the trust or company.

H. PERSONAL TAX

The assessment period for individuals is January to December. Individuals are required to pay tax on gains or profit from employment, business or investment.

Resident Individuals

Resident individuals are to pay tax on their worldwide income unless specifically exempted under the law. The income of a resident individual from employment exercised in a foreign country is exempt if the employer is non-resident or the employer is resident but the employee is present in the foreign country for 183 days or more during the year of assessment.

Among other definitions, an individual is considered resident if he or she is a citizen of Ghana domiciled in Ghana (or absent from Ghana for 365 days or less), or is an individual who has stayed in Ghana for an aggregate period of 183 days or more in any 12-month period. All incomes are aggregated and taxed after the various adjustments relating to the type of income earned are made.

I. TREATY AND NON-TREATY WITHHOLDING TAX RATES

In the absence of any treaty with the Government of Ghana, the provisions of the income tax law apply for the treatment of all tax matters. Thus, tax rates applicable on various income apply. Where there is a treaty with the Government of Ghana, the terms of the treaty prevail over all provisions of the income tax law. However, where the rates of taxes set out in a treaty are higher than those of the laws of Ghana, the lower rates are used. Currently, notable double taxation treaties Ghana has include the United Kingdom, France, Italy, South Africa, Belgium, Denmark, Switzerland, the Netherlands, Germany, Singapore, Czech Republic, Mauritius and Morocco.

Tax rates in percentages are as follows:

OTHER TAXES

Transactions not subject to VAT are subject to Stamp Duty at rates ranging from 1.2% to 3.6%.

SOCIAL SECURITY CONTRIBUTIONS

Companies pay contributions to the social security organisation (IKA) for their employees. The employer's contribution is computed on the employee's gross salary at a rate of 25.06%. In addition there is an employee contribution of 16.00% withheld from the salary.

B. DETERMINATION OF TAXABLE INCOME

Taxable income is based on the profit or loss shown in the financial statements. The accounting profit or loss is then adjusted according to the specific tax provisions of Greek tax law. Generally, expenses are deductible if they are properly documented and have been incurred to generate taxable income with the exception of particular types of expenses specified in tax law as non-deductible (such as provision for employment and retirement benefits).

DEPRECIATION

Fixed asset depreciation is computed annually using the following fixed rates:

- Plant and other buildings: 4%;
- Public Transportation means (including airplanes, ships, trains): 5%;
- Machinery: 10%;
- Furniture and other equipment: 10%;
- Intangible assets: 10%;
- Transportation means for cargo: 12%;
- Transportation means for personnel: 16%;
- Computers, hardware and software: 20%.

STOCK / INVENTORY

Stock is valued according to acceptable valuation methods. Cost of sales is deductible during the process of calculating taxable profit.

INTEREST DEDUCTIONS

Interest on loans is tax deductible if it does not exceed 30% of the company's EBITDA. However, interest is fully tax deductible if the total amount does not exceed EUR 3 million per year.

LOSSES

Losses incurred in a business year may be carried forward to be offset against profits of the following five business years. Tax losses carried forward may be forfeited if there is a change in company ownership of more than 33% of the capital unless it can be proved that the change was made for valid commercial reasons.

TAX INCENTIVES

A new investment law (Law 4399/2016) was recently enacted governing incentives for investment projects in all economic sectors with very few exceptions. A special focus is given to investments in innovative and pioneer technology.

Different kinds of incentives are provided by the law including:

- Exemption from corporate income tax for a specified period;
- Subsidy of the investment;

- Subsidy of the employment cost;
- Fixed corporate income tax rate for a specified period.

C. FOREIGN TAX RELIEF

In the absence of a double tax treaty, a Greek resident company is entitled to a credit for foreign tax paid on foreign-sourced income against Greek corporate income tax levied on that income. The credit amount is limited to the Greek tax amount attributable to the foreign-sourced income. When the double tax treaty relief is more advantageous than the unilateral relief, the former relief is applied. However, if unilateral relief is more advantageous then this will apply.

D. CORPORATE GROUPS

There are no special tax provisions for corporate groups. Each company of the group is taxed separately.

E. RELATED PARTY TRANSACTIONS

Transactions between related parties must be carried out following arm's length rules. Companies should prepare and maintain transfer pricing documentation based on the OECD Multinational Transfer Pricing Guidelines for Enterprises and Tax Administration.

CbC (Country-by-Country) Reporting

The obligation for annual filing of the CbC report arises for multinational enterprise groups with a consolidated group turnover exceeding EUR 750 million in the fiscal year preceding the year to which the CbC report applies. The CbC report must be submitted within 12 months from the last day of the reporting fiscal year. The entity required to file the CbC report is the ultimate parent entity of an MNE group that has tax residence in Greece (or any other surrogate entity in Greece).

The CbC report must include the following information, which will be provided and exchanged using standard tables:

- Aggregated data relating to revenue, profit (loss) before income tax, income tax paid, income tax due, share capital, accumulated profits, number of employees, and tangible assets other than cash or cash equivalents for each jurisdiction the group operates in;
- Identification documents for the jurisdiction where each constituent entity has its tax residence, and in case the latter differs from the jurisdiction of tax residence, the jurisdiction under which this constituent entity is organised and the nature of its primary business or businesses.

On 4 December 2017, the Public Revenue Authority published its Decision (POL 1184/2017) containing clarifications for filing CbC reports and other disclosure requirements.

With the Decision POL 1111/2018, the exchange of CbC reporting has been extended to include a list of countries with which Greece will exchange CbC reports on a mandatory basis and a list of countries with which exchange of CbC reporting will take place on a voluntary basis.

F. WITHHOLDING TAX

Many types of payments are subject to income withholding tax (salaries, payments to individuals for services, contractors of technical works, etc.).

G. EXCHANGE CONTROL

Greece's foreign exchange market conforms to EU rules on the free movement of capital. Controls only exist to facilitate the enforcement of money laundering and terrorist financing laws. However, there are certain types of capital controls currently in force due to the Greek financial crisis. These controls are expected to be gradually lifted. As a result, there are limitations on the amount of funds which can be sent abroad. Cash carried out of the country should be reported if it exceeds an amount of EUR 10,000.

H. PERSONAL TAX

An individual is subject to income tax on his total net income in Greece and abroad (worldwide taxation). Net income sourced in Greece is taxed irrespective of the residence of the individual. Income arising abroad is taxed if the relevant individual is a resident of Greece. The tax year is the calendar year. Personal tax on net income is calculated as follows:

Salary income, Income from pensions, Income from individual business practice.

Taxable income is calculated after deducting the social security contributions. The remaining amount is taxed as follows:

Income bracket (EUR)	Tax rate (%)	Tax per bracket (EUR)	Aggregate
			Income (EUR)	Tax (EUR)
Up to 20,000	22%	4,400	20,000	4,400
Next 10,000	29%	2,900	30,000	7,300
Next 10,000	37%	3,700	40,000	11,000
Over 40,000	45%	--	--	--

The tax calculated according to the above table is reduced by the following amounts:

- EUR 1,900 for taxable income up to EUR 20,000. For taxable income, which exceeds the amount of EUR 20,000, the amount of the reduction shall be EUR 10 per EUR 1,000 of taxable income.
- 10% of the cost for medical expenses, provided that the total amount of medical expenses exceeds 5% of the taxable income. The amount of the reduction shall not exceed the amount of EUR 3,000.
- 10% of the amount given for donations, provided that the total amount of donations within the tax year does not exceed 5% of the taxable income.

The following types of income earned by individuals are taxed separately using different tax rates:

- Interest income is taxed at the rate of 15%;
- Income from royalties is taxed at the rate of 20%;
- Real estate property rent income is taxed at the following tax rates:
 - For income up to EUR 12,000: 15%;
 - From EUR 12,001 to EUR 35,000: 35%;
 - For income exceeding EUR 35,000: 45%.

Special Solidarity Tax Contribution

In addition to ordinary income tax, individuals are subject to Special Solidarity Tax Contribution calculated on taxable income according to the following table:

Total Income (EUR)	Tax rate
0 – 12,000	0.0%
12,001 – 20,000	2.20%
20,001 – 30,000	5.00%
30,001 – 40,000	6.50%
40,001 – 65,000	7.50%
65,001 – 220,000	9.00%
> 220,000	10.00%

1. Where the withholding tax rate on royalties is indicated as nil, no income tax is due. The withholding tax on rental payments may also be reduced under the provisions concerning royalties in various tax treaties. The text of the relevant treaty should be consulted.
2. The 5% rate applies to royalties paid for the use of industrial, commercial or scientific equipment. The 10% rate applies to all other royalties.
3. No tax on royalties on intellectual property.
4. 8% if paid to a bank or other institution.
5. 5% for copyright and film royalties.
6. Where the US resident receiving the interest is not engaged in a trade or business through a permanent establishment in Greece, the interest is exempt from tax in Greece to the extent that it does not exceed a rate of 9% per annum. The exemption is not available (and the domestic withholding tax rate therefore applies) where the US corporation holds more than 50% of the voting power of the Greek interest-paying company.
7. The domestic rate applies. There is no reduction under the treaty.

- There is no tax on capital gains derived by companies although a transfer property tax applies as well as a Stamp Duty charge in respect of certain transactions.
- There are no withholding or other taxes on the payment of dividends. Withholding taxes are charged on payments to non-residents of interest, royalties and other charges at a rate of 15%.
- Individuals who are resident, ordinarily resident or domiciled in Grenada pay income tax only on income earned in Grenada. Non-residents are subject to tax on income arising from the carrying on of a business in Grenada. Withholding taxes apply to other payments to non-residents.

A. TAXES PAYABLE

COMPANY TAX

Grenadian resident companies are liable to income tax on all sources of non-exempt income wherever arising. A company is regarded as resident in Grenada if its central management and control is located and exercised in Grenada or if it was incorporated in Grenada. A non-resident company is taxed on income of a branch carrying on a trade or business in Grenada, i.e. the income arises in Grenada. The tax rate on companies is 30%. The tax year or 'year of assessment' is a period of 12 months commencing on 1 January in each year. Any business with gross income less than $300,000 per annum and paying 0.5% in annual stamp tax is exempt from filing income returns and there is no tax on the business profits.

Companies are assessed to tax on their income that arises in the basis period. Where the company usually makes up its accounts for a period other than the calendar year, this period will be substituted for the calendar year. The company is expected to submit its tax return by the end of March or three months following the year of assessment and pay any balance of tax due. The company is required by law to make monthly advance payments of income tax based on the results of the preceding year (estimated tax). Any balance of tax is due and payable when the return is filed.

CAPITAL GAINS TAX

There is no income tax on capital gains secured on the disposal of capital assets. However, there is a transfer property tax of 5% of the value of property sold with or without improvement. There is also an aliens' landholding tax: for a foreign company buying into a local company, the foreigner pays 15% and the local pays 10%. For a foreign company buying into another foreign company, each pays 15%.

There is a 1% Stamp Duty charge.

BRANCH PROFITS TAX

Branches of a non-resident corporation or companies doing business in Grenada are taxed on the profits arising in Grenada. The rate of tax is 30%. There is no branch remittance tax in Grenada.

VALUE ADDED TAX

VAT is levied on the sale of goods and services at the rate of 15% except for accommodation at hotels which is at 10% and telecommunications services at 20%. The tax applies to both input and output so that at the end of a month a credit may be claimed where the input is greater than the output. Businesses with income lower than XCD 300,000 per annum are exempted from VAT.

LOCAL TAXES

National Insurance is payable on emoluments up to a maximum of XCD 5,000 per month at a rate of 4% from the employee (XCD 200) and 5% from the employer (XCD 250). This compulsory contribution made both by employer and employee goes towards the provision of a pension at age 60 for women and 65 for men.

Stamp tax is paid on the gross income of businesses. The rates are as follows:

Gross annual income of over XCD 36,000 but less than XCD 300,000	0.5%
Gross annual income exceeding XCD 300,000	0.70%

The charge shall not be less than XCD 100 and is payable by 31 March of each year.

OTHER TAXES

Common External Tariff (CET) and Customs Service Charge (CSC) are imposed. CET is levied at a rate of between 6% and 40% on the CIF value of the landed price of goods purchased outside of CARICOM. Property tax is ad valorem, i.e. the property is assessed at market value and a taxable rate is applied based on the land use classification.

FOREIGN SOURCED INCOME

Where income arises outside Grenada and such income is derived from any act incidental to business carried on in Grenada, such income shall be included in the assessable income of the business in Grenada whether received in Grenada or not. This includes:

- (a) Branch or agency profits from business outside Grenada;

H. PERSONAL TAX

An individual who is resident, ordinarily resident and domiciled in Grenada is subject to income tax on his or her income as it arises. Non-residents are subject to tax on income accruing directly or indirectly from the carrying on of business in Grenada. The residency requirements are as follows:

- An individual's permanent place of abode is in Grenada and the individual is physically present therein for some period of time in that year of assessment;

He acquires a domicile of origin at birth, normally that of his father, and retains it until he acquires a new domicile of choice. To acquire a domicile of choice, a person must sever his ties with his domicile of origin and settle in another country with the clear intention of making it his permanent home.

A. TAXES PAYABLE

TAXES AND LEVIES

Tax laws in Guatemala are based on the territoriality principle. There are a few exceptions, mainly those related to withholdings in origin, and all taxes are applicable to activities conducted within the Guatemalan territory. The Political Constitution of Guatemala provides legislative power to the Congress of the Republic. This provides certainty that no other entity, either local or foreign, shall create indirect or direct taxes.

Guatemala is part of the Multilateral Investment Guarantee Agency (MIGA), which is responsible for facilitating a private capital investment flow to developing countries, while providing guarantees against risks such as expropriation, lack of currency convertibility, civil war or riots, etc. In addition, the country has benefited from the Overseas Private Investment Corporation (OPIC) with the promotion and fostering of private investments from the United States of America.

COMPANY TAX

Companies are subject to income taxes, known as the income on lucrative activities regime, at a rate of 25% on net taxable income. There is also an optional simplified regime on income from lucrative activities with rates ranging from 5% to 7%. In addition, a 5% income tax payment exists on distribution of dividends, earnings and profits.

SOLIDARITY TAX

This tax is a way to anticipate income taxes so that the amount paid may be credited against income taxes over the following three years. The tax rate is 1% on gross income or the net asset amount and is applicable only to taxpayers opting for taxes on income from lucrative activities (25% income tax regime). Taxpayers that pay taxes under the optional simplified tax regime on income from lucrative activities (5% tax regime) are exempt from this tax.

CAPITAL GAINS TAX

Current laws provide for an applicable tax rate on capital from furniture and real estate gains at 10%.

A 5% income tax rate is applicable to payments made to stockholders upon the distribution of dividends, earnings or profits.

BRANCH PROFITS TAX

There is no separate branch profits tax. Overseas companies with a permanent establishment in Guatemala pay tax on the profits of the permanent establishment under the same rules as applied to Guatemala resident companies. There is a 5% branch remittance in Guatemala.

VALUE ADDED TAX (VAT)

VAT is collected during the exchange of goods or services at the local level as well as during the provision of services and importation of goods. Exportation of goods and services are tax exempt. The tax rate is 12%, although some exemptions do exist including:

- Services provided by entities controlled by the Superintendent of Banks, stock exchange brokers, insurance and reinsurance operations;
- Issuance and transfer of some securities;
- Grants and donations to not-for-profit entities;
- Transactions among co-operative entities and their participants;
- Importation of furniture by cooperative entities exclusively for their operations;
- Imports under the temporary importation system: VAT tax returns shall be filed on a monthly basis within a month following that month reported in the tax return. The tax amount in debt shall be payable on the due date.

FRINGE BENEFITS TAX

All benefits in kind are taxable in the hands of individuals receiving those benefits from their employers.

OTHER TAXES - REAL ESTATE TAX

An annual tax is payable on the owners of real estate and levied at the following rates:

Taxable amount (GTQ'000)	Rate
Up to 2,000	0.0%

2,000.01 to 20,000	0.2%
20,000.01 to 70,000	0.6%
Over 70,000	0.9%

Tax is also charged on rural land declared to be uncultivated (i.e. not used for agricultural purposes).

SOCIAL SECURITY CONTRIBUTIONS

Employer's social security is payable at a rate of 10.67% on the total salary of employees.

SOCIAL SECURITY CONTRIBUTIONS, IRTRA AND INTECAP

Contributions made by employers to the social security and other recreational or training institutions shall be payable at 12.67% on the overall employees' salaries.

A contribution made by employees to the social security scheme is 4.83% on their salaries.

B. DETERMINATION OF TAXABLE INCOME

The information provided in the following section is applicable to taxpayers opting for the income on lucrative activities regime.

CAPITAL ALLOWANCES (DEPRECIATION)

A tax deduction is available in respect of fixed assets used in the business. Generally speaking, only the straight-line method is allowed, although other methods may be used if agreed by the tax authorities. Maximum depreciation rates are set and include the following:

Assets	Rate
Buildings and construction	5%
Furniture and equipment	20%
Vehicles	20%
Computers (including software)	33.33%
Tools	25%

STOCK / INVENTORY

In general, the following four methods may be used for valuation of inventories:

- (1) Production cost;
- (2) First-in, first-out system (FIFO);
- (3) Weighted average; and,
- (4) Historic cost of goods.

Other methods are allowed upon prior authorisation from the Tax Office.

INTEREST DEDUCTIONS

Interest payments are deductible, but the deductible amount is limited to the amount resulting from multiplying the interest rate authorised by the Monetary Board by an amount equal to three times the average total net assets reported by the company on its annual tax return (thin capitalisation rule). This limitation is not applicable to banks and financial institutions subject to the surveillance of the Guatemalan Superintendence of Banks, or to co-operatives legally authorised.

LOSSES

Losses other than capital losses may not be carried back or forward. Capital losses may only be offset for two years against capital gains.

FOREIGN SOURCE INCOME

Tax is only chargeable on Guatemala-sourced income.

TAX INCENTIVES EXPORT AND DRAW-BACK ACTIVITIES

Some incentives exist, such as exemption of import tax, income tax and VAT for industrial and commercial outfits established under the incentive to exportation and draw-back incentive law.

FREE-TRADE ZONE

Incentives including exemption of import tax, income tax and VAT exist for industrial and commercial entities established within the country's free-trade zone.

INVESTMENT IN RENEWABLE ENERGY SOURCES

Exemption of import tax, income tax and VAT exists by way of the "Incentives for development of renewable energy projects' law".

C. FOREIGN TAX RELIEF

Only Guatemala-sourced income is subject to tax and therefore Guatemalan law does not provide relief for foreign income taxes paid.

Foreign investment is governed by the Foreign Investment Act, which among others, provides for equal conditions for either domestic or foreign investors. Likewise, this law establishes that the Government may not directly or indirectly expropriate investments made by foreign investors.

D. CORPORATE GROUPS

There are no special tax provisions relating to groups of companies.

E. RELATED PARTY TRANSACTIONS/TRANSFER PRICING TAX

In January 2015, transfer pricing rules entered into force. Consequently, taxpayers with non-resident related parties that carry on transactions with such related parties must submit a transfer pricing report attached to their annual tax return (i.e. within the first 3 months of each calendar year). The arm's length principle should be adhered to and must be determined by means of the following methods:

- The comparable uncontrolled price method;
- The resale price method;
- The cost-plus method;
- The profit split method; or
- The transactional net margin method.

Taxpayers may seek to obtain an advance pricing agreement (APA) from the tax authorities under certain conditions.

There is no CFC (Controlled Foreign Companies) legislation in Guatemala.

F. WITHHOLDING TAX

For income from non-resident entities and acting with or without a permanent establishment, tax regimes exist for the specific computation of withholding taxes at rates ranging from 5% up to 15%:

- Dividends and other profit distributions derived by non-residents are subject to a 5% final withholding tax on the gross amount of the payment;
- Interest derived by non-residents is generally subject to a 10% final withholding tax on the gross amount. However, interest paid by the state to non-resident entities is exempt from tax. Furthermore, interest paid to non-resident banks and financial institutions, duly organised and supervised by their corresponding banking authorities, is also exempt from tax;
- Royalties paid to non-residents are subject to a 15% final withholding;
- Income derived by non-residents from the rendering of services, including scientific, economic, technical or financial assistance, is subject to a 15% final withholding;

- Income derived by non-resident insurance companies from insurance, reinsurance, secondary bails and cancellations is subject to a 5% final withholding tax;
- Capital gains derived by non-resident enterprises are subject to a 10% final withholding tax on the amount of the gains.

G. EXCHANGE CONTROL

There are no exchange controls in Guatemala (Decree Number 94-2000 Law of Free Negotiation of Foreign Currency).

H. PERSONAL TAX

Individuals residing in the country and receiving income from labour under a dependency relationship are subject to a progressive tax rate as shown below:

Taxable Base (GTQ)	Fixed Tax Amount (GTQ)	Marginal Rate On Excess
0.01 to 300,000	0	5%
Over 300,000	15,000	7%

Social security contributions and total personal expenses for up to GTQ 60,000 are deductible.

I. TREATY WITHHOLDING TAX RATES

Guatemala does not have any double tax treaties in force. It has signed a tax treaty with Mexico in March 2015 which is not yet in effect. Generally, individuals are treated as resident in a year if they are present in Guernsey for more than six months or if they are present for three months or more, on average, over a period of four consecutive years.

An individual that is "resident only" can elect to pay a standard surcharge of GBP 30,000 and is then exempt from Guernsey tax on their worldwide income.

Guernsey resident individuals can elect for a cap on their income tax liability, so they only pay GBP 110,000 on non-Guernsey source income.

A. TAXES PAYABLE

FEDERAL TAXES AND LEVIES

COMPANY TAX

- Commercial companies: 40% of chargeable profits or 2% of turnover whichever is higher. Any payment in excess of 40% of profit is carried forward as a credit to be used to reduce the tax whenever it is higher than 2% of turnover.
- Dual Rate: For companies that are engaged in commercial and non-commercial activities, the non-commercial activity of the company shall be taxed at the rate of 27.5% and the commercial activity of the company shall be taxed at the rate of 40%.

A Commercial Company means a company which is trading in goods not manufactured by it and includes commission agency and any telecommunication company. It also includes Banks and Insurance Companies other than long term Insurance business.

PROPERTY TAX (WEALTH TAX)

- The next GYD 15 million is taxed at 0.5%;
- The remainder is taxed at 0.75%.

A set off would be granted to investors who hold shares in local companies at the appropriate rate. Assets owned prior to 1 January 2011 are required to be revalued at that date. This becomes the new value for Property tax.

CAPITAL GAINS TAX

The rate is 20% on the gain on disposal. Capital losses are carried forward indefinitely and could be offset against future capital gains until fully recouped. A short term gain is taxed as income (disposal within 12 months).

Gain on disposal of investments in local public companies is exempt.

BRANCH PROFITS TAX

The after-tax profits of a branch of a non-resident company is deemed distributable whether distributed or not and will be subject a 20% withholding tax rate or at tax treaty rates unless the company has reinvested to the satisfaction of the Commissioner General such profits or any part thereof in Guyana.

VALUE ADDED TAX (VAT)

The rate is 14%. Some items are zero rated and very few are exempt. Registration is required if the turnover exceeds GYD 15 million per annum.

FRINGE BENEFITS TAX

There are no specific rules for granting of tax-free allowances except for overseas travel assistance which is described in the Income Tax Act. In practice some management staff may obtain car and entertainment allowances but the amount would be limited to 10% or 15% of their remuneration in each case.

B. DETERMINATION OF TAXABLE INCOME

CAPITAL ALLOWANCES

The annual rates for Wear and Tear Allowances for different categories of assets are as follows:

- Aircraft: 33.33%;

- Plant and machinery: 20%;
- Building (housing machinery): 5%;
- Boats: 10%;
- Motor vehicles: 20%;

The claim is computed on reducing balance basis except as stated otherwise. An accelerated write off is granted to pioneer industries and certain other undertakings. The rates for the initial allowances are:

- Plant, equipment and motor vehicle: 40%;
- Industrial buildings: 10%.

There is a special regime for gold, diamond and bauxite mining companies which enjoy a 20% write off on all assets for each year.

There is no limit to the carried forward losses to be set off for each year.

DIVIDENDS

Dividends paid to residents are tax-free. Dividends paid to non-residents are subject to withholding tax at a rate of 20% or at treaty rates.

TAX INCENTIVES

Income Tax in Aid of Industry Act

This Act was passed in order to encourage the establishment or development of certain industries in Guyana including the working of any mine (other than a gold or diamond mine).

The salient features of this Act are:

1. Accelerated Depreciation (wear and tear) on Capital Expenditure

An initial allowance of 40% of the cost of the Machinery and Plant and 10% of the cost of Industrial Buildings and Structures could be claimed in the year of acquisition or the year following. This is in addition to the standard wear and tear granted under the Income Tax Act. So that in year one the Company could claim 60% of the cost of Machinery and Plant and 15% on Industrial Buildings and Structures.

2. Tax Holiday

Section 2, Part 1 of the Act pertaining to Tax Holiday was amended by the Fiscal Enactments (Amendment) Bills 2003 and 2008 whereby the Minister of Finance may grant exemption from Corporation Tax in respect of Income from Economic Activity qualifying under one of the following circumstances:

- (2) An exemption granted under this section shall be for a period not exceeding two years.

C. FOREIGN TAX RELIEF

When a double tax treaty provides that foreign-paid tax will be allowed as a credit against tax payable in Guyana, the credit may not exceed the amount which would result from applying to the income a rate calculated by dividing the income tax chargeable (before allowance of the credit) on total income by the amount of total income. The total credit granted cannot exceed the total tax payable by a taxpayer in any year of assessment.

Guyana may grant unilateral relief for foreign-paid tax where those taxes are calculated by reference to the income arising in that country.

D. CORPORATE GROUPS

There are no group provisions. Each company needs to file its own return.

E. RELATED PARTY TRANSACTIONS

The Commissioner-General may disallow a deduction for expenses which he deems unreasonable and unnecessary taking into account the requirements of the trade and business or the actual services rendered (for directors' fees or various payments for services).

Head office expenses in excess of 1% of sales or gross income will be disallowed for deduction purposes.

There are no thin capitalisation rules nor is there CFC (controlled foreign companies) regulation in Guyana.

Other methods are allowed upon prior authorisation from the Tax Office.

DIVIDENDS

Dividends paid to domiciled or resident legal entities are subject to tax at the rate of 10%. Dividends paid from Honduran sources to persons or companies not domiciled in Honduras are also subject to tax at the rate of 10%. Dividend distributions that were already subject to the 10% withholding tax are not subject to such withholding tax when the dividends received by companies are redistributed. Losses incurred in any given year can be taken as a valid deduction only for the current year. There is no carry forward of losses. Companies engaged in agriculture, manufacturing, mining and tourism may carry forward net operating losses for three years. However, certain restrictions apply. Net operating losses may not be carried back.

FOREIGN SOURCE INCOME

As from 1 January 2017 the Honduran corporate tax system is based on the territoriality principle. Companies, whether or not resident in Honduras are subject to tax only on Honduran-source income. Companies domiciled abroad that have agents or representatives in Honduras are taxed in the same manner as residents on their income derived from activities undertaken in Honduras.

C. FOREIGN TAX RELIEF

Because of the territoriality principle of the Honduran tax system (see above, under 'Foreign Source Income'), Honduras does not provide double taxation relief measures for taxes paid abroad.

D. CORPORATE GROUPS

Honduran law does not allow the filing of consolidated income tax returns or provide any other tax relief to consolidated groups of companies.

The Law on the Regulation of Transfer Pricing (Ley de regulación de precios de transferencia, LRPT), entered into force on 1 January 2014, provides guidelines for the valuation of transactions between related parties at arm's length. According to the LRPT, the transfer pricing rules apply to any transaction carried out between a Honduran resident (individual or legal person) and its non-resident related parties or entities operating under a special tax regime.

According to the LRPT, the transfer pricing rules apply to any transaction carried out between a Honduran resident (individual or legal person) and its related parties or entities operating under a special tax regime. Thus, the LRPT do not limit the application of the transfer pricing rules to cross-border transactions between related parties.

Companies and individuals with related or associated parties within the country, are not obliged to submit a transfer pricing study. However, individuals and companies related or associated with individuals or companies, subject to a special tax regime, must submit such study. Transactions in Assignment of Immovable Property

Stamp Duty on assignment of immovable property is sub-divided into three categories as follows:

1. AD VALOREM STAMP DUTY (AVD)

The AVD rate for residential property transactions executed on or after 5 November 2016 is levied at a flat rate of 15% on the sales consideration or value of the properties (whichever is higher), unless specifically exempted or provided otherwise. The major exemption is where the residential property buyer is a Hong Kong permanent resident who acts on his/her own behalf and does not own any other residential property in Hong Kong at the time of acquisition. In such case, the AVD is levied at lower rates which vary from HKD 100 to 4.25% on the sales consideration or value of the properties (whichever is higher), depending on the sales consideration of the relevant properties.

The AVD for transactions of immovable properties other than residential properties is computed at rates which vary from 1.5% to 8.5% on the sales consideration or value of the properties (whichever is higher), depending on the sales consideration of the relevant properties.

2. SPECIAL STAMP DUTY (SSD)

Residential properties acquired, either by an individual or a company (regardless of where it is incorporated), and resold within 36 months, will be subject to SSD. The applicable SSD rates vary from 10% to 20% on the sales consideration or value of the properties (whichever is higher), depending on the holding period of the relevant properties.

3. BUYER'S STAMP DUTY (BSD)

Unless specifically exempted, BSD is payable on residential property transactions, except where the purchaser or the transferee is a Hong Kong permanent resident acquiring the property on his/her own behalf. BSD is charged at 15% on the sales consideration or the value of the properties (whichever is the higher), if applicable.

There is neither sales tax nor value added tax in Hong Kong.

FRINGE BENEFITS TAX

There is no fringe benefits tax in Hong Kong.

LOCAL TAXES

There are no local taxes in Hong Kong.

B. DETERMINATION OF TAXABLE INCOME

Generally, in arriving at profits assessable to tax, deductions are allowed for revenue expenditure to the extent that they are incurred in the production of chargeable profits in the basis period. Special rules apply in respect of the following categories of expenditure.

CAPITAL ALLOWANCES

Capital allowances are available to a taxpayer who incurs qualifying capital expenditure on specified assets used in the production of chargeable profits. Capital allowances can be classified into industrial building allowance, commercial building allowance, depreciation allowance for plant and machinery and refurbishment allowance as summarised below:

1. INDUSTRIAL BUILDING ALLOWANCE

An initial allowance of 20% is granted in the year of purchase for capital expenditure incurred on the construction of an industrial building or structure occupied for the purposes of a qualifying trade. An additional allowance of 4% of the capital expenditure (on a straight-line basis) is given annually.

2. COMMERCIAL BUILDING ALLOWANCE

A building or structure used for the purposes of a trade, profession or business other than an industrial building or used as stock in trade can qualify for a commercial building allowance. An annual allowance of 4% of the capital expenditure incurred on the construction of the building is provided.

3. DEPRECIATION ALLOWANCE ON PLANT AND MACHINERY

Depreciation allowance on plant and machinery is in the form of an initial allowance and an annual allowance. An initial allowance of 60% is granted in the year of purchase for capital expenditure incurred in acquiring the plant and machinery. The annual allowance is based on the reducing value of each class of plant and machinery (the 'pool').

A pool is made up of all items of plant or machinery carrying the same rate of depreciation. It is only necessary for the assets to be or to have been owned and used in the production of chargeable profits to qualify for the deduction. The annual allowance is equal to the reducing value of the pool multiplied by the appropriate depreciation rate, currently at 10%, 20% or 30% per annum.

4. EXPENDITURE ON PRESCRIBED FIXED ASSETS

Capital expenditure incurred on certain prescribed fixed assets in any year of assessment is allowed to be fully written-off in the year it is incurred. 'Prescribed fixed assets' include computer hardware and software and certain defined plant and machinery used specifically and directly for any manufacturing process.

5. EXPENDITURE OF PRESCRIBED ENVIRONMENTAL PROTECTION FACILITIES

Capital expenditure incurred on certain prescribed environmental protection facilities is entitled to a preferential tax deduction. Expenditure incurred on environmental protection machinery is allowed to be fully written-off in the year it is incurred whereas those on environmental protection installation is allowed to be deducted equally in five years of assessment.

6. CAPITAL EXPENDITURE ON INTELLECTUAL PROPERTY

Capital expenditure incurred in registration of a trademark or design or patent (collectively referred to as "intellectual property (IP)") or incurred in the acquisition of patent rights and rights to any know-how (collectively referred to as "properties") qualify as a tax deduction in the year it is incurred if the IP and properties are used in the production of assessable profits irrespective of whether they are used in Hong Kong.

Capital expenditure incurred in the acquisition of copyrights, registered designs or registered trademarks (collectively referred to as "specified IP rights"). The capital expenditure incurred on the purchase of specified IP rights is to be deducted equally over five years (or over the remaining years of protection) if certain conditions are met.

7. REFURBISHMENT ALLOWANCE

Taxpayers are eligible to claim deduction on refurbishment expenditure equally over a five-year period.

INVENTORY

All trading stock should be valued at the lower of cost or market value. Accepted valuation methods include FIFO and average cost but not LIFO, base stock method or replacement value. The term 'market value' would normally mean realisable value.

CAPITAL GAINS AND LOSSES

Capital gains and losses are not taxable or deductible in arriving at the assessable profits.

DIVIDENDS

Dividend income, whether from Hong Kong or overseas, is not taxable. Dividends paid to either a resident or non-resident of Hong Kong are not subject to any withholding tax.

INTEREST DEDUCTIONS

Only interest expenses falling within specific categories and incurred in the production of a taxpayer's chargeable profits are tax deductible. In addition, deductibility of interest expenses is subject to certain additional anti-avoidance provisions.

LOSSES

Losses incurred can be carried forward indefinitely for set-off against any future assessable profits of the same entity. However, there are anti-avoidance provisions in the Inland Revenue Ordinance ("IRO") that restrict the use of tax losses where a change in shareholding was undertaken solely or predominantly for the purpose of utilising the losses to obtain a tax benefit. Losses cannot be carried back.

OFFSHORE INCOME

Generally, income derived from or arising outside Hong Kong is exempt from tax under the territorial taxation system.

TAX INCENTIVES

- a) The low tax rates and territorial basis of taxation adopted by Hong Kong are in themselves major incentives to foreign investors.
- b) A two-tiered profits tax rates regime has been implemented since the year of assessment 2018/19. Under this regime, the first HKD 2 million of profits derived by corporations or unincorporated businesses will be subject to a 50% reduction in profits tax rates. For connected entities, only one entity in the group can elect to benefit from the lower tax rates.
- c) Income derived from the sale of certain financial instruments, including investments in eligible private companies incorporated offshore, earned by non-residents or special purpose vehicles established to hold offshore investments or eligible Hong Kong privately offered open-ended fund companies is exempt from profits tax (subject to other specific conditions).
- d) Interest income derived from deposits placed in Hong Kong with authorised financial institutions by any person carrying on business in Hong Kong is exempt from profits tax.
- e) Scientific research expenditure, including payments to an approved research institute and payments for technical education, qualify as allowable deductions.
- f) Enterprises are allowed to enjoy a 300% tax deduction for the first HKD 2 million qualifying R&D expenditure, and a 200% tax deduction for the remainder.
- g) Profits derived by a captive insurer from the business of insuring offshore risks will be entitled to a 50% reduction in profits tax rate.
- h) Profits derived from qualified debt instruments with a maturity period of at least three years will also be entitled to a 50% reduction in profits tax rate and full exemption will be granted to certain qualified debt instruments having a maturity period of seven years or more.
- i) Profits derived from specified qualifying treasury activities carried on by a qualifying corporate treasury centre with a non-Hong Kong associated corporation will be entitled to a 50% reduction in profits tax rate.

C. CORPORATE GROUPS

Companies of the same group are assessed to profits tax separately. There is no group tax relief in Hong Kong.

D. RELATED PARTY TRANSACTIONS

The IRD is empowered to adjust the profits or losses of an enterprise where the actual provision made or imposed between associated persons (associated in terms of management, control and capital) departs from the arm's length provision and has created a Hong Kong tax advantage. The transfer pricing rules shall apply to all Hong Kong enterprises including a permanent establishment ("PE") maintained by non-Hong Kong resident persons, covering both cross-border and domestic transactions which involve tangible assets, financial arrangements, intangible assets and services.

The TP legislation also provides that from the year of assessment 2019/20, the income or loss of a non-Hong Kong resident person attributable to the person's permanent establishment in Hong Kong will be determined as if the PE were a distinct and separate enterprise based on the functions performed, assets used and risk assumed by the person through the PE and through the other parts of the person.

In addition, mandatory TP documentation is introduced in Hong Kong based on the three-tiered documentation structure recommended by the OECD, which consists of the Local File, the Master File and the Country-by-Country ("CbC") report. All enterprises carrying on a trade or business in Hong Kong which engage in transactions with associated enterprises will be required to prepare the Master File and Local File for each accounting period within 9 months from the end of the accounting period, except enterprises which meet certain exemptions.

For each accounting period beginning on or after 1 January 2018, the Hong Kong ultimate parent entity of a multinational enterprise group ("MNE Group") with annual consolidated revenue of HKD 6.8 billion (or EUR 750 million) or above for the preceding accounting period ("Reportable Group") should file a CbC return, which includes a CbC report, with the IRD within 12 months after the end of the relevant accounting period. The contents of the CbC report should follow the recommendations of the OECD. Under the requirements, Master Files, Local Files and CbC reports should be prepared in either Chinese or English.

In addition, every Hong Kong entity of a Reportable Group is required to make a notification for determining the obligation for filing a CbC return unless it is not the entity which is to file a CbC return and another Hong Kong entity has already made the notification. The IRD will automatically exchange this report with the jurisdictions in which the MNE is active and with which Hong Kong has concluded relevant agreements for automatic exchange of tax information.

E. WITHHOLDING TAXES

Royalties and licence fees paid to non-residents for the use of certain intellectual properties in Hong Kong and payments to non-resident entertainers or sportsmen for their performance at commercial occasions or events in Hong Kong are subject to profits tax on a withholding basis based on the assessable profits. There are no withholding taxes levied on dividends and interest.

F. FOREIGN TAX CREDIT

Hong Kong has concluded double taxation agreements with many countries/territories. Where there is an applicable double taxation agreement, foreign income tax paid may be credited against the Hong Kong tax levied on the same profits, subject to a ceiling of the amount of the Hong Kong tax payable. Under the local legislation, Hong Kong also allows deduction (i.e. not tax credit) of foreign tax paid on a turnover basis in respect of the same income chargeable to tax in Hong Kong.

G. EXCHANGE CONTROL

There are no exchange controls in Hong Kong.

H. PERSONAL TAX

SALARIES TAX

Salaries tax is charged on individuals in respect of all income arising in or derived from Hong Kong in relation to any office, employment, pension or payments for services rendered in Hong Kong. The tax charge is calculated at the lower of:

- a) 15% of chargeable income after allowable deductions; or,

and personal allowances. The progressive salaries tax rates for the years of assessment 2018/19 and 2019/20 are as follows:

OTHER INCOME TAXES

Under the Hong Kong tax system, various sources of income are taxed under separate categories i.e. business income is subject to profits tax, rental income is subject to property tax and employment income is subject to salaries tax.

Sometimes, it may be advantageous for an individual to elect to pay tax under 'personal assessment' if he/she has expenses which may be non-deductible against a particular source of income (e.g. mortgage interest payments or allowable tax losses which cannot be completely absorbed by his/her business profits). Under personal assessment, all his/her assessable sources of income are aggregated in a single assessment. Applicants must be permanent or temporary residents of Hong Kong. An election for personal assessment must be made within a stipulated time limit.

I. TREATY WITHHOLDING TAX RATES

The Hong Kong Government recognises that there are merits in concluding double taxation agreements with its trading partners, particularly in aviation and shipping industries. Hong Kong therefore has reached different limited double taxation relief arrangements with many countries: Bangladesh, Belgium, Canada, Croatia, Denmark, Estonia, Ethiopia, Fiji, Finland, Germany, Iceland, Israel, Jordan, Kenya, the Republic of Korea, Kuwait, the Lao People's Democratic Republic, Macao Special Administrative Region, Mainland China, Maldives, Mauritius, Mexico, the Netherlands, New Zealand, Norway, the Russian Federation, Seychelles, Singapore, Sri Lanka, Sweden, Switzerland, the United Kingdom and the United States of America in order to avoid double taxation of airline and/or shipping income.

Apart from the limited double taxation agreements applicable to airline and shipping income, the Hong Kong Government also concluded comprehensive double taxation agreements with many countries/territories. The following table summarizes the reduced withholding tax rates of treaty countries/territories for the payments of dividend, interest and royalty, provided certain requirements are met:

A. TAXES PAYABLE

COMPANY TAX

Hungarian resident companies are liable to corporate income tax on all sources of income wherever arising and whether or not remitted to Hungary. A company is resident in Hungary if it is incorporated or has its place of management in Hungary. Branch offices are liable to corporate tax based on their local activity. Generally, the fiscal and accounting years are both required to end on 31 December. However, companies are entitled to use a different fiscal year if their course of business makes it reasonable.

Tax is charged on the higher of the taxable profit for the year and the 'expected profit' at a rate of 9%. The expected profit is 2% of the total revenue.

Resident companies are required to make advance payments of corporate tax. The advance payments are based on the preceding year's tax results. Most taxpayers must make payments up to at least 90% of their annual estimated tax liability by the 20th day of the last month of the tax year. Legal entities generally file their tax return and pay the taxes by 31 May, except where the fiscal year differs from the calendar year.

CAPITAL GAINS TAX

Capital gains of companies are treated as ordinary income and taxed accordingly. A participation exemption scheme exempts the disposal of 'reported participations' from corporate income tax. The reported participation scheme can be applied regardless of the rate of participation in the capital of the relevant company, except for controlled foreign companies. The exemption only applies to participations announced to the tax authority within 75 days and held for at least one year.

Hungary

BRANCH PROFITS TAX

Based on the Act of Hungarian Branch Offices and Commercial Representative Offices of Foreign Registered Companies, branch offices receive the same treatment as domestic companies.

VALUE ADDED TAX (VAT)

The general rate of VAT is 27%. A discount rate of 18% is applicable to dairy products, bread and other bakery products. Milk, pharmaceuticals, books, newspapers, district heating, internet services, certain types of meat, catering services and certain newly built residential properties are taxed at 5%. Financial and investment services are tax-exempt.

As of 1 July 2018, all domestic B2B (business to business) invoices on which at least HUF 100,000 (approx. EUR 320) VAT is charged, have to be reported to the Hungarian Tax Authority via an online connection. Failure to meet the new obligation may result in a penalty up to HUF 500,000 (approximately EUR 1,700) per invoice.

LOCAL TAXES

Local authorities are permitted to levy the following taxes on individuals and businesses in accordance with a framework law. These taxes are deductible expenses in the computation of the taxable base:

LOCAL BUSINESS TAX

Economic activity may be taxed at up to 2% of net sales revenue less the cost of goods sold, the cost of mediated services, sub-contractors' expenses, material costs and the cost of R&D. There are certain limitations on the deductions. For temporary activities, a lump sum up to HUF 5,000 per day can be levied.

BUILDING TAX

The owner of a building may have to pay up to HUF 1,100 per m² of the surface area or 3.6% of the market value.

LAND TAX

The owner of land not built on may be taxed at up to HUF 200 per m² or 3% of the market value of the land.

COMMUNAL TAX OF PRIVATE PERSONS

The owner of a building or land, as well as the tenant of a flat not owned by a private person, may be subject to this tax. The upper limit of the tax is HUF 17,000 per real estate or rental right.

B. DETERMINATION OF TAXABLE INCOME

Profits include all income and capital gains. The taxable basis is the accounting profit adjusted by prescribed items. Generally, expenses incurred wholly and exclusively for business purposes are deductible. The accounting profit is adjusted in accordance with the rules of the corporate income tax legislation, the most important of which are listed below.

DEPRECIATION

For tax purposes, the straight-line method is normally adopted. Assets should have depreciation time apportioned.

Asset	Annual Rate of Depreciation (%)
Industrial structures	2
Agricultural structures	3, 5, 10, 15
Motor vehicles	20
Computer equipment	33
Generally used computer equipment (computers used by the taxpayer)	50

Assets costing less than HUF 100,000 (HUF 200,000 in some cases) may be fully written off in the year of purchase. In the case of leased assets, the lessor is allowed to claim depreciation of 5% for buildings and 30% for machinery and equipment. Any depreciation rate can be applied to intellectual property between the rate calculated based on the useful lifetime and 50%.

INVENTORY

Inventories are generally valued at the lower of cost and market value. Cost may be determined on the basis of FIFO or average cost method.

CAPITAL GAINS AND LOSSES

See discussion above.

DIVIDENDS

Dividends received from non-CFC companies are not subject to corporate income tax. Only 50% of the profit derived from certain royalties is taxable.

INTEREST DEDUCTIONS

Hungary has adopted Council Directive 2016/1164. Therefore, deductible interest is limited to a maximum of 30% of a company's EBITDA or to approximately EUR 3 million (HUF 939,810,000), whichever is higher. This restriction is applicable to bank loans as well. The non-utilised part (i.e. between the effective and maximised interest deduction) can be carried forward to the subsequent tax year. In case of MNE group members this provision is applicable:

- only for group members exceeding the average indebtedness of the group;
- and the maximised deductible interest is calculated based on net financing costs of the group in the ratio of the member's EBITDA to the one of the group.

Former thin capitalisation rules (i.e. debt-to-equity ratio cannot exceed 3:1) are applicable for intercompany loans granted before 17 June 2016, unless the terms or sum of the loan are extended. New rules relate to the extension only.

Also, any transfer pricing adjustments applied have to be taken into consideration (e.g. interest-free debt).

LOSSES

Losses can be carried forward for 5 tax years and can only be used up to 50% of the tax base for any particular year. Losses may not be carried back against profits of previous years. No distinction is made between trading and capital losses.

FOREIGN SOURCE INCOME

Hungarian authorities levy taxes on resident companies on all profits arising from foreign sources in the same way as income from Hungarian sources.

TAX INCENTIVES

Tax incentives for innovative investments (developments) are granted by the Hungarian Government at the request of the taxpayer. These incentives are granted for to companies that meet the requirements set out in law. The value of the incentive is determined by the Ministry of National Economy. The minimum value of the investment must be at least:

- HUF 3 billion;
- HUF 1 billion in certain regions determined by the Government;
- HUF 6 billion or HUF 3 billion for investment serving job creation which results in product diversification and/or new process innovation;
- HUF 500 million for investment made by small and medium enterprises;
- HUF 100 million in the case of research and development, environment-protecting investments, film and video production;
- Job creation (there is no minimum value);
- HUF 100 million in 'free entrepreneurial zones' designated by the Government;
- HUF 100 million in the case of energy efficiency projects.

The incentives are available for the year when the investment is made and in the following twelve years.

TAX CREDITS ON DONATIONS

A tax saving is available for companies on donations given to film productions, performing arts and certain sport clubs and associations (football, handball, basketball, hockey and water polo). This can be achieved through a tax credit or a tax base decrease.

TAX INCENTIVES FOR INVESTORS IN “START-UPS”

Pre-tax profit may be decreased by three times the cost of shareholdings acquired in “start-up” companies determined by the act up to HUF 20 million per tax year. The tax incentive can be applied in four equal instalments, in the tax year of acquisition of shares and in the subsequent three tax years.

TAX INCENTIVES FOR MONUMENTS

The maintenance costs related to monuments are deductible from the tax base for up to 50% of the pre-tax profit. In case of renovation 200% of the incurred costs are deductible from the tax base in addition to the amortisation costs. The tax relief can be split among related companies, but the sum cannot exceed EUR 50 million in case of maintenance and EUR 100 million in case of renovation. This tax incentive can be used in the tax year when finishing the investment and in the subsequent five tax years.

OTHER TAX INCENTIVES

- Micro, small and medium-sized companies may deduct investment expenses incurred for putting business assets into use of up to the amount of pre-tax profits if: (i) the company qualifies as a micro, small or medium size company at the end of the tax year and (ii) the owners of the company are exclusively private persons throughout the whole tax year.
- Small and medium sized companies may reduce their tax liability by the interest paid on loans granted by financial institutions for purchasing tangible assets.
- A reserve for investments is available up to 50% of pre-tax profit, not exceeding HUF 500 million per tax year. Amounts classified as investment reserve are tax-exempt but can only be used for investment purposes in the four tax years following the creation of the reserve.
- Taxpayers may decrease their corporate income tax base with regard to investments related to energy savings and rental homes built by employers for their employees.

C. FOREIGN TAX RELIEF

Domestic law provides unilateral relief in the form of credits for foreign taxes paid. The credit is calculated separately for each item and for each source country. It is limited to 90% of foreign tax paid and cannot exceed Hungarian tax on the same income.

In addition, there are international treaties for the avoidance of double taxation.

D. CORPORATE GROUPS

All taxable entities that have a registered seat or permanent establishment in Hungary and belong to the same corporate group can choose VAT grouping. The members of the group will be recognised as a single taxable person and they will file one consolidated VAT return.

As of 1 January 2019, group taxation is available for CIT purposes in Hungary. According to the new rules, group taxation can be opted for by at least two entities subject to corporate income tax in Hungary, provided that (i) one of the entities directly or indirectly holds at least 75% of the voting rights in the other entity, or (ii) the same person directly or indirectly holds at least 75% of the voting rights in each entity.

The tax base of the group consists of the positive tax bases of its members. Each group member has to determine its tax base in accordance with the corporate income tax rules. In contrast to the current Hungarian tax legislation which does not allow a taxpayer to utilise losses carried forward by another taxpayer, the negative tax bases of group members may, subject to certain limitations, be utilised to decrease the tax base of the tax group in the tax year and the subsequent five years. Special rules apply to the tax allowances that can be used on a group level. The corporate income tax payable should be allocated to each group member in proportion to their positive tax bases.

E. RELATED PARTY TRANSACTIONS

Transfer pricing rules allow the tax authorities to adjust taxable profits where transactions between related parties are not at arm's length. Transfer pricing documentation must be prepared if there are controlled transactions with related parties.

F. WITHHOLDING TAX

There is no withholding tax on dividends, royalties and interest paid to non-resident companies.

G. EXCHANGE CONTROL

There is no exchange control in Hungary.

H. PERSONAL TAX

Resident individuals are taxed on their worldwide income, although special rules apply to foreign nationals residing in Hungary only for employment purposes. Non-residents are taxed only on their income from Hungarian sources. Individuals with Hungarian citizenship are deemed to be Hungarian residents. If residency cannot be determined by citizenship, rules of permanent residence and regular place of actual residence must be used.

A flat rate of 15% applies to all income of private individuals, including both the consolidated tax base and separately taxed income (i.e. interest, dividends, etc.). Fringe benefits are treated as taxable income. There is a 15% personal income tax on fringe benefits (a 19.5% healthcare contribution or social contribution tax is payable as well). Benefits specified in the Act include some kind of vouchers for hospitality only.

A certain range of fringe benefits are taxed at a rate of 17.7% and only 19.5% healthcare contribution is payable on them. These fringe benefits include only gift coupons distributed under limited circumstances, and the above-mentioned vouchers exceeding the threshold determined by law.

There is a family allowance scheme available: HUF 66,670 per child is deductible from the monthly consolidated tax base if the employee has one child, HUF 133,330 per child if the employee has two children, and HUF 220,000 per child is deductible if the employee has at least three children, subject to certain conditions. The unused family personal income tax allowance can be deducted from social security contributions.

Resident expatriates are taxed on 100% of their remuneration. A social security contribution exemption is available for secondments under 2 years. Social security contributions are paid by the employee at a rate of 18.5%. Employers pay 19.5% social contribution tax on gross income of their employees.

I. TREATY AND NON-TREATY WITHHOLDING TAX RATES

There is no withholding tax under domestic law on dividends, interest and royalties and no tax is withheld on such payments to non-resident companies, even where a treaty allows such tax.

CAPITAL GAINS TAX

Gains arising from the transfer of a long-term capital asset, i.e. assets held for a period of more than three years (one year in case of shares/securities of companies listed on a recognised stock exchange in India or a unit of an equity-oriented fund or a unit of business trust and two years in case of unlisted shares and immovable property), are regarded as long-term capital gains.

Gains arising from transfer of a short-term capital asset, i.e. assets held for less than the respective period stated above, are regarded as short-term capital gains.

With effect from 1 April 2018, exemption on long-term capital gains arising from the sale of equity shares, units of equity-oriented funds on a recognised stock exchange (chargeable to STT (Securities Transaction Tax)) stands withdrawn. Such long-term capital gain in excess of INR 100,000 shall be subject to tax at 10%. Similarly, any mutual fund distributing dividend on equity-oriented fund shall pay DDT (Dividend Distribution Tax) at the rate of 10%.

Finance Act 2018 introduced limited grandfathering in respect of protecting the gains realised on a mark to market basis up to 31 January 2018 on listed equity shares. Based on grandfathering, only an increase in share value post 31 January 2018 would be brought within the tax net.

Long-term capital gains on the sale of other assets are taxed separately at the following rates:

Particulars	Rates
	Income does not exceed INR 10 million		Income exceeds INR 10 million but does not exceed INR 100 million		Income exceeds INR 100 million
Long-term capital gains:	For foreign companies	For Indian companies	For foreign companies	For Indian companies	For foreign companies	For Indian companies

For others	41.60%	31.20%	42.428%	33.384%	43.68%	34.944%

Long-term capital losses can only be set off against long-term capital gains. Short-term capital losses can be set off against any capital gain. Capital losses can be carried forward for a period of eight years for set off against capital gains of the same type in subsequent years. There are no provisions for carrying back losses to earlier years. Capital gains are taxable in India even on account of indirect transfers of assets.

Non-resident Indians (NRIs) earning long-term, capital gains on specified assets acquired in convertible foreign exchange are taxed at 11.44% or 11.960% (if SC is applicable) or 10.40% and on other assets at 22.08% or 23.920% (if SC is applicable) or 20.8%. Any other income from investments is taxed at 22.08% or 23.920% (if SC is applicable) or 20.8%.

INCOME FROM OTHER SOURCES

Income from other sources is the residual head of income. Any income which is not specifically taxed under any other head of income will be taxed under this head. For example, when the consideration received by a company (in which the public are not substantially interested) from a resident person, for issue of shares exceeding the face value of such shares (share premium), the difference between the consideration and the fair market value of such shares shall be chargeable to tax under "income from other sources".

MINIMUM ALTERNATE TAX (MAT)

In the case of companies, if the tax payable on their taxable income for any financial year is less than 18.5% of their 'book profit', minimum alternate tax is payable on the total income for financial year of such book profits.

MAT is also applicable to foreign companies. The rates of MAT for FY 2019-20 are as follows:

	If book profit doesn't exceed INR 10 million	If book profit is in the range of INR 10 million - 100 million	If book profit exceeds INR 100 million
Domestic company	19.240%	20.587%	21.549%
Foreign Company	19.240%	19.625%	20.202%

*If the company is located in International Financial Service Centres, then applicable MAT will be 9%.

For the purpose of computing book profits, income charged under presumptive basis should be excluded. The MAT paid could be carried forward and set off against normal tax (in excess of MAT for that year) of future years for up to 15 years. With effect from FY 2011-2012, carried forward MAT shall also apply to a limited liability partnership which has been converted from a private company or unlisted public company.

'Book profit' means net profit as per the profit and loss account as adjusted (increased or reduced) by certain specified items, which includes income tax paid or payable and the provisions made for unascertained liabilities, amounts carried to any reserves, provision for diminution in the value of assets, losses brought forward or unabsorbed depreciation, deferred tax, interest on tax, SC, EC and income exempt from tax.

MAT is also applicable in respect of SEZ units as well as developers.

The income of FI (Foreign Institutional Investor) from capital gains arising out of securities, other than short-term capital gains, royalty or fees for technical services is excluded from computation of book profits effective 1 April 2015.

TONNAGE TAX FOR SHIPPING INDUSTRY

The tonnage tax scheme for eligible shipping companies provides for a tonnage-based presumptive tax. Indian shipping companies now have the option to pay taxes on tonnage income in place of normal taxable income. There is a lock-in period of 10 years. If a company opts out, it is debarred from re-entry for 10 years. Tonnage income is to be taxed at the normal corporate tax rate. Tax is payable even if there is a loss in a year. Tonnage income is separately calculated for each qualifying ship by multiplying the number of days in the previous year with the daily tonnage income as per specified slab rates.

DIVIDEND DISTRIBUTION TAX

A company distributing dividends to its shareholders is liable to pay dividend distribution tax grossed up at 15% along with surcharge at 12% and cess at 4% totalling 20.5553% on dividend declared. To remove the cascading effect of DDT, section 115-O (1A) provides a relief when a holding company declares/distributes/pays a dividend (whether interim or otherwise) to its shareholder(s). The amount chargeable to tax shall be reduced by the amount of dividend, if any, received during the financial year from its subsidiary:

- Where such subsidiary is a domestic company, the subsidiary has paid the tax which is payable under this section on such dividend; or
- Where such subsidiary is a foreign company, the tax is payable by the domestic company under section 115BBD on such dividend.

The same amount of dividend should not be taken into account for reduction more than once. However, income distributed by a specified company or mutual fund to its unit holders is taxable at differential rates as follows:

Rates of DDT for Mutual Funds:

Particulars	Basic Rate	Effective Rate (incl. SC @12% & Cess)
(1) Distribution by MF under an Infrastructure Debt fund scheme to a non-resident	5.00	5.824
(2) To an individual or HUF excluding (1) above (Debt oriented fund and money market fund)	25.00	29.12
(3) To any other Person excluding (1) a (2) above (Debt oriented fund and money market fund)	30.00	34.944
(4) Income distributed to any person by an equity oriented fund	10	11.648

With effect from 1 October 2014, 'Dividend Distribution Tax' and 'Income Distribution Tax' to be levied on Gross Amount instead of amount paid net of taxes. The dividend is not taxable in the hands of the recipient due to the applicability of DDT, hence various rates applicable in the treaty for taxing dividend is redundant.

DIVIDENDS FROM FOREIGN COMPANIES

An Indian company receiving a dividend from a foreign company on holding of 26% or more of equity is liable to tax at 15% with a surcharge at 7% (income exceeding 10 million) or at 12% (income exceeding 100 million) and cess at 4%, inclusive of surcharge.

BRANCH PROFITS TAX

Profits of a branch office of a foreign company in India are taxed in India on income received and/or accrued in India (net of allowable expenses) at the rate applicable to Foreign Companies as given below for the FY 2019-20.

If net income does not exceed INR 10 million	41.60%
If net income exceeds INR 10 million but does not exceed INR 100 million	42.432%
If net income exceeds INR 100 million	43.68%

Under section 285, every person having a liaison office in India will have to file a statement pertaining to the liaison office to the Income tax authority within such time and format as prescribed. There are special provisions relating to conversion of Indian branch of a foreign bank into a subsidiary Indian company under section 115JG in the Income Tax Act.

ADVANCE RULINGS

In order to determine the tax liability in India in advance, and thereby avoid litigation and uncertainty in tax matters, a mechanism of 'Advance Rulings' is available to non-residents in relation to Indian transactions. Indian residents can also seek advance rulings on transactions undertaken or proposed to be undertaken with non-residents.

For this purpose, an 'Authority for Advance Rulings' (AAR) has been constituted which is headed by a retired judge of the Supreme Court of India. The advance ruling is binding on the applicant and on the tax authorities. Application can be made to the AAR seeking a ruling on any question of fact or law on payment of a prescribed fee. The ruling is generally delivered within six months of making the application and is made in writing giving reasons for the decision of the AAR.

The Authority for Advance Ruling has been empowered to determine an arrangement which is proposed to be undertaken by any person (whether resident or non-resident) is an impermissible avoidance arrangement as referred to in Chapter X-A or not. A resident (falling within any such class or category of persons as the Central Government notifies) can approach the Advance Ruling authority in relation to its tax liability arising out of a transaction which is undertaken (or is proposed to be undertaken) by it.

GOODS AND SERVICE TAX

The 101st Constitutional Amendment Act has amended various Articles in the Constitution of India to provide power both to the Central Government and State Governments to levy tax on supplies which will include manufacture, sale and service. The GST Act was introduced with effect from 1 July 2017.

The GST Act provides for levy of Central Goods & Service Tax on Intra-state supplies of goods or services. The State GST Act provides for levy of State GST on intra-State supplies of goods or services. The Integrated GST Act provides for levy of IGST on Inter-State supply of goods and services. Thus, in short, CGST and SGST will be levied on intra-State supplies of goods and services whereas IGST will be levied on inter-State supplies of goods and services. Each State Government will enact statute for levy on supplies of goods and services. UTGST is applicable in case of Union territories which do not have legislature. They do not have SGST. Delhi and Puducherry have their own legislature. Hence, they have their own SGST. The GST Act is extended to Jammu and Kashmir with effect from 8 July 2017. Area up to 200 nautical miles inside sea is "India" for the purpose of GST.

It is a blanket indirect tax that subsumes several indirect state and federal taxes such as value added tax (VAT) and Central Excise duty, and different state taxes, central surcharges, entertainment tax, luxury tax and a slew of related levies by local bodies.

GST is based on the VAT concept of allowing input tax credit of tax paid on inputs, input services and capital goods, for payment of output tax. This will avoid a cascading effect of taxes.

In addition, GST Compensation Cess will be payable mostly on luxury, sin or unhealthy goods and services like pan masala, tobacco products, coal, aerated waters, motor cars, etc.

Basic customs duty, Social Welfare Surcharge and IGST will be payable on import of goods. In respect of specified petroleum products like petrol, diesel, crude, natural gas, aviation fuel, there will be Countervailing Duty (CVD) in lieu of IGST.

In case of a supply within State/Union Territory, CGST will be 50% of IGST Rates and SGST/UTGST for supply within the State or Union Territory will be 50% of IGST rates.

EQUALISATION LEVY

Considering the potential of new digital economy and the rapidly evolving nature of business operations, it is found essential to address the challenges in terms of taxation of digital transactions. In order to address such challenges, a new Chapter titled "Equalisation Levy" was introduced in the Finance Act 2016 to provide for an equalisation levy of 6% of the amount of consideration for specified services received or receivable by a non-resident not having a permanent establishment ('PE') in India, from a resident in India who carries out a business or profession, or from a non-resident having a permanent establishment in India.

Furthermore, in order to reduce the burden of small players in the digital domain, it was also provided that no such levy shall be made if the aggregate amount of consideration for specified services received or receivable by a non-resident from a person resident in India or from a non-resident having a permanent establishment in India does not exceed INR 0.10 million in any financial year.

CUSTOMS DUTY

Customs duty is payable on goods imported into India. The normal rate of import Duty is:

SECURITIES TRANSACTION TAX

Securities transaction tax (STT) is applicable to the purchase or sale of equity shares, derivatives, units of equity-oriented funds through a recognised stock exchange or the sale of a unit of an equity-oriented fund or to a mutual fund. STT is also applicable on the sale of unlisted equity shares under an offer for sale to the public included in an initial public offer (IPO) and where such shares are subsequently listed on a recognised stock exchange.

- d) The taxpayer will deposit commodities transaction tax within 7 days immediately after the end of the month in which such tax is collected. For non-payment or short payment or payment after due date, interest would be charged at the rate of 1% per month (or part thereof).

In order to mobilize growth of International Financial Services Centers (IFSC), the Budget 2016, amended that no Securities Transaction Tax (STT) and Commodities Transaction Tax (CTT) shall be levied on transactions of securities carried out through recognised stock exchange located in IFSC where the consideration for such transaction is paid or payable in foreign currency.

LOCAL TAXES

STAMP DUTY

Stamp Duty is payable at the prescribed rates on instruments recording certain transactions, including transfers of immovable property and shares. Generally, Stamp Duty is levied by the respective states as per the state Act. In the absence of such a state enactment, the provisions of the central Act (i.e. Indian Stamp Act 1899) apply.

Finance Act 2019 amended the Indian Stamp Act, 1899 for levy and administration of stamp duty on securities market instruments by the States at one place through one agency, viz., through Stock Exchanges or its Clearing Corporation or Depositories on one instrument, and for appropriately sharing the same with respective State Governments based on State of domicile of the ultimate buying client.

LAND AND PROPERTY TAX

Land and Property Tax is levied by each state separately.

B. DETERMINATION OF TAXABLE INCOME

A company is considered to be resident in India if it is incorporated in India. However, the concept Place of effective management (POEM) introduced in the Finance Act, 2016 will play an important role in determining whether the company is resident in India or not. Indian companies are taxable in India on their worldwide income, irrespective of its source and origin. Foreign companies are taxed only on income which arises from operations carried out in India or income deemed to have arisen in India. The Central Board of Direct Taxes (CBDT) has issued a set of guidelines for determining the POEM of companies for taxation purposes. Since residence is to be determined each year, POEM would also be determined on a year to year basis.

In the case of non-resident taxpayers engaged in certain businesses, income is assessed on a presumptive (deemed income) basis as follows:

Nature	Business income as a percentage of gross receipts
Shipping (b)	7.5%
Exploration of mineral oil (b) (c)	10%
Operations of aircraft (b)	5%
Turnkey power projects (b) (c)	10%

- (a) To give relief to small taxpayers from the tedious job of maintenance of books of account and from getting the accounts audited, the Income Tax Act has framed the presumptive taxation scheme for business income under sections 44AD if the gross receipts of the taxpayer do not exceed INR 20 million, for specified professionals section 44ADA if the gross receipts of the taxpayer do not exceed INR 5 million and section 44AE if the taxpayer doesn't own more than 10 leasing goods carriages;
- (b) All deductions/expenses (including depreciation) shall be deemed to have been allowed;
- (c) The taxpayer can claim lower profits if he keeps and maintains specified books of accounts and obtains a Tax Audit Report;
- (d) Applicable to Individuals, Hindu Undivided Families and Firm - excludes LLP, taxpayer availing deduction under Section 10A,10AA,10B,10BA or Section 80HH to 80RRB of the Act;
- (e) Specifically excludes person carrying on specified profession, person earning commission or brokerage income and person carrying on any agency business.

DEDUCTIONS AND ALLOWANCES

In computing business income, expenditure (payable to a resident) from which tax is not deducted or deducted but not deposited until the due date of filing of return will be disallowed to the extent of 30% and the same can be claimed in the year when the tax is deposited. Several deductions are allowed while computing business income which includes the following.

Specific provisions have been made in the Income Tax Act 1961 (the Act) in relation to corporate mergers / amalgamations. Corporate restructuring is tax neutral subject to the fulfilment of certain conditions.

DEMERGER

Under the Act, 'demerger' means any transfer by a demerged company of one or more undertakings to another company (resulting company) pursuant to a scheme of arrangement under Sections 230 and Section 235 of the Companies Act. With effect from 1 April 2000, the transfer of shares in a scheme of demerger has been made tax neutral, subject to fulfilment of certain conditions.

SLUMP SALE

The Act defines 'slump sale' to mean the transfer of one or more undertakings as a result of the sale for a lump sum consideration without values being assigned to the individual assets and liabilities. Profits or gains arising from slump sales are taxable as long-term capital gains if the undertaking is owned and held by the taxpayer for more than 36 months prior to the date of transfer. Otherwise, they are taxable as short-term capital gains. Net worth of the undertaking so transferred shall be deemed to be the cost of acquisition and no indexation benefit is allowed for slump sales.

BUYBACK

Buyback refers to the purchase of own shares by a company from its shareholders in lieu of consideration. Consideration received by a shareholder from the company for purchase of its own shares is taxable as a long-term capital gain, if shares were held for more than 12 months prior to transfer to the company. Indexation benefit is available for long-term capital gains. Otherwise, they are taxable as short-term capital gains in the year in which the shares are purchased by the company.

Income arising to a shareholder in respect of buy back of unlisted shares by the company will be exempt from tax. This exemption is available only in those cases where additional income tax is payable on distributed income under section 115QA by the company opting for buy back of unlisted shares.

FOREIGN SOURCED INCOME

Profits derived by a foreign branch of an Indian enterprise are taxable in India. However, credit is allowed for foreign taxes paid by the branch in India either under the tax treaties or under the Act.

BUSINESS TRUSTS

The real estate investment trust (REIT) and Infrastructure investment trust (Invit) are together referred as Business Trusts. The trusts would raise capital by issuing units (to be listed on a recognised stock exchange) and also raise debt directly from resident and non-resident investors. The taxation regime for these Business Trusts, applicable provides the manner, in which the income in the hands of such trusts is to be taxed and the taxability of the income distributed by them to the unit holders.

INCENTIVES

FOREIGN DIRECT INVESTMENT POLICY

Remarkable changes in the policy relating to FDI have been announced by the government in 2016. The highlights of the policy are:

- FDI caps in various sectors have been enhanced. (Appendix – I);

GENERAL ANTI AVOIDANCE RULES (GAAR)

General Anti Avoidance rules have been inserted with effect from 1 April 2014. The provisions relating to GAAR are contained in Chapter X-A (Section 95 to 102). The procedural provisions relating to the mechanism for invocation of GAAR and passing of the assessment order in consequence thereof are contained in section 144BA. The provision of chapter X-A and section 144BA will come into force with effect from 1 April 2017.

In an environment of moderate rates of tax, aggressive tax planning by corporates, and use of opaque low tax jurisdictions for residence as well as for sourcing of capital, it is necessary that the correct tax base be subject to tax. GAAR has been introduced to codify the doctrine of 'substance over form'. Under GAAR, the real intention of the parties and effect of transactions and purpose of an arrangement is taken into account for determining the tax consequences, irrespective of the legal structure that has been superimposed to camouflage the real intent and purpose.

The main features of GAAR regime are:

- (1) An arrangement whose main purpose is to obtain a tax benefit can be declared as an 'impermissible tax-avoidance arrangement', if it satisfies at least one of the following four tests:
 - (a) It creates rights and obligations which are not normally created between parties dealing at arm's length;
 - (b) It results in abuse or misuse of provisions of tax laws;
 - (c) It lacks commercial substance;

- (d) It is carried out in a manner which is normally not employed for bona fide purpose;
- (2) An arrangement will be deemed to lack commercial substance if it involves:
 - (a) Round trip financing (i.e. transactions where funds are transferred among the parties to the arrangement);
 - (b) An accommodating party;
 - (c) Elements that have effect of offsetting or cancelling each other;
 - (d) A transaction which disguises the value, location, source, ownership, or control of fund;
 - (e) A location which serves no other substantial commercial purpose, except obtaining tax benefit;
- (3) Once an agreement is declared to be an IAA, the tax authorities will be entitled to, inter alia, re-characterize the transaction, ignore the transaction, disregard the accommodating parties, reallocate income/expenses, etc.
- (4) Approving Panel: The approving panel shall consist of a chairperson who is or has been a Judge of a High Court, one member of the Indian Revenue service not below the rank of Chief Commissioner of Income Tax and one member who shall be an academic or scholar having special knowledge of matters such as direct taxes, business accounts and international trade practices;
- (5) Status of direction of approving panel: The direction issued by the approving panel shall be binding on the taxpayer as well as the income tax authority;
- (6) Definition of 'associated person and connected person': As per the amendment there will be only one inclusive provision defining the expression 'connected person' under section 102.

C. FOREIGN TAX RELIEF

UNILATERAL TAX CREDIT WHERE THERE IS NO TAX TREATY

Where a resident of India has paid tax in any country with which India does not have a tax treaty, credit is available in India for such tax payments.

TAX CREDIT UNDER TAX TREATIES

India has entered into tax treaties (DTTs) with several partner countries. Under the applicable tax treaty, Indian residents paying taxes in other countries can claim a credit in India for foreign tax payments. The Finance Act 2012 states that provision of DTTs will not be applicable if General Anti Avoidance Rules (GAAR) are invoked.

As per the amendment to section 90 and 90A of the Finance Act 2012, any term which is defined neither in the Act, nor in the DTT, can be assigned a meaning by the Central Government through a Notification. The meaning assigned is generally in line with the intent and objective as understood during the course of negotiations leading to the formalisation of the treaty. This meaning assigned through the Notification shall be effective from the date of coming into force of the DTT.

Earlier, a Tax Residency Certificate (TRC) issued by the partner country was considered sufficient proof for accepting the status of residence for applying DTTs. With effect from 1 April 2013, submission of a TRC is considered a necessary but not sufficient condition, as the taxpayer shall also provide prescribed documents and information for availing DTT benefits referred under section 90 and 90A of the IT Act.

D. CORPORATE GROUPS

There are no provisions in India for consolidation of accounts for tax purposes or provisions for group taxation.

E. TRANSFER PRICING AND COUNTRY-BY-COUNTRY REPORTING

In India, detailed transfer pricing provisions were introduced by the Finance Act, 2001 in order to facilitate the computation of reasonable, fair, and equitable profits and tax in India in the case of businesses carried on by multinational companies. Essentially, transfer pricing is the process of adjusting the prices of cross-border transactions between related/associated parties. Section 92 of the ITA provides that the price of any transaction between Associated Enterprises (AE), either or both of whom are non-residents for tax purposes (international transaction), shall be computed taking into account the arm's length principle. Subsequently, the Finance Act, 2012 also brought 'specified domestic transactions', where transactions are carried out between two related Indian entities under the purview of transfer pricing.

Two enterprises are considered to be associated if there is direct/indirect participation in the management or control or capital of an enterprise by another enterprise or by the same persons in both the enterprises.

In determining whether there is participation in management or control, various factors are taken into consideration including:

- Direct/indirect shareholding with 26% or more of the voting power;
- Advancing of loans of 51% or more of the total assets;
- Appointment of more than 50% of the Board of Directors;
- Dependence on intellectual property rights owned by either party, etc.

An additional clarification was issued highlighting the concept of a 'deemed international transaction', thereby widening the scope of transfer pricing in India. This provision considers a transaction between two residents in India as an international transaction subject to certain conditions.

Determination of 'Arm's Length Price'

A crucial aspect of transfer pricing is the process of determining the Arm's Length Price (ALP). The Central Board of Direct Taxes (CBDT) has prescribed six methods for determining the ALP:

- Comparable Uncontrolled Price Method;
- Resale Price Method;
- Cost Plus Method;
- Profit Split Method;
- Transactional Net Margin Method;
- Other Method (via Notification No.18/2012 dated 23 May 2012).

The 'other method' has been prescribed to potentially cover transactions involving intangibles and business restructuring for which the above methods may not be the most appropriate.

The choice of the appropriate method is determined with respect to the nature and class of transaction, the classes of associated persons, the functions performed by them and other relevant factors.

The Finance Act, 2014 had introduced the range concept for determination of ALP and use of multiple-year data for comparable analysis of transactions. The tax rules mention the manner and scope of computation of ALP when adopting the range concept and the use of multiple-year data.

International Transactions

Apart from routine transactions relating to the purchase and sale of goods and services, the Finance Act, 2012 enhances the definition to include transactions involving business restructuring, intangibles, goodwill, corporate guarantees, etc. There is no threshold exemption limit for this compliance.

Also, it is mandatory to obtain an accountant's certificate in the prescribed format for all international transactions between AEs. This report would have to contain prescribed particulars of the transaction and would have to be filed with the tax authorities by 30 November after the relevant financial year, along with the tax return.

Stringent penal provisions have been prescribed for non-compliance with the prescribed requirements under the new transfer pricing regime.

Advance Pricing Agreements

The Finance Act, 2012 introduced Advance Pricing Agreements (APAs). An APA is an agreement between a taxpayer and the tax authorities for specifying the manner in which the ALP is to be determined with respect to an international transaction. The ALP shall be determined on the basis of the prescribed methods or any other method.

An APA would be valid for a maximum of five consecutive years unless there is a change in the provisions or the facts having a bearing on the international transaction. In March 2015, the CBDT introduced roll-back provisions according to which an APA would also be applicable to international transactions undertaken in the previous four financial years subject to certain conditions.

Extensive Transfer Pricing Documentation

As a notable development, India's transfer pricing documentation requirements are being aligned with the Organisation for Economic Co-operation and Development's (OECD) recommendations under the Base Erosion and Profit Shifting (BEPS) Project. In line with the international consensus on this topic, companies need to maintain and furnish extensive, group-level details to the Indian tax authorities by way of a Country-by-Country (CbC) report and Master File, in addition to the current transfer pricing documentation requirements in India.

The CbC report shall include economic information within the multinational group, such as the nature of main business activities, revenues, profit/loss, income taxes paid, stated capitals, accumulated earnings, number of employees, tangible assets, etc. for each country in which the group operates. For non-furnishing or inaccurate furnishing of the CbC report, Master File and related details by an entity that is obligated to furnish the said details, a stringent penalty structure ranging from INR 5,000 to INR 50,000 per day of default would apply.

F. WITHHOLDING TAX

Tax at the prescribed rates is required to be deducted at source from payments of rent (for use of land, building, machinery, plant, equipment, furniture or fittings), salary, professional fees, fees for technical services, royalty, interest, commission, etc. to residents. Tax is also required to be deducted from payments to non-residents, in respect of interest or any other sum chargeable under the Act. With retrospective effect from 1 April 1962, tax will be deductible whether the deductor is a resident or non-resident and tax will be deductible even if a non-resident does not have any place of business, residence, business connection or any other presence in India. The rates are the same as those listed in Section A.

From 1 June 2013, under section 194IA, any person responsible for paying (other than the person referred to in 194LA) to a resident transferor any sum by way of consideration for transfer of immovable property (other than agricultural land in rural area in India) is liable to deduct tax at 1% if the amount of consideration is equal to or exceeds INR 5 million.

In case there is TDS default pertaining to any sum (other than salary) payable outside India or payable to a non-resident which is taxable in India, then expenditure will not be disallowed if TDS is deposited within the due date of submission of return of income under section 139(1). If TDS is deposited after this date expenditure will be deductible in the year in which TDS is deposited. In case of TDS default, 30% of expenditure will be disallowed not 100%.

Withholding tax provisions have been extended to trusts for the FY 2018-19.

G. EXCHANGE CONTROL

The foreign exchange regulations have been substantially liberalised in India, whereby no licence is required for setting up an industry except in a few cases such as electronic aerospace and defence equipment, industrial explosives, hazardous chemicals, distillation and brewing of alcoholic drinks, cigars and cigarettes, items reserved for small-scale sector and industries/sectors reserved for the public sector.

India has one of the most liberal and transparent policies on Foreign Direct Investment (FDI) among the emerging economies. The FDI policy has been rationalised on an ongoing basis to avoid multiple layers of regulatory approvals to facilitate foreign investment. FDI can be divided into two broad categories:

- 1) FDI under Automatic Approval route;
- 2) FDI with prior approval of the Government.

Under the automatic approval route, no government approval or Reserve Bank of India is required if the FDI is within the notified sectoral caps. However, if the FDI exceeds the prescribed sectoral cap, the approval of government through the Foreign Investment Facilitation Portal (FIFP) is required. FDI is allowed under the automatic route in almost all activities/sectors except the following, which require FIFP approval:

- a) Activities/items that require an Industrial License (except for some cases);
- b) Proposals in which the foreign collaborator has an existing financial/technical collaboration in India in the same field;
- c) All proposals falling outside notified sectoral policy/caps.

In certain cases, such as distillation and brewing of alcohol, industrial explosives and manufacture of hazardous chemicals, FDI is permitted without FIFP approval subject to obtaining an industrial license from the appropriate authority. However, FDI is prohibited in the following cases:

- a) Gambling and betting;
- b) Lottery business;
- c) Atomic energy;
- d) Business of chit fund;
- e) Nidhi company;
- f) Trading in Transferable Development Rights (TDRs);
- g) Manufacture of cigars, cheroots, cigarillos and cigarettes, of tobacco or of tobacco substitutes;
- h) Real estate business (except development of townships, construction of residential and commercial premises, roads or bridges, real estate broking service to the extent specified by FEMA).

H. PERSONAL TAX

Individuals are taxed on their income based on income slabs on a progressive basis at 5%, 20% and 30%.

RESIDENTIAL STATUS

The scope of taxable income varies depending upon the residential status of the individual. Resident taxpayers are classified into two categories:

- a) Ordinarily resident; or,
- b) Not ordinarily resident.

An individual is classified as "Ordinary resident" if he spends:

- a) At least 182 days in India during the tax year; or
- b) 60 days in India during the year and at least 365 days in the preceding four years.

An individual is classified as “Not Ordinary resident” if he has been:

- a) A non-resident in nine out of the ten preceding years, or
- b) In India for less than 730 days during the preceding seven years.

Non-resident taxpayers pay tax only on Indian-sourced income. Income of a non-resident shall be deemed to accrue or arise in India under Section 9(1)(v) (relating to interest paid outside India), Section 9(1)(vi) (relating to royalties paid outside India) or Section 9(1)(vii) (relating to fees for technical services paid outside India) and shall be included in total income regardless of whether:

- a) The non-resident has a place of residence, place of business or business connection in India;
- b) The non-resident has rendered services in India.

The assessment year is the period of 12 months from 1 April to 31 March. Income earned in the period of 12 months or less immediately preceding the assessment year is taxed in the assessment year.

KEY TAX POINTS

- Companies resident in Indonesia are subject to income tax on their worldwide income including capital gains. A permanent establishment of a foreign company is subject to tax in Indonesia on its worldwide income.
- Branch profits are taxed at the same rate as corporate profits. A 20% withholding branch profit tax is also payable on after tax income in addition to the corporate tax.
- Indonesian individuals are taxed on their worldwide income.
- Non-resident companies are subject to tax on income, including capital gains, derived from Indonesia.
- VAT is levied at a standard rate of 10% on taxable supplies of goods and most services.
- There is a sales tax on the transfer or importation of luxury goods, at rates between 10% and 125%.
- Stamp duties apply to the transfer of land, and certain documents are subject to Stamp Duty.
- Double tax relief credits are generally available to Indonesian residents in respect of overseas tax paid on foreign-sourced income, up to a maximum of the Indonesian tax payable on the income concerned.
- Generally, residents are subject to a creditable withholding tax of 15% on payments received from fellow Indonesian residents, although dividends are exempt under certain circumstances. Payments to non-residents are generally subject to a final withholding tax of 20%.

A. TAXES PAYABLE

FEDERAL TAXES AND LEVIES COMPANY TAX

A company will be considered taxable in Indonesia if it has a presence and conducts business in that country. Resolution of this question depends on whether the entity has a 'permanent establishment' in Indonesia. This term is widely defined to include a place of management, branch, representative office, office building, agent, factory or workshop, construction or mining site. Where such a presence exists the permanent establishment is taxable on its worldwide income. Where similar businesses to that carried on by the permanent establishment are conducted in Indonesia, care must be taken to ensure that the 'force of attraction' principle does not result in that business income being taxed at the level of the permanent establishment.

Company tax is payable by monthly instalments. The collection of tax from interest, royalties, rentals and dividends, professional service fees, technical and management service fees, installation service fees, repair and maintenance service fees is by way of withholding tax. Where the recipient is a tax resident of Indonesia, the tax withheld is taken into account in determining the company's final tax liability (except for tax on interest from banks, space rentals, and construction services which are treated as a final tax). Where the recipient is not a resident, the tax withheld represents a final tax.

Under the Income Tax Law No. 36 Year 2008, which applies from 1 January 2009, corporations were taxed at a single rate of 28%, which was reduced to 25% from 2010 onwards. Corporations with an annual gross income of up to IDR 50 billion are entitled to a tax discount of 50% of the standard rate on taxable income derived from the portion of gross income up to IDR 4.8 billion. As for public companies, corporate tax deduction at 5% will be granted when meeting the following requirements:

- (1) Minimum listing requirement is 40%;
- (2) The minimum public ownership is 300 parties where each party holds less than 5% of the paid-in shares; and,
- (3) The above two conditions must be fulfilled for at least six months (183 days) in a tax year.

CAPITAL GAINS TAX

Capital gains and losses are mainly included as ordinary income and taxed accordingly, except for transactions in stock on the Indonesian stock market and on private property. The gain/loss is ignored and tax is instead charged on the transaction value as follows:

Stock	0.1% of transaction value	Final tax, except for founder shares sold by founder = 0.5% of transaction value
Private property: Land and building	2.5% of transfer value	Final tax for individuals, foundations and corporations

BRANCH PROFITS TAX

Branch profits are taxed at the same rate as corporate profits. However, a withholding branch profits tax of maximum 20%, subject to protection under a double tax treaty, is also payable on after-tax income in addition to the corporate tax. This additional tax is payable irrespective of whether the profits are remitted. Refer to 'Withholding Taxes' below for variations in the above rate. An exemption from withholding tax may be granted to a permanent establishment which reinvests its net profit in Indonesia.

SALES TAX ON LUXURY GOODS

Under VAT Law No. 42 Year 2009, effected 1 April 2010, the tariff of sales tax on luxury goods is set at a minimum 10% and a maximum up to 200%, imposed on imported or domestically produced items. Currently, the rates of sales tax on luxury goods applied are between 10% up to 125%. However, exports - even if classified as luxury goods - are taxed at a 0% tariff.

The tax is collected at the manufacturer/import level. Payment of the sales tax is required by the 15th day of the following month and returns need to be submitted by the 20th day of the following month.

VALUE ADDED TAX (VAT)

VAT at the general rate of 10% is imposed on importers, manufacturers, wholesalers and retailers and on the provision of most services. While the VAT laws permit amendments to the rates for individual items, currently the products with a rate other than 10% are cigarettes and used cars. Services such as package deliveries and travel agents are taxed at 1%, while factoring is imposed at 5% on the fees received. Exports of taxable goods are effectively excluded from VAT by being subject to the tax at a nil rate. Under VAT Law No. 42 Year 2009, which took effect from 1 April 2010, the export of services is subject to 0% VAT. However the Ministry of Finance (MoF) Regulation further defines that the zero-rated VAT is only applicable to the following services:

- (1) Sub-contracting services with certain requirements:
 - The buyer or recipient of taxable service is outside the Customs area and is a non-resident taxpayer and does not have a permanent establishment as specified in Income Tax Law;
 - Specification and material are provided by the buyer or the recipient of the taxable service;
 - Materials are defined as raw materials, work in process and/or supporting material to be further processed into finished taxable goods;
 - Ownership of finished goods is in the hands of the buyer or the recipient of the taxable service;
 - The sub-contracting entrepreneur delivers the products by request from the buyer or the recipient of the taxable service to outside the Customs area;
- (2) Construction services including construction planning, construction work and construction supervision located outside the Customs area;
- (3) Repair and maintenance services which are attached to services of movable goods utilised outside the customs area.

VAT is payable by the end of the following month of the relevant transaction prior to the submission deadline of the monthly tax return. In the case of certain services rendered by non-residents of Indonesia such as the use of intangible taxable goods and/or offshore services, the recipient of these services has an obligation, by way of self-assessment, to pay and report import VAT by the 15th of the following month.

Goods excluded from VAT:

- Basic necessities;
- Mining taken from natural resources;
- Food served in hotels and restaurants, including food and drinks provided by catering services;

FRINGE BENEFITS TAX (FBT) / BENEFITS IN KIND

Benefits in kind received by employees, including discounted or free housing, are not taxable to the employee nor deductible to the provider/employer. However, company cars and cellular phones provided to the employee are deductible at 50% of the acquisition cost by way of depreciating those assets over their useful lives (8 years and 4 years), while cellular phone refill vouchers and repair expenses can be claimed as a deduction at 50%.

However, a full deduction applies to food and drinks provided to employees in the workplace and employee benefits required for job performance such as protective clothing and uniforms, transportation costs to and from the place of work, accommodation for ship crews and the like, and also for housing provided in remote areas approved by the Minister of Finance.

B. DETERMINATION OF TAXABLE INCOME

Taxable income is calculated under normal accounting principles adjusted for specific tax rules. A deduction is allowed for all outgoings and expenses incurred for obtaining, collecting and maintaining taxable income.

Deductions are not allowed in relation to the following items:

- Benefits in kind such as free housing (see also 'Fringe benefits tax/benefits in kind' above);
- Income tax payments (including penalties);
- Capital expenditure (see 'Depreciation' below);
- Private expenses;
- Non-business gifts, aid and donations, except 'zakat' (Islamic alms) and other compulsory religious donations approved by the government;
- Profit distributions;
- Employers' contributions for life, health, and accident insurance and contributions to non- approved pension funds unless the contributions are treated as taxable income of employees;
- Provisions (except for financial institutions);
- Dividends;
- Expenses related to income which are taxed at a final rate, i.e. interest on loans related to time deposits;
- Expenses related to income which are exempt from tax, i.e. interest on loans used to buy shares where dividends to be received are not subject to income tax;
- Salaries or compensation received by a partnership or firm as members where their participation is not divided into shares.

INVESTMENT INCENTIVES

Taxpayers investing in certain business sectors and/or in certain areas/locations may be entitled to taxation incentives in the form of:

- A reduction in net income up to a maximum of 30% (5% per year for six years) from the total investment realised;
- Accelerated depreciation and amortisation;
- Tax loss compensations for a longer period but not exceeding 10 years;
- A reduction in withholding taxes on dividends to 10% unless a lower rate applies under the relevant tax treaty.

DEPRECIATION

Where fixed assets (either tangible or intangible) have a beneficial life of greater than one year, tax relief for the cost of acquisition is available through depreciation. The following depreciation rates are applicable:

Beneficial Life	Straight-line method (%)	Declining-balance method (%)
A. Non-building:
1 – 4 years	25	50
4 – 8 years	12.5	25
8 – 16 years	6.25	12.5
16 – 20 years	5	10
B. Building:
Permanent	5	-
Non-permanent	10	-

Note: Depreciation of property is taken into account commencing the month, instead of the year, that the property is acquired which means that the first year depreciation is accounted for on a pro rata basis, while the net book value is depreciated accordingly over its remaining beneficial years, unless it is retired or sold within its beneficial life.

STOCK / INVENTORY

Taxpayers may value inventory using either the 'first-in, first-out' (FIFO) or Average Cost methods. Whichever method is selected, it must be consistently applied.

CAPITAL GAINS AND LOSSES

Gains and losses on capital items are taxable in Indonesia without special treatment being afforded to such items, except for gains and losses on sales of share certificates of listed companies and on sales of land and buildings as previously mentioned.

DIVIDENDS

An exemption exists under particular circumstances for dividends received by companies incorporated in Indonesia where the payer is also an Indonesian company. In the absence of a double tax treaty, withholding tax at 20% is levied on dividend payments to non-residents. Reference should be made to the section on withholding tax and the individual treaties.

INTEREST DEDUCTIONS

While the Minister of Finance is empowered to prescribe required debt equity ratios for foreign companies, no limit has been set to date. Due to the existence of this power, however, caution should be exercised to ensure debt is not considered equity, with the result that the related interest and borrowing costs are disallowed.

LOSSES

While loss carry backs are not permitted, losses may be carried forward for up to 5 years. The period over which losses are able to be carried forward can be extended by decree from the Minister of Finance.

C. FOREIGN TAX RELIEF

Where an Indonesian resident has foreign branches (or earns other foreign-source income), the income of those branches will be taxable in Indonesia. Where such income has been subject to foreign tax, tax credits will be granted, subject to a maximum of the Indonesian tax payable on the income concerned.

D. CORPORATE GROUPS

The consolidation of returns is not allowed.

E. RELATED PARTY TRANSACTIONS

The revenue authorities will disallow a deduction for excessive/non-arm's length transactions between related parties.

F. WITHHOLDING TAX

Generally, residents are subject to a creditable withholding tax of 15% with any balance being payable or refundable, while non-residents are subject to a final withholding tax of 20%. Withholding taxes are collected when the taxable transaction takes place or payment becomes due. The rates of withholding tax are as follows:

	Residents ¹ (%)	Non-residents ¹ (%)
Dividends ²	15	20
Interest	15	20
Royalties	15	20
Prizes and awards	15	20
Rental and other income related to the use of property, other than land/space rental	2	20
Technical, management, consulting, and other services	2	20

Notes:

- (1) All percentage rates are on gross amounts unless otherwise noted.
- (2) Withholding tax on dividends paid to Indonesian corporate shareholders will be exempt only if the following conditions are met:
 - (i) The dividend is sourced from retained earnings;
 - (ii) The recipient holds 25% share or more in the payer.
- (3) A 100% withholding tax is imposed, in addition to the applicable tax rate, on individuals and corporations, other than non-tax residents, who do not possess a tax identification number (NPWP).

Note: Effective 1 January 2009, dividends distributed to an individual resident taxpayer are subject to final tax at a maximum rate of 10%.

FINAL WITHHOLDING TAXES

The following transactions are subject to a final withholding tax. These taxes apply to residents and permanent establishments of non-residents.

• Sale of listed shares ¹	0.1% of the gross proceeds
• Additional tax on sale of listed Founder shares; by a founder shareholder ¹	0.5% of the IPO price
• Sale of land or buildings ¹	2.5% of the sales value (final tax for individuals, foundations and corporations). An extra 5% stamp duty for the land and/or building acquisition rights is payable by the purchaser
• Transfer of real estate to a Real Estate Investment Fund (Kontrak Investasi Kolektif (KIK) - Dana Investasi Real Estate (DIRE))	0.5% of the gross proceeds
• Interest or discount on Government CDs and savings deposits and interest or discount on bonds ²	20% (except for banks and certain approved pension and mutual funds; and loan interest on simple houses)
• Asset revaluation approved by the Tax Office	10% of the difference between the book value and the revalued amount of the assets (unless current year tax losses, which will firstly be applied against the revaluation difference)
• Prizes from lotteries	25% of gross proceeds
• Land and/or building rental (include service charge)	10% of gross proceeds

Notes:

1. These rates also apply to non-residents (subject to the application of a double tax treaty).
2. No withholding tax is payable in respect of savings, deposits or Government CDs with a principal amount up to IDR 7,500,000.

By the issuance of Government Regulation No. 51 dated 20 July 2008, Construction Services are subject to final tax with the following tax rates:

- (a) 2% on construction services provided by qualified small enterprises;
- (b) 4% on construction services provided by non-qualified enterprises;
- (c) 3% on construction services provided by enterprises other than those mentioned in (a) and (b) above;
- (d) 4% on construction planning and supervisory services provided by qualified enterprises; and,
- (e) 6% on construction planning and supervisory services provided by non-qualified enterprises.

(Note that the above Government Regulation is effective as of 1 January 2008.)

GOVERNMENT REGULATION NO. 23 YEAR 2018 REGARDING 0.5% FINAL TAX

Government Regulation No. 23 Year 2018 ("GR-23") entered into force on 1 July 2018 replacing GR No. 46 Year 2013 regarding final tax on taxpayers within a certain turnover.

Under GR-23, the final tax rate is reduced from the previous tax rate of 1% to 0.5% applicable to taxpayers with annual gross turnover not exceeding IDR 4.8 billion per annum based on the previous year's activity. However it does not include the following income:

- a. Income derived from the delivery of certain freelance services by individuals;
- b. Income derived from overseas which is payable or has been taxed in the source country;
- c. Income subject to final tax under certain tax regulations; and
- d. Income not subjected to tax.

The following taxpayers are also excluded from the application of the 0.5% final tax under the GR-23:

- a. Taxpayers who choose to be submitted to the normal tax regime (Article 17 or Article 31E Income Tax);
- b. Limited partnerships or firms set up by individuals who have special expertise, i.e. professionals and freelance services;
- c. Companies that obtain an Income Tax Allowance or Tax Holiday; and
- d. Taxpayers in the form of a permanent establishment.

The final tax should be self-assessed or withheld by the transaction counterpart. For withholding purposes, final-taxed taxpayers should apply to the DGT for a Statement Letter, allowing them to abide by GR-23 and hence to be subject to 0.5% on their gross income.

GR-23 sets the following new limitation periods during which taxpayers can benefit from the final tax regime before they are submitted to the normal tax regime:

- a. Seven years for individuals;
- b. Four years for cooperatives, limited partnerships, or firms; and
- c. Three years for limited liability companies.

The limitation period commences from the tax year since the taxpayer is registered - for those registered after the commencement of GR-23 - and from tax year 2018 - for the taxpayers registered prior to the commencement of GR-23.

WITHHOLDING TAX - ARTICLE 22

Article 22 income tax is typically applicable to the following:

- (1) The import of goods. A creditable withholding tax of 2.5% for importers with an import license or 7.5% imposed if the importer does not possess the appropriate import license;
- (2) The sale of goods to the government requiring payment from the State Treasury, the State Budget General Directorate, or certain state owned companies. The tax rate applied for these transactions is 1.5% of its selling price; and,
- (3) The sale/purchase of steel, cars, cement and paper products. The tax rates are: purchase of steel: 0.30%; automotive products: 0.45%; cement: 0.25%; and paper products: 0.10% of its selling price.
- (4) The sale/purchase of high value luxury goods is subject to 5% tax.

An additional 100% withholding tax is imposed on individuals or corporations, other than non-tax residents, who do not possess a NPWP.

G. EXCHANGE CONTROL

While the importation of capital is relatively uninhibited, foreign investment must be approved. Similarly, foreign currency can be transferred essentially free of control although minor reporting requirements do exist. Importantly, repatriation of capital, other than resulting from the sale of existing shares to Indonesians, is prohibited for the period the investor enjoys any tax holiday.

H. PERSONAL TAX

Residents of Indonesia are taxed on their worldwide income. Non-residents are only taxed on income derived from Indonesia. An individual will be a resident of Indonesia if they are present in Indonesia for more than 183 days or reside in Indonesia during a fiscal year and intend to stay in Indonesia. Certain double tax treaties modify the above rules. Individual taxable income is progressively taxed at the following rates:

Taxable Income (IDR)	(IDR)
0 – 50,000,000	0 + 5% on excess
50,000,001 – 250,000,000	2,500,000 + 15% on excess
250,000,001 – 500,000,000	32,500,000 + 25% on excess
Above 500,000,000	95,000,000 + 30% on excess

An additional 20% tax is imposed on individuals, other than non-tax residents, who do not possess an NPWP.

ALLOWABLE DEDUCTIONS

In determining the annual taxable income of an individual, the following may be deducted from gross income:

	(IDR)
Occupational support: 5% of gross income, up to maximum of	6,000,000
Pension: 5% of gross income, up to maximum of	2,400,000
Non-taxable income (effective 1 January 2016):	54,000,000
- For the taxpayer
- Additional for a married taxpayer	4,500,000
- Additional for each lineal family member related by blood	4,500,000 each

A married female employee is only allowed non-taxable income for herself if she has a certificate from the local authorities that her husband does not work. Non-resident individuals are subject to a final tax of 20% where the payments represent compensation for work performed in Indonesia regardless of where they are paid. Lump sum pension payments and severance pay on individual residents are subject to final tax on the gross amount at the following rates:

Lump Sum Pensions Payments
Taxable Income	(IDR)
0 – 50,000,000	exempt/non-taxable income
Above 50,000,000	5%

Severance pay
Taxable Income	(IDR)
0 – 50,000,000	exempt/non-taxable income
50,000,001 – 100,000,000	5%
100,000,001 – 500,000,000	2,500,000 + 15% on excess
Above 500,000,000	62,500,000 + 25% on excess

However, pension payments made to non-resident individuals are taxed under Article 26 of the Income Tax Law at a rate of 20% on the gross amount. Where home leave or education costs are reimbursed, the amount of the reimbursement is taxable in full at the level of the employee. Note that food and beverages provided at the workplace by an employer to its employees are not subject to tax but deductible for the employer.

SOCIAL SECURITY

Under the government regulations, employers are required to register themselves and their employees for a social security program managed by the social security agency, the so-called BPJS (formerly known as Jamsostek). While the employers must pay a certain portion of the premium contributions, the employees' contributions are normally collected through payroll deductions from their gross regular salaries/wages. Currently, the BPJS premium contributions consist of BPJS Employment Insurance and BPJS Health Insurance as follows:

Description	Borne by employer	Borne by employee
BPJS Employment Insurance
- Working accident coverage	0.24% up to 1.74%	-
- Death insurance	0.3%	-
- Old age savings	3.7%	2%
BPJS Health Insurance
- Health care ¹	4%	1%
BPJS Pension
- Pension ²	2%	1%

Notes:

1. Maximum calculation base is IDR 8,000,000/month.
2. Maximum calculation base is subject to yearly adjustment based on BPJS regulation.

Note that the requirement of participating in BPJS social security applies to all employees, including expatriates who have been working in Indonesia for more than six months.

KEY TAX POINTS

- Irish corporation tax is payable by Irish resident companies on income and capital gains derived from all sources. Non-resident companies are taxed on Irish source income, on income or gains from a branch or agency in Ireland and also on certain other gains.
- All Irish incorporated companies are deemed resident in Ireland, subject to certain exceptions. However, a company not incorporated in Ireland may also be deemed Irish resident if its central management and control resides in Ireland.
- The rate of corporation tax applied to a trading income is 12.5%. Other income, such as rent or investment income, is taxed at 25%.
- Capital gains of companies are, broadly, taxed at 33%.
- There is a general anti-avoidance provision but there is no specific transfer pricing or controlled foreign companies' legislation.

- VAT applies to supplies of goods and services by taxable persons. The standard rate is 23%.
- Tax credits are generally available to Irish companies in respect of overseas taxes suffered on foreign income.
- Payments of dividends, interest, royalties and rent to non-residents are, in certain circumstances, subject to withholding tax at 20% (subject to the relevant double tax treaty).

Irish nationals who are resident but not ordinarily resident and individuals who are resident but not domiciled in Ireland, are taxed on a remittance basis in respect of overseas income and gains.

A. TAXES PAYABLE

COMPANY TAX

Irish corporation tax is payable by Irish tax resident companies on its worldwide income and capital gains from all sources. All Irish incorporated companies are deemed resident in Ireland, subject to certain exceptions. A company not incorporated in Ireland may also be deemed Irish resident if its place of central management and control is in Ireland. Non-Irish tax resident companies are chargeable to Irish corporation tax where they have a permanent establishment in Ireland.

From 1 January 2015, newly Irish incorporated companies will be deemed to be Irish tax resident (unless under the terms of a double tax treaty the company is determined to be resident elsewhere). For companies incorporated before 1 January 2015, the new residency rules will not apply until after 31 December 2020. Companies incorporated in Ireland before 1 January 2015 which are managed and controlled in an EU Member State or in a country with which Ireland has a double tax treaty will be deemed to be Irish tax resident where that country has a place of incorporation test but not a central management and control test.

A 12.5% rate of corporation tax is applied to the trading income of companies, with a rate of 25% applying to other income such as rent or investment income. In addition, where a company has a permanent establishment (e.g. a branch/office in Ireland) the branch profits will be chargeable to corporation tax at 12.5%. Corporation tax is payable by reference to a company's accounting period. Non-Irish tax resident companies not trading in Ireland will be chargeable to income tax at 20% on any Irish source income (e.g. rental profits/interest income).

Where a company has a corporation tax liability of less than EUR 200,000 (i.e. "small company") in their previous accounting period, corporation tax is payable in two stages with the first payment due one month before the end of the accounting period. The amount payment will be 100% of the corporation tax liability for the preceding accounting period (or 90% of the corporation tax liability for the current accounting period). The balance of the corporation tax liability for the period is payable nine months after the end of the accounting period when filing their tax return.

Large companies with a corporation tax liability of more than EUR 200,000 in their previous accounting period are obliged to pay corporation tax in three stages. The first instalment will be payable in the sixth month of the accounting period and the amount payable will be 50% of the corporation tax liability for the preceding accounting period (or 45% of the corporation tax liability for the current accounting period). The second instalment will be payable in the 11th month of the accounting period and the amount payable will bring the total preliminary tax paid to 90% of the corporation tax liability for the current accounting period. The balance of the corporation tax liability is payable nine months after the end of the accounting period when filing their tax return.

Both small companies and large companies must submit a corporation tax return to the Inspector of Taxes by the 21st day of the ninth month following the accounting year end. Failure to do so will result in a statutory surcharge and restriction on the use of certain reliefs or allowances such as loss relief.

Country by Country Reporting

Finance Act 2015 introduced Country by Country Reporting for Irish parented multinational enterprises with consolidated annualised group revenue of EUR 750 million or more. The first report should be prepared for fiscal years commencing on or after 1 January 2016 and filed within 12 months of the year end. Failure to comply with this reporting requirement or the provision of an incorrect report will result in a penalty of EUR 19,045 and in some instances a further penalty of EUR 2,535 for each day that the report remains outstanding. This is in line with OECD recommendations and is the first of a number of recommendations that will be implemented by Ireland to comply with the standards and recommendations of the BEPS project.

CAPITAL GAINS TAX

The current rate of capital gains tax is 33%. Capital gains arising on disposals by Irish tax resident companies are calculated using capital gains tax principles, however, the tax liability arising is subject to corporation tax (with the exception of gains arising on disposals of development land which are subject to capital gains tax).

Non-Irish tax resident companies are chargeable on the sale of certain assets including:

- a) Land and buildings in Ireland;
- b) Minerals in Ireland or any rights to same;
- c) Assets situated in Ireland which are used for the purpose of a trade carried on in Ireland through a branch;
- d) Unquoted shares deriving their value or the greater part of their value from (a) or (b) above.

Capital losses on the sale of assets can be set against capital gains arising in the same accounting period and any excess can be carried forward and applied in subsequent accounting periods against future capital gains.

Participation Exemption

Where a holding company disposes of a subsidiary, provided certain conditions are satisfied, the disposal may be exempt from capital gains tax. In brief, the parent company must beneficially own 5% of the subsidiary's share capital, the profits of the subsidiary and the assets of the subsidiary available for distribution on wind up. In addition, both the parent and subsidiary must carry on a trade/be part of a trading group. The exemption will not apply where the subsidiary derives the greater part of its value from land and buildings in the State.

Relief on Disposals of Certain Land or Buildings

In order to stimulate activity in the property market, a relief from capital gains tax for land and buildings purchased in the European Economic Area between 7 December 2011 and 31 December 2014 where the property is held for 7 years or more was introduced. The relief applies to both residential and commercial property and to property held by individuals and corporates.

The relief applies by exempting the capital gain attributable to the first 7 years of ownership of the asset. Therefore, if a property is owned for 10 years and subsequently sold, only 3/10ths of any gain on the disposal is chargeable to capital gains tax. No relief is available where the asset is owned for less than 7 years (i.e. the full gain would be liable to capital gains tax).

The requisite holding period has been reduced from 7 years to 4 years in the Finance Act 2017. The measure has created a three-year period (i.e. years 4 to 7) in which the property can be sold and benefit from a full exemption whereas if held longer than 7 years, only proportionate relief is available. The new rule will only apply to disposals made on or after 1 January 2018.

Debt Write off

The base cost of an asset for capital gains tax purposes will be reduced where the asset was acquired with borrowings and an amount of the borrowings has been released or written off. If the release or write off occurs before the disposal the base cost is reduced accordingly. If the write off occurs after the disposal it will be treated as a capital gain in the year of write off.

VALUE ADDED TAX (VAT)

A company is obliged to register for VAT if its turnover from the sale of goods exceeds EUR 75,000 or if its turnover from the provision of services exceeds EUR 37,500. The threshold for VAT in Ireland for a trader with no establishment in Ireland is EUR Nil, subject to a number of exceptions. The current standard rate of VAT is 23%. There is a reduced rate of VAT of 13.5% applying in respect of the provision of immovable property and certain services. In addition, a second reduced rate of VAT of 9% applies mainly to printed and electronic newspapers. There is also a 0% rate of VAT that applies to certain goods/services. Some supplies are exempt from VAT such as banking services, insurance services and medical services.

VAT returns are generally made on a bi-monthly basis. However, a company which is constantly in a repayment position may obtain approval to make returns on a monthly basis. For smaller businesses, the frequency of filing VAT returns can also be reduced. VAT is not recoverable on non-business expenditure nor on certain other expenditure such as cars, petrol, hotel accommodation, meals. VAT on conference-related accommodation expenses are allowed if certain conditions are satisfied. In addition, a business is required to repay any VAT previously reclaimed in relation to supplier invoices which have not been paid within 6 months.

PAYROLL TAX

All employers are obliged under the Pay As You Earn (PAYE) system to deduct income tax, USC and Pay Related Social Insurance (PRSI) contributions from employees. The rate of employers PRSI is 10.85% on the full amount of the income.

RELEVANT CONTRACTS TAX (RCT)

RCT is a tax regime that applies to payments made by a principal contractor to a subcontractor under a relevant contract (this is a contract to carry out work in the construction, forestry or meat processing industry). RCT applies to both resident and non-resident contractors carrying out such operations in Ireland. RCT does not apply to professionals such as architects, surveyors, etc.

RCT is a tax deduction system whereby a principal contractor deducts tax from payments to a subcontractor. The new system will have three RCT rates 0%, 20% and 35% depending on the subcontractor's compliance record. The rate of tax to be deducted will be confirmed by the Revenue Commissioners. There are severe penalties for not operating RCT correctly.

STAMP DUTY

Stamp duty is a duty levied on documents or instruments, executed in Ireland, relating to conveyances and certain transactions. The following are the main stamp duty rates applicable in respect of different types of property:

Residential Property

The following stamp duty rates apply to residential property:

Aggregate Consideration	Duty Rate
First EUR 1,000,000	1%
Excess over EUR 1,000,000	2%

Non-Residential Property

Non-Residential Property is any property other than residential property, stocks or marketable securities or policies of insurance. The rate of stamp duty applicable to non-residential property was previously 2%. As per the Finance Act 2017, this has been increased to 6% for instruments executed on or after 11 October 2017, subject to certain transitional provisions. In addition, there is also anti-avoidance legislation providing that stamp duty up to 6% can also apply to transfers of company shares where the shares derive their value from Irish property.

In recognition of current housing supply challenges in Ireland, there is also a stamp duty refund scheme for land purchased for the development of housing, which, in certain circumstances, can lead to a refund of two thirds of the stamp duty paid, thereby ensuring the rate of stamp duty rate remains at 2%. This is a temporary measure as it ceases for projects commencing after 31 December 2021.

Stocks and Marketable Securities

A transfer of stock or marketable securities of any company incorporated in the State is liable to stamp duty at 1% of the consideration paid. Where the transfer takes place electronically through the CREST system a 1% charge also arises. Stock or marketable securities where the amount or value of the consideration is EUR 1,000 or less are exempt from stamp duty. There is no stamp duty where property is transferred between associated companies, subject to certain conditions.

OTHER TAXES

These include Customs and Excise Duties and local taxes such as rates (i.e. Property Tax).

Local Property Tax (LPT)

Local Property Tax is chargeable on all residential properties in the State effective from 1 July 2013. The 2019 LPT liability will be calculated by reference to the market value of the property on the 1 May 2013 and the 2019 LPT rate. The value at 1 May 2013 is valid until 31 December 2019.

Real Estate Investment Trusts (REITs)

REITs are listed companies which allow for individuals to invest in a diversified property portfolio. A REIT is an established internationally recognised model for property investment which is to be introduced in order to allow investors to access property investment in a risk diversified manner. Qualifying income and gains in a REIT will be exempt from corporation tax at the level of the REIT company. The REIT is required to distribute profits annually for taxation at investor level.

Section 110 Companies

There is a special regime in Ireland for companies set up to securitise certain assets. Provided certain conditions are met, such companies may conduct their activities on a tax neutral basis.

B. DETERMINATION OF TAXABLE INCOME

Taxable income is determined by ascertaining assessable income and then subtracting all allowable deductions. As a general rule, expenses incurred wholly and exclusively for the purpose of the business are deductible. However, specific rules apply in respect of certain categories.

DEPRECIATION

Book depreciation is disallowed. However, companies can claim capital allowances (i.e. tax depreciation) on expenditure relating to certain types of assets including plant and machinery, motor vehicles and qualifying industrial buildings.

Plant and Machinery

An allowance of 12.5% per annum can be claimed on a straight-line basis. The plant and machinery must be purchased (not leased) and any grants receivable are deducted from the expenditure before arriving at the amount eligible for the capital allowance.

Industrial Buildings Allowance

An annual allowance of 4% can be claimed on a straight-line basis. Industrial buildings generally refer to manufacturing facilities but also include hotels and certain other structures. The allowance is available in respect of the qualifying cost less any grants received.

Motor Vehicles

There is an allowance of 12.5% per annum on a straight-line basis in respect of motor vehicles. The maximum amount of qualifying expenditure in relation to a new motor car is EUR 24,000. There is no restriction for vans, trucks and other non-passenger vehicles. The capital allowances available on expenditure incurred on or after 1 July 2008 on private cars used for business purposes are based on the carbon emission level of the car.

Category	Car	Allowance granted on
A, B & C	Carbon dioxide emissions up to 155g/km	The specified amount that is EUR 24,000 no matter what the car cost.
D & E	Carbon dioxide emissions between 156g/km and 190g/km	<ol style="list-style-type: none"> Where the car cost is less than or equal to the specified amount that is EUR 24,000, 50% of that amount. Where the cost is more than the specified amount that is EUR 24,000, 50% of the specified amount.
F & G	Carbon dioxide emissions 191g/km or more	Nil, that is, no capital allowances are available.

STOCK / INVENTORY

Stock and work in progress are valued at the lower of cost or market value on a FIFO basis. LIFO is not available.

DIVIDENDS

Dividends between Irish resident companies are exempt from corporation tax. Dividends paid by a company located in the EU or in a country with which Ireland has a double tax treaty to an Irish company will be chargeable to corporation tax at 12.5% to the extent that the dividend is paid out of "trading profits". Withholding tax at the standard rate of income tax (20%) applies to dividends paid to individuals resident in Ireland and certain non-residents.

INTEREST DEDUCTIONS

Interest paid on borrowings for the purposes of a trade is deductible for tax purposes if certain conditions are met. Interest payments to certain foreign parent and associated companies may be treated as distributions and consequently not allowed as a deduction against Irish profits under particular circumstances.

A trading deduction for interest may also be disallowed on funds borrowed from a connected company where those funds are used to acquire assets from another connected company. Similar anti-avoidance measures exist for rental companies funding the acquisition of an asset from a group company by means of a connected party loan.

Ireland

LOSSES

Trading losses can be carried forward indefinitely, even on a change of ownership of a company, provided no major change takes place in the nature or conduct of the trade. Losses incurred in a trade can be offset against other trading income in the same accounting period or the preceding accounting period. Trading losses can be offset against non-trading income on a 'value basis' (i.e. taking account of the applicable corporation tax rate so that, for example, only half the amount of the losses subject to the 12.5% rate may be set off against income subject to the non-trading rate of 25%).

FOREIGN SOURCE INCOME

Foreign sourced income is normally liable to Irish corporation tax.

CFC Regime

Finance Act 2019 introduced Controlled Foreign Company ("CFC") legislation in accordance with the EU Anti-Tax Avoidance Directive ("ATAD"). CFC rules are an anti-abuse measure designed to prevent the diversion of profits to offshore entities in low/no tax jurisdictions. The rules operate by attributing certain undistributed income of a CFC to the controlling parent company for immediate taxation.

CFC charge is computed by reference to the undistributed income where there are non-genuine arrangements in Ireland and the essential purpose is the avoidance of tax. The objective behind the legislation is to align where tax is being paid with where significant people functions are located. The charge only applies to the extent of the proportionate shareholding held by the company in the CFC.

TAX INCENTIVES

The following are some of the tax incentives available to companies:

Knowledge Development Box

Finance Act 2015 introduced the Knowledge Development Box, a tax relief that will result in an effective corporation tax rate of 6.25% on certain profits arising from qualifying assets for accounting periods commencing on or after 1 January 2016. A qualifying asset means an asset that is a computer program, an invention protected by a qualifying patent or IP for small companies and which is the result of research and development activities. Qualifying profits on which relief can be claimed are calculated using a formula included in the legislation in order to determine the income and expenditure attributable to the qualifying asset.

Research and Development Tax Credit

Where qualifying expenditure is incurred, an R&D credit of 25% of expenditure is incurred may be available. R&D for the purposes of the credit includes basic research, applied research or experimental development. These activities must seek to achieve scientific or technological advancement and involve the resolution of scientific or technological uncertainty.

A company which carries on a trade in Ireland, undertakes R&D activities in Ireland or within the EEA and incurs the expenditure shall be entitled to the credit. The credit can be used when the company commences to trade and has a corporation tax liability.

If the company does not have a corporation tax liability then it is possible to receive a refund of the R&D tax credit, up to certain limits, over a 33-month timeframe.

Companies in receipt of the R&D credit will have the option to use a portion of the credit to reward key employees who have been involved in the development of R&D, subject to a number of conditions. The credit will be a tax-free payment in the hands of the employee (although they will be taxed as normal on their other income). In the event of an incorrect claim the tax foregone will be recovered from the company and not the employee.

Employment and Investment Incentive Scheme (EIS)

The EIS is available to a substantial number of SMEs across different industry sectors. It should be noted, however, that companies engaged in a number of specific activities continue to be excluded. These include land dealing companies, those engaged in financial services, film production and the operation or management of hotels, and nursing homes, to name a few. Closely held professional services companies are also excluded from the EIS.

The quantum of tax relief afforded will remain at the marginal income tax rate but only where certain employment targets (linked to increases in both employee numbers and emolument levels) or research and development targets have been achieved. The relief is therefore phased as an initial income tax relief at a rate of 30% with an additional 10% available only at the end of the 4-year holding period if the above-mentioned targets are met. The relief is available up to 2020.

The maximum level of funding that a company can raise through the EIS will be EUR 15 million and this is a lifetime limit. Similarly, the maximum amount which can be raised by a company in any one year has been increased to EUR 5 million. The maximum annual income tax relief for an individual remains at EUR 150,000. Changes have been introduced to ensure that the scheme is fully compliant with EU State Aid rules on risk capital.

Start-up Exemption

New companies incorporated after 14 October 2008 and commencing a new trade on 1 January 2009 and before 31 December 2018 will be exempt from corporation tax on income and chargeable gains for the first three years of trading. The relief applies for three years where the total amount of corporation tax payable does not exceed EUR 40,000 in each year. Marginal relief is available where the corporation tax payable exceeds EUR 40,000 but is less than EUR 60,000.

The relief is limited to the amount of employer's PRSI paid by a company in an accounting period subject to a maximum of EUR 5,000 per employee and an overall limit of EUR 40,000. This relief will not apply where an existing trade is acquired. It will also cease to apply where part of a newly established trade is passed to a connected party. Companies carrying on excepted trades and close service companies will not qualify for this exemption.

C. FOREIGN TAX RELIEF

Irish resident companies can obtain a credit for foreign tax suffered in territories with which Ireland has a double tax treaty. There are currently treaties in place with 74 countries, of which 73 are in effect. The treaties cover direct taxes, which in the case of Ireland are income tax, corporation tax and capital gains tax.

Unilateral relief is also available in respect of overseas tax suffered under certain circumstances. This provides for relief against double tax on certain types of income and gains received from a country that we do not have a double taxation agreement with.

D. CORPORATE GROUPS

Provided certain conditions are satisfied the transfer of assets between a company and its effective 75% subsidiaries will not be chargeable to capital gains tax. Companies resident in any jurisdiction with which Ireland has a DTA may form part of the capital gains tax group.

Transfers of assets between a company and its 90% subsidiaries or between companies owned by a third company may qualify for stamp duty relief (associated companies' relief). In order to satisfy the 90% shareholding test, one company must have in relation to the other 90% of the beneficial ownership of the shares, 90% beneficial entitlement to the profits and beneficial entitlement to 90% of the assets on wind up.

Where the conditions for corporate tax groups are satisfied, group members can transfer losses and also certain payments which would attract withholding tax.

E. RELATED PARTY TRANSACTIONS

Transfer Pricing regulations were introduced in Ireland and have effect from 2011. The transfer pricing legislation endorses the OECD Transfer Pricing Guidelines and the arm's length principle has been released which brings the Irish tax regime into line with OECD guidelines. Transfer pricing regulations only apply to trading transactions.

F. WITHHOLDING TAX

Payments of certain types of royalties and rents to non-residents are subject to withholding tax at 20%. Dividends, interest and royalties paid by Irish companies to residents of EU countries or countries with which Ireland has a double tax treaty are, subject to meeting certain conditions, exempted from withholding tax or liable at a reduced rate. Tax at 20% is deducted from payments made by Government and State Bodies in respect of most professional services.

G. EXCHANGE CONTROL

There are no exchange controls.

H. PERSONAL TAX

INCOME TAX

An individual is Irish tax resident for a year if either of the following two tests is satisfied:

- Present for more than 183 days in Ireland; or,
- Present for more than 280 days in total in that year and the preceding year. Presence in either year for fewer than 30 days is disregarded.

In the year of arrival, an election for residence can be made where there is an intention of continuing to reside in Ireland. At birth, a person acquires a domicile of origin and, subsequently, having acquired the age of majority, a person can acquire a domicile of choice if he/she settles in another country and makes it his/her permanent home. All individuals, resident and domiciled in Ireland must pay income tax on worldwide income and capital gains tax on worldwide gains, regardless of whether or not the income is remitted into the State. An individual loses ordinary residence status after having been non-resident for three consecutive tax years and regains it after being resident for three consecutive tax years.

The following is a summary of the basis of taxation for individuals in Ireland;

Resident	Ordinarily resident	Domiciled	Liable to Irish income tax on
Yes	Yes/No	Yes	Worldwide income

Single Person Child Carer Credit

This tax credit allows one individual, who is the child's principal carer to claim the new single person child carer credit.

Earned Income Tax Credit

The Earned Income Tax Credit of EUR 1,350 is available to individuals earning self-employed, trading or professional income. For company directors, the credit will apply to proprietary directors as their earnings are not taken into account for the purposes of the Employee PAYE Tax Credit. Where an individual has earned income, which qualifies for Employee PAYE Tax Credit and Earned Income Tax Credit, the combined value of both tax credits cannot exceed EUR 1,650.

Foreign Earnings Deduction

The Foreign Earnings Deduction was introduced to aid companies seeking to expand into emerging markets. The deduction will apply for individuals who spend 30 days a year or more carrying out their duties of their office or employment in developing markets for Ireland. The relief is available until 2020.

The relief applies by reducing the individual's employment income which is based on the number of qualifying days spent in the qualifying countries. The maximum deduction is EUR 35,000, i.e. the maximum income tax relief is EUR 35,000 x 40% = EUR 14,000.

The following countries qualify for the relief:

• Algeria	• Mexico
• Bahrain	• Nigeria
• Brazil	• Oman
• Chile	• Pakistan
• China	• Qatar
• Columbia	• Russia
• Democratic Republic of Congo	• Saudi Arabia
• Egypt	• Senegal
• Ghana	• Singapore
• India	• South Africa

Special Assignment Relief Programme (SARP)

The SARP programme was introduced with the aim of attracting key talent to Ireland to create more jobs and facilitate the development and expansion of business in Ireland. The relief is available to employees coming to work in Ireland from abroad on the instruction of their employer. The employee must be Irish tax resident in the year of assessment and not resident elsewhere in order to claim the relief.

The employee must perform all of their duties of employment in Ireland with a relevant employer and must also have relevant employment income of greater than EUR 75,000 per year. The relief is available until 2020. The following conditions must be met for relief to apply:

- Have worked with the employer for a minimum period of 6 months before being assigned;
- Not have been tax resident in Ireland for the 5 tax years immediately preceding the tax year in which he or she first arrives in Ireland for the purpose of performing those duties.

Ireland

A relevant employer means a company that is incorporated and tax resident in a country or jurisdiction with which Ireland has a double taxation treaty or a tax information exchange agreement. The relief works by reducing the employee's taxable income for the year of assessment by the specified amount.

The specified amount is calculated using the formula: $(A - B) \times 30\%$

A = is the amount of the relevant employee's income, profits or gains from his or her relevant employment in Ireland excluding any amount that is not assessed to tax in Ireland and after deducting any contribution or qualifying pension premium. Also excluded are expenses incurred in relation to the employment and amounts on which the employee is entitled to double tax relief for foreign tax.

B = Lower threshold - EUR 75,000.

UNIVERSAL SOCIAL CHARGE (USC)

The USC is a tax payable on gross income, including notional pay, after any relief for certain capital allowances, but before pension contributions. The following payments are generally exempt from USC:

- Individuals with income of less than EUR 13,000;
- Tax free element of a termination payment;
- Statutory redundancy;
- Social welfare payments;
- Deposit Interest already subject to DIRT.

The USC rates for 2018 and 2019 are as follows:

PROPERTY SURCHARGE

A property surcharge of 5% is imposed on investors with annual gross income over EUR 100,000. This will apply on the amount of income sheltered by property relief and area-based capital allowances in a given year. If the gross income figure exceeds EUR 100,000, the person is liable to the surcharge. If not, then the surcharge does not apply. Where the gross income exceeds EUR 100,000, the surcharge applies at the rate of 5%. The surcharge will not apply to income sheltered by tax reliefs that are not property reliefs such as film relief or the new Employment and Investment Incentive. The various donations reliefs will not be subject to the surcharge.

CAPITAL GAINS TAX

Retirement Relief

A relief known as retirement relief, provides relief from capital gains tax on the gift/sale of chargeable business assets (including leased farmland) subject to certain conditions. The current Retirement Relief provisions are that an individual aged between 55 and 66 years can gift/sell unlimited business assets to a child or to any other person subject to a limit of EUR 750,000. An individual aged 66 years and over can gift/sell business assets to a child subject to a limit of EUR 3,000,000 or to any other person subject to a limit of EUR 500,000.

Entrepreneur Relief

Entrepreneur relief provides for a reduced rate of capital gains tax on the disposal of chargeable business assets. Where the conditions of the relief are satisfied a reduced capital gains tax rate of 10% from 1 January 2017 will apply to a lifetime limit of EUR 1,000,000 of gains.

DOMICILE LEVY

The purpose of this levy is to ensure that individuals with substantial ties to Ireland would make a contribution to the Exchequer, irrespective of their residence status. The levy is EUR 200,000 and applies from the tax year 2010 to every 'relevant individual'. In order to be a 'relevant individual' for a tax year the following conditions must be met:

1. The worldwide income of the individual for the tax year is greater than EUR 1 million;
2. The individual is domiciled in Ireland in that tax year;
3. The individual's final Irish income tax liability is less than EUR 200,000; and,
4. The market value of the Irish property owned by the individual on 31 December in the tax year exceeds EUR 5 million.

Irish income tax paid by an individual will be allowed as a credit against the levy. The levy is payable on a self-assessment basis on or before 31 October in the year following the valuation date, i.e. 31 December each year. Anti-avoidance provisions are included in the legislation to prevent transfers of Irish situate property for less than market value to spouses, minor children, discretionary trusts and other entities.

PENSIONS

Pension Contributions

There is tax relief available on contributions made by individuals to pensions. This is limited annually to a percentage of an individual's salary depending on age and is also restricted by an overall salary cap. This salary cap currently stands at EUR 115,000. Employers' contributions to employees' PRSAs are treated as a benefit-in-kind for USC purposes.

There is no liability to PRSI on employer contributions into occupational schemes. Tax free pension lump sums are capped at EUR 200,000.

Maximum Allowable Pension Fund at Retirement

The Standard Fund Threshold in relation to an individual's pensions is EUR 2,000,000. Individuals who have pensions in excess of this can claim a Personal Fund Threshold up to a maximum of EUR 2,300,000.

Retirement Lump Sums

Tax free ex-gratia termination payments are available to individuals up to an amount calculated with reference to length of service and salary levels. The tax-free amount of these payments is capped at EUR 200,000.

Approved Retirement Funds

An annual imputed distribution applies to the value of assets in an Approved Retirement Fund (ARF) at 30 November each year. Where the assets of the fund are valued at EUR 2 million or less, the annual imputed distribution is 5% of the value of the assets in the fund at 30 November. ARFs with asset values in excess of EUR 2 million (or, where an individual owns more than one ARF, where the aggregate value of the assets in those ARFs exceeds EUR 2 million) the annual imputed distribution is 6% on the entire fund.

Personal Retirement Savings Accounts

"Vested" Personal Retirement Savings Accounts are Personal Retirement Savings Accounts (PRSAs) from which retirement benefits have commenced to be taken, usually in the form of the “tax-free” retirement lump sum. The annual imputed distribution provisions also apply to “vested” PRSAs, where the assets are retained in the PRSA rather than being transferred to an ARF.

CAPITAL ACQUISITIONS TAX

Where a person receives a gift/inheritance and the person making the gift/inheritance is Irish tax resident (or ordinarily resident), the person receiving the gift/inheritance is Irish tax resident or the property is situated in Ireland a charge to Irish CAT may arise. For Irish CAT purposes a non-domiciled individual is not treated as Irish tax resident unless he/she has been Irish tax resident for five consecutive years.

Depending on the relationship between the person making the gift/inheritance and the beneficiary, a certain level of benefits can pass to an individual before a charge to CAT will arise.

The level of benefits is known as a person’s “Group Threshold” and is not specific to gifts made from person to person, rather it is utilised where a person receives gifts from a certain class of persons. All gifts or inheritances from each class since 5 December 1991 need to be included in the review.

The following are the Group Thresholds:

Group	Relationship to Disposer	Group Threshold
A	Son/Daughter	EUR 320,000
B	Parent*/Brother/Sister/Niece/Nephew/Grandchild	EUR 32,500
C	Relationship other than Group A or B	EUR 16,250

*In certain circumstances a parent taking an inheritance from a child can qualify for Group A threshold.

An individual is obliged to submit an Irish CAT return where they have utilised 80% of the threshold. Where a person receives a gift/inheritance in the period from 1 January to 31 August, any capital acquisitions tax payment and return due must be paid on or before 31 October of the same year. Where a person receives a gift/inheritance in the period from 1 September to 31 December, any capital acquisitions tax payment and return must be made to Revenue on or before 31 October of the following year.

I. TREATY AND NON-TREATY WITHHOLDING TAX RATES

Provided that all conditions are met, domestic tax legislation is applicable if more favourable for the taxpayer. In a number of circumstances, tax treaties may provide for particular tax rates mainly dependent on the nature of the instruments and on the profile of the recipients/payers. In such cases, the applicable WHT rate must be verified from an analysis of the relevant tax treaty.

Population:	85,256 (2019 estimate)
Monetary unit:	British Pound (GBP)
Internet domain:	.im
Int. dialling code:	+44

KEY TAX POINTS

- Companies resident in the Isle of Man (IoM) are subject to corporate income tax (CIT) on their worldwide income.
- There is no capital gains tax in the IoM and furthermore, gains are not included in ordinary taxable income.
- The VAT rules in the IoM are nearly identical to those applying in the UK. The standard VAT rate is 20% (with the exception of hotel accommodation and certain building works which are taxed at 5%).
- Double tax relief is available for foreign tax paid.
- There are no specific transfer pricing rules.
- There are no specific thin capitalisation or CFC rules.
- Income tax is payable by IoM resident individuals on their worldwide income. A non-resident is generally taxed on their IoM sourced income.
- There are no death duties, estate duties or taxes on gifts although there are potentially significant probate charges.

A. TAXES PAYABLE

COMPANY TAX

IoM resident companies are taxed in the Isle of Man on worldwide income. Non-resident companies are required to pay tax on IoM-sourced income only. A company incorporated in the IoM is automatically resident in the IoM. A company that is incorporated outside of the IoM but that is 'managed and controlled' in the IoM will also be considered IoM resident.

There are three CIT rates in the IoM. A 10% rate applies to banking businesses and companies that derive in excess of GBP 500,000 income from retail activities. A 20% rate applies to companies which derive income from IoM situs land and property. A 0% corporate income tax rate applies to most other income. Company tax returns are due one year and one day after the end of the accounting period and any tax liability is due by the same date.

CAPITAL GAINS TAX

There is no tax on capital gains in the IoM and gains are not included in ordinary taxable income.

BRANCH PROFITS TAX

IoM companies with foreign branches remain taxable on their worldwide income although relief for foreign tax paid may be available. IoM branches of foreign companies will be subject to IoM income tax on profits attributable to the branch. The rates of tax above apply to all companies, including branches of foreign companies.

VALUE ADDED TAX (VAT)

Value Added Tax is imposed at a standard rate of 20% (with the exception of hotel accommodation and certain building works which are taxed at 5%). The VAT rules are nearly identical to those applying in the UK. Both the UK and IoM form a common area for the purposes of VAT and Customs Duties and the Isle of Man is in the UK for VAT purposes.

Registration threshold turnover of GBP 85,000 in an accounting year.

FRINGE BENEFITS TAX

Fringe benefits tax may be payable in certain circumstances.

FATCA

The IoM signed an agreement with the United States in December 2013 to implement the Foreign Account Tax Compliance Act (FATCA). Information started to be exchanged in 2015. The IoM signed an agreement with the United Kingdom in October 2013 which implements similar reporting requirements as required by the FATCA regulations. Information under this agreement will begin to be exchanged later in 2016. The IoM signed an agreement in October 2014 in Berlin committing to implementing the Common Reporting Standard (“CRS”).

LOCAL TAXES

Local rates are imposed on properties. Local authorities determine the rate.

OTHER TAXES

The IoM government also imposes customs and excise duties. For these purposes, the IoM is regarded as being part of the Customs Union. The UK and the IoM form a common area for customs duties purposes.

National Insurance contributions (“NIC”) are payable by employers in the IoM. NIC rates are similar to those that apply in the UK.

FOUNDATIONS

Foundation legislation has been introduced to create a new separate legal entity which has the power to manage its own assets, arrange its own funding and can operate and be taxed in a fashion similar to a local company, incurring 0% IoM tax on all sources other than profits derived from IoM situs real estate.

B. DETERMINATION OF TAXABLE INCOME

The taxable income of a company is calculated by aggregating its taxable income and subtracting allowable expenses. Generally, to be deductible for tax purposes, expenses must be wholly and exclusively incurred for the purpose of a company’s trade. Some expenses are specifically not deductible for tax purposes, e.g. depreciation.

CAPITAL ALLOWANCES

Tax relief is given for the cost of plant and machinery acquired for the purposes of a business in the form of capital allowances. Capital allowances are also available for certain industrial and agricultural buildings and tourist premises. A 100% allowance is available in the first year in which the expenditure is incurred (restricted for some motor vehicles).

CAPITAL GAINS AND LOSSES

There is no capital gains tax in the IoM.

DIVIDENDS

Dividends received by IoM resident companies are generally taxable at the 0% rate. Dividends received by IoM resident individuals are generally taxable as part of normal income.

INTEREST DEDUCTIONS

Interest paid by IoM resident companies to IoM lenders is tax deductible. Interest paid to non-IoM lenders is tax deductible if incurred wholly and exclusively for the purposes of the company’s trade. There are no thin capitalisation rules in the IoM. The IoM has anti-avoidance provisions which may be in point where interest is incurred purely to mitigate IoM tax.

LOSSES

Trading losses can be carried forward indefinitely provided a continuity of business test is satisfied. There are also provisions for loss relief within groups of companies (see below). Losses can be set off against total income in the year of loss or in the previous year.

FOREIGN SOURCE INCOME

The IoM does not have CFC legislation. The IoM does however have general anti-avoidance legislation which may be enacted, generally, if it is deemed that the main purpose of contrived arrangements is to avoid IoM taxation.

C. FOREIGN TAX RELIEF

Double tax relief is available for foreign tax paid. A company may offset any foreign tax paid against IoM tax payable to avoid double taxation. Where the income is received from the UK, relief may be available under the UK-IoM Double Tax agreement. There are double taxation agreements, of varying complexity and scope, with the following countries:

Australia	Bahrain	Belgium
Denmark	Estonia	Faroe Islands
Finland	Greenland	Guernsey
Iceland	Ireland	Jersey
Luxembourg	Malta	New Zealand
Norway	Poland	Qatar
Seychelles	Singapore	Slovenia
Sweden	UK

The IoM also has Tax Information Exchange Agreements (TIEAs) currently in force with the following countries:

Argentina	Australia	Botswana
British Virgin Islands	Canada	Cayman Islands
China	Czech Republic	Denmark
Faroe Islands	Finland	France
Germany	Greenland	Iceland
India	Ireland	Italy
Japan	Lesotho	Mexico
Netherlands	New Zealand	Norway
Poland	Portugal	Romania
Slovenia	Sweden	Switzerland
Turkey	Turks and Caicos	United Kingdom
United States of America

D. CORPORATE GROUPS

Trading losses in one IoM resident company may be surrendered to another IoM company within the same group. Two companies are members of a group if one is at least a 75% subsidiary of the other or both are at least 75% subsidiaries of a third company. Consolidated tax returns cannot be submitted.

E. RELATED PARTY TRANSACTIONS

The IoM does not have any specific transfer pricing rules. However, as noted above, where expenditure has not been incurred wholly and exclusively for the purposes of a company's trade, a tax deduction may not be available.

F. WITHHOLDING TAX

A company may, in certain circumstances, be required to withhold tax from payments it makes to non-resident companies or individuals. An IoM company is generally not required to withhold tax on amounts paid to non-resident companies or individuals. The exceptions to this are where the income payable to a non-resident company or individual represents rent from IoM property, in which case 20% withholding tax is deducted, or if the income relates to certain types of IoM sourced income payable to a non-resident individual, in which case 20% withholding tax is deducted.

G. EXCHANGE CONTROL

There are no exchange control rules in the IOM.

H. PERSONAL TAX

IoM resident individuals are subject to income tax on their worldwide income. Non-resident individuals are taxed on their IoM-sourced income, excluding income from approved financial institutions and most sources of income from IoM companies. Generally speaking, an individual is regarded as a resident in the IoM if he spends an aggregate of six months in any tax year in the IoM. In addition, an individual who visits the IoM over four or more consecutive years for an average of three months in each year will also be considered an IoM resident.

Income tax is assessable on income less any allowable deductions. The rules for allowable deductions in respect to individuals engaged in a trade are similar to those for companies. An individual may claim tax deductions, at various tax rates depending on individual circumstances, for certain expenditure subject to relevant caps and tax rate restrictions. Examples include contributions to approved pension schemes, interest paid to an IoM lender, nursing expenses and private medical insurance payments (made by taxpayers aged over 60).

Income tax and NIC are normally deducted at source by an individual's employer under the Income Tax Instalment Payments (ITIP). All individuals are required to complete an income tax return. The tax year for income tax purposes runs from 6 April – 5 April. Any outstanding income tax liability must be settled by 6 January following the end of the tax year. A payment on account may also need to be settled on this date in respect to the following years anticipated tax liability. This might be the case if the majority of an individual's tax liability is not collected under the ITIP system for example if an individual was self-employed.

Spouses are taxed as separate individuals, unless the couple elect to be assessed jointly. If a joint assessment is made then a couple will be assessed on their combined taxable income. Where, immediately prior to 6 April 2006, a couple were jointly assessed, they will be deemed to have made the election to continue to be jointly assessed.

The tax rates are as follows:

Taxable income (GBP)	Rate (%)
0 – 6,500 (GBP 13,000 for jointly assessed couples)	10% (standard rate)
Above 6,500 (GBP 13,000 for jointly assessed couples)	20% (higher rate)

IoM resident individuals are entitled to a personal allowance. The current personal allowance amount is:

- Single person: GBP 14,000
- Married couple, jointly elected: GBP 28,000

An IoM resident individual is able to make a five year irrevocable election in order to take advantage of the IoM 'tax cap'. If an election is made then an individual's income tax liability will be capped at GBP 175,000. This cap is doubled if a couple is jointly assessed. There is no tax in the IoM on gifts and no inheritance tax liability for the estates of IoM resident individuals.

BENEFITS

Exempt benefits include:

- General benefits which do not exceed GBP 400;
- Approved Profit Sharing or Savings Related Share Options Schemes;
- Car parking space at or near place of work;
- Medical/dental insurance;
- Christmas party expenses up to GBP 100 per head;
- Provision of a personal computer for use at home up to benefit value of GBP 1,000;
- Nursery or crèche facility expenses necessary for employees to attend work.

TAXATION OF NON-RESIDENT INDIVIDUALS

Non-residents are subject to IoM income tax on IoM sourced income. Non-residents are not entitled to a personal allowance.

Isle of Man Substance Requirements

The Income Tax (Substance Requirements) Order 2018 will amend the Income Tax Act 1970 to impose requirements on Isle of Man companies receiving income from certain so called "geographically mobile business sectors" to demonstrate that they have 'substance' in the Isle of Man.

Three tests which all must be met would trigger the substance requirements. These requirements will be:

- Is the Company IOM Tax Resident?
- Does it receive income?
- Is it from a relevant sector?
 - i. Banking;
 - ii. Insurance;
 - iii. Fund management – not fund vehicles themselves – so this is also quite a narrow category;
 - iv. Shipping – This means commercial shipping business – and it excludes super yachts, fishing boats and anything smaller than 24m;
 - v. Headquarters – where strategy/coordination type services are provided to other group entities;
 - vi. Distribution and Services Centres – where goods are purchased from a group company and re-sold for a percentage of profit or where services are provided to group companies;
 - vii. Financing and leasing;
 - viii. Holding companies (not investment companies, i.e. must hold more than 50% interest);
 - ix. IP Companies.

If the substance requirements are met then the Company must:

- a) be directed and managed in the Island;
- b) have an adequate number of qualified employees in the Island (whether or not employed by it or another person and whether on temporary or long-term contracts);

- c) have adequate expenditure proportionate to the level of activity carried on in the Island;
- d) have an adequate physical presence in the Island; and
- e) conduct core income-generating activity in the Island.

Grant Schemes / Relocation

The Island government is trying to actively attract new business to the Island and numerous grant schemes are available for setting up the business in the Island and relocating staff.

Work permit requirements are also relaxed for certain key staff members and workers from certain sectors when relocating a business to the Island.

National Insurance Holiday Scheme:

From 6 April 2019 certain new residents and returning students will be able to apply for a refund of the Class 1 NIC's paid as employees during the first 12 months of their employment in the Island.

A. TAXES PAYABLE

COMPANY TAX - ORDINARY INCOME

Israeli resident companies are liable to Israeli taxes on their worldwide income and capital gains. A non-resident company is only liable to Israeli tax on income sourced in Israel. A company resident in Israel is one that is incorporated in Israel or managed and controlled in Israel. The corporate tax rate in Israel is 23%.

The financial year runs from 1 January to 31 December. A company must normally submit tax returns within six months of the end of its accounting period. This period may be extended for up to 14 months. Companies must make monthly advance tax payments of company tax, based on the previous year's tax liability. In addition, monthly payments must be made within 15 days of the month's end at the rate of 45% in respect of certain expenses, which are not allowable for tax purposes, such as excessive travel and entertaining costs. Where the company has taxable income, such payments are treated as advanced payments.

Israel

CAPITAL GAINS TAX

Capital gains are divided into two elements. That part of the gain which is inflationary by nature is taxable at the rate of 10% in respect of the inflationary gain which was earned up to 31 December 1993 and at a 0% rate thereafter. The real gain is taxable at the corporate tax rate. Non-resident companies are liable to Israeli tax on capital gains derived in Israel. Foreign residents have the option of having the real gain calculated by reference to changes in the exchange rate of the foreign currency as related to the Israeli currency.

BRANCH PROFIT TAX

There is no branch profit tax in Israel, i.e. profits of an Israeli branch of a foreign company can be distributed to the foreign country (after paying Israeli tax on the profit itself) free of withholding tax on the distribution.

VALUE ADDED TAX (VAT)

VAT is charged at a rate of 17% on the supply of goods and services by Israeli business entities. The export of goods and certain services from Israel is zero-rated.

FRINGE BENEFITS TAX (FBT)

There is no separate fringe benefits tax in Israel. Fringe benefits are included in the employee's gross income and are taxed as salary.

LOCAL AND OTHER TAXES:

PURCHASE TAX

Purchase tax is payable on the purchase of real estate at 6%. A purchase tax ranging from 0% to 10% is payable if the building is a residential apartment.

NATIONAL INSURANCE (SOCIAL SECURITY)

Employers are required to pay a National Insurance premium as well as payments in respect of health insurance. These payments amount to 19.60% of salaries. Of this amount, 12% is recoverable from employees. The monthly ceiling up to which salary payments are levied on is five times the average salary (ILS 43,890) effective from 1 January 2019 and relates to both employees and the self-employed. Dividend income is exempt from the social security payment.

MUNICIPAL RATES

Municipal Rates are levied by local authorities. The government decides the maximum rate of increase. The local councils set their own rates accordingly based on square meters of occupied real estate.

LAND BETTERMENT TAX

Tax on land betterment accrued until 7 November 2001 is set at the marginal rates of up to 46% for individuals and up to 25% for companies. Tax on land betterment accrued after 7 November 2001 till 31 December 2011 is set at the rates of 20% for individuals and 25% for companies.

Tax on land betterment accrued after 1 January 2015 is set at the rates of 25% for individuals and 25% for companies. Tax on land betterment accrued after 1 January 2017 is set at the rates of 25% for individuals and 24% for companies. Tax on land betterment accrued after 1 January 2018 is set at the rates of 25% for individuals and 23% for companies. Those rates are calculated in proportion to the period from the date of acquisition of the asset to the date of disposal.

The sale of residential real estate by individuals is exempt from this tax if certain conditions are met.

ESTATE TAX

At present there is no estate tax in Israel.

B. DETERMINATION OF TAXABLE INCOME

Taxable income is generally based on income reported in the financial statements subject to adjustments as indicated in the tax law. Special regulations apply in respect of the matters referred to below.

DEPRECIATION

Deduction for the depreciation of assets that are used by a company are inflation-adjusted and calculated normally on the straight-line basis at the following annual rates:

Nature of Asset	Rate (%)
Plant and machinery of an industrial company	20 – 40
Other plant and machinery	7 – 10
Electronic equipment	15
Furniture and office equipment	6 – 7
Furniture and office equipment (restaurants and hotels)	9 – 12
Computers and software	25 – 33
Trucks and commercial vehicles	20
Cars	15
Patents and know how	12.5
Research and development expenditure	33 – 100

Accelerated depreciation up to 200% can be claimed on equipment used in production activities, if certain conditions are met.

INVENTORY

Inventory is valued using the FIFO or weighted average methods (LIFO is not a permissible alternative).

DIVIDENDS

Dividends received by an Israeli company from another Israeli company are exempt from company tax, except where the income (out of which the dividend is paid) is from a foreign source. Dividends received from an approved enterprise (see 'Incentives' below) are subject to 15% company tax. Dividends received from non-resident companies are fully liable to company tax at the rate of 25%. Dividends paid to a non-resident shareholder are subject to withholding tax of 25% unless a lower rate is provided for within the framework of a double tax treaty.

Dividends paid after 1 January 2012 to Israeli or foreign individuals and foreign companies are subject to withholding tax of 25% (until 31 December 2011 - 20%). However, dividends paid after 1 January 2012 to major shareholders (holdings of 10% and above) are subject to withholding tax of 30% (until 31 December 2011 - 25%). Dividends paid after 1 January 2017 till September 30 2017 to major shareholders are subject to withholding tax of 25% if certain conditions are met. These rates may be reduced according to the terms of the relevant tax treaty. With effect from 1 January 2003, taxes paid on foreign income, including both company tax and dividend withholding tax can be set off against taxes payable in Israel in specific cases.

INTEREST DEDUCTIONS

Interest is normally deductible on an accrual basis. However, interest payable to a non-resident is effectively deductible only when payment is effected since a deduction may only be taken if tax has been withheld at source from the interest payment within three months of the end of the company's accounting period. There is no curtailment of deductible interest by reference to debt/equity ratios.

LOSSES

Trading losses may be set off against all categories of income and capital gains in the same accounting period. Unutilised losses may be carried forward indefinitely against future income and capital gains which result from the business from any trade or business carried on by the company but not against income or gains from any other source. Generally, carry forward of losses may be denied where there has been a change in the control of the company and one of the purposes of the change is tax avoidance. Losses may not be carried back. Losses incurred abroad are allowed as a deduction from Israeli income (conditions apply).

FOREIGN SOURCED INCOME – CFC TAX

For entities controlled by Israeli residents, CFC tax is payable in Israel at the rate of 25% if the following conditions apply:

- 1) The source of income of the foreign corporation is passive (interest, dividends, royalties, rentals, etc.);
- 2) The foreign corporation has paid tax in a 'low tax territory' (less than 20%);
- 3) Israeli residents control more than 50% (in certain circumstances more than 40%) of the shares in the foreign corporation or have the right to influence certain management decisions.

PARTICIPATION EXEMPTION

In Israel, in most cases, there is no participation exemption. However, an Israeli holding company, subject to specific conditions, is exempt from tax on dividends received from foreign subsidiaries; from capital gains tax on the sale of such subsidiaries; and from interest on deposits made in Israel by the subsidiaries. Foreign shareholders benefit from a reduced withholding tax of 5% on dividends distributed by the holding company. An Israeli shareholder will pay between 25% to 30% withholding tax on dividends distributed.

OTHER INCENTIVES

There are various other incentives available such as employment incentives; international trading company incentives; the construction of dwellings for rental; research and development (R&D) where bi-national funds have been established to promote joint ventures; tourism industry schemes; and incentive training programs with the granting of loans for the encouragement of small businesses.

The Law for the Encouragement of Capital Investment established a management body to grant benefits for tourist attractions and the creation of a tourist investment board. There are also benefits in the field of renewable energy. The Israeli government has signed research and development co-operation agreements with the United States, Canada, the European Union and some countries in Asia. A government Seed Fund has been established to encourage investment in start-up companies by matching the capital of investors. Special 'Free Trade Zones' have been established with major tax benefits including exemption from VAT, lower tax rates and exemption from property tax.

INCENTIVES

In order to encourage both local and foreign investment, Israel grants a number of significant tax incentives which have the effect of eliminating or substantially reducing the tax rate for companies. These incentives are known as incentives for "approved enterprises". These incentives are included in the Encouragement of Capital Investments Law. In 2011 new amendments were published regarding the Encouragement of Capital Investments Law. The amended law is effective as of 1 January 2011.

- 1) According to the amended law the incentives will be given by two geographical zones:
 - (i) Zone A (as defined in the "zone map" which is in force until the end of 2012, generally defined as periphery regions that are distant from the centre of Israel. The "zone map" for 2013 and onwards is yet to be determined);
 - (ii) The rest of the country;
- 2) An "Industrial Enterprise" that meets the requirements of section 18A of the Law is entitled to a reduced corporate income tax rate, in respect of income generated from 2011 onwards, although a minimum of 25% of the company's total turnover must be generated from exports;
- 3) The tax benefits are not time limited, meaning that any industrial company which exports 25% of its total turnover is eligible for the reduced tax rates for as long as it meets the above criteria. However there are no benefits guaranteed for the years to come and it could be altered by new legislation;
- 4) The tax benefits are applicable in relation to the enterprise's total turnover. The reduced corporate income tax rates are 9% for companies in Zone A and 16% for the rest of Israel;
- 5) An Industrial Enterprise, only if located in zone A, is entitled to a grant when filing a comprehensive investment plan, which fulfils the legislative intent. A qualified investment may include investments in human capital and other investments which meet the legislative intent of the amended law;

- 6) The grant is expected to be set at 20% of the company's investment, with an option for an additional 4% of administrative grant. A company defined by the Israeli Investment Centre (IIC) as a "Big Company" will be entitled to a grant no larger than ILS 20 million (20% of an ILS 100 million investment plan), while others will be entitled to a grant no larger than ILS 6 million (20% of an ILS 30 million investment plan);
- 7) A company is able to enjoy both the grants track and the tax benefits track, under the condition of being located in zone A;
- 8) Dividends distributed to Israeli and non-Israeli residents (companies and individuals) would be subject to a 15% withholding tax or to a reduced tax rate according to the relevant tax treaty's provisions;
- 9) There are transitional provisions for companies with plans under the previous law provisions.

RESEARCH AND DEVELOPMENT (R&D) INCENTIVES

The Office of the Chief Scientist at the ministry of industry, trade and labour is responsible for implementing the government's policy of encouraging and supporting industrial research and development in Israel. This office provides a variety of support programs which have helped to make Israel a major centre of hi-tech entrepreneurship. The R&D Fund offers grants of between 20% and 50% for approved projects. If the project is commercially successful, the company is under an obligation to repay the grant through royalty payments. Grants of up to 90% of the costs are available for biotechnology research and up to 85% for technological incubators.

C. FOREIGN TAX RELIEF

Foreign tax credits are given to Israeli-resident companies in respect of foreign taxes borne on overseas-sourced income and capital gains. There is no system of 'global' foreign tax credits. Each foreign source is treated as separate for the purpose of the consideration of credits. With effect from 1 January 2003, an Israeli company is allowed to deduct the tax paid on foreign company profits and also the withholding tax paid on dividends from taxes payable, provided it holds directly at least 25% (or at least 50% indirectly) of the shares in the foreign company.

D. CORPORATE GROUPS

In general, there is no consolidation of profits and losses of a group of Israeli companies for tax purposes. However, consolidated tax returns may be filed for a group of industrial companies meeting certain criteria.

E. RELATED PARTY

The tax assessing officer has powers to impose at arm's length prices on arrangements between related parties. Market value can be determined by a prior ruling from the tax authorities. In November 2006, new legislation was introduced relating to 'transfer pricing' for multi-national groups with effect from the 2007 tax year.

F. WITHHOLDING TAX

Withholding taxes are deducted from payments of interest, dividends and royalties made to non-residents, subject to double tax treaty arrangements. See section 'I' below for treaty and non-treaty rates.

G. EXCHANGE CONTROL

There are no exchange controls in Israel and foreign currency can be freely transferred in and out of the country.

H. PERSONAL TAX

Income tax is payable by Israeli-resident individuals on income derived from all sources, including passive income and all income derived or paid from overseas sources. Non-resident individuals are only liable to income tax on Israeli-sourced income. Factors determining residence include the situation of family, business and social activities. For information regarding the tax rates see below.

Rental income is taxed in the hands of an individual at rates of 10% or 15%, with no allowance for the deduction of expenses, depending on whether the property is situated in or out of Israel (This does not include commercial rentals). Individuals can choose to pay normal taxes on rental income and then can claim deductions (financial expenses, maintenance and other expenses relating to the property) against the rental income. The tax rate on the net income will be the marginal rate of the individual.

Rental income of residential apartments in the hands of an individual is exempt up to ILS 5,090 per month. Interest income is taxed in the hands of an individual at rates between 15% to individual marginal rate depending on circumstances. Exemptions are provided for low income earners. Capital gains are taxed in the hands of an individual at rates of 25%.

Israel

TAX RELIEF FOR NEW AND RETURNING RESIDENTS

A major tax reform for new and returning residents has been retroactively in force from January 2007.

There has been a change in the definition of "foreign resident". Individuals who leave Israel will only lose their Israeli residency status if they are outside of Israel for at least 183 days each year during two consecutive tax years and their primary residence is outside of Israel for a further two years. A senior returning resident is defined as an individual who returns to Israel to reside after being a foreign resident for at least five consecutive years if they return to Israel in the tax years 2007 through 2009, or at least 10 consecutive years if they return to Israel after 2009.

SUMMARY OF BENEFITS

Details	Benefit for new resident and senior returning resident
Passive income-exemption from foreign assets purchased before becoming Israeli resident	10 years exemption
Exemptions from foreign business income and foreign salary	10 years exemption
Foreign companies that are managed and controlled from Israel, CFC, or foreign professional company	Those companies will be considered as foreign for 10 years
Foreign allowances and pensions	10 years exemption
Capital gain exemption	10 years
Tax return	No need to submit a tax return on the exempt income

OTHER

No tax is payable on income arising outside of Israel and received by non-residents who are in the country temporarily, who do not intend to establish a place of residence and who have not resided in Israel for periods totalling six months in the tax year. 'Approved specialists' are foreign experts whose status is granted by the Investment Centre where no Israeli resident could perform the job or possess the necessary skills to do so. Approved specialists are liable to a maximum tax rate of 25% on their income for a period of three tax years, with a possible extension for a further five years. The rates of tax on monthly taxable income of individuals as of January 2019 are:

Monthly Income (ILS)	Rate (%)
0 - 6,310	10
6,311 - 9,050	14
9,051 - 14,530	20
14,531 - 20,200	31
20,201 - 42,030	35
42,031 - 54,129	47
Over 54,130	50

The above rates relate to income from employment, trading or profession.

Notes:

1. Many treaties provide for an exemption of certain types of interest, e.g. interest paid to public bodies and institutions. Such exemptions are not considered in this column.
2. The lower rate applies depending on the type of royalties. Normally, royalties other than film royalties are subject to the lower rate.
3. The lower rate applies to interest payable to a bank or a financial institution.
4. The higher rate applies to royalties from trademarks.
5. The domestic withholding tax rate applies.
6. The lower rate applies to royalties for industrial or scientific equipment.
7. Film and natural resource royalties are not exempt; however, no specific rate is provided under the treaty.
8. The lower rate applies to copyright and film royalties.
9. The lower rate applies to copyright royalties (excluding film royalties).
10. The rate applies if (i) the Estonian company owns directly at least 10% of the capital in the Israeli company, or (ii) dividends are paid to the government of the other state, a local authority or the central bank, or to a pension fund or other similar institution providing pension schemes in which individuals may participate, subject to further conditions.

Please note that a substantial tax reform was approved by the Israeli parliament in December 2011 and part of the final legislation was not completed. The information above reflects the expected changes in the final version of the legislation.

KEY TAX POINTS

- All resident companies are subject to corporate income tax (IRES) on income from any source, whether earned in Italy or abroad. Non-resident companies are subject to IRES only on income earned in Italy. Both resident and non-resident companies are subject to regional income tax (IRAP) on income arising in Italy.
- Capital gains realised by a company are generally taxable as normal business income subject to IRES and IRAP, albeit certain reliefs may apply as per next paragraph description.
- Italian tax law includes a comprehensive set of rules on controlled foreign companies (CFC).
- VAT is levied on transfers of goods and services by enterprises, in the course of their business or professions within Italy, and on all imports into Italy.
- Foreign taxes may generally be credited against the Italian IRES tax liability, provided an equivalent clause exists in the territory from which the income derives.
- Transactions with foreign affiliated companies are closely scrutinised in order to determine whether transfer prices are at arm's length.
- Domestic companies making certain types of payments (e.g. interests, royalties, professional fees etc.) are required to withhold taxes at various rates.
- Resident individuals are subject to a personal income tax (IRPEF) on their worldwide income. Individuals carrying on a business or profession and/or partnerships are liable to IRAP which is not deductible from IRPEF. Non-residents individuals are subject to tax only on their Italian source income.
- There is no wealth tax in Italy. Gift and inheritance tax applies at rates dependent on the relationship that the person receiving the gift or inheritance has with the donor/testator.

A. TAXES PAYABLE

NEW KINDS OF INCORPORATIONS PROVIDED BY LAW LIMITED LIABILITY COMPANIES

The so-called "limited liability companies with reduced equity", introduced in 2012, have been abolished. Those previously incorporated were automatically converted into "simplified limited liability companies". The maximum age limit of 35, previously established for shareholders of a simplified limited liability company, was eliminated: therefore, individuals of any age may now have a participation in the share capital of an SLLC. Furthermore:

- The directors do not necessarily have to be shareholders;
- The share capital must be between EUR 1 and EUR 9,999 and can only consist of cash which has to be paid in full to the Directors at the Incorporation Deed.

The Articles of Association must be drafted in accordance with a template approved by the Ministry of Justice, whose clauses cannot be amended.

As far as "ordinary" limited liability companies are concerned, 25% of the share capital contribution must be paid in cash to the directors, instead of to the bank as previously foreseen. The share capital can be less than EUR 10,000 but at least EUR 1. Furthermore, a sum equal to one fifth of the net profits resulting from the financial statements for each financial year must be assigned to the legal reserve until the company's equity reaches EUR 10,000. The reserve can only be used to increase the share capital or to cover any losses and it must be reinstated if, for any reason, it has been reduced. The Articles of Association do not need to be drafted according to the abovementioned template that is only required for simplified limited liability companies.

INNOVATIVE START-UP COMPANIES

Some (but not all) requirements to be met by new and existing (by no longer than 5 years, as recently modified by Law Decree 24/2015) companies to be considered "innovative start-up companies" are the following:

- Their shares must have been owned by individuals for at least 24 months;
- The registered office is in Italy;
- The purpose of the Company is the development, production and sale of goods and/or services with high level technology.

The benefits of being such a company include:

- Exemption from the payment of both stamp and annual duties to the Companies House;
- Particular tax concessions concerning employment contracts and in terms of corporate laws.

FEDERAL TAXES AND LEVIES:

COMPANY TAX

As a rule, corporate income tax is payable by all resident companies on income from any source, whether earned in Italy or abroad. Non-resident companies are subject to corporate income tax (IRES) only on income earned in Italy. Starting from 1 January 2017, IRES is charged at 24% (reduced from the former 27.5%) and 27.5% for banks and financial institutions. Companies are also subject to a regional tax on productive activities (IRAP) at the rate of 3.9% but interest expenses are not deductible for IRAP purposes. The rate of IRAP is fixed at 3.9% for ordinary companies, 4.65% for banks and 5.9% for insurance companies.

Company tax returns, which cover both IRES and IRAP, must be filed electronically within nine months of the statutory year end. An advance tax payment is due by the 30th day of the sixth month of the accounting period equal to 40% of the previous year's income tax liability. A second advance payment of 60% is due by the end of the eleventh month of the company's financial year.

Any remaining amount would be due by the 30th day of the sixth month after the end of the period. For income tax purposes the company can choose either a calendar or a fiscal year. For VAT and withholding tax purposes, the calendar year always applies.

BRANCH PROFIT TAX

Italian branch profits of foreign companies are fully liable to IRES and IRAP. Starting from 2016, Italian companies having a branch in a foreign country may opt for a branch exemption regime instead of the general "tax credit" regime. The branch exemption regime allows to tax the branch's profit only in the foreign country where the PE is established and according to its tax rules. The option is irrevocable and must be applied to all the branches of the Italian company.

There is no branch remittance tax in Italy.

FISCALLY TRANSPARENT COMPANIES

Italian limited liability and joint stock companies may opt for this regime and be treated as fiscally transparent companies. In order to qualify for this treatment, joint stock companies must hold between 10% and 50% of the voting rights in another Italian company for a continuous 12-month period, whereas Italian limited liability companies must have a total gross income not exceeding EUR 7.5 million and be owned by a maximum of 10 private shareholders. Non-resident companies (regardless of their legal form) may also opt for such a regime only if entitled to apply the EU Parent-Subsidiary Directive to the dividends paid by the Italian controlled company.

Under the above regime, the 'transparent' company is not taxed on its own income for corporate income tax purposes. Income produced by its subsidiaries is directly allocated to the parent company according to its percentage of ownership, whether or not these profits have been remitted to it by way of dividend. The election is irrevocable for three years and must be communicated to the Tax Authorities.

CONTROLLED FOREIGN COMPANIES

Italian tax law includes a comprehensive set of rules on controlled foreign companies (CFC). These rules are aimed at avoiding hiving off income from foreign subsidiaries located in certain low tax jurisdictions. On 28 December 2018 the Legislative Decree implementing ATAD directives established that a controlled company is a CFC if:

- i. Its effective tax rate is lower than 50% of the tax rate that would apply if it were resident in Italy; and
- ii. More than 1/3 of its income is passive income (i.e. interest, royalties, dividends).

The profits earned by a CFC located in a tax haven country have to be imputed to the Italian resident parent company/individual regardless of any dividend distribution.

Even if the non-resident entity meets the CFC test, the CFC regime does not apply if the CFC carries on a substantive economic activity supported by staff, equipment, assets and premises.

CAPITAL GAINS

Capital gains realised by the company are generally taxable as ordinary business income subject to IRES and IRAP and capital losses are generally deductible. Tax on gains realised on disposal of fixed assets may be spread over five years if owned for more than three years. Capital gains on assets owned for less than three years are taxed in the year in which they are realised. Capital gains arising from stock transfers are 95% exempt, under specific conditions, where they relate to financial assets owned for an uninterrupted period of at least 12 months (participation exemption rule).

FRINGE BENEFITS

Fringe benefits are included in the taxpayer's total aggregated income.

MINIMUM TAXABLE INCOME

Until FY 2017, companies with an annual turnover lower than EUR 7.5 million were subject to an automatic evaluation in accordance with the so-called Sector Studies ('Studi di Settore'). This was to determine whether the company's income was higher than that stated in the tax return but it was not sufficient for assessing a higher taxable base. Any amended assessment must be based on concrete evidence. For income related to 2011 onwards, any taxpayer (individual, partnership or company) not consistent and not congruent with Sector Studies, is liable to a new and more stringent tax investigation procedure, carried out by the tax authorities. Starting from FY 2017, Sector Studies have been abolished and replaced by certain Compliance Indicators in order to determine a sort of reliability degree of the taxpayer.

NON-OPERATING OR DORMANT COMPANIES

Such companies are subject to a minimum tax charge as far as IRES and IRAP are concerned. The company must declare an income for the tax period which cannot be lower than the amounts calculated by multiplying percentages to certain balance sheet items (estimated figure). If this amount is higher than the taxable income declared then the company is taxed on this higher amount. Furthermore, a VAT receivable is not refunded if these non-operating circumstances persist for five years as recently modified by law 23/2014. A company is considered dormant also if:

- (a) It has made a loss for five consecutive fiscal periods; or
- (b) It has made a loss for four fiscal periods and, in the next, has a taxable income lower than that estimated.

Moreover, any company considered dormant is subject to an additional 10.5% tax (which gives an overall corporate taxation of 34.5%).

VALUE ADDED TAX (VAT)

VAT is levied on transfers of goods and services by enterprises or professionals in the course of their business within Italy and on all imports. Items exported or destined for export are not subject to VAT. Since October 2013, the standard VAT rate increased to 22%. Other rates applied, as at today, are 4%, 5% and 10%. A specific VAT regime applies to real estate transactions. The standard rate might increase again, depending on whether or not the Government will be adopting certain specific laws concerning the Public Budget.

As an alternative to the appointment of a VAT representative (which remains the only procedure allowed by extra-EU companies), non-resident EU companies can apply for a "Direct VAT Identification". This enables the non-resident to settle any VAT payment directly in Italy or claim back any VAT credit. The direct VAT identification procedure is intended to facilitate the payment of Italian VAT liabilities by the non-resident. This procedure was discontinued with effect from 25 September 2009 in cases where a non-resident EU company has a permanent establishment in Italy.

The basic "place of supply" rule for supplies of services to "VAT registered persons" is that such supplies are deemed to be made where the customer is established and the related VAT is due in accordance with the so-called "reverse charge" procedure. Services subject to reverse charges also have to be included on Intrastat forms, subject to some exceptions. Periodic returns must be filed on a monthly or quarterly basis, depending on the company's turnover. A yearly return must be filed by 30 April of the following year. Starting from 2017, a group of companies, under certain conditions, may apply for a VAT Group in order to be considered as a unique taxpayer for VAT purposes.

TAX CLAIMS

The taxpayer has the right to seek recourse against assessments and undue payment demands, etc. by appealing to the tax courts through three ranks of justice. The tax assessment can be settled by paying a lower penalty before appealing to the Tax Court.

IVIE (TAX ON REAL ESTATE OUTSIDE ITALY)

Starting from fiscal year 2012 Italian and non-Italian citizens who are tax residents in Italy and own properties located outside of Italy will be subject to IVIE. This tax is calculated by applying:

- A rate of 0.76% to:
 - (a) The cadastral value as normally calculated in the country where the real estate is situated;
 - (b) The cost of the real estate, as indicated in the Purchase Deed or in the contract(s); or
 - (c) The fair value that can be assigned to the property in the Country where the real estate is situated.
- A rate of 0.40% to:
 - (a) Properties located abroad that are utilised as a principal residence where a lump-sum deduction of EUR 200 is applicable to the tax burden computed by applying the 0.40% rate.

The value mentioned at a) above can only be used for taxation purposes for estates located in EEA member states. The tax is calculated proportionally to the effective month and percentage of possession. It is only due for payment if the tax burden is higher than EUR 200. Any property tax paid in the country where the real estate is located can be offset against IVIE. Taxpayers may also deduct the income tax payable on properties located in EEA member states.

The Italian Tax Agency has published the Circular 28/2012 listing and distinguishing which Country applies the abovementioned letter a) and letter b). The deadline for paying this tax coincides with the Income Tax payment deadline.

IVAFE (TAX ON FOREIGN FINANCIAL INSTRUMENTS, BANK ACCOUNTS)

IVAFE is a tax introduced in 2011 on foreign financial assets on the possession of financial products, bank accounts and passbooks owned abroad by Italian resident taxpayers. It is applied on the assets' value at a rate of 0.1% for 2011 and 2012, which increased to 0.15% at the beginning of 2013 and to 0.2% starting from 2014. To avoid double taxation, a deduction is allowed for any "wealth" tax paid abroad on the same assets.

LOCAL TAXES

REAL ESTATE TAX (IMU)

Real estate tax (IMU) is currently payable annually in two instalments (June and December) on the value of real estate property owned by companies as well as individuals. It has a variable rate ranging from 0.4% to 1.06% of the property value, depending on each county council's assessment. IMU is no longer charged on the principal place of abode owned by any taxpayer, unless it is classified as being luxurious for fiscal purposes within special cadastral categories. Moreover, IMU is no longer charged on rural buildings considered instrumental.

Both self-employed VAT registered individuals and companies are allowed to deduct 20% of the IMU paid during the fiscal year on instrumental premises. The deduction in question is only applicable on the computation of corporate tax but it is not applicable when calculating the IRAP burden for the year.

TARI AND TASI

TARI is due for waste collection. TASI is a tax on general services provided by Italian municipalities. TASI's taxable base corresponds to the IMU's one: a rate between 1 and 3.3 per thousand is applicable.

In any case, IMU summed up together with TASI cannot exceed a 6 per thousand rate as far as the principal abode is concerned and 10.6 per thousand for other buildings. Both self-employed VAT registered individuals and companies are allowed to deduct 100% of the TASI and TARI paid during the fiscal year.

OTHER TAXES

From 2008 onwards stamp duty on the transfer of shares, bonds and similar securities has been repealed under the name of Tobin Tax. Register tax is levied on the registration of any written contract or deed. The percentage varies according to the type of deed. One of the higher rates applied to contributions or transfers of real estate is 9%. Registration tax is not applicable if the transaction is subject to VAT, except for real estate rental contracts whereby VAT and a 1% registration tax are both applicable.

PAYMENTS DUE BY VAT REGISTERED ENTITIES

VAT registered persons are required to effect all tax and social security payments electronically, whether or not an intermediary is involved by means of a standard form (F24).

B. DETERMINATION OF TAXABLE INCOME

The taxable income of a company is based on the result of its business profits, which consists of the net income determined during a financial period, adjusted as required by the Tax Act. Non-resident companies are taxed in Italy on certain types of income earned from sources in Italy.

CAPITAL ALLOWANCES

Depreciation of tangible assets is permitted on a straight-line basis calculated by applying the coefficient established by the Ministry of Finance to the cost price, reduced by half for the first tax year. Tangible property with an acquisition cost of less than EUR 516.46 may be written off in the year of purchase. For new assets, if they meet certain requirements the depreciation rate is increased to 30% or 150% in case of high technology assets.

STOCK / INVENTORY

Inventory is valued at cost of purchase. Companies may apply any acceptable method of inventory pricing, i.e. FIFO, average, continuous average, etc. If the cost of purchase is lower than the market value as of the previous month, the stock can be valued using this method.

DIVIDENDS

- (a) Companies are taxed at 5% on dividends received regardless of where the company paying the dividend is a resident (except for black-listed countries).
- (b) Budget Law 2018 has amended the tax treatment applicable (with effect from 1 January 2018) to dividends derived by individuals outside a business capacity providing for a flat tax rate at 26% (either for substantial and non-substantial participations). However, dividends from substantial participations accrued up to 31 December 2017, whose distribution is approved by 31 December 2022, will still be subject to the old rules (i.e. 49.72% or 58.14% of the dividends will be included in the individual's taxable income for IRPEF purposes).

The Budget Law 2018 provides that 50% of the dividends distributed by a foreign black-listed entity will be excluded from the taxable income of the resident shareholder, if it can prove that as its core business, the foreign company paying the dividends actually trades on the market of the state or territory in which it is located (first CFC safe-harbour rule or 'business test').

INTEREST DEDUCTIONS

Interest expenses, including interest on leasing costs but excluding capitalised and non-deductible interest and net of the interest income accounted in the same tax period, are not deductible if they exceed 30% of the company's gross operating margin relevant for tax purposes (before 2019 reference had to be made to gross operating margin as reported in the Financial Statements).

Net interest expense in excess of the yearly limitation is carried forward to the following 5 fiscal years (before 2019 indefinitely). Hence, net interest expense not deducted in previous years can be deducted in the subsequent 5 fiscal years as long as total interest in that year does not exceed 30% of gross operating margin. If net interest expense is lower than the annual limit (i.e. 30% of gross operating margin), this difference can be carried over to increase the company's interest deduction capacity in the subsequent 5 years. Starting from 2019, interest income exceeding interest expenses can be carried forward to be offset against future interest expenses in any following FYs.

DEVALUATION OF RECEIVABLES

It is allowed to deduct the devaluation if the transaction complies with National Accounting Principles and if its intent is not elusive.

LOSSES

Net operating losses incurred in tax year 2012 and onwards may be carried forward without a time limitation from the year in which they originated. However, they can only be used to offset up to 80% of the income arising in later years. The losses realised in the first three years of business can be used for the entire amount. Net losses incurred before 2011 can be carried forward for up to five years with no offset limitations. These rules only apply for corporation tax (IRES) and not for IRAP purposes.

FOREIGN SOURCE INCOME

Only 5% of the value of dividends received from controlled foreign companies is liable to IRES. This 95% exemption is not available if the source of the dividends is a company resident under a 'privileged tax regime' outside the EU. A full exemption is applicable to the dividends paid by a CFC taxed under the transparency method.

INCENTIVES

Italian law provides for various forms of incentives to support economic investment in the south of Italy, other depressed areas in the centre/north, and in those areas struck by catastrophes such as earthquakes or floods.

BLACKLIST COUNTRIES

Starting from 2017 all transactions with subjects residing in black-listed countries are no longer to be communicated to the Tax Authorities. Until FY 2016 the deduction of the cost incurred with black-list subjects was subject to specific conditions or to preceding ruling procedures.

EXIT TAX

As a general rule, Italian companies that decide to transfer their tax residence abroad are deemed to have realised their assets at "fair value" unless they maintain a permanent establishment in Italy. However, where the tax residence is transferred to another state within the European Union or to a state included within a specific "white list", companies may choose to pay in instalments or to have the resulting tax charge suspended until the assets of the transferred business are disposed of.

ACE (ALLOWANCE FOR CAPITAL EXPENDITURE)

Starting from FY 2019 the ACE deduction (a sort of Notional Interest Deduction on equity increases) will no longer be applicable. However, any ACE excess accrued in the previous fiscal years can be carried forward.

Previous rules provided for the possibility for incorporations and permanent establishments of non-resident companies (as well as for individuals and partnerships with ordinary bookkeeping), to deduct a lump-sum amount from their own taxable income. The deduction that is applicable from the year ended 31 December 2011 onwards is, in fact, calculated by applying a 3% rate to a net increase in shareholders' equity compared to the previous year end. This 3% rate was applied to increases during the fiscal years 2011, 2012 and 2013 whereas the rate to be applied for 2014 is 4%, to be increased to 4.5% for 2015 and to 4.75% for fiscal year 2016. The rate has been decreased to 1.6% for tax period 2017 and 1.5% for the following tax periods as a fixed rate. Examples of increases in shareholders' equity were:

- Cash injections into a company (share capital increase, write off of payables previously due to shareholders, offsetting of receivables to increase the share capital);
- Earnings not distributed to shareholders but retained and allocated to reserves.

Examples of decreases in shareholders' equity are:

- Distribution of earning reserves to shareholders;
- Decrease in capital and in reserves of capital.

The distribution of the current year profits as well as losses affecting share capital were not considered to be a decrease in the shareholder's equity.

REDUCED CIT RATE (FROM 24% TO 15%) ON PROFITS REINVESTED IN CERTAIN ACTIVITIES

Starting from 2019 a reduced CIT rate (from 24% to 15%) applies on profits reinvested in certain activities.

More specifically, taxpayers are allowed to apply a standard rate reduction of nine percentage points on profits determined by the lower of:

- retained earnings;
- depreciation of new fixed asset investments and increased labour costs.

DIGITAL TAX

The 2019 finance bill introduced a 3% web tax on gross revenues from the supply of certain digital services at the level of taxpayers (residents and non-residents) that meet the following conditions:

- Worldwide income at least equal to EUR 750 million;
- Income for digital transactions in Italy at least equal to EUR 5.5 million.

More specifically, supply of digital services includes online advertising, the use of digital platforms allowing the direct supply of goods and services and the transmission of data collected from digital interface users. The tax applies if the user is located in Italy.

Web Tax is due on a quarterly basis, by the end of the month following each quarter and Digital Tax return must be filed by the end of the 4th month following each calendar year (i.e. 30 April).

C. FOREIGN TAX RELIEF

Foreign taxes may generally be credited against the tax liability suffered in Italy on the same income. Any excess foreign credits can be carried forward or backwards for eight years. The tax credit must be claimed in the tax return for the year in which the foreign tax is paid. If not, the right to the tax credit is forfeited.

D. CORPORATE GROUPS

Provisions for the consolidation of resident and non-resident company results were introduced in 2004. These provisions allow for the consolidation of income between group companies at both domestic and international level, resulting in a single tax liability for the parent company. The option is irrevocable for a three-year period where only Italian resident companies are involved and for a five-year period for a worldwide consolidation (or three years if subsequently renewed). The companies participating in the group consolidation are jointly liable for taxes, penalties and interest assessed on the aggregate income. The consolidated income is taxed at the parent company level.

E. RELATED PARTY TRANSACTIONS

Transactions with foreign affiliated companies are closely scrutinised in order to determine whether transfer prices are at arm's length. There are ministerial guidelines which suggest various limits on payments between affiliates. A set of documentation, consistent with OECD standards, is required from those companies that make cross-border operations with controlled foreign companies (CFC). The documentation must contain detailed information and data about the transactions as well as their compliance with the "arm's length principle". Although this documentation is not mandatory, it would provide penalty protection to companies should they communicate to the Tax Authorities that they have this documentation on hand for consultation.

Furthermore, they must also communicate to the Tax Authorities as to whether they have this documentation available for previous tax periods that are still subject to assessment. From tax year 2017, a country-by-country report showing certain financial information and economic indicators has been made compulsory for certain multinational entities. The rules on transfer pricing are also applicable for IRAP purposes, having retroactive effects from the tax periods subsequent to 31 December 2007. A sentence dated November 2015 declared lawful IRAP application only starting from fiscal year 2014.

F. WITHHOLDING TAX

Domestic companies making certain types of payments (e.g. interests, royalties, professional fees, etc.) are required to withhold taxes at various rates. In general, dividends distributed to non-residents are subject to a final 26% withholding tax. For dividends paid to residents of EU countries and those included on the "white list", a special withholding tax rate of 1.20% applies. This rule applies only to profits earned starting from fiscal year 2008. Any dividends paid that represent profits from previous fiscal years will be subject to previous years' rules. However, Italian legislation has transposed the EU Directive 2003/49/CE (the 'Parent-Subsidiary Directive'). No withholding tax is levied on dividends paid to a parent company in another EU Member State if both the parent and the subsidiary are 'qualifying' companies under the Directive and the parent has held at least 10% of the capital of the subsidiary continuously for at least one year.

The EU Interest and Royalties Directive has also been incorporated into domestic law. Outbound interests and royalties are exempt from any Italian tax provided that the recipient is an associated company of the paying company and is resident in another EU Member State or such a company's permanent establishment is situated in another Member State. Two companies are "associated companies" if:

- (a) One of them holds directly at least 25% of the voting rights of the other; or,
- (b) A third EU company holds directly at least 25% of the voting rights of the two companies.

The relevant companies must have a legal form listed in the Annex to the Directive and be subject to a corporate income tax. A one-year holding period is required.

G. EXCHANGE CONTROL / ANTI-MONEY LAUNDERING

There are no exchange controls in Italy. However, banks and financial institutions are required to monitor any deposit/withdrawal of over EUR 15,000 for anti-money laundering purposes. This duty was extended to audit firms, professionals, etc. With effect from 1 January 2016, cash payments of over EUR 3,000 (increasing the previous limit of EUR 1,000) are not permitted. This limit is applicable to all categories. Penalties range from 1% to 40% of the amount transferred with a minimum penalty of EUR 3,000 (and EUR 15,000 when cash payments exceed EUR 50,000).

H. PERSONAL TAX

Resident individuals are subject to a personal income tax called IRPEF on their worldwide income.

Individuals carrying on a business or profession are liable to IRAP which is not deductible from IRPEF. Non-resident individuals are subject to tax only on their Italian-sourced income.

Individuals are considered resident for fiscal purposes in Italy if they are registered at the official Register of Population; their principal place of business and interests is located in Italy; or if they remain in Italy for more than six months in any calendar year. Progressive rates for IRPEF are as follows:

Taxable Income (EUR)	Rate (%)
Up to 15,000	23
15,001 – 28,000	27
28,001 – 55,000	38
55,001 – 75,000	41
Over 75,000	43

In addition to the above progressive rates, a regional surcharge (variable rate from 0.9% to 1.4%) is payable and an additional municipal tax could be charged and fixed locally. An additional tax had been introduced for taxpayers whose overall income is higher than a EUR 300,000 threshold. This new tax was called the "solidarity contribution" and it was computed by applying a 3% rate to income exceeding EUR 300,000. It was introduced only for fiscal years 2011-2013, but it was extended also for fiscal years 2014-2016, applying the same rate.

The tax period in Italy is the calendar year and tax is due over two advance payments made during the tax year with the balance due by 30th June of the following year. IRPEF is withheld at source from employee salaries and wages. The payment of taxes on account and settlement functions are done under a similar system as for companies. There is no wealth tax in Italy. Gift and inheritance tax has come back into force with a range of tax rates and exemptions.

FLAT TAX ('CEDOLARE SECCA')

Since 2011, individuals whose income is derived from renting their own properties to tenants who, in turn, use them as dwellings, can be taxed at a flat 21% rate on the agreed fees (the rate is equal to 10% for certain particular "agreed upon" local contracts).

In order to qualify for this scheme, the lessor should choose this option when the rental agreement is registered at the local tax office, or within his or her tax return. The tenant(s) must be informed of such a choice through a registered letter with return receipt. This scheme only applies to individuals renting buildings used as dwellings. It does not apply where the building is to be used for a business purpose.

A. TAXES PAYABLE

COMPANY TAX

An entity incorporated in Ivory Coast is considered a resident for tax purposes and subject to tax on income from movable capital on a worldwide basis.

Permanent establishments of non-resident entities are subject to tax in the same way as resident companies.

The standard corporate tax rate is 25% while a 30% rate applies to telecom companies.

In case of losses, a minimum tax of 0.5% is levied based on total turnover, with a minimum tax of XOF 3 million and a maximum tax of XOF 35 million.

CAPITAL GAINS TAX

Capital gains are included in ordinary income and subject to corporate income tax at the standard rate.

BRANCH PROFITS TAX

Branches of foreign companies are subject to the same tax rate as domestic companies. Additionally, fifty percent of branch profits are deemed to be remitted and taxed at 15% giving rise to a 7.5% effective branch remittance tax, regardless of whether there is an actual remittance of funds.

VALUE ADDED TAX (VAT)

Value added tax (VAT) is levied on transactions carried out in Ivory Coast by individuals or companies who, either regularly or occasionally, purchase goods for resale or render services, other than as employees or farming workers.

VAT is levied only in respect of business activities that are carried on Ivory Coast territory at a standard rate of 18%.

B. DETERMINATION OF TAXABLE INCOME

Taxable income comprises the company's business profits, including capital gains realised on the transfer of business assets, but excluding exempt income.

Taxable income is based on an accrual system and the financial statements prepared according to the OHADA Accounting Standards are the starting point when determining taxable income.

DISALLOWED EXPENSES

As a general rule, expenses not directly connected to the taxable business activities carried on in Ivory Coast are not deductible for the purpose of computing taxable income.

DEPRECIATION

Depreciation for tax purposes is calculated based on the normal useful life of the asset and three depreciation methods are allowed: the straight-line method, the declining-balance method and the accelerated depreciation method.

Land and goodwill may not be depreciated.

The straight-line method of depreciation is the most commonly used method.

- The amount of the interest paid must not exceed 30% of the company's profits before deduction of interest, amortisation and provisions; and

A. TAXES PAYABLE

COMPANY TAX

Jamaican resident companies are liable for income tax on all sources of non-exempt income wherever arising. A company is regarded as resident in Jamaica if its central management and control is located and exercised in Jamaica. A non-resident company is taxed on income of a branch carrying on a trade or business in Jamaica, i.e. the income that arises in Jamaica.

The tax year or 'year of assessment' is a period of twelve (12) months commencing on 1st January in each year. Companies are assessed to income tax on their income which arises in the basis period and this normally coincides with the year of assessment. Where the company usually makes up its accounts for a period other than the calendar year, the Commissioner General, Tax Administration Jamaica, will allow this period to be substituted for the calendar year, once an application has been submitted for approval of said change in accounting date.

The company is required to submit its Annual Return of Income and Tax Payable by 15th March of the year following the year of assessment for which the tax return is being prepared and to pay any balance of tax due by that date. The company is also required to submit an Annual Declaration of Estimated Income and Tax Payable for the current year based on the results of the preceding year (estimated tax). Payment of estimated tax is due in four (4) equal instalments on 15th March, 15th June, 15th September and 15th December of the current year.

An amendment to Corporate Income Tax became effective 1 January 2013. The corporate income tax rate structure was modified as follows:

- a) Tax charge for regulated companies is now 33 1/3%, unless otherwise specified;
- b) Tax charge for unregulated companies is now 25%;
- c) Building Societies special rate is 30% (as before);
- d) Life Insurance Companies (i) is 15% (as before);
- e) Life Insurance Companies (ii) is 3% (as before).

The regulated companies include those companies regulated by:

- Financial Services Commission (FSC);
- Office of Utilities Regulations (OUR);

Jamaica

- Bank of Jamaica (BOJ) and
- Ministry of Finance and Planning (MOFP).

Minimum Business Tax (MBT)

The Minimum Business Tax of JMD 60,000 which was introduced in March 2014 and which is payable in two equal instalments of JMD 30,000, each payable 15th June and 15th September. For individuals in receipt of income from business or trade, the income threshold was increased to JMD 5 million, up from the previous JMD 3 million in 2015. This income limit does not apply to companies. Provisions have also been made for any company incorporated under the Companies Act for not more than 24 months, registered charities, international organisations subject to the Diplomatic Immunities and Privileges Act and individuals with gross revenue below JMD 5 million to be exempt from paying the Minimum Business Tax.

It applies to all companies or other corporate bodies incorporated or registered in Jamaica, including overseas companies conducting business in Jamaica. Companies which are exempted from the payment of Income Tax or operating under an income tax incentive regime are also liable to pay MBT. In addition, companies making a loss, as well as companies that are dormant are also liable to pay the MBT. The Minimum Business Tax is credited towards income tax payable for the particular year of assessment and is to be claimed on the final income tax return. It is not creditable against income tax payable by the taxpayer for any other assessment period.

The Minimum Business Tax will be abolished from year of assessment 2019.

NEW ASSET TAX REGIME

The filing date for the Annual Declaration of Assets for a company has moved from 1st September to 15th March of the same year based on the Financial Statements for the previous accounting year.

Example

Y/A 2014: Due to be filed on 15 March 2014 using 2013 Financial Statements.

Y/A 2015: Due to be filed on 15 March 2015 using 2014 Financial Statements.

The asset tax rates effective from 2015 are as follows:

Value of Asset	Asset tax
Less than JMD 50,000	5,000
At least JMD 50,000 but less than JMD 0.5 million	25,000
At least JMD 0.5 million but less than JMD 5 million	100,000
At least JMD 5 million but less than JMD 50 million	150,000
At least JMD 50 million	200,000

Effective from the Year of Assessment 2013, Asset Tax is not an allowable deduction under the Income Tax Act.

Non-Financial institutions will be no longer be required to pay Assets Tax from year of assessment 2019.

CAPITAL GAINS TAX TRANSFER TAX AND STAMP DUTY

There is no capital gains tax on capital gains secured on the disposal of capital assets.

However, there is a transfer tax of 5% to be reduced to 2% from 1 April 2019, of gross consideration or market value when title passes. Effective 1 April 2019, the transfer tax or estate tax payable at death will be simplified and the rate reduced as follows:

- The first JMD 10 million value of the estate – no tax
- The transfer tax payable is 1.5% of the value of the estate, including real property and shares, in excess of the threshold less deductions and expenses incurred.
- Beneficiaries will be able to utilize the equity in inherited property to leverage economic opportunities.

Stamp duty is to be reformed from 1 April 2019. Ad valorem stamp duty at a flat rate of JMD 100 and JMD 5,000 respectively per document/parcel related to transactions valued below JMD 500,000 and above JMD 500,000 or more respectively will be payable.

The proposed changes are expected to provide tax certainty and allow for further simplification of the tax structure.

BRANCH PROFITS TAX

Branches of non-resident corporations or companies doing business in Jamaica are taxed on the profits arising in Jamaica. Branch income is taxed at the same rate as that of local corporations and on a similar basis (at 25% for unregulated entities and at 33 1/3% for regulated entities). The transfer of profits to the head office is subject to a 33 1/3% withholding tax (branch remittance tax) or to a lower treaty rate, where applicable.

GENERAL CONSUMPTION TAX (GCT)

General Consumption Tax (GCT), which is a value added tax, is generally imposed at the standard rate of 16.5% effective on the supply in Jamaica of goods or services by a 'registered taxpayer' and on the importation of goods or services by any person for consumption in Jamaica. A large number of goods and services are zero rated, which means that the supplier does not charge GCT on the supply but may credit GCT on incoming supplies against the tax chargeable on non-zero-rated supplies he makes. A number of goods and services are GCT exempt which means no CGT is chargeable thereon. Certain goods are subject to special consumption tax (SCT) and not GCT. This is levied on the manufacture for sale in Jamaica and the import into Jamaica of prescribed goods such as petroleum products, cigarettes, spirits and beer.

The GCT threshold, which is the level of income required for registration as a Registered Taxpayer for GCT purposes, is to be increased from JMD 3 million to JMD 10 million. However, businesses with income of less than JMD 10 million may opt for voluntary registration and re-register as a Registered Taxpayer.

LOCAL PAYROLL TAXES:

NATIONAL INSURANCE (NIS)

Effective 1 April 2019, the National Insurance Contribution was increased to 5.5% of salary restricted to a maximum salary of JMD 1,500,000 annually, which is JMD 80,625. This is contributed as follows for 2019:

- Contribution by employee – January to March 2019 - 2.5% - JMD 9,375;
- Contribution by employee – April to December 2019 - 2.75% - JMD 30,937.50;
- Contribution by employee for the year JMD 40,312.50;
- Contribution by employer matched at JMD 40,312.50.

The maximum monthly and weekly contributions from 1 April 2019 are JMD 3,437.50 and JMD 793.27 respectively by employees and this is matched by the employer.

Self-employed persons are required to contribute 5% and 5.5% of their taxable income for income tax purposes up to a maximum of JMD 80,625 annually.

This compulsory deduction is made both by the employee and employer and goes towards the provision of a pension at age 65 for women and 65 for men who have retired. However, if still employed, women and men are required to contribute to NIS up to age 65 and 70 respectively. The NIS pension is deferred for a further period of five years or the date that employment ceases, whichever is earlier.

NATIONAL HOUSING TRUST (NHT)

National Housing Trust (NHT) is payable by the employee at a rate of 2% and by the employer at a rate of 3% of taxable emoluments. The contributions together with any accrued bonus or interest are refundable to the contributor on an annual basis after seven years and fully on retirement. Note that the expatriate employee is refunded the full sum whenever he/she leaves the island. Self-employed persons contribute NHT at a rate of 3% of chargeable income. NHT contributions cease when persons attain 65 years of age.

EDUCATION TAX

Education Tax is payable by the employee at a rate of 2.25% and by the employer at a rate of 3.50% of taxable emoluments. Contributions continue until age 65 years (men and women). Education Tax contributions are not refundable. Self-employed persons pay education tax at a rate of 2.25% of chargeable income. There is no age limit for self-employed persons. Education tax is not payable on interest, dividends and pension income.

PAYE AS YOU EARN (PAYE)

Effective 1 April 2017, emoluments are taxed at a zero rate for the first threshold of JMD 1,500,096 and then income above the threshold but below JMD 6,000,000 is taxed at 25% and income in excess of JMD 6,000,000 is taxed at 30%.

OTHER TAXES

Custom fees and excise and stamp duties are imposed on imported goods.

Property tax is payable on the unimproved value basis of property. Property tax rates were revised on 1 April 2017 and start at JMD 1,000 for unimproved values up to JMD 400,000 for values determined by different rates applicable to values in bands of increasing values.

The Construction Industry and Tillage are subject to a contractor's levy of 2% of the contract price, and it is withheld from payments to contractors and paid to the Revenue Authority. The levy is treated as payment on account of income tax liability of the contractor. However, if the contractor has no final income tax liability or a lesser income tax liability, the excess of the levy over the income tax liability is not refundable nor can it be used to offset against any tax liability. It is treated as an additional tax liability.

B. DETERMINATION OF TAXABLE INCOME

The chargeable income of taxpayers is determined by deducting all non-capital disbursements and expenses wholly and exclusively incurred in acquiring the income from all taxable income brought into charge. Domestic and private expenses are not allowable. Special deductions may include capital allowances.

NEW CAPITAL ALLOWANCES REGIME (1 JAN 2014)

As a part of the income tax reform, the capital allowances regime has been standardised and streamlined. This will include:

- The discontinuance of the various incentives embedded therein e.g. investment allowances and accelerated tax depreciation to agriculture and manufacturing sectors;
- Providing allowances to certain categories of capital expenditure not currently covered;
- Providing greater alignment between the useful economic life of various categories of assets and their write-off periods for tax purposes;
- Allowing capital expenditure to be written-off using the straight-line method;
- Standardising the application of the regime across sectors and facilitating enhanced administration of the same.

General Rule:

Capital expenditure (on specified assets) incurred on or after 1 January 2014 will be written-off in accordance with the new capital allowance regime as outlined below. All capital expenditure incurred on or after 1 January 2014 will be written-off using the straight line method. Capital expenditure incurred prior to 1 January 2014 will continue to be written-off for income tax purposes in accordance with the rules existing prior to 1 January 2014, as if there were no changes.

Capital allowances are granted for depreciation of equipment, plant and machinery and other assets used in the business at the following rates using the straight-line method:

- Plant, machinery and equipment:
 - a) First year allowance (initial allowance) – 25% for machinery directly used in the production of primary products or in the manufacture of goods or automated packaging of primary products or goods;
 - b) Annual allowance – 12.5%.
- Automatic Data Processing Equipment
 - a) First year allowance – 25%;
 - b) Annual Allowance – 20%.
- Telecommunication Equipment

- Other commercial buildings:

 - b) Annual allowance – 4%, 10%, or 12.5% dependent on type of construction and whether housing machinery.

CAPITAL GAINS AND LOSSES

See discussion above.

DIVIDENDS

In addition to the income tax on the company's profits, any distribution or dividends are taxable.

As of 1 July 2009, dividends payable by resident unlisted companies to non-resident shareholders (individual and companies) are subject to tax at rates appropriate to them and the companies making such distributions are required to deduct tax due and account for it to the Inland Revenue Department. The rate of tax payable on preference dividends is at the rate of tax applicable to the recipient preference shareholder as at the date of the receipt of said income. As of 1 April 2013, the rate of tax payable on dividends to Jamaican resident individuals and companies by Jamaican resident companies is 15%. This withholding tax is a final tax except for an approved superannuation fund or retirement scheme, registered charitable organisations, pensioners or persons over sixty five (65) years of age. The rate of withholding tax is modified if distributions are made to residents of double tax treaty countries. The negotiated rates provided in the relevant articles are applicable.

Dividends and distributions paid out of profits which are relieved or exempt from tax by virtue of incentive legislation, would not be subject to tax unless they are in fact taxable in the country of the taxpayer's residence.

Capital distribution or capital dividends are not subject to income tax but are, however, subject to transfer tax at a rate of 2% with effect from 1 April 2019.

INTEREST DEDUCTIONS

Interest paid upon any money borrowed on capital employed in acquiring the income is tax deductible. There are no thin capitalisation provisions in Jamaica.

TRADE LOSS RELIEF

There are changes in loss relief and the way a trade loss can be utilised. The position is as follows:

- a) Tax losses can be carried forward for any number of years, however
- b) Effective for the year of assessment 2014, tax losses carried forward will be restricted for relief against current year taxable profits of up to 50% of taxable profit (excluding the loss).

This 50% limit will not apply:

- a) For the first five (5) years after a business commences trading. Commissioner General of TAJ will determine when it is a business commences trading and the relief available.
- b) Where the taxpayer's gross revenue from all sources for the year is equal to or less than JMD 3 million.

FOREIGN SOURCE INCOME

Where the company is resident in Jamaica, i.e. its central management and control is situated in Jamaica, the income of such company wherever it arises is subject to tax in Jamaica. This includes:

- a) Branch or agency profits from businesses earned outside Jamaica;
- b) Dividend, interest, royalties and rents earned outside Jamaica.

C. FOREIGN TAX RELIEF

Unilateral relief by the credit method is granted to residents and non-residents against income tax payable in Jamaica on any income which is also subject to Commonwealth income tax. For residents of Jamaica, the maximum credit is one-half of the Jamaican income tax rate, i.e. 16.67% and 12.5% in the case of corporations and 12.5% in the case of individuals.

If the Commonwealth income tax rate on the income concerned does not exceed half the Jamaican rate (16.67% and 12.5%), full relief is granted for the Commonwealth tax. Jamaican residents who are liable to pay Jamaican tax on income in respect of which United Kingdom tax is also payable are entitled to relief equal to the amount by which Jamaica tax exceeds half the rate of United Kingdom tax payable. If the Jamaican rate exceeds the United Kingdom rate, the relief is equal to half of the United Kingdom rate.

Unilateral relief is generally provided by way of deduction for taxes payable in other overseas territories.

Where a claim for double taxation relief is made under a treaty, the Jamaican income tax is reduced by the appropriate amount of the credit for foreign tax. The credit may not exceed tax at the Jamaican rate on the income concerned computed under Jamaican income tax principles, before any allowance of credit.

D. CORPORATE GROUPS

Tax liability in a group basis is not permissible. The liability of each company within the group is determined separately.

E. RELATED PARTY TRANSACTIONS

Transfer pricing

With effect from 1 January 2016, transfer pricing rules (TP) are applicable in Jamaica. The applicable TP methods closely follow the OECD guidelines on TP. Related party transactions which are carried out for considerations not at arm's length, intended to secure a benefit or tax advantage or to reduce the tax payable, are counteracted by the Commissioner General, taking appropriate actions to negate this advantage.

When filing an income tax return, the taxpayer must certify whether to his knowledge the information and accounts on which the return is based contains particulars of any connected party transactions, and must fully disclose those particulars, if any. Failure to provide this certification on the return or to fully disclose the required particulars may result in prosecutions with a maximum JMD 2 million fine or twelve (12) months imprisonment. This will apply to income tax returns as from assessment year 2016.

There are TP documentation regulations which only apply to companies with gross annual turnover of JMD 500 million or more in the previous year of assessment. These companies are required to keep exhaustive TP documentation and to present them to the Commissioner General, upon request. The documentation comprises: an overview of the company's business operations and an organisational chart, details of all connected party transactions performed, along with an analysis of the factors used in identifying comparable independent transactions, justification of choice of a particular TP method, a description of tests done and the process used to identify the comparable independent transactions relied upon, details of any industry or economic analysis done by the company to arrive at the TP, and a conclusion as to whether the conditions of the connected party transactions were consistent with an arm's length consideration, along with details of any adjustments that were required to guarantee compliance.

The taxpayer may also enter into an Advanced Pricing Agreement (APA) with the revenue authorities.

Controlled Foreign Companies (CFC)

There are no CFC regulations in Jamaica.

F. WITHHOLDING TAX

Withholding tax on Specified Services became effective 1 September 2015

The Tax Administration Jamaica and the Ministry of Finance introduced a 3% Withholding Tax on specified services on 1 September, 2015. At its implementation the tax will be withheld from Specified Services by Tax Withholding Agents (TWA). The TWAs who are required to withhold the tax when making payments to suppliers in the initial stage are:

- All Statutory Bodies or Authorities.

- Any person with annual gross revenue exceeding five hundred million dollars (JMD 500,000,000), including any entity with such revenue that is exempt from the payment of income tax.

Payments to non-residents

Dividends, interest, royalties, management and consultancy fees paid to non-residents are subject to 33 1/3% withholding tax. This is not a final withholding tax.

G. EXCHANGE CONTROL

There are no exchange controls in Jamaica at this time.

H. PERSONAL TAX

An individual who is resident, ordinarily resident and domiciled in Jamaica is subject to income tax on his worldwide income as it arises. Non-residents are subject to income tax on income arising from Jamaica.

Residence is determined by physical presence in Jamaica for period of 183 days or six (6) months. Regular visits of substantial periods may make such visitor a resident, even though the stay is less than six (6) months.

Broadly, an individual is domiciled in the country or state which he regards as his permanent home. He acquires a domicile of origin at birth normally that of his father and retains it until he acquires a new domicile of choice. To acquire a domicile of choice, a person must sever his ties with his domicile of origin and settle in another country with the clear intention of making it his permanent home. A commonwealth citizen not ordinarily resident in Jamaica or any resident not domiciled in Jamaica is taxed on unearned income only to the extent that is remitted to Jamaica.

The Pay-As-You-Earn (PAYE) system of collection is in operation. The employers, who act as agents for the Commissioner General, Tax Administration Jamaica, deduct income tax from salaries, wages and other emoluments of employees and account for tax so deducted by the 14th day of the month following the month for which the deduction was made. Failure to do so will result in the employer being charged interest at a rate of 17% per annum and penalty at a rate of 50% from the day after the due date to the date of payment on the sum payable.

Self-employed individuals pay their taxes in advance by four quarterly instalments based either on the chargeable income of the previous year or their estimated chargeable income of the current year. The instalments are due on 15th March, 15th June, 15th September and 15th December. Any balance of tax is payable on filing of the final returns on the following 15th March after the year of assessment for which the return is due. Individuals who are suffering from a disabling permanent physical handicap or a disabling permanent mental handicap but are capable of being gainfully employed may apply to TAJ for an exemption of emoluments.

As of 1 January 2013 there is also a pension exemption of JMD 80,000 for pension received from either a statutory pension scheme or an approved retirement scheme. Further there is an age exemption of JMD 80,000 for an individual who attained the age of 65 at any time during the year of assessment for which the return is being made.

Personal income tax shall be levied and paid for each year of assessment at the following rates:

- For the first JMD 1,500,096 1 (as from 1 April 2017) = Nil.
- Between JMD 1,500,096 and JMD 6,000,000 = 25%;
- Exceeding JMD 6,000,000 = 30%.

KEY TAX POINTS

- Domestic corporations, whose head or main office is located in Japan are subject to tax on their worldwide income.
- Foreign corporations are subject to either corporation tax or final withholding tax on Japanese source income (including income relating to the exploration for oil in the continental shelf) depending on the type of income and the extent of the foreign corporation's activities in Japan.
- Vendors are liable for a consumption tax (value added tax) of 8% of sales, including imports of goods and services (10% from 1 October 2019).
- Relief of double taxation is available for foreign taxes on certain foreign-sourced income.
- Under the consolidated tax regime, an affiliated group of companies (a 'Consolidated Group') can report and pay national corporate income tax as one unit.
- All transactions between related companies are required to be conducted on an arm's length basis within the meaning of an 'arm's length price' depending upon the transaction.
- Domestic corporations are subject to withholding tax on dividends, interest and certain other income. Foreign corporations are subject to withholding tax on dividends, interest, royalties, income from immovable property, rentals from industrial or commercial equipment, and certain other income.
- Non-resident taxpayers are taxed only on their Japanese source income. Non-permanent resident taxpayers are taxed on income other than foreign-sourced income defined under Japanese income tax law plus that part of foreign-sourced income that is paid in and/or remitted to Japan. A permanent resident taxpayer is taxed on his worldwide income.

A. TAXES PAYABLE

COMPANY TAX

Domestic corporations are those whose head or main office is located in Japan. Companies incorporated in Japan under the Corporate Law or under other special laws are required to locate their head office in Japan. Such domestic corporations are subject to tax on their worldwide income. Foreign corporations are all corporations which are not domestic corporations. A corporation having its head or main office outside Japan is a foreign corporation even if its business operations are in Japan. Foreign corporations are subject to corporation tax on Japanese source income, including income relating to the exploration for oil in the continental shelf. Foreign corporations are subject to either corporation tax or final withholding tax on Japanese source income, depending on the type of income and the extent of the foreign corporation's activities in Japan.

The rate of national tax for Japanese corporations is 23.2% unless the paid-in capital of the corporation is JPY 100 million or less, in which case the first JPY 8 million of income is only taxed at 19% (this rate is temporarily decreased to 15%). From 1 October 2019, a part of inhabitant tax (local tax) will be further moved to the national tax regime as 'local corporate tax' at a rate of 10.2%. Tax is imposed on a current year basis. The tax year adopted is generally the one specified in a company's constituent documents with a standard year being a calendar year. However, it should be noted that other periods are also allowed, including periods of 12 months or less. Japanese branches of foreign corporations are required to adopt the accounting period used by their foreign head office. Final tax is payable when lodging the final corporation tax return, usually required within two months of the end of the accounting period. Extensions of time to lodge can be sought although interest at 7.3% or less is payable where such an extension is obtained.

Interim tax returns and payments are required if a corporation has a fiscal period longer than six months. Ordinarily, provisional taxes are computed as one half of the tax liability of the previous year but a reduction is available where the interim tax returns are filed to reflect bi-annual results of operations for the current year.

BLUE RETURN FILERS

Preferential tax treatment is given to companies who file 'Blue Returns'. A company which undertakes to maintain specified bookkeeping records and documentation and gains approval from the Director of the District Tax Office can file a Blue Return, the associated benefits of which are as follows.

- Tax losses may be carried forward for ten years (however, for large scale companies the use of the losses is restricted to 50% of taxable income for fiscal years beginning on or after 1 April 2018 and thereafter) or carried back to the previous year (temporarily suspended except for companies with paid-in capital of JPY 100 million or less (except for a subsidiary of a large scale company)).
- The revenue authorities cannot seek to adjust taxable income without a physical review of the books and records of the company and must state the reason for such an adjustment.
- Allowance of reserves, special depreciation and tax credits as stipulated in the Special Taxation Measures Law.

Importantly, a new company must seek registration for Blue Form returns within the earlier of three months from incorporation or the end of the initial accounting period.

CONSUMPTION TAX (JCT)

Vendors are liable for a consumption tax (JCT) of 8% (10% from 1 October 2019) of sales, including imports of goods and services. Only a limited number of goods and services are zero rated. Exemptions apply to leases of land, education and medical treatment. Exports and certain specific services invoiced to non-residents are zero rated.

LOCAL TAXES INHABITANT TAX

Inhabitants Taxes are local prefectural and municipal taxes. These taxes are computed as a percentage of the corporation tax before tax credits. From 1 October 2014, a part of inhabitant tax has been moved to national tax regime as 'local corporate tax'. Each prefecture and municipality may elect an Inhabitants Tax rate within the range shown below:

	Rates (for fiscal years beginning up to September 2019)	Rates (for fiscal years beginning as from October 2019)
Prefecture	3.2% to 4.2%	1% to 2%
Municipality	9.7% to 12.1%	6% to 8.4%
Tokyo Metropolitan (combined)	12.9% to 16.3%	7% to 10.4%

In addition to the above, local governments charge a per capita levy on inhabitants with standard rates that vary from JPY 70,000 to JPY 3,800,000 depending upon the amount of the paid-in capital and the number of employees.

ENTERPRISE TAX

Prefectures can elect to levy an Enterprise Tax. The tax base is business income and liquidation income as computed for corporation tax purposes, with certain adjustments such as the exclusion of income from a business carried on in a foreign country. Enterprise Tax paid over the year is deductible in computing taxable income for corporation and Enterprise Tax purposes.

Size-based taxation was introduced and this taxation is applied only to large corporations with paid-in capital of more than JPY 100 million. For such large corporations, Enterprise Tax consists of the traditional Enterprise Tax levied based on the taxable income as well as Enterprise Tax levied based on the capital etc. (i.e. paid-in capital and capital surplus), and Enterprise Tax levied based on value added (i.e. wages, interest and rental expenses etc.). Tax rates vary depending on whether or not the corporation is a large corporation with paid-in capital of more than JPY 100 million (i.e. whether it is subject to size-based taxation or not) and depending on the prefecture:

Taxable periods beginning on or after 1 October 2019

	Standard (%)	Tokyo (%)	Local Corporate Special Tax
(1) Company whose paid-in capital is JPY 100 million or less
Taxable Income:
First JPY 4,000,000 per annum	3.4	3.65	(Taxable Income*Tax rate)*81%

OTHER TAXES

FAMILY HOLDING COMPANY SURTAX

Family holding companies are liable for surtax on earnings not distributed in excess of specified limits at the following rates:

Excess Income	Rates
First JPY 30,000,000 per annum	10%
Next JPY 70,000,000 per annum	15%
Over JPY 100,000,000 per annum	20%

A Japanese company in which more than 50% of the shares are held by the first shareholder's group is a family holding company and is subject to the surtax, subject to certain other conditions. A family holding company with paid-in capital of JPY 100 million or less (when its 100% parent company's stated capital is JPY 500 million or more, 'Intra-group transaction taxation' takes away this benefit) whose net equity for tax purposes is less than certain threshold is not subject to this special corporate surtax.

BUSINESS OFFICE TAX

Companies whose business premises exceed 1,000 square meters and/or employ in excess of 100 employees in designated cities are subject to a tax on business activity based on space or gross payroll respectively. It is within the discretion of the city authorities whether or not to charge the tax. Additions can be made to the list of designated cities for the purpose of this tax but the city must have a population of at least 300,000. The tax is imposed on:

- Construction or extension of business premises (a one-time payment due from the owner of the building);
- Ongoing businesses.

The rate of tax is JPY 600 per square meter of floor space in business use plus 0.25% of the total remuneration paid to employees.

FIXED ASSETS TAX

Real property and tangible depreciable fixed assets are subject to a fixed assets tax at the standard rate of 1.4% (1.7% for real property in specified large cities).

TOTAL EFFECTIVE TAX RATE

By way of example of how the major taxes interrelate and accumulate, set out below is a sample effective tax rate calculation for a Japanese or foreign corporation having paid-in capital of more than JPY 100 million.

	Rate (%) (from April 2018)
Effective tax rate	29.74% - 30.62%

Note: Enterprise Tax is deductible for corporation tax purposes for the period in which it is paid. Also, Enterprise tax capital basis and value added basis will be separately imposed.

B. DETERMINATION OF TAXABLE INCOME

Income is ordinarily determined in accordance with generally accepted accounting principles, with certain adjustments made to comply with tax law. Income and expenses are recorded on an accrual basis, with deductions from gross income for all reasonable expenses, costs and losses. Several restrictions under tax law may apply to the deduction of losses or expenses (e.g. entertainment expenses).

DEPRECIATION

Depreciation is allowed in respect of all tangible assets, other than land and specified intangible assets. Depreciation on tangible assets is calculated using the straight-line or declining-balance method at the option of the taxpayer. However, for buildings, equipment attached to buildings, and structures, only the straight-line method should be used. Intangible assets are generally amortised on a straight-line basis.

Legislation specifies the period over which assets are to be depreciated and the rates for both the straight-line and declining-balance methods. Minor assets that cost less than JPY 100,000 are deductible as an expense during the year. In addition to ordinary depreciation, special depreciation in the form of increased initial depreciation and accelerated depreciation is available in certain cases.

STOCK / INVENTORY

Inventory valuation methods acceptable for tax include an item's individual cost, FIFO, moving or straight average, most recent purchase, retail and lower of cost or market. Importantly, the tax treatment must replicate that adopted for the statutory accounts.

LOSSES

Corporations filing a 'Blue Return' are eligible for loss carry-over treatment. In general, losses may be carried forward ten years (however, for large scale companies, use of the losses is restricted to 50%) of taxable income for each year. The carry-back provisions have been suspended for accounting periods ending after 1 April 1992. However, a Blue Return status corporation with paid-up capital of JPY 100 million or less (except for a subsidiary of a large-scale company) can carry back a net loss incurred in a business year to the previous year.

FOREIGN SOURCE INCOME

Japanese corporations are taxable on their worldwide income as and when earned. However, corporations are generally entitled to claim tax credits against corporation and Inhabitants Tax for foreign income taxes paid (direct credit). For subsidiaries in low or zero tax countries or jurisdictions where profits are not distributed, such profits are taxed at the level of the Japanese parent on an accruals basis by application of Japanese Controlled Foreign Company (CFC) rules, with any associated foreign tax credits being available.

OVERSEAS INVESTMENT

Japanese corporations investing in certain companies involved with developing countries or in prospecting for or developing natural resources may be able to establish a tax deductible reserve of 30% or 90% of the amount invested. After the reserve has been maintained for five successive years, the amount of the reserve multiplied by the number of months of the business year, divided by 60, must be restored to taxable income in succeeding years following the year of reserve accrual.

TAX CREDIT INCENTIVES – CAPITAL INVESTMENT

Corporate tax credits of 7% of the acquisition cost are available on designated energy efficient machinery and equipment acquired by small to medium sized corporations. However, the total credit available is limited to 20% of the corporate tax. The credit was only applied to qualifying capital equipment acquired by 31 March 2016.

[Several tax credits to encourage investment, R&D or salary increases etc. are available under tax law. To claim these tax credits, taxpayers need to meet certain conditions which are set for the respective credits.]

C. FOREIGN TAX RELIEF

Relief for double taxation could be available for foreign taxes imposed on certain foreign-sourced income. Where a tax treaty exists, the foreign tax might be reduced or exempted depending on the nature of the foreign-sourced income. Also, domestic tax legislation allows for a foreign tax credit or its deduction from taxable income. Under domestic law, foreign taxes not eligible for foreign tax credits are deductible.

Notwithstanding the above, 95% of dividend income from certain subsidiaries outside of Japan are excluded from the recipient's taxable income instead of a tax credit being applied.

A foreign tax credit or exclusion of a dividend distributed by a foreign subsidiary at the level of the Japanese recipient's income can be applied irrespective of whether there is a double tax treaty between Japan and the jurisdiction where the foreign-sourced income arose, subject to certain conditions under domestic tax law.

D. CORPORATE GROUPS

The Japanese consolidated tax regime (a part of the corporate tax reform act for the year 2002) was enacted on 1 August 2002.

Under the consolidated tax regime, an affiliated group of companies (a 'Consolidated Group') can report and pay national corporate income tax as one unit. For these purposes, a Consolidated Group means a Japanese parent company and its 100% directly or indirectly owned Japanese subsidiaries. An application for consolidated filing is at the taxpayers' choice but, if made, must include all of the parent's eligible subsidiaries. Once started, consolidated filing should in principle continue indefinitely, unless a specific event (such as change of ownership) causes the qualifying conditions for consolidated filing to be failed, or an application to discontinue is approved by the Commissioner of National Tax Administrative Agency.

The group's national corporate income tax liability will be computed on a consolidated basis by aggregating the separate taxable income or loss of the member companies, and then making various consolidation adjustments. The consolidated national corporate income tax liability will then be determined by applying the normal corporate income tax rate to the consolidated taxable income, adjusted for consolidated tax credits. The total liabilities will then be allocated among the members. The parent company will file the consolidated return and pay the national corporate income tax on behalf of the group, although the member companies remain jointly and severally liable for the Consolidated Group's national corporate income tax liability. Local corporate income taxes levied on member companies will continue to be paid on an individual basis although the amount payable will be affected by the existence of the consolidation.

The consolidation tax regime provides for certain benefits such as the deduction of losses of individual member companies from the total income of the Consolidated Group (for national corporate income tax purposes only); deferral of gains on intra-group transfers of certain assets; and non-taxability of the dividends received from other member companies (regardless of the interest expense attributable to the dividend income). On the other hand, some features of the consolidated tax regime may result in an unpredictable tax burden on the introduction of tax consolidation or when a company joins the Consolidated Group in the future, thus putting some restrictions on future M&A (mergers and acquisitions) activity by the group. Therefore, understanding these issues will become very important for tax professionals and taxpayers when considering an application for consolidation.

A company with registered capital of JPY 100 million or less can avail of various preferential tax treatments (for example, reduced tax rate for first JPY 8 million of income, one year loss carry-back). However, 'Intra-group transaction taxation' takes away such tax benefits when its 100% parent company's stated capital is JPY 500 million or more.

E. RELATED PARTY TRANSACTIONS

All transactions between related companies are required to be conducted on an arm's length basis with the meaning of 'arm's length price' depending upon the transaction. Any difference arising between the price of the actual transaction and that regarded as the arm's length price is taxable or not deductible as applicable. The transactions covered by the provisions include the purchase and sale of inventory, the provision of services and financial facilities such as the making of loans and guarantee facilities.

F. WITHHOLDING TAX

Domestic corporations are generally subject to 20.42% withholding tax on dividends and interest and certain other income. Foreign corporations are subject to withholding tax (generally at the rate of 20.42%) on dividends, interest, royalties, income from immovable property, rentals from industrial or commercial equipment and certain other income. This tax may generally be taken as a credit against the ultimate tax liability of the recipient. It should be noted that where the foreign corporation has a permanent establishment in Japan, certain types of income (for example, rent and royalties) are exempt from withholding tax if taxed together with income from Japanese business income. As indicated, the tax may generally be taken as a credit against the ultimate tax liability of the recipient.

G. PERSONAL TAX

While similarities between the taxation of companies and individuals do exist in Japan, the above refers largely to companies. Accordingly, outlined below are the basic rules and rates applicable to individuals. Given the complexity of this area, it is necessary to stress the need to seek professional advice. Non-resident taxpayers are taxed only on their Japanese source income. Non-permanent resident taxpayers are taxed on income other than foreign-sourced income plus the part of foreign-sourced income that is paid in and/or remitted to Japan. A permanent resident taxpayer is taxed on his worldwide income.

Individuals are generally classified on the following basis:

Status / Period of Residence	Classification
Does not have domicile in Japan	Non-resident
Has domicile in Japan and lived there up to 60 months	Non-permanent resident
Has domicile in Japan and lived there more than 60 months	Permanent resident

National individual tax:

Taxable income (JPY)	Rate	Deduction (JPY)
0 - 1,950,000	5%	---
1,950,000 - 3,300,000	10%	97,500
3,300,000 - 6,950,000	20%	427,500
6,950,000 - 9,000,000	23%	636,000
9,000,000 - 18,000,000	33%	1,536,000
18,000,000 - 40,000,000	40%	2,796,000
Above 40,000,000	45%	4,796,000

Calculation: Taxable income × tax rate – deduction = national tax.

A surcharge of 2.1% of the national personal tax liability has been added to the national personal tax rate for 25 years from January 2013. Retirement income, interest and timber income are each taxed separately from other income.

In addition to the national tax, inhabitant local tax at 10% should be also imposed on the income if the individual resides in Japan.

A. TAXES PAYABLE

COMPANY TAX

All companies incorporated in Jersey or managed and controlled in Jersey are treated as tax resident and, therefore chargeable to Jersey income tax. A Jersey resident company is liable to tax at 0%, 10% or 20%. Financial services entities are subject to a 10% rate and are defined as:

- All entities carrying out banking business through a permanent establishment in Jersey, whether through a Jersey company, a branch or some other structure.
- All entities carrying on the business of a trust business through a permanent establishment.
- All entities carrying on investment business, independent financial advice and similar activities through a permanent establishment.
- All entities carrying on the business of funds administration or funds custody services through a permanent establishment.

It should be noted that clerical functions such as invoicing operations, management and administration services and entering into contracts in respect of a company's international business do not amount to the carrying on of a business through a permanent establishment in the Island. Public utility companies such as those providing electricity, water, gas, telecommunications and postal services are taxed at 20%. Jersey rental income and profits from property development in Jersey are taxed at the rate of 20%. Most other companies are liable at the standard rate of 0%. See large retail businesses above.

The tax year runs from 1 January to 31 December, although companies may adopt an accounting year end of their choice. Income is assessable on a current year basis. Assessments are notified to the company in the year following the year of assessment.

Corporate income tax returns need to be submitted by 31 December.

New payment deadlines come into effect from 1 January 2020, the first instalment of tax (50% of an estimate of the final liability, estimated by the Company not the Tax Authorities) is due on 31 May and then the balance is due 30 November. There will be different dates for large corporates, i.e. if their tax liability is greater than £500,000 in the preceding two tax years.

From 1 January 2019, Jersey introduced economic substance legislation to Jersey resident companies.

CAPITAL GAINS TAX

There is no capital gains tax in Jersey. Capital gains are not included in ordinary taxable income.

BRANCH PROFITS TAX

There is currently no branch profits tax in Jersey.

SALES TAX / VALUE ADDED TAX (VAT)

A Goods and Services Tax (GST) which is a form of sales tax on the domestic consumption of imported and locally produced goods and services is in place. There is a standard rate of 5% which will be collected from customers by registered businesses when they make supplies of those goods and services which are specified by Law as taxable at the standard rate.

There are three categories of supplies:

- Standard-rated supplies - e.g. the sale of new and used goods including those under a hire purchase agreement, renting and hiring out of goods, business stock used for private purposes, the provision of services (e.g. hairdressing or hotel accommodation), charging admission for access onto premises, and imported goods.

- Exempt supplies – e.g. financial services, insurance, postal services, medical and pharmaceutical supplies made by registered professionals or institutions and supplies to charities.
- Zero-rated supplies – e.g. exports, the supply of a dwelling, supplies made on medical prescription and international services.

GST registration is compulsory for businesses established in Jersey making annual taxable supplies exceeding GBP 300,000, although voluntary registration is available for business trading below this level. Certain businesses do not have to register for GST in Jersey, and these can apply to be an International Service Entity (ISE). These are businesses, often financial service businesses, which mainly serve non-residents of Jersey and are exempted from GST but are subject to other charges.

LOCAL TAXES

Taxes are levied at a state level only.

OTHER TAXES

Social Security contributions are charged on employees at a rate of 6% on gross earnings of up to GBP 4,442 per month. The employer then pays 6.5% of gross earnings up to GBP 4,442 per month and 2% over that amount on up to GBP 14,686.

The rate for self-employed individuals is GBP 185.08 per month (there is a reduced rate in certain circumstances). Earnings must be over GBP 940 per month to pay a class of social security contributions on gross earnings. On moving to the Island an individual must register with the Social Security department.

FRINGE BENEFITS TAX (KNOWN AS BENEFITS IN KIND IN JERSEY)

Taxable benefits include, amongst other things, the private use of a company motor vehicle, rent-free accommodation and free board and lodging. Employees are responsible for payment of tax on benefits.

LAND TRANSACTIONS TAX

There is a Land Transactions Tax to collect which is a form of stamp duty on share transfer transactions involving immovable property in Jersey. The charge takes the form of a Tax rather than Stamp Duty. A legal obligation is placed on the purchaser of a residential property by share transfer to pay a tax exactly equal to the amount of Stamp Duty which would have been paid on the purchase if it had been freehold property. This only applies to certain companies whose Articles of Association expressly provide for the shareholders to occupy the property.

There are lower rates for first time buyers, charities, the transfer of matrimonial property from joint to sole ownership (or vice versa), and transfers from a deceased person's estate. Non-resident purchasers of shares are not exempt from the tax. The standard charge is GBP 80 plus an amount calculated per the standard land transaction tax rate bands:

Bands (GBP)	Rate
0 to 50,000	0.5% (subject to a minimum of £10)
50,000 to 300,000	1.5%
300,000 to 500,000	2%
500,000 to 700,000	3%
700,000 to 1,000,000	3.5%
1,000,000 to 1,500,000	4.5%
1,500,000 to 2,000,000	5.5%
2,000,000 to 3,000,000	6.5%
3,000,000 to 6,000,000	8.5%
over 6,000,000	9.5%

B. DETERMINATION OF TAXABLE INCOME

For a company or business, taxable trading profits are calculated by ascertaining assessable income and subtracting allowable deductions. Generally, to be deductible, expenditure must be wholly and exclusively incurred for the purposes of the trade and be revenue in nature rather than capital.

CAPITAL ALLOWANCES AND DEPRECIATION

No deduction is permitted in respect of depreciation on capital items. However, annual allowances, calculated using the reducing-balance method, are allowed as follows:

- Plant and machinery - 25%;
- glasshouses - 10%;
- Motor vehicles - 25% (cost reduced to £22,000 for expensive cars).

If, in any year, there are insufficient profits to cover balancing allowances, which are treated as a deduction from profits, any unrelieved amount is carried forward and treated as an allowance for the following year. This surplus capital allowance and balancing allowances may be carried forward indefinitely, if necessary.

STOCK / INVENTORY

UK principles are followed such that the value of the stock is normally the lower of cost and market value. Acceptable methods of valuing inventory include FIFO and average cost but not LIFO.

CAPITAL GAINS AND LOSSES

There is no capital gains tax in Jersey. Capital losses are not allowable.

DIVIDENDS

Dividends paid are not deductible in calculating the profits of a company but are paid out of after-tax profits. Dividends paid out of a Jersey company's profits carry a tax credit in relation to the tax paid by the company at either the 0%, 10% or 20% rates.

No unilateral relief is available to resident companies on receipt of foreign dividends and, thus, the net dividend is taxable (in other words, relief is given for foreign tax suffered by way of deduction). However, relief may be granted by concession on foreign dividend income if the absence of it would prevent bona fide commercial transactions (e.g. because dividends paid to a holding company by an overseas subsidiary would be subject to double taxation). This income is liable to Jersey tax at the standard corporate tax rate of 0% when received by a Jersey company. All distributions to a Jersey resident shareholder who owns more than 2% of the company are subject to tax at their personal tax rates.

SHAREHOLDER LOANS

A loan made to a Jersey resident shareholder or a member of the shareholder's family or a related party is liable to income tax unless it is made at a commercial rate of interest. The shareholder is entitled to a credit when the loan is repaid, equal to the amount of tax paid on the loan.

INTEREST DEDUCTIONS

Interest is deductible to the extent that it relates to monies borrowed for the purpose of the business.

LOSSES

Losses can be carried forward indefinitely provided there is a continuity of trade. There is a limited right to carry back losses. Losses can also be group relieved in the same year if the same basis periods exist. There are limitations on loss claims.

C. FOREIGN TAX RELIEF

Double taxation relief is available on income taxed at source. Jersey has entered into a new agreement with the UK, which came into effect for Jersey on 1 January 2019. Associated with its negotiations in relation to Tax Information Exchange Agreements, Jersey has entered into limited double taxation arrangements relating to income and mutual agreement procedures with:

Australia	Denmark	Faroe Islands
Finland	France	Germany

Greenland	Iceland	New Zealand
Norway	Faroe Islands	Sweden

Tax Information Exchange Agreements (TIEAs) have been signed with:

Argentina	Australia	Austria
Belgium	Brazil	Canada
Chile	China	Czech Republic
Denmark	Faroe Islands	Finland
France	Germany	Greenland
Hungary	Iceland	India
Indonesia	Ireland	Italy
Japan	Korea	Latvia
Mexico	Netherlands	New Zealand
Norway	Poland	Portugal
Romania	Slovenia	South Africa
Sweden	Switzerland	Turkey
UK	USA

D. CORPORATE GROUPS

The tax provisions relating to groups of qualifying companies allow losses of a group company to be offset against the profits or gains of another company in the same group. A claim for relief must be made within one year following the year of assessment in which the loss period ended.

Companies will be treated as being in the same group where one holds directly or indirectly more than 50% of the ordinary share capital of the other company, or where one company (company A) owns directly or indirectly more than 50% of the ordinary share capital of the two other companies (company B and company C).

E. RELATED PARTY TRANSACTIONS

There is no transfer pricing or related party legislation in Jersey.

F. WITHHOLDING TAX

There are no withholding taxes in Jersey.

G. EXCHANGE CONTROL

There are no exchange control rules in Jersey.

H. PERSONAL TAX

Income tax is charged on Jersey resident individuals on their worldwide income and profits regardless of whether such profits or income are remitted to Jersey. There is, however, a statutory relief for individuals who are resident, but not ordinarily resident in Jersey, so that foreign income not remitted escapes taxation. The tax year is the calendar year, i.e. to 31 December. There is no statutory definition of residence or ordinary residence in Jersey. Generally, individuals are treated as resident in a year if they are present in Jersey for more than six months or if they are present for three months or more, on average, over a period of four consecutive years.

If an individual maintains a place of abode in Jersey or has available accommodation, he is regarded as resident in any year that he stays in that abode or accommodation, even if for only one night. He is also regarded as ordinarily resident if his visits are habitual (after four years) unless his centre of life is abroad, e.g. has a home, business or professional activities abroad and is spending less than three months a year in Jersey. Income from offices and employment is assessable on an arising basis. Income tax is levied on the assessable income of the individual, less personal allowances and deductions, at a rate of 20%.

Earned income arising outside the island is assessed on the net amount arising after the deduction of any foreign tax charged and any necessary expenses. The maximum amount of tax paid on total income is 20%, but there are two methods of calculating tax, the standard rate calculation, i.e. 20% of total income and the marginal relief calculation where allowances and reliefs are deducted. Income is exempt if it does not exceed GBP 15,400 for a single person (GBP 15,900 for those aged 65 and over) or GBP 24,800 for a married person (GBP 26,100 for those aged 65 and over). Marginal relief is available where income exceeds the exemption limit on small incomes, and the tax charged is not to exceed 26% of the excess.

Where income is chargeable to tax, personal allowances are available as follows:

- Single person GBP 15,400 (over 65 GBP 15,900)
- Married/civil partnership person GBP 24,800 (over 65 GBP 26,100)
- Spouse/civil partner working allowance GBP 4,500

The Enhanced Child Allowance for a parent whose child is in full time higher education is GBP 6,000. There is an Additional Personal Allowance for single parents of GBP 4,500. There is also relief for childcare costs for a registered child carer up to GBP 6,150 or GBP 16,000 (dependent on type of childcare).

There is interest tax relief in certain circumstances. Mortgage interest relief is deductible but only on loans up to GBP 300,000 on an individual's principal private residence if the individual is taxed at the marginal rate of 26%. The relief is restricted to GBP 10,500. There is tax relief for pension contributions, with the maximum relief being the lower of GBP 50,000 or relevant earnings and the relief is restricted if the individual's income is more than GBP 150,000. The only other deduction is for employment expenses.

Some reliefs are restricted and have conditions attached to them which need to be satisfied. A long-term care fund has been set up to help those who need long-term care. If an individual pays income tax they pay into this fund. The long-term care contribution rate is 1% of total income.

HIGH NET WORTH INDIVIDUALS

High Value Resident individuals whose income exceeds GBP 625,000 per annum can apply for a special residence licence to live in Jersey. The current tiered rate of tax on personal, worldwide income is taxed as follows;

- 20% on the first GBP 725,000
- 1% on all income over GBP 725,000
- 20% on income derived from Jersey property

(Based on 2019 rates and allowances)

A. TAXES PAYABLE

FEDERAL TAXES AND LEVIES COMPANY TAX

Resident companies are taxed on their worldwide income while non-residents are generally only taxed on Kazakhstan-sourced income. A company is considered to be a Kazakh tax resident if it is established under the laws of Kazakhstan or if its governing body or place of actual management and control is located in Kazakhstan.

The standard corporate income tax rate of 20% applies to both domestic and foreign companies. The corporate income tax return is due by 31 March of the year following the reporting tax year.

CAPITAL GAINS TAX

Capital gains are taxed as normal income and thus subject to the standard corporate income tax rate of 20%. Capital gains from the disposal of shares are exempt, provided that the shares are:

- held for a period of at least 3 years; and
- held in resident companies whose assets which are used for subsurface use activities in value do not exceed 50% of the total asset's value of that company.

BRANCH PROFITS TAX

Like resident entities, branches are subject to corporate tax at a rate of 20% on their net income. A 15% branch remittance tax also applies to net income after corporate tax regardless of whether the net profit is remitted to the head office but subject to the application of a double tax treaty. The effective tax rate for the income of branches of foreign legal entities therefore amounts to 32% if there is no reduction under the application of a double tax treaty.

SALES TAX / VALUE ADDED TAX (VAT)

The standard rate of VAT is 12%. It is levied on the supply of goods and services and on imports. VAT is payable by all legal entities (including branches and representative offices of non-resident legal entities) and individual entrepreneurs registered for VAT purposes. The registration is mandatory if the taxable person has a turnover exceeding 30,000 MCI in a calendar period (currently, 1 MCI = 2,269 KZT). The threshold will be reduced gradually to 25,000 MCI starting from 2018 and to 20,000 MCI starting from 2019. Voluntary VAT registration is allowed.

The VAT return shall be filed for each tax period by the 15th day of the second month following the reporting period while the deadline for payment of VAT is due by the 25th day of the second month following the reporting period.

B. DETERMINATION OF TAXABLE INCOME

Entities are subject to corporate income tax on trading profits and other taxable income. In general, all expenses incurred by a taxpayer are deductible if they are made with the view to derive business income (except for those expenses specifically listed as non-deductible by the Tax Code) and if they are supported by appropriate documentation.

Non-deductible expenses comprise, among others, dividends, administrative fines and not duly documented expenses.

DEPRECIATION

The accepted depreciation method is the declining balance method. The Tax Code provides for the following depreciable asset groups and depreciation rates:

Asset group	Rate (%)
Buildings and constructions.	10
Fixed assets not included in the preceding groups, including oil, gas wells and transmission devices.	15
Machinery and equipment (except those for oil and gas production, and computer equipment for information processing).	25
Computers and equipment for information processing, software.	10

CAPITAL GAINS AND LOSSES

Capital losses that cannot be fully offset against capital gains in the current tax year can be carried forward for up to 10 years and credited against future capital gains, subject to certain exceptions.

DIVIDENDS

Dividends received are income tax-exempt, with the exception of some categories such as dividends received from risk investment funds.

No withholding tax is levied on dividends distributed to resident companies. Dividends paid to non-residents without a permanent establishment in Kazakhstan are subject to 15% withholding tax, subject to the application of a double tax treaty. Dividends paid to non-residents registered in a tax haven jurisdiction are subject to 20% withholding tax. Dividends are a non-deductible expense.

INTEREST DEDUCTIONS

Thin capitalisation rules apply in respect of interest paid to related parties and persons registered in black-listed jurisdictions. The interest paid is deductible if the debt-to-equity ratio does not exceed 4:1 (7:1 for financial institutions).

LOSSES

Operating losses may be carried forward for up to 10 years. Loss carry-back is not available. Depreciation expenses are deductible during a loss-making year.

FOREIGN SOURCE INCOME

Resident companies and individuals are taxed on their worldwide income while non-residents are subject to tax on their Kazakh-sourced income only.

TAX INCENTIVES

- Accelerated tax deductions for capital expenditure, subject to certain conditions;
- Incentives for investment in priority economic sectors related to business in special economic zones and investment in qualifying investment priority projects.
- Special tax regimes and incentives for qualifying non-profit organisations and organisations operating in social sectors.

C. FOREIGN TAX RELIEF

Resident taxpayers may claim foreign tax relief unilaterally or based on tax treaties (if applicable). A credit is generally available for foreign taxes paid on foreign-sourced income on the basis of documentation confirming the foreign income tax payment. Double tax treaties usually grant a tax credit for the tax paid on income and capital having its source abroad. Double tax treaties prevail over domestic tax legislation.

D. CORPORATE GROUPS

Group taxation is not permitted under the tax legislation, each company must file a separate return. However, non-residents having several permanent establishments in Kazakhstan may opt to submit a consolidated tax return.

Controlled Foreign Companies (CFC)

CFC rules apply to residents with at least a 10% participation in an entity based in a jurisdiction having a preferential tax regime. A jurisdiction is considered as having a preferential tax regime if the following conditions are fulfilled:

- the corporate income tax rate is 10% or lower; or
- it has laws concerning the confidentiality of financial information or laws allowing secrecy in respect of the actual owner of property or the income or actual owners, founders or shareholders of a company.

A list of preferential jurisdictions is made by the government. It currently has 58 jurisdictions listed, including Malta and Panama.

E. RELATED PARTY TRANSACTIONS

Transfer pricing

The current Law on transfer pricing came into force on 1 January 2009 adopting the arm's length principle and comprising reporting requirements. The methods allowed to determine the market price are the comparable uncontrolled price method, cost plus, resale price, profit split and the transactional net margin method. The legislation does not provide for the possibility to conclude an advance pricing agreement (APA) with the tax authorities.

On 25 April 2018, the State Revenue Committee announced the introduction of a three-tiered approach to TP documentation. According to Law No. 122-VI of 25 December 2017, multinational enterprises (MNEs) that operate in Kazakhstan are obliged to prepare and submit (i) a country-by-country report (ii) a Master File (iii) a Local File and (iv) a notification.

The Law defines an MNE group as a group of legal entities, including a parent company, which meets all of the following requirements:

- Legal entities are connected through control and/or ownership;
- At least one entity is a Kazakhstan tax resident or a foreign entity that carries out its business through a PE in Kazakhstan; and
- Consolidated financial statements are prepared with respect to such entities. The consolidation requirement could be omitted if it is in line with IFRS.

Country-by-country (CbC) reporting

The CbC report should be submitted by one of the following members of an MNE group:

- A parent company that is a tax resident in Kazakhstan;
- An authorised member (if such authorisation is granted by a parent company); or
- A resident or non-resident entity that operates in Kazakhstan through a PE, upon request of the Kazakhstan tax authorities.

For CbC reporting purposes, a group consolidated revenue for the fiscal year immediately preceding the reporting financial year should not be less than:

- EUR 750 million if a parent entity is a resident of Kazakhstan; or
- As stipulated by foreign legislation if a parent company or an authorised member are not residents of Kazakhstan.

The CbC report should be submitted within 12 months following the reporting financial year or, if it has been requested by the tax authorities, from the date of such request. The CbC reporting requirements were introduced retrospectively with effect from 2016.

Master File

The MNE group must submit a Master File upon request of the tax authorities if a Kazakhstan entity or member of an MNE group performs controlled transactions. The Master File for the reporting financial year should be submitted within 12 months from the date of received request. The provisions of the Law with respect to the Master File will come into force from 1 January 2019.

Local File

Similar to the requirements stipulated for the Master File, if a business activity falls into the scope of controlled transactions, a member of the MNE group should submit a Local File. A Local File should be submitted if the threshold of a group consolidated revenue is lowered to 5 million monthly calculation index (MCI), which is approximately EUR 30 million. A. TAXES PAYABLE

CORPORATE INCOME TAX

The Tax Decree of 1955 (Amiri Decree No 3 of 1955) as amended by Law No. 2 of 2008 and the Executive Byelaw governs taxation in Kuwait. These decrees are supplemented by Administrative orders, Executive Rules and Circulars issued by the Kuwait Tax Authority and various tax treaties with a number of foreign nations. Under the above, foreign companies described in the decree as 'bodies corporate' which carry on business or trade in Kuwait are taxable. The term 'bodies corporate' refers to an association that is formed and registered under the laws of any country or state and is recognised as having a legal existence entirely separate from that of its individual members. Partnerships fall within this definition.

Foreign companies can carry on business in Kuwait either through an agent or joint venture or as a minority shareholder in a locally registered shareholding company. Tax is levied on the foreign company's share of the profit plus any amounts receivable for interest, royalties, commissions, technical services, management fees etc. Beneficial interests held by such entities in a Kuwaiti company through nominee arrangement also are taxable. Income Tax is not payable by Companies wholly and directly owned by GCC citizens (GCC entities) according to Ministerial decision no 3 of 1989.

Upon commencement of business, foreign companies are required to register themselves with the Tax Department within 30 days and apply for a Tax Card, which needs to be renewed every year. A taxpayer may follow one calendar year comprising consecutive 12 months as the first accounting period. For the first and last accounting periods, it is possible to obtain approval for a period shorter or longer than 12 months up to a maximum period of 18 months. A tax return in the national currency Kuwaiti Dinar and in Arabic, is to be submitted to the Tax Department within 105 days from the fiscal year end, in a specified format, accompanied by audited financial statements and other specified documents. The Tax Department requires the Tax Declaration and the supporting statements to be certified by an accountant in practice in Kuwait who is also registered with the Ministry of Commerce and Industry and accredited by the Ministry of Finance.

If a foreign company has more than one activity in a similar line of business in Kuwait, either directly or indirectly through subsidiary companies, income from all activities is to be aggregated for tax purposes. Business losses cannot be carried forward for more than 3 years. The flat tax rate is 15% on taxable income. It is possible to pay the tax due in four equal instalments, if not paid as one deposit along with the tax return.

Field inspections are carried out by the Tax Department to verify the tax declaration on a yearly basis, without exception. Following the tax inspection, a tax assessment order is issued. If this order is not acceptable, the taxpayer has the option to file an objection. The taxpayer has the option to approach the appeals committee if the decision of the Tax Department is not to be acceptable.

Zakat

According to Law no 46 of 2006, Zakat is payable by both KSC and KSCC entities at the rate of 1% of the net profit of the company, arrived at after reducing the share of profit, representing non-GCC foreign corporate ownership. GCC entities are treated equally with Kuwaiti entities and accordingly GCC entities are required to pay Zakat in the same manner as Kuwaiti entities.

Kuwait entities that the Kuwait / GCC government partially owns are liable to pay Zakat on the entire income, including the share of profit attributable to the Kuwait government shareholding. Entities that are wholly and directly owned by Kuwait / GCC government are not subject to Zakat and exempted. All companies subject to Zakat are required to submit their return by 15th of the fourth month from the end of the fiscal year.

National Labour Support Tax (NLST)

According to Law no 19 of 2000, all public Kuwaiti shareholding companies listed on the Kuwait Stock Exchange are liable to pay 2.5% of their annual net profit as NLST, excluding the share of profit attributable to a foreign corporate body and after certain allowable deductions.

Contributions to Kuwait Foundation for Advancement of Sciences (KFAS)

KSC and KSCC are required to pay 1% of their profits to the KFAS for supporting scientific activities.

Customs Duties

Imported goods to the country are subject to customs duties. As per the GCC Customs Union, entered into between GCC member states, the unified regional customs tariff for all taxable foreign imports is 5%.

B. TAX RETENTIONS

Article 37 of the By-laws and executive rules Nos. 5 and 6 of 2013 require that every business entity operating in Kuwait must comply with the following:

1. Notify the names of its contractors and sub-contractors to the Tax Department and also submit copies of contracts with them;
2. Retain 5% from each payment due to contractors and sub-contractors until they provide a tax clearance certificate issued by the Tax Department;
3. Tax law provides that contract owners may be held responsible for paying the tax and penalty where the foreign entity is delinquent in complying its Kuwait tax obligation;
4. TCCs are easier to obtain for Kuwait / GCC entities and blanket "to whom it may concern" format. However, recently GCC entities are being issued specific NOLs rather than blanket TCCs;
5. Tax retention applicable to Mixed Kuwaiti / GCC companies due to foreign shareholders;

6. Regulations state that where taxpayers have not complied with tax retention regulations, the entire related costs may be disallowed. Recent cases have shown a very aggressive attitude of the tax authorities in this respect where KTA has disallowed the full subcontract for non-compliance;
7. Tax authority looking at compliance on year to year basis;
8. Regulations are worded very broadly. No specifics on which types of contracts fall under the retention regulations/mainly service contract. Also, but not limited to the following types of arrangements:
 - a. Royalties / licences/management fee arrangements
 - b. Equipment leasing/rental arrangements
 - c. Supply agreement which also includes provision of services
9. Pure supply is exempt. If related services elements absent;
10. The Foreign Vendor may obtain a TCC in advance, whereby the 5% tax retention will not be made while making payments to such foreign vendors;
11. Advance TCC can only be obtained by vendors from countries that have a DTT with Kuwait;
12. It would not be possible to obtain an advance TCC for vendors even for pure offshore services (say logistic services until the port of entry in Kuwait etc.), if they are coming from countries without a DTT.
13. Article 39 of the Bylaws empowers the Ministry of Finance to demand payment of the 5% retained amount from the entities holding the amounts, if the concerned contractors or subcontractors fail to settle their taxes due in Kuwait. It also provides that if business entities have not retained the 5%, they are liable for all of the taxes and penalties due by the contractors and subcontractors.

C. CONTRACT AND SUB-CONTRACT

Supply and installation contracts. In supply and installation contracts, a taxpayer is required to account to the tax authorities for the full amount received under the contract, including the offshore supply element, which is the part of the contract (cost, insurance and freight to the applicable port) pertaining to the supply of goods.

Contractors' revenue recognition. Tax is assessed on progress billings (excluding advances) for work performed during an accounting period, less the cost of work incurred. Previously, the authorities did not accept the completed contract or percentage-of-completion methods of accounting. However, the Executive Rules of 2013 do not specifically prohibit the percentage-of-completion method in determining the revenue to be offset against the cost recognised.

Subcontractors' costs. The Kuwait tax authorities are normally stringent with respect to the allowance of subcontractors' costs, particularly subcontractors' costs incurred outside Kuwait. Subcontractors' costs are normally allowed if the taxpayer provides the related supporting documentation (contract, invoices, settlement evidence and other documents), complies with the regulations for the 5% retention on the payments made to the subcontractors and the submission of the contracts to the DIT (see Retention on payments to subcontractors) and fulfils certain other conditions. The tax authorities have also taken the view that they no longer accept losses from work that is subcontracted to other entities.

Work in progress. Costs incurred but not billed by an entity at the end of the fiscal year may be carried forward to the subsequent year as work in progress. Alternatively, revenue relating to the costs incurred but not billed may be estimated on a reasonable basis and reported for tax purposes if the estimated revenue is not less than the cost incurred.

D. TAX INCENTIVES

- a) Leasing and Investment Companies Law No. 12 of 1998 allows the formation of investment and leasing companies having their principal place of business in Kuwait, with Kuwaiti or foreign shareholders. The law grants a five-year tax holiday to non-Kuwaiti founders and shareholders of such companies, beginning on the date of establishment of the companies.
- b) The Kuwait government issued a Foreign Direct Investment law (Law No. 116 of 2013) regarding the promotion of direct investment in Kuwait. This law offers several incentives to foreign investors, of which the major ones are;
 1. Ability to own or increase ownership in a Kuwaiti company to 100%;
 2. Possibility to operate through a 100% owned foreign branch or representative office;
 3. Income tax and customs duties exemptions.
- c) The Law created a new authority, the Kuwait Direct Investment Promotion Authority (KDIPA) in lieu of the Kuwait Foreign Investment Bureau (KFIB).

- d) Businesses set up in the Kuwait free trade zone for carrying on specified operations are exempt from taxes on operations conducted in the zone and foreign entities can own 100% of such businesses.
- e) Kuwait has begun to use the build, operate and transfer (BOT) method in respect of some large infrastructure projects. Tax and tariff concessions may be built into a BOT contract.

As per circular No 48 of 2013, issued by the Tax Department regarding treatment of exempted companies, the exempted companies shall, however, comply with the provisions of submission of tax declaration, inspection and assessment procedures like other companies in order to be eligible for exemption.

E. TAX DEVELOPMENTS

New requirements for the submission of the tax return and compliance process were introduced through Executive Rules and Circulars, which increases the disclosures, analysis and information to be submitted along with the tax declaration. Furthermore, taxpayers are to submit a report on an actual basis applying the same adjustments as per the latest assessment order, within 3 months following the tax filing.

The Ministry of Finance is currently studying the implementation of Business Profits Tax and VAT legislation in Kuwait, anticipated to be in line with the Master framework agreement signed and agreed by all GCC member states. The revised timeline for VAT introduction is 2021.

F. PERSONAL TAX

There is no personal income tax or wealth tax in Kuwait.

G. TREATY AND NON-TREATY WITHHOLDING RATES

Kuwait has entered into double tax treaties with a number of countries. Treaties with several other countries are at various stages of negotiation or ratification.

Disputes about the interpretation of various clauses of tax treaties between taxpayers and the DIT are not uncommon. Disputes with the DIT regarding tax treaties normally arise with respect to the following issues:

- Existence of a permanent establishment;
- Income attributable to a permanent establishment;
- Tax deductibility of costs incurred outside Kuwait.

Kuwait has also entered into treaties with several countries relating solely to international air and /or sea transport. Kuwait is also a signatory to the Arab Tax Treaty and the GCC Joint Agreement, both of which provide for the avoidance of double taxation in most areas. The other signatories to the Arab Tax Treaty are Egypt, Iraq, Jordan, Sudan, Syria and Yemen.

There are no withholding taxes on payments to non-resident companies (see next paragraph however). In addition, under contracts between resident and non-resident entities, 5% of the contract value must be withheld by the resident entity until the non-resident entity presents a non-objection letter issued by the tax authority.

Article 46 of the Executive Regulations provides that investment companies and banks managing portfolios and funds or acting as custodian of shares are required to deduct the tax due on dividend payments made to foreign entities and to remit it to the tax authorities within 30 days of the date of payment. However, dividends related to profits realised in periods starting on or after 10 November 2015 and paid in respect of listed shares are exempt from tax. Also, dividends paid by entities other than those mentioned above are not subject to withholding tax.

There is no withholding tax on interest paid to non-resident companies.

There is no withholding tax on royalties paid to non-resident companies.

KEY TAX POINTS

- In accordance with the Corporate Income Tax Law effective as of 1 January 2018 corporate income tax is paid at the moment of the distribution of profits (including at the moment of the deemed profit distribution). Undistributed corporate profits are tax exempt. Corporate income tax (CIT) rate is 20% on the gross distributed amount or 20/80 on the net income, i.e. the taxable base subject to CIT has to be divided by a 0.8 coefficient, thus giving an effective rate of 25%. The described tax regime applies to Latvian resident companies as well as to permanent establishments of non-resident companies that are registered in Latvia.
- The general VAT rate is 21%. A reduced rate of 12% and 5% is applied to certain products and services. Intra-community supply of goods (to a customer registered as a VAT payer in another Member State) is zero-rated.
- Non-arm's length transactions with related parties are treated as a deemed profit distribution.
- Withholding tax is levied at standard rates on certain payments made by Latvian residents to non-residents. If a double tax treaty exists between Latvia and the relevant country, reduced rates or exemptions may apply.
- As from 1 January 2018 a progressive personal income tax rate is implemented in Latvia.

A. TAXES PAYABLE

FEDERAL TAXES AND LEVIES

COMPANY TAX

A company is resident in Latvia if it is registered, or required to be registered, in Latvia. Resident companies are taxed on profits distributed from their worldwide income. Permanent establishments of non-residents are taxed on profits distributed from income attributable to the branch.

Companies may choose the accounting and taxation period which does not necessarily have to be the calendar year and the length of the taxation (accounting) period is 12 months. Only the first accounting period can be longer than 12 months (subject to a maximum of 18 months). Taxation of corporate profits is postponed until the profits are distributed.

Shipping companies may alternatively apply tonnage tax.

CAPITAL GAINS TAX

Undistributed profits including capital gains are tax exempt.

BRANCH PROFITS TAX

Permanent establishments are treated as domestic companies, i.e. taxable income arises at the moment when the profit of the permanent establishment is transferred to the main company.

VALUE ADDED TAX (VAT)

The general VAT rate is 21%. A reduced 12% rate is applied to certain products and services such as medical goods (according to the list approved by the Cabinet of Ministers), baby food, supplies of books, mass media, inland public transportation services, hotel services (accommodation) and supplies of heating to individuals. A reduced 5% rate is charged on fresh fruit and vegetables from 1 January 2018. Exports and related services are zero-rated. Several types of supplies are VAT exempt. These include the sale of land (except development land with building permission issued after 31 December 2009) and used real estate, supply of medical services, rental of apartments to individuals, and most banking and insurance services. Intra-community supply of goods (to a customer registered as a VAT payer in another Member State) is zero-rated.

A transaction that involves a Latvian taxable person acquiring goods in Latvia from a taxable person registered in another Member State will qualify as an intra-community acquisition within the meaning of the VAT Act. When the Latvian taxable person receives the goods from a supplier, this person will charge VAT on the acquisition and will recover this amount as input tax in the same month (reverse charge accounting).

The VAT registration threshold is EUR 40,000.

There is a 50% restriction on deducting input tax on light passenger cars that are purchased, rented or imported and on their running costs including fuel and repairs (except where the car is used for passenger and carrying goods, taxi services, lease services, and some other specialised services).

VAT is not deductible on representative vehicles (cost exceeding EUR 50,000).

The following types of supplies attract reverse charge accounting if both parties to the transactions are VAT payers: timber, scrap metal, and construction service, electronic goods (smartphones, laptops, tablets, and integrated circuit devices, including microprocessors and central processing units), cereal and industrial crops, supplies of unwrought precious metals, precious metal alloys and metals clad with precious metal (including unfinished products), as well as waste precious metal and scrap precious metal. From 2018 reverse charge VAT applies also to supplies of household electronic and electrical appliances and construction materials.

FRINGE BENEFITS TAX

Most fringe benefits granted to employees are subject to payroll taxes. A few benefits are tax exempt. These include health and accident insurance premiums paid on agreements concluded by employers on behalf of their employees and contributions to private pension funds or life insurance premiums on the employee's behalf. Health and life insurance premiums and contributions to private pension plans that do not exceed 10% of gross remuneration of an employee in the taxation year are not subject to payroll taxes. Certain conditions need to be met and health and accident insurance premiums may not exceed EUR 426.86.

LOCAL TAXES

Local authorities are permitted to levy stamp duties. They may be levied on transactions such as obtaining a building permit, placements of advertisements at public locations, organising public trading events, etc.

REAL ESTATE TAX

Real estate tax is paid by Latvian and foreign companies and individuals that have title (registered with the Land Registry) or legal possession of real estate in Latvia, i.e. land, buildings and engineering structures - roads, bridges, pipelines, communication lines, power station structures, fencing, etc. The standard rate of real estate tax applicable to land, buildings (except residential buildings) and constructions is 1.5% of the cadastral value. The local authorities have the right to set the rate of real estate tax within a range of 0.2 - 3%. If the local authority fails to announce a different rate by 1 October for the subsequent year, the standard rate of 1.5% will apply for that subsequent year.

From 2014 the local authorities, when issuing binding regulations, have the right to apply a 3% tax rate for buildings that exceed certain construction works' duration, starting from the next month after the construction term expires until the month when the building acceptance document is signed. Tax is calculated on the cadastral value of land, buildings and engineering structures. Some classes of real estate are exempt from tax such as state or municipal real estate used for performing certain functions. A progressive rate has been set for residential houses and any parts of non-residential buildings that are functionally used for living and not used in a trade or business:

- 0.2% of cadastral values up to EUR 56,915;
- 0.4% of cadastral values exceeding EUR 56,915, but not exceeding EUR 106,715;
- 0.6% of cadastral values exceeding EUR 106,715.

A double rate of 3% (standard rate 1.5% plus additional rate 1.5%) applies to uncultivated land capable of agricultural use. If such property, in addition, is not maintained in accordance with regulatory requirements, the local authority can set a rate of up to 4.5% consisting of a maximum allowable rate of 3% plus an additional rate of 1.5% for uncultivated land.

OTHER TAXES

Stamp Duty is payable on registration of title to real estate with the Land Book at 2% of the purchase price (or cadastral value if higher), up to a maximum of EUR 42,686.

B. DETERMINATION OF TAX BASE

From 1 January 2018 corporate income tax is paid on the following:

Profit distribution:

- declared (calculated) dividends, including interim dividends;
- payments treated as dividends (this is applicable to certain types of entities such as co-operative societies, partnerships, permanent establishments);
- deemed dividends (if share capital has been increased by capitalizing retained earnings, and later share capital is reduced and paid to the shareholders), including any surplus assets on winding-up.

Deemed profit distribution:

- non-business expenses;
- doubtful debts (subject to special rules);
- non-arm's length transactions with related parties;
- interest payments in excess of allowed interest (on loans other than loans from financial institutions);
- loans to related parties (with several exemptions);
- liquidation quota.

Non-business expenses include excess costs incurred on representation and staff sustainability events. Allowed expenses of this category (in aggregate for the financial year) are capped at 5% of the total gross employment pay on which national social insurance contributions have been paid in the preceding financial year. The respective expenses have to be recorded separately from other expenses.

Excess interest payments arise where the associated liabilities (to lenders other than credit institutions) exceed four times the shareholders' equity at the beginning of the tax year, less any revaluation reserve and any other reserves not made as a result of profit.

Providing loans to a related party is considered a profit distribution, except for the parent's loans to a subsidiary; short-term loans for up to 12 months; a loan not exceeding a loan received from an unrelated party or not exceeding certain level of registered share capital; or where the lender has no retained earnings at the beginning of the year.

The CIT rate is 20% of the taxable base. Before applying the rate to the taxable base for the tax period, the taxable base shall be divided by a coefficient of 0.8, thus giving an effective tax rate of 25%.

In accordance with the transitional provisions, companies are entitled to distribute profit shown on the balance sheet as at 31 December 2017 to corporate shareholders without the application of new CIT for an unlimited period of time. If the shareholders are individuals, for a period until 31 December 2019 a 10% personal income tax will continue to apply to dividends from pre-2018 profits; after that period the rate to be applied is 20%.

LOSSES

Tax losses accumulated under the previous CIT regime (until 31 December 2017) can be used to reduce tax payable on dividends. The tax credit is capped at 50% of the amount of tax calculated on the dividends; the period in which these tax losses can be used is no longer than 5 years (until 2022).

E. RELATED PARTY TRANSACTIONS

Non-arm's length transactions with related parties would be treated as deemed profit distribution.

F. WITHHOLDING TAX

Withholding tax is levied on the following payments made by Latvian residents to non-residents.

Management and consulting services	20%
Sale of real estate	3% of sale proceeds (also includes income from sale of shares of companies where real estate comprises more than 50% of company's total assets)

Note: All payments to companies registered in tax havens, except payments for purchases of goods and purchases of public securities registered in EU or EEA countries, attract 20%, unless specifically agreed with the tax authorities. However, the mentioned purchases shall be performed at market prices to apply for an exemption.

The rates given above are standard rates. If a double tax treaty exists between Latvia and the relevant country, reduced rates or exemptions may apply. A Latvian company paying the income to a non-resident company can apply these exemptions/lower tax rates only if the recipient of income has submitted the valid residence certificate stating that the recipient is a resident in that country (certificate to be approved by tax authorities) before the actual payment is made. A residence certificate should be approved by the local State Revenue Service office and is valid for five fiscal years.

G. EXCHANGE CONTROL

There is no exchange control in Latvia.

H. PERSONAL TAX

Income of individuals is taxed at progressive income tax rates as follows:

- 20% - for annual income up to EUR 20,004;
- 23% - for part of annual income which exceeds EUR 20,004 but does not exceed EUR 62,800 (in 2019);
- 31.4% - for part of annual income, which exceeds EUR 62,800.

Tax in respect of salaries, bonuses and most other types of payments made by Latvian companies is withheld at source and remitted to the tax authorities. If the recipient of income is registered as a sole trader, he/she is responsible for calculating and paying income tax.

Capital gains are taxed at a rate of 20%. A capital gain is the difference between the sales price and the acquisition cost of a capital asset, or the difference between any surplus assets received on a company's liquidation and the original investment, or the down payment on a sale that is not completed. Capital assets include shares, investments in partnerships, and other financial instruments, investment fund certificates, debt instruments, real estate and intellectual property.

Non-resident individuals shall pay tax on income (capital gain) from selling real estate and other capital assets, except publicly traded financial instruments. However, a disposal of shares in a company is deemed to be a disposal of real estate (and thus subject to 20% tax) when real estate comprises more than 50% of the company's total assets either during the year of disposal or in the previous year. The proportion of real estate is calculated at the beginning of the year.

Benefits from the private use of company vehicles are not subject to income tax provided the merchant pays light corporate vehicle tax on cars owned or held. The taxable amount depends on the engine capacity only. If light corporate vehicle tax is paid, car related expenses (fuel, maintenance, rent) can be treated as a deductible expense also for corporate income tax purposes.

SOCIAL INSURANCE CONTRIBUTIONS

Social insurance contributions are paid by both the employer and employee. The total rate for resident employees is 35.09% of gross employment income (including salary, bonuses, benefits in kind etc.), 11% of which is paid by the individual (withheld from gross salary) and 24.09% by the employer. Special rules apply to Latvian residents employed by foreign companies, foreign nationals employed by foreign companies (performing work in Latvia) and self-employed individuals.

In 2019 the income subject to social insurance contributions is capped at EUR 62,800. Solidarity tax is charged on income that exceeds the cap (at the same rate as social insurance contributions). Solidarity tax payments go towards healthcare, social insurance, and personal income tax payments (to cover progressive income tax rate for salaries exceeding EUR 62,800).

I. TREATY AND NON-TREATY WITHHOLDING TAX RATES

Latvia has tax treaties with the following countries: Albania, Armenia, Austria, Azerbaijan, Belarus, Belgium, Bulgaria, Canada, China, Croatia, Cyprus, Czech Republic, Denmark, Estonia, Finland, France, Georgia, Germany, Greece, Hong Kong, Hungary, Iceland, India, Italy, Ireland, Israel, Japan, Kazakhstan, Korea, Kuwait, Kyrgyzstan, Lithuania, Luxembourg, Macedonia, Malta, Mexico, Moldova, Montenegro, Morocco, Netherlands, Norway, Poland, Portugal, Qatar, Romania, Russia, Serbia, Singapore, Slovak Republic, Slovenia, Spain, Sweden, Switzerland, Tajikistan, Turkey, Turkmenistan, Ukraine, United Arab Emirates,

United Kingdom, United States, Uzbekistan, and Vietnam. The treaty has been concluded between Latvia and the former Serbia and Montenegro.

Management and consulting fees generally attract 20% withholding tax while a zero rate is applied if a DTT exemption applies (residence certificate submitted to the Latvian company paying income to non-resident).

Temporary tax exemptions: The Lebanese tax system has instituted temporary tax exemptions mainly for newly established industries if they are set up in one of the development areas designated by the government. In addition, certain industrial activities are exempt when they relate to the economic development of the country and they fulfil certain legal requirements.

TAXATION BASED ON TURNOVER

Certain enterprises are not taxed on the actual net profits realised but apply a percentage of the annual turnover to arrive at their taxable profits. This is the case for:

- Interest on bank deposits or bonds is subject to a 7% withholding tax while other interest is subject to a 10% withholding tax, unless a treaty applies. Interest paid to a non-resident is subject to a 7.5% withholding tax.
- Royalties paid to a non-resident are subject to a 7.5% withholding tax, unless a treaty applies.
- The 5% reduced rate applies if the beneficial owner is a company (other than a partnership) which holds directly at least 25% of the equity capital of the dividend-paying company.

KEY TAX POINTS

- A company is liable to tax separately from its members, and dividends are only taxable if they are from unqualified income. A manufacturing company is taxed at a special rate of 10% on profits whilst a non-manufacturing company is taxed at a standard rate of 25% on profits.
- Capital gains and losses: A taxable gain or loss on disposal of an asset is the difference between its adjusted cost base and proceeds. No tax implication arises from the disposal of assets, such as a private residence or motor vehicle, provided they are not used in the production of income subject to tax.
- A branch of a non-resident company in Lesotho is subject to tax at the standard rate of tax of 25% on repatriated income in addition to income tax on the chargeable income of the branch.
- VAT is a broad based tax levied on the supply or consumption of goods or services including supplies to the government. It is also levied on imported goods and services. Only registered persons can operate VAT and registration may be on a compulsory, mandatory or voluntary basis. The VAT registration threshold is LSL 850,000. There are four rates of VAT; 0%, 5%, 14% (standard rate) and 15%.
- Fringe Benefits Tax (FBT) is imposed on employers who provide their employees with fringe benefits. The Income Tax Act specifically identifies certain fringe benefits, all other benefits fall under the definition of employment income hence taxable to employees.
- Lesotho is a member of the Southern African Customs Union (SACU) which links all members by a single tariff and no customs duty applies between them, i.e. the SACU is treated as a single customs territory.
- Taxable business income is determined after the off-set of allowable deductions such as capital allowances and business expenses and available tax losses.
- Personal tax is based on residency. An individual is a resident if they have a place of abode in Lesotho, are present in Lesotho for more than 182 days in any consecutive period of twelve months (which includes all or part of the year of assessment), are an official of the Lesotho Government posted overseas during the year of assessment or have a resident lifestyle.

A. TAXES PAYABLE

The national government administers taxes through the Lesotho Revenue Authority (LRA) and levies may be charged by both the national government and district councils.

COMPANY TAX

A company is defined as a body corporate or unincorporated, whether created or recognised under the law in force in Lesotho or elsewhere, but does not include partnership or trust. A company is liable to tax separately from its members, and dividends are only taxable if they are from unqualified income. A manufacturing company is taxed at a special rate of 10% on profits whilst a non-manufacturing company is taxed at a standard rate of 25% on profits.

CAPITAL GAINS TAX

A taxable gain or loss on disposal of an asset is the difference between its adjusted cost base and proceeds (see below under 'capital gains and losses').

Personal assets

No tax implication arises from the disposal of assets, such as a private residence or motor vehicle, provided they are not used in the production of income subject to tax.

Special situations

A number of special situations are identified in the Act in respect of which special rules apply.

1. Loss on disposal to an associate

Where an asset is disposed of at a loss to an associate, the loss is not recognised for tax purposes. In such a situation, the asset is deemed to have been sold by the disposer and acquired by the buyer for its adjusted cost base at the date of disposal.

2. Asset depreciation under the pooling method

Gains and losses do not normally arise where assets are depreciated using the pooling method. However, there is a required treatment for three particular situations.

- Where, after disposal, there is a credit balance on the pool, then that credit balance is treated as a gain and forms part of business income.
- Where, after all the assets in a pool have been disposed of, a debit balance remains, then that debit balance is treated as a loss and is an allowable deduction against business income.
- Where the balance in a pool is less than LSL 500 and there have been no additions to the pool during the year, then that balance is an allowable deduction against business income.

3. Transfer between spouses and former spouses

Where an asset is transferred between spouses or between former spouses as part of a divorce settlement, a taxable disposal has not arisen. In such cases the (former) spouse is deemed to have acquired the asset at its adjusted cost base to the other (former) spouse as at the date of transfer. Correspondingly, the (former) spouse transferring the asset is deemed to have disposed of it for its adjusted cost base at the date of transfer.

4. Involuntary conversion and re-investment

Special treatment is available for situations when an asset is involuntarily disposed of and a similar asset is acquired. Such situations cover, for example, compensation under an insurance policy for the destruction of an asset or a payment for the compulsory acquisition of an asset.

If the proceeds are less than the adjusted cost base, then the loss is allowable. The new asset is deemed to have been acquired at its actual cost. Please note:

- If the full amount of the proceeds is re-invested in a new asset, no chargeable gain arises and the new asset is deemed to have been acquired for the adjusted cost base of the asset disposed of.
- If the full amount of the proceeds is not re-invested in a similar asset then the un-invested proceeds to the extent that they form part of any gain are taxable. The newly acquired asset is deemed to have been acquired at the adjusted cost base of the asset disposed of.

5. Transfer of assets on death

Where an asset is transferred to a personal representative or beneficiary on the death of a taxpayer a disposal for tax purposes is not deemed to have arisen. In such a situation, the personal representative or beneficiary is deemed to have acquired the asset for its market value at the date of death or its adjusted cost at the date of death, whichever is higher.

6. Contribution of asset to partnership

Where a taxpayer transfers an asset to a partnership and part of the contribution of capital to the partnership and the taxpayer's interest in the partnership exceeds 50% after the contribution of the asset then no gain or loss is deemed to have arisen on the disposal of the asset. The taxpayer is deemed to have disposed of the asset for its adjusted cost base at the date of transfer and the partnership is deemed to have acquired it for that amount.

BRANCH PROFITS TAX

A branch of a non-resident company in Lesotho is subject to tax at the standard rate of tax of 25% on repatriated income (branch remittance tax) in addition to the 25% corporate income tax on the chargeable income of the branch. Repatriated income is the chargeable income of the branch minus:

- Lesotho income tax paid on that chargeable income;
- Any profits reinvested in the branch; and
- Every repatriation of moneys by the branch is treated for tax purposes as having been made first out of the branch income, notwithstanding that it may be treated otherwise in the records of the branch.

VALUE ADDED TAX (VAT)

Prior to July 2003, a Sales Tax was in operation and this contributed to the Government Budget until 30 June 2003. From 1 July 2003 the Sales Tax ceased and was replaced by Value Added Tax (VAT) in accordance with the VAT Act (passed by Parliament in 2001). VAT is a broad based tax levied on the supply or consumption of goods or services including supplies to the government. It is also levied on imported goods and services and referred to as a 'destination based tax' because it is levied at the place where the consumption of service occurs.

Supplies subject to VAT must be made by a registered vendor and they must not be an exempt supply, i.e. a small businesses not registered for VAT cannot levy VAT on supplies to the final consumer. Only VAT registered persons can operate VAT, i.e. charge VAT on their sales invoices. Registration for VAT purposes can either be on a compulsory, mandatory or voluntary basis. The VAT registration threshold is LSL 850,000.

- 1) Compulsory VAT registration is required within 14 days where a person conducts business in Lesotho and it is clear that within a 12 month period their turnover of taxable supplies will exceed LSL 850,000. However, the following persons are required to register for VAT purposes, regardless of the threshold:
 - a. National, regional or public authorities who carry on enterprises;
 - b. Auctioneers; and,
 - c. Persons carrying on an enterprise outside Lesotho whose goods or services are consumed in Lesotho.
- 2) Mandatory registration: The Commissioner of VAT can direct a person to register for VAT when their turnover exceeds the registration threshold, i.e. it is mandatory for them to register because the annual turnover is the determining factor.
- 3) Voluntary registration: VAT registration can be applied for where the turnover is less than the registration threshold. The Commissioner of VAT can approve such a registration at his discretion. Entrepreneurs often opt to voluntarily register for VAT purposes in order to recover input VAT paid on purchases.

Suppliers of exempt services such as banking services, educational services, etc. cannot register for VAT even if the annual turnover exceeds the threshold. If the supplier provides both the exempt and taxable services, the Commissioner will consider the taxable supplies. The VAT tax period is one month. VAT is payable or claimable on or within twenty days after the end of the month. There are four VAT rates in Lesotho:

- a) 0% for exports of goods and services and on maize meal, maize (grain), bread, milk, beans, peas, agricultural inputs (fertilizers, seeds and livestock feed, un-malted sorghum), hens eggs and paraffin intended for use as fuel for cooking, illuminating or heating;
- b) 5%: utilities, e.g. telephone and electricity services;
- c) 14% (standard rate): other supplies of goods and services supplied or imported; and,
- d) 15%: alcohol and tobacco products.

VAT may be accounted for on either an accrual (or invoice) basis or a cash (payment) basis. Restrictions to claim input VAT apply to:

- a) Expenses for private use;
- b) Expenses incurred prior to two months before registering for VAT;
- c) Vendor on cash basis but who has not paid the expense;
- d) Entertainment of customers and clients in restaurants, theatres and night clubs;

- e) Staff refreshments such as coffee, tea and other snacks;
- f) Catering services acquired for staff canteens and dining room;
- g) Subscription fees for sporting or recreational clubs;
- h) Christmas lunches and parties, including hire of venues;
- i) Beverages, meals and other hospitality and entertainment supplied to customers and clients at product launches and other promotional events, etc.

By way of exception to the above, the input tax incurred in relation to vendors who are in the business of supplying entertainment and meals and refreshments for organizers of seminars and similar events may however be claimed. Penalties for non-compliance and fraud: there are two types of additional tax or fines for failing to make a return or to pay by due date as well as acts of fraud. There are fines which are imposed by Commissioner of VAT and those imposed by courts. Some penalties for non-compliance and fraud are shown below:

Infringement	Penalty / Additional tax
1. Late submission of a return	Additional tax of 22% per month or part thereof of the VAT payable
2. Late payment of VAT	Additional tax of 22% per month or part thereof of the outstanding VAT amount
3. Failure to file a return or pay	An offence which is liable on conviction to a fine
4. Incorrect or false return or other declaration	Criminal offence which is liable on conviction to a fine or up to 2 years in prison
5. Fraudulent evasion	Criminal offence which is liable on conviction to a heavy fine or up to six years in prison

FRINGE BENEFITS TAX

Fringe Benefits Tax (FBT) is imposed on employers who provide their employees with fringe benefits. The Income Tax Act specifically identifies fringe benefits as; car, housing, utilities, domestic assistance, meal or refreshment, medical, loan, debt waiver and excessive superannuation contributions. All other benefits will then fall under the definition of employment income hence taxable to employees. Certain benefits provided by an employer are however exempt, such as:

- a) Meals or refreshments provided in a canteen, cafeteria, or dining room operated by or on behalf of the employer solely for the benefit of the employees and which is available to all non-casual employees on equal terms.
- b) Medical fringe benefit available to all non-casual employees on equal terms.
- c) A fringe benefit relating to exempt employment income.
- d) A fringe benefit, the value of which is so small as to make accounting for it unreasonable or administratively impractical.
- e) Provision of a security guard.
- f) Housing fringe benefit to the extent it is in excess of 20% of an employee's remuneration for the year of assessment in which the benefit is provided.
- g) Fringe benefits provided to a domestic assistant.

For the purpose of meals and refreshments and medical fringe benefits, a non-casual employee is defined as an employee who does not meet any of the following two conditions:

- a) An employee who is employed under a single contract, arrangement or understanding which is for a fixed period of less than one month. However, if the contract is subsequently renewed, such that one has been employed for more than one month from the commencement of the original contract, that person is a non-casual employee; or,
- b) An employee who works for less than 15 hours per week over the course of a month.

The total of all taxable values provided to an employee in the year of assessment is divided by 60% to gross it up to a taxable amount. FBT is 40% of the taxable amount and is an allowable deduction at the level of the employer. Employers are required to make returns and payments of FBT within 14 days after every quarter.

LOCAL TAXES

Local taxes in Lesotho are sometimes referred to as domestic taxes. These include VAT already mentioned above, pay-as-you-earn (PAYE) and corporate income tax (CIT). PAYE is charged on employment income and CIT is charged on company profits.

OTHER TAXES - CUSTOMS DUTY

The Southern African Customs Union (SACU) consists of Botswana, Lesotho, Namibia, South Africa, and Swaziland. The SACU Secretariat is located in Windhoek, Namibia. SACU was established in 1910, making it the world's oldest Customs Union. Negotiations to reform the 1969 Agreement started in 1994, and a new agreement was signed in 2002. The new arrangement was ratified by SACU Heads of State.

The Economic structure of the Union links the Member states by a single tariff and no customs duties between them. The Member States form a single Customs territory in which tariffs and other barriers are eliminated on substantially all the trade between the Member States for products originating in these countries and there is a common external tariff that applies to non-members of SACU, which is shared according to the revenue sharing ratio.

INTEREST RECEIVABLE

Interest payable to a resident of Lesotho by a resident of Lesotho, other than an individual, is subject to a withholding tax of 10%.

B. DETERMINATION OF TAXABLE INCOME

CAPITAL ALLOWANCES

Tax depreciation can be claimed on the capital cost of premises (normally limited to industrial premises) and equipment including those for non-subsistence farming. The two methods of claiming tax depreciation (capital allowances) are the Single Asset Method or the Pooling Method. Declining Balance Depreciation Rates:

Group	Assets	Rate
1	Automobiles; taxis; light general purpose trucks; tractors for use over-the-road; special tools and devices.	25%
2	Office furniture; fixtures, and equipment computers and peripheral equipment and data handling equipment; buses; heavy general purpose trucks; trailers and trailer mounted containers; construction equipment.	20%
3	Any depreciable asset not included in another group.	10%
4	Railroad cars and locomotives and railroad equipment; vessels, barges, tugs and similar water transportation equipment; industrial buildings; engines and turbines; public utility plant.	5%

Single Asset Depreciation

The single asset method is similar to the reducing balance method of accounting and applies where a taxpayer has not elected for pooling to apply. No matter whether a pooling election has been made, single asset depreciation will apply to depreciable assets that are only partly used in the production of income that is subject to tax, and to assets in group 4.

Pooling of assets

Where pooling of assets applies, the depreciation allowance is calculated separately for each pool by applying the rate of depreciation for the pool against the balance of the pool at the end of year of assessment. Where consideration is received on the disposal of assets during a year of assessment and the amount exceeds the closing balance of the pool, the excess consideration is treated as a gain from the disposal of fixed assets and included in gross taxable income, i.e. it is treated as business income.

If no assets have been added to the pool during the year of assessment, and the closing balance of the pool is less than LSL 500, the taxpayer is permitted to write off the pool balance as a deduction.

Single Asset Method	Pooling Method
Depreciation allowance is granted for the period during the year that the asset is in use, i.e. dates when the fixed assets were purchased and disposed of must be kept.	The assets are depreciated on the basis that they were acquired exactly half way through the year.
This method is always applicable to Group 4 assets and to all other assets when pooling has not been elected for.	It only applies when it is elected for. Once elected for, the election is irrevocable. It cannot be applied to Group 4 assets.
When the asset is disposed, a gain or loss may occur which will form part of the business income or a deduction against the business income respectively.	Gains and losses do not arise on disposal as the proceeds are deductible from the pool. However where all the assets are disposed and a balance remains, the balance is an allowable deduction. If the balance of the pool is a credit, then it forms part of the business income in the year in which it arises.
It requires the maintenance of detailed asset registers.	It does not require the maintenance of detailed asset registers.
It can be applied to assets both fully and partially used in the production of income, subject to an apportionment of the amount attributable to the production of income.	It cannot be applied to assets partially used in the production of income.

Farming Assets

Tax depreciation can be claimed on assets of non-exempt farming activities. The method depends on when the asset was acquired and whether an election has been made by the taxpayer, although farm buildings may be treated separately.

STOCK / INVENTORY

A cash-basis taxpayer may calculate the cost base of trading stock on the prime-cost or absorption-cost method, and an accrual-basis taxpayer must calculate the cost base of trading stock on the absorption-cost method. The value of trading stock on hand at the end of the year of assessment is the lower of its cost base or market value at that date. Where particular items of trading stock are not readily identifiable, a taxpayer may account for the trading stock on the first-in-first-out (FIFO) method or the average-cost method.

CAPITAL GAINS AND LOSSES

Depreciable Business Assets

The adjusted cost base of depreciable business assets is the tax written down value on the date of disposal. Where the proceeds are less than the tax written down value, the loss is an allowable deduction against Business Income.

Depreciable business assets - non-depreciable

Non-depreciable business assets, which may include office buildings, fall into two categories.

a) Non - depreciable business assets held at 1 April 1993:

The adjusted cost base of the asset is deducted from the proceeds. In the case of such assets, the adjusted cost base is the higher of original cost or market value as at 1 April 1993. Where the proceeds exceed the adjusted cost base, then the gain forms part of business income. Where the proceeds are less than the adjusted cost base, the loss is an allowable deduction. However, the loss is only allowable to the extent that there is an actual loss. Thus, if the proceeds exceed the original cost but not the value as at 1 April 1993, the loss is not an allowable deduction. This is a no gain, no loss situation.

b) Non - depreciable assets acquired after 1 April 1993:

The adjusted cost base of the asset is deducted from the proceeds. The only adjustments to cost base are capital improvements. Where the proceeds exceed adjusted cost base, then that gain forms part of business income. Where the proceeds are less than the adjusted cost base, then that loss is an allowable deduction against business income.

Farming assets - depreciable and non-depreciable

The tax legislation now distinguishes between commercial farming (not exempt from income tax) and subsistence farming (exempt from income tax). The tax treatment of such disposals would be like other asset except for the following transitional provisions:

- The cost base of any farming asset disposed which was purchased before 31 March 1996 is equal to its market value on 31 March 1996. This applies to trading stock and other assets. This is to ensure that the individual is only taxed in respect of the gain or loss accruing after the removal of the exemption, i.e. from 31 March 1996.

It is important to note that while the market value as at 31 March 1996 is taken as the cost base for disposals of commercial farming assets, the adjusted cost base as at 31 March 1996, arrived at by assuming that the single asset method of depreciation has been applied since acquisition of the asset, is taken for depreciation purposes. For the purpose of disposal, the cost base would again depend on whether the asset is depreciable or not:

- For depreciation assets, gains are calculated as the proceeds less the tax written down value taking account of notional allowances for pre 1 April 1996 assets.
- For non-depreciable assets, the higher of the market value as at 1 April 1996 and original cost is used as the cost base for disposal purposes.

The tax treatment of these assets is similar to business assets except that the 1 April 1993 date is substituted for the 1 April 1996.

Investment assets - immovable property

Such investment assets fall into two categories:

- a) Land and buildings giving rise to rental income; and,
- b) Shares in companies whose primary assets consist of investments in immovable properties.

Determining whether land or buildings are investment assets or business assets depend on whether rental income is being derived from the asset. These assets are grouped into two categories; those held at 1 April 1993 and those acquired after 1 April 1993. For assets held at 1 April 1993 there is a different calculation method to establish the cost base. If the asset has been held for more than twelve months, then the adjusted cost of the asset can be increased for the effects of inflation between 1 April 1993 and the date of disposal. Where the proceeds exceed the adjusted cost base, there is an allowable loss which can be offset against any gains arising from the disposal of any investment asset (movable or immovable). Any unutilised loss can be carried forward for set-off against future gains. However, the amount of the loss that is allowed is restricted to the extent that the loss is an actual loss. It is therefore necessary to make a comparison between the proceeds and the original cost. If, on this basis, there is a profit, then the loss is not allowable. If there is a loss, only the actual loss will be allowable.

Investment assets - not immoveable property

For purposes of calculating the tax implications on the disposal of these assets, they are divided into two categories:

a) Investment assets held at 1 April 1993

The adjusted cost base (higher of original cost or market value as at 1 April 1993) of the asset is deducted from the proceeds. Where the proceeds exceed the adjusted cost base, the gain forms part of property income. Where the proceeds are less than the adjusted cost base, then there is an allowable loss.

Such loss can be offset against any gains arising from the disposal of any investment asset (movable or immovable). Any unutilised loss can be carried forward for set-off against future gains. However, the amount of the loss that is allowed is restricted to the extent that the loss is an actual loss. It is therefore necessary to make a comparison between the proceeds and the original cost. If on this basis there is a profit, then the loss is not allowable.

b) Investment assets acquired after 1 April 1993

The treatment of such disposals is straight-forward. Where the proceeds are less than the original cost then the loss is an allowable loss. Such loss can be offset against any gains arising from the disposal of any investment asset (movable or immovable). Any unutilised loss can be carried forward for set-off against future gains.

DIVIDENDS

A resident company which pays a dividend is liable to pay advance corporation tax (ACT) at the rate of 25/75 of the dividend payment except to the extent that the distribution is made out of qualified income (manufacturing income subject to the 10% special rate and dividends received from another resident company). ACT is an advance payment of the company's income tax liability on its distributed profits and is not an additional tax. A company may credit ACT against its income tax liability, including instalments of income tax. A resident company must, within seven days of paying dividends, file a return of ACT stating:

- a) The amount of dividends paid;
- b) ACT payable; and,
- c) The amount of ACT which has been satisfied by way of set-off in accordance with Section 87(4).

Where there has been no set-off of ACT, it must be paid within seven days of the dividend payment. This payment can be carried forward indefinitely for set-off against future tax liability. A dividend paid by a resident company is not included in the gross income of a resident individual. This in effect means that the maximum rate of tax on a manufacturing dividend is 10% and on a non-manufacturing dividend it is 25%. It also permits passage of dividends between resident companies without any further liability to taxation.

Redemption of shares

On redemption of shares, a company may purchase a certain proportion of shares from each shareholder or from a certain number of shareholders. If the former approach is adopted then the redemption is on pro-rata basis otherwise not on a pro-rata basis. Where the redemption is on a pro-rata basis, the gains or losses are treated normally. However, where the redemption is not on pro-rata basis, the gain is treated as a distribution to the shareholders and therefore the company has to account for ACT like on ordinary dividends.

Disguised dividends

There may be a number of transactions between a company and a member of the company or an associate of a member, which are, in substance, a distribution and as such will be treated as a dividend for the purpose of ACT. Where the transaction is with an associate of a member, the dividend is treated as having been paid to the member and not the associate.

Dividend stripping

Dividend stripping occurs where a company, just before it is to pay dividends out of its qualified income (which does not attract ACT), is acquired by another company. The acquiring company receives the dividends and then subsequently sells the acquired company at a loss. The Commissioner has the discretion to treat a dividend paid as part of a dividend stripping transaction and not paid out of qualified income, in which case the taxpayer will be liable to ACT in respect of the dividends.

INTEREST DEDUCTIONS

Thin capitalisation

Where a resident company (not principally engaged in a money-lending business) has a debt-to-equity ratio in excess of 3 to 1, the Commissioner may disallow a deduction for the interest paid on that part of the debt in excess of the aforementioned ratio, regardless of the lender, but cannot re-characterize the payment as a dividend.

LOSSES

Individuals

Where business income of an individual taxpayer is exceeded by deductions relating to that income, the loss (being the amount of the excess):

- May not be deducted against other income of the taxpayer but shall be carried forward; and,
- May be deducted in determining the chargeable business income in subsequent years of assessment.

Where property income of an individual taxpayer is exceeded by deductions relating to that income, the loss (being the amount of the excess):

- May not be deducted against other income of the taxpayer but shall be carried forward; and,
- May be deducted in determining chargeable property income in subsequent years of assessment.

Companies

Where the taxpayer is a company, the excess of the deductions allowed over the taxpayer's gross income shall be carried forward and may be deducted in determining chargeable income in subsequent years of assessment. Where manufacturing income of a resident company is exceeded by the deductions relating to that income, the loss (being the amount of the excess):

- May not be deducted against other income of the company but shall be carried forward; and,
- May be deducted in determining the chargeable manufacturing income in subsequent years of assessment.

Assessed losses are deductible from chargeable income and may be carried forward indefinitely until fully absorbed. A final year loss incurred upon the completion of a long-term contract may be carried back and relieved against the income of the preceding year of assessment. Where there has been a change of 50% or more in the underlying ownership or control of a company, the carry-forward of a loss, deduction or credit ceases to be available, unless the company:

- continues to conduct the same business; and
- does not engage in a new business or investment, except with the approval of the Commissioner General, for a period of 3 years after the change.

Losses on disposal of business assets

A loss arising from the disposal of a business asset, whether or not the asset was on capital or revenue account, is allowed as a deduction.

Unutilised capital losses on disposal of investment assets

Losses on disposal of investment assets are only allowed to the extent of gains derived by the taxpayer from the disposal of investment assets by the taxpayer. Any unutilised losses in a year of assessment can be carried forward indefinitely for future set-off against chargeable gains arising on disposal of investment assets.

FOREIGN SOURCED INCOME

Resident companies are subject to tax on a worldwide basis. Non-resident companies are taxed on Lesotho-sourced income only. Therefore, income derived abroad by a resident company is taxed as domestic income. An exception applies to foreign dividends, which are not exempt like domestic dividends, but are included in the taxable base. Relief is granted for foreign taxes paid on repatriated income.

Foreign-sourced income from employment income in a foreign country derived by a resident individual is exempt from income tax if the income is chargeable to tax in the foreign country. The table below illustrates how certain individuals are taxed on foreign and Lesotho-sourced income.

Individual	Employment income	Business income	Property income	Other income
Resident citizens and permanent residents	Worldwide except if sourced and taxed abroad	Worldwide	Worldwide	Worldwide
Diplomat residents	Foreign source taxable if exempt	Lesotho source only	Lesotho source only	Lesotho source only
Lesotho diplomats	Foreign service allowance is exempt	Worldwide	Worldwide	Worldwide
Expatriates	Worldwide	Worldwide (except foreign disposal)	Worldwide (except foreign disposal)	Worldwide
Non-resident	Lesotho source only	Lesotho source only	Lesotho source only	Lesotho source only

INCENTIVES

There are several incentives relating to taxation in Lesotho, namely:

- The manufacturing tax rate is reduced to 10%;
- The deduction of pension contributions from the gross income which is before tax and its exemption when receiving the payment;

- The exemption of dividends to a resident individual from a resident company;
- A tax exemption for subsistence farming by a resident individual;
- An interest deduction to the individual as specified in the legislation (sections 27 and 158).

C. FOREIGN TAX RELIEF

A resident taxpayer is entitled to a foreign tax credit against their liability to Lesotho income tax in respect of any foreign income tax borne directly or indirectly by the resident on foreign-sourced income subject to Lesotho tax. The foreign tax credit is calculated by applying the average rate of Lesotho income tax to the foreign-source income reduced by any deduction properly allocated to that income. The calculation is made separately for business income and for other income.

Foreign income tax borne by:

- A partnership is treated as borne by partners;
- A trustee (where the income on which the trustee was assessed is included in the gross income of a beneficiary under this Order) is treated as borne by the beneficiary;
- A beneficiary (where the income on which the beneficiary was assessed is included in the income of a trustee under this Order) is treated as borne by the trustee.

Where a resident company is entitled to both a credit for advance corporation tax and a foreign tax credit, the foreign tax credit shall be applied first. For the purpose of the above, the average rate of Lesotho income tax is the percentage that the Lesotho income tax, before the foreign tax credit, is of chargeable income of the taxpayer and in the case of a taxpayer with both business and other income, the average rate of tax is to be calculated separately for both categories of income. Foreign income tax includes foreign withholding tax but does not include a foreign tax designed to raise the foreign tax level on the income so that the taxation of the country of residence of the taxpayer is reduced.

D. CORPORATE GROUPS

There is no group taxation in Lesotho. A company is liable to tax separately from its members, and dividends are only taxable if they are from unqualified income. A manufacturing company is taxed at a special rate of 10% on profits. A non-manufacturing company is taxed at standard rate of 25% on profits.

E. RELATED PARTY TRANSACTIONS

Transfer pricing

The Commissioner has broad discretion to distribute, apportion, or allocate income, deductions, or credits between associated taxpayers to prevent tax evasion or to clearly reflect the income of such taxpayers. This includes adjusting the income arising from the transfer of intangible property between associates so that it is commensurate with the income attributable to the intangible property.

Controlled Foreign Companies

Lesotho does not have CFC legislation.

F. WITHHOLDING TAX

Dividends, interest, royalties and management fees are subject to a final withholding tax at 25% of the gross amount, subject to the application of a double tax treaty. For interest, royalties and management fees paid by manufacturing companies subject to a concessional corporate tax rate, the withholding tax rate is 15%. Regarding technical fees, Lesotho-sourced service contract income (i.e. a contract other than an employment contract, under which the primary purpose is the performance of services whether or not goods are provided which give rise to Lesotho-sourced income) is subject to a final 10% withholding tax on the gross amount.

G. PERSONAL INCOME TAX

Personal tax is based on residency. An individual is a resident if they:

- Have a place of abode in Lesotho;
- Are present in Lesotho for more than 182 days in any consecutive period of twelve months which includes all or part of the year of assessment;
- Are an official of the Lesotho Government posted overseas during the year of assessment;
- Have a resident lifestyle.

Lesotho-Liberia

Resident individuals are, in general, taxed at the following rates (effective 1 April 2016):

Chargeable income (LSL)	Tax rate (%)
Up to 58,680	20
In excess of 58,680 ¹	30

¹ Personal tax credit of LSL 6,960.

Interest

The first LSL 500 of interest derived from a single savings account with a registered financial institution resident in Lesotho by a resident individual is exempt from income tax. As the Lesotho branch of a non-resident financial institution is deemed to be a resident company under Section 6(2), an account held with such a branch qualifies for the exemption. An account held with a foreign branch of a non-resident financial institution does not however qualify for exemption, and the interest paid on such an account is fully taxable with a credit for any foreign tax (such as withholding tax) paid on the interest.

H. TREATY AND NON-TREATY WITHHOLDING TAX RATES

	Dividends		Interest (%)	Royalties (%)
	Individuals, companies (%)	Qualifying companies (%)
Domestic rates
Companies	0/25	0/25	15/25	15/25
Individuals	0/25	--	25	15/25
Treaty countries:
Mauritius	10	10	10	10 ³
South Africa ¹	15	10 ²	10	10
United Kingdom	10	10	10	10

Notes:

1. The tax treaty is effective from 26 June 2016 with respect to withholding taxes and from 1 April 2017 with respect to other tax matters.
2. The reduced rate applies if the beneficial owner is a company which owns at least 10% of the capital of the paying company.
3. 0% rate for technical services.

A. TAXES PAYABLE

FEDERAL TAXES AND LEVIES COMPANY TAX

Resident versus non-resident

For tax purposes, the Revenue Code of Liberia ('The Code') distinguishes between residents and non-residents. It has no distinguishing provisions for taxation of citizens versus non-citizens. Therefore, a resident alien and a resident citizen are subject to the same Liberian tax. Similarly, a non-resident alien and a non-resident citizen are also subject to the same Liberian taxation.

Distinguishing features – resident versus non-resident

Whereas the global income of a resident person (legal or natural), is subject to Liberian taxation regardless of source, only the Liberia-sourced income of a non-resident person is subject to Liberian taxation. The foreign-sourced income of a non-resident is not taxed in Liberia. Moreover, whereas for a resident taxpayer, income tax determination is as variously specified in the Code, the Liberia-sourced income of a non-resident person is taxed only by way of withholding tax at source at specified rates.

Tax Identification Number (TIN) required

Every resident taxpayer, whether an individual or a legal person, is required to have a Tax Identification Number (TIN), which is obtainable from the Liberia Revenue Authority (LRA). A resident taxpayer who provides services is required to provide the service provider's TIN to each service recipient. As more fully later explained below, the service recipient is authorised to withhold tax from the service provider. The service recipient is then required to file an appropriate withholding tax return in which the TIN is used to identify each service provider from whom taxes have been withheld.

Company tax

Corporate income tax is 25% flat on net taxable income.

Quarterly advance payments and Minimum Tax required

Where annual turnover is USD 5 million or more; or is reasonably expected to be USD 5 million or more per annum, corporate income tax is required to be paid in four quarterly instalments calculated at 2% of the gross sales (turnover) per quarter.

Where annual turnover is less than USD 5 million but greater than USD 200,000 per annum, or is reasonably expected to fall within that range, corporate income tax is computed at 4% of turnover per quarter. A taxpayer in this category is referred to as a 'small taxpayer'. The turnover tax is in lieu of and constitutes the only income tax required of such a 'small taxpayer'.

A taxpayer with annual turnover of USD 200,000 or less is classified as a 'petty trader'. The income tax required of petty traders consists of a fixed amount established by statute or regulation.

Overpayments resulting from quarterly advance payments

In the case of taxpayers with annual turnover of USD 5 million or more, any excess tax paid resulting from the required quarterly payment is creditable against other non-income tax liability, if any, for the current tax year. Where no such other tax liability applies, at the election of the taxpayer, any excess tax paid is either refundable or creditable against future tax liabilities, provided that no such tax credit can be applied in excess of the minimum tax (see below) required for the year.

Where the taxpayer desires a refund, a written claim for such refund is required. In that case, per the Code, the refund is required to be made within 90 days following the taxpayer's claim for a refund. In the absence of a written claim for refund, any excess tax paid becomes creditable against future tax payments, subject to the minimum tax explained below. Unused excess tax credits for any tax year may be carried forward to future periods for up to a maximum of five years. Beyond that time limit, a taxpayer may either request a refund for the remaining unusable tax credit for a specific tax year or lose the credit.

Minimum tax

For taxpayers with annual gross income (turnover) of USD 5 million or more, the quarterly advance payments calculated at 2% of quarterly turnover constitutes the minimum tax payable for the tax year, even in cases of zero taxable income. Therefore, tax credits or tax refunds that would otherwise arise in the case of an excess payment arising from the quarterly advance payments mentioned above, cannot exceed the required minimum tax.

CAPITAL GAINS AND LOSSES

There are no special tax rates for capital gains and losses. All such gains and losses are included in the standard calculation net taxable income (or net operating loss) for the tax year.

BRANCH PROFITS TAX

Not applicable in Liberia. Therefore, in practice, a branch operation would normally be set up in Liberia as a subsidiary of a foreign corporation. In the case of a domestic corporation, each branch location is required to obtain an annual license. However, one single consolidated tax return is required for corporate income tax (CIT) purposes.

GOODS AND SERVICES TAX (GST)

Goods Tax – General rule

Except for those that are specifically identified in the Code as exempt supplies, an excise tax applies at 10% in the case of goods manufactured in Liberia. Also except for those specifically identified in the Code as exempt supplies, import duty applies at specified rates in the case of goods imported into Liberia. All exports are duty free.

ECOWAS Trade Liberalisation Scheme

Currently being rolled out. As its name indicates, the Scheme is designed to liberalize and therefore promote trade among member states of the Economic Community of West African States (ECOWAS). As part of its rollout in Liberia, goods manufactured in an ECOWAS member state are exempt from import duty and also the ECOWAS Trade Levy (ETL).

Service Tax

Except where specifically declared exempt by the Code, a service tax applies in respect of a supply of ten specific categories (listed below) of services in connection with the carrying on of a business. The service tax is calculated at 10% of the consideration payable for such supply, in connection with supply of the following services:

- 1) Electricity services;
- 2) Telecommunications services;
- 3) The provision of water for a fee;
- 4) Services supplied in carrying on the business of a hotel or similar facility (including board, lodging, and incidental services), and restaurant meals, beverages, and other services supplied on the premises of a hotel;
- 5) Services supplied in carrying on the business of a restaurant or café (including supplies of meals or beverages), and supplies of take-away meals by a restaurant, café, supermarket or similar supplier;
- 6) Gambling services:
 - a) in a casino;
 - b) lottery ticket sales;
 - c) betting at a track or off-track betting establishment; or
 - d) drawings or other games of chance conducted by telecommunications suppliers or other similar suppliers;

- 7) Sale of tickets by international transport services (air, land and sea);
- 8) Services of a travel agency or travel arranger, including the issuing of tickets;
- 9) Sporting or game arranger services, including the issuing of tickets; and
- 10) Other services (specified in regulations) in the sectors of air travel, vehicle rental, communications, automotive repair services, professional services (excepting medical services), and port-related services.

B. DETERMINATION OF TAXABLE INCOME

Corporate Income Tax (CIT) is calculated on taxable income derived in accordance with either US Generally Accepted Accounting Principles (US GAAP) or International Financial Reporting Standards (IFRS). Owing to Liberia's historical ties to United States of America, until recent times (starting 2011 for the banking sector) US GAAP has over the years prevailed in Liberia, as the national comprehensive accounting standard. The Liberian Institute of Certified Public Accounting (LICPA) is in the process of transitioning accountants in the Liberian private sector from US GAAP to IFRS. Currently, except as otherwise specified in the Code, either US GAAP or IFRS is acceptable for tax purpose.

A corporation is required to use accrual-basis accounting. Other legal person (e.g. partnerships and trusts) as well as individuals are generally free to use cash basis or accrual basis accounting, at the taxpayer's choice, provided that the chosen method of accounting may not be subsequently changed without the prior written permission of the Commissioner General of the Liberia Revenue Authority (LRA). However, natural persons as well as partnerships and trust, may be required to use accrual basis accounting for a tax year in which business income 'exceeds the amount specified in Regulations'.

DIVIDENDS

As a general rule dividends are taxable to the recipient. However, a cash dividend received by one domestic Liberian corporation from another domestic Liberian corporation is tax exempt. The exemption does not apply if the dividend is received by virtue of redeemable shares that the recipient has in the domestic corporation that has paid the dividend; or if such dividend is received 'in a dividend stripping arrangement as defined in regulations'.

EXCLUSIONS FROM GROSS INCOME

Sickness, disability, or death benefits

Payments received by a taxpayer on account of illness of or injury to self or another; or on account of the death of a natural person to whom the recipient is related, are excluded from income of the recipient. Payments qualifying for this exclusion include amounts paid as proceeds of health insurance or disability insurance or benefits; as damages for or in settlement of a claim of damages for injury to a natural person; or as proceeds of a life insurance policy or as a death benefit. This exclusion applies to the amount received regardless of whether amount is received as a lump sum or as part of a series of annuity payments.

Tax-exempt government obligations

Interest on an obligation issued by the Republic of Liberia and declared by the Government to be a tax-exempt obligation is excluded from the income of the holder of the obligation.

Personal-use property

Gains on the sale of personal-use property, are excluded from income up to USD 1,600,000. Excess, if any, is included in gross taxable income.

DEDUCTIBLE BUSINESS EXPENSES

A taxpayer is permitted a deduction for the ordinary expenses of producing income during a tax year. Among others, these principally include:

Investment incentives

The Revenue Code of Liberia provides a range of investment incentives that cover exemptions from import duties and also permit a number of accelerated depreciation on qualifying assets. In general the incentives apply primarily to the mining, agricultural and renewable energy sectors. Also in general, investment incentives include exemption from import duties of specified asset categories, usually for up to five years during the initial establishment period of a qualified business operation. They additionally include accelerated depreciation up to an aggregate of 30% of the cost of a qualifying asset in the year such asset is put into operation. The adjusted tax cost of the asset is then depreciated on an asset-by-asset basis or put into an appropriate asset category for subsequent additional depreciation, as further discussed below under Depreciation and Amortisation.

Qualification for such incentives requires certification for the purpose by the National Investment Commission (NIC), which is required by the Code to appropriately coordinate with the Liberia Revenue Authority (LRA) and the Ministry of Finance and Development Planning (MOFD) in reaching an appropriate determination regarding each application for the investment incentives provided in the Code. Tax incentives to be granted in respect of investments valued USD 10 Million or above, require prior approval by the National Legislature Liberia and also requires that the President of Liberia signs into law the resulting official ratification of the National Legislature of Liberia.

Cost of sales

Inventory of trading stock

To avail of inventory cost deduction provisions in the Code, a taxpayer is required to maintain proper books of account wherein inventory valuation is consistent and in accordance with US GAAP. For inventory items that are specifically identifiable, specific identification valuation of such inventory is required. For inventory items that are not readily identifiable, the standard methods of inventory valuation under US GAAP (including FIFO, LIFO, average cost) are acceptable for tax purposes. Period-end inventory is required to be valued at the lower of cost or market value.

Once chosen, a standard inventory valuation method may not later be changed for the same or a similar category of inventory except with the prior written permission of the Liberia Revenue Authority (LRA). A deduction is allowed for the cost of inventory sold during the tax year.

Other standard operating costs of sales are also deductible.

Depreciation and amortisation

The Code permits a deduction of depreciation or amortisation for depreciable or amortizable property used in a business. For this purpose, the Code recognizes three categories of depreciable assets: (1) Tangible Moveable Property (2) Tangible Fixed Property and (3) Intangible property. Assets classified as Tangible Fixed Property and Intangible property are depreciable under the straight-line method on an asset-by-asset basis over a 15-year period. Special rules for concessionaires. Those rules are substantially consistent with the preceding except that the period of amortisation/depreciation may be shorter in some cases.

Assets classified as Tangible Movable Property are divided into two subcategories: heavy duty machinery and light duty machinery. Heavy duty machinery includes items such as tractors and earthmoving equipment, airplanes, ships, badges, heavy trucks (more than 5 tons empty weight) telecommunication towers, power support towers, buses for 20 or more passengers, power generators (hydro or fuel driven) for a defined community; and similar equipment. Light duty machinery includes items such as passenger automobiles, office furniture, computers, printers, telephones, passenger vans or buses for fewer than 20 passengers, light trucks (less than 5 tons empty weight), and similar equipment. Tangible moveable assets that do not clearly fall into the category of light machinery are classified as heavy machinery for the depreciation purpose.

For tax purposes each subcategory of heavy duty machinery and light duty machinery constitutes a distinct depreciation pool. A depreciation expense for the heavy duty machinery is calculated at 30% of the adjusted tax cost of entire pool of heavy duty tangible machinery. A depreciation charge for the pool of light duty machinery is similarly calculated at 40% each year.

In each case the adjusted depreciation base of the pool is comprised of the preceding depreciation base reduced by the depreciation amount for the current year, per the foregoing, and increased by the adjusted tax bases of additions made to the base during the tax year. That base may be further adjusted by the tax adjusted bases of disposals during the year reduced by recoveries from insurance or from sale of the asset, provided that such recoveries may not reduce the adjusted cost of the asset below zero.

Business losses

A deduction is allowable for losses incurred and sustained by a business during the tax year, including a loss from the disposition of property used in a business, provided that the loss is limited to the extent of any compensation covered by insurance or otherwise by proceeds from disposal of such property.

Net operating loss carried forward

Net operating loss incurred in one tax year is carried forward up to but not beyond the fifth tax year following the initial year of operating loss.

Bad debts

A bad debt expense deduction is allowable for a bona fide business indebtedness that is determined to be uncollectible and is written off the taxpayer's books during the tax year. However, except for commercial banks operating in Liberia, where regulations issued by the Central Bank of Liberia are pertinent and applicable, no deduction is allowed for a general provision for doubtful accounts.

Business interest expense

Interest expense on business indebtedness for the interest cost attributable to a tax year is deductible for such tax year, whether paid or accrued during that year. However, deduction for interest payable to any person other than a resident bank is limited to the amount of interest received plus 50% of taxable income excluding interest income.

Non-cash benefits provided by an employer

Technically includable, at market value in excess of USD 100,000, in the annual taxable gross income of an employee, who is then taxed on a progressive scale with maximum marginal tax rate at 25%. However, in practice, the market value provision is not enforced owing to practical difficulties concerning determination of market value in certain cases and also related difficulties having to do with uniform application of such valuation in other cases.

Charitable Contribution Deduction

The Code permits a deduction for charitable contributions made to a qualifying charity as defined in the Code. The deduction is limited to an amount not in excess of 15% of the taxpayer's taxable income (computed before reduction for charitable contributions but after inclusion of any gain on the property transfer).

C. FOREIGN TAX RELIEF

For resident taxpayers only, a foreign income tax credit is available for a foreign tax that is an income tax paid or due (in the case of accrual basis taxpayers) to a foreign government for income that is not sourced from Liberia. However, the tax credit cannot exceed the Liberian tax amount that would otherwise have been required. Per the Code, the credit is available only where the foreign tax paid or due is either an income tax or one imposed in lieu of an income tax. Because the tax is subject to determination of that precondition, it is in practice available on a country-by-country basis, the onus being on a taxpayer who desires the credit to show that the foreign tax in question meets the precondition mentioned above. That aside, the tax credit applies without regard to whether a double taxation or any other special tax treaty exists between Liberia and such foreign government.

D. CORPORATE GROUPS

There is no group taxation in Liberia. The transfer of losses between group members is not allowed.

E. RELATED PARTY TRANSACTIONS

Clear arm's length transactions are acceptable under the Code. However, where the Commissioner General (CG) of the Liberia Revenue Authority (LRA) determines that a taxpayer's treatment of a related-party transaction in the accounting records of the taxpayer is NOT on an arms-length basis, the Commissioner is authorised, under the Code, to 'reconstitute' such related-party transaction as the Commissioner deems fit under the circumstance in order to show the true underlying economic value(s) for a Liberian taxpayer; and thereby the tax consequence(s) of such related-party transaction(s). If not satisfied with the tax result of such restructuring by the CG, a taxpayer may appeal the Commissioner's decision to the Board of Tax Appeal (BOTA). Either party may, if it so decides, appeal BOTA's decision to the Tax Court and, if need be, thereafter to a superior Court of Liberia.

A draft transfer pricing regulation is in circulation for public hearing and comments but is not yet in force.

F. WITHHOLDING TAXOn payments to service providers

As part of advance payment of annual income tax liability, every service recipient (other than an employer), who pays a service provider any amount in excess of USD 1,000 in a year or reasonably expects to pay such service provider more than USD 1,000 in a year for service(s) received or to be received from such service provider, is required to withhold a service tax on the payment, including advance payments, made to the service provider. The service recipient who makes a taxable payment to a service provider is, by law, designated a withholding agent of the Liberia Revenue Authority (LRA). A fine of between USD 200,000 and USD 500,000 may apply to a service recipient who fails to withhold the tax as required. However, the tax is on the service provider and is deductible from the final annual tax liability of the service provider.

Liberia

The withholding tax rates applicable are indicated in the table below. The amount withheld is required to be paid over to the Liberia Revenue Authority (LRA) not later than ten calendar days into the next calendar month following the calendar month in which the tax was withheld. An appropriate withholding tax return is required to accompany payment to the LRA.

On personal income of employees

Withholding tax applies to salaries and wages that meet or exceed a specified threshold. Personal income is taxed on a progressive scale, with the maximum marginal rate at 25%.

Other withholding taxes

Withholding taxes are also imposed on all payments to non-employees for services that exceed or are reasonably expected to exceed a specified annual threshold. In particular, withholding taxes apply for all payments of dividends, gambling winnings, interest, rents, royalties and the acquisition price (in a property transfer transaction) of an investment in Liberia, etc. The tax rates applicable are indicated in the table below:

		Withholding tax rates
		Resident	Non-resident
Item	Description	%	%
1	Acquisition price of an investment in Liberia (property transfer)	10	15
2	Dividends	15	15
3	Gambling winnings	20	20
4	Interest	15	15
5	Licence fees	15	--
6	Rents	10	15

G. EXCHANGE CONTROL

Dual Currency Regime

- Liberia has a dual currency regime. The US dollar (USD or US$) circulates widely in the national economy alongside the Liberian dollar (LD or L$). Both are official currencies of Liberia. Exchange rates between the two national currencies are market determined.
- Unless otherwise specifically stated, tax rates indicated in the Revenue Code of Liberia are for Liberian dollar amounts. Taxes are payable in both currencies. Tax on US dollar income is generally payable in US dollars while tax on Liberian dollar income is also generally payable in Liberian dollars. However, where cross currency equivalent dollar conversion is required, the prevailing market exchange rate, as published by the Central Bank of Liberia, is used.

Currency Control

- Dual currency regime, Liberian dollar (LD or L$) together with US dollar (USD or US$).
- No currency restrictions
- There is no currency control in Liberia except that only the Central Bank of Liberia imports foreign currency. Moreover, travellers are not allowed to take more than ten thousand US dollars out of the Country on the traveller's person. No corresponding restriction applies to Liberian dollars. Otherwise, there is no restriction on movement of currency into and out of the country via the banking system. There are also no restrictions on repatriation of profits or other funds, provided such transfers are made via the banking system.

H. PERSONAL TAX

An individual is considered resident in Liberia for the entire year of assessment if that individual:

- has a normal place of abode in Liberia and is present in Liberia at any time during the year of assessment;
- is present in Liberia for more than 182 days in a 12-month period that ends during the year of assessment; or
- is an employee or an official of the government of Liberia posted abroad during the year of assessment.

The following standard income tax rates plus base amounts apply, in general, on the taxable income of individuals:

Taxable income (LRD)	Base amount (LRD)	Tax rate (%)
Up to 70,000	0	0
70,001 – 200,000	0	5
200,001 – 800,000	6,500	15
In excess of 800,000	96,500	25

Inheritance and Gift Tax

There is no inheritance tax and also no gift tax in Liberia.

Gifts and Transfers by Death

Property received in a donative transfer or transfer by death is also excluded from the income of the recipient.

I. TREATY AND NON-TREATY WITHHOLDING TAX RATES

2. The 10% rate applies if the recipient is a bank or other financial institution.
3. The 20% rate applies to payments made as consideration for the use of, or the right to use, any copyright, excluding cinematographic films or tapes for television or broadcasting, or any trademark (trade name). The 10% rate applies to payments in all other cases.

KEY TAX POINTS

- Companies are subject to corporate tax at a rate of 20% applied to their taxable income and Jihad tax at 4% of taxable income.
- Employment (salaries and wages) tax is calculated on an employee's base salary plus any allowances at a maximum rate of 10%. Other taxes levied on personal income include a Jihad tax at 3% of taxable salary income and a Solidarity Fund contribution at 1% of taxable salary income.
- Social security contributions (INAS) are payable by all employees working in Libya whether local or foreign, based on gross income with a total of 15% (3.75% employee contribution, 11.25% employer contribution).
- Capital gains are treated as ordinary business income and taxed at the general corporate income tax rate of 20%.
- Libya does not impose any Value Added Tax (VAT).

A. TAXES PAYABLE

In Libya, any income resulting in Libya from any assets existent therein, whether material or immaterial or from any activity or work therein, will be subject to tax. The latest income tax law has been issued on 28 January 2010 listed under number (7) of the year 2010. The new law has come into force as from 28 April 2010, replacing the old Income Tax Law no (11) of 2004.

COMPANY TAX

Income derived from Libya and abroad for the national companies and branches of foreign companies in Libya, whatever the type of their activity or purpose might be, are subjected to corporate tax. Companies shall be understood as general companies and private joint-stock companies. Branches of foreign companies shall be understood as the aspects of activity and capitals as performed by foreign companies in Libya, whatever their organisation or legal status may be. Companies are liable to corporate income tax on their profits stemming from any business they carry on in Libya. They are subject to 20% corporate tax and 4% Jihad tax on taxable income.

In some cases where a foreign company is not registered in Libya, a deemed profit tax (mostly 20% to 60% of total income as a net profit) may apply and be taxed at the general corporate income tax rate of 20%. Deemed profit tax may apply to companies that do not record their books and accounts in accordance with local regulations.

CAPITAL GAINS TAX

Capital gains are treated as ordinary business income and taxed at the general corporate income tax rate of 20%. Proceeds of sale of any business asset and liquidation proceeds received during the tax period are included in business profit.

BRANCH PROFITS TAX

Income from branches held by foreign companies registered in Libya are calculated and taxed on the same basis of corporate income tax at 20%.

VALUE ADDED TAX (VAT)

Libya does not impose any VAT.

FRINGE BENEFITS TAX

In general, cash benefits paid to employees are added to their salary and taxed accordingly. There are, however, some exceptions such as travel allowances, telephone allowance, fuel allowance and the use of a company car.

LOCAL TAXES

A special tax (Jehad tax) is imposed on wages, companies, duties on certain business activities, and some customs duties. This tax is payable under Law No. 44/1970 and is levied on personal income at 3% and corporate profits at 4%.

OTHER TAXES

Certain legal transactions are subject to registration duties. These include:

STAMP DUTY

Stamp duty is due on certain transactions at varying rates as well as fixed duties under the Libyan Stamp Duty Law No. (12) of (2004) and its amendment No. (8) of (2010). A contract negotiated in Libya must be registered with the Tax Department within 60 days of signing the contract. Contracts are subject to a 1% Stamp Tax on the value of the contract plus 0.05% on the 1% Stamp Tax.

CUSTOMS AND EXCISE DUTY

Customs, excise and other taxes may be charged by the Customs and Excise Department.

B. DETERMINATION OF TAXABLE INCOME

CAPITAL ALLOWANCES

Generally, expenses incurred wholly and exclusively for the purpose of the business are deductible. However, specific rules apply in respect of certain categories. For example, the general expenses or fees for services or interests or commissions charged by the foreign company to its branch in Libya shall be only considered in the amount deemed necessary for achieving the purposes of the branch and at a maximum of (5%) of the administrative expenses approved by the Tax department. Provisions and reserves are not permissible deductions for tax purposes.

DEPRECIATION AND AMORTISATION

Depreciation of assets used in business activities must be computed at a maximum annual percentage. For tax purposes, the straight-line method is normally adopted, and depreciation rates shall not exceed the following:

Description	Annual Rate of Depreciation (%)
Buildings with machinery installed on it	3
Other buildings	2
Passenger vehicles	20
Trucks	10
Vessels	4
Ferries and fishing boats	4
Aircrafts	8
Furniture for offices, houses, stores	10
Furniture for hotels, cafes, restaurants and hospitals	20
Furniture for camps outside cities	20
Office machineries	10
Electric generators	15
Computers and related equipment	20
Computer programs	10
Other machineries	15

Start-up fees (at establishing the company) are normally amortised within the next five years	20
---	----

STOCK / INVENTORY

Inventories are mostly valued at cost and calculated on a FIFO basis. However, the method chosen must be applied consistently. Inventory reserves are not permissible deductions for tax purposes.

CAPITAL GAINS AND LOSSES

As mentioned above, capital gains and losses are usually taxable as ordinary income.

DIVIDENDS

Dividends received from other companies will be subject to tax at the tax rate applicable to business income and is considered as "other income in P&L statement".

INTEREST DEDUCTIONS

Interest payable is generally tax deductible on an accruals basis.

However, interest payable on taxes, fines and penalties is not deductible. Also, interest derived from loan finance received from shareholders is not deductible.

LOSSES

Losses of fiscal year may be carried forward up to five years if the Tax Department certifies the loss. Losses may not be carried back.

FOREIGN SOURCE INCOME

The tax authorities levy taxes on resident companies on all profits arising from foreign sources in the same way as income from local sources. Except for income raised for persons as salaries.

TAX INCENTIVES

In 2010, the Libyan authority promoted Libyan and foreign companies to invest in Libya. Law No. 9/2010 aims at the promotion of national and foreign capital investment, with the purpose of setting up investment projects, within the scope of the state's general policy and the objectives of economic and social development, in order to particularly ensure achievement of the following goals:

- Technically upgrade and qualify Libyan cadres and elevate their efficiency, in order to acquire advanced skills in addition to opening employment opportunities.
- Endeavour to introduce know-how and technology and thereof inserted into the Libyan economy.
- Contribution towards setting up, developing or rehabilitating economic, service and production units, in a manner that assists such units to compete and be introduced into the world markets.
- Achievement of development in the relevant area.
- Increase and diversify income sources.
- Control energy consumption.
- Utilize locally available raw material.

The investment project, subject to the provisions of this Law, shall enjoy the main following privileges:

- Exemption of the machinery, equipment and apparatuses necessary for the execution of the project, from all taxes, customs duties, import fees, service charges and other fees and taxes of a similar nature.
- Exemption of the investment project from income tax for any activity, for the first 5 years.
- Exemption of commodities produced for export, from production tax, customs duties and such charges imposed on exports.
- Exemption of stamp duty payable in accordance with the effective legislation.
- Other exemptions are available for certain projects and some nationalities companies.

However, the Executive Regulation of this Law shall decide the conditions and rules necessary for the execution of invested companies.

C. CORPORATE GROUPS

There is no group basis tax option in Libya. Each company has to submit its tax returns separately including the holding company.

D. RELATED PARTY TRANSACTIONS

Related party transactions negotiated at arm's length are treated the same as non-related party transactions.

E. EXCHANGE CONTROL

Foreign companies are able to transfer distributable annual net interests and revenues achieved by the foreign capital invested in the project. However, transfer abroad is regulated by the Central Bank of Libya and subject to authorisation from the bank.

F. PERSONAL INCOME TAX

Resident and non-resident individuals are subject to tax only on their Libyan salaries (income). Other sourced income (other than registered as a company) is taxed according to its source. Tax on income (personal or partnership) from agriculture is levied at a flat rate of 0%, income on commercial and professional activities is subject to 15% tax, income from industry and crafts is taxed at 10% and partnership income is taxed at 10%.

SALARIES AND WAGES TAX

The salaries and wages tax is calculated on the base salary plus any allowances and taxed as follows:

- Allowance: 1,800 LYD for a single person, 2,400 LYD for a married person, plus 300 LYD for every child (per annum);
- The tax rate is calculated after the personal allowance deductions and employee contribution of INAS deductions. The rates are 5% for the first 12,000 LYD per annum and 10% for the above amount;
- Other taxes levied on personal income include Jihad tax at 3% of taxable salary income, and Solidarity Fund at 1% of taxable salary income.

SOCIAL SECURITY CONTRIBUTIONS (INAS)

The contributions are payable by all employees working in Libya whether local or foreign, based on gross income with a total of 15% (3.75% employee contribution and 11.25% employer contribution).

G. TREATY AND NON-TREATY WITHHOLDING TAX RATES

Dividends and royalties are not subject to withholding tax. Interest on bank deposits derived by non-residents is subject to a 5% final withholding tax.

KEY TAX POINTS

- Luxembourg resident companies are subject to tax on their worldwide income. Non-resident companies are taxable in Luxembourg only on certain Luxembourg-sourced income.
- As of 2019, corporate income tax ("CIT") is levied at a rate of 18% if the taxable income exceeds EUR 30,000 (15% if the taxable income is less than EUR 25,000 and EUR 3,750 plus 33% of the taxable income between EUR 25,000 and 30,001). The corporate tax rate is increased by a 7% surcharge for the employment fund.
- Bill No. 7450 has been submitted to the Luxembourg Parliament on 5 March 2019 and provides for changes to be applicable for tax year 2019.

- Luxembourg resident companies and non-resident companies having a permanent establishment in Luxembourg are also subject to municipal business tax ("MBT"), which is payable at rates that vary depending on the municipalities.
- VAT is applied on the supply of goods and services within Luxembourg and on the supply to non-VAT registered persons or entities within the EU.
- Capital gains are in principle regarded as ordinary business income and are taxed at the normal income tax rates. Exemptions and roll-over relief apply in some cases.
- Net worth tax ("NWT") is charged on companies' business assets, after deductions.
- In certain cases, foreign income tax may be credited against domestic income tax up to the amount of the domestic tax. Non-creditable portion of foreign income tax is considered a tax deductible expense.
- Profits and losses of Luxembourg group companies may be pooled (tax unity) under certain conditions.
- Transactions by a company with shareholders and related parties must be at arm's length.
- In general, withholding tax is levied on dividends paid by resident companies. Dividends paid to companies covered by the EU Parent-Subsidiary Directive are exempt. Subject to certain exceptions, neither interest nor royalties are subject to withholding tax.
- Resident individuals pay tax on their worldwide income. Non-resident individuals are only taxable on specific Luxembourg-sourced income.
- Inheritance tax and gift tax rates vary according to the degree of relationship and the value inherited/received.

A. TAXES PAYABLE

COMPANY TAX

Luxembourg resident companies are subject to income tax on their worldwide income. Relief from taxation might be available for certain types of income either based on Luxembourg internal tax law or based on double tax treaties concluded by Luxembourg. A company is considered resident in Luxembourg if it has its registered office or its central administration in Luxembourg. Non-resident companies are taxable in Luxembourg only on certain Luxembourg-sourced income. Income tax is composed of corporate income tax and municipal business tax.

For 2019, the corporate income tax rate (unemployment surcharge included) amounts to 19.26% (16.05% if the taxable income is less than EUR 25,000 and EUR 4,012.5 plus 35.31% if the taxable income is between EUR 25,000 and EUR 30,001).

In accordance with relevant provisions of Bill No. 7450, the CIT rate would be reduced from 18% to 17%, i.e. 18.19% unemployment fund surcharge included.

Municipal business tax is levied at a rate varying between 6.75% and 10.5% depending on the municipality where the company has established its business. For companies established in Luxembourg City, MBT is levied at 6.75% of their taxable income.

Therefore, companies established in Luxembourg City are taxed at a combined income tax rate (CIT + MBT) of 26.01% that will drop to 24.94% upon adoption of Bill No. 7450.

The applicable NWT rate is 0.5% on adjusted net assets for the portion of taxable net wealth up to EUR 500 million while the portion of taxable net wealth that exceeds EUR 500 million is taxed at a rate of 0.05%.

Luxembourg corporate (non-transparent) taxpayers and Luxembourg permanent establishments of non-resident corporate taxpayers can benefit from a net wealth tax reduction if they undertake:

- To enter in a reserve account, before the end of the following year, an amount equivalent to 5 times the reduction requested; and
- To maintain such reserve in their balance sheet for the 5 years following that of the reduction request.

The NWT reduction amounts to 1/5th of the reserve created, without exceeding the CIT liability (as increased by the employment fund surcharge) for the year.

Any distribution or reduction of the reserve before the 5-year period expiry triggers an increase of the NWT payable for the given year equal to 1/5th of the reserve used.

As of 2019, the minimum NWT due by a resident company amounts to EUR 4,815 if its financial fixed assets, receivables owned on related companies and on companies in which it has a participating interest, securities and cash all together exceed 90% of the total balance sheet and EUR 350,000. In all other cases, the minimum NWT varies between EUR 535 and EUR 32,100 depending on the total balance sheet (see detail below).

Balance sheet total as at beginning of fiscal year	Total minimum net wealth tax (EUR)
Does not exceed EUR 350,000	535
Exceeds EUR 350,000 without exceeding EUR 2,000,000	1,605
Exceeds EUR 2,000,000 without exceeding EUR 10,000,000	5,350
Exceeds EUR 10,000,000 without exceeding EUR 15,000,000	10,700
Exceeds EUR 15,000,000 without exceeding EUR 20,000,000	16,050
Exceeds EUR 20,000,000 without exceeding EUR 30,000,000	21,400
Exceeds EUR 30,000,000	32,100

The minimum NWT is in addition reduced by the CIT liability of the previous tax year before deduction of tax credits available (except for companies having opted for the depreciation deferral for which the reduction is limited to the corporate income tax due for the previous tax year after deduction of tax credits available). The minimum NWT is also applicable to some entities being exempt from ordinary NWT (securitisation companies, venture capital investment firms (SICARs)...).

The final NWT liability is the higher of ordinary NWT calculated under the percentage method (as reduced by 1/5 of the relevant reserve, if any) and of minimum NWT (as reduced by the CIT liability from the previous year, if any).

CAPITAL GAINS TAX

Capital gains are in principle regarded as ordinary business income and are taxed at the normal income tax rates. Exemptions and roll-over relief apply in some cases.

BRANCH PROFITS TAX

No special tax is levied on branch profits. Luxembourg branches of non-resident companies are subject to corporate income and municipal business tax at the same rates as Luxembourg resident companies.

Luxembourg branches of non-resident companies are only taxed on the income attributable to the Luxembourg branch. Relief from taxation might be available for certain type of income based on Luxembourg internal tax law.

SPECIAL REGIMES AND MEASURES

- Family Wealth Management Company (Société De Gestion De Patrimoine Familial)
 A family wealth management company (société de gestion de patrimoine familial or 'SPF') is exempt from CIT, MBT and NWT, but is subject to an annual subscription tax of 0.25% calculated on its share capital and share premiums and payable on a quarterly basis. The activities of the SPF are limited to holding and managing certain financial assets. The SPF may not carry out any trade or business. Finally, the shares of the SPF may, with certain limited exceptions, only be owned by individuals.
- Holding Companies
 Holding companies (société de participations financières or abbreviated Soparfi) are fully taxable Luxembourg resident companies that take advantage of the provisions of the participation exemption (see below: taxation of capital gains and dividends) and of double tax treaties concluded by Luxembourg.
- Investment Funds
 Investment funds include the common investment fund (FCP), the Investment Company with variable capital (SICAV) and the Investment Company with fixed capital (SICAF). Investment funds may be used both for undertakings for collective investments in transferable securities (UCITS) or alternative investments funds (AIF). Investment funds are subject to the approval and supervision of the financial sector supervising authority, i.e. the "Commission de Surveillance du Secteur Financier" (CSSF). Investment funds are exempt from CIT, MBT and NWT. Investment funds are, however, subject to an annual subscription tax of 0.01% or 0.05% calculated on a quarterly basis on net asset value.
 Investment Funds are considered taxpayers for VAT purposes.
 The investment fund management services VAT exemption also applies to investment advisory services rendered by third parties to an investment management company relating to investments in transferable securities. Further to the implementation of the "AIFM" Directive in local law, the VAT exemption also applies:

- To the management entities of Alternative Investment Funds (AIF); and,
- To entities (i) established within the EU similar to entities benefiting from the VAT exemption regime in Luxembourg and (ii) under the supervision of an organism similar to the CSSF or to the “Commissariat aux Assurances”.

Certain double tax treaties signed by Luxembourg apply to investment funds incorporated as a SICAV or SICAF. An investment fund constituted as a FCP does not benefit from double tax treaties.

- Specialised Investment Fund

Compared to the traditional investment funds, the Specialised Investment Fund (SIF or Fonds d'Investissement Spécialisé) has greater flexibility with regard to its investment policy and less regulatory constraints due to the fact that it is reserved for professional or well-informed investors. There are no initiator/promoter requirements. SIFs are also subject to the agreement and supervision of the CSSF. SIFs are exempt from income tax and net worth tax. SIFs are, however, subject to an annual subscription tax of 0.01% calculated on a quarterly basis on the net asset value of the fund.

- Securitisation Vehicle

Securitisation vehicles (organismes de titrisation) are used to convert assets, liabilities and risks into transferable securities. A securitisation structure typically involves an originator, the vehicle and the investors. The originator transfers assets and/or risks of any type to the vehicle. The vehicle issues securities and uses the funds collected to pay for the purchase of the assets. Two types of structures are available:

- a) The securitisation fund, which is subject to similar rules as investment funds, except that no subscription tax is levied;
- b) The securitisation company, which is a fully taxable entity that basically qualifies for the application of tax treaties and EU directives.

Only securitisation vehicles issuing securities to the public on a continuous basis have to be authorised and are supervised by the CSSF to carry out their activities. For securitisation companies, any commitment to investors or creditors, such as the payment of dividends or interest, qualifies as a tax deductible expense. This leads, in most cases, to almost full tax neutrality.

Securitisation companies are subject to the minimum NWT tax although being exempt from ordinary NWT.

Distributions of proceeds by a securitisation vehicle to its investors qualify as interest payment for Luxembourg income tax purpose no matter whether the securities owned by the investors qualify as equity or debt and consequently are not subject to withholding tax. Securitisation vehicles are considered taxpayers for VAT purposes, exercising an exempt activity.

- Venture Capital Company

A venture capital company (société d'investissement à capital risque or 'SICAR') is a specific vehicle for collecting venture capital from professional or well-informed investors. A SICAR can be set up as a tax transparent limited partnership or as a non-transparent corporate entity. SICARs are approved and supervised by the CSSF. SICARs may invest in assets with high-risk/increased return perspectives.

They are subject to few restrictions but may have a flexible investment policy with no diversification rules or leverage restrictions. Umbrella SICARs are able to create multiple investment compartments with specific investment policies. SICARs set-up in the form of corporate entities are fully taxable entities. SICARs are exempt from income tax on any income from securities (dividends, capital gains) and from cash held for future qualifying investments.

As from 2016, SICARs are subject to the minimum NWT although being exempt from ordinary NWT.

Non-resident beneficiaries are exempt from tax in Luxembourg on income derived from these companies.

SICARs are generally considered taxpayers for VAT purposes.

- Special limited partnership (société en commandite spéciale or abbreviated SCSp)

The law transposing the AIFM Directive into domestic law, has introduced the special limited partnership (société en commandite spéciale or 'SCSp') as a new legal entity into Luxembourg company law. The SCSp is designed to take over the simplicity of the Anglo-Saxon limited partnership, namely: flexibility, confidentiality, limited investor liability and tax transparency. The SCSp is a limited partnership formed between a general partner (GP) who has unlimited liability, and one or more limited partners (LPs) whose liability is limited to the amount of their contribution to the partnership.

From a Luxembourg company law perspective the SCSp has no legal personality. The absence of legal personality means that the SCSp is not subject to the same Luxembourg company law requirements as other entities, with the result that it is not required to file financial statements with the company registry.

In addition limited partnerships are not required to disclose investor identity or the investors' contributions in the SCSp.

The SCSp is transparent for Luxembourg corporate income and net wealth taxes. As a consequence, the SCSp is, in principle, not subject to corporate income tax. Instead, the partners are subject to income tax on their share in the profits of the SCSp. Non-resident partners in an SCSp are, however, only taxable in Luxembourg on their share in the profits of the SCSp if the activity of the SCSp qualifies as a commercial activity within the meaning of the Luxembourg income tax law. If the activity of the SCSp qualifies as a commercial activity, the SCSp is in addition subject to Luxembourg municipal business tax.

The activity carried out by investments funds incorporated under the legal form of a Luxembourg SCSp (or even a SCS) does not qualify as a commercial activity within the meaning of the Luxembourg income tax law, unless at least one of the limited partners is a corporate entity that owns an interest of at least 5% in the SCSp (or SCS).

- Reserved Alternative Investment Fund (RAIF)

The Reserved Alternative Investment Fund (RAIF or Fonds d'Investissement Alternatif Réservé) has similar flexibility as the SIF. However, unlike an SIF, the RAIF is not subject to the approval of the CSSF but shall be managed by an authorised alternative investment fund manager (AIFM). The absence of approval from the CSSF substantially reduces the time to market a RAIF from its launch. RAIFs are reserved to well-informed investors.

If the constitutional documents of an RAIF foresee and the RAIF effectively invests exclusively into risk-capital, the RAIF is taxed in the same way as a venture capital company. In this case, the RAIF's auditor must confirm the investment in risk capital.

In all other cases, the RAIF is exempt from income and net wealth tax. However, it is subject to an annual subscription tax of 0.01% calculated on the net asset value of the RAIF. In certain cases, the RAIF may be exempt from subscription tax.

RAIF are considered as taxpayers for VAT purposes.

- Shipping Register

In addition to specific and general incentives, shipping companies are in principle only subject to aggregated corporate income tax of 19.26% for 2019 (no municipal business tax) and subsequent years if taxable income exceeds EUR 30,000 and enjoy simplified rules with respect to social security and wage tax.

VALUE ADDED TAX (VAT)

VAT applies to the supply of services and goods made by a taxable person in Luxembourg, intra community acquisitions of goods from another Member states realised by a taxable person or by a non-taxable legal entity and to importations of goods from outside the European Union no matter whether the importation is made by a taxable or non-taxable person. A taxable person is any person who carries out an independent economic activity on a regular basis, regardless of the aim, the results or the location of the activity.

A taxable person carrying out an economic activity in Luxembourg should register for Luxembourg VAT within 15 days from the beginning of its economic activity. There is no threshold for the VAT registration.

Similarly, non-taxable legal entities realizing intra-community acquisitions of goods (if exceeding EUR 10,000) are required to register for VAT.

Taxable persons registered for VAT in Luxembourg are required to file each year an annual VAT return.

In addition, they will be required to file monthly VAT returns if, during the previous tax year, the amount of the turnover and the amount of goods and services acquired for which they are liable to the payment of Luxembourg VAT under the reverse-charge mechanism exceed EUR 620,000. If, during the previous tax year, the amount of these transactions is comprised between EUR 112,000 and EUR 620,000, they will be required to file quarterly VAT returns. The standard VAT rate is 17%. The reduced rates are 3%, 8% and 14%. In principle, a taxable person may deduct 100% of input VAT paid or declared from the output VAT collected on its turnover. No deduction is, however, available if the goods and services purchased are used for the supply of services which are exempt from VAT and which do not give right to a deduction of input VAT. In this latter case input VAT may not be recovered at all.

The deductibility of input VAT has to be determined based on the "real use" method. This means that when a VAT taxable person that carries out operations that give right to recover input VAT and operations that do not give right to recover input VAT, he has to determine for each expense that he incurs to which activity that expense relates. Thus, input VAT paid on expenses that are related to the activity that gives right to recover input VAT can be recovered for the full amount. On the other hand, input VAT on those expenses that are related to the activity that does not give right to recover input VAT cannot be recovered at all. Expenses that are not directly attributable to either activity should be apportioned between the different activities based on the most accurate allocation keys.

For those expenses, which cannot be apportioned between either activities, the general pro-rata method continues to be applicable.

VAT audits performed by the Luxembourg VAT authorities are supposed to be based on electronic documents available in an electronic audit file ("Fichier audit informatisé AED" or FAIA) containing all the information pertaining to the economic activity of a taxable person. The FAIA aims at ensuring an easier, smoother and cheaper process for the audit of accounting information and documentation by the Luxembourg VAT authorities. Upon request from the Luxembourg VAT authorities, any taxable person that has an electronic accounting system should be able to provide the Luxembourg VAT authorities with the FAIA.

Since 1 January 2015, Luxembourg introduced the Mini-One-Stop-Shop (MOSS) allowing any taxable person supplying telecommunication services, television and radio broadcasting services and electronic services to non-taxable persons located in EU Member States, to declare and to pay VAT in relation to these supplies via a web-portal in the Member State in which they are identified. This simplification measure is optional. The registration must be made by the taxable person itself but day-to-day management in relation to VAT MOSS may be delegated to a service provider.

A new law on VAT grouping entered into force on 31 July 2018, allowing resident taxpayers and permanent establishments of foreign entities being members of the group to be considered as one single taxable person for VAT purposes so that supplies between group members are disregarded for VAT purposes.

The VAT group is an optional regime that shall be maintained for at least 2 calendar years among group members that shall be bound by financial, economic and organisational links. The financial link needs to be certified by an auditor or chartered accountant.

The VAT group regime does not have any implications regarding third party transactions of members that continue to deal with external providers using their individual VAT registration numbers.

The Group is required to file a single common VAT return under its own VAT registration number and all members are jointly and severally liable for any VAT debt, despite the appointment of one representative in charge of VAT compliance and liaising with VAT administration.

An entity can be a member of only one VAT group.

VAT FREE ZONE

Luxembourg has a temporary VAT exemption regime providing for VAT neutral treatment of transactions concerning goods stored in specific locations.

TAX REPRESENTATIVE

Under certain circumstances, a tax representative can be appointed in Luxembourg by taxable persons established outside the EU.

OTHER TAXES

There is no stamp or registration duty on the transfer of shares or goodwill in Luxembourg. Other Luxembourg taxes include:

- Non-resident companies are subject to net worth tax only on certain Luxembourg assets (branch located in Luxembourg; real estate located in Luxembourg).
- A subscription tax is payable by SPFs (0.25%) and investment funds (0.05% or 0.01%, see also above).
- Gift taxes are due on donations, inheritance taxes under certain circumstances upon successions.
- Registration duties are due on real estate transfers and range from 7% to 10% depending on the municipality where the real estate property is located.
- As of 2017, no registration duties are due anymore upon the transfer of receivables.
- Contributions to the share capital of a company are subject to a lump sum registration duty of EUR 75.
- Real estate located in Luxembourg triggers land tax.

B. DETERMINATION OF TAXABLE INCOME

The taxable income of a company corresponds to the difference between the taxable income and allowable deductions. All business expenses are, in principle, deductible, subject to specific limitations regarding interest payments. Expenses linked to exempt income based on Luxembourg internal rules are deductible to the extent that they exceed exempt income.

DEPRECIATION

Methods available are the straight-line depreciation and the declining balance at rates reflecting useful life of the relevant asset. Land may not be depreciated. Buildings and intangible assets may only be depreciated by the straight-line method.

As of 2017, a taxpayer can opt, upon request, to defer (part of) the depreciation until the end of the depreciation period of the asset. The depreciation period corresponds to the useful lifetime of the asset.

STOCK / INVENTORY

Inventory includes raw materials, work in progress, finished goods and real estate bought for resale. Valuation is at the lower of production or purchase cost and market value. Accepted valuation methods include FIFO, LIFO and any other method if justified and applied consistently.

CAPITAL GAINS AND LOSSES

In principle, capital gains from the sale of business assets are taxed at the ordinary income tax rate. There is a roll-over-relief available for profits realised upon the sale of real estate or non-depreciable assets. Capital losses are tax deductible. Capital gains/losses generally correspond to the difference between the sales price reduced by ancillary costs relating to the sale and the book value of the asset being sold.

Capital gains from the sale of substantial shareholdings are tax exempt. Substantial shareholdings are shareholdings of at least 10% or of an acquisition cost of at least EUR 6,000,000, which are continuously held for 12 months. The exemption applies to shareholdings in subsidiaries that are within the scope of the EU Parent-Subsidiary directive (2011/96/UE), or that are incorporated as fully taxable companies that are subject to an income tax which is comparable to Luxembourg corporate income tax (i.e. the income tax amounts to at least 9% and is calculated on a taxable base which is determined in a similar way as the income subject to Luxembourg corporate income tax).

Capital gains realised upon the disposal of shares of substantial shareholdings remain taxable for an amount corresponding to the sum of the expenses related to the shareholding and any write-down recorded on the shareholding that reduced the tax base of the company in the year of disposal or in the previous financial years. This rule is known as the "recapture rule".

An 80% exemption applies to the capital gain realised upon the sale of certain qualifying intellectual property rights (please refer to section below for more details). A recapture mechanism provides that capital gains remain taxable up to the sum of the expenses which were deducted from the taxable income in prior years.

INCOME FROM INTELLECTUAL PROPERTY

Based on the existing Luxembourg intellectual property (IP) regime, a partial exemption (80%) applies to the net income (i.e. gross royalty income less economically relating expenses) derived from the qualifying IP rights. This partial exemption also applies to capital gains realised upon the disposal of qualifying IP. Qualifying IP rights are in addition exempt from Luxembourg net wealth tax. Qualifying IP rights include copyrights on software, patents, trademarks (including "service marks"), domain names, designs, and models. Literary or art copyrights, plans, formulas, trade secrets and similar rights are disallowed for the partial exemption.

The existing tax exemptions available for qualifying IP rights are abolished as from 1 July 2016 for Corporate Income Tax and Municipal Business Tax and as from 1 January 2017 for Net wealth tax. However, during a grandfathering period that will end on 30 June 2021, IP qualifying for the existing tax exemptions continues to benefit from the current tax exemptions if the IP has been acquired before 1 January 2016. Qualifying IP acquired after 31 December 2015 but before 1 July 2016 may also benefit from the current tax exemptions for IP, if the IP is acquired from an unrelated party or if the IP already qualified for the current Luxembourg tax exemptions for IP or for a similar foreign IP regime before its acquisition.

During the grandfathering period, the Luxembourg tax authorities will spontaneously inform relevant foreign tax authorities of the identity of any taxpayer benefiting from the current IP regime in connection with IP rights acquired or created after 6 February 2015. The spontaneous information exchange will be limited to countries with which Luxembourg has concluded double tax treaties.

The new IP regime enacted in 2018 is based on the "nexus approach" focussing on the direct link between eligible IP assets, expenditures and income.

Eligible assets are now only software, patents, utility models and other rights equivalent to patents.

They should have been created, developed or improved within the framework of the R&D activities carried out by the taxpayer itself.

Gross eligible income consists of income directly linked to the eligible IP asset (as incorporated into the sale price or relevant goods or services, as the case may be), capital gains upon the disposal of eligible IP assets and any indemnity received in connection with eligible IP assets.

Eligible expenditure is the one being required to perform the R&D activity directly connected to the eligible IP asset. Acquisition costs, financing costs, property related costs and other costs not directly linked to an eligible IP asset are excluded.

Total expenditure connected to the IP eligible asset encompasses eligible expenditure, acquisition costs and R&D expenditure payable to any related party.

Net eligible income for the 80% exemption equals gross eligible income as reduced by total expenditure (directly or indirectly connected) and multiplied by the "nexus ratio" being 130% of the proportion of eligible expenditure divided by total expenditure.

Expenditure and eligible income shall be arm's length. Taxpayers owning IP eligible for both the new and previous regime (grandfathering clause) may elect the most favourable regime in their situation, such election being irrevocable.

LIMITATION OF CORPORATE TAX DEDUCTIBILITY OF 'GOLDEN HANDSHAKES'

Voluntary departure indemnities or dismissal indemnities above EUR 300,000 are not tax deductible for employers.

DIVIDENDS

In principle, dividends received constitute a fully taxable income. However, dividends from substantial shareholdings are tax exempt. Substantial shareholdings are direct shareholdings of at least 10% or an acquisition cost of at least EUR 1,200,000, which are continuously held for at least 12 months (the 12 month holding period can also be met prospectively). The exemption applies to all dividends from subsidiaries that are within the scope of the EU Parent-Subsidiary Directive (2011/96/EU) or that are incorporated as a fully taxable company subject to an income tax comparable to Luxembourg corporate income tax (i.e. the income tax rate amounts to at least 9%) and is calculated on a taxable base which is determined in a similar way as the income subject to Luxembourg corporate income tax).

Since 2016, Luxembourg no longer exempts dividend distributions received by a Luxembourg company from shareholdings in EU companies qualifying for the EU Parent Subsidiary Directive if such distributions are treated as a tax deductible expense in the hands of the paying EU Company. Luxembourg neither exempts dividend distributions received from EU companies qualifying for the parent subsidiary if the dividend is derived through a structure that is considered to be abusive within the meaning of the Council Directive 2015/121/EU.

Expenses, including interest expenses and write-downs, in direct economic relation with the shareholding out of which the exempt dividend is paid will be non-deductible for tax purposes up to the amount of exempt dividend derived during the same financial year. On the other hand, expenses exceeding the amount of the exempt dividend received from such shareholding during the same financial year remain deductible for tax purposes. Such excess may create tax losses that can be carried forward. Dividends from fully taxable companies in which the recipient does not have a substantial shareholding are 50% tax exempt.

INTEREST DEDUCTIONS

Interest on loans that finance investments intended to generate taxable income is deductible to the extent that the interest rate is at arm's length. Interest associated with exempt income is deductible only to the extent that it exceeds such exempt income. Even though there are no formal thin capitalisation rules provided for by the Luxembourg tax law, the Luxembourg tax authorities, in principle, require an 85-to-15 debt-to-equity ratio for the financing of shareholdings owned by Luxembourg companies. In case this ratio would not be respected, the Luxembourg tax authorities could disallow interest paid on the portion of the debt exceeding the 85-to-15 ratio.

As from 1 January 2019, an interest limitation rule provides that "exceeding borrowing costs" of a taxpayer are only deductible up to the highest of 30% of taxable EBITDA or EUR 3 million.

Exceeding borrowing costs is the excess of borrowing costs (being defined as interest expenses on all forms of debt and other costs economically equivalent to interest as well as expenses incurred in connection with the raising of finance) over interest income and other equivalent taxable revenues.

The optional application of the interest limitation rule at tax unity level has been introduced in Bill No. 7450.

Luxembourg

Entities outside the scope of the interest limitation rule: financial undertakings and standalone entities are not subject to interest limitation rules:

- Financial undertakings are mainly entities covered by EU directives and regulations and include financial institutions, insurance and reinsurance undertakings, UCITS, AIF, securitisation vehicles covered by EU regulation 2017/2042;
- Standalone entities are entities not belonging to a consolidated group for financial accounting purposes and having no "associated enterprises" as defined under the CFC section.

Loans outside the scope of the interest limitation rule are:

- Loans concluded before 17 June 2016. The exclusion does not apply to any subsequent modifications of such loans, i.e. to interest in relation to any increase in the amount or duration of the loan or to any surplus interest generated by an increase of interest rate. In these situations, grandfathering only applies to the original terms of the loan;
- Loans used to finance long-term public infrastructure projects where the project operator, borrowing costs, assets and income are all located in the EU.

Upon request, a taxpayer being a member of a consolidated group for financial accounting purposes may deduct the entire amount of its exceeding borrowing costs if he can demonstrate that the ratio of its equity over its total assets is higher or at least equal (with a 2% tolerance) than the equivalent ratio of the group. Relevant financial statements shall be drawn up in accordance with IFRS or with standards from the national reporting system of an EU member state.

Exceeding borrowing costs can be carried forward without limitation and unused interest capacity can be carried forward for 5 years.

LOSSES

Losses incurred until the tax year 2016 may be carried forward indefinitely. Losses incurred as of the tax year 2017 may be carried forward for 17 years. No carry-back is allowed.

FOREIGN SOURCE INCOME

Foreign-sourced income is generally taxable under domestic law, unless it is exempt from Luxembourg income tax based on a double tax treaty concluded by Luxembourg or based on internal Luxembourg tax law. Foreign-sourced income that is typically exempt from Luxembourg income tax based on double tax treaties concluded by Luxembourg includes business profits attributable to permanent establishments located in a treaty country, as well as income derived from real estate properties located in a treaty country.

HYBRID MISMATCHES

The aim of these measures, applicable as from 1 January 2019, is to eliminate in an EU context double non-taxation outcomes created by the use of certain hybrid instruments or entities entailing the following consequences:

- Deduction of the same expenses or losses both in Luxembourg and in the EU Member State in which the expenses are incurred or the losses are suffered (double deduction); or
- Deduction of a payment in Luxembourg as the source country without inclusion of the corresponding income in the taxable income in the other EU Member State (deduction without inclusion).

Luxembourg will deny the deduction of an expense to the extent such expense is deductible in another Member State where the expense has its source (double deduction) or to the extent corresponding income is not taxable in another EU Member State (deduction without inclusion).

Hybrid arrangements involving non-EU countries and hybrid permanent establishment mismatches will be dealt with separately.

CFC LEGISLATION

Controlled Foreign Companies ("CFC") legislation has been introduced as from 2019.

Luxembourg will tax in the hands of resident corporate taxpayers the non-distributed income of an entity or a permanent establishment which qualifies as a CFC, provided such non-distributed income arises from non-genuine arrangements put in place for the essential purpose of obtaining a tax advantage.

An entity or a permanent establishment qualifies as a CFC if the following two conditions are met:

- The Luxembourg corporate taxpayer, alone or with its "associated enterprises", holds a direct or indirect participation of more than 50% in such entity, in terms of participation in the share capital, voting rights or profit entitlement; and,

- The income tax paid by this entity or permanent establishment is lower than 50% of the Luxembourg corporate income tax (being 18% to be reduced to 17% pursuant to Bill No. 7450) payable by applying Luxembourg income tax law provisions.

The CFC rules apply for corporate income tax purposes, but not for municipal business tax purposes.

The term “associated enterprises” shall be construed as including:

- Resident or non-resident taxpayers subject to Luxembourg CIT or entities being transparent under Luxembourg law in which the taxpayer holds a direct or indirect participation of 25% or more, in terms of participation in the share capital, voting rights or profit entitlement;
- Individuals or resident or non-resident taxpayers subject to Luxembourg CIT or transparent entities holding in the taxpayer a direct or indirect participation of 25% or more, in terms of participation in the share capital, voting rights or profit entitlement;
- All entities, including the taxpayer, held by an individual or a resident or a non-resident corporate taxpayer or a transparent entity for 25% or more, in terms of participation in the share capital, voting rights or profit entitlement.

The following foreign entities are excluded from the CFC rules:

- Entities with accounting profits of no more than EUR 750,000;
- Entities with accounting profits amounting to no more than 10% of their operating costs for the relevant tax year.

In practice, taxation of profits of a CFC will depend on whether or not the Luxembourg corporate taxpayer has managed the activity of the CFC, in terms of functions in relation to the assets owned and risks assumed by the CFC.

Specific rules apply to avoid double taxation of CFC income in case of a dividend distribution from or a capital gain made upon disposal of the CFC.

TAX INCENTIVES

A tax credit is available for qualifying capital expenditures. The investment tax credit is calculated as follows as of 2017:

- 13% of the difference between the value of total depreciable fixed tangible assets other than real estate and the average value of such assets during the last five years;
- 8% on investments up to EUR 150,000 in such assets during the tax year and 2% on investments exceeding EUR 150,000. For investments linked to environmental protection or adaptations enabling the hiring of disabled persons, the rates are 9% and 4% respectively.

As from 2018, some types of environment friendly cars have expressly been declared eligible for investment tax credit.

Unused investment tax credits may be carried forward for 10 years. Other incentives are available for various investments, company creations, company reorganisations, research and development activities, creation and development of innovative industrial or service-providing businesses and investments in view of the protection of the environment. Incentives may be granted in various ways such as capital grants and subsidies, loans from the national investment bank, interest subsidies, promotional assistance, tax exemptions and state guarantees, as well as access to fully equipped land, at low cost, in certain business parks.

Acquisition of software (if not acquired from an associated entity) entitles to a separate tax credit of 8% of the acquisition cost up to EUR 150,000 in a given tax period and 2% for investment exceeding EUR 150,000. The tax credit is limited to 10% of the tax liability of the year during which the acquisition has been made.

Incentives for film production are available by way of selected financial incentives granted through the Luxembourg film fund. The transferrable audio-visual certificates incentive is not available anymore.

The investment in the development of new products, the launching of the production phase and the initial marketing thereof may benefit from the issuance of venture-capital certificates. Venture-capital certificates are issued to investors providing funds to companies realizing qualifying investments. Venture-capital certificates provide its holder with a tax credit of 30% of its nominal amount without exceeding 30% of the holder's taxable profit. Venture capital certificates may be assigned once.

Hiring unemployed individuals was incentivised by way of a tax credit of 15% calculated on the monthly salary paid to qualifying hires over a period of 36 months after hiring. This incentive remains available until 31 December 2019.

Incentives for vocational training consist of a tax credit of 10% or a subsidy of 14.5% of qualifying expenses such as planning, evaluation, travel, catering and registration fees.

Other incentives include export financing (Ducroire).

C. FOREIGN TAX RELIEF

Foreign income tax may be credited against domestic income tax up to the amount of the domestic income tax. If the foreign tax exceeds domestic income tax, the excess is generally deductible from taxable profits. No relief is available for the income tax paid by the distributing company on the profits distributed as a dividend to a Luxembourg company. In general, Luxembourg tax treaties provide for an exemption of the income derived from foreign permanent establishments or from foreign real estate.

D. CORPORATE GROUPS

Luxembourg resident affiliates can combine their respective tax results. A tax consolidation group may be formed under certain conditions by a Luxembourg company or a Luxembourg permanent establishment of a non-resident company with its direct or indirect Luxembourg subsidiaries. A tax consolidation group may also be formed between the Luxembourg subsidiaries and permanent establishment(s) of a fully taxable resident or non-resident parent company, without including the parent company into the tax unity. As a result, sister companies which are owned by the same direct or indirect parent company can form a tax consolidation in Luxembourg. The tax consolidation remains subject to various conditions. These conditions did not materially change compared to the conditions under which the previous tax consolidation regime was available.

In the case of a tax consolidation, each taxpayer is subject individually to the net worth tax. However, the cumulated minimum net worth tax due by the companies that are part of the tax consolidated is capped at EUR 32,100.

E. RELATED PARTY TRANSACTIONS

Transactions by a company with its shareholders and related parties have to be at arm's length. If transactions between related parties are not at arm's length, they may give rise to hidden profit distributions. Luxembourg tax law defines the arm's principle in the same way as article 9 of the OECD Model Tax Convention. The arm's length principle is required to be met for all intra-group transactions, whether the related parties are resident abroad or resident in Luxembourg. Luxembourg tax law also extends the general documentation and substantiation requirements to the documentation and substantiation of intra-group transactions.

As of 2017, Luxembourg tax law includes specific transfer pricing provisions on how to determine the at arm's length remuneration applicable to intra-group transactions. The approach to determine the at arm's length remuneration is in line with the principles of the amended Transfer Pricing guidelines issued by the OECD.

It also continues to be possible to obtain confirmation from the Luxembourg tax authorities on the at arm's length character of intra-group transactions. However, in order to obtain a binding clearance from the Luxembourg tax authorities it is required that the company requesting the clearance meets certain organisational and economic substance requirements.

F. THIN CAPITALISATION RULES

Luxembourg tax law does not contain any specific thin-capitalisation rules, except for SPFs. In principle, a company's debt financing is not limited to a percentage of its paid-in capital. In practice, however, the tax authorities may challenge debt/equity ratios exceeding 85/15 for companies engaged in holding and/or group financing activities not complying with the arm's length principle.

G. CHAMBER OF COMMERCE FEE

Membership of the Chamber of Commerce is mandatory for all Luxembourg commercial companies and branches. The fee is based on taxable profits (before losses carried forward) and ranges from 0.025% to 0.20%. The minimum annual contribution amounts to EUR 70 (partnerships and limited companies) and EUR 140 for any other corporation (due even by companies in a loss position). Holding companies listed as such must pay a lump-sum contribution of EUR 350.

H. WITHHOLDING TAX

DIVIDENDS

Dividends paid by special purpose vehicles such as SPFs, investment funds and SICARs are not subject to withholding tax. Dividends paid by fully taxable companies are subject to a 15% withholding tax. The withholding tax on dividends may be reduced by applicable tax treaties. Dividends paid to entities (or its Luxembourg permanent establishments), which:

- (i) Are resident fully taxable corporations or EU entities within the scope of the EU Parent-Subsidiary directive; or, which are;
- (ii) Fully taxable at an income tax comparable to Luxembourg corporate income tax and are resident in treaty countries or member countries of the Espace Economique Européen (EEE); are exempt from withholding tax if at the date when the dividends are put at its disposal, the beneficiary holds or commits itself to hold a direct shareholding representing at least 10% of the share capital of the distributing company or an acquisition price of at least EUR 1.2 million for a period of at least 12 months.

The withholding tax exemption may be denied in the case of a Luxembourg company distributing dividends to a qualifying company resident in another Member State, if the dividend distribution is paid within the context of a structure that is considered to be abusive within the meaning of the Council Directive 2015/121/EU.

An indirect shareholding through a Luxembourg or foreign partnership comparable to a Luxembourg partnership is deemed to be held directly.

INTEREST

Interest payments are, in principle, exempt from withholding tax. Further to the EU Savings Directive (2003/48/EC) interest paid to individuals resident in the EU has however been subject to a 35% withholding tax until 2015, unless the recipient agreed to an exchange of information. Since 1st January 2016, the withholding tax on interest payments to individuals is replaced by an automatic exchange of information. Interest paid by Luxembourg paying agents to individuals resident in Luxembourg is subject to a 20% final withholding tax as of 2017.

ROYALTIES

In general, Luxembourg does not levy withholding tax on royalties, except on income from the copyright of literary or artistic work, within the limits of any applicable tax treaty provisions.

I. PERSONAL TAX

Individuals resident in Luxembourg pay income tax on their worldwide income. Individuals are considered to be resident in Luxembourg if they have their domicile or their habitual abode in Luxembourg. Based on Luxembourg internal law the latter is the case if the individual has been present in Luxembourg for more than six months. In case a double tax treaty applies, residence is determined with reference to the rules provided for by the relevant double tax treaty. Non-resident individuals are only taxable on certain specific Luxembourg-sourced income.

The tax base consists of assessable income less certain special allowable deductions. Assessable income includes: business income, income from agriculture and forestry, income from self-employment, employment income, pensions and annuities, income from investments and savings, rental income and other income, including capital gains. Since 2010, highly qualified workers who are hired on the international labour market may, during a five year period, benefit from certain tax exempt compensations.

As of 2017, interest earned by resident taxpayers on certain savings is subject to a 20% final withholding tax. Capital gains are taxable as other income if they are derived:

- From any assets held less than six months prior to disposal;
- From the sale of shareholdings in Luxembourg or foreign companies exceeding 10%;
- From the sale of real estate located in Luxembourg, except if the real estate constitutes the taxpayer's main residence.

The law transposing the AIFM Directive into domestic law has also formalised the rules applicable to the taxation of income from carried interest realised by certain employees of an alternative investment fund (AIF) or of its management company. Income from carried interest realised by certain employees of an AIF or of its management company is taxed as "Other income" at 25% of the global tax rate applicable to that individual's taxable income (i.e. at a maximum of 11.445%). To benefit from this tax regime, the individual may not have been a Luxembourg tax resident or subject to income tax in Luxembourg on its professional income during a five year period preceding the implementation of these provisions.

Income tax due on employment income is withheld at source. Similarly income tax is withheld at source on dividends paid by Luxembourg companies. The final amount of income tax due for a particular tax year is to be paid after the notification of a tax assessment by the tax authorities. Income tax due for a particular year is assessed by taking into account tax credits for foreign income taxes, income tax withheld at source in Luxembourg and advance tax instalments paid for the relevant year. Advance tax instalments are paid on a quarterly basis and are fixed based on the balance remaining due according to the latest income tax assessment.

Income tax is calculated based on progressive income tax rates. The rates indicated below exclude a 7% contribution to the employment fund. The contribution to the employment fund is increased to 9% in case the taxable income exceeds EUR 150,000 for taxpayers taxed at the tax classes 1 and 1a or exceeds EUR 300,000 for taxpayers taxed at tax class 2.

Taxable Income (EUR)	Marginal Rate (Class 1)
0 - 11,265	0%
11,265 – 13,137	8%
13,137 – 15,009	9%
15,009 – 16,881	10%
16,881 – 18,753	11%
18,753 – 20,625	12%
20,625 – 45,897	increase of 2% per bracket of EUR 1,944
45,897 – 100,002	39%
100,002 – 150,000	40%
150,000 – 200,004	41%

On extraordinary income, income tax is calculated at preferential tax rates. Extraordinary income includes e.g. income from the sale of businesses, capital gains on substantial shareholdings sold after more than six months of purchase, one-off payment of (supplementary) pension benefits (entered into by employee) and capital gains on real estate located in Luxembourg and sold after more than two years. Capital gains on substantial shareholdings sold after more than six months after their purchase are taxed at half the global income tax rate. The global income tax rate corresponds to the effective income tax rate arising on a taxpayer's total taxable income. Therefore half the global income tax rate does not exceed 22.89% (including the contribution to the employment fund). Capital gains realised on real estate properties located in Luxembourg and sold after more than two years are subject to 25% of the global income tax rate if the capital gain is realised during the period starting on 1 July 2016 and ending on 31 December 2018.

From a tax point of view, individual resident taxpayers are allocated to 2 different tax classes. The allocation to the relevant class depends upon the marital status.

Marital Status	Age Below 64 on 1 Jan	Age Above 64 on 1 Jan
Single	1 or 1a	1a
Married*	2	2
Legal partnership	2	2
Separated	1 or 1a	1a
Divorced	1 or 1a	1a
Widow	1a	1a

- * Class 2 continues to apply for the year when the marital status has changed and for the three following years; as of 2018, spouses may opt to be taxed individually, in which case each spouse will be taxed in class 1 with his/her relevant portion of income.
-  1 applies without children, 1a with children.
-  As of 2018, partners may opt to be taxed individually, in which case each partner will be taxed in class 1 with his/her relevant portion of income. As a reminder, the partnership must have been in existence for 12 months and the withholding tax on salary is carried out according to class 1 or 1a (without or with child(ren) respectively).

For class 1, the general tax rates apply. For class 2, the total income of both spouses is split into 2 halves, each half is taxed at the income tax rates applicable to class 1 and income tax thus calculated is multiplied by 2.

A lower taxation applies for class 1a with a maximum advantage of EUR 1,515 compared to the taxation in class 1.

As of tax year 2018, non-resident married taxpayers are in principle taxed in tax class 1. They may elect to be treated as resident taxpayers (taxed at a rate which is determined by taking into account their worldwide income less deductions and allowances), provided that one of the following conditions is met:

- More than 50% of the household's professional income is Luxembourg-sourced (for Belgian citizens only);
- More than 90% of the global income of one of the spouses is Luxembourg-sourced;
- The foreign income of the Luxembourg taxpayer does not exceed EUR 13,000.

In that case, the non-resident couple may choose between:

- Individual taxation (class 1): spouses may opt to be taxed individually, on their own income or on a re-allocation of household income;
- Collective taxation (class 2): spouses are taxed on the sum of their global worldwide income.

TAX CREDITS AND CHILD BONUSES

Tax credits are available to individuals deriving income from self-employment, employment income or pensions and annuities. As of 2017, the employee tax credit varies depending on the taxable income of the individual. The maximum tax credit available amounts to EUR 600 (for a taxable income of EUR 40,000).

In addition a tax credit is available for single taxpayers who are taxed in tax class 1a. As of the year 2017, this single parent tax credit varies between EUR 750 and EUR 1,500 depending on the taxpayer's taxable income.

There is a monthly child bonus of EUR 76.88 per child under the age of 21 or above such age in case of students.

Contributions for social security coverage are indicated in the table below (valid as from 1 January 2018).

Social Contributions in %	Private Sector Workers
	Worker	Employer
Paid by:
Illness	3.05	3.05
Pension	8.00	8.00
Accident	–	0.90
Old age care	1.4	–
Mutual Insurance	–	0.46 - 2.95
Health check	–	0.11
Total	12.45	12.52 - 15.01

Notes:

A minimum monthly wage applies in Luxembourg. It amounts to EUR 1,998.59 (EUR 2,398.30 for qualified workers). Wages are linked to the inflation index. The current inflation index has been fixed in January 2017 (index = 794.54). The new index will apply when inflation exceeds 2.5%. Contributions are levied on the actual professional income which cannot be lower than the minimum wage. No contributions are levied on the portion of the professional income which exceeds five times the minimum wage. This ceiling does not apply to Old Age care. Old Age care is levied on all assessable income.

J. INHERITANCE TAX

Inheritance tax is due in Luxembourg if the deceased has been a resident in Luxembourg. Inheritance tax is due on all net assets allocated to the heirs, except on real estate property located abroad and in certain cases on movable assets located abroad, no matter where the heirs are resident. Inheritance tax rates vary depending on the degree of relationship existing between the deceased and the heirs:

Transfer	Nominal Rate in the Limit of Compulsory Portion
In direct line between descendants and ancestors	Exempt
Between spouses with/without living descendants	5%
Between sisters and brothers	6%
Between uncles or aunts and nephews or nieces, between adopter and the adoptee	9%
Between granduncles or grandaunts and grandnephews or grandnieces, between the adopter and the descendants of the adoptee	10%
Between other relatives and non-related persons	15%

In principle, inheritance tax rates are increased depending on the value allocated to the heirs. Progressive rates of inheritance tax range between 10% (i.e. for a taxable value received by an heir amounting to between EUR 10,000 and EUR 20,000) and 220% (for a taxable value allocated to an heir exceeding EUR 1,750,000).

K. GIFT TAX

Gift tax may be levied on gifts made during an individual's lifetime. Gift tax is due if the gift is made through a notarial deed before a Luxembourg notary or, if the gift is made before a foreign notary, where the transfer takes place in Luxembourg. The gift tax rates range from 1.8% to 14.4% depending on the degree of relationship between the donor and the donee. For gift tax purposes, the fiscal residence of the beneficiary and the donor are irrelevant.

L. MISCELLANEOUS

AUTOMATIC EXCHANGE OF INFORMATION ON INTEREST PAYMENTS

Luxembourg applies the automatic exchange of information with respect to interest payments made by a Luxembourg paying agent to individuals or residual entities within the meaning of the EU Savings Directive that are resident in another EU member state or in an associated territory. The automatic exchange of information covers interest payments made on or after 1st January 2015. The first exchange of information has taken place in 2016.

Luxembourg also adheres to the Foreign Account Tax Compliance Act ("FATCA"). As a consequence thereof, the Luxembourg tax authorities automatically exchange information with the IRS on financial assets owned by US citizens or US tax residents with Luxembourg financial institutions. The information being exchanged is collected by the Luxembourg tax authorities from Luxembourg financial institutions.

COUNTRY BY COUNTRY REPORTING

In 2016 Luxembourg transposed into domestic law the EU Directive implementing the Country by Country reporting obligations. Thus, Luxembourg companies, which are part of a multinational group, may under certain circumstances be required to file a Country by Country report with the Luxembourg Tax Authorities for the fiscal years starting from 2016. If a Luxembourg company belongs to a multinational group that exceeds the threshold for Country by Country reporting, it will be required to notify the Luxembourg tax authorities which entity of the multinational group will be the reporting entity.

ADVANCE TAX CLEARANCE

Under specific circumstances, it is possible to obtain a confirmation from the Luxembourg Tax Authorities for the interpretation of specific provisions of the Luxembourg tax law. With effect from 1 January 2015, the advance tax clearance or tax ruling practice is formalised in Luxembourg tax law. In order to be valid, the advance tax clearance request must contain certain minimum information. Advance tax clearances are available for both companies and individuals. An advance tax clearance will be valid for a maximum period of 5 years.

Advance tax clearances requested for a company will be reviewed and commented by an advance tax clearance commission. As of 1 January 2015, the request of an advance tax clearance may also trigger a fee that is payable to the Luxembourg Tax Administration. Such fee ranges between EUR 3,000 and EUR 10,000 depending on the volume and the technical complexity of the request. An anonymous executive summary of the advance tax clearance may be published in the annual report of the Direct tax authorities. Subject to certain conditions, companies carrying out an intra-group financing activity may continue to obtain Advance Pricing Agreements confirming the remuneration to be realised on the considered financing activity. The advance pricing agreements follow the same rules as the advance tax clearance. Going forward, Luxembourg tax authorities exchange information on cross-border advance tax clearances and advance pricing agreements with foreign tax authorities.

ISLAMIC FINANCE

A circular issued by the Luxembourg tax authorities provides guidance with regard to the tax treatment of certain Islamic finance instruments. A circular has also been issued by the Luxembourg VAT Administration. Special Purpose Vehicles incorporated in the framework of “murabah” and “ijara” contracts qualify as taxable persons for VAT purposes.

ABUSE OF LAW

Under the abuse of law provisions, the tax authorities may challenge fictitious or abnormal transactions and schemes that are entered into for the main purpose or one of the main purposes of obtaining a tax advantage.

These provisions are based on ATAD provisions, in particular the “non-authentic arrangement” definition, and focus on three principal elements:

- A misuse of forms and institutions of private and commercial law;
- The aim of this legal path being to obtain a circumvention or reduction of the tax burden in contradiction to the object or the purpose of the tax law;
- The non-authentic character of the legal path used.

The burden of proof is on the tax authorities. However, this burden is shifted to the taxpayer to the extent that the tax authorities are in a position to make plausible that an economic reason is lacking.

These general anti abuse provisions are a matter of general domestic tax law applicable to any corporate or individual taxpayer.

EXIT TAXATION

New rules implementing the ATAD will enter into force with respect to financial years starting on or after 1 January 2020.

KEY TAX POINTS

- Taxable income of companies is generally subject to corporate tax at the rate of 24%. To simplify and ease the administrative burden under the previous tax imputation system, a single-tier tax system has been introduced with effect from Year of Assessment (YA) 2008. Under this new system, income tax imposed on a company's chargeable income is a final tax and dividends distributed are exempted from tax in the hands of the shareholders.
- Companies with credit balances which do not elect to switch over to the single-tier system were allowed to use the credit balances for the purpose of dividend distribution during a transitional period of six years until 31 December 2013, or until the credit balances are reduced to zero.
- Income tax in Malaysia is imposed only on income. Capital gains are not taxed, except those arising from transactions in real property or shares in Real Property Companies.
- A resident is taxed on income accrued in or derived from Malaysia. However, a resident company carrying on a business of banking, insurance or sea or air transport is also taxed on income derived from outside Malaysia and received in Malaysia.
- Tax incentives are given for Malaysian resident companies carrying on certain favoured activities including energy conservation services and the managing of Islamic funds.
- All manufacturers (including contractors) and importers are subject to sales tax. The basic rate of 10% applies to all goods not specifically exempted or taxed under a reduced (5%) or increased (15%) rate. Sales tax has been abolished and replaced by Goods and Services Tax (GST) with effect from 1 April 2015. However, GST has been repealed and Sales tax has come into effect again on 1 September 2018.
- Service tax is levied on prescribed goods and services provided by certain businesses, including hotels, restaurants, legal, accounting and insurance businesses. Service tax has been abolished and replaced by GST with effect from 1 April 2015. However, GST has been repealed and Service tax has come into effect again on 1 September 2018.
- With effect from 1 January 2008, under the single-tier system all dividends distributed by the company are exempted from tax in the hands of shareholders at all levels.
- Resident companies within a group of companies may enjoy group relief incentive. Up to 70% of the adjusted loss may be surrendered to companies within the group.
- Under Section 140A of the Income Tax Act 1967 (the Act), the Director General of Inland Revenue (DGIR) is empowered to make adjustments based on arm's length principle as set out under the Malaysian Transfer Pricing Guidelines revised in July 2017 on the transfer prices in relation to related party transactions.
- With effect from 1 January 2019, Earning Stripping Rules (ESR) have been introduced in Malaysia to be in line with BEPS Action 4: Limiting Base Erosion Involving Interest Deductions and Other Financial Payments to address base erosion and profit shifting by way of interest.
- There is no withholding tax on dividends paid by Malaysian resident companies. There is withholding tax on payments of interest, royalties and technical fees made to non-residents, although there are exemptions for certain types of interest payment.

A. TAXES PAYABLE

Malaysian taxation is territorial in scope, whereby income derived from sources in Malaysia is subject to tax. With effect from the YA 2004, income received in Malaysia by any person other than a resident company carrying on the business of banking, insurance, sea or air transport derived from sources outside Malaysia is exempted from tax.

Malaysia currently adopts a Self-Assessment tax regime (SAS) whereby taxpayers have the responsibility to assess the extent of their tax liability and bear the onus of disclosure and representation of information. Under the SAS, the tax authorities will conduct tax audits on taxpayers to ensure proper compliance in respect of returns submitted, failing which penalties will be imposed on tax adjustments made.

CORPORATE TAX

Resident and non-resident companies in Malaysia are generally subject to corporate tax at the rate of 24% with effect from YA 2016. However, if a resident company meets the requirements of a small and medium enterprise (SME), it will enjoy a lower tax rate for its first MYR 500,000 of its chargeable income. With effect from YA 2019, the income tax rate on the first MYR 500,000 of chargeable income is reduced by 1% from 18% to 17%. Please refer to the summary of tax rates as set out below:

	Corporate Tax Rates YA 2017 and YA 2018	Corporate Tax Rates YA 2019
SMEs (resident company*):
- First MYR 500,000 of chargeable income	18%	17%
- Chargeable income > MYR 500,000	24%	24%
Non-SMEs and non-resident companies	24%	24%

* A company is tax resident in Malaysia if the management and control is exercised in Malaysia. Management and control is normally considered to be exercised at the place where directors' meetings are held.

 To qualify as a SME, the paid up capital of the resident company in respect of ordinary shares must be not more than MYR 2.5 million at the beginning of the basis period; and is not part of a group of companies where any of its related companies has a paid up capital in ordinary shares of more than MYR 2.5 million at the beginning of the basis period.

For YA 2017 and YA 2018, the tax rate for resident companies will be given a reduction in the income tax rate on the incremental chargeable income compared to the immediate preceding YA, based on the percentage of increase in chargeable income as provided below:

% of increase in chargeable income compared to the immediate preceding YA	% point reduction on income tax rate	Reduced income tax rate on increase in chargeable income (%)
Less than 5%	Nil	24
5% - 9.99%	1	23
10% - 14.99%	2	22
15% - 19.99%	3	21
20% and above	4	20

Under the SAS, every company is required to provide an estimate of its tax payable for a YA, 30 days before the beginning of the basis period. The estimate submitted for a particular YA cannot be less than 85% of the estimate/revised estimate of tax payable for the immediate preceding YA. Exemption for filing of tax estimate is only applicable under the following circumstances:

- For a period of 2 years beginning from the YA in which the company commences operation on the conditions that the SME must be a tax resident and incorporated in Malaysia.
- A company commencing operation in a YA is not required to furnish estimate of tax payable if the basis period the YA in which the company commences operation is less than 6 months.

The company is required to pay the estimated tax payable in equal monthly instalments according to the number of months in its basis period. The balance of tax payable by a company based on tax return submitted after deduction of tax estimate is due to be paid by the due date for submission of tax return.

All companies must file the annual corporate tax returns within 7 months from the close of the accounting period. It is mandatory for companies to submit tax returns via e-filing and the said return must be based on audited financial statements certified by the approved accountants, with the exception of non-audited Financial Statements that are prepared in accordance with the Companies Act 2016.

The following are some of the key aspects of the Malaysian income tax system and administration:

SINGLE TIER DIVIDEND SYSTEM

To simplify and ease the administrative burden under the previous tax imputation system, a single tier dividend system has been introduced with effect from YA 2008 and the old tax imputation dividend has been fully phased out by 31 December 2013. Under this new single tier dividend system, income tax imposed on a company's chargeable income is a final tax and dividends distributed are exempted from tax in the hands of the shareholders.

ADVANCE RULING

With effect from 1 January 2007, a taxpayer may request for an advance ruling from the DGIR on the interpretation and application of any provision of the Act to a particular type of arrangement or transaction.

GROUP RELIEF FOR NON-SME COMPANIES

With effect from YA 2006, group relief is made available to non-SME resident companies to allow their current year losses to be utilised by their related company within the group, subject to certain conditions. Under this provision, a company may elect irrevocably to surrender up to 70% of its current year tax losses to offset against the chargeable income of its related company. The following are some of the key conditions to be met in order to claim group relief:

- Both claimant and surrendering companies must be locally incorporated companies and have the same accounting period;
- Has paid up capital of more than MYR 2.5 million at the beginning of the basis period; and
- 70% direct/indirect shareholding requirements.

Effective from YA 2019, the eligibility to claim group relief is restricted on commencement of business as follows:

- The surrendering company is restricted to a company which newly commenced operations; and
- The adjusted loss surrendered is limited to 3 consecutive years of assessment.

The 3 consecutive years of assessment commence:

- Immediately following the basis period the surrendering company first commences operations (i.e. second year of assessment) if the basis period for the first year of assessment consists of a period of 12 months; or
- Immediately following the second basis period the surrendering company first commences operations (i.e. third year of assessment) if the basis period for the first year of assessment does not make up 12 months and the basis period for the second year of assessment consists of a period of 12 months.

Group relief shall not apply to a company for any basis period for a year of assessment during which that company has unutilised investment tax allowance or adjusted loss from a pioneer business under the Promotion of Investments Act 1986.

TRANSFER PRICING REGULATION

In line with the introduction of transfer pricing legislation in 2009, Transfer Pricing Guidelines 2012 have been issued by the DGIR on 20 July 2012 to replace the Transfer Pricing Guidelines issued on 2 July 2003. The Transfer Pricing Guidelines 2012 have also been revised in July 2017. Specific provisions have been established to empower the DGIR to make adjustments based on the arm's length principle as set out under the Organisation for Economic Co-operation and Development (OECD) Transfer Pricing Guidelines on transfer prices in relation to related party transactions.

COUNTRY BY COUNTRY REPORTING

Malaysia has legislated the rules in respect of the requirements for filing a Country-by-Country Reporting (CbCR) and other related requirements, in line with the recommendations of OECD base erosion profit shifting (BEPS) Action Plan 13. The rules cover, among others, the conditions that require a multinational corporation group to perform CbCR, the details that should be reported in a CbCR, filing obligations, a deadline for filing as well as use and confidentiality of the CbCR information. The threshold for furnishing CbCR in Malaysia is set at a total group revenue in the financial year preceding the reporting financial year of at least MYR 3 billion. The abovementioned rules came into effect on 1 January 2017. CbCR shall be filed no later than 12 months after the last day of the reporting financial year.

ADVANCE PRICING ARRANGEMENTS

Advance Pricing Arrangements Guidelines 2012 were introduced by the DGIR on 20 July 2012 to explain the manner in which a company may apply for an Advance Pricing Arrangement (APA) from the DGIR via a prescribed form. This represents an agreement between the company and the DGIR that establishes the transfer pricing methodology to ascertain the prospective arm's length transfer prices in relation to related party transactions between the company and its foreign affiliates under specific terms and conditions. The period covered under an APA is a minimum of 3 years and a maximum of 5 years of assessment. A rollback of an APA can be requested.

EARNING STRIPPING RULES

Earning Stripping Rules (ESR) that have a similar objective to control excessive deduction on interest expenses between associated persons have been introduced to be in line with the proposals under the OECD's report on BEPS Action 4: Limiting Base Erosion Involving Interest Deductions and Other Financial Payments to address base erosion and profit shifting by way of interest. Under ESR, the interest deduction on loans between related companies within the same group will be limited to a pre-determined range from 10% to 30% of a company's Earnings Before Interest and Taxes (EBIT) or the Earnings Before Interest, Tax, Depreciation, and Amortisation (EBITDA). ESR is effective from 1 January 2019 but the relevant rules and guidelines have yet to be issued by the Malaysian tax authority.

REAL PROPERTY GAINS TAX

Malaysia does not impose capital gains tax on disposal of capital assets or related transactions, except for the disposal of real property or shares in Real Property Companies which fall within the ambit of Real Property Gains Tax Act 1976. With effect from 1 January 2019, the RPGT rates on the gains from disposal of real properties and shares in real property companies were revised as follows:

	Companies	Individual (Citizen and Permanent Resident)	Individual / Executor of the Estate (Non-Citizen and Non-Permanent Resident)

*RPGT exemption is given to Malaysian citizens for the disposal of residential homes at a price of MYR 200,000 and below.

Stamp duty is chargeable on certain instruments or documents. The rate of duty (either fixed rate or ad valorem) varies according to the nature of the instruments or documents and transacted value. The following are rates of stamp duty for some common instruments and documents:

IMPORT DUTIES

- Import duties are levied on goods that are subject to import duties and imported into the country.
- Import duties are generally levied on an ad valorem basis but may also be imposed on a specific basis.
- The rate of import duty on dutiable goods is dependent on the classification of the goods under the Customs Duties Order 2007. Malaysia adopts a coding or classification system commonly referred to as the Harmonised System which was established under the International Convention on the Harmonised Commodity Description and Coding System. Malaysia may enjoy preferential rates of duty under the relevant free trade agreements.
- Qualifying goods originating from China, Japan, Korea, Pakistan, Australia, New Zealand, India, Chile and ASEAN countries imported into Malaysia may enjoy preferential rates of duty under the relevant free trade agreements.
- The ad valorem rates of import duties range from 2% to 60%. Raw materials, machinery, essential foodstuffs, pharmaceutical products and certain tourism related and daily use products are generally non-dutiable or subject to duties at lower rates.
- Subject to certain exclusions, goods can be brought into or provided in free zones without payment of custom duties.

EXPORT DUTIES

- Export duties are generally imposed on the country's main commodities. The ad valorem rates of export duty range from 0% to 20%.
- The rate of export duty on dutiable goods is dependent on the classification of the goods under the Customs Duties Order 2007.
- For the purposes of computing export duty, the value of the goods is the price which an exporter would receive for the goods calculated to the stage where such goods are released by Customs at the place of export.

EXCISE DUTIES

- In Malaysia, excise duties are imposed on a selected range of goods manufactured in Malaysia and selected imported goods, including motor vehicles.

INVESTMENT INCENTIVES

Malaysia offers a wide range of tax incentives for foreign and local investors to promote investments in selected industry sectors and/or promoted areas. Malaysia has today become an export-driven economy spurred on by high technology, knowledge-based and capital-intensive industries and the Economic Transformation Programme (ETP) has been introduced by the government to propel and transform Malaysia into a high-income nation by 2020. Hence, the investment incentives have been designed to focus on these areas particularly the 12 National Key Economic Areas (NKEAs) identified under the Malaysian Economic Transformation Programme (ETP). The major types of tax incentives available in Malaysia are Pioneer Status, Investment Tax Allowance and Reinvestment Allowance.

PIONEER STATUS (PS)

- An income tax exemption ranging from 70% to 100% (depending on the type of promoted products and/or activities) on a company's statutory income for a period of five years.
- The PS is generally favourable for companies expecting to generate large profits within a short time upon commencement of production of promoted products and/or activities.
- The exemption period may be extended for another further five years depending on the type of promoted products and/or activities.

INVESTMENT TAX ALLOWANCE (ITA)

- The ITA is an alternative incentive to PS which is preferable for capital intensive projects involving promoted products and/or activities.
- The ITA is accorded to the qualifying person in addition to the normal capital allowances available on the same asset.
- Generally, the rate of the ITA is 60% on the qualifying capital expenditure incurred on qualifying plant and machinery and can be used to offset up to 70% (or 100% in certain promoted products and/or activities) of the statutory income.
- The exemption period may be extended for a further five years depending on the type of promoted products and/or activities.
- PS and ITA are mutually exclusive.

REINVESTMENT ALLOWANCE (RA)

- RA is available for manufacturing companies that reinvest their capital to embark on:
- Expansion of existing production capacity;

- Modernisation or automation of production facilities;
- Diversification into related products.
- RA is also available to companies engaged in agricultural projects (e.g. cultivation of rice, maize, fruits, vegetables, tubers and roots, livestock farming, spawning, breeding or culturing aquatic products, etc.).
- The RA is accorded to the qualifying person in addition to the normal capital allowances available on the same asset.
- Generally, the rate of the RA is 60% on the qualifying capital expenditure incurred on factory, plant or/and machinery and can be used to offset up to 70% (or 100% in certain circumstances) of the statutory income. Strict interpretation of types of "qualifying capital expenditure" need to be observed by the taxpayer in claiming the benefit accorded under this tax incentive.
- RA will only be given to a company which has been operating for not less than 36 months and is not applicable to an asset purchased by a company from a related company within the group.
- The incentive period is 15 years from the first year of claim and the RA is mutually exclusive to both PS and ITA as well as various tax incentives in Malaysia. Effective from YAs 2016 to 2018, companies whose RA incentive period has expired will be allowed a special claim of RA on qualifying capital expenditure.
- RA claimed by any qualifying person will be clawed back if the qualifying asset is disposed of within five (5) years from the date of acquisition.

KEY TAX POINTS

- Malta's tax system is based on UK principles, and enjoys the approval of the EU Commission and Code of Conduct Group following Malta's EU accession.
- Malta operates a full imputation system where dividends paid by a Maltese company carry a tax credit equivalent to the tax paid by the company on the distributed profits.

- Shareholders are taxed on the gross dividend but are entitled to tax credits of the tax paid by the company on the profits so distributed.
- Malta does not have net wealth tax and inheritance tax.
- Taxpayers (both individuals and companies) who are ordinarily resident and domiciled in Malta are subject to income tax in Malta on their worldwide income and certain capital gains.
- Malta operates the “remittance basis” of taxation. Taxpayers who are either not ordinarily resident or are not domiciled in Malta are subject to tax on income arising in Malta and on foreign income only if that is received in Malta. In such case, foreign capital gains are not taxable in Malta even if received in Malta.
- Malta does not impose withholding tax on payment of dividends, interest or royalties, although there are some exceptions.

A. TAXES PAYABLE

COMPANY TAX

A company incorporated in Malta is deemed to be both domiciled and resident in Malta from the date of incorporation. A company not incorporated in Malta is considered resident in Malta if the management and control of its business is exercised in Malta. Companies which are resident and domiciled in Malta are subject to income tax on their worldwide income at a flat rate of 35%. In certain circumstances, depending upon the business activity from which the profit has been generated, recipients of dividend income may become entitled to refunds of company tax paid.

Companies that are either resident or domiciled are taxable in Malta on the remittance basis. Therefore, income and taxable chargeable gains arising in Malta and on foreign income received in Malta. Foreign capital gains are not taxable, regardless of whether received in Malta. Companies that are neither not resident nor domiciled (i.e. incorporated) in Malta are only chargeable to tax in Malta in respect of income and gains arising in Malta.

As from 1 January 2019, Maltese law will provide for the following anti-tax avoidance measures:

1. When interest and similar borrowing costs of a company exceed interest receivable, the maximum tax deduction that can be claimed in a tax period in respect of the excess costs will be 30% of earnings before interest, tax, depreciation and amortisation.
2. A change of residence of a company, or the movement of its assets or of its business to another territory will be treated as a taxable exit event. No exit tax will be chargeable in the case of a temporary movement of assets that is linked to certain financial transactions as long as the assets are returned within 12 months.
3. An entity will be considered a Controlled Foreign Company where it is subject to more than 50% control by a parent company that is tax resident in Malta and its associated enterprises and the tax paid on its profits is less than half the tax that would have been paid had the income been subject to tax in Malta.
4. EU Anti-Tax Avoidance Directive (ATAD) 2 – Council Directive (EU) 2017/952 of 29 May 2017 amending Directive (EU) 2016/1164 as regards hybrid mismatches with third countries – replaces ATAD 1. It is implemented in Malta by Legal Notice (L.N.) 411 of 2018. Regulations for the transposition of ATAD 2 are being prepared and will meet the implementation deadlines set out in the directive (1 January 2020 and 1 January 2022). The ATAD 2 sets out five key anti-avoidance measures to counter-act some of the most common types of aggressive tax planning. The first three measures to be implemented are: i) Controlled Foreign Company (CFC) rule, deterring profit shifting to no or low tax countries, ii) Interest limitation, discouraging companies from creating artificial debt arrangements designed to minimise taxes, and iii) General Anti-Abuse Rule, counter-acting aggressive tax planning when other rules do not apply.
5. At OECD level, countries agreed on a Base erosion and profit shifting (BEPS) Multilateral Instrument to implement key BEPS recommendations relating to bilateral tax treaties. Malta signed the Multilateral Instrument in June 2017.
6. Regulations for the transposition of the Directive on Administrative Cooperation (DAC) 6 - Council Directive (EU) 2018/822 of 25 May 2018 amending Directive 2011/16/EU as regards mandatory automatic exchange of information in the field of taxation in relation to reportable cross-border arrangements - are being prepared and will meet the implementation deadlines set out in the Directive (1 January 2020). Following the adoption of the Common Reporting Standard (CRS) which introduced the automatic exchange of tax and financial information on a global level, DAC 6 is responding to Action 12 of the OECD's BEPS project, looking at cross-border arrangements and the disclosure of actual transactions undertaken.
7. EU Dispute Resolution Mechanism (DRM) Directive - Council Directive (EU) 2017/1852 of 10 October 2017 on tax dispute resolution mechanisms in the European Union - will be implemented by the end of June 2019.

8. The Government will move forward with the introduction of a new patent box regime that complies with the EU Code of Conduct (Business Taxation) and the OECD proposals on preferential intellectual property regimes (the so-called Modified Nexus Approach).

CAPITAL GAINS TAX

Capital gains are subject to tax if they are derived from the transfer (including any alienation under any title) of:

- Immovable property;
- Securities, defined as shares and stock and such like instruments that participate in any way in the profits of the company and whose return is not limited to a fixed rate of return, units in a collective investment scheme and units and such like instruments relating to linked long term business of insurance;
- Business, goodwill, business permits, copyright, patents, trademarks and trade-names;
- Beneficial interest in a trust;
- Interest in a partnership; and,
- Market value of shares through a change in the issued share capital or voting rights of a company.

Legal Notice 379 of 2017 re-introduced a tax exemption on capital gains, realised through the sale of shares to the public of shares listed on the Malta Stock Exchange. Similarly, an exemption was introduced with respect to the sale of shares to the public through a listing on an alternate trading platform. The benefit in the latter case may be determined by the percentage of shareholding offered to the public.

No tax is payable by non-residents on capital gains arising on transfers of company shares or securities except where such gains are derived from the transfer of shares or securities in companies whose assets consist wholly or principally of immovable property situated in Malta.

VALUE ADDED TAX (VAT)

VAT is imposed on importation of goods into Malta, on every intra-Community acquisition into Malta and on every supply of goods and services made in Malta for a consideration in the course of business. The standard VAT rate in Malta is 18%. A reduced rate of 7% VAT applies to the supply of hotel accommodation and sports facilities and 5% on certain supplies including electricity, confectionery, medical accessories and printed matters, items for the exclusive use of disabled and works of arts, collectors' items and antiques.

Also, certain supplies are zero-rated (known as exempt with credit supplies). These include exports and export-related services, the transfer of goods placed or while they are placed under a customs duty suspension regime, international transport of person, the supply and repair of commercial aircraft and vessels, food (excluding confectionery and food supplied in the course of catering), pharmaceuticals and intra-Community supplies of goods to persons registered for VAT purposes in another EU state.

Other exemptions are termed exemptions without credit. When the activity of the business consists of or includes exempt without credit supplies, the input tax relating to those supplies is not recoverable. Exempt without credit supplies include: the transfer and the letting of immovable property (excluding inter alia commercial letting and hotel accommodation), insurance services, credit, banking and certain investment services, health and welfare, cultural services, education and lotto and lotteries including certain remote gaming. As from 1 January 2018, certain remote gaming supplies which were previously exempt from VAT are now taxable in Malta. The table below provides a general summary of supplies relating to gambling which shall remain exempt from VAT and those which shall attract VAT:

Exempt	Taxable
Event betting (including betting exchanges)	Casino type games not on a device
Lotteries and lottery type games	P2P games (example poker)
Bingo	Games of skills
Casino games of chance on devices (land based) including live casino	Class 4 type of services and other supplies in relation to the above
Qualifying supplies in relation to the above

VAT on Intra-Community acquisitions

When a taxable person makes an intra-Community acquisition in Malta, i.e. he receives a supply of goods from a person who is registered in another EU State where such goods are transported from one EU State to another, he will be liable for the payment of VAT in Malta on that transaction, unless the goods are exempt from VAT. Acquisition VAT is also imposed on any other person (other than a private individual) who makes an intra-Community acquisition of goods with a value exceeding EUR 10,000. Such persons may also opt to account for and pay such VAT if their intra-Community acquisitions do not exceed this amount.

VAT on imports

VAT is imposed at the rate of 18% (and at 5%/7% in respect of the goods subject to a reduced rate of VAT mentioned in the preceding paragraph) of the taxable value of the goods that are not in free circulation in the EU and that are imported into Malta. It is collected by the Comptroller of Customs on behalf of the Commissioner of VAT at the time of the release of the goods together with any duties payable on the imports. A number of importations are exempt from VAT.

Place of Supply of telecommunications, broadcasting and electronically supplied services

As of 1 January 2015, the place of supply of telecommunications, broadcasting and electronically supplied services is the place of the customer meaning that Maltese operators are obliged to account for and charge the tax of the Member States of the European Union where their customers are founded which could be a compliance burden if the supplier as customers established in different Member States of the European Union. Therefore, operators have two options for complying with this legal obligation- register and comply with the VAT rules of all the Member States of The European Union where their customers are located; or register under the MINI One Stop Shop (MOSS) which is a simplification measure which the EU Commission proposed to ease compliance.

VAT for SMEs

In the 2018 Budget, the Government increased the threshold below which small and medium enterprises (SMEs) will be allowed not to charge VAT. In turn, they will not claim any VAT paid by them. The capping of EUR 14,000 turnover per annum has been increased to EUR 20,000.

Sustainability in the financial services and gaming sector

Legal Notice 162 of 2018 - Value Added Tax (Registration as a Single Taxable Person) Regulations, 2018 - introduced the concept of VAT Grouping for the regulated financial services and gaming sectors. Legal independent entities established in Malta and having financial, economic and organisational ties between them can register as a single person for taxation purposes. As a result, members of the group benefit from VAT exemptions and acquisitions.

VAT Treatment of Certain Commercial Maritime Transactions

By the end of 2017, Malta boasted the largest shipping register in the EU, with more than 8,000 ships, totalling a combined gross tonnage of 74 million, flying the Maltese flag. Certain specific cases of commercial maritime transactions may qualify for VAT treatment in accordance with the place of supply of service rules, i.e. where the effective use and enjoyment of the product in question is outside the EU, and the same can be sustainably and properly evidenced to the satisfaction of the VAT Commissioner, the supply of such service may not be subject to VAT. Applications are reviewed on a case by case basis, in order to ensure fair taxation and adherence to all applicable EU laws.

VAT Treatment of Certain Commercial Aviation Transactions

Aviation is a fast-growing sector of the Maltese economy. Malta is presently expanding its modest yet sturdy 500 strong aircraft register and increasing AOC registrations, currently circling around the 33 figure. Certain specific cases of commercial aviation transactions may qualify for VAT treatment in accordance with the place of supply of service rules. That is, where the effective use and enjoyment of the product in question is outside the EU, and the same can be sustainably and properly evidenced to the satisfaction of the VAT Commissioner, the supply of such service may not be subject to VAT. Applications are reviewed on a case by case basis, in order to ensure fair taxation and adherence to all applicable EU laws.

Additionally, VAT will be refunded in the following scenarios:

- Eligible expenses incurred by private schools for the construction of new buildings;
- On the acquisition of new cars provided they satisfy certain criteria relating to size and emissions;

- On the acquisition of a new bicycle (capped at EUR 150); and,
- On the cost of sports equipment acquired by sports associations recognised by the Malta Sports Council.

OIL BUNKERING TAX

A flat rate of tax per metric ton is charged on the bunkering of certain fuel oils used for ships and their machinery and supplied free from customs and other duties. The payment of the tax is due immediately upon the release of the fuel from the bonded installation, marine terminal or marine facility on the quantity of fuel measured or calculated by Customs as having been released.

STAMP DUTY

A duty is levied on documents relating particularly to transfers of property, marketable securities (including shares), insurance policies, and auction sales. Duty on transfers of immovable property is at the rate of 5% of which 1% provisional tax is paid upon the entering of a promise of sale agreement. The rate of duty of the transfer of shares in Property Company is 5%, and, otherwise reduced to 2% on market value. Family businesses which are passed from one generation to another through an act of donation, which transfers took place from 1 April 2017 to 1 April 2018 were taxed at a reduced rate of 1.5% rather than 5%. This duty applies to immovable and movable property making up the business, which must have been held as a family business for three years prior to the donation and must be retained as a family business for three years following the donation.

There are a number of limitations and exemptions apply, including an exemption from duty on transfers of immovable property between companies forming part of the same group, transfers of shares upon certain restructuring of holdings within a group of companies, a reduced rate of duty on the acquisition of property to be used as one's ordinary residence as well as division of immovable property between co-owners. The first time buyers' scheme has proved a great success since its introduction in July 2015, and the exemption to first time property buyers is being extended once again in 2018, as a result of which no duty is charged on the first EUR 150,000 provided the buyer did not previously own or hold immovable property in Malta directly or indirectly.

Acquiring Property in Gozo

The incentive introduced by the Government in 2017 in view of property purchased in Gozo, whereby a reduction in stamp duty from 5% to 2% is applicable has been extended for the year 2018.

Preservation of Historical Premises Heritage

In order to further reduce vacant property and thereby lessen the need to build new property, the Government is extending the scheme introduced in 2016 throughout 2018 whereby stamp duty payable on the purchase of property in Urban Conservation Areas is halved from 5% to 2.5%.

WEALTH AND CAPITAL TAXES

No taxes are levied on net wealth as such. In the case of corporations, no tax is levied on the basis of the capital of the business, but an annual registration fee, which may reach a maximum of EUR 2,250 (paper submission) or EUR 1,900 (electronic submission), is charged by reference to the company's authorised share capital.

GAMING TAX

The Malta Gaming Authority has issued specific licence fees which apply to (Business-to-Customer) and (Business-to-Business) operations in Malta. The former account for a Gaming Service Licence whilst the latter is in relation to the Critical Gaming Supply Licence. A fixed annual licence fee of EUR 25,000 per annum is applied in the case of B2C operations. This annual licence fee is somewhat reduced with regards to those operators offering controlled skill games under a B2C Type 4 license to EUR 10,000. With regards to B2B operators, the annual license fee varies depending on the annual revenue of the operator. For B2B operators providing the supply and management of material elements of the game (such as platform providers for instance), the annual fee ranges from EUR 25,000 to EUR 35,000. In the case of those operators who only supply and manage gaming software, the annual fee ranges from EUR 3,000 to EUR 5,000 depending on the revenue.

Malta iGaming Companies are subject to the payment of remote gaming tax in Malta based on their activities. If the gaming service being offered is a distance communication or remote gaming, the determination of tax will not be based on the physical presence of the service provider, but rather, will focus on whether the player is established and his permanent address or residence in Malta.

5% Gaming Tax is applied on Gaming Revenue generated from Malta based players. Determination of taxability is whether the player is established, has his permanent address and/or usually resides in Malta.

Furthermore, on 29 March 2018, the MGA published a consultation document on a Sandbox Environment for Distributed Ledger Technology (DLT) and Virtual Currencies which provides guidance on the use of Distributed Ledger Technology and on the acceptance of Virtual Currencies through the implementation of a Sandbox Environment.

VIRTUAL FINANCIAL ASSETS

On 1 November 2018 the Virtual Financial Assets (VFA) Act, 2018 and the Virtual Financial Asset Regulations (Legal Notice 357 of 2018) came into force.

Proceeds from raising finance in an initial coin offering (ICO) or token generation event is not to be treated as income of the issuer and the issue of new tokens is not to be treated as a transfer for capital gains tax purposes. Proceeds from raising finance in an initial offering or token generation event should not be treated as income of the issuer and the issue of new tokens should neither be treated as a transfer for capital gains tax purposes. Where, however, the tokens issued at ICO stage would give rights to identified goods or services for a specified consideration, a chargeable event would arise and the rules applicable to utility/financial tokens, should be followed.

Returns derived from financial tokens (DLT Assets exhibiting qualities that are similar to equities, debentures, etc.), whether received in fiat or in cryptocurrency or in kind, should be treated as income. In the transfer of tokens, the tax treatment is to depend on whether the transfer is a trading transaction or is a transfer of a capital asset. Trading profits are taxable whilst capital gains are only taxable in so far as the token meets the definition of 'securities' in the Income Tax Act. In the case of financial tokens (DLT Assets whose utility, value or application is restricted solely to the acquisition of goods or services issued simply to raise capital, the issue would not give rise to any VAT implications.

Profits realised from the business of exchanging (virtual currency) coins should be treated in the same manner as profits derived from the business of exchanging fiat currency and hence subject to income tax whilst coins should fall outside the scope of taxation of capital gains. The exchange of cryptocurrencies for other cryptocurrencies or for fiat money where such exchange constitutes a supply of services for consideration is to be exempt from VAT.

Digital wallet providers requiring the payment of fees for allowing coin users to hold and operate a cryptocurrency and hence create rights and obligations in relation to the means of payment in question is to be VAT exempt. Instead a mere technological service would be taxable.

Gains or profits from mining of cryptocurrency represent income. Where mining constitutes a service for which compensation arises in the nature of newly minted coins falls outside the scope of VAT. Where miners receive payment for other activities a chargeable event for VAT purposes would be triggered.

Providers of exchange platforms realising profits from the provision of the platform, should be treated like normal companies and hence chargeable to tax under the normal rules and principles applicable to Malta corporate entities.

SOCIAL INSURANCE CONTRIBUTIONS

Social insurance contributions in respect of an employed person are payable equally by the employer and by the employee. The rate is, in each case, equivalent to 10% of the basic wage payable by each of the employee and employer. However, this is subject to a maximum and minimum rate. Currently the minimum weekly contribution stands at EUR 17.58 (or 10% of basic weekly wage if this is lower but the employer continues to pay the said minimum). The maximum weekly contribution varies depending on the age of the employee. In respect of an employee born before 1 January 1962, the maximum weekly contribution stands at EUR 35.70 whereas in the case of an employee born on or after 1 January 1962, the maximum weekly contribution stands at EUR 46.53.

The Maternity Fund Employers' Contribution has come into force on 6 July 2015 by means of Legal Notice 257 of 2015 (Trust and Trustees Act CAP. 331) and Legal Notice 258 of 2015 (Social Security Act CAP. 318). The Maternity Fund is earmarked for employers in the private sector entitled to a reimbursement of the salary of 14 weeks maternity leave paid to their employees. These contributions are payable monthly by the employer to the Inland Revenue Department on the new FS5. The Maternity Fund Contribution is to be declared annually on the new FS3 and FS7.

COMPANY ADMINISTRATION AND COMPLIANCE

Tax Year

The default tax year for a company is 31 December, that is a calendar year. A company may apply to the Commissioner of Inland Revenue to adopt a financial year other than 31 December.

Filing of Tax Returns and Payment

The directors of every company are required to furnish the shareholders annually at a general meeting with a set of financial statements. Financial statements submitted to shareholders may be in accordance with IFRS as adopted by the EU. Notice 289 of 2015 introduced the General Accounting Principles for Small and Medium-Sized Entities (GAPSME) which replaced GAPSE. GAPSME is effective for financial reporting periods commencing on or after 1 January 2016. The annual financial statements, together with the director's report and auditors' report must be approved by the Board with the Registrar of Companies within ten months from the end of the financial year. The financial statements must be approved by at least two directors for companies.

Companies are bound to make three provisional tax payments computed by reference to the amount of tax chargeable in previous year. The provisional tax is payable in three installments: 20% by 30 April, 30% by 31 August and 50% by 21 December. Provisional tax payments are on account of the final tax liability. A tax return must be filed within nine months from the year end or 31 March of the following year, whichever is later. Penalties are imposed for failure to file a return on time or submitting an incorrect tax return. A final tax payment is due by the date the tax return is submitted. Interest is payable at the rate of 0.54% per month or part thereof on any unpaid balances and outstanding refunds.

Exemptions

In certain circumstances, a company may qualify for an exemption from paying provisional tax payments and final tax payment is due within 18 months after the year end.

B. DETERMINATION OF TAXABLE INCOME

The audited financial statements of the company will normally form the basis of the tax computation, but adjustments will be necessary in order to arrive at the company's income chargeable to tax. The general rule is that tax deductions are allowed only with respect to expenses incurred wholly and exclusively in the production of the income but the law contains special rules on various items. No deduction shall be allowed in respect of expenditure unless that person is in possession of a tax invoice or other document issued in accordance with the VAT Act.

Adjustments would typically include the write-back of depreciation and a deduction for statutory capital allowances, the write-back of provisions and of expenses that do not satisfy the tax deduction rules, and the application of other special income tax rules such as those relative to the determination of income from the letting of immovable property and of capital gains.

CAPITAL ALLOWANCES

A taxpayer is not allowed to claim accounting depreciation as a deduction but may claim the statutory capital allowances on fixed assets used in the production of his income. The assets that qualify for capital allowances are:

- Plant and machinery, including machinery, equipment, fixtures, motor vehicles and similar fixed assets; and,
- Industrial buildings and structures, including hotel buildings but excluding the cost of land. In 2016, the term industrial building was extended and now includes office.

The rules specify the minimum number of years over which the cost of the industrial buildings and various categories of plant and machinery may be written off. In the case of industrial buildings an initial deduction of 10% and 2% annual deduction of the cost of the acquisition of the asset is available. All wear and tear allowances are computed on the straight-line method. Capital allowances may only be deducted from income derived from the activity in which the respective assets are used. The rules allow for proportional deduction where the asset is used partly in the production of income and partly for other purposes.

When an asset that qualified for capital allowances is sold, transferred, destroyed, or otherwise put out of use, a balancing statement is to be prepared. If the tax written down value is higher than the value on disposal, the difference is allowed as a further capital allowance (balancing allowance). If the tax written down value is lower, the difference represents a balancing charge, but the charge cannot exceed the total capital allowances granted on that asset. The balancing charge is either added to the taxpayer's chargeable income or, at the option of the taxpayer and subject to specific conditions, deducted for capital allowances purposes from the cost of acquisition of any fixed asset replacing the asset that has been disposed of.

TAXATION OF DIVIDENDS: PARTICIPATION EXEMPTION

With effect from 1 January 2007, income and gains derived by a company registered in Malta from a participating holding or from the transfer of such holding are 100% exempt from tax. A participating holding is found where a company resident in Malta holds equity shares in another entity and the former:

- (a) Holds directly at least 10% of the equity shares of the company invested in, which holding confers an entitlement to at least any two of the following rights:
 - (i) Right to vote;
 - (ii) Right to profits available for distribution;
 - (iii) Right to assets available for distribution on a winding up; or,
- (b) Is an equity holder which holds an investment of a minimum sum of EUR 1,164,000 (or the equivalent sum in another currency) and the investment is held for an uninterrupted period of not less than 183 days; or,
- (c) Is an equity shareholder and is entitled to purchase the balance of the equity shares or has the right of first refusal to purchase such shares or is entitled to sit as, or appoint, a director on the Board; or,
- (d) Holds the shares or units for the furtherance of its own business and the holding is not held as trading stock for the purpose of a trade.

Malta's participation exemption is also extended to holdings in other entities, such as a Maltese limited partnership (the capital of which is not divided into shares), a non-resident body of persons (with similar characteristics to the Maltese limited partnership) or a collective investment vehicle that provides for limited liability of investors, provided the above conditions for the application of the participation exemption are satisfied.

The participation exemption is also available to branch profits, and the following income is exempt from tax:

- Income attributable to a permanent establishment (including a branch) of a Maltese company where the permanent establishment is situated outside Malta; and,
- Gains derived from the transfer of such permanent establishment.

The Maltese CIR issued a guideline clarifying that income received from a debt instrument that includes characteristics of both equity and debt shall be recognised as interest and taxed accordingly.

Other Conditions for Application of the Exemption

With respect to dividends, the participation exemption is applicable if the entity in which the participating holding is held:

- a) Is resident or incorporated in a country or territory which forms part of the European Union; or,
- b) Is subject to tax at a rate of at least 15%; or,
- c) Has 50% or less of its income derived from passive interest or royalties; or,
- d) Is not a portfolio investment and it has been subject to tax at a rate of at least 5%.

The conditions for the application of the participation exemption with respect to dividends do not apply in the case of gains derived from the alienation of a participating holding. Such gains are therefore exempt with no further conditions. Where the participating holding relates to a non-resident company, an alternative to the participation exemption is the full (100%) refund. The relative dividends and capital gains will be taxed in Malta (subject to double tax relief), however, upon a dividend distribution, the shareholders are entitled to a full refund (100%) of the tax paid by the distributing company.

Following changes to the Parent Subsidiary Directive in October 2015, the Participation Exemption shall only apply to the extent that such profits are not deductible by the relevant subsidiary in the EU Member State related to a situation of hybrid instruments.

INTEREST DEDUCTIONS

Sums payable by such person by way of interest upon any money borrowed by the taxpayer, where the Commissioner is satisfied that the interest was payable on capital employed in acquiring the income is deductible.

CAPITAL AND TRADING LOSSES

Trading and Capital Losses incurred in a trade or business may be carried forward indefinitely. Losses may not be set-off against income that stands to be allocated to the final tax account. This is in line with the general rule that the set-off of trading losses is only allowed if the losses would have been subject to tax had they instead been profits. Alternatively, rather than carrying the loss forward to future periods, the Income Tax Act allows a company to surrender a trading loss to another company if that other company forms part of the same "group". The carry back of losses is not allowed.

BRANCH PROFITS TAX

A branch of an overseas company (the business of which is managed and controlled outside Malta) would be taxable in Malta only on income arising in Malta and on income arising outside Malta but received in Malta. The income of the branch would be taxed at the same rate as that of a Maltese company. Non-resident shareholders of overseas companies may qualify for refunds of tax, provided that the relevant conditions are satisfied. Malta does not impose branch remittance tax.

NOTIONAL INTEREST DEDUCTION (NID) RULES

On 2 February 2018, the Notional Interest Deduction (NID) Rules, 2018 entered into force by virtue of Legal Notice 37 of 2018, replacing the Notional Interest Deduction Rules, 2017 which were originally published by means of Legal Notice 262 of 2017. With effect from year of assessment 2018, the NID rules are aimed towards achieving equal tax treatment in Malta between equity and debt financing by reducing tax disadvantages between the two. To this end, Malta companies and partnerships, as well as Malta permanent establishments of foreign companies or partnerships, are entitled to claim deductions of sums that are deemed to be payable by way of notional interest on "risk capital".

The entitlement to a deduction applies only in respect of profits which stand to be allocated to the company's Foreign Income Account or Maltese Taxed Account, or in the case of partnerships, sums that would have been allocated to the accounts had the undertaking been a company. The deduction is optional and may only be claimed subject to the approval of the shareholders or partners of the undertaking in respect of the particular year of assessment.

The interest on risk capital is calculated as follows: $Y = A \times B$, where:

- "Y" represents the interest on risk capital that an undertaking is entitled to claim in the relevant year of assessment;
- "A" represents the reference rate, meaning the risk-free rate set by reference to the yield to maturity on Malta Government Stocks with a remaining term of approximately 20 years plus a premium of 5%;
- "B" represents the risk capital of the undertaking for the accounting period ending in the year preceding the year of assessment less any risk capital directly employed in the form of securities, interest in a partnership, contributions and any other loans or debts that do not bear interest that the undertaking holds in or provides to any person that is:
 - (i) not employed by the undertaking in producing any income in the year, which if produced could have been exempt from income tax; or
 - (ii) employed in producing income for the year which is exempt from income tax.

NID is capped at 90% of the undertaking's eligible profits for the year, meaning that where the interest on risk capital exceeds 90% of the undertaking's chargeable income, for any year period to taking into account such deduction, the amount of such excess shall not be available for deduction against the profits for the said year, but may, at the discretion of the undertaking, be carried forward to be deducted against future taxable profits.

Where NID is claimed, the undertaking's shareholder or partner will be deemed to have received notional interest income in the same amount. Where the shareholder or partner of the undertaking does not have Malta residence, the deemed interest will be exempt from tax in Malta provided certain conditions are met. Dividend distributions made out of the profits relieved from tax pursuant to a NID claim will not be subject to further taxation in Malta at shareholder or partner level.

TAX ON TRANSFER OF IMMOVABLE PROPERTY

With effect from 1 January 2015, a taxpayer may no longer opt to be taxed at 35% on the capital gain. A final withholding tax of 8% (previously 12%) of the property's value will apply on all transfers of immovable property subject to two exceptions and a transitional measure as follows:

- A final withholding tax of 10% of the property's value will be applicable on transfers of property which was acquired prior to 1 January 2004;

- A final withholding tax of 5% of the property's value will be applicable on transfers of property which is transferred not later than five years from the date of acquisition where the transferor is an individual who does not habitually trade in property.

Some transactions are exempt from being subject to property transfer tax. These include donations made by a person to his relatives or to a philanthropic institution, transfers of property that had been owned and occupied by the transferor for a period of three consecutive years immediately preceding the year of transfer, assignment property between spouses consequent to a judicial or consensual separation, or a divorce among others.

Transfer of Inherited Property

As from 2017, there has been an evening out of measures whereby all properties acquired causa mortis before 25 November 1992, or where the acquisition causa mortis happened on or after 25 November 1992 and the property is transferred by court auction, will be taxed at a final rate of 7% on the transfer value.

RENTAL MARKET

Tax on Rental Income

In 2015 the Government introduced the option to landlords to be taxed at the flat rate final withholding tax of 15% on the gross income from rented property rented out for both residential and commercial purposes without the possibility for any deductions. This is being introduced as an incentive to regularise the local rent market.

New and renewed rental agreements (if longer than 3 months) where the rental income is taxed at the above beneficial rate need to be registered with the Inland Revenue Department. The onus of registration lies with either the lessor or lessee. Otherwise, the lessor will be subject to penalties.

Rent Benefits

A White Paper by the Ministry for the Family, Children's Rights and Social Solidarity on Renting as a Housing Alternative was open for consultation from the 15 October till the 30 November 2018. The proposed measures will only apply to residential tenancies; hence will not impact leases for commercial use, short lets or tourist lets. The White Paper proposes that contracts should cover an established period that the registration of rent contracts should be obligatory, that a minimum notice period for both property owners and tenants should be established, that there should be more enforcement against irregularities and abuse, as well as, more efficiency when it comes to resolving disputes.

There will be two criteria for eligibility in how financial aid will be given to make rent more affordable. The first is the gross family income. The second is that the existing rent paid exceeds the benchmark for that family. The applicant will be eligible if they fall under both criteria. Financial aid ranges from EUR 3,000 to a maximum of EUR 5,000 per year.

SUPPORT MEASURES – MICRO INVEST SCHEME

Investment aid primarily takes the form of tax credits. Eligible enterprises will benefit from tax credits calculated as a percentage of the value of the investment project and wages costs. A tax credit equivalent to 45% of the costs incurred may be approved for enterprises operating from Malta and a further 20% additional bonus is applicable to those operating from Gozo. Costs claimed must not be assisted (even partly) through other incentive measures.

Changes to the Micro Invest and the Business Start schemes were announced in the 2018 Budget. The Micro Invest scheme is being extended to undertakings which employ 50 full-time employees or less. Furthermore, the maximum eligible tax credit under the Micro Invest scheme has been increased from EUR 30,000 to EUR 50,000 for Malta-based industries, whilst for enterprises based in Gozo, the monetary assistance will increase to EUR 70,000 from the former EUR 50,000. In addition, businesses having women holding the majority of the shares and in the case where a woman is self-employed, the assistance has been increased from EUR 50,000 to EUR 70,000.

SCHEMES TO ASSIST BUSINESSES AND STEER ECONOMIC ACTIVITY

The Government's economic development agency Malta Enterprise is continuously improving existing incentives and launching several new business oriented schemes to cater for both current and future business needs. Among these is a scheme offering financial assistance to disadvantaged individuals looking to set up sustainable businesses with the level of assistance capped at a maximum of EUR 25,000 per start-up. There is also to be a scheme of fiscal credit on research projects, with assistance varying between 25 and 45% of the outlay.

Malta Enterprise has continued to work on new initiatives on innovative sectors, such as those of disruptive technology and data management, green projects, new industrial technologies research and the life sciences sector. The digital gaming industry has been one such sector which benefitted from these initiatives, where the development of digital games with a cultural theme is concerned, with assistance to be afforded in the form of fiscal credit up to a maximum of 30% of costs.

ENVIRONMENT FRIENDLY INCENTIVES

The Government is committed to continue encouraging investment in electric and hybrid (plug-in) cars by individuals, NGOs, Local Councils and commercial companies.

Incentives for the Purchase of More Environmentally-friendly Vehicles

The exemption from all registration taxes for all those who buy electric cars or hybrid cars (plug-in) and the grant scheme on bicycles and electronic bicycles which is the equivalent of a full VAT refund is extended for another year.

REFUND OF TAX ON DIVIDENDS

As of 2017, shareholders in receipt of dividends on profits made after 1 January 2017 by companies listed on the Malta Stock Exchange, will be given refunds on dividends declared in their income tax returns, according to the applicable tax. This measure applies to those owning less than 0.5% of the nominal share capital and dividend rights.

ADVANCE REVENUE RULINGS

Maltese tax law allows a taxpayer to apply for an advance revenue ruling. The ruling binds the tax position for five years and is renewable for a further five-year period unless there is a change in the law. If the law on the particular subject is changed during the operation of a ruling, that ruling remains binding either until the end of the relative five-year period or for two years following the amendment, depending on which is the shorter.

The advance rulings are available in a number of situations including whether a transaction constitutes tax avoidance, whether a holding qualifies as a participating holding and determining the tax treatment of a transaction that constitutes international business. Revenue rulings on matters not specified in the law are not legally binding.

SPECIAL TYPES OF ENTITY

Maltese law provides for a favourable fiscal framework for the provision of financial services, and endeavours to establish Malta as an attractive, regulated international business centre.

(i) Collective Investment Schemes

A fundamental concept which was introduced under the Collective Investment Scheme rules is the classification between prescribed and non-prescribed funds. Such classification determines the tax treatment of the Collective Investment Scheme and its investors. A prescribed fund is a resident fund that has declared that the value of its assets situated in Malta at a particular date equals at least 85% of the value of its total assets.

Withholding tax on such funds varies between 10% and 15% depending on the type of income. Tax at 15% will be withheld on any capital gains realised by resident investors on disposal of non-prescribed funds (i.e. funds whose assets are non-Maltese). Dividends paid by a non-resident non-prescribed fund to a resident investor carry a final 15% withholding tax. Dividends paid to non-resident investors are exempt from withholding tax.

(ii) Funds and Fund Managers

Fund Managers are taxed at 35%, as are Investment Services companies, but are entitled to claim an exhaustive list of reliefs such as a double deduction of salaries paid to Maltese personnel in the first ten years of commencement. Fund Managers may opt to be regulated by the Highly Qualified Persons Rules (see H. Personal Taxes below for more details).

Funds themselves which, if set up as a separate vehicle, may also be set up as a SICAV or unit trust, are exempt from income tax in Malta but may not benefit under any of the tax treaties.

It is proposed that the VAT exemption relating to fund management is extended to supplies of services consisting of the management of collective investment schemes licensed under the Investment Services Act.

(iii) Captive Insurance Companies

Captive insurance companies (also known as affiliated insurance companies under Maltese law) are taxed as a normal company. With effect from July 2004, it has also been possible to set up a protected cell company. Both captives and protected cell companies are taxed as ordinary companies in Malta and are, therefore, entitled to the refunds stipulated above. Insurance contracts entered into by licensed entities are not subject to VAT while insurance contracts covering risks that are located outside of Malta are not subject to Stamp Duty.

(iv) Trusts

A trust is an obligation which binds a person or persons (called the 'trustees') to deal with property over which they have control (called 'the trust property') for the benefit of persons (called the beneficiaries) or for a charitable purpose in accordance with the terms of the trust. The setting up of trusts in Malta is regulated by the Trusts and Trustees Act. In certain cases, trusts are considered to be transparent for tax purposes, in the sense that income attributable to a trust is not charged to tax in the hands of the trustee if it is distributed to a beneficiary. Also, when all the beneficiaries of a trust are not ordinary resident and domiciled in Malta and when all the income attributable to a trust does not arise in Malta, there is no tax impact under Maltese tax law. Beneficiaries are charged to tax on income distributed by the trustees. Income attributable to a trust that is not so distributed to beneficiaries is charged to tax in the hands of the trustee at the rate of 35%.

As the trust itself merely consists of property and/or other assets, there is no economic activity carried on and, therefore, it is outside the scope of VAT. Since the trustee's services essentially consist of management and administration of assets, it is considered that any sums that the trustee is entitled to appropriate from the trust assets by way of remuneration do not constitute a consideration for services rendered. Therefore, no economic activity is deemed to be carried out, where such remuneration is specified under the terms of the deed of the trust. However, if the trustee exploits the property of the trust for a consideration, this exploitation is considered as an economic activity and, if such activity is taxable under Maltese VAT legislation, the trustee has to register for VAT in Malta.

(v) Foundations

Under Maltese law foundations may be treated as companies for tax purposes and are subject to the normal corporate tax rate. Foundations may also opt to be taxed in the same manner as a trust. In such cases the relevant provisions governing taxation of trusts will apply.

(vi) Shipping Activities

Income derived by licensed shipping companies from shipping activities is exempt from income tax in Malta, provided that (i) all registration fees and tonnage taxes have been duly paid and (ii) separate accounts have been kept clearly distinguishing the payments and receipts related to shipping activities from payments and receipts in respect of any other business.

Any income derived by a ship manager from ship management activities is also exempt. Furthermore, any gains /income derived from the transfer of a tonnage ship, and/or shares in the said tonnage ship, which is owned, chartered, managed, administered or operated by the shipping organisation, are also exempt from tax.

Non-resident officers and employees of the shipping organisation are exempt from paying social security contributions in Malta. Furthermore, there is no duty chargeable in respect of instruments involving the registration or transfer of general matters concerning shipping organisations.

(vii) Aviation Companies

By virtue of Act LII of 2016, promulgated on 29 November 2016, the Aircraft Registration Act of 2010 was given a complete re-haul with the aim of providing better creditor protection and encouraging the aviation industry in Malta to continue to flourish. The main changes are summarised below:

- revised definitions of airframes and aircraft engines in order to make the distinction between the two in specific contexts more clear;
- updating of fees whereby an entire new fifth schedule was introduced detailing various fees formerly absent and certainly aimed at increasing the revenue generating potential of the growing industry and breathing new life into the industry in this sense. A certificate of registration is now issued at a fee depending on weight of the aircraft and a request for revised certificate of registration owing to for instance change in address now has a flat EUR 50 charge to it. Fees are also levied now for the reservation of customised registration marks (EUR 250) for the registration of a mortgage (EUR 500) and amendment to registered mortgage (EUR 250);

- allowing the registrar in Malta to cancel the registration of an aircraft, if the person who is registering same is no longer a qualified person or is no longer entitled to operate such aircraft under a temporary title, thus increasing the ambit within which the registrar can cancel registration of an aircraft, and the possibility to correct any accidental omissions or errors in the text of statutory mortgages which have been registered over the aircraft;
- Insolvency issues.

New rules were introduced bettering the insolvency regime for 'aircraft companies'. Aircraft companies are defined as those companies whose centre of main interest is in Malta and their sole asset is an aircraft or an aircraft engine over a mortgage or an international interest is registered. Such holders of mortgages or international interests will receive supportive treatment in that they can act without interference from the insolvency processes and officers until such time as enforcement is complete. This novel section provides better creditor protection.

Enforcement Issues

The new law also seeks to improve the position of the mortgagee by buttressing remedies available to the same, through the introduction of a number of rights which the mortgagee can exercise in the case of an enforcement of a mortgage. One such remedy is that the mortgagee has the right, should there be an event of default, to take possession of the aircraft and lease or sell the aircraft and any amounts received from such sale or lease will be used to pay any outstanding amounts owed to the mortgagee.

Highlights of the aviation tax package include:

- Any income which is derived from the ownership, leasing or operation of aircraft or aircraft engines which is used for or employed in the international transport of passengers or goods is exempt from tax in Malta, since such income is deemed to arise outside Malta for Maltese income tax purposes;
- Capital allowances of the aircraft and other related objects for wear and tear spans, for instance a minimum of 6 years for an aircraft airframe;
- No withholding taxes on lease and royalty payments made by Maltese lessees to non-residents in respect of aircraft operated in the international transport of passengers or goods;
- No withholding taxes on interest payments made by Maltese lessees to non-resident financial lessors;
- Fringe benefit exemption: fringe benefits arising from the private use of aircraft by non-residents individuals who are shareholders, employees or officers of companies involved in the international transport of goods or passengers are not taxable.

With effect from 21 March 2016, Malta has been included in the list of countries qualifying for the Cape Town Convention discount. This discount applies to aircraft finance transactions which are supported by export credit agencies (the "ECAs") and which also satisfy the following cumulative conditions:

1. The ECA-supported financing relates to an "aircraft object" within the meaning of the Cape Town Convention;
2. The operator of the aircraft is situated in a country that appears on the list of states maintained by the OECD Secretariat for Cape Town Discounts; and
3. Such financing relates to an aircraft object that has been registered on the International Registry established pursuant to the Cape Town Convention.

C. FOREIGN TAX RELIEF

Malta provides for four types of relief from international double taxation, namely:

• Treaty relief

Treaty relief is available by way of credit for foreign tax paid on income from a territory with which Malta has concluded a double tax treaty. Treaty relief is generally provided in the form of an ordinary credit, limited to the amount agreed between Malta and the relevant foreign territory. The tax suffered in a relevant foreign territory applies on the basis of the ordinary credit method (based on a source-by-source and country-by-country basis). Malta has an extensive tax treaty network, with most treaties following the OECD Model.

• Unilateral relief

Relief from double taxation is also possible on a unilateral basis where tax is suffered outside Malta on income received from a country with which Malta has not concluded a treaty. Any tax suffered outside Malta, would, limitedly to the Malta tax charge on the income, be allowed as a credit against tax chargeable in Malta.

- Relief in respect of Commonwealth income tax

Commonwealth Tax Relief is available in respect of income tax or tax of a similar nature charged under any law in any country of the Commonwealth, if the law of such Commonwealth country has provided for relief in respect of tax charged on income both in that Country and in Malta.

- Flat-rate foreign tax credit (FRFTC)

FRFTC takes the form of a notional tax credit of 25% for deemed foreign taxes incurred on qualifying income. This type of relief is only available to companies and on income allocated to the foreign income account and does not require evidence of the foreign tax actually paid.

D. CORPORATE GROUPS

Two companies resident in Malta neither of which is resident for tax purposes in any other country shall be deemed to be members of a group of companies if one is the 51% subsidiary of the other or both are 51% subsidiaries of a third company resident in Malta. For the purposes of the group relief provisions, a company shall be deemed to be a 51% subsidiary of another company if:

- More than 50% of its ordinary share capital and voting rights are owned directly or indirectly by the parent company; and,
- The parent company is beneficially entitled either directly or indirectly to more than 50% of any profits available for distribution to the ordinary shareholders of the subsidiary company; and,
- The parent company would be beneficially entitled either directly or indirectly to more than 50% of any assets of the subsidiary company available for distribution to its ordinary shareholders on a winding up.

Companies which are resident for tax purposes in Malta but also in another tax jurisdiction will not benefit from Group Relief Provisions.

E. RELATED PARTY TRANSACTIONS

There is no specific transfer pricing legislation. Malta has a general anti-avoidance provision which gives the Commissioner of Inland Revenue (CIR) the right to disregard any artificial or fictitious scheme that reduces the amount of tax payable by the taxpayer. Additionally, where the sole or main purpose of the taxpayer is to obtain any advantage which has the effect of avoiding, reducing or postponing liability to tax, the CIR may determine the liability to tax.

F. WITHHOLDING TAX

Malta does not impose withholding tax on dividends, interest and royalties except for a 15% withholding tax when untaxed profits are paid to a resident individual.

G. EXCHANGE CONTROL

Malta does not have any exchange controls.

H. PERSONAL TAX / BENEFITS

Personal income tax is paid on all income tax accruing in or derived from Malta and on income accruing in or delivered from abroad by persons domiciled and ordinarily resident in Malta. Income arising outside Malta to a person who is not ordinarily resident in Malta or not domiciled in Malta will be taxed only if it is received in Malta. Expatriate employees are not considered to be ordinarily resident in Malta if they do not work or reside in Malta for more than 183 days in any one-year.

The term income involves gains and profits from any trade, business, profession or vocation; gains or profits from any employment or office; dividends and interest; pensions, annuities or other annual payments; and rents, royalties or other profits derived from ownership of property.

Personal Income Tax Rates for Basis Year 2019

The highest personal income tax rate of 35% applicable to individuals who earn up to EUR 60,000 is further reduced to 25% under the single, married and parent computations. Income over EUR 60,000 will remain taxable at 35% under all computations.

The tax free bracket has been kept at EUR 9,100 for single computation rates, EUR 12,700 for married computation rates and EUR 10,500 for parent rates. However, persons earning only the minimum wage are not subject to tax on the whole amount (refer to table below). This also applies to pensioners whose pension does not exceed the minimum wage. The married rates of tax shall also be applicable to those persons joined under a civil union.

Increase in Pensions

In 2019, all social security pensions, namely retirement pensions, widows' pensions, invalidity pensions, and old age pensions, will be given an increase of EUR 2.17. This increase will be apart from the Cost of Living Adjustment increase. This way, each pensioner will be receiving an increase of EUR 4.50 per week.

Service Pensions

About 4,500 service pensioners will once again receive another EUR 200 raise to their service pension amount, which is deducted from the social security pension, so that the total exempted will go up to EUR 2,466.

EUR 300 Annual Grant

EUR 300 annual grant is given to the elderly aged 75 years and over and are still living in their home.

Tax Refunds for Children Attending Independent Schools

Tax Rebates Pensioner Rules

As from 1 January 2017, by virtue of L.N. 22 of 2018, the Government has amended L.N. 42 of 2017 which had originally introduced new tax rebates for pensioners in line with what was announced in the Budget Speech for 2017. This new measure will ensure that pensioners whose pension income exceeds the tax free bracket will have an increased amount of their pension income which will not be subject to income tax.

Individuals who are in receipt of income from any pension chargeable to tax under article 4(1)(d) of the Income Tax Act and who were at least 61 years of age in the year when such pension was received are eligible to rebates of up to EUR 615 or EUR 405 or EUR 150, depending which provision of the legislation the pertaining pension is regulated under. Rebates are not refundable and may not be carried forward.

Pensioners that are over 61 years of age and who are in receipt of pension income will for the year 2019, be exempt from income tax on their pensions up to certain amounts, depending on the tax status of the individual. This applies to all types of pensions including social security pensions, treasury pensions as well as other local and foreign pensions.

Calendar year	Single	Parent	Married
2018	EUR 13,200	EUR 13,200	EUR 13,200 (+EUR 1,000 deduction against other income)

Fringe Benefits

Certain benefits such as use of cars for private purposes, rent, school fees, free meals as well as share options are added to the salaries of employees and taxed accordingly. All cash allowances paid to employees with the exception of cash allowances paid in respect of the use of employee-owned cars for business purposes are equally fully taxable. Employees are responsible for the disclosure of fringe benefits provided by third parties over which the employer has no control.

Incentive for Investment Services Expatriates

Qualifying Expatriates who are employed in an Investment Services Company may opt for a 10-year exemption on certain fringe benefits, including accommodation expenses, use of a car, a subvention of EUR 600 a month and school fees for their children.

Highly Qualified Persons Rules

From 1 January 2010, subject to terms and conditions, an individual who is not an ordinary resident in Malta, and who derives income subject to tax in Malta, under a qualifying contract of employment, received in respect of work or duties carried out in Malta, may elect for this income to be charged at a flat rate of 15%. The minimum employment income for basis year 2019 must be EUR 84,991, while any employment income over EUR 5,000,000 is not subject to tax. Eligible employment includes certain classes of employment with licensed companies under the terms of the Financial Institutions Act, licensed gaming companies as well as with aviation companies.

L.N. 225 of 2015 heralded a five year extension for beneficiaries bringing the maximum benefit to ten years of assessment under the beneficial 15% tax rate. A new provision called 'time limit of benefit' puts a ceiling on eligible applicants being qualified as beneficiaries up until 31 December 2020. Any benefit accrued after such date becomes necessarily limited to those instances whereby the employment in question starts by the 31 December 2021 and terminates by the 31 December 2025.

On 24 May 2016, S.L. 123.168 was promulgated focusing specifically on the aviation sector, entitled QUALIFYING EMPLOYMENT IN AVIATION (PERSONAL TAX) RULES. The rules apply to income which is brought to charge from year of assessment 2017 (basis year 2016) onwards. The rules apply to individuals not domiciled in Malta, and have greatly widened the ambit of eligible offices within the aviation sector.

Individual income from a qualifying contract of employment qualifies under these rules when it is received by a beneficiary in an eligible office. Such income is subject to tax at a flat rate of 15% provided that the income amounts to at least EUR 45,000 annually. The 15% tax rate applies for a consecutive period of five years for European Economic Area (that is, EU countries as well as Norway, Iceland and Liechtenstein) and Swiss nationals and for a consecutive period of four years for third country nationals.

The four or five year period, as the case may be, commences from the year when the individual concerned first becomes taxable in Malta. In cases where the individual was taxable in Malta but not benefiting under this Scheme and subsequently becomes eligible under the Scheme, he/she can benefit only if the four or five year period has not elapsed; the benefit is then available for the years remaining from the date of eligibility under the Scheme until the said four or five year period from the date of first being subject to tax in Malta elapse.

An individual may benefit from the 15% tax rate if the person satisfies all of the relevant criteria. Income shall not be construed to be income from a qualifying contract of employment if it is paid by the employer who has received a benefit or benefits under business incentive laws or arrangement in terms of the business incentive laws or is paid by a person who is related to the employer who has received a benefit or benefits under any business incentive laws or arrangement in terms of business incentive laws.

The below list comprises all eligible offices in force under the aviation-specific regulations:

The Global Residence Programme Rules (GRP)

These rules were introduced by L.N. 167 of 2013 and were revamped by L.N. 267 of 2014. Beneficiaries are those third-country nationals who have been granted special tax status in terms of these rules. Subject to satisfying the applicable rules in a continuous manner, the beneficiaries under this program benefits from a minimum amount of tax payable in respect of the income arising outside Malta of EUR 15,000 for any year of assessment. Such minimum amount is payable in full in both the year when the special tax status was granted and in the year when the individual ceases to possess the said special tax status.

The Residence Programme Rules (RPR)

These rules were introduced by L.N. 270 of 2014. Beneficiaries are those EU, EEA or Swiss nationals but who are not Maltese nationals and who have been granted special tax status in terms of these rules. Subject to satisfying the applicable rules in a continuous manner, the beneficiaries under this program benefits from a minimum amount of tax payable in terms of these rules in respect of the income arising outside Malta of EUR 15,000 for any year of assessment. Such minimum amount is payable in full in both the year when the special tax status was granted and in the year when the individual ceases to possess the said special tax status.

Under both GRS and RPR:

- All income other than that qualifying for the 15% rate is taxed at the standard full rates;
- An applicant is required to hold qualifying immovable property in Malta or Gozo as per the stipulated requirements;
- A beneficiary must also declare on an annual basis that he has not spent more than 183 days in any one jurisdiction outside of Malta.

Tax Status

- a) Flat rate of Malta income tax of 15% on income remitted to Malta (as opposed to progressive personal tax rates of up to 35%) of main applicant and certain dependents and can claim double taxation relief;
- b) Minimum tax payment of EUR 15,000 per annum (no additional minimum tax payment in respect of dependents);
- c) Any other realised income including realised capital gains arising in Malta on the transfer of a capital asset (other than immovable property situated in Malta) chargeable to Malta income tax at 35%.

As from 1 January 2015, the final tax on transfers of immovable property acquired after 1 January 2004 will be reduced from 12% to 8% of the transfer value while the rate in respect of transfers of immovable property acquired before 1 January 2004 will be of 10%. It will no longer be possible to opt out of the final tax system and therefore to be taxed on the profit. Furthermore, no deduction of expenses will be allowed in arriving at the transfer value. The tax is payable on the date of the contract of sale.

Individuals who do not trade in immovable property and who transfer such property within 5 years from the date of acquisition will be taxed at 5% (instead of 8%) on the transfer value. Any realised capital gain arising outside of Malta falls outside the scope of Malta income tax in view of non-Malta domicile of individual and irrespective of whether remitted to Malta or not.

Malta Individual Investor Programme (MIIP)

This program, by virtue of which qualifying applicants become naturalised as Maltese citizens has successfully been running for the last four years. The MIIP operates on a citizenship by investment type model that combines a contribution to the Maltese Government in the amount of EUR 650,000 together with identified investment requirements made in qualifying immovable property in Malta that can be owned or leased and in Maltese government bonds, or in debt or equity securities or licensed collective investment schemes listed on the official list of the Malta Stock Exchange (in the amount of EUR 150,000), both which must be held for a minimum 5-year period. An applicant may also join a spouse and/or dependents into his application. While separate fees are due for every added member, the bulk contribution and investment requirements only need to be satisfied by the Main Applicant. The model case is a twelve month process during which the applicant must establish and sustain satisfactory links with the Republic of Malta in the eyes of the authorities.

Since the Contribution is classified as such it carries no fiscal burden and is therefore non-taxable. Tax implications may arise given the Applicants choice of taking up residence in Malta during the application process, as well as after obtaining citizenship. The considerations here vary on a case by case basis and must accordingly be treated as such. PKF Malta is fully equipped with the necessary license, expertise, skill and resources to provide our clients with a tailored advice in this regard.

Malta Residence and Visa Program (MRVP)

The MRVP was launched in May 2015. This grants indefinite leave of stay & residence in Malta to the main applicant as well as his or her family under one application. The program is exclusively available to non-EU applicants, and grants the benefit that is a permission to reside in Malta lawfully, indefinitely, provided that all conditions remain satisfied over time. This program is against a one-time EUR 30,000 contribution to the Maltese Government, which becomes payable only upon success. This contribution is payable only once by the Main applicant, and there are no additional contributions for the rest of the family. As of 2017, parents of either Main Applicant or his/her spouse incur an additional EUR 5,000 contribution each in order to be included in the application. Success is also dependent upon the satisfaction of various requisites, among them the holding of an immovable property in Malta for a minimum 5 years (leased for a minimum of EUR 10,000 p.a. or purchased for a minimum of EUR 270,000) and also holding a qualifying investment in Malta

Malta-Mauritius

Government bonds or any other debt or equity securities listed on the Malta Stock Exchange at a minimum value of EUR 250,000 for a minimum of 5 years. This program also requires an applicant to maintain either EUR 500,000 in capital or an annual income of EUR 100,000.

Since the Contribution is classified as such it carries no fiscal burden and is therefore non-taxable. Tax implications may arise once the beneficiaries exercise their right of taking up residence in Malta. The considerations here vary on a case by case basis and must accordingly be treated as such. PKF Malta is fully equipped with the necessary license, expertise, skill and resources to provide our clients with a tailored advice in this regard.

I. TREATY AND NON-TREATY WITHHOLDING TAX RATES

Malta has concluded various treaty agreements with over 70 countries so as to mitigate international double taxation. For detailed information, it is highly advisable to consult the relevant tax treaty.

Note that there is no withholding tax on dividends, interest and royalties (if not effectively connected with a permanent establishment in Malta) paid to non-residents. Therefore, in most cases, the applicable withholding tax rate will actually be 0%.

A. TAXES PAYABLE

FEDERAL TAXES AND LEVIES

The main income tax legislation in Mauritius is the Income Tax Act 1995 as amended by subsequent Finance

Acts. Corporate and Personal Taxes are embodied under one heading of Income Tax and are payable by all resident companies and individuals on non-exempt income derived from Mauritius and from other sources. In the case of an individual, income derived from outside Mauritius is liable to income tax in Mauritius only where such income is received in Mauritius by him or on his behalf or is dealt with in Mauritius in his interest or on his behalf.

The profits of all Resident 'Sociétés' (Partnerships) are taxable in the hands of the partners in proportion to their profit sharing ratio. For income tax purposes, non-resident sociétés are treated like companies. The following entities qualify as 'resident', in relation to an income year:

- A company which is incorporated in Mauritius or has its Central Management and control in Mauritius;
- An individual who:
 - (a) Has his/her domicile in Mauritius unless his/her permanent place of abode is outside Mauritius;
 - (b) Has been present in Mauritius in that income tax year for a period of, or an aggregate period of, 183 days or more or has been present in Mauritius in that income year and the two preceding income years for an aggregate period of 270 days or more;
- A société which has its seat (or siège) in Mauritius and includes a société which has at least one partner resident in Mauritius;
- A Trust which is administered in Mauritius and a majority of the trustees are resident in Mauritius or where the settlor of the trust was resident in Mauritius at the time the instrument creating the trust was executed;
- A Foundation which is registered in Mauritius or has its Central Management and control in Mauritius;
- Any other association or body of persons which is managed or administered in Mauritius.

CORPORATE TAXATION

The rate of tax applicable to all companies is 15% on the companies' profit which consists of business/trading profits and passive income.

Global Business Companies

• Prior to 1 January 2019

Corporations holding a Category 1 Global Business Licence (GBC1) paid tax at a rate of 15%.

Pursuant to the Income Tax (Foreign Tax Credit) Regulations 1996, a GBC1 which does not pay tax in a foreign jurisdiction on its foreign income earned outside Mauritius, is presumed to have paid tax elsewhere and can claim a tax credit of 80% of its income resulting in an effective tax rate of 3% only.

Corporations holding a Category 2 Global Business Licence (GBC2) were exempt from tax and were not tax resident in Mauritius for treaty purposes.

• As from 1 January 2019

As from 1 January 2019, following amendments brought to the fiscal laws, the concept of categories concerning global businesses has been revoked and henceforth there exists only one type of licence for global businesses, i.e. Global Business Licence (GBL). Under the new tax regime, the presumed tax credit previously granted to Category 1 GBL companies has been abolished. In order to avoid an abrupt change which would otherwise adversely impact Category 1 GBL companies and offshore banks, certain transitional provisions have been introduced to cater for a smooth transition. In this respect, Category 1 GBL companies issued with a licence on or before 16 October 2017 have been given the option of claiming the 80% presumed tax credit on their foreign source income up to 30 June 2021. Concurrently, all resident companies (global and domestic companies alike) may now claim an 80% exemption from their foreign source income. This means that all companies are now treated on the same footing. As for Category 2 GBL companies, they will still be exempt from tax up to 30 June 2021. Offshore banks will continue to benefit from the presumed foreign tax credit up to the year of assessment commencing on 1 July 2019 on their transactions with non-residents and corporations holding Global Business Licences.

Due dates for payment of tax

Mauritius

quarterly basis (the first quarter commencing the first day of the accounting year) and pay any tax in accordance with the APS Statement within three months from the end of that quarter. APS is applicable where the gross income for the preceding accounting year exceeded MUR 10 million and a chargeable income existed.

EXEMPTIONS FROM CORPORATE TAX

The Income Tax Act provides for the following exemptions:

- Income derived by a company licensed under the Captive Insurance Act 2015 is exempt from corporate tax during a period not exceeding 10 years as from 29 January 2016.

The threshold for VAT registration is a turnover of taxable supplies exceeding MUR 6m per year. VAT Registration is compulsory, irrespective of the annual turnover, for persons engaged in certain business or profession.

does not constitute a taxable benefit.

LOCAL TAXES

All taxes are on a 'national' basis but municipal and district councils are empowered to levy property tax, entertainment tax and certain licences.

B. DETERMINATION OF TAXABLE INCOME

The taxable income is determined by ascertaining the assessable income and then deducting any expenditure or loss in the income year to the extent to which it is exclusively incurred in the production of gross income (other than 'emoluments'). For emoluments, the expenditure must be wholly, exclusively and necessarily incurred in performing the duties of an office or employment.

The unauthorised deductions are:

- Investment, expenditure or loss of a capital, private or domestic nature, fine;
- Expenditure or loss incurred in the production of exempt income or which is recoverable under a contract of insurance or indemnity;
- Income tax or foreign tax;
- Any expenditure incurred in providing business entertainment or gifts.

DIVIDEND PAID BY RESIDENT COMPANIES

Dividends paid by resident companies are exempt from income tax.

 - (a) A GBL company out of its foreign source income; or,
 - (b) By a bank in so far as the interest is paid out of gross income derived from its banking transactions with non-residents and corporation holding Global Business Licence.

As from 1 January 2019, interest on call and deposit accounts held by GBL Companies are liable to income tax.

LOSSES

Losses can be carried forward (but not backwards) for set off against income derived in the five succeeding income years provided that there is continuity, i.e. that 50% in nominal value of the allotted shares and not less than 50% of the paid up capital of the company was held by or on behalf of the same person.

If a company engaged in manufacturing activities is taken over by another company or two or more companies engaged in manufacturing activities merge into one company, any unrelieved loss of the acquiree may be transferred to the acquirer in the income year in which the takeover or merger takes place on such conditions relating to safeguard of employment of the companies. Losses arising from annual allowance on capital expenditure incurred on or after 1 July 2006 can be carried forward indefinitely.

FOREIGN SOURCE INCOME

Income derived from outside Mauritius by a resident is taxable in the normal manner subject to double taxation relief.

- At least 50% of the CSR fund set up on or after 1 January 2017 up to 31 December 2018 should be remitted to the Mauritius Revenue Authority ('MRA');
- At least 75% of the CSR fund set up on or after 1 January 2019 should be remitted to the MRA.

In respect of the CSR fund set up before 1 January 2019, the remaining amount of the CSR fund shall be used to implement a CSR programme in accordance with the company's own CSR framework. For the CSR fund set up on or after 1 January 2019, the remaining amount shall be used to implement a CSR programme or finance a non-governmental organisation implementing a CSR programme in the priority areas of intervention as specified.

No CSR money shall be spent by a company on the following activities:

- Religious, political, trade union, self-financing, staff welfare, and marketing activities.

Where a company is required to submit an Advance Payment System (APS) statement, it should remit 25% of the CSR amount to be remitted to the MRA together with the APS statements, and the final 25% is to be remitted on the submission of the final return.

For the purpose of CSR, "company" does not include:

- (a) A company holding a GBL Licence;
- (b) A bank holding a banking licence under the Banking Act in respect of its income derived from its banking transactions with non-resident or corporation holding Global Business Licence;
- (c) An Integrated Resort Scheme (IRS) Company;
- (d) A non-resident société, a trust or a trustee of a unit trust scheme;
- (e) A company issued with a certificate as a freeport operator or private freeport developer.

GLOBAL BUSINESS COMPANIES

Global business companies (companies, trusts, sociétés) have special fiscal regimes and incentives such as customs duty remission and concessionary income tax rates for expatriates.

OFFSHORE TRUSTS

- Resident trusts are taxed at 15%.
- Non-resident trusts and their non-resident beneficiaries are exempt from taxes.

SOCIETE (PARTNERSHIP)

Every partner of a société holding a GBC1 Licence is liable to income tax in respect of its share at the rate of 15%.

C. FOREIGN TAX RELIEF

Unilateral relief is provided for in the Income Tax Act. In the event of double taxation, relief is by way of an ordinary credit. The taxpayer may elect to claim the credit on aggregate foreign-source income or on a source-by-source basis.

D. CORPORATE GROUPS

The general rule is that no group relief is allowed except in a few special cases.

E. RELATED PARTY TRANSACTIONS

The tax authorities may adjust the tax liability of a taxpayer where it considers that a transaction has not been entered into or carried out by that taxpayer at arm's length and the sole purpose of which is for tax avoidance or reduction of liability to tax.

F. WITHHOLDING TAX

Mauritius does not levy withholding tax on dividends paid by resident companies. No withholding tax on interest paid to non-resident companies.

The rates for withholding taxes are as follows:

Description	Residents		Non-residents
	Companies	Individuals	Companies	Individuals
Interest (except from banks)	0%	15%	15%	15%
Royalties	10%	10%	15%	15%
Rent	5%	5%	10%	10%
Contract	0.75%	0.75%	0.75%	0.75%
Services	3%	3%	10%	10%
Payments made by central government or local authority for procurement of goods/services	1 – 3%	1 – 3%	10%	10%

G. PERSONAL TAX

Income tax is payable by resident individuals on non-exempt income derived from Mauritius less allowable deductions including interest on housing loan, subject to conditions. Income derived by individuals from foreign sources is taxable in Mauritius only if this income is actually received in Mauritius or dealt with in their interest or on their behalf in Mauritius. Employers deduct income tax from each salary payment of non-exempt individual employees. For that purpose, a cumulative method of tax calculation exists whereby the employer takes into account an Income Exemption Threshold for each employee based on an Employee Declaration Form which the employee submits to him. The personal income tax rate is 15%, except if the employee's emoluments do not exceed MUR 50,000 per month, in which case the tax rate is 10%.

KEY TAX POINTS

- All income obtained by companies resident in Mexico is taxed, regardless of the source.
- Every state in Mexico requires specific contributions from its inhabitants, the largest being income tax. In some states employers are charged tax on wages paid to employees.
- The Tax Authority may alter the tax loss or profit where transactions between related parties are not made at market prices. Taxpayers are obliged to carry out an annual transfer pricing study.
- A Controlled Foreign Companies' regime (CFC) applies to transactions realised in specific countries or regions.
- Individuals will be subject to an additional tax of 10% on dividends or profits distributed by corporations resident in Mexico. Additionally, individuals who receive dividends from foreign companies shall be required to make payment of an additional 10% tax.
- Resident individuals are taxed on their worldwide income. In the case of foreign income, taxes paid abroad are generally credited against taxes to be paid in Mexico.
- The Value Added Tax (VAT) rate is 16%, which is levied on purchases of goods and services received and can be offset against VAT collected and payable (output VAT). A tax rate of 8% is applicable for the North Border Region.

A. TAXES PAYABLE

INCOME TAX

Tax is calculated for each fiscal year which in Mexico starts on 1st January and ends on 31st December, except when companies are created at any time during the calendar year. In this case, Mexican law stipulates that the fiscal year for that company starts in the month of incorporation. The yearly applicable income tax is calculated through a simple operation of adding all sources of income and deducting all allowable deductions.

Mexico

Currently, the corporate tax is 30% of all taxable profits and a 20% applicable for the North Border Region (some restriction may apply). The result can be further reduced by deduction of certain items laid down in Mexican tax law.

Mexican and foreign companies are subject to income tax in Mexico on income that originates within the country, but the way that they should pay their applicable taxes depends on certain factors: if they are residents or non-residents and the specific source from which the income originates, as follows:

- Mexican residents and foreign companies with a permanent establishment in Mexico can offset the income tax paid abroad against the Mexican income tax up to the total local tax applicable in each case.
- Dividends distributed by foreign companies to Mexican residents may be offset against local tax due by the Mexican resident to the extent of income tax paid abroad that corresponds to the dividend or utility received by the resident in Mexico.
- Branches are taxed based on the income generated by them.
- Interest that is generated from operations between Mexican residents and foreigners that are considered to be related parties are treated as dividends.
- Equity share sales are subject to tax as per specific regulations depending on the source and type of income and the income is considered to be Mexican-sourced when the corporation that issued the shares is a Mexican resident or when the book value of said shares or securities accounts directly or indirectly for more than 50% of real estate located in the country, in which case the general applicable tax rate is 25%.

Failure to comply with the above requirements means that a tax credit will not be available. In the case of a Permanent Establishment (PE) in Mexico, a credit will only be available for those revenues attributable to the PE which may have been subject to withholding tax. New provisions provide that a foreign tax paid abroad is considered an income tax when complying with Mexican tax authority (SAT) rules and when covered by a double tax treaty that Mexico has entered into.

CAPITAL GAINS TAX

Taxable profits on the sale of land, securities and other assets are calculated by deducting the original investment cost (MOI) from the selling price. The MOI can be adjusted to its current value for inflation from the period in which the asset was acquired to the month before the sales operation took place.

The procedure for determining the gain on a disposal of shares is calculated by deducting from the income obtained for the sale of the said shares, the average share cost which is determined by the rules laid down in Mexican Income Tax law. When the shareholder only retains shares for a period of up to maximum 12 months, the taxpayer has the option to calculate the capital gains tax by considering the original adjusted cost as the proven acquisition cost and this can be deducted from paid reimbursements and dividends. A loss from the sale of shares and other securities is deductible only if certain requirements are met and may be offset against profits obtained in the same year or in the following five years.

BRANCH PROFITS TAX

Branches compute income tax in the same manner as companies established in Mexico and apply the 30% corporate tax rate on taxable income. Branches are entitled to deduct expenses incurred both abroad and in Mexico provided that certain conditions are met. In respect of the prorated expenditures, payments made by taxpayers will not be deductible when such payments are also deductible for a related party resident in Mexico or abroad, except if the related party accumulates earned income in the same fiscal year or the subsequent one.

Remittances sent abroad in the form of payments of invoices, interests, royalties, reimbursement of expenses or for any other reason are subject to withholding tax of between 25% and 35% and are deductible for income tax purposes if adequately supported.

VALUE ADDED TAX (VAT)

Companies and persons who engage in the business of selling, rendering services, leasing, importing or exporting of goods are subject to VAT.

The VAT paid on purchases of goods and services received can be offset against the VAT collected and payable. In case the VAT paid exceeds the VAT collected in a given period, companies and persons are entitled to be refunded for the difference by the tax authorities or, subject to certain conditions, to offset the VAT receivable against other taxes payable.

The following tax rates apply in general, depending on the type of activity:

- 0% in the case of priority activities such as basic foods, medicines, agricultural, exports, etc.;
- 16% and 8% for all other activities.

The law provides for specific exemptions on certain other activities. From 1 July 2006, tourists are reimbursed for VAT charged upon the sale of Mexican merchandise when departing for their home country by air or sea.

FRINGE BENEFITS TAX (FBT)

Specified employee benefits provided to employees over and above those required by law are exempt from income tax up to certain limits and are deductible for companies insofar as they are granted to all employees.

LOCAL TAXES

Every Mexican state requires specific contributions from its inhabitants, the largest one being property tax. Some states tax wages paid to employees at an average rate of 2%. In Mexico City, employers (physical persons and companies) must pay 3% on wages paid to their employees every month. Real estate is subject to a bi-monthly payment (called predial), calculated by applying the rates established in article 130 of the Federal District Fiscal Code to the official assessed value of the property.

OTHER TAXES:

SOCIAL SECURITY PAYMENTS

All employers must register their employees with the Mexican Institute of Social Security which provides them with benefits for job-related and other disabilities, as well as pensions and death benefits. Amounts paid for each employee to the Institute are computed on the basis of all payments made to the employee for wages and benefits, with a few exceptions that meet certain requirements. These include savings, food, prizes for attendance and punctuality, as well as a portion of overtime and profit-sharing.

Approximately one third of the payments are withheld by the employer from the employees' wages and the other two thirds are paid by the employer. Both employee and employer contributions should be made by the employer on a monthly basis. Beginning from financial year 2014, it is required to issue digital tax receipts for wages paid by employers to each employee.

NATIONAL HOUSING FUND FOR WORKERS (INFONAVIT)

The objective of this Fund is to provide housing for all workers, usually favouring workers in low-income brackets. The employer, on behalf of the employees, must make bi-monthly contributions to the Fund amounting to 5% of wages and benefits paid with a limit of 25 "Upgrade Unit Measures" (UMA/Unidad de Medida y actualización and/or UMI/Unidad de Mixta Infonavit, i.e. minimum monthly wage). As in the case of social security, contributions and benefits received by employees from the Fund are tax-exempt. With this payment, the employers comply with their constitutional obligations to provide housing for employees.

FOREIGN TRADE TAXES

Customs duties are maintained both for import as well as for export. Duties on export are minimal to none and import duties average 20%, depending on each specific item. In accordance with the North American Free Trade Agreement (NAFTA), duties on imports from the United States and Canada will be gradually eliminated over a 15 year period and will disappear completely at the end of that time period. Beginning in 1994, Mexico eliminated taxes on the importation of specific products from the United States and Canada.

SPECIAL TAXES

Taxes on production and services are levied on relatively few items such as the importation and sales of cigars, alcoholic beverages and supplying agency services for brokerage, distribution, flavoured drinks, etc. of said goods. There is also a special tax on telephone services. A tax on new automobiles and vehicle ownership is applied directly to purchasers and owners of automobiles.

TAX ON PURCHASE OF REAL PROPERTY

A tax of 1% to 5% of the assessed value of the property is paid by the buyer on all purchases of property. The federal government works with the states so that in co-operating states only the local tax applies without levying federal tax.

B. DETERMINATION OF TAXABLE INCOME

Taxable income of companies is computed taking into account all income received less deductions allowed by law. The law mentions certain specific items which are not considered as income. These include: capital increases, recognition of the equity method of accounting, revaluation of assets and capital.

ALLOWABLE DEDUCTIONS

In general terms, all expenses needed to generate income may be deducted, except in specific cases where there are certain limits and special rules for deduction. Allowable deductions include sales discounts, bad debts, interest paid and losses due to exchange and inflation. Non-deductible expenses include taxes, costs of representation, commercial credits, provisions to estimated reserves, etc. Investments in certain assets can be deducted in the tax year at a discount.

The Income Tax Law provides that payments for interest, royalties or technical assistance to a foreign entity that controls or is controlled by the taxpayer will not be deductible when:

- (a) The entity receiving the payment is considered to be transparent except where the transaction is carried out at market value and its shareholders or partners are then subject to income tax on income through the foreign company;
- (b) Payment is considered non-existent for tax purposes in the country where the alien is located;
- (c) The foreign entity receiving the payment does not consider it as taxable income.

Payments that are also deductible for a related party resident in Mexico or abroad are not deductible, unless the related party accumulates income generated by the taxpayer, either in the fiscal year or the following.

DEPRECIATION AND AMORTISATION

Deduction for investment in tangible or intangible assets is allowed by law through the depreciation or amortisation of such assets. Freight and handling, insurance, commissions and fees are allowed in addition to the purchase value of the asset. Depreciation and amortisation are calculated for full months starting with the month when the asset was purchased and using the straight-line method with no allowance for estimated disposal values. As a general rule, all types of assets - except for land - may be depreciated or amortised for tax purposes. The basic depreciation and amortisation tax rates allowed are as follows:

Outlays made prior to commencing operations	10%
Industrial buildings and warehouses	5%
Machinery and equipment	10% except on assets used for specific activities
Furniture and fixtures	10%
Cars, vans and trucks	25%
Leasehold improvements	Lease terms
Environmentally-friendly machinery and equipment	100%

STOCK / INVENTORY

Purchases of raw materials, goods in process or finished goods intended for sale are deductible under the cost of sales system when sold by the company. Taxpayers may choose either method of inventory valuation indicated below:

- (i) First in - First out (FIFO);
- (ii) Identified Cost;
- (iii) Average Cost;
- (iv) Retailer.

INFLATION

The law recognises the effects of inflation on a taxpayer's debts and financial assets so that, in the case of assets, the view is taken that there is a loss of purchasing power of said assets with the passing of time and, in the case of liabilities, a gain is recognised. For such purpose, an annual average of financial assets and debts is determined. The inflation factor is applied to the difference obtained comparing the assets and debts: when the debts are higher there will be a taxable income and when the assets' amount is higher there will be a deduction.

INTEREST DEDUCTIONS

A thin capitalisation regime was incorporated into tax law in 2005 in relation to loan finance obtained by Mexican-resident companies from overseas. Taking both related party and non-related party debt into account, interest payments are not deductible where the debt/equity ratio exceeds 3:1. Companies that do not meet this ratio will have a term of five years to reduce it in equal proportions per year. These rules do not apply to financial institutions. The interest paid that exceeds this ratio will be non-deductible. From 1 January 2007 onwards, only loans with foreign parties on which the company is required to pay interest are taken into account in determining the debt/equity ratio.

LOSSES

Tax losses may be used to offset taxable income obtained during the following ten years. The amount of tax losses is uplifted for inflation for the period from July of the year when they occur to June of the year when they are offset.

EMPLOYEE PROFIT SHARING

All employees of a company are entitled to a share of its profits. The profit sharing is computed each year at the rate of 10% of taxable income, if any. There are certain specific items described in the law which have to be added or deducted from the taxable income for profit sharing computation purposes. Most of these relate to differences in the treatment of inflation accounting. From 1 January 2005, profit sharing paid in one year is deductible from the after-tax profit or loss of the following year.

INCENTIVES

The Federal Revenue Law establishes the following incentives for the financial year 2018:

- Authorisation to subtract IEPS (i.e. Special Tax on Production and Services) paid for Diesel, Bio diesel and its mixtures from the applicable income tax.
- Tax credit against Income Tax for consumption of diesel in business or transportation activities.
- Credit of IEPS against the income tax due by the taxpayer in the Exercise or in provisional payments for utilizing fossil fuels in their production processes for the elaboration of their products if they do not use it in combustion engine propel machines.
- Allow the credit of expenses incurred in the payment of services for the use of highway infrastructure of quota up to 50% of the total expenditure incurred against the ISR at its expense for the same year, including in provisional payments of the fiscal year in which expenses are incurred.
- Additional deduction of 5% of the cost of what would have been sold from food banks and medicine, which are effectively donated and can be used for human consumption.
- Deduct from the taxpayer's cumulative income an additional amount of up to 25% of the salary paid to people with disabilities.

C. FOREIGN TAX RELIEF

CONTROLLED FOREIGN CORPORATIONS / TAX HAVENS

When enacted, the CFC regime was based on a geographical concept such that it only applied to transactions realised in specific countries or regions (Black List). Currently, this regime applies to income wherever derived where the tax charged was less than 75% of the tax that would have been paid in Mexico. Income is not subject to the CFC regime when the Mexican company does not control the overseas company or less than 20% of its annual income is passive income. For this purpose, control is that which allows the parent to decide the timing of distributions of dividends or profits.

D. CORPORATE GROUPS

The new Income Tax Law provides the elimination of the Tax Consolidation regime. However, it grants the possibility to benefit from the following schemes:

- Continue to be taxed under the consolidation regime until financial year 2017, for which determination of tax must continue to be calculated in the same way as in the prior legislation. Once the aforementioned period has passed, the taxpayer must choose one of the two taxation schemes indicated below.
- Avail to new rules for determining the tax under the scheme of "deconsolidation" under which tax must be calculated and reported within the time specified by the new Income Tax Law. The tax charge resulting from the deconsolidation will have to be paid to the tax authorities as follows:
 - 25% by the last day of May 2014.

Mexico

- 25% by the last day of April 2015.
- 20% by the last day of April 2016.
- 15% by the last day of April 2017.
- 15% by the last day of April 2018.
- In lieu of the tax consolidation regime, a new optional regime of inclusive corporations is created in which payment of tax is partially deferred by three fiscal years.

E. RELATED PARTY TRANSACTIONS

The Secretary of the Treasury is empowered to alter the tax loss or profit in the case of transactions between related parties made at prices other than market prices, including sales or purchases, loans, rendering of services, lease or sale of real property, as well as use or transfer of intangible assets, when they are not realised at a fair market value. Taxpayers are obliged to carry out an annual transfer pricing study. Taxpayers must apply the best method rule. By default this is to be the Comparable Uncontrolled Price Method (CUP), unless the taxpayer can prove that such method is not applicable.

Since 2014, the maquiladoras (Related Parties) are required to perform the calculation of safe harbour or submit an advance transfer pricing agreement (APA). For the application of the benefits contained in tax treaties and in the case of transactions between related parties, the tax authorities may request the non-resident to demonstrate the double juridical taxation through a statement under oath.

F. WITHHOLDING TAXES

DIVIDENDS

Since 2014 partners in corporations are subject to an additional fee of 10% on the dividends they receive from their corporations resident in Mexico. Entities distributing dividends are required to withhold tax and will pay it together with the interim payment of the corresponding period. Additionally, individuals who receive dividends from foreign companies shall be required to make payment of an additional 10% tax by the 17th of the following month in which the income is received.

INTEREST

The withholding tax payable on interest to non-residents depends on the type of interest in a range from 4.9% to 21% for payments to banks and other financial institutions and 35% in other cases.

ROYALTIES

Royalties payable to non-residents are taxed at the following rates:

- For the right to use railroad wagons: 5%
- Other categories of royalties: 25%
- Royalties paid to residents of countries with a preferential tax regime: 40%.

G. EXCHANGE CONTROL

There are no exchange restrictions in Mexico. Foreign currencies can be freely bought, sold and sent or transferred abroad. However, since 2010 there are limitations to USD cash transactions.

H. ELECTRONIC ACCOUNTING

Taxpayers are required to have their accounting transactions in an electronic fashion based on account catalogues and codes issued by the tax authorities. They also have to send part of their accounting information.

All Individuals and Corporations inscribed in the Federal Registration of Taxpayers (RFC) have been assigned a "taxpayer email", which serves as a communication tool between the tax collecting authority and them. In this taxpayer email, the authority will notify all determinations. Among other information taxpayers will send their accounting through this channel. The tax authorities may perform electronic reviews of the accounting information sent by taxpayers.

I. PERSONAL TAXES

Persons residing in Mexico calculate their annual tax on their total income generated both in Mexico and abroad. In the case of foreign income, taxes paid abroad are generally credited against taxes payable in Mexico. There are specific rules for each type of personal income such as: wages, fees, capital gains, dividends, etc. In the case of wages, the taxes are withheld by the employer.

In the case of salaries paid by a foreign company to a foreigner working in Mexico, personal taxes have to be computed and paid, except when the foreign company does not have a branch or fixed base in the country and the person spends less than 183 days in the country during the year. There are only a few personal expenses that taxpayers can deduct from their income which are as follows:

- a) School transportation for his children (only in certain cases);
- b) Medical and dental fees, including hospital expenses for the taxpayer, spouse, direct-line ascendants or descendants;
- c) Funeral expenses for the persons mentioned under (b) above;
- d) Donations to authorised entities;
- e) Contributions for employee retirement;
- f) Medical insurance payments;
- g) Interest paid related to mortgage loans for the purchase of family home;
- h) Payments for professional services in psychology and nutrition.

From 2011, a decree has entered into force that allows the deduction of school tuition payments from primary up to High School level. Specific amounts and rules apply.

Provisional payments must be made monthly by the employer and the annual taxes must be calculated at the end of each year. These payments are calculated by the employer according to the following table:

Monthly Taxable Income (MXN)	Tax due on lower limit (MXN)	Marginal rate on excess (%)
Up to 578.52	0	1.92
578.53 - 4,910.18	11.11	6.40

291,550.01 and above	91,435.02	35.00

Personal tax rates apply up to a maximum of 35% in case of foreign residents.

J. TREATY WITHHOLDING TAX RATES

Mexico is negotiating double tax treaties with Saudi Arabia, Slovenia, Marshall Islands, Jamaica, Lebanon, Malaysia, Morocco, Monaco, Nicaragua, Oman, Pakistan, Thailand, Turks and Caicos.

A taxpayer's dividend income is taxed at 10%. As for a non-resident-taxpayer in Mongolia, the dividend income received from a corporate entity registered and operating in Mongolia is taxed at the rate of 20%.

In case of liquidation of a joint corporate entity where the taxpayer is a shareholder, taxable dividend income is determined by deducting the initial share purchase price from income prorated to the taxpayer's shares and invested capital.

INTEREST DEDUCTIONS

Interest for a loan taken to cover primary and auxiliary production, operation, services and purchase of property is a deductible expense from taxable income.

Interest payments are not deductible expenses when the loan is provided by an individual permanently residing in Mongolia that controls the taxpayer's company. The expenses shall be accounted as dividend to the individual and shall be subject to tax.

Interest payments for a loan shall not be deductible expenses when the loan provided by the investor to the taxpayer exceeds three times the value of the initial invested capital. The expenses shall be accounted as dividend to the investor and shall be subject to tax.

Interest payments for a loan to finance construction and installation work shall be part of the total cost of construction. Once the construction is completed, the interest payments borne as from the start shall be deducted from gross taxable income.

A tax statement loss, i.e. the excess of allowable deductions over gross income, may be carried forward for 4 to 8 subsequent years for mining and infrastructure sectors, and 2 years for other sectors (if the loss is incurred after 1 January 2007). Losses carried forward can be set off against a maximum of 100% of the future taxable income in each tax year for mining and infrastructure sectors and 50% for other sectors.

Losses cannot be carried back.

be carried forward or back.

D. CORPORATE GROUPS

There are no specific provisions for group taxation.

E. RELATED PARTY TRANSACTIONS

On 25 December 2017, Mongolia was the 111th country to join the "Inclusive Framework on BEPS". By joining the group, Mongolia has pledged to adopt minimum international taxation standards developed in 2015 by OECD and G20 nations, with input by other nations, in response to the base erosion profit shifting (BEPS) plan.

The commitment means that Mongolia will adopt provisions to prevent tax treaty shopping, implement country-by-country reporting on multinationals and exchange country-by-country reports with other country tax administrations. Mongolia will also limit the benefits of any intellectual property or other tax regimes deemed to be preferential tax regimes and will fully implement the mutual agreement procedure in its tax treaties with other countries to aid resolution of tax disputes.

F. WITHHOLDING TAX

'Withholding agent' means a person that withholds tax imposed on a taxpayer's income and paying the same to the state and local budget. A withholding agent retains taxes imposed on income from:

A Mongolian VAT withholding agent retains tax imposed on income from goods sold, work performed and services provided by a non-resident legal entity to the resident legal entity at 10%.

G. EXCHANGE CONTROL

There are no exchange control requirements.

H. PERSONAL TAX

KEY TAX POINTS

- Moroccan corporations are subject to a unitary tax system called the corporate tax 'impôt sur les sociétés' or IS system.
- The standard rate of Value Added Tax is 20% and applies to all suppliers of goods and services, except those taxed at other rates or those who are exempt. A reduced rate of 10% applies to specific items.
- Dividends paid to a non-resident are subject to a 15% withholding tax unless the rate is reduced under an applicable tax treaty. Interest on loans obtained from a non-resident and royalties paid to non-residents are subject to a 10% withholding tax (subject to the application of a treaty).

A. TAXES PAYABLEGENERAL REGIME

The Moroccan taxation system consists of direct and indirect taxes. Indirect taxes provide a greater source of tax revenue than the direct taxes. Moroccan corporations are subject to a unitary tax system called the corporate tax 'impôt sur les sociétés' or IS system.

CORPORATE INCOME TAX

The definition of 'corporation' covers limited liability companies, limited partnerships by shares, general and limited partnerships in which at least one partner is a corporate entity, civil companies, branches of foreign corporations, public sector companies having profit-oriented activities and joint ventures having business-oriented activities. General partnerships and limited partnerships in which all partners are individuals may elect to be taxed under the corporate tax regime. The same applies to joint ventures in which all parties are individuals. Progressive rates are introduced for corporate tax purposes. The applicable rates are set out below:

Taxable profit (MAD)	Rate (%)
Up to 300,000	10
300,001 – 1,000,000	17.5
Over 1,000,000	31

The 37% corporate tax rate applicable to credit institutions, leasing companies and insurance companies is maintained. Foreign contractors carrying out engineering, construction or assembly projects relating to industrial or technical installations may opt to be taxed at a rate of 8% calculated on the total contract price net of VAT and similar taxes.

Companies are taxed on the difference between their trading income and expenditure. Business expenses incurred in the operation of the business are generally deductible unless specifically excluded. Expenses not permitted include: fines, penalties, interest on shareholder loans where the stock is not fully paid up, and interest on shareholder loans in excess of the official annual interest rate. Morocco operates a territorial tax system. Companies (both resident and non-resident) are generally subject to corporate tax only on income generated from activities carried on in Morocco. Foreign corporations are subject to taxation on income arising in Morocco if they have, or are deemed to have, a permanent establishment in Morocco. A company is resident in Morocco if it is incorporated there or its place of effective management is in Morocco.

The calendar year is normally the fiscal year although a company may opt for a different fiscal year. Accounts for income tax purposes must be filed within three months after the end of the relevant accounting period. Corporate tax is payable in four equal instalments, based on the prior year's assessment. The actual amount payable is adjusted in the three months following the end of the accounting period. Foreign companies that have elected for the 8% default taxation must submit a declaration of their turnover before 1 April following each calendar year.

OPSCIs (Undertakings for collective investment in real estate), as provided for by the provisions of law No. 70-14, are fully and permanently exempted of corporate tax.

Temporary exemptions and taxation at reduced rates

Apart from the permanent exemption of some organisations as explicitly stated in domestic tax law, the Moroccan legislator aims to encourage certain activities through a package of exemptions and/or taxation at a reduced rate. Amongst those tax encouragements we can mention the following:

- Taxation at a rate of 17.5% for companies operating in some northern and southern regions and also for companies exporting products or services (other than recovery metals), after the total exemption from corporate tax for a period of five consecutive years calculated from the year in which the first export operation was performed.
- The same provision mentioned in the previous paragraph is also applied to hotels regarding their turnover realised and cashed in, in foreign currencies.
- Private schools are taxed at a rate of 17.5%, for a five year period starting from the fiscal year in which the first operations commenced.
- Mining companies are permanently taxed at a rate of 17.5%
- A rate of 8.75% is applied to companies that operate in free zones for export, during the 20 consecutive years following the fifth year of full exemption and service companies with the status of "Casablanca Finance City" in accordance with the laws and regulations, beyond the five years of exemption.
- 10% for organisations with regional or international status "Casablanca City Finance", according to the laws and regulations, from the first year of granting such status and optionally for offshore banks during the 15 first consecutive years following the date of obtaining approval.

Exemptions from withholding corporate tax

The following revenue is exempt from withholding tax:

- Dividends paid to companies resident in Morocco and subject to corporate tax;
- Dividends paid by companies established in free zones to non-resident companies;
- Dividends paid by companies running hydrocarbon deposits;
- Interest paid to non-resident companies for loans granted to the Moroccan states or for deposits made in foreign currencies.

Introduction of a social contribution on profits

The 2019 Finance Act submits all companies subject to corporate tax, apart from those exempted from the said tax or those established in free zones, to a social contribution scheme for tax years 2019 and 2020.

For those tax years companies closing their financial year with a profit of more than 40 million MAD are subject to a social contribution estimated at 2.5% of the corporate tax base.

Taxation of foreign companies' coordination centres

Coordination centres of foreign companies used to benefit from a derogatory tax system in order to determinate their base tax. Those entities used to apply a 10% rate to their business expenditures in order to calculate the tax amount due. The 2019 Finance Act excludes this derogatory system. Starting from 2019 the coordination centres should fulfil their corporate tax obligations the same way as all other foreign companies and establishments.

Setting off tax paid abroad against corporate tax due

Similar to the tax treatment of foreign revenue generated by individuals, companies generating foreign revenue and profits, which was already subject to tax in the source country with which Morocco has signed a double taxation treaty, can set off tax paid abroad against the Moroccan tax amount due.

Such a possibility for companies subject to corporate tax was introduced by the 2019 Finance act, which added an article 19-bis to domestic tax law.

MINIMUM CORPORATE TAX CONTRIBUTION

Companies are subject to a minimum contribution (Cotisation Minimale; CM) of 0.75% of annual turnover. The CM is based on turnover, income from interest, subsidies, bonuses or donations received. The CM is not payable by companies during their first 36 months of operation. However, legal entities liable for Corporate Income Tax which do not generate turnover must pay a minimum contribution of MAD 3,000.

The excess of the minimum levy over corporate tax is forfeited to the Moroccan Treasury.

TAXATION OF AGRICULTURAL INCOME (COMMON MEASURES TO BOTH PERSONAL INCOME TAX AND CORPORATE INCOME TAX)

The definition of Agricultural Income as stipulated by article 46 of the General Tax Code has been profoundly amended. Agricultural Income comprises "profits made by farmer/cattle breeders and derived from all activities inherent to animal/plant operating cycle and whose revenues are intended for human or animal feed, as well as the treating/processing activities of these revenues, apart from their transformation by industrial means".

Incorporated farms making a turnover equal to or in excess of MAD 5 million during three (3) consecutive fiscal years are subject to Corporate Income Tax. On the other hand, incorporated farms with a turnover below such threshold keep their current status, under which they are totally and permanently exempt from CIT (article 6-1-A-29 of the General Tax Code). The taxation of incorporated farms or farmers will follow this timetable:

Period	Threshold
From 1 January 2014 to 31 December 2015	Turnover equal to or in excess of MAD 35 million
From 1 January 2016 to 31 December 2017	Turnover equal to or in excess of MAD 20 million
From 1 January 2018 to 31 December 2019	Turnover equal to or in excess of MAD 10 million

Thus, starting from 1 January 2020, all farms making a turnover equal to or in excess of MAD 5 million operated either through a corporation or not will be subject to Corporate Income Tax or Personal Income Tax. However, farmers liable to tax are exempted from instalment payments for the first taxable fiscal year (article 170 of the GTC). Incorporated farms and farmers benefit temporarily from a reduced tax rate for five years:

- Tax rate of 17.5% for incorporated farms subject to corporate tax for the five consecutive years, starting with the first taxable year;
- Tax rate of 20% for tanners subject to personal income tax.

BRANCH PROFITS TAX

The Moroccan-sourced income of Moroccan branches of foreign companies is subject to income tax at the ordinary corporate tax rate. The taxable income is calculated as if the branch was a separate entity from the foreign company.

After-tax profits realised by a branch or establishment of a foreign company and subsequently transferred to the foreign head office are subject to a 15% withholding tax on remitted income, unless a lower treaty rate applies.

VALUE ADDED TAX

Value Added Tax (VAT) is a non-cumulative tax levied at each stage of the production and distribution cycle. Thus, suppliers of goods and services must add VAT to their net prices. Where the purchaser is also liable for VAT, input VAT may be offset against output VAT. The standard VAT rate is 20% and applies to all suppliers of goods and services, except those taxed at other rates or those who are exempt. A reduced rate of 10% applies to specific items such as banking and credit services, leasing, gas, water and electricity. Two types of exemptions from VAT are in place. The first is an exemption with credit, equivalent to the zero tax concepts, which applies to exports, agricultural materials and equipment, and fishing equipment. The second is an exemption without credit, i.e. the seller receives no credit for input VAT paid. This exemption applies to basic foodstuff, newspapers and international transport services.

Within the framework of the future tax reform, the Government intends to radically overhaul the VAT system, notably by progressively aligning the VAT rates, and eventually limiting the number of rates to two, namely a 10% and 20% VAT rate.

The 20% rate applies to equipment and fishing nets while the 10% rate applies to cattle food (previously subject to the 7% rate). Finally, the rate of 20% applies to commercial vehicles, alimentary fats and margarines (previously 14%). The right to deduction of VAT on inputs commences at the end of the month of the establishment of Customs receipts or at the end of the month of the full or partial payment of bills on behalf of the beneficiary.

Importation and dismantling operations of aircrafts are VAT exempt without any limitation on the number of seats as long as they are used in regular international transport.

The rate of 20% applies to rail transport operations of passengers and goods (14% previously).

Already existing companies are exempt from VAT on capital goods for a period of 36 months, when they carry out new projects within the framework of an investment agreement concluded with the government the amount of which is equal to or more than MAD 100 million.

Further to the application of the provisions of Article 90-4 of the CGI, the right to opt for VAT liability is now granted to lessors who rent unequipped premises for professional use. The interested parties can thus assume the status of taxable persons.

A VAT exemption is planned for both domestically and for import purposes, for certain inputs intended exclusively for aquaculture, namely:

- Feed for fish and other aquaculture animals;
- Fish fry and larvae of other aquaculture animals;
- Shellfish spat.

The 2019 Finance Act introduced an exemption for some medicines, the use of which is necessary for the treatment of a number of diseases, and the cost is perceived to be inaccessible to all social classes. The said act also plans an exemption without credit for the use of equipment powered by renewable energy for agricultural activities.

BUSINESS TAX

A business tax or "taxe professionnelle" is levied on individuals and enterprises that habitually carry on business in Morocco, with the exception of those who are expressly exempted by a law tax provision. The business tax is applied on the annual rental value of business premises (rented or owned) capped at MAD 50 million net of VAT. The tax rates range from 10% to 30% with exemption for the five first years of activity.

URBAN PROPERTY

Owners of real estate are subject to urban property tax on the rental value of the property. The same applies to owners of machines and appliances that are integral parts of the establishment producing goods or services.

PROPERTY TAX

Property tax is assessed on the rental value of the property. The general property tax rate is 10% of the assessed rental value, as determined by the local tax authorities. If the property is used as a primary residence, only 25% of the assessed rental property value is subject to tax. Properties occupied as a main or second residence are taxed at progressive rates as follows:

Tax base (MAD)	Tax rate
Up to 5,000	Nil
5,000 – 20,000	10%
20,000 – 40,000	20%
Over 40,000	30%

CUSTOMS DUTIES

All goods and services may be imported. Goods deemed to have a negative impact on national production, however, may require an import license. Products from the EU are fully exempted. Cars, household items and also semi-finished products for local industry are reviewed. The rates fall for products brought from the outside world. Some materials and products, however, are exempted, especially those imported under the investment charter, imported under customs economic systems and those using renewable energies. VAT is also levied on goods imported into Morocco.

CAPITAL GAINS TAX

Individuals earning capital gains from selling property are subject to tax on property profits. Profits on the sale of property are taxable at 20% of any profit but with a minimum tax of 3% of the sale price.

The taxable gain is computed by deducting the following from the selling price:

- Acquisition price and incidental costs;
- Transfer costs;
- Investment expenses;
- Interest payments.

Capital gains from the sale of a property which has been the primary residence of the taxpayer are not subject to tax under certain conditions:

- The property has been the seller's primary residence for at least six years;
- The property has been the seller's primary residence for at least four years on the day of the sale, and the property area does not exceed 100 sq. m. and the profit does not exceed MAD 250,000;
- The profit made on one or more transfers by individuals within a calendar year whose total value does not exceed MAD 140,000.

When the sales price of a property, which has been the primary residence of the taxpayer, exceeds 4 million MAD the taxpayer is subject to a minimum tax of 3% on the part of the price exceeding the said amount.

RENTAL INCOME, TAX

Regarding revenue collected from renting out property, the 2019 Finance Act aims for an exemption for annual rent revenue not exceeding MAD 30,000.

The said law submits rent revenue to one of the following proportionate discharging rates:

- 10% for gross annual taxed revenue not exceeding MAD 120,000;
- 15% for the said revenue equal to or exceeding MAD 120,000.

As from 2019, companies renting their buildings should withhold tax from rent paid to individuals. Said companies are exempt of this withholding process when the individual receiving the revenue opts to pay the tax spontaneously.

B. DETERMINATION OF TAXABLE INCOME

CAPITAL GAINS

Morocco instituted a tax on the proceeds from a company's stocks, shares and comparable income (TPT), distributed by companies based in Morocco and paying taxes on corporations. The tax of 15% is withheld at source and applies to:

- Capital interest;
- Profit percentages;
- Special allowances or the payment of fees and other compensation allotted to members of the board of directors (except for the fraction of these compensations considered as salary and subject to personal income tax (IR));
- Sums levied on profits to repay capital produced to stockholders or to buy overstocks;
- Beneficiary/founder's shares;
- Surpluses from winding up augmented by reserves built up over at least ten years ago;
- Profits made in Morocco by establishments whose home office is located abroad, as these profits are made available to such companies abroad.

LOSSES

Tax losses may be carried forward for a period of four years from the end of the loss making accounting period. However, the portion of a loss that relates to depreciation may be carried forward indefinitely. Losses may not be carried back.

DIVIDENDS

Dividends received by corporate shareholders from taxable Moroccan-resident entities must be included in business profits of the recipient company but the dividends are 100% deductible in the computation of taxable income.

The participation exemption in Morocco is also applicable to dividends derived from foreign subsidiaries.

INTEREST DEDUCTIONS

Interest paid on loans and other debts is deductible to the extent that it relates to borrowings made for income producing purposes.

There are no formal thin capitalisation rules as such. However, the tax deductibility of interest paid by a company is subject to the following limits:

- The amount of the shareholder loan does not exceed the amount of the share equity capital (ratio 1:1); and
- The interest rate does not exceed the rate annually set by the Ministry of Finance during a given tax year.

C. FOREIGN TAX RELIEF

Since a Moroccan resident is taxed on worldwide income, the Moroccan tax system provides relief from foreign taxes paid on such worldwide income by means of a foreign tax credit. This foreign tax credit cannot exceed the Moroccan tax otherwise payable in respect of the foreign-sourced income.

D. CORPORATE GROUPS

Moroccan tax law does not provide for the option to file a consolidated tax return for group companies. Transfer of losses between group members is not possible.

E. RELATED PARTY TRANSACTIONS

Transfer prices: Moroccan law tax establishes a procedure to taxable businesses in Morocco, having direct or indirect dependency links with companies outside of Morocco to conclude with the fiscal Administration prior agreement on the method of determining transfer prices between them for a period not exceeding four years. This measure will enable these companies to benefit from a legal guarantee against the risk of calling into question the method of determining prices.

In addition to paying interest and dividends, the payment of management fees, service fees and royalties are methods of repatriating profits to the non-resident associates, controllers and owners of Moroccan entities. In these circumstances, the payments made by the Moroccan resident to the non-resident associate must reflect the market value of the goods and/or services to the Moroccan company, i.e. all payments must be calculated with reference to arm's length market rates.

Where the Tax Office takes the view that the Moroccan company has paid an excessive amount for the goods and/or services, the Tax Office can disallow the deduction claimed by the Moroccan company and substitute it with an alternative price. Other transactions between Moroccan taxable entities (or branches) and their related foreign entities or head offices are also subject to the transfer pricing rules. Where a Moroccan branch of a foreign company remits profits to its parent by way of management fees or service fees, the profits are not subject to withholding tax or branch profits tax.

F. WITHHOLDING TAX

Dividends paid to a non-resident are subject to a 15% withholding tax unless the rate is reduced under an applicable tax treaty. Interest on loans obtained from a non-resident is subject to a 10% withholding tax. Royalties paid to non-residents are subject to a 10% withholding tax unless the rate is reduced under an applicable tax treaty.

G. PERSONAL TAX

Individuals, regardless of nationality or activity, who have their habitual residence in Morocco are subject to personal income tax (impôt sur le revenu or IR) on their worldwide income on a progressive scale between 10% and 38%. Individuals who do not have their habitual residence in Morocco are subject to tax only on Moroccan source income. Habitual residence status is established by reference to one of the following:

- Place of permanent abode;
- Centre of economic interest;
- Duration of stay in the country exceeding 183 days within any period of 365 days.

The issue of double taxation is partially addressed by tax treaties or unilateral relief in the form of a tax credit. All compensation received by an individual is taxable, including salaries and wages, allowances, pension annuities, and all other employment benefits, investment income, property income and income derived from the carrying out of a business or profession. Capital gains derived from the disposal of immovable property are generally subject to tax as part of the personal income of the individual, i.e. 20%. Filing and payment: the tax return must be filed by 31 March of each year in the place where the taxpayer has his/her habitual residence or main business. Resident individuals are assessed on their taxable income according to the following scales:

Income (MAD)	Tax rate
0 – 30,000	Nil
30,001 – 50,000	10%
50,001 – 60,000	20%
60,001 – 80,000	30%
80,001 – 180,000	34%
Over 180,000	38%

A range of rebates are available to Moroccan resident individual taxpayers. Employers must retain and pay any income tax due on the salaries paid to their employees the previous month within the first ten days of each month. Individuals who receive income from non-wage sources must file a tax declaration every year on or before 31 March. Net rental income is taxable under the general income tax (impôt Général sur le Revenu or IGR) at progressive rates.

Retirement pensions in Morocco are subject to a tax allowance on their whole annual gross amount:

- 55% from MAD zero (0.00) to MAD 168,000;
- 40% in excess of MAD 168,000.

The regime of "auto-entrepreneur, is applicable to individuals whose annual turnover does not exceed MAD 500,000 for commercial, industrial, and artisanal activities undertaken and where yearly turnover does not exceed MAD 200,000 for the provision of services. Under the "auto-entrepreneur status, individuals are subject to income tax at a rate of 0.5% or 1% of turnover, depending on the activity.

The Tax Law contains a provision aiming at deferring taxation on the net capital gain realised by a taxpayer who contributes shares held in one or several companies to a resident holding company liable to Corporate Income Tax. The transaction must meet the following conditions:

- The contribution must be carried out between 1 January 2014 and 31 December 2015;
- The value of the contributed shares must be assessed by a legally accredited accounting expert;
- The company to which the shares are contributed shall undertake to keep the shares during a minimum period of 4 years from the date of the contribution;
- The taxpayer who proceeds to the contribution shall undertake, in the contribution agreement, to pay the tax on the gains he shall derive from the sale, refunding or cancellation of the stocks received in exchange for the contribution.

In case of non-respect of these formalities, the capital gains are taxed in accordance with ordinary tax rules.

Also an exemption is granted from personal income tax on the gross monthly salary income capped at MAD 10,000 paid by companies for a period of 24 months for companies who started their activity between 1 January 2015 and 31 December 2022 and with a maximum of 10 employees.

Another exemption was introduced by the 2019 Finance Act regarding allowances granted to individuals drafted for military service.

Before 2019, professional revenue generated by individuals subject to the so-called "Régime de l'auto-entrepreneur" tax scheme was taxed under one of the following discharging rates:

- 1% for trading activities, and industries generating a turnover of less than MAD 500,000;
- 2% when the said turnover does not exceed an amount of MAD 200,000.

In order to curb the escape route for ratepayers to informal sectors, the 2019 Finance Act reduces the abovementioned tax rates from 1% and 2%, to 0.5% and 1% respectively.

H. OTHER TAXES

DOMESTIC CONSUMPTION TAX

The amount of this tax is of MAD 500 per hectolitre for energising drinks and MAD 700 per hectolitre for wines.

TAX ON PLANE TICKETS

The tax on plane tickets is levied on tickets purchased for international flights departing from Moroccan airports (domestic flights are exempt).

However this tax will not apply to certain categories of tickets, such as those for flying and security personnel or for children under the age of two. The amount of tax is set at MAD 100 for Economy Class and MAD 400 for Business and First Class.

KEY TAX POINTS

- Resident corporations are subject to corporate income tax (IRPC) on their worldwide income. Non-resident companies with a permanent establishment in Mozambique are liable for IRPC on the income attributable to that permanent establishment.
- The standard rate of Value Added Tax is 17%. VAT is chargeable on the sale of almost all goods and services as well as on imports.
- Payments between resident companies are liable to withholding tax if they originate from certain specified income types.
- Transfer pricing legislation enables the tax authorities to make corrections to taxable income when the conditions (and prices) agreed between related parties are different from those that would have been agreed and accepted by independent entities. Taxpayers must keep the necessary documentation to support the transfer pricing policy within the group.
- Resident individuals are subject to income tax on their worldwide income while non-residents are liable to income tax only on income sourced in Mozambique.

A. TAXES PAYABLE

COMPANY TAX

Resident corporations are subject to corporate income tax (IRPC) on their worldwide income. Resident companies are those which have their head office, or place of effective management, in Mozambique. Non-resident companies with a permanent establishment in Mozambique are liable for IRPC on the income attributable to that permanent establishment. A non-resident company without a permanent establishment in Mozambique is taxed on the following types of income sourced in Mozambique: capital gains, dividends, interests, royalties, services and rents.

Taxable profit is normally taxed at 32%. Non documented expenses are taxed at 35%.

The tax year usually coincides with the calendar year (1 January to 31 December). Exceptions must be approved in advance by the Finance Minister and only apply if a company is owned for more than 50% by another company with a different tax year, in which case it may adopt that different tax year. Tax is payable as follows:

Taxable persons	Tax payment
Resident entities whose main activity is commercial, industrial or agricultural and non-residents with a permanent establishment in Mozambique.	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> Payments on account (PC) in May, July and September (5th, 7th and 9th month after year end). Special payments on account (PEC) in June, August and October (6th, 8th and 10th month after year end). The balance is due by the date when the tax return is filed – generally 31 May. (5th month after year end)
Resident entities whose main activity is neither commercial, industrial nor agricultural.	Tax is payable by 31 May following the end of the tax year.
Non-resident entities without a permanent establishment.	Taxed by definitive withholding made by client or by independent tax return.

Payments on account (PC) are estimated on the basis of 80% of previous tax year's IRPC liability, less any tax withheld at source and divided into three equal instalments.

$$PC = \frac{(IRPC \text{ of previous year} - \text{withheld taxes of previous year}) \times 80\%}{3 \text{ instalments}}$$

Special payments on account (PEC) are estimated on the basis of 0.5% of the sales and/or services rendered during the previous financial year, with the minimum amount of 30,000 MZN and maximum of 100,000 MZN, net of provisional tax payments made in the previous year and divided into three equal instalments.

$$PEC = \frac{(\text{turnover of previous year} \times 0.5\% - PC \text{ of previous year})}{3 \text{ instalments}}$$

Permanent establishments of non-resident companies are taxed at the rates applicable to resident companies. When there is no permanent establishment, tax is levied at rates varying between 10% and 20% according to the source of income.

CAPITAL GAINS TAX

Worldwide capital gains obtained by resident companies are included in taxable income. The gain (or loss) is calculated by the difference between the sales proceeds and the acquisition cost which may be updated using official inflation coefficients. If the proceeds of the sales are reinvested in other fixed assets, within three tax years following the year of sale, 100% of the gain obtained (net of the related losses) will be excluded from taxation. When only part of the consideration is reinvested, only the corresponding part of the gain qualifies for the relief.

BRANCH PROFITS TAX

All income attributable to the Mozambique branch (permanent establishment) is subject to corporation tax. No tax is imposed on the eventual remittances of profits to the head office.

VALUE ADDED TAX (VAT)

The standard rate is 17%. VAT is chargeable on the sale of almost all goods and services as well as on imports. Usually VAT is recoverable by corporate entities.

Credit until 15th of the next month. Payable last day of the next month.

OTHER TAXES

MUNICIPAL TAX REAL ESTATE

Owners of real estate properties are subject to tax between 0.2% and 1% for urban properties depending on the municipality.

REAL ESTATE TRANSFER TAX (SISA)

Real Estate Transfer Tax applies to transfer of real estate property and is normally payable by the purchaser at a rate of 2%. A 10% rate applies when the purchaser of the property is a resident of a black-listed offshore jurisdiction.

SOCIAL SECURITY CONTRIBUTIONS (INSS)

Social security contributions are payable by employers (4%) and employees (3%) on monthly remuneration. Payable by 10th of the next month.

B. DETERMINATION OF TAXABLE INCOME (IRPC)

Normally net income, or taxable income, is arrived at by adjusting the accounting profits for non-taxed income and non-deductible expenses. As a general principle, costs are only deductible when necessarily incurred for the purpose of generating income.

DEPRECIATION

Fixed assets can be depreciated for tax purposes. The main depreciation rates are:

Assets	Rate (%)
Tangible assets:
Industrial buildings	4
Office and residential buildings	2
Machinery and installations, air conditioning, and telephone equipment	10
Lifts	8.33
Tools	25
Laboratory equipment	12.5

Intangible assets:

Patents	10
Manufacturing licences, concessionaire agreements, and similar rights	5*
Trademark or premium of taking over leases of real estate	**

Notes:

* If certain conditions are met.

 May be accepted by the tax authorities if the decrease of the value is proved.

STOCK / INVENTORY

Inventory must normally be valued at the effective cost of acquisition or production (historic cost). Other methods which may be adopted include:

- The standard cost method, which must be calculated in accordance with the appropriate technical and accounting principles;
- The sale price method, based on the market value less a normal profit margin;
- The special costing for basic or normal inventory, subject to prior approval of the tax authorities; and,
- The costing based on market price quote, this can be used by companies selling agricultural products and other biological assets.

CAPITAL GAINS AND LOSSES

Gains obtained by non-resident entities from the disposal of shares may be exempt from tax depending on the holding period of the shares. This exemption is not applicable if the gains are obtained from a non-resident.

Period of detention of shares	Reduction (%)	Effective Rate (%)
Less than one year	0	32
12 to 24 months	15	27.2
24 to 60 months	35	20.8
More than 60 months	45	17.6

DIVIDENDS

There is a full participation exemption for the payment of dividends between Mozambique resident companies, when the recipient of the dividends is a company that has held a participation of at least 20% of the share capital of the distributing company for a minimum period of two years (if the investment is held for less than 2 year the law allows that the shareholders will still be exempt if they hold the investment until 2 years are completed). If such conditions are not met, the dividend amount is subject to taxation.

INTEREST DEDUCTIONS

Interest is deductible on an accruals basis. The Fiscal Administration is entitled, under certain circumstances, to disallow interest payments to related parties in excess of arm's length arrangements. Thin capitalisation rules are applied when the debt/equity ratio exceeds 2:1.

LOSSES

Operating losses incurred by resident companies, or by a branch of a non-resident company, may be carried forward to offset against taxable profits for five years. No loss carry back is allowed.

FOREIGN SOURCE INCOME

Taxation of resident companies and permanent establishments takes into account their worldwide income. Double taxation treaties may allow to balance the tax paid overseas and IRPC.

TAX INCENTIVES

The Investment Law grants certain tax and customs benefits depending on the amount, location and sector of investment activity.

C. FOREIGN TAX RELIEF

Foreign-sourced income, gross of tax paid abroad, is included in taxable income. A unilateral credit for foreign income tax suffered can be offset against the IRPC. Mozambique's tax treaties also apply the ordinary credit method. The tax credit is restricted to the lower of:

- The income tax paid abroad (ordinary credit method); and,
- The Mozambique income tax chargeable on that foreign income.

M

D. CORPORATE GROUPS

There is no group basis tax option in Mozambique. Each company has to fill in its tax returns separately.

E. RELATED PARTY TRANSACTIONS

Transfer pricing legislation enables the tax authorities to make corrections to taxable income when the conditions (and prices) agreed between related parties are different from those that would have been agreed and accepted by independent entities. Taxpayers must keep the necessary documentation to support the transfer pricing policy within the group.

Taxpayers that have obtained an annual net turnover (sales plus other income) equal to or exceeding MZN 2,500,000 (USD 40,000) in the previous year will be required to prepare transfer pricing documentation. The envisaged entities shall prepare the supporting documentation related to the Transfer Pricing policy and its tax adjustments as per the guidelines of the corresponding decree.

F. WITHHOLDING TAX

Payments between resident companies are liable to withholding tax if they are originate from:

- a) Income from intellectual property or industrial as well as the provision of know-how;
- b) Income derived from the use of or right to use, industrial, agricultural, commercial or scientific equipment;
- c) Income from investment not covered in the preceding paragraphs and property income;
- d) Remuneration earned as a member of the statutory bodies of legal persons and other entities;
- e) Income from the intermediary in the conclusion of any contract and income from other services rendered or used in Mozambique.

Mozambique

Non-resident entities without a permanent establishment are liable to a final and definitive 20% WHT that is applied to all income earned. An exception exists for:

- (i) Telecommunications and international transport, as well as the respective installation and assembly of equipment made by those same entities;
- (ii) Construction and rehabilitation of production, transport, and distribution of electricity infrastructures in the rural zones under the public projects of rural electrification; and,
- (iii) Maritime vessels freight for fishing and coasting activities, all of which are subject to a 10% WHT rate.

G. EXCHANGE CONTROL

All transfers to and from abroad are subject to registration with the Bank of Mozambique and may be not authorised in certain circumstances. Shareholders loans or any other type of foreign loan are liable to pre-approval by the Central Bank. Other examples of operations that require pre-approval are insurance operations and guarantees operations.

H. PERSONAL TAX

Personal Income tax (IRPS) is payable by individuals on income obtained from employment, a business activity or independent profession, investment income, immovable property, capital gains, pensions and betting or gambling profits. Resident individuals are subject to income tax on their worldwide income while non-residents are liable to income tax only on income sourced in Mozambique.

- There is no withholding tax on dividends paid to a resident or non-resident.
- Interest is subject to a 15% withholding tax if paid to a non-resident. There is no withholding tax on interest paid to a resident.

A. TAXES PAYABLE

COMPANY TAX

The current corporate income tax ("CIT") rate is 25% for Myanmar companies, branches registered under the Myanmar Companies Act 1914 ("MCPA"), Myanmar Companies Law ("MCL") 2017, and companies operating under permission from the Myanmar Investment Commission ("MIC") (i.e. foreign-owned resident companies with an investment license from the MIC granted under the Foreign Investment Law and Myanmar Investment

Myanmar

Law 2016). However, please note that CIT rate for companies listed on the Yangon Stock Exchange is 20% effective from 2017-2018 income year. Resident entities, which are defined as companies established under the MCPA or MCL are obliged to declare and pay CIT on their worldwide income. Non-residents, including branches or overseas corporations registered under the MCPA and MCL, are only obliged to pay CIT on their Myanmar-sourced income.

Advance payment of 2% CIT on importation and exportation

Companies importing or exporting goods must pay a 2% advanced income tax on the assessed value of the goods for import and export. There are a few exceptions, including the import of materials and equipment during the construction period of projects, and raw materials imported during the first three years of production under an MIC permit and goods exported via border trade. The tax that is collected as an advance payment of CIT can be used as an offset against the annual CIT due at the end of the financial year.

CAPITAL GAINS TAX

Overview

Capital assets include land, buildings and their rooms, vehicles, and work-related capital assets. The expression also includes shares, bonds, securities and similar instruments. Capital gains tax ("CGT") is applicable to both resident and non-resident taxpayers deriving a profit from the sale, exchange, or transfer of capital assets in Myanmar. CGT is payable by the person deriving the profit. A CGT return must be lodged by any person who sells, exchanges or transfers capital assets, even if there is a loss.

Income threshold for paying CGT

If the total value of the capital asset; which was sold, exchanged or transferred, does not exceed MMK 10 million, CGT will not be applicable.

Rates of tax

The CGT rate for all taxpayers (with the exception of those deriving a gain from an upstream oil and gas asset or a company holding an upstream oil and gas asset) is 10%, and is imposed in either MMK or a foreign currency. CGT for upstream oil and gas sector must be paid in the same currency in which the gain was received. The following rates apply:

	Capital gain	Tax rate
1	Up to MKK 100 billion	40%
2	From over MMK 100 billion to MMK 150 billion	45%
3	Over MMK 150 billion	50%

Calculation of CGT

CGT is calculated on the full value of the sale, exchange or transfer after deducting depreciation, the original asset cost, any capital expenditures to increase the life of the asset, and any expenditures incurred in the procurement, sale, exchange or transfer of the asset. Depreciation is not allowed for the year of disposal of the capital asset.

BRANCH PROFITS TAX

A foreign company's branch is also taxed at a rate of 25% on Myanmar-sourced income. There is no branch remittance tax in Myanmar.

COMMERCIAL TAX

Overview

Commercial tax ("CT") is levied on four types of activities:

- Local production and sale of goods
- Importation of goods
- Trading
- Provision of services

Non-taxable goods and services

There are 86 goods exempted from CT, and the majority of the exempted goods are agricultural goods and related products. All kinds of services rendered in Myanmar are subject to CT at 5%, except 30 types of exempted services.

Revenue threshold for charging and paying CT

Taxpayers whose revenue from trading, the sale of goods and services in the financial year exceeds the minimum threshold of MMK 50 million are obliged to charge, collect and pay CT to the IRD.

Registration

Apart from importation, any person (including non-residents) who is performing the abovementioned activities that are subject to CT is required to register for CT one month in advance of the commencement of business. CT on importation will be collected by the Customs Department together with customs duty.

Rates of tax

Below is a summary of the applicable CT rates:

Activities	CT rate
Importation	5%
Local manufacturing	5% unless exempted
Trading	5% unless exempted
Exportation	Zero rated, unless crude oil 5% and electricity 8%
Services rendered in Myanmar	5% unless exempted
Real estate
- lease	5%
- sale of building	3%
Sale of jewelleryes made with gold	1%

M

Basis of taxation

The tax base is the sale or service proceeds including Specific Goods Tax (if applicable) from trading, rendering services, local production or sales of goods. For imports, the tax base is the CIF (cost, insurance and freight) value, customs duty and SGT (if applicable).

Offsetting input and output CT

All input CT can be offset against output CT apart from the CT paid for any fixed assets or capital assets. In addition, input CT paid on damaged goods and unsold goods cannot be offset against output CT. If there is more input CT than output CT at the end of the financial year, the unutilised input CT will not be refunded by the IRD. However, such input CT can be deducted as a business expense when calculating CIT.

SPECIFIC GOODS TAX

Overview

Myanmar introduced a Specific Goods Tax ("SGT"), effective from 1 April 2016. SGT is imposed on:

- The import of specific goods into Myanmar
- The local production of specific goods
- The export of specific goods overseas

Therefore, importers, producers and exporters of specific goods are subject to paying SGT. There are 17 types of specific goods.

SGT exemptions

There are a number of SGT exemptions, including an exemption for the export of specific goods temporarily imported for the purpose of re-exporting in the same condition.

Revenue threshold for charging and paying SGT

Apart from the local production of tobacco, cheroots and cigars that does not exceed the minimum threshold of MMK 20 million, there is no threshold for other types of specific goods.

Registration

Importers, producers and exporters of specific goods must register with the relevant IRD.

Rates of tax

SGT rates are announced on a yearly basis in the UTL.

Basis of taxation

The SGT basis for importation is the landed value of the specific goods. For local production of specific goods which are taxable as per price range, the basis is the greater of the factory sales price or the sales price as estimated and specified by the Director General and Management Committee of the IRD. For local production of specific goods which are not taxable as per price range will be assessed based on the value determined Management Committee of the IRD. However, the value determined by the IRD for locally produced specific goods which are not taxable as per price range would be similar to the landed value of similar goods imported from overseas.

Offsetting input and output SGT

Input SGT can be offset with output SGT.

OTHER TAXES

Stamp Duty

The Stamp Act, as amended on 1 April 2014, is the fundamental legislation in respect of stamp duty ("SD") obligations. The main purpose of levying SD is to give legal effect to chargeable instruments. Chargeable instruments are documents that create, transfer, extinguish or record rights or obligations.

As a general rule, SD is levied on all chargeable instruments, unless explicitly exempted. If the SD is not paid at the time of execution of the instruments or within one month of their execution, the IRD will impose an annual penalty of 10 times the amount of the overdue SD.

Property Tax

The fundamental legislation for property tax ("PT") is the Yangon City Development Law 2018 and Yangon City Development Committee ("YCDC") was created to administer these laws and collect PT. PT only applies to certain land, buildings or land and buildings ("premises") located within the territory of Yangon (Territory); in other areas of Myanmar, for instance Mandalay or Nay Pyi Taw, PT is administered in accordance with relevant local regulations.

PT includes four categories of taxes: miscellaneous tax, lighting tax, water tax and sanitation tax. PT is levied on the annual value of land or premises in question but subject to different tax rates and is payable once in a year. The rates and calculation of PT depend on the purposes of use of the premises. The general user of the premises is liable to pay PT on an annual basis once YCDC has already assessed the annual value of the premises.

Customs Duty

In Myanmar, customs duty is levied in accordance with the Sea and Land Customs Act. Customs duty is levied on Assessment Value and is payable according to the tariff schedule listed by HS code published by the Customs Department.

B. DETERMINATION OF TAXABLE INCOME

Tax is levied on total income, after deduction of allowable expenditure and depreciation.

Generally, expenditures incurred for the purpose of earning business income are deductible, subject to certain limitations. Capital expenditures, personal expenditures, expenditures not commensurate with the volume of business, inappropriate expenditures, expenditures incurred for purposes other than earning such income, and payments made to a member of an association of persons other than a company or a cooperative society, are not deductible.

DEPRECIATION

A depreciation allowance is deductible for CIT purposes. Capital assets must be capitalised and depreciated on a straight-line basis in accordance with the rates set out in Notification 19/2016, the Second Regulations Amending the Income Tax Regulations. A full-year depreciation allowance can be claimed for the year in which a capital asset is acquired, regardless of whether the asset is used for all or part of that year.

DIVIDENDS

There are no provisions for intercompany dividends in the tax legislation. However, dividends received from a company are exempt. Myanmar operates a one-tier corporate tax system, under which all dividends received from an association of persons (i.e. partnerships, joint ventures, companies, associations formed by individuals, cooperative societies and government economic organisations) are exempt from income tax at the level of the shareholders.

INTEREST DEDUCTIONS

There is no specific thin capitalisation regime in Myanmar, although capitalisation of a company might be covered in the licences granted to the company. However, there are restrictions to the deductibility of interest.

LOSSES

Under the Income Tax Law (“ITL”), if a company sustains a loss, it can be utilised against future profits and carried forward for up to three consecutive years, with the exception of capital losses.

C. FOREIGN TAX RELIEF

There are no provisions for unilateral relief. The entitlement to tax treaty benefits is not automatic. The Myanmar tax authorities and the MoF need to be consulted by the payer of the fee on a case-by-case basis in order to obtain tax treaty relief.

D. CORPORATE GROUPS

There are no provisions for group treatment in the tax legislation.

E. RELATED PARTY TRANSACTIONS

There are currently no transfer pricing rules in Myanmar.

F. WITHHOLDING TAX

Overview

The Ministry of Planning and Finance (“MOPF”) released Notification 51/2017 (“Notification 51/2017”) on 22 May 2017, which revokes the old Withholding Tax (“WHT”) Notifications. The Notification 51/2017 is effective from 1 April 2017 (FY2017-2018) to 30 June 2018 (FY2018-2019). The MOPF released another new WHT Notification 47/2018 (“Notification 47/2018”) on 18 June 2018 which revokes the WHT Notification 51/2017. The Notification 47/2018 will be effective from 1 July 2018 (FY2018-2019). Please refer to below table in relation to payments subject to WHT under the Notification 51/2017 and Notification 47/2018.

Type of income	Residents		Non-residents
	Notification 51/2017	Notification 47/2018	Notification 51/2017	Notification 47/2018
Interest	0%	0%	15%	15%
Royalties	10%	10%	15%	15%
Goods (Locally purchased goods) – payments made by government organisations, ministries and state-owned enterprises	2%	2%	2.5%	2.5%

Goods (Locally purchased goods) – payments made by others apart from government organisations, ministries and state-owned enterprises	2%	0%	2.5%	2.5%
Services (Locally rendered services) – payments made by government organisations, ministries and state-owned enterprises	2%	2%	2.5%	2.5%
Services (Locally rendered services) – payments made by others apart from government organisations, ministries and state-owned enterprises	2%	0%	2.5%	2.5%
Lease	2%	N/A	2.5%	N/A

Both Notification 51/2017 and Notification 47/2018 impose legal obligation on payer to deduct WHT from payments that are subject to WHT, regardless of whether the income recipient has agreed to the deduction or not. Please note that the Internal Revenue Department (“IRD”) may recover the WHT from payer if the payer is failed to deduct applicable WHT. The payer can be a resident taxpayer or a non-resident taxpayer. The obligation for deducting WHT rests with the payer.

Exemption of WHT

Exemption from WHT deduction is given to payments between government organisations, and payments made to respective government organisations and stated-owned enterprises and interest payments to non-resident lenders who open branches locally or file corporate income tax return for income derived from the branch. Previously, Myanmar branches of foreign banks were considered non-residents and are thus captured in Myanmar’s 15% WHT rate on interest paid to non-residents. From 1 April 2017, the WHT on interest payment to the Myanmar branches of foreign banks will no longer apply.

Minimum threshold

Under Notification 51/2017 (1st April 2017 to 30th June 2018), if the payer is a company under self-assessment; companies under Large Taxpayers Office and Medium Taxpayers Office, payment amount not exceeding MMK 1.5 million per supplier per payment is exempt from WHT. For other taxpayers, the minimum threshold is MMK 0.5 million. There is no exemption for payments to non-resident or payments in foreign currency. Page 6 Under Notification 47/2018 (effective from 1st July 2018), there is a minimum threshold of MMK 1 million for total payments within a year period for payments made by government organisations, ministries and state-owned enterprises. However, there is no minimum threshold for payments made to non-residents.

Double Taxation Agreement

If the non-resident taxpayer is a resident taxpayer of a country with which Myanmar has a tax treaty, a relief may be available under the DTA. The IRD will require the non-resident to provide the Certificate of Residency issued by the tax authority of their country of residence. However, in order to enjoy the reliefs under the DTA, an application must be made to the IRD for approval.

G. EXCHANGE CONTROL

Myanmar’s foreign exchange regulatory framework has evolved substantially since 2011. In order to ease its stringent foreign exchange controls, the Government of Myanmar enacted a new Foreign Exchange Management Law (FEML) in August 2012. The FEML liberalizes transfer payments related to current account transactions, though transfers related to capital accounts remain conditional. The application of the new law in practice continues to evolve. However, companies registered under the new investment law are guaranteed the ability to repatriate investment and profits in the foreign currency in which such investments were made, subject to the approval of Myanmar Investment Commission (MIC).

H. PERSONAL TAX

Overview

Employers, whether residents or non-residents of Myanmar for tax purposes, are liable to deduct personal income tax ("PIT") from payments of salaries, wages and other remuneration made to all employees. Employees that are residents of Myanmar (both Myanmar nationals and foreigners) are taxed on their worldwide income at progressive rates after deducting the prescribed allowances and reliefs; whereas non-residents are taxed only on their Myanmar-sourced income, at the same progressive rates.

Residency

A foreign individual is considered a resident foreigner for tax purposes if they are in Myanmar for 183 days or more during an income year (1 April to the following 31 March) or they are working on an MIC project and are in Myanmar for any length of time. Accordingly, foreigners who are not working on an MIC project and reside in Myanmar for less than 183 days are considered non-resident foreigners.

Taxable salary

Salary income as defined by the ITL includes "salary, wages, annuities, bonuses, awards, and fees or commissions received in lieu of or in addition to the salary or wages". Taxable benefits are not defined under the law; therefore, any payment from an employer to an employee will be considered a taxable benefit unless it can be demonstrated that it is business-related only. The following are exempt from PIT: pensions, gratuities, salary income of non-resident citizens received in foreign currency abroad, and money received from the state lottery. According to the Union Tax Law ("UTL") of 2018, anyone whose annual salary income is MMK4.8 million or less is exempt from paying PIT.

Tax reliefs and allowances for Myanmar residents

- Basic allowance of 20% of annual salary income, up to a maximum of MMK 10,000,000 (approximately USD 8,300*);
- MMK 500,000 per annum (approximately USD 400*) for each child living with the taxpayer who fulfils all of the following criteria: 1) is unmarried; 2) is not earning assessable income; and 3) is either under 18, or if 18 or over, is in full-time education;
- MMK 1,000,000 (approximately USD 830*) for one non-working spouse who is living with the taxpayer
- MMK 1,000,000 (approximately USD 830*) per parent for dependent parents living with the taxpayer. The term "parent" includes a father- or mother-in-law;
- Premiums paid for the life insurance of the taxpayer and taxpayer's spouse;
- Contributions towards savings funds approved by the Internal Revenue Department ("IRD");
- Social security contributions made by employees to the Social Security Board (2% of annual salary, capped at MMK 72,000 (approximately USD 60*).

* Using an exchange rate of USD 1 = MMK 1,200

Rates of tax

The tax rates for resident and non-resident employees are now at the same progressive rates, although for resident taxpayers, the PIT rates are applied on their worldwide income after deduction of the reliefs and allowances above, while for non-residents, the PIT rates are applied on their Myanmar-sourced salary income without any deduction. The following table shows the PIT rates on annual salary income. Approximate USD amounts are shown in brackets based on an exchange rate of USD 1 = MMK 1,200.

Personal income tax rates
From MMK (USD)	To MMK (USD)	Income tax rate
1 (0.0008)	2,000,000 (1,666)	0%
2,000,001 (1,667)	5,000,000 (4,167)	5%
5,000,001 (4,168)	10,000,000 (8,333)	10%
10,000,001 (8,334)	20,000,000 (16,666)	15%

20,000,001 (16,667)	30,000,000 (25,000)	20%
30,000,001 (25,001) and above		25%

Social Security Contributions

The Social Security Law requires an employer with more than five employees to contribute to a social security scheme. The rates of the monthly contributions by the employer and employees are 3% and 2%, respectively, of an employee's total salary including benefits (capped at a maximum monthly salary of MMK 300,000), in local currency or US dollars, depending on the currency in which the employee is paid. Hence, the maximum monthly contribution for an employee is MMK 6,000, and for an employer it is MMK 9,000 per employee. The employer is responsible for deducting the contribution from the employee's salary and paying the amount to the social security board.

Undisclosed source of income

Undisclosed source of income will be subject to income tax at 30% for both citizens and foreigners before deduction of prescribed tax reliefs and allowances mentioned under the PIT section.

However, if the citizen can disclose source for income used for buying, constructing or acquiring any capital assets or establishing a new business or expanding an existing business, the portion of income that source can be proved shall be deducted from the total undisclosed income and the balance of the undisclosed income will be taxed at the progressive rates mentioned in the table below.

No.	Income (MKK)	Income tax rate
a	1 – 30,000,000	15%
b	30,000,001 – 100,000,000	20%
c	100,000,001 and above	30%

INCOME TAX

Income tax is source-based with certain income deemed to be from a Namibian source, e.g. income earned from a Namibian employer whilst being temporarily absent from Namibia, or on restraint of trade payments. Tax is imposed on all receipts and accruals from a Namibian source, other than receipts or accruals of a capital nature. Some items are specifically included in taxable income even if of a capital nature, for example the sale of mining rights or the sale of shares of a company holding such rights. Fringe benefits tax is payable by employees on low interest loans, motor vehicle usage, free housing and other cash benefits. Meals served at the place of work, uniforms and company contributions to group benefit funds are not taxed. The taxable income of foreign companies is computed in the same way as for local companies.

The tax year is the same as the financial year of a company. Tax liabilities are calculated on a self-assessment basis. The collection of taxes is as follows:

- Provisional Payments (1st and 2nd) are due after the first six months of the financial year and on the last day of the financial year;
- A top-up payment is payable on due date for the return of Income – seven months after the end of the financial year.

The rate of withholding tax on director's fees and entertainment fees is 25%.

EXPORT LEVY

An export levy on the export of unprocessed minerals and other natural resources is levied to promote domestic value-addition. This tax is a levy between 0 to 2% on the value of minerals, fish, game, crude oil and gas exported.

B. DETERMINATION OF TAXABLE INCOME

CAPITAL ALLOWANCES

Allowances are available on plant and machinery, vehicles, implements and similar. Tax relief is allowed on the cost of assets used for purposes of trade, claimed over a three-year period (excluding finance charges on Hire Purchase or Lease). Building allowances are granted from the year where a building is first brought into use for purposes of trade: 20% of erection cost is claimable in the first year and the remainder at 4% for the following 20 years. Allowances on buildings used for manufacturing purposes are 20% in the year they were taken into use, balance at 8% per annum for the next ten years. This is only applicable to 'registered manufacturers'.

DEPRECIATION

No depreciation is allowed in Namibia for tax purposes. Capital acquisitions are subject to a wear and tear allowance commencing in the year of acquisition and calculated at a rate of 1/3rd in year one and one 1/3rd in each of the two years following year of acquisition.

STOCK / INVENTORY

Stock is to be valued at the lower of cost or market price, usually on the average cost or FIFO method.

CAPITAL GAINS AND LOSSES

Capital gains are generally not taxable in Namibia, unless by way of specific inclusion in the Income Tax Act, such as the sale of mining rights.

DIVIDENDS

Dividends are not taxable, unless paid to a non-resident in which case a non-resident shareholders tax (NRST) is withheld. Double Taxation Agreements may provide relief. NRST is levied at 20% if beneficial shareholding is less than 25% of shareholding, otherwise at 10%.

INTEREST

Interest deductions are allowed in Namibia if they are incurred in the production of income. A withholding tax on interest earned by residents (individuals) from financial institutions is withheld at source at the rate of 10%, whilst interest earned on government stocks and treasury bills is exempt.

LOSSES

Losses and profits generated by a taxpayer may be set off against each other, setoff is however not allowed within a group of related entities. A net loss may be carried forward to be utilised in future tax years, provided the taxpayer continues trading throughout. Ring-fencing on losses incurred by individuals is applicable to various suspect trades, such as part-time farming, dealing in arts, gambling and more, or where a specific trade has generated losses in 3 out of 5 years. A complex regime of rules applies to determine whether ring-fencing must be applied or not.

FOREIGN SOURCE INCOME

Foreign income is generally not taxable in Namibia if the source is not in Namibia, excepting income deemed to be from a Namibian source.

INCENTIVES: MANUFACTURING INCENTIVES

A manufacturer may qualify for registered manufacturer status if its activities are beneficial to the economic development of Namibia by way of net employment creation, net value addition, replacement of imports or an increase in net exports. Registered manufacturers are taxed at a minimal rate of 18% for the first 10 years of operation, thereafter normal corporate rates apply. 1. DIRECT TAXES

1.1 GENERAL

The main objective of the tax system is to enhance revenue mobilisation through effective revenue collection procedure for the economic development of the nation. Income is taxed in accordance with the provisions of Income Tax Act 2002 (ITA). The salient features of the ITA are:

- Various concessions and incentives allowed under different Acts have been repealed and provided under the single ITA;
- The tax liability of residents and non-residents are clearly defined;
- Worldwide income of a resident, whether individual or company is made taxable in Nepal;
- Income with source in Nepal is taxable in Nepal irrespective of the place of payment;
- Specific provision for taxing capital gains is introduced;
- Procedures for granting credit for international tax are prescribed;
- General provision for anti-avoidance and income splitting rules introduced; and
- Clearly defined the tax administration and payment procedures are provided.

The tax is levied on income accrued or received from business, investment, employment and windfall gains. Employment income is taxed on cash basis, Investment income is taxed on cash basis for Natural person and on accrual basis for entity, Business income shall be taxed on accrual basis for both natural person and entity. Both individual and companies are required to follow a uniform income year that runs from July 16 to the following July 15 corresponding to the Nepali Fiscal Year (NFY). All persons with assessable income are required to register with the Inland Revenue Office (IRO) and obtain a Permanent Account Number (PAN) and to file a tax return annually. But in case of assessable income from employment only sourced in Nepal as per section 67 of ITA and where there is single resident employer and also the income is not greater than NRS 4 million then the employee is not required to file the income tax return.

Returns are filed under a self-assessment system under which the IRO considers returns final unless they are subject to a detailed scrutiny of the taxpayer's affairs. In practice, Assessing Officers make re-assessments and adjustments in the majority of the cases.

Income tax payments are made in the year in which the income is earned in the form of withholding tax and advance tax. Companies are subject to a flat rate of tax, whereas individuals are taxed at progressive rates. The Director General (DG) of Inland Revenue Department (IRD) has responsibility for the general administration of the ITA.

Each depreciable asset at the time it is first owned or so used, are placed in a pool referred to as pools of depreciable assets. Depreciation is calculated on the reducing balance method except for pool E and is based on the pool of assets. Depreciation for pool E is calculated using SLM method. In case of disposal of each asset under pool E the pool is deemed to be dissolved because each asset under pool E is separate pool.

The pool of assets concept suggests aggregation of all assets with the same depreciation rate into a common block for computation of depreciation. Depreciation is computed at varying rates as prescribed. In the year of purchase depreciation is available for the full year, if an asset is added to the pool for more than six months. In other cases, depreciation is allowed at either two thirds or one third of the normal rate, if the addition is made for less than six or three months, respectively. Amounts derived from the disposal of an asset or assets are reduced from the written down value of the relevant pool.

Special Industries as per section 11, entities engaged in construction and operation of public infrastructures like road, bridge, tunnel, ropeway, overhead bridge, entities operating trolley bus or tram, cooperatives not covered by section 11(2), entities engaged in operating public infrastructure under BOOT (Built, own, operate and transfer) mechanism that are ultimately handed to GON, entities involved in construction, production, distribution and transmission of electricity and power generation houses can claim additional depreciation at one third rate of the normal rate.

Expenditure incurred on R&D and pollution control related to the taxpayer's business is deductible up to 50% of the adjusted taxable income in the income year it is incurred. Any excess cost, for which deduction is not allowed as a result of the said limitation, is capitalised and depreciated.

3. INDIRECT TAXES

3.1 VALUE ADDED TAX

3.1.1 INTRODUCTION

Value Added Tax (VAT) is tax based on goods and services. This tax is levied on the sale, exchange, transfer, import etc. of all goods and services apart from those specified by the law as tax-exempt. This means that this tax encompasses all types of goods and services produced in or imported into the country apart from those listed as tax-exempt by the law. VAT is considered as an improvised form of sales tax. This tax is imposed on different levels of value addition in the production and distribution process of goods and services. In short, the difference between the purchase price and the sales price of any firm is the value added.

In practice, the tax-payer does not have to calculate his value addition for the purpose of VAT. But s/he has to collect VAT on the sales price at the rate specified by the VAT Act and after deducting the VAT paid on purchases from the amount thus collected and s/he has to pay the balance amount as VAT. Under VAT each registered manufacturer and distributor must collect tax on the sales of their goods and services.

3.1.2 RATE

VAT is levied at a flat rate of 13%, which is applied to the invoice value. Certain specified goods are outside the scope or exempt from VAT. Exports of both goods and services are taxed at zero %.

3.1.3 THRESHOLD

Threshold for compulsory registration under VAT Act is a turnover exceeding NRS 5 million over the last 12 months in case of goods, and NRS 2 million for services or both services and goods. Construction should be for business purpose. Business purpose means for sale or for use in income generation.

3.1.5 TAX CREDIT

To avoid double taxation, a credit is given for VAT paid on goods and services used for the purpose of making any taxable supply (Input VAT). A credit is also given for VAT paid in respect of certain exempt supplies, e.g. exports. The principal mechanism for collecting the tax requires the taxable supplier to charge VAT on the goods or services supplied (Output VAT) to take credit for VAT paid on business expenditure (Input VAT), and to pay the net tax over to the authorities.

Other penalties may be imposed if, for example, a registrant fails to file a return, issue invoices, keep an up-to-date account of transactions, obstructs visits by a tax officer in investigation, prepares false accounts and invoices or attempts to evade tax. KEY TAX POINTS

- Corporation tax is payable by residents and non-residents at progressive tax rates.
- There is no special tax rate for capital gains, but gains and losses are included in the company's general taxable income.
- There is withholding tax on dividends but not on interest or royalties.
- Under the participation exemption, dividends and capital gains arising on qualifying shareholdings by a Dutch parent company are free from corporate income tax.
- The Netherlands operate an extensive treaty network.
- Under certain conditions, a parent company may form a 'fiscal unity' with 'wholly owned' (at least 95%) subsidiaries, so that all the companies are taxed as one.
- Companies and individuals are subject to a municipal tax on the ownership of real estate in the Netherlands, based on market value. Purchasers of real estate in the Netherlands are liable to transfer tax.
- Individuals resident in The Netherlands are subject to personal income tax on their worldwide income. Foreign taxes on foreign-sourced income are normally relieved, either under double tax treaties or under Dutch unilateral rules. Non-residents are liable for personal income tax only on income derived from a limited number of Dutch domestic sources such as income received for duties performed within The Netherlands and income from Dutch real estate.
- There is a 'box' system for individuals, whereby there are three boxes for income (work and home; substantial interest in companies with limited liability; and savings and investment) each with their own tax rate.
- Gift tax (on gifts received from a Dutch resident) and inheritance tax (on an acquisition under the law of succession from a person tax resident in the Netherlands at the date of death) are payable by a person receiving a donation or the inheritance respectively. The rates are the same for both taxes and depend of the value of what is received and the degree of relationship.
- A special exemption applies for the transfer of business assets due to inheritance or donation.

A. TAXES PAYABLE

COMPANY TAX

Corporate tax is payable by corporations in The Netherlands (resident taxpayers) and by certain corporations not established in The Netherlands that receive income from sources in The Netherlands (non-resident taxpayers). The term corporation includes companies whose capital consists of shares, co-operatives and other legal entities which conduct business.

The main types of corporations as referred to in the Corporate Tax Act are the joint stock company with limited liability (NV) and the closed company with limited liability (BV). Whether a corporation is resident in The Netherlands depends on the facts and circumstances. Relevant factors include the location of the effective management, the head office and the place where the general meeting of shareholders is held. Under the Corporate Tax Act, all corporations incorporated under Dutch law are resident in The Netherlands but this unilateral tax residency may be overruled by a tax treaty.

The corporate tax rates for 2019 are:

- Taxable profit up to and including EUR 200,000 = 19%; and
- Taxable profit above EUR 200,000 = 25%.

Over the next few years the corporate tax rates will be further reduced as follows:

Year	For profits up to EUR 200,000	For profits in excess of EUR 200,000
2020	16.5%	22.5%
2021	15%	20.5%

Note that the different rates apply to bands of income rather than to the profit of the company as a whole. A company with a taxable profit of EUR 250,000 would be taxed at 19% on the first EUR 200,000 and 25% on EUR 50,000. Taxpayers are obliged to file a tax return every year within five months following the end of the year concerned. An extension of this time limit may be permitted. Tax is payable within two months upon receipt of an assessment. A provisional assessment for the current year may be raised to lower or prevent 8% Dutch tax interest on the net corporate tax payable.

CAPITAL GAINS TAX

There is no special tax rate for capital gains but gains and losses are included in the company's general taxable income.

BRANCH PROFITS TAX

Dutch source income of non-resident companies is taxed at the same rates as applicable to resident companies. There is no additional branch profit tax.

VALUE ADDED TAX (VAT)

Value added tax (VAT) is a general consumer tax included in the price paid by consumers for goods and services. Consumers pay this tax indirectly and VAT entrepreneurs remit it to the tax department. Based on EU Directives, the general types of taxable activities are:

- The supply of goods;
- The rendering of services;
- The acquisition of goods by entrepreneurs;
- The importation of goods.

There are three rates of VAT:

- The standard rate is 21%;
- A reduced rate of 6%, which mainly applies to food, books, newspapers and drugs (it has been proposed to increase this tax rate to 9% in 2019);
- The zero rate, which is mainly applied to goods and services involved in international trade, so that goods can be exported free of VAT.

The period to which VAT tax returns relate may be a month, a quarter of a year or a whole year. A quarterly VAT tax return is standard. The tax return must be submitted within a month of the end of the period to which it relates. The tax owed must also be paid within this period. Excise Duty is levied on certain consumer goods, including petrol and other mineral oils, tobacco products, alcohol, alcoholic beverages and non-alcoholic beverages. Like VAT, excise duty is included in the price paid by consumers for these goods. The tax is remitted by the manufacturers and importers of the goods concerned.

The basic rule for the place of service for services to businesses (B2B services), in principle, is deemed to be where the customer resides or is established. For services to consumers (B2C services), the basic rule is that VAT is levied in the country in which the supplier is established. However, for e-commerce services VAT is levied in the country in which the consumer is resident. The reverse charge mechanism is obligatory for VAT on cross-border services within the EU. EU listings for services provided intra-community must be completed. The rules provide a simplified procedure for reclaiming EU VAT for business established within the EU. In principle, these claims are filed with the business' own national tax authorities.

FRINGE BENEFITS TAX

Bonuses to employees are taxed at the normal income tax rates. Another method of rewarding employees is to give them options instead of shares in the company. Options are taxed when exercised or sold on the difference between the market value and the option purchase price against normal tax rates. If a Dutch company issues options and/or shares, the costs are deemed to be non-deductible from the taxable income of the company (subject to certain exceptions).

LOCAL TAXES

There are several municipal taxes of which real estate tax is the most important. Companies and individuals are subject to a municipal tax on the ownership and the use of real estate in The Netherlands, based on the market value of the property. The amount of tax due varies widely among municipalities but is generally a comparatively small percentage of value or income of the property in question. There are no local income taxes in The Netherlands.

OTHER TAXES

The Netherlands does not levy capital tax on the issued share capital. A 6% transfer tax is levied on the acquisition of real estate situated in The Netherlands and rights related to Dutch real estate. For residences, a reduced rate of 2% applies. Transfer tax is also levied on the transfer of shares in a so-called qualifying real estate company and if the shareholding reaches a certain threshold. A double asset threshold will have to be met in order to qualify as a real estate company: owning more than 50% real estate (foreign and Dutch) and at the same time owning 30% or more Dutch real estate. Furthermore, 70% of the total real estate (Dutch and foreign) of the company has to be used in the "real estate business". Besides broadening the scope regarding qualifying companies, additional measures have been introduced to catch arrangements that would previously have escaped the transfer tax, such as by linking associated transactions. The purchaser is liable for this tax.

B. DETERMINATION OF TAXABLE INCOME

Corporate tax is levied on the taxable amount. This is taxable profit received in a year minus deductible costs and losses. The loss carry back period is restricted to one year and the loss carry forward period to nine years (the Dutch government announced that in the near future the loss carry-forward period will be limited to six years). The taxable profit is also reduced by extra allowances such as investment allowances.

INVESTMENT ALLOWANCE

Dutch law provides that investment in qualifying fixed assets generates a deduction from taxable profits. For the 2019 tax year, the deduction is only available in respect of qualifying investments of between EUR 2,300 and EUR 318,449. The deduction is calculated as set out in the following schedule:

Investment	For profits in excess of EUR 200,000
EUR 0 to EUR 2,300	EUR 0
EUR 2,301 to EUR 57,321	28% of the investment
EUR 57,322 to EUR 106,150	EUR 16,051
EUR 106,151 to EUR 318,449	EUR 16,051 decreased with 7.56% of the portion of the investment which exceeds EUR 106,150
EUR 318,449 +	EUR 0

Higher investment allowances are permitted for energy investments (i.e. investments which are energy efficient). The investment deduction does not reduce the costs of the assets for tax depreciation purposes. The investment deduction is subject to repayment if assets are disposed of within a certain period of time.

INNOVATION BOX

The innovation box is a corporate tax incentive introduced to promote innovative technology development activities and investments in new technologies. A number of conditions must be fulfilled in order to qualify.

A Dutch taxpayer has to be the owner of intellectual property which needs to be developed in-house. R&D contracting, i.e. outsourcing parts of R&D projects to other companies, is possible although not unlimited because at least a (qualitatively) substantial part of the R&D project management needs to be performed by the taxpayer in the Netherlands. In case of outsourcing over 30% of a project to foreign group companies, the innovation box benefits could be limited. Since 2017 it is also mandatory to show an R&D-certificate covering the R&D process resulting in these IP rights. R&D-certificates are granted by RVO (a Dutch government agency) only when an R&D project has been tested as sufficiently innovative. (Note: R&D-certificates also provide for wage tax subsidy based on the amount of R&D hours and -costs per project).

Larger companies (> EUR 50 million annual revenue) also need additional IP protection such as a patent in order to apply for the innovation box, except when the IP is related to software. Profits in connection with this specific IP are eligible for innovation box benefits (qualifying profits). Methods to determine which part of the taxable annual profit this relates to is to be pre-discussed/negotiated with the Dutch Tax Authorities and laid down in a tax ruling. Qualifying profits are effectively only taxed at a 7% corporate income tax rate, instead of the general corporate income tax rate of 19 - 25%. Losses on innovative activities may be deducted at the standard rate of 19 - 25%.

DEPRECIATION

In general, fixed assets can be depreciated. Dutch tax law includes specific rules that potentially limit the depreciation of assets (e.g. real estate, goodwill, and other fixed assets). Tax depreciation on real estate is limited so that the tax written down value cannot drop below certain thresholds. In practice this will mean that depreciation of real estate used for investment purposes cannot be depreciated below its value for the purposes of the Valuation of Immovable Property Act (known as WOZ-value).

Depreciation of purchased goodwill is limited to a maximum charge of 10% per annum. The general depreciation period of all other assets (such as cars, computers etc.) is limited to a maximum charge of 20% per annum. Certain business assets, not including business assets that are leased out, can be depreciated in an arbitrary manner. Self-created intangible assets (except for goodwill), can be depreciated at once in the year the intangibles are developed or created.

STOCK / INVENTORY

The following stock valuation methods are permitted: valuation based on cost, valuation based on cost or market value (whichever is lower), or the base stock method. The cost of the stock can be determined by either the FIFO or the LIFO method.

CAPITAL GAINS AND LOSSES

Capital gains or losses are assessed as normal corporate income and taxed accordingly.

DIVIDENDS

Dividends are assessed as normal income and taxed accordingly. Dividends qualifying for the participation exemption are tax exempt from the taxable income for corporate tax purposes. For Dutch residents, withholding tax can normally be subtracted from the total (personal or corporate) income tax to be paid. Foreign dividend withholding tax on dividends which are tax exempt under the Dutch participation exemption cannot be offset against corporate tax payable.

INTEREST DEDUCTIONS

Under present law the following is applicable. Interest is generally deductible. However, when paid to shareholders or related parties or, in case of acquisition holdings and, in case of excessive interest, limitation rules may apply. Limitation on the deductibility of inter-company interest, inter alia, affects interest paid on debts arising from:

- a) Dividends and capital repayments declared but unpaid;
- b) Dividends and capital repayments declared and paid when financed through an inter-company loan;
- c) The acquisition of the shares of a company from a group company through an inter-company loan. The interest deduction is not denied if the taxpayer demonstrates either an overriding business reason for the transaction or the interest received by the Dutch or foreign creditor is subject to tax at a rate which is reasonable by Dutch standards ("compensatory tax requirement");
- d) Deduction limitation for excessive interest (earnings stripping based on ATAD1):

The new rules as based on the first EU Anti-Tax Avoidance Directive disallow the deduction of interest costs exceeding 30% of fiscal EBITDA. However, the first EUR 1,000,000 of interest is always deductible. In case part of the interest is not deductible under this rule, this amount can be carried forward to the following year.

LOSSES

In general, losses may be offset against the taxable profits of the preceding year and carried forward for a period of six years. The options for setting off losses for holding companies are limited.

FOREIGN SOURCE INCOME

Object exemption of profits and losses of foreign permanent establishments (PE)

Up until 2012, foreign PE losses were deductible from the worldwide tax profits of Dutch taxpayers, while foreign PE profits were generally exempted. As of 1 January 2012 the following amendments apply:

- An object exemption for (active) foreign PEs, which removes the positive and negative results of the PE from the Dutch taxpayer's tax base and therefore aligns the taxation of foreign PEs more closely with foreign exempt participations;
- A tax credit for foreign low taxed passive PEs this is applicable if the activities of the foreign PE consist primarily of passive investing or leasing and the profit of the foreign PE is not subject to a reasonable rate of taxation, (i.e. a tax rate generally of at least 10%); and
- A measure to allow the final liquidation losses of a PE from the Dutch taxable profit.

TAX INCENTIVES

Tax incentives are offered towards the cost of education and training projects, improvements in working conditions and research projects. Tax incentives are also applicable to companies investing in specified locations or developing new ideas, processes or products. Beneficial tax rules are applicable to investments by individuals in companies that invest in environmentally friendly projects.

PARTICIPATION EXEMPTION

The Dutch participation exemption provides for an exemption from corporate tax on dividends and capital gains arising in respect of (domestic or foreign) shareholdings owned by a Dutch parent company. Capital losses and acquisition and disposal cost are not deductible, except for a capital loss arising upon liquidation of the participation. In general, a Dutch entity can benefit from the participation exemption if it holds at least 5% of the nominal paid-up capital of another company and one of the three below-mentioned tests is met:

- i) The subsidiary is not held as a (deemed) portfolio investment ("Motive test"). This motive test should be met if the subsidiary is not merely held with the purpose to generate a return that can be expected from normal asset management; or
- ii) The subsidiary is subject to a profit tax resulting in a taxation that is reasonable according to Dutch standards ("Tax test"); or
- iii) The aggregated assets of the subsidiary consist for more than 50% of non-portfolio assets or of portfolio investment assets of which the proceeds are taxed at a reasonable tax rate according to Dutch standards ("Asset test"). For purpose of the asset test, real estate assets are deemed to be non-portfolio assets.

In case the applicability of the participation is based on the tax test or asset test, the subsidiary is considered to be a so called "qualifying portfolio investment". As of 1 January 2016 anti-hybrid rules are implemented via the participation exemption. The anti-hybrid rules aim to prevent double-non-taxation through the use of hybrid financing. The rules are however not limited to hybrid loans only. The participation exemption is no longer applicable to payments, or other forms of remuneration, received from a subsidiary to the extent that these payments are, legally or de facto, directly or indirectly, deductible for corporate income tax purposes in the payer's country. The rule applies to payments that are actually deducted and to payments that are, by their nature, deductible even if these payments are limited due to anti-abuse legislation. There are no grandfathering rules for existing financing arrangements. As of 1 January 2019, additional CFC-rules have been introduced as part of the implementation of the first EU Anti-Tax Avoidance Directive.

C. FOREIGN TAX RELIEF

A resident company is taxed on its worldwide income. Certain types of foreign sourced income (for instance income derived from foreign real estate) are exempt from tax, either unilaterally or pursuant to treaty provisions. The exemption is calculated as a pro rata reduction of the amounts of tax computed on worldwide income. For the rules concerning the treatment of foreign permanent establishments see above under foreign source income. Other types of foreign income are normally fully taxable in the Netherlands but a credit for foreign tax may be granted under various tax treaties or, unilaterally, with respect to dividends, royalties and interest derived from certain developing countries.

D. CORPORATE GROUPS

Under certain conditions, a parent company may form a 'fiscal unity' with one or more 'wholly owned' (95%) Dutch subsidiaries. For the purpose of corporation tax, this means that all the companies in the fiscal unity are taxed as one. The main conditions are as follows:

- The parent company must own at least 95% of the shares of the Dutch subsidiary (95% of the voting rights and 95% of the profit rights);
- The parent company and the subsidiaries must have the same fiscal year;
- Creation and dissolution of the fiscal unity can take place at any moment within the year;
- A fiscal unity with a company which is established under the laws of a foreign country but having its place of effective management in The Netherlands is possible. A fiscal unity with a non-resident company carrying on a trade through a permanent establishment in The Netherlands is also possible;
- Following recent case law, the scope of the fiscal unity legislation has broadened. For example based on this case law it is now also possible to form a fiscal unity between Dutch sister companies owned by an EU/EEA parent or between a Dutch parent and its indirect Dutch subsidiary held via an EU/EEA intermediate company.

The main advantages of a fiscal unity are that the losses of one company can be set off against profits from another, that fixed assets can be transferred at book value from one company to another (subject to an anti-abuse provision) and that only one tax return has to be filed. Nevertheless, due to a conflict with EU law, as of 25 October 2017 new Dutch anti-abuse legislation has been announced which effectively disregards the Dutch fiscal unity when applying other Dutch corporate tax anti-abuse legislation.

E. RELATED PARTY TRANSACTIONS

Transactions between related parties that are not concluded at arm's length basis may be disregarded or may be adjusted appropriately for Dutch tax purposes. As of 1 January 2016 The Netherlands implemented supplementary transfer pricing documentation requirements in line with the OECD's BEPS Action Plan 13. In line with this the Netherlands implemented the standardised three-tiered approach for transfer pricing documentation consisting of the Country-by-Country report (group turnover in excess of EUR 750 million), the Master File and the Local File (group turnover in excess of EUR 50 million) and non-standardised transfer pricing documentation (group turnover below EUR 50 million). The requirements are applicable for fiscal years starting on or after 1 January 2016. The Netherlands also accepts documentation drawn up in English.

F. WITHHOLDING TAX

The Netherlands does not levy withholding tax on interest or royalties only on dividends. Dividends paid to residents or non-residents are subject to a 15% withholding tax. For non-residents the withholding tax may be reduced under a tax treaty. It is proposed to introduce a conditional withholding tax of 20.5% on interest and royalties paid to certain low tax jurisdictions on 1 January 2021.

No withholding tax on dividends will be imposed if the recipient of the dividend is a tax resident in a tax treaty country, unless anti-abuse legislation is applicable. In principle, the anti-abuse legislation covers situations in which a recipient of the Dutch dividend is interposed to lower or prevent Dutch dividend withholding tax which would have been levied if another recipient would have received the dividend. Even if the anti-abuse legislation is applicable, the Dutch dividend withholding taxation is still limited by the EU Parent Subsidiary Directive and by double tax treaties.

G. EXCHANGE CONTROL

There are no exchange controls currently in force in The Netherlands.

H. PERSONAL TAX

Individuals resident in The Netherlands are subject to personal income tax on their worldwide income. Foreign taxes on foreign-sourced income are normally relieved, either under double tax treaties or under Dutch unilateral rules. Non-residents are liable for personal income tax only on income derived from a limited number of Dutch domestic sources such as income received for duties performed within The Netherlands and income from Dutch real estate. The residence of an individual is determined by actual circumstances. One of the most relevant considerations is whether the individual has his most permanent personal and/or economic ties with The Netherlands.

Income tax is a tax on the annual income of individuals which is levied at progressive rates. Personal circumstances are, however, taken into account and certain expenses are deductible. There is a personal allowance (by tax credits) dependent on individual circumstances. The Netherlands has a system of personal income tax known as the 'box system' which works as follows:

- There are three boxes of income each with its own tax rate, one of which is progressive (Box 1) and two of which are fixed (Boxes 2 and 3);
- If the income in a box is negative, it cannot be offset against positive income in another box;
- There is only one exemption to this rule. In very special circumstances, losses of Box 2 can be offset against positive income of Box 1.

The boxes are:

- Box 1: Taxable income from work and home (the main residence only);
- Box 2: Taxable income from substantial interests in companies (usually BV or NV);
- Box 3: Income from savings and investment.

Box 1: The taxable income which will be taxed in Box 1 includes business income, income from employment or former employment (pension), income derived from certain periodic payments, income from other activities and income from a person's main home. This income is reduced by a number of deductible items which, broadly speaking, are associated with this income. An important one is the interest paid on a mortgage for a main home. The interest on mortgage loans entered into as of 2013 will only be tax deductible if the loan is fully repaid within 30 years at least on an annuity basis. Loans entered into before 1 January 2013 will be grandfathered. The tax rates in Box 1 for 2019 are:

Taxable income (EUR)	Under AOW-age ¹	Above AOW-age
0 – 20,384	36.65% ²	18.75% ⁴
20,385 – 34,300	38.10% ³	20.20% ⁵
34,301 – 68,507	38.10%	38.10%
Over 68,507	51.75%	51.75%

Notes:

1. Pension age according to the General Old Age Pensions Act.
2. Comprises income tax of 9.00% and 27.65% social security contributions.
3. Comprises income tax of 10.45% and 27.65% social security contributions.
4. Comprises income tax of 9.00% and 9.75% social security contributions.
5. Comprises income tax of 10.45% and 9.75% social security contributions.

If an individual leases a property to a BV (or NV) in which he or she has a substantial interest (see hereinafter), the resulting income and capital gains on that property are also taxed in Box 1.

One of the specific rules of the Dutch tax system is that interest paid on a mortgage to finance the main residence (only one per tax resident) is tax deductible. There are some specific rules which, in some cases, prevent full tax deductibility of the interest paid on mortgage. Other personal allowances are, for instance, pension premiums.

Box 2: The income from substantial interests is classified in this box. An individual who holds 5% or more of the shares (or profit-sharing certificates) of a private company with limited liability (BV) or a company limited by shares (NV) is considered to have a substantial interest. To determine whether an individual has a substantial interest, the shares of his partner, relatives or relatives by marriage are taken into consideration as well. Not only is income on the shares but also profits from the sale of such shares taxed in Box 2. The tax rate is 25%.

Box 3: Income from savings and investments is taxed in this box and applies to both residents and non-residents. This box includes assets like investment portfolios, saving accounts and real estate (except the main residence which is classified in Box 1). Income from assets in this box is fixed at 4% of the total net value (assets minus liabilities) at 1 January of the fiscal year. Until 2016 this fixed income is taxed at a fixed rate of 30%, so the effective rate in Box 3 is 1.2% of the net equity (assets minus liabilities). Actual dividends, interests and rental income are not taxed separately. Withholding taxes on dividends on shares taken into account in Box 3 are credited against the total income tax due.

Effective as from 1 January 2017 a new system of levying taxes in box 3 was introduced. In short box 3 now will have three brackets with different effective rates, based on a fixed income. The rates will be set at the beginning of every tax year. The fixed tax rate remains 30%. See the next table:

Bracket	Box III equity (EUR)	Fixed Income	Effective Box III Tax Rate
1	30,000 - 101,650*	1.935%	0.5805%
2	101,651 - 1,019,736	4.451%	1.3353%
3	1,019,737 or more	5.60%	1.68%

*A tax free amount of EUR 30,000 is taken into consideration in this bracket.

There are no local income taxes. A withholding tax (called 'wage tax') is levied on employment income. The rate of the wage tax equals the Box 1 personal income tax.

THE 30% RULING

In The Netherlands there are special conditions for certain foreign employees who work for an employer who is obliged to withhold Dutch wage tax for a maximum of eight years. They can obtain a 30% tax free allowance for extra territorial costs provided they have a special knowledge or capability which is not, or is rarely, available on the Dutch domestic job market. As of 2012 the "specific knowledge" criterion in principle is fulfilled if a minimum salary requirement is met. Some other restrictions have been introduced, such that the 30% ruling no longer applies for people living in a radius of 150 km from the Dutch borders. (In February 2015 the EU Court of Justice ruled that the 150 km requirement in the 30% ruling in principle is not against the freedom of movement within the EU.)

SHORT STAY IN THE NETHERLANDS

Based on a resolution of 12 January 2010 of the Secretary of Finance for employees who work within a worldwide group and are sent to The Netherlands for less than 60 days over a 12 month period, no Dutch taxes are levied under certain conditions.

INHERITANCE TAX

An inheritance and gift tax applies in the Netherlands. In general, these taxes are payable by the person receiving a gift (from a Dutch resident) or an inheritance (from a person who lived in the Netherlands at the date of death). The rates are the same for both taxes and depend on the value of what is received and the degree of the relationship. There is a minimum rate of 10% and a maximum rate of 40%.

There are several exemptions for both gift tax and inheritance tax depending on the circumstances.

A special exemption applies to the transfer of business assets due to inheritance or gift. This exemption applies to the total value of the business assets up to EUR 1,084,851 (2019), and 83% of the value exceeding EUR 1,071,987. The exemption applies per business, not per beneficiary.

I. TREATY AND NON-TREATY WITHHOLDING TAX RATES

The Netherlands does not levy withholding taxes on interest, royalties and rentals nor on personal services. The Netherlands only levies withholding taxes on (payments that qualify as) dividends.

Notes:

1. A final dividend withholding tax is levied on dividends, liquidation proceeds and other profit distributions, whether in cash or in kind, paid by resident companies to non-resident shareholders. The rate is 15%, unless a reduced rate applies under a tax treaty.
2. Under the domestic law implementing the provisions of the EU Parent-Subsidiary Directive, dividends, liquidation proceeds and other profit distributions paid by resident companies to their EU parent companies are exempt from dividend withholding tax. For this exemption, it is required that the EU parent is subject to corporate income tax in its state of residence and owns at least 10% of the capital (or 10% of the voting rights under tax treaties where this criterion is used, i.e. the treaties with Germany, Ireland, Italy and the United Kingdom) of the Netherlands subsidiary. The foreign parent may not be a transparent entity and may not have a function comparable with a Netherlands taxable or exempt investment institution.
3. There is no domestic withholding tax on interest, except for interest on participation loans, which are subject to a 15% withholding tax.
4. There is no domestic withholding tax on royalties.

KEY TAX POINTS

- Income tax is payable by resident individuals on their worldwide income. Non-resident individuals pay tax on New Zealand-sourced income only.
- Income tax is payable by New Zealand resident companies on income derived from all sources. Non-resident companies pay tax on income sourced in New Zealand.
- There is currently no comprehensive capital gains tax legislated, but this may change over the next 18 months. However, where a capital asset is bought for the clear purposes of resale, any profits or gains are regarded as ordinary income. There are also specific income tax provisions in relation to certain land transactions that are similar to a capital gains tax.
- A value added tax called goods and services tax (GST) is levied on the supply of goods and services in New Zealand at a rate of 15%.
- There is a controlled foreign company (CFC) regime, a foreign investment fund (FIF) regime, and there are transfer pricing and thin capitalisation rules.
- Credits are available in New Zealand for the lesser of foreign tax paid or New Zealand tax payable on foreign income, regardless of whether a Double Taxation Agreement (DTA) is in place provided they are of the same nature as income tax. The credits may be subject to limits imposed by DTAs.
- Where there is at least 66% common ownership, revenue losses can be transferred between New Zealand tax resident companies. Where there is 100% common ownership between New Zealand tax resident companies, dividends between companies can be exempt, consolidated returns can be lodged and revenue and capital items can be transferred. Company losses can be carried forward indefinitely so long as the same shareholders hold more than 49% of the shares from the date of the losses are incurred until they are utilised.
- A look through company (LTC) regime exists whereby small closely held companies who elect to become an LTC must pass losses (or profits) directly to shareholders. LTC losses are unable to be carried forward. A foreign company cannot be a LTC. Non-resident shareholders can hold shares in a LTC. However, if a non-resident holds more than 50% of the shares any foreign-sourced income must not exceed the greater of NZD 10,000 or 20% of the LTC's gross income for the year.
- Dividends, interest and royalties paid to non-residents are subject to non-resident withholding tax (NRWT) at varying rates.

A. TAXES PAYABLE

COMPANY TAX

Income tax is payable by New Zealand resident companies on non-exempt income derived from all sources. Non-resident companies are required to pay tax on income sourced in New Zealand. Resident companies are companies that are incorporated in New Zealand, or have their head office or centre of management in New Zealand, or control of the company is exercised by directors in New Zealand. The tax year usually runs from 1 April to 31 March, although different balance dates are available in certain circumstances (one example is to align with an overseas parent's balance date). Tax is payable in instalments (referred to as 'provisional tax') if a company's residual income tax (total tax less available credits) exceeds NZD 2,500 per annum.

Income tax returns must be filed with the Inland Revenue Department within four months of the balance date or by 31 March of the following year where the company is enrolled with a tax practitioner that has an extension of time arrangement. The tax rate for companies is 28%. Tax paid is added to an "Imputation Credit Account" (ICA) and is available to shareholders as a tax credit in New Zealand when dividends are "imputed".

PARTNERSHIPS

General partnerships are not separate legal entities. This means that they have no existence separate from the individual partners that comprise them. Limited partnerships have both separate legal status and flow through tax treatment.

TRUSTS

Taxation of trusts is complex and based on the tax residence of the settlor. In general terms, distributions to beneficiaries of resident trusts are taxed at beneficiaries' marginal tax rates, provided that distributions are made in the income year or within a defined period after the end of the income year (maximum 12 months). In contrast, distributions made to New Zealand tax resident beneficiaries of foreign trusts are classified as 'taxable distributions' unless they are made from trust corpus or unrelated party capital gains. Taxable distributions are taxed at beneficiaries' marginal tax rates regardless of the distribution date. Trustee income is taxed at the flat rate of 33%. The trust regime does not apply to unit trusts. Unit trusts are deemed to be companies and are taxed accordingly. Foreign trusts (no resident settlor) are not taxed on foreign sourced income but can be subject to tax at a penal rate of 45% on both revenue and capital distributions in certain circumstances. There are also additional disclosure requirements.

CAPITAL GAINS TAX

There is currently no comprehensive capital gains tax legislated in New Zealand, but this may change over the next 18 months. However, where a capital asset is bought for the clear purpose of resale, any profits or gains will be regarded as ordinary income.

There are special tax rules that apply to the taxation of land (including buildings fixed to the land). The rules tax not only land bought with the intention of resale but certain land that is developed/subdivided, land sold by entities in the business of dealing, developing or building. Land sold by associates of the entities in business will also be taxable if sold within 10 years of either acquisition or building completion in the case of builders. Land where more than 20% of the profit is attributable to a rezoning will be taxable if the sale occurs within 2 years. There are certain exemptions.

Any profit on the sale of residential land purchased after 1 October 2015 and sold within 5 years of acquisition will be taxable. There is an exemption for a person's "main home". There are strict disclosure rules that must be completed before a sale can be completed. Certain sales made by non-tax residents will be subject to withholding tax.

BRANCH PROFITS TAX

There is no branch profits tax in New Zealand. New Zealand branches of foreign companies are taxed on New Zealand-sourced income only at the corporate tax rate.

SALES TAX / GST (VALUE ADDED TAX)

There is no sales tax in New Zealand, although there are levies on sales of certain products such as alcohol, tobacco and fuel. A value added tax called Goods and Services Tax (GST) is levied at 15% on the supply of goods and services in New Zealand. There are various exceptions including exported goods and services which are charged at 0%. Most land and buildings transactions are also zero rated as are the sale of businesses as a going concern between GST registered parties. A non-tax resident business that has a "taxable activity" in New Zealand and makes "taxable supplies" exceeding NZD 60,000 (registration threshold) must register for GST. A non-resident business may be able to register for GST in New Zealand even if it does not have a taxable activity in New Zealand. This will enable them to claim back New Zealand GST paid on purchases. The entity must have an activity in its own country that is similar to a "taxable activity" as defined in the New Zealand GST legislation.

From 1 October 2016 new rules apply GST to cross-border "remote services" supplied by non-New Zealand resident suppliers (including e-books, music, videos and software purchased from offshore websites) to New Zealand-resident consumers, by requiring the offshore supplier to register and return GST on these supplies if they exceed the registration threshold.

Supplies of remote services by non-resident suppliers to New Zealand GST-registered recipients for their taxable activity are treated as being supplied outside New Zealand and therefore not subject to GST, unless the supplier chooses otherwise. Where the supplier chooses to treat the supply as made in New Zealand, the supply is zero-rated. The non-resident supplier is then able to claim back any New Zealand GST costs incurred in making the zero-rated supplies. Note that supplies of remote services to a non-registered person resident (consumers) in New Zealand cannot be zero-rated and 15% GST will apply if the supplier is registered for GST (this will be compulsory if the zero rated supplies and supplies to consumers exceed NZD 60,000).

FRINGE BENEFITS TAX (FBT)

FBT is payable by employers on benefits provided to employees. The rate is up to 49.25% of the taxable value of the benefit provided. The FBT year runs from 1 April to 31 March. FBT is payable and returns must generally be filed by the 20th day of the month following the quarters ending 30 June, 30 September, 31 December and 31 March.

KIWISAVER

KiwiSaver is a workplace savings scheme designed to help New Zealanders save for their retirement. It is primarily aimed at employees but all New Zealand residents may join a KiwiSaver scheme. All eligible employees starting a new job are automatically enrolled in a KiwiSaver scheme and must opt out if they do not want to be part of the scheme. Employees contribute either 3%, 4%, 6%, 8% or 10% of their gross earnings. Employers are required to contribute to their employee's KiwiSaver account at the minimum of 3% of the employee's gross salary or wage.

New Zealand

OTHER TAXES GIFT DUTY

The gift duty regime was abolished with effect from 1 October 2011. Prior to this, gift duty applied at graduated rates to transfers of property for less than market value, unless a specific gift duty exemption applied.

ESTATE DUTY

New Zealand no longer has any assets tax imposed on death nor on inheritance.

LAND TAX

New Zealand does not impose a land tax, although local authorities impose "rates" to pay for their services.

STAMP DUTY

New Zealand does not impose stamp duty on the transfer of property.

B. DETERMINATION OF TAXABLE INCOME

Taxable income is determined by ascertaining gross income less all allowable deductions. Generally, to be deductible, expenses and losses must relate directly to the derivation of gross income. Certain expenditure is specifically non-deductible and special rules apply in respect of the categories listed below.

DEPRECIATION

Depreciation rates are set by the Inland Revenue. Application can be made for a special rate. Straight-line or diminishing-value depreciation methods can be used for each particular asset. Assets acquired on or after 19 May 2005 and which cost less than NZD 500 can be expensed immediately. From the 2012 income year no depreciation allowance is available for buildings having a useful life of more than 50 years (as determined by IRD) when first built.

RESEARCH AND DEVELOPMENT (R&D) TAX DEDUCTIONS

Taxpayers are allowed to allocate certain R&D tax deductions to tax years arising after the year in which the related expenditure is incurred. This means that deductions will not be lost if there is a shareholding change (that breaches the 49% continuity period) between when the expenditure is incurred and when the deduction is recognised by the taxpayer.

From 1 April 2015 a new tax credit regime was introduced for innovative start-ups to enable them to "cash out" an amount of their tax losses arising from qualifying R&D expenditure. Instead of carrying the tax loss forward to apply against future assessable income, the company receives a refundable tax credit. To qualify a company must be resident in New Zealand (and not be treated as non-resident under a double tax agreement). Companies that eventually earn assessable income or make a successful return on their investment through a non-taxable capital gain will have their cashed-out losses reinstated as losses to carry forward by repaying the value of the cashed-out loss out of the gain made. The regime specifically defines the qualifying R&D and there are a number of eligibility requirements that must be met.

STOCK / INVENTORY

Trading stock is generally valued in accordance with accounting principles. Livestock is valued under specified schemes.

CAPITAL GAINS AND LOSSES

Capital gains and losses on disposal of assets are neither assessable nor deductible at this point in time. The disposal of depreciable assets will involve tax adjustments where there is a loss on sale or depreciation recovered.

DIVIDENDS

Generally, dividends received by resident companies from other resident companies are taxable. Dividends can be imputed by attaching credits arising from tax paid by the company. The maximum rate at which imputation credits can be attached to dividends will be 28% of the gross dividend (cash dividend plus imputation credits).

Provided these dividends are fully imputed (28%) there is no longer a 5% resident withholding tax required.

A credit for overseas tax paid by a company is limited to the NZ tax payable (28%). Foreign dividends received by NZ companies are wholly exempt. Tax on dividends received from entities with Portfolio Investor Entity (PIE) status are capped at 28% and are exempt income to the recipient if tax has been deducted at the correct rate.

INTEREST DEDUCTIONS

No interest deduction is allowed unless it is payable in deriving gross income or necessarily payable in carrying on a business for the purpose of deriving gross income. Companies (except in limited circumstances) are entitled to automatic interest deductions. Thin capitalisation rules limit the interest deduction available to New Zealand entities controlled by a single non-resident. Transfer pricing rules also apply to the rate of interest.

LOSSES

Broadly, a company can carry forward net losses indefinitely provided a continuity of ownership (49% of minimum voting, dividend and capital rights) is maintained from the beginning of the year of the net loss, to the end of the year of carry forward.

INVESTMENT ALLOWANCES

There are no investment allowances in New Zealand.

CONTROLLED FOREIGN COMPANIES

New Zealand operates a controlled foreign companies' (CFC) regime to ensure that foreign-sourced income is included in the New Zealand resident's tax return. CFCs with less than 5% attributable income (e.g. passive income such as rent, royalties, dividends and interest) or CFCs that are Australian resident and subject to Australian tax are not required to calculate CFC attributed income.

Broadly a foreign company will be regarded as a CFC where five or fewer New Zealand residents hold at least a 50% interest or have 'de facto' control.

FOREIGN INVESTMENT FUNDS

The Foreign Investment Fund regime complements the CFC regime and seeks to tax New Zealand residents on an accrual basis where the resident holds a non-controlling interest in a foreign entity.

C. FOREIGN TAX RELIEF

Credits are generally available for the lesser of the foreign tax paid or the New Zealand tax payable on the foreign income. N

D. CORPORATE GROUPS

Where there is 66% (or greater) common ownership, tax losses can be transferred by New Zealand resident companies by way of subvention payments (where a profitable company makes a payment to a loss company up to the amount of that loss) or direct offset. Dividends between New Zealand resident companies with 100% common ownership (a wholly owned group) are exempt. Where there is 100% common ownership of New Zealand resident companies, consolidated tax returns can be lodged, and revenue and capital items transferred within the group.

LOOK-THROUGH COMPANY

A look-through company has separate legal personality for corporate law purposes but shareholders are taxed on the underlying profit and loss based on their proportionate share of interests held at the applicable marginal tax rate for that entity.

E. RELATED PARTY TRANSACTIONS

New Zealand has comprehensive transfer pricing and thin capitalisation rules to counter arrangements that seek to reduce the taxable income of New Zealand entities by shifting profits to related entities not resident in New Zealand.

F. WITHHOLDING TAXES

A 33% withholding tax is required to be deducted from dividends with a credit for imputation credits attached (subject to the exceptions referred to under 'Dividends' above). Withholding tax is also deducted from interest with limited exemptions. Dividend, interest and royalty payments made to non-residents are subject to non-resident withholding tax (NRWT). The NRWT rate depends on whether the non-resident is a taxpayer of a country which has a double tax agreement with New Zealand. (Please refer to Section I below).

NRWT (Non-Resident Withholding Tax) payable on a fully imputed dividend paid to a non-resident is 0% if the non-resident has a 10% or more direct voting interest in the paying company; or the non-resident has less than a 10% direct voting interest in the company but the post-treaty tax rate for the dividend is less than 15%. Non-resident shareholders with less than 10% direct voting interests in the paying company are able to receive a supplementary dividend and foreign investor tax credit with imputed dividends. The foreign investor tax credit offsets the 15% non-resident withholding tax deducted.

Withholding tax is also deductible from payments made to non-resident contractors, with exemptions available in certain circumstances. Where interest is paid to non-associated parties resident overseas, a 2% approved issuer levy (AIL) can apply on election instead of NRWT.

G. EXCHANGE CONTROL

There are no exchange controls in New Zealand. While foreign investment into New Zealand is encouraged, sensitive assets are protected by the Overseas Investment Act 2005. Consent must be obtained from the Overseas Investments Office for the acquisition of most land, fishing quotas and significant business assets (exceeding NZD 100 million).

H. PERSONAL TAX

Income tax is payable by New Zealand residents on their worldwide income. Non-resident individuals pay tax on New Zealand-sourced income only. An individual is resident in New Zealand if personally present for more than 183 days in any 12-month period or if the individual has a 'permanent place of abode' in New Zealand. Individuals arriving to live in New Zealand may qualify for a temporary tax exemption on foreign income as a transitional resident. All foreign-sourced income will be exempt, except for employment income connected with employment performed while resident in New Zealand and income from services. The exemption applies to the first 48 months (four years) following arrival in New Zealand. To qualify, an individual cannot have been tax-resident in New Zealand during the previous ten years.

Income tax is payable on gross income less any allowable deductions. Gross income includes employment income, business income, rents, interest and dividends. Employment income (salary/wages) has tax payments (PAYE) deducted from each salary/wage payment by the employer. Self-employed individuals and those receiving income with no tax deducted at source pay provisional tax in instalments based on their previous year's taxable income. The income tax rates for individuals are as follows:

Taxable Income (NZD)	Rate of Tax
0 - 14,000	10.5%
14,001 - 48,000	17.5%
48,001 - 70,000	30%
70,001 and over	33%

ACCIDENT COMPENSATION (ACC) LEVIES

All employees must pay an ACC earner's levy to cover the cost of non-work related injuries. Earner's levy is charged at a flat rate which may vary for each year. For employees, the levies are collected by the employer and paid to the Inland Revenue Department as part of the PAYE payments. Employers are liable to pay a residual claims levy. Self-employed persons pay a self-employed work levy and the earner levy. The residual claims levy rate is determined by the type of activity carried on by the self-employed person.

The 0% rate applies if the beneficial owner is a company that is a New Zealand resident that has owned, directly or indirectly through one or more residents of either Contracting State, shares representing 80% or more of the voting power of the paying company for a 12 month period ending on the date the dividend is declared and the New Zealand beneficial owner (i) is a publicly traded company, or (ii) is owned directly or indirectly by one or more such publicly traded companies or by companies which would qualify for treaty benefits in respect of the dividends if they had direct shareholding in the dividend-paying company, or (iii) has received a determination of entitlement to the treaty benefits. The 0% rate also applies if the New Zealand beneficial owner of the dividends holds directly no more than 10% of the voting power of the Australian company paying the dividends, and the beneficial owner is the New Zealand State, or political subdivision or a local authority thereof (including a government investment fund).
3. The 5% rate applies if the beneficial owner is a company that holds directly at least 10% of the voting power in the paying company.

The 0% rate applies to dividends paid to a company owning directly or indirectly at least 50% of the voting power of the paying company and which meets specified requirements (listing, eligibility for treaty benefits, etc.). The 0% rate also applies if dividends are paid to, among others, the New Zealand Government or the Central Bank.
5. The 0% rate applies if the beneficial owner of the dividends is a resident of New Zealand and is a company that has owned directly or indirectly, for the period of 6 months ending on the date on which entitlement to the dividends is determined, at least 10% of the voting power of the company paying the dividends and the company that is the beneficial owner of the dividends (i) is a listed and publicly traded company (ii) has at least 50% of its voting power in the aggregate owned directly or indirectly by 5 or fewer companies referred to in (i) and (iii) the requirements of a limitation on benefits clause must be met.
6. The treaty rate is 15%. However, under the application of a most favoured nation clause based on the Australia-New Zealand treaty, a 5% rate applies if the beneficial owner of the dividends is a company which holds directly at least 10% of the voting power in the company paying the dividends. A 0% rate applies if the beneficial owner is a company that is a New Zealand resident that has owned, directly or indirectly through one or more residents of either Contracting State, shares representing 80% or more of the voting power of the paying company for a 12 month period ending on the date the dividend is declared and the New Zealand beneficial owner (i) is a publicly traded company, or (ii) is owned directly or indirectly by one or more such publicly traded companies or by companies which would qualify for treaty benefits in respect of the dividends if they had direct shareholding in the dividend-paying company, or (iii) has received a determination of entitlement to the treaty benefits (cf. the 0% rate under footnote 1).

A. TAXES PAYABLE

COMPANY TAX

The main Nicaraguan taxes are:

- 1) Income tax.
- 2) Value Added Tax (VAT).
- 3) Consumption selective tax.

A company is resident in Nicaragua if it is incorporated or domiciled in the country or has its place of effective management in Nicaragua. Nicaragua has introduced the concept of a permanent establishment (PE), under which a PE may be treated as a resident for tax purposes.

The general income tax rate is 30% or a definitive minimum tax of 1% on gross income obtained during the fiscal year, whichever is higher. Income earned by non-resident individuals from Nicaraguan sources is generally subject to 15% final withholding tax. Calculation of taxable income depends on the classification of the income.

Territoriality principle:

The income tax system is based on the territoriality principle. Companies are subject to income tax only on their Nicaraguan-source income. Nicaraguan-sourced income comprises:

- income from property located in Nicaragua;
- income from services supplied to Nicaraguan residents (including services provided by persons not physically present in Nicaragua);
- income from assets or rights and any other type of passive income in Nicaraguan territory; and
- income from businesses activities carried out in Nicaragua, regardless of where that income is received.

Tax period:

The tax year generally runs from 1 January to 31 December of each year, although a taxpayer may request permission to adopt one of the following tax periods: April-March or October-September. The tax return must be filed within 3 months after the company's year-end.

Classification of income

- Income or taxable gross income. Taxable income is defined as gross income, less costs and expenses allowed by Nicaraguan legislation. Taxable income includes labour income, income from economic activities and capital income and capital gains (or losses). Certain income is exempt.
- Non-taxable income or gross income (not constitutive of income).

CAPITAL GAINS TAX

A withholding tax rate of 10% is levied on capital gains realised by non-resident individuals through selling real estate property located in Nicaragua.

BRANCH PROFITS TAX

Branches of foreign companies are taxed in the same manner as subsidiaries. There is no branch remittance tax.

VALUE ADDED TAX (VAT)

VAT is an indirect tax levied for acts performed on Nicaraguan territory on the following activities:

- The sale of goods, provision of services, or use or enjoyment of property, the payment shall be made monthly to the tax administration within the fifteen (15) days to the taxable period, or in smaller instalments;
- The import or admission of goods or merchandise, in the Declaration or customs form of import, prior to removal of the goods or merchandise of the enclosure or customs warehousing; and
- The disposal back on imports or internment of goods or goods with customs exemption.

Filing and payment

The VAT return must be filed in the month following the tax period and any VAT due must be paid at that time. Taxpayers falling within the scope of the large taxpayer regime must submit a VAT return every 15 days.

Taxable persons:

Taxable persons are individuals, legal entities and any economic unit that performs taxable transactions, including the state, autonomous regions, national institutions and municipalities.

Tax-exempt persons include: universities and centres for superior technical education, central government and its municipalities, the army and national police forces, members of diplomatic or consular posts of foreign nations (under reciprocity treatment), as well as international organisations and missions, churches and religious foundations, and entities declared exempt from tax by the Constitution. Tax exemptions are also granted by specific laws in respect of certain activities (e.g. tourism, exports and free zones).

E. RELATED PARTY TRANSACTIONS

Transfer pricing provisions have come into effect on 30 June 2017 (enacted by Law No. 822).

The transfer pricing rules apply to transactions conducted between an individual or legal entity domiciled or resident in Nicaragua and its related entities resident abroad and entities operating under a special tax regime.

The TP rules: (1) include the arm's-length principle and related-party definition; (2) regulate the criteria that taxpayers must follow to perform a comparability analysis; and (3) establish the transfer pricing methods to apply when assessing the arm's-length principle. The tax authorities are authorised to adjust prices when taxpayers do not comply with the arm's-length principle.

A. TAXES PAYABLE

COMPANY TAX

Niger operates a territorial tax system. Profits generated by companies established in Niger are subject to corporate income tax on commercial, non-commercial and other profitable activities. Where a company carries on business activities both in Niger and abroad, the profits realised have to be calculated separately to determine the portion of profits that would be subject to tax in Niger.

The standard corporate income tax rate is 30%.

Natural or legal persons subject to tax on the basis of actual profits (régime réel) are liable for a minimum tax lump-sum. The minimum flat tax is assessed annually on the realised turnover (exclusive of VAT) during the last accounting year. The rates are as follows:

- 1% for industrial companies;
- 1.50% for other activities;
- 3% for companies for which the minimum tax is calculated on the gross margin (other than independent marketers and promoters of the hydrocarbon sector).

For independent marketers and promoters of the hydrocarbon sector, the minimum tax is determined on the gross margin according to the following scale:

Turnover in FCFA	Rate applicable on the gross margin
0 – 5 billion	8%
5 billion – 10 billion	7%
10 billion – 20 billion	6%
Over 20 billion	5%

CAPITAL GAINS TAX

There is no branch profits tax in Niger.

VALUE ADDED TAX (VAT)

VAT is levied at each stage of the production and distribution process. It is payable on transactions carried out in Niger either on a regular or occasional basis by persons who purchase goods for resale or who carry out activities other than employment or agricultural activities, including the rendering of services.

VAT is levied at a standard rate of 19%. A 5% reduced rate is applicable as from 1 January 2018 to the import and domestic sale of sugar, cooking oil, animal feed, processed milk, maize, millet, sorghum, rice, wheat and computer equipment, excluding consumables, for technical and vocational educational establishments.

B. DETERMINATION OF TAXABLE INCOME

DISALLOWED EXPENSES

Non-deductible costs and expenses include fines and all sorts of penalties imposed for violating regulations governing pricing, supplies and the distribution of certain products, entry and exit, as well as for failure to pay taxes and other levies within the prescribed deadlines.

DEPRECIATION

The most common method of depreciation is the straight-line method. Depreciation and amortisation rules for corporate income tax purposes generally follow the accounting rules with few exceptions.

Vehicles	25
Industrial buildings	5
Office furniture	10
Computer hardware and software	50
Industrial equipment and tools	10
Set-up costs	20

- The amount of loans may not exceed twice the amount of equity (debt-to-equity ratio 2:1); and
- The interest rate may not exceed more than 3 percentage points the interest rate provided by the BCEAO (Central Bank of West African States).

LOSSES

Losses may generally be carried forward for up to 3 years.

E. PERSONAL TAX

Tax on wages and salaries is levied according to a progressive scale as follows, with effect from 1 January 2010.

KEY TAX POINTS

- All companies operating in Nigeria outside the oil and gas sector of the economy are required to pay income and education tax. The rate is 30% of total profit for income tax and 2% of assessable profit for education tax.
- VAT is imposed on non-exempt supplies of goods and services within Nigeria as well as on goods imported. Export goods are non-taxable. The standard rate is 5%.
- Certain payments to domestic companies and individuals and non-resident companies/investors are subject to withholding tax at a rate ranging between 2.5% and 10%.
- A resident person is assessable to tax on his global income, i.e. income accruing in, derived from, brought into or received in Nigeria. Non-resident persons pay tax on the portion of their income sourced in Nigeria.

A. TAXES PAYABLE

COMPANY TAX

All companies operating in Nigeria outside the oil and gas sector of the economy are required to pay income and education tax. The rate is 30% of total profit for income tax and 2% of assessable profit for education tax. Total profit is profit after deducting previous year losses carried forward and capital allowances. Assessable profit is obtained prior to deducting capital allowances. A lower income tax rate of 20% is applicable to a Nigerian company that is engaged in manufacturing or agricultural production, mining of solid minerals or wholly export trade, within the first five years of operation, and where the turnover does not exceed NGN 1 million.

Resident companies pay tax on their worldwide income. Non-resident companies are taxed on the proportion of their income earned in Nigeria. Companies are deemed to be resident companies if they are registered or incorporated in Nigeria. The fiscal year runs from 1 January to 31 December. A company can choose any date for its accounting year-end but must file returns not later than six months after its accounting year-end. Tax can be paid in a maximum of six equal monthly instalments if a taxpayer files self-assessment and applies for payment in instalments.

Minimum tax is payable where a company has no taxable profit or the tax payable is less than the minimum tax calculated as the highest of:

- 0.5% of gross profit;
- 0.5% of net assets;
- 0.25% of paid-up share capital;

Nigeria

- 0.25% of turnover up to NGN 500,000;

Plus:

- 0.125% of turnover in excess of NGN 500,000.

Exemption from Minimum tax: a company would not be liable for minimum tax if it meets any of the following conditions:

- It carries on agricultural trade or business;
- It has at least 25% imported equity capital;
- It is still within its first four calendar years of operations.

PETROLEUM PROFIT TAX

Companies in the oil and gas sector are regulated by separate tax laws. Tax rates are different for resident companies in the upstream sector of the oil and gas industry. The rates range from 50% for some of the new production sharing contracts to 65.75% for others in the first five years, during which all pre-operation expenses are expected to be fully amortised, and 85% of their chargeable profits thereafter. The tax rate in the downstream sector is 30%.

Chargeable profit is profit of the company after deducting allowances. Petroleum companies are required to file their returns of estimated tax within two months into a new accounting year and commence payment of the tax in 12 monthly instalments pending determination of the result of their operations at the close of the year. Both estimated and final taxes are computed in US dollars and payment made in US dollars in accordance with returns filed.

CAPITAL GAINS TAX

Capital gains and losses are treated differently from regular business transactions of individuals, partnerships and companies in Nigeria. Gains arising from the disposal of assets are taxed at a rate of 10%. Taxable assets include land and building situated in Nigeria, as well as plant and machinery. Corporate securities are exempted from Capital Gains Tax.

Inflation is rarely taken into account in determining capital gains. Payment of capital gains tax can be postponed if the proceeds on disposal of an asset are reinvested in acquiring similar assets. Capital losses cannot be charged against normal trading income but can be carried forward to offset against future capital gains tax from the same source.

BRANCH PROFITS TAX

There is no branch profits tax in Nigeria. Non-Nigerian companies operating branches, which are exempted from local incorporation by the Federal Government, are treated as separate entities and taxed on income earned from their activities in Nigeria. Activities of non-Nigerian companies, which would attract tax in Nigeria and other special issues, are spelt out in the laws. Examples are turnkey projects, allocation of income and expenditure between the foreign company and its branch in Nigeria, transfer pricing, etc.

VALUE ADDED TAX (VAT)

VAT is imposed on non-exempt supplies of goods and services within Nigeria as well as on goods imported. Export goods are non-taxable. The standard rate is 5%. VAT is generally assessed by a taxable person who supplies taxable goods and services and payment is made when filing monthly returns. Transactions on basic food items produced within the country, books and educational materials, plant and machinery for use in Export Free Zone, agricultural equipment, and all medical and pharmaceuticals products and services, amongst others, are exempt from VAT.

OTHER TAXES

CUSTOMS AND EXCISE DUTY

Customs duties are levied on goods coming into the country at varying rates from 5% to 75% of the import value at each port of entry. Excise duties are payable on designated locally manufactured goods in the country.

STAMP DUTIES

A number of transactions attract stamp duties. These include incorporation of companies, increase in companies' authorised share capital, mortgage bonds, debenture and dealing in securities, settlement of estates and conveyance of property. Recently, the Central Bank of Nigeria directed that electronic transfers and teller deposits from NGN 1,000 and above paid into any current account shall be liable to NGN 50 stamp duty. This charge will apply to each eligible transaction and is payable by the receiving account.

LOCAL TAXES

States in Federation (there are now 36 states) have a variety of local taxes in their areas of jurisdiction. Local taxes include motor vehicles' licence/registration, consent fees for transfer of property in real estate, property tax, gaming/casino tax, water rates, etc. Local Councils impose charges and several other taxes.

B. DETERMINATION OF TAXABLE INCOME

Taxable profit of a company is determined by ascertaining its income on ordinary activities and subtracting all allowable deductions based on financial results of the preceding year. To be deductible, expenses must be of a revenue nature and incurred wholly, exclusively, necessarily and reasonably for earning the income reported. Donations to certain bodies are not allowable for tax purposes.

CAPITAL ALLOWANCES / DEPRECIATION

Capital allowances are granted to companies against taxable income in lieu of the wear and tear of business assets. Rates of capital allowances are highest (95%) for expenditure on replacement plant and machinery for mining, agricultural production, industrial plant and machinery, and motor vehicles used for public transportation. In addition, reconstruction investment allowance of 10% is available to companies in their first year of acquisition of plant and equipment and investment allowance at 15% for companies in gas utilisation. Companies and other organisations engaged in research and development activities also enjoy 20% investment tax credit on their qualifying expenditure for that purpose.

Other business assets such as factory buildings, furniture and fittings enjoy capital allowances at lower rates but generally at 50% initially and 25% annually in other cases.

STOCK / INVENTORY

Closing stocks have to be appropriately valued at the lower of cost or net realisable value. Accepted valuation methods are first-in-first-out (FIFO) and weighted average but last-in-first-out (LIFO) valuation is not acceptable. Valuation method once adopted must be consistently followed.

CAPITAL GAINS AND LOSSES

Capital gains and losses as discussed above are excluded from regular trading operation of a company and assessed separately under different tax laws.

DIVIDENDS

Dividends received by a Nigerian company from other domestic companies are excluded in the determination of taxable income to the extent that such distribution has suffered withholding tax in the hands of the recipient. Dividends paid to non-resident companies and investors attract withholding tax of 10%, which is the final tax, while dividends distributed by Unit Trusts and pioneer companies during the pioneer period are tax-exempt in the hands of recipients and withholding tax is not deductible for such dividend. The tax law requires any company that intends to declare an interim dividend in any financial year to pay tax at 30% of the profit from which dividend is to be paid before the payment of such dividend.

INTEREST

Interest paid on loans used for business operations are allowable for tax purposes. For a new business, such interest is capitalised prior to starting commercial production. Interest income received by lending institutions on loans to export oriented companies and agricultural businesses are granted tax exemptions depending on tenure and moratorium of the loans.

LOSSES

Normal business losses can be carried forward indefinitely except for insurance companies who can only carry forward losses for a maximum of four years.

TAX INCENTIVES: GOVERNMENT INCENTIVES TO INDUSTRY

5. ABOLITION OF EXCISE DUTY

In order to boost local industries, stimulate trade and reduce business costs, the Government decided that all excise duties be abolished with effect from 1 January 1998 but from 1 January 1999 excise duties were re-introduced on the following specific products:

The incentives set out in this section are in no way exhaustive and neither are the quantum nor percentage of relief mentioned fixed for all time. There is therefore the need to ascertain the current operative figures at the time of making investments.

C. CORPORATE GROUPS

There are no provisions for consolidation of accounts for group taxation in Nigeria.

D. RELATED PARTY AND ARTIFICIAL TRANSACTIONS

Related party transactions are required by the tax laws to be disclosed separately and the tax officials are given power to determine whether the transactions are at arm's length and the necessary adjustment to be made to make-up the liability. When a disposition is not, in fact, given effect to and the transaction is artificial or fictitious, the transaction may be set aside by the Revenue authorities.

In March 2012 the Tax authority published transfer pricing (TP) guidelines on "connected taxable person" which include various categories of entities, individuals, companies, partnerships, joint ventures, trusts or associations. This regulation shall apply to transactions between connected persons within and outside Nigeria carried on in a manner consistent with the arm's length principle and includes:

- (i) Transactions between a permanent establishment (PE) and its head office or other related branches. Branches are treated as separate entities;
- (ii) Sales and purchase of goods and services;
- (iii) Sales, purchase or lease of tangible assets;
- (iv) Transfer, purchase or use of intangible assets;
- (v) Provision of services;
- (vi) Lending or borrowing of money;

- (viii) Any other transaction which may affect profit and loss or any matter incidental to the foregoing.

For each tax year, a connected taxable person shall, without notice or demand, make a disclosure in the prescribed form (through a TP disclosure form) with details of transactions that are subject to this regulation. The TP disclosure form and other necessary document shall be filed along with the connected persons' annual income tax returns for each tax year.

On 21 January 2018, the FIRS announced the signing of the Income Tax (Country-by-Country reporting) Regulations 2018 (the CbCR Regulations) by the President. This follows from the ratification of the Multilateral Competent Authority Agreement on the Exchange of Country-by-Country Reports (CbCR MCAA) by Nigeria in January 2016 and the subsequent ratification by the Federal Executive Council in August 2016. The CbCR Regulations were signed to comply with the recommendations in the final report on Action 13 ("Transfer Pricing Documentation and Country-by-Country Reporting") of the OECD Base Erosion and Profit Shifting (BEPS) project which requires signatory countries to develop local rules regarding CbC reporting to enhance transparency in tax administration.

Under the CbCR Regulations, multinational enterprises (MNEs) are required to provide the FIRS with the necessary information on their global allocation of income, economic activities and taxes paid in countries where they have economic footprints.

The CbCR Regulations, once they will have been gazetted, will require MNEs headquartered in Nigeria with an annual turnover equal to or exceeding 750 million EUR (or the equivalent in NGN) to disclose information of their business activities to the FIRS on an annual basis. This information will automatically be available to other CbCR MCAA signatory countries. Similarly, the FIRS will have access to relevant global information of MNEs with subsidiaries in Nigeria.

E. EXCHANGE CONTROL

Exchange control regulations have been abolished in Nigeria. Under the new foreign exchange and investment promotion laws, a foreign investor is guaranteed unconditional transferability of funds through an authorised dealer in freely convertible currencies in respect of:

- Dividends or profit (net of taxes) attributable to the investment;
- Payment in respect of loan serving where a foreign loan has been obtained;
- The remittance of proceeds (net of all taxes) and other obligations in the event of a sale or liquidation of the enterprise or any interest attributable to the investment. Authorised dealers of foreign currencies need to notify the Central Bank of Nigeria of any cash transfer to or from a foreign country of any sum in excess of USD 10,000.

A tax clearance certificate must, however, be obtained by anyone wishing to remit dividend and interest funds outside the country.

F. WITHHOLDING TAXES

Certain payments to domestic companies and individuals and non-resident companies and investors are subject to withholding tax at the following rates:

	Corporate Bodies (%)	Individuals (%)
Dividends	10	10
Interest	10	10
Director Fees	10	10
Rent (including hire of equipment)	10	10
Royalties	10	5
All aspect of building, construction and related activities	5	5
All aspects of contract activities or agency arrangements including contracts for supply (excluding survey, design and deliveries)	5	5
Management services	10	5
Consultancy and professional fees	10	5
Technical services	10	5
Commissions	10	5

Withholding tax paid by a resident person and companies in Nigeria is payment on account of tax and can be used to offset part of personal and companies' income tax except in the case of dividend and interest (franked investment income) where withholding tax becomes a final tax. Withholding tax paid by non-resident individuals and companies is a final tax.

G. PERSONAL TAX

While the above outline applies mainly to companies, different tax rules and principles apply to individuals in employment, sole traders, partners in a partnership and trustees as outlined below. The concept of residence determines the extent to which the income of taxpayer is liable to Nigerian tax. A resident person is assessable to tax on his global income, i.e. income accruing in, derived from, brought into or received in Nigeria. An individual is regarded as resident in Nigeria in an assessment year if he/she:

- Is domiciled in Nigeria;

- (ii) Sojourns in Nigeria for a period or aggregate periods amounting to 183 days or more in a 12 month period; or,
- (iii) Serves as a diplomat or diplomatic agent of Nigeria in a country other than Nigeria.

The profit of a trade, profession or vocation is liable to tax in Nigeria regardless of the period such a trade, profession or vocation has been carried on. Income from employment, however, is liable for tax when a person becomes a resident. Non-resident persons pay tax on the portion of their income sourced in Nigeria. They become liable for tax from the day they begin to carry on a trade, business, profession or vocation in Nigeria. Double tax treaties have been concluded with a number of countries and double tax relief applies to such income. The pay-as-you-earn (PAYE) system of collection is in operation. There are a number of allowances against total income.

A. TAXES PAYABLE

COMPANY TAX

Profit tax is paid by resident legal entities both on the profit arising from activities performed on the territory of North Macedonia and from income generated abroad. A legal entity is considered to be a resident if registered in accordance with Company Law, or if it has a head office on the territory of North Macedonia. Residents are taxed on the profit they generate both in-country and abroad, while non-residents are taxed only on the profit they generate from business activities on the territory of North Macedonia.

The tax year for profit tax purposes is the calendar year. The corporate income tax rate is 10%. Basis for calculation of corporate income tax is the profit determined in the tax return. The basis for calculating the tax payable is determined as the difference between total revenue and total expenditure of the taxpayer, in amounts determined in accordance with accounting regulations and accounting standards increased by non-deductible expenses for tax purposes.

Companies are required to make monthly advance tax payments based on the previous year's income.

Corporate tax returns should be submitted to the Public Revenue Office no later than 28/29 February of the following year at the latest, after the year for which tax is incurred. The tax returns may be submitted by 15th of March, if the taxpayer has submitted the annual accounts with the Central Registry of Republic of North Macedonia in an electronic form. Tax is payable no later than 30 days after the deadline for submitting the tax return.

Companies that perform economic activities, except for banking, financial, insurance activities and games of chance and entertainment games and whose overall revenue generated in the last three years from any source does not exceed MKD 3 million on an annual basis, shall calculate but will not pay annual tax on total revenue amounting to 1% of the amount of earned total revenue presented in the income statement in the Annual statement for the previous calendar year. For total revenue of up to MKD 6 million the company may voluntarily apply for payment of 1% of this amount as corporate tax.

Non-profits are subject to 1% tax on their income from business activities, if such income is higher than MKD 1 million (approximately 16,260 EUR).

The users of a Technological Industrial Development Zone can benefit from a corporate income tax exemption within the framework of state assistance under the conditions and procedure established by the law for Technological Industrial Development Zones.

There are no specific or separate taxes added by the municipalities for business enterprises in North Macedonia.

CAPITAL GAINS TAX

There is no specific tax treatment for capital gains or losses at the level of business enterprises, i.e. any such gains or losses will be included in the profit or loss for the year and taxed if such profits are distributed.

When making a sale of shares an individual is obliged to pay 15% tax on capital gains. The basis for the calculation of tax is 90% of the difference between cost and sales value of the shares (for details see below under 'Capital gains and losses').

BRANCH PROFITS TAX

Branches of non-resident companies are subject to 10% profit tax, like resident companies. There is no branch remittance tax in North Macedonia.

SALES TAX / VALUE ADDED TAX (VAT)

The following sales are subject to North Macedonian VAT: sales of goods and services for consideration in the country within the business activities of the taxpayer and import of goods.

The VAT rates are as follows:

- Standard rate: 18%;
- Reduced rate: 5%.

VAT credit is the amount to be deducted from VAT that should be paid on the supplies made in a certain VAT period. The VAT credit refers to the VAT on supplies made by other VAT registered businesses to the taxpayer and to VAT paid upon the import of goods. The right to a VAT credit is available in case the following conditions are cumulatively met:

- The taxpayer uses supplied goods or rendered services for the purpose of its business activity; and
- The taxpayer is able to present an invoice from the supplier issued in accordance with the VAT law or a customs declaration appropriately recorded in its accounting.

No right to a VAT credit exists in respect of the following purchases:

- Procurement or import of goods and services for VAT exempted sales;
- Procurement, production, and import of bicycles, motor vehicles with less than 4 wheels, passenger cars and services related to their utilisation;
- Hospitality expenses;
- Transportation of passengers;
- Procurement or import of refrigerators, audio and video appliances, carpets and art works used for equipping office space;
- Hotel or other type of accommodation and food expenses.

Taxpayers without headquarters or fixed establishments in North Macedonia that do not perform any VAT applicable sales in the country may be refunded for VAT paid on their procurements in North Macedonia upon their request. Tax exemptions and incentives: For donations given in the public activities; and tax exemption on the supply of goods and services for the purpose of implementation of projects funded by foreign donors and by IPA funds.

Registration threshold for VAT: taxpayers are obliged to register for VAT purposes in case the total taxable sales during the calendar year exceed MKD 1 million (approximately EUR 16,260) or they may choose to register at the beginning of the business activity or at the beginning of each calendar year. If they decide to opt out of the VAT system, they are taxed as final consumers and do not have the right to a VAT refund.

In general, fringe benefits are taxable as amounts paid to the employee in cash. A company has the responsibility to pay the income tax on account of the employee. The tax rate is 15%.

B. DETERMINATION OF TAXABLE INCOME

The taxable income of a company is determined by ascertaining assessable income and then subtracting all allowable deductions. The basis for calculating the tax payable is determined as the difference between total revenue and total expenditure of the taxpayer, in amounts determined in accordance with accounting regulations and accounting standards including:

- Insurance premiums paid by the employer for the benefit of members of management bodies and employees;
- Costs for representation;

- Cost of dispersing and scattering on assets over amounts determined by law; and
- Other.

Special rules apply in respect of the categories listed below.

DEPRECIATION

The annual depreciation/amortisation expense is calculated in accordance with the applicable accounting standards. Generally the straight-line method of depreciation is used.

The cost of depreciation/amortisation of tangible and intangible assets is recognised as an expense in the tax return up to the amount calculated on the cost of the assets by applying the depreciation rates determined by the Nomenclature of depreciation prescribed by the Government.

Unrecognised expenditures for tax purposes are the cost of depreciation on the revalued value of tangible and intangible assets.

STOCK / INVENTORY

Inventory includes raw materials, work-in-progress, finished goods and payments on account. Each item of inventory must be valued at acquisition cost or cost of production. All valuation methods (FIFO, LIFO, average prices) are accepted.

CAPITAL GAINS AND LOSSES

Capital gains are treated as ordinary taxable income.

DIVIDENDS

Dividends received from other North Macedonian resident companies are included in the tax base, unless a withholding tax has been levied. With effect from 31 January 2014, dividends paid to resident companies are subject to a withholding tax at a rate of 10%. Before that date, such dividends were not subject to withholding tax. Other payments to resident companies are not subject to withholding tax. Dividends paid to non-resident companies are subject to a final withholding tax of 10%, unless a double tax treaty provides for a lower rate.

INTEREST DEDUCTIONS

Interest on loans granted between related parties at arm' length (except for loans granted by banks or other financial institutions) is recognised for tax purposes. In case the taxpayer cannot produce satisfactory evidence that the interest on related parties loans is on an arm's length basis, the interest income/expense from these loans will be determined for tax purposes by applying EURIBOR plus 1% (SKIBOR plus 1% for loans extended in MKD). Penalty interest between related parties is not recognised for tax purposes (except penalty interest incurred with regards to a bank or other financial institutions).

Interest on loans granted by direct shareholders holding at least 25% of a company's share capital ("qualifying shareholder") is considered non-deductible for profit tax purposes should the loan amount exceed threefold the amount of the equity attributable to that shareholder (debt-to-equity ratio of 3:1).

The same rule applies to loans granted by a third party, while guaranteed by a qualifying shareholder or granted in relation to a deposit provided by the qualifying shareholder to the third party.

The amount which is not recognised for tax purposes is the amount of interest on the part of a loan which exceeds threefold the amount of the equity attributable to the qualifying shareholder.

The thin capitalisation rules do not apply to loan facilities granted by direct shareholders which are banks or other financial institutions, as well as loan facilities granted by direct shareholders to newly established entities in the course of the first three years of their establishment.

LOSSES

As from 1 January 2015, losses may be carried forward for a period of 3 years. The taxpayer carrying forward losses can exercise this right subject to approval from the tax authorities. A written request must be submitted by 31 March of the year following the year in which the losses were incurred. Prior to that date, losses could not be carried forward for tax purposes.

FOREIGN SOURCED INCOME

Resident companies are subject to profit tax on their worldwide income and capital gains.

INVESTMENT ALLOWANCE/INCENTIVES

The tax base for income tax is decreased for the amount of realised investments from the profits (reinvested earnings) for development, i.e. investment in tangible assets (property, facilities and equipment) and intangible assets (patents and computer software) intended to expand the activity of the taxpayer. Exception: investments in passenger cars, furniture, carpets, audio visual devices, appliances (white goods), pieces of fine and applied arts and other investments that serve for administrative purposes.

A taxpayer that is obliged, in accordance with the Law on Registration of Cash Payments, to introduce and use approved equipment for registering cash payments, shall be granted a reduction in the calculated corporate income tax for the procurement of up to ten fiscal machines, in the amount of their value.

C. FOREIGN TAX RELIEF

Unilateral relief from double taxation is granted under the form of a foreign tax credit. Foreign taxes (withholding tax and income/profit tax) paid on dividends/profits from a foreign branch may be credited against the North Macedonian profit tax due, limited to the level of this North Macedonian tax. A tax credit is also allowed for foreign tax paid on dividends received from a foreign subsidiary. The double taxation relief provided by a tax treaty (usually also a credit) supersedes domestic relief.

D. CORPORATE GROUPS

There is no possibility for parent and subsidiary companies to be recognised as a group for corporate tax consolidation purposes. However, grouping is possible for VAT purposes. Two or more entities may be registered as one based on relations from ownership, management and organisation.

E. RELATED PARTY TRANSACTIONS

Transactions between related parties are recognised for tax purposes at arm's length, i.e. should transactions deviate from the market level, the differences could lead to additional income being assessed or an expense being disallowed for tax purposes. An unrecognised expense and a less pronounced income for tax purposes are:

- Positive difference between the costs of executed business or financial transaction between related parties (transfer price) and market price as follows:
- The amount of the positive difference between the costs arising from:
 - The transfer transaction and the costs arising from that transaction after price determined in accordance with the arm's length principle, or
 - The amount of the positive difference between the revenue derived from transaction at a price established in accordance with the arm's length principle and income derived from that transaction at the transfer price.

The arm's length principle applies to all transactions between related parties, including those relating to: tangible and intangible property, business and financial services, intra-group services, royalties, shares, derivatives, other securities, other financial instruments and any other transactions that may affect the profits or losses of related parties.

When determining the price of transactions in accordance with the "arm's length" principle the following methods are used:

- Comparable uncontrolled price method;
- Method of resale price;
- Cost-price method;
- Method of transactional net margin;
- Method of dividing profit;
- Any other method if the application of the above-mentioned methods is not appropriate.

Taxpayers who have realised income of more than MKD 60 million (approximately EUR 975,000) during the respective year have an obligation to submit a transfer pricing report along with the annual accounts.

Furthermore, interest on loans granted between related parties (except for loans granted by banks or other financial institutions) is recognised for tax purposes at arm's length. In case the taxpayer cannot produce satisfactory evidence that the interest on related parties loans is on an arm's length basis, the interest income/expense from these loans will be determined for tax purposes by applying EURIBOR plus 1% (SKIBOR plus 1% for loans extended in MKD).

Penalty interest between related parties is not recognised for tax purposes (except penalty interest incurred with regards to a bank or other financial institutions).

The definition of related parties for tax purposes is the one as per the Trading Company Law.

F. WITHHOLDING TAX

Legal entities resident in North Macedonia, registered for carrying out an activity, as well as a foreign legal entity having a branch in North Macedonia are obliged, when paying certain types of income to a foreign legal entity, to withhold tax and to pay the tax withheld to the revenue authorities simultaneously with the payment of the income. Withholding tax is applied to the following outbound payments: dividends, interest, royalties, income from entertainment or sporting activities in North Macedonia; income from management, consulting, financial services, services related to research and development, income from insurance or reinsurance premiums, income from telecommunication services between North Macedonia and a foreign country and income from the lease of immovable property in North Macedonia.

Tax shall not be withheld on the following payments: transfer of the profit of the permanent establishment/branch of a foreign legal entity in North Macedonia, for which profit tax has been previously paid (no branch remittance tax), revenue from interest on debt instruments issued and/or guaranteed by the North Macedonian Government, the National Bank of North Macedonia and banks or other financial institutions acting as a representative of the North Macedonian Government, income from interest on deposits in a bank located in North Macedonia and income from intermediation or consulting regarding government securities on the international financial market.

The withholding tax rate is 10% and is levied on the gross income, subject to the application of a double tax treaty.

G. EXCHANGE CONTROL

There are no exchange control requirements.

H. PERSONAL TAX

Personal income tax is payable by North Macedonian resident individuals on their worldwide income, excluding tax-exempt income. Non-resident individuals are required to pay tax on North Macedonian-sourced income only. A person is considered a North Macedonian tax resident if he/she stays continuously or intermittently on the territory of North Macedonia for 183 days or more within any 12-month period.

Tax-exempt income consists of certain employment related expenses, awards, scholarships granted by the Government, damages, alimony, certain types of interest etc. and is exhaustively listed in the Law on Personal Income Tax.

Taxable income comprises the following types of revenue: income from work, income from an independent activity, income from copyright and related rights, income from the sale of own agricultural products, income from industrial property rights, rental income and sublease, income from capital, capital gains, gains from games of chance, insurance income and other income.

The tax base for determining the income tax is the sum of the gross income realised by any means (in money, securities, in kind or in some other type), in the country and abroad during the tax period, reduced by:

- Contributions from mandatory social insurance;
- Tax reduction (for 2019: 96,000 MKD / 12 = 8,000 MKD per month); and
- Standardised or actual costs stipulated by this Law.

With effect from 1 January 2018, progressive taxation is applied, at tax rates of 10% and 18% (before 2019, individual income tax was levied at a flat rate of 10%), for the following types of income: income from work, income from an independent activity, income from copyright and related rights and income from the sale of own agricultural products.

Tax base on annual basis (MKD)	Monthly tax base (in case of advance payment) (MKD)	Rate (%)
Up to 1,080,000	Up to 90,000	10
Over 1,080,000	Over 90,000	18

North Macedonia

A unique rate of 15% is applied to taxation of: industrial property rights income, rental income and sublease, capital gains, gains from games of chance, insurance income and other income.

Income from salary

According to the Law on Minimum Wage in the Republic of Northern Macedonia, the minimum gross salary is 283 EUR. Salaries are computed and paid at least once a month. Social contributions and personal taxes are withheld by the employer along with the payment of salaries to employees. As of January 2019, the average monthly gross salary is MKD 36,017 (approximately EUR 586). Personal tax is calculated at progressive rates. Rate of 10% on the gross salary up to 90,000 MKD (1,480 EUR) per month and 18% on the excess.

Income property and property rights

A statutory deduction of 10% of gross rent for unfurnished and 15% for furnished premises is given to account for income-generating expenses. Alternatively, taxpayers can opt for itemised deduction instead of availing the standard deduction. Personal income tax is calculated at a rate of 15% of the gross amount minus deductions.

Income from copyrights and industrial property right

Based on the type of the original work, different statutory deductions are given from 20% for forms of performance art related to popular music up to 50% for sculptors. Alternatively, taxpayers can also opt for itemised deduction instead of availing the standard deduction. The basis for calculating the income tax is the realised gross income reduced by the amount of the determined costs with progressive tax rates of 10% and 18%.

Capital gains for individuals

These refer to the gains from sales of securities, shares of capital and real estate, i.e. the difference between the sales price and purchase price. The tax base is 90% of the realised capital gains. Capital gains are subject to 15% tax payable in advance. Capital gains (100%) from the sale of immovable property sold before the expiration of five years from the date of acquisition are taxed at a rate of 15% if the taxpayer did not live in the premises.

Other income

Other income, such as online e-commerce, income from marketing, internet services, unused financial assistance, unused donated funds, shortfalls in trade, and other income (other personal earnings) of employees are taxed at a rate of 15%. Basis for calculating income tax on other income is gross income.

As an exception, the basis for calculating the income tax for the income from the sale of useful solid waste is the gross income reduced by the standardised costs at an amount of 50%.

Gains from games of chance for individuals

These refer to:

- Income from games of chance and other prize games (TV quizzes, competitions, etc...), which constitutes taxable income. The tax is payable on the total gain at a 15% rate. The tax is not paid in case the single realised gain is less than MKD 5,000 (approximately 81 EUR); and
- Income from games of chance from casino, betting and slot machine clubs, which also constitutes taxable income.

KEY TAX POINTS

- The tax rate on income in Norway has been reduced from 23% to 22% from 2018 to 2019. To offset the shortfall in revenues, tax on dividends is increased correspondingly, keeping the combined tax on company revenue and dividends at approximately the same level, between 46.5 and 47%.
- Company tax is payable by Norwegian resident companies on income from all sources. Non-resident companies pay tax on income sourced in Norway.
- There is no separate capital gains tax. Capital gains are treated as ordinary income and capital losses are treated in the same way as trading losses.

- A credit is available for overseas tax payable against Norwegian tax on the same income. Foreign tax on business income may be deducted as an alternative to taking a tax credit.
- Group companies cannot file consolidated tax returns. Where there is more than 90% common ownership, income can be transferred between resident companies as a means of off-setting profits with losses within the group.
- The arm's length principle generally applies to transactions between related parties.
- Withholding tax must be deducted from dividends paid to non-residents, although there is no withholding on dividends paid to corporate shareholders resident in and performing real economic activities in the EEA. Interest and royalties are not subject to withholding tax.
- Income tax is payable by residents on income derived from all sources. Non-residents only pay tax on Norwegian-sourced income.

A. TAXES PAYABLE

COMPANY TAX

Company tax is payable by Norwegian resident companies on non-exempt income derived from all sources. Non-resident companies are required to pay tax on income sourced in Norway. A company is treated as resident if it has its central management and control or head office located in Norway and, for all practical purposes, a company registered in Norway is also considered a resident.

The company tax rate on income is 22% (down from 23% for 2018). The tax year is usually the calendar year, although this can be deviated from in certain circumstances, such as to align with non-Norwegian parent company's financial year. The tax year follows the financial year. Tax is payable in four instalments in the year following the tax year.

The first two instalments on 15 February and 15 April, are based on the last tax assessment, normally being the year before the tax year. The balance after the final tax assessment is payable in two instalments, three and eight weeks after the final tax assessment is made, but not earlier than 20 August. Company tax returns must be filed by the end of May for the preceding tax year. It is possible to get an agreed postponement.

CAPITAL GAINS TAX

There is no separate capital gains tax. Capital gains are treated as ordinary income and capital losses are treated in the same way as trading losses. However, gains on the disposal of shares of resident companies are exempt from tax (and losses on such disposals are not deductible). 3% of dividends received from companies that are tax residents in EEU is taxed as ordinary income unless the receiving part holds more than 90% of the shares and voting power in the company paying the dividend. Dividends are fully taxable if received from a non-EEU resident or if the dividend is deductible for the distributing company.

BRANCH PROFITS TAX

There is no separate branch profits tax in Norway. Non-resident companies carrying on a business in Norway are taxed on the profits of that business in the same way as resident companies.

VALUE ADDED TAX (VAT)

VAT is levied on the sale of most merchandise and services and on imported goods and services. The VAT rate is 25%. (15% on food, 12% on passenger transport, broadcasting, cinema tickets, sports events, leisure parks and experience centre tickets and letting of rooms in hotels, motels and tourist cabins, etc.). Some goods are exempt but VAT on the purchase of materials and goods is still deductible for these businesses. This also applies to exports, newspapers, certain periodicals and international transportation. Other areas are exempt without any credit for input tax. This is the case for health services and financial services.

FRINGE BENEFITS TAX (FBT)

Both residents and non-residents are taxed on fringe benefits. The value of the benefits is taxed as the top slice of employment income. The highest marginal tax rate is 46.7%.

SOCIAL SECURITY CONTRIBUTIONS

Employers are liable to pay social security contributions relating to salaries and benefits paid to their employees. The fee levied is 14.1% in central areas. Lower rates are available for certain employees in areas in the north of Norway. Social security tax is payable at a rate from 5.1% to 10.6% for individuals, see 'H. Personal Tax; Other Taxation' below.

Norway

LOCAL TAXES

Property taxes in some urban areas are levied at a maximum 0.7% of the tax value of the property.

OTHER TAXES

Real estate transactions are subject to 2.5% Stamp Duty.

B. DETERMINATION OF TAXABLE INCOME

The taxable income of a company is determined by ascertaining assessable income and then subtracting all allowable deductions. Generally, to be deductible, losses and expenses must relate to producing the assessable income. Some items such as entertainment expenses and gifts are specifically non-deductible. Only realised expenses are deductible. Special rules apply to the categories listed below.

DEPRECIATION

Book depreciation is not allowable for tax purposes. Assets with an expected life of more than three years and costing more than NOK 15,000 should be depreciated on a declining-balance method using the following maximum rates:

Description	Rate (%)
Office machinery	30
Purchased goodwill	20
Trucks, trailers, buses, taxis and vehicles for disabled persons	24/30 ¹
Cars, agricultural tractors, machinery, tools, instruments, etc.	20
Ships, drilling platforms, vessels, etc.	14
Aeroplanes	12
Power stations, power lines	5
Industrial buildings, hotels, restaurants	4/6/10 ²
Office buildings	2
Technical installations in buildings	10

Notes:

1. Electrical powered vans: 30% from 2017.
2. Buildings and installations with an economic life less than 20 years: 10%. Buildings for farm animals: 6%.

STOCK / INVENTORY

All trading stock held at the beginning of the tax year and at the end of the tax year must be taken into account when determining taxable income. Stock is valued at cost without regard to real value. Work in progress and finished products are valued at direct variable cost of materials and labour. Real value is not taken into account. Accepted valuation method is FIFO not average cost or LIFO.

CAPITAL GAINS AND LOSSES

See text above.

DIVIDENDS

Dividends are not deductible for income tax purposes for the dividend paying company. Dividends received from other Norwegian companies are tax-exempt under the participation exemption. However, 3% of the dividend is added to the recipient's taxable income unless it holds more than 90% of the shares and voting power in the company paying the dividend. See also "H. Personal Tax" below.

INTEREST DEDUCTIONS

All interest costs on business debt are deductible. As from 2014, there is a 'thin capitalisation' limitation applicable for companies that have net interest expense (interest expense less interest income from both external and from related parties) above NOK 5 million.

Net interest expense exceeding 25% of taxable EBITDA is non-deductible to the extent there are related-party interest expenses. Interest on debt guaranteed by a related party is in this context regarded as related-party interest expense. Non-deductible interest expense after this rule can be carried forward for 10 years. There is no carry-forward of unused allowable interest expense. Additional rules apply with regards to oil and gas production.

LOSSES

Losses may be carried forward. Losses may generally not be carried back but, when a company liquidates, the losses of the year of liquidation may be offset against profits of the two preceding years. There are certain limitations on the usage of losses carried forward after sale or merger of a company and after a company has ceased operating a line of business.

FOREIGN SOURCED INCOME

Norway has rules designed to ensure that profits sourced in low tax countries are included in the controlling Norwegian company's taxable income. Generally, income from a foreign company will be included if 50% or more of the company is owned or controlled by Norwegians. A low tax jurisdiction applies where the tax payable is less than two-thirds of the tax that would have been payable in Norway.

INCENTIVES

Generally, there are no special incentives, although research and development credits are granted to small and medium sized companies under qualifying circumstances.

C. FOREIGN TAX RELIEF

Deductions are available for foreign tax paid or, as an alternative, a credit may be available against Norwegian tax payable on that income.

D. CORPORATE GROUPS

Group companies cannot file consolidated tax returns. Under special circumstances, taxable income can be transferred between companies residing in Norway. The requirement is that there is more than 90% common ownership of the companies.

E. RELATED PARTY TRANSACTIONS

Transfer pricing should be based on an arm's length principle. Norwegian tax law gives the tax authorities the power to raise assessments if transactions between the taxpayer and associated companies are not based on an arm's length principle.

F. WITHHOLDING TAX

Withholding taxes must be deducted from dividends paid to non-residents at a rate of 25%, although there is no withholding on dividends paid to corporate shareholders resident in and performing real economic activities in the EEA. Interest payments and royalties are not subject to withholding taxes. See section "I. Treaty and non-Treaty withholding tax rates on dividends from Norway" below for the applicable withholding tax rates.

G. EXCHANGE CONTROLS

Most exchange controls were phased out in 1990. However, all imports of capital in cash exceeding NOK 25,000 should be reported to the Bank of Norway. Other transfers of capital need not be reported.

H. PERSONAL TAX

Income tax is payable by Norwegian residents on income derived from all sources world-wide. Non-residents are only required to pay tax on Norwegian-sourced income. Residency is determined by domicile or where the individual has spent, or intends to spend, more than six months of the tax year. Under almost all Norwegian tax treaties, foreign-earned income is exempt from Norwegian tax. Where there is no treaty, credit for foreign taxes is given up to the amount of Norwegian tax on foreign income. Income tax is payable on assessable income less allowable deductions. Assessable income includes business income, employment income, certain capital gains, rent and interest income. Some expenses incurred in earning the assessable income are deductible. Some actual expenses can be replaced by standard deductions.

The general combined rate of the national and municipal income taxes is 22%. A lower rate of 19.5% applies for the counties of Finnmark and Nord-Troms. A personal allowance of NOK 56 550 is deducted before calculation of the taxes.

OTHER TAXATION

All income from capital is taxable at 22%. However, the value of dividends chargeable to tax is reduced by an amount representative of a risk-free return on the invested capital. The rate was 0.8% for the 2018 tax year. The rate is published in January in the year following the tax year. However, dividends and gains and losses from sale of shares and other investments are multiplied by a factor to arrive at the taxable amount. The factor was 1.33 in 2018 and has increased to 1.44 in 2019.

An additional progressive national income tax is payable on "gross personal income" (which includes gross income from employment or self-employment, including pensions). With effect from 1 January 2019 the rates of the national income tax are:

Taxable income (NOK)	Rate (%)
0 – 174,500	0
174,501 – 245,650	1.90
245,651 – 617,500	4.20
617,501 – 993,300	13.20
From 993,301	16.20

In addition, social security taxes are paid. Employees pay 8.2% of gross salary income. For self-employed individuals the rate is 11.4%. For persons below the age of 17 years, or above the age of 69 years, the rate is 5.1%. Wealth tax is charged on the net tax value of assets above NOK 1,500,000 at a rate of 0.85%. Property transferred by gift or on death after 31 December 2013 is no longer subject to inheritance tax.

Notes:

1. Unless otherwise indicated, the reduced treaty rates given in this column apply if the recipient company owns at least 25% of the capital in the Norwegian company.
2. The agreement is subject to renegotiation.
3. The tax treaty with Yugoslavia of 1 September 1983 is temporarily suspended. Agreement on certain subjects continues for Croatia, Bosnia and Herzegovina and Montenegro.
4. The tax treaty between Norway and the UK of 2 May 1951 was by an exchange of notes on 18 May 1955 extended to a number of British colonies that later become independent states. Today the agreement only applies to Cyprus and Sierra Leone.
5. The tax treaty with Czechoslovakia of 27 June 1979 shall until further notice be applied to Slovakia.

The rate for non-tax treaty countries should be used if the shareholder has not provided proof of tax residency in a tax treaty country. This means, in general, that the reduced rates cannot be used if the shares are held in nominee accounts. A shareholder in a tax treaty country for which the 25% has been deducted may apply for a refund of the excess taxes withheld.

and securities listed on the Muscat Securities Market (MSM) are exempted from income tax. Similarly, capital losses on the sale of securities listed on the MSM are not allowed as a deductible expense.

A uniform customs tariff of 5% is imposed on the importation of goods into a GCC State, payable at the first point of entry into the GCC. Goods can then move freely within the GCC subject to proper documentation being available. Customs duties are levied on certain categories of imported goods. The rates range from 5% to 100%.

B. DETERMINATION OF TAXABLE INCOME

Taxable income is computed in accordance with IFRS applied on a consistent and regular basis. The accrual basis is generally to be used although, in special cases, the Director of Income Tax may approve cash basis of accounting. As a basic rule, all expenses which are incurred wholly for the purposes of business and are incurred to generate the gross income are allowed to be deducted provided they are reasonable considering the value of services received. Any expense or cost incurred to generate income which is exempted from income tax will not be allowed as a deductible expense. Remuneration to working partners and owners is allowed on a restricted basis. Certain charges have been specified as not deductible and certain charges have been restricted to specific amounts by the tax law.

TAX DEPRECIATION - BUILDINGS AND CIVIL WORKS

- (a) Depreciation shall be allowed for any accounting period on capital expenditure incurred in the acquisition of any building used for the purposes of the business during that period. The amount allowed to be deducted shall be determined in accordance with the following percentages:
- (1) 4% annually for depreciation of buildings constructed with selected materials.
 - (2) 10% annually for depreciation of quays, jetties, pipelines, roads and railways.
 - (3) 15% annually for depreciation of buildings constructed with other than the selected materials mentioned above, or prefabricated buildings.
 - (4) 100% annually for depreciation of buildings used as hospitals or educational institutions. The taxpayer in this case may choose the rate in this Clause, or the rates in the foregoing Clauses (1) and (3).

These purposes shall not include the use of buildings for the purposes of storage, office, accommodation for workers or for other commercial purposes.
- (c) Depreciation shall be allowed for any accounting period at the rate of 15% annually on capital expenditure incurred on the acquisition of any ship or aircraft used for business purposes during that period.

TAX DEPRECIATION - PLANT AND MACHINERY, FURNITURE / FIXTURES AND OTHER ASSETS

- (a) Machinery and plant shall be allocated to pools with annual rates of depreciation specified for them as follows:
 - (1) 33.33% annually for the first pool, comprising:

Tractors, cranes and other heavy machinery and plant similar in nature and use, computers, vehicles and self-propelling machines, fixtures, fittings, and furniture. It also comprises computer software and intellectual property rights.
 - (2) 10% annually for the second pool, comprising drilling rigs.
 - (3) 15% annually for the third pool, comprising any other machinery and plant which are not included in (1) and (2) above.
- (b) The amount to be deducted as depreciation in respect of a pool for the accounting period shall be calculated by applying the percentages specified in paragraph a) above on the depreciation base of that pool. For any accounting period, the depreciation base in the case of any pool shall be determined to be the excess of the amount resulting from applying Clause 1 of this paragraph after deducting the amount resulting from applying Clause 2 of this paragraph as follows:
 - (1) The depreciation base of that pool for the accounting period immediately preceding that accounting period after deducting the depreciation allowed for this pool for the accounting period immediately preceding that accounting period. This depreciation base shall be increased by the total capital expenditures incurred in acquiring the machinery, plant or other assets falling under the same pool during that accounting period.
 - (2) The disposal value of all capital assets falling in that pool that were disposed of during that accounting period.

STOCK / INVENTORY

Omani tax regulations do not specifically establish which methods of inventory valuation must be used, nor how inventory flows are to be determined. At present, any of three methods - average, FIFO or LIFO - are deemed to represent the 'actual cost' required by tax rules. Reserves and provisions for inventory shortages and obsolescence are not allowed as a deductible expense for tax purposes but actual losses and write-offs are allowed in the year in which they occur provided they are supported with adequate documentation as specified in the Executive Regulation to the Income Tax Law.

DIVIDENDS

Tax is not imposed on dividends received by a company through shares in the capital of the other Omani companies i.e. companies registered in Oman. Dividends received from foreign companies will be subject to tax at the tax rate applicable to business income.

INTEREST DEDUCTIONS

Interest paid on the bank borrowing used for business purposes is deductible. Interest paid on loans from partners / members / related parties are allowed on a restricted basis as specified in the Executive Regulation.

LOSSES

Losses are not allowed to be carried forward for more than five subsequent assessment years. However, companies which are engaged in industry can indefinitely carry forward their losses incurred during the non-renewable exempted period of five years, and deduct them in subsequent years until the losses are fully absorbed by set off against the profits of future years.

C. FOREIGN TAX RELIEF

The Sultanate of Oman has entered into agreements for the avoidance of double taxation (DTA) and the prevention of avoiding income tax with France, India, Tunisia, United Kingdom, Mauritius, Italy, Pakistan,

Algeria, Lebanon, China, Yemen, South Africa, Sudan, Seychelles, Iran, Canada, Turkey, Syria, Republic of South Korea, Singapore, Thailand, Uzbekistan, Belarus, Brunei, Netherlands, Moldova, Vietnam, Belgium, Croatia, Japan, Switzerland, Spain, Morocco and Sri Lanka. Some DTAs are not in force as they await ratification from the respective governments. Currently, most of the foreign airlines carrying on business through an establishment in Oman are exempted from income tax either through comprehensive DTAs or through limited DTAs. The foreign airlines which earn income through an establishment in Oman, and which do not have comprehensive DTAs or limited DTAs, would be exempted from tax provided reciprocal tax exemption is granted in the airline's home country. The countries whose airlines have signed agreements for tax relief are India, Kuwait, Jordan, the Netherlands, Tanzania, Sri Lanka, Iran, Singapore, Sweden and Switzerland.

Income earned overseas by an Omani company will be taxed in Oman. A corresponding tax credit in Oman will be given to the extent of Omani tax, i.e. 15% or foreign tax paid on that income whichever is lower in respect of DTA countries. In respect of non-DTA countries, a tax credit is unilaterally allowed by Oman for tax paid by Omani business entities outside of Oman subject to the overall limit of Omani tax on foreign income, subject to certain conditions.

D. CORPORATE GROUPS

There are no provisions for group taxation or for offsetting losses of one company against another.

E. RELATED PARTY TRANSACTIONS

Transactions with related parties are subject to detailed scrutiny to confirm that prices are at arm's length, and that expenses exclude an element of profit in case of transactions between a head office and its branch and 100% subsidiary companies.

F. WITHHOLDING TAX

Withholding tax applies to payments (income to the recipient accruing in Oman) made by an Omani taxpayer or government body to a foreign person which does not have a permanent establishment in Oman or to a foreign company that has a permanent establishment in Oman but such payment does not form part of its taxable income in Oman, for:

- (1) The use, or right to use, of computer software (includes using the software of an overseas supplier);
- (2) Royalties;
- (3) Management fees;
- (4) Research and development;
- (5) Performance of services; and
- (6) Dividends on shares or interest (only dividends paid by joint stock companies or investment funds shall attract withholding tax).

Royalties include:

1. Consideration for the use or the right to use of:
 - a) Intellectual or proprietary right either for artistic, literary or scientific work, including computer software, cinematograph films, or films or tapes or discs or any other means used for radio or television broadcasting.

The domestic withholding tax rate on the above is 10%. Omani withholding tax may be reduced or eliminated if the foreign company is based (resident) in a country with which Oman has a DTA. Withholding tax must be paid within 14 days following the month of payment or credit, whichever is earlier and Income Tax Form 18 must be filed with the Tax Authority. The obligation to deduct this tax shall rest with the company or the permanent establishment which pays the above amount.

G. EXCHANGE CONTROL

There are no exchange controls in any form on inward or outward investment or on repatriation of capital or profits, either by nationals or expatriates.

H. PERSONAL TAX

Currently, there is no personal income tax or wealth tax in Oman.

KEY TAX POINTS

- Income/Profits of corporate entities are taxed at 29% and companies falling under the category of small company are taxed at 24%.
- The tax rates for branch office of non-resident company incorporated outside Pakistan are the same as applicable to resident companies. However, such Branch Office operating in Pakistan through Permanent Establishment is also entitled to set off expenses incurred in or outside Pakistan for the purpose of business, including reasonable allocation of share of Head Office General and Administrative Expenses.
- Some sources of income are taxed on a presumptive tax basis, where the withholding tax suffered on such income constitutes full and final discharge of tax liability. Non-residents can also opt for presumptive tax regime, by filing an option to that effect.
- In certain cases, withholding tax on services is considered to be a minimum tax. Some other classes of taxpayers also have to pay minimum tax in relation to their turnover.
- Where a resident taxpayer derives foreign-source income on which income tax has been paid in the foreign territory, a proportionate tax credit is allowable in respect of that income in Pakistan. Such reduction is available, both in terms of provisions of Avoidance of Double Taxation Treaty, as well as unilateral relief, where such treaty is not available.
- Payment for expenses and procurements are subject to withholding tax deduction on the various prescribed deduction rates. Such withholding taxes deducted from suppliers, vendors, service providers and employees etc., are periodically required to be deposited in the Treasury.
- In certain cases, subject to eligibility and certain conditions, Certificate of Exemption from Withholding tax can be issued.

- In allowing expenses for the tax computation, some conditions, like payment through crossed cheque and compliance with withholding tax requirements do apply.
- All tax filing, tax payments, show-cause-notice, and assessment procedure is electronic and web based, and filing can be done from anywhere in the world through internet.
- All tax statements (returns) filed within due time are accepted under self-assessment, and the declared results are deemed to be an assessment. However, a certain percentage of the tax returns is selected and set apart for tax audit through computer balloting by the Federal Board of Revenue. Commissioners also have powers to select cases for audit.
- The Assessments completed on the basis of return can be amended on the basis of definite information, coming in possession of the tax officials, gathered through audit or otherwise. The assessment can also be amended, where it is considered to be erroneous and prejudicial to the interest of revenue.
- The tax authorities have the power in respect of a transaction between associates to distribute, apportion, or allocate income, deductions, or tax credits between such associates to reflect the income that would have been realised in an at arm's-length transaction.
- VAT (locally termed as 'sales tax') is a Federal tax, ordinarily levied at 17% on the value of goods, unless specifically exempt, or chargeable under reduced rate or zero rated. The tax is subject to input tax adjustments.
- Sales tax on Services, which is a provincial levy, is also charged by each Province, under its own laws. The entity having business or place of business in more than one province(s) is required to register and file separate tax returns for each such province. The tax rates range from 5% to 19.5% on the value of taxable services.
- Elaborate, multilevel appeal system is available, where a taxpayer feels aggrieved by any assessment or action of the tax authority.

A. TAXES PAYABLE

COMPANY / CORPORATE TAX

The tax rates are summarised as follows:

- | | |
|-----------------------|-----|
| • All other companies | 29% |
| • Banking company | 35% |
| • Small company | 24% |
| • Modaraba company | 25% |

FINAL TAX REGIME:

Resident taxpayers and, at their option, non-resident taxpayers not having a permanent establishment in Pakistan, are subject to a presumptive tax regime (PTR), where taxes withheld at source on the sale of goods and execution of contracts or collected at the time of import (for other than industrial raw materials), are considered a final tax liability in respect of income arising from the sale, contract, or import. In the case of exports, tax collected at the time of realisation of foreign-exchange proceeds is treated as a final tax for that income. Certain contracts for services and contracts for advertisement services rendered by television satellite channels are also subject to PTR.

INCOME FROM RENTAL PROPERTY

Income from property of Individuals and the Association of Persons (AOP) is charged as a separate block of income, at various slabs based on gross rentals ranging from PKR 200,000 to amounts exceeding PKR 2,000,000 from 5% to 20% whereas the rental income of companies is subject to tax at the normal corporate tax rates.

Taxation of a permanent establishment (PE) of a non-resident

The following principles shall apply in computing taxable income of a PE:

- It is a distinct and separate entity dealing independently with the non-resident of which it is a PE.
- In addition to business expenditure, executive and administrative expenditure, whether incurred in Pakistan or elsewhere, will be allowed as a deduction.
- Head office expenditure, including rent, salaries, travelling, and any other expenditure that may be prescribed, shall be allowed as a deduction in proportion to the turnover of the PE in the same proportion as the non-resident's total head office expenditure bears to its worldwide turnover.

Pakistan

- Royalties, compensation for services (including management services), and interest on loans (except in banking business) payable to or receivable from a PE's head office shall not be considered in computing taxable income of a PE.
- No advance tax is required to be deducted from payment to a PE of a non-resident in respect of goods imported and sold under the same condition as if tax under section 148 is duly deducted and paid.
- Payments received by a PE for business activities in Pakistan, as well as payments made by it for procurement of goods and services would be subject to certain withholding tax deductions.

Filers and Non-Filers

Persons, who have not filed their tax returns for the immediately preceding year, are termed as Non-Filers, and removed from the 'active taxpayers list' (ATL), maintained and updated electronically. The Non-filers are subject to enhanced rates for withholding and collection of tax under various income sources, including the following:

1. Tax withholding on payment of Dividend;
2. Tax withholding on payment of Profit on Debt;
3. Tax withholding on Cash withdrawals;
4. Collection of Advance tax on registration or transfer of registration of private motor vehicles;
5. Collection of Advance tax on motor vehicles;
6. Collection of Advance tax from seller of immovable property;
7. Collection of Advance tax from purchaser of immovable property;
8. Collection of Advance tax on sale of specified products to distributors, dealers and wholesalers.

BRANCH PROFITS TAX

The tax rates applicable to the profits of a branch of a company incorporated outside of Pakistan are the same as those applicable to resident companies. Tax at the rate of 15% is levied on the transfer of profits to the head office, or such reduced rate, as provided in the Avoidance of Double Taxation Treaties between the country of origin and the Islamic Republic of Pakistan, with an exception for companies engaged in the oil and gas exploration and production business.

Payments to a branch in Pakistan of a non-resident may be entitled to a reduced or 0% withholding tax, on meeting certain conditions and the issuance of a certificate in this regard by the Commissioner Inland Revenue.

MINIMUM TAX

Where the tax payable by a resident company is less than 1.25% of turnover, the company is required to pay a minimum tax equivalent to 1.25% of turnover, regardless of any available adjustments for carry-forward losses, etc. Tax paid in excess of normal tax liability can be carried forward for adjustment against tax liability of a subsequent tax year. However, such tax can only be adjusted against tax liability of the five tax years immediately succeeding the tax year for which the amount was paid.

ALTERNATE CORPORATE TAX

Companies are also subject to Alternate Corporate Tax (ACT):

- when the income of the company is not subject to tax for the year due to adjustment for carry forward business loss, or any other reason; or
- when tax payable is less than the ACT: in that case the company shall pay tax equal to ACT.

ACT is calculated at 17% on accounting profit declared by the company in its financial statements, before any tax adjustments. ACT is adjustable against normal tax, if any, payable in future years.

SALES TAX / VALUE ADDED TAX

VAT (locally termed as 'sales tax') is ordinarily levied at 17% on the value of goods, unless specifically exempt, after allowing related input credits. Significant zero-rated goods are as follows:

Highest Retail Price

Presently, manufacturers of goods subject to duty on retail price basis are required to pay duty at the highest retail price where more than one retail price is fixed by the manufacturers for any particular brand or variety of such goods. The Federal Board of Revenue (FBR) is authorised to specify zones or areas only for the purposes of determining highest retail price for any brand or variety of goods.

EXCISE DUTY

Federal excise duty (FED) is levied at the rate of 17% on certain types of manufacturing, import of goods, and rendering of services, except telecommunications services, which are charged at the rate of 17% (previously it was 18.5%). FED on telecommunication services, under the constitution, is to be levied and collected by the provinces. However if it is not levied by provinces at their specified rates, FED will be charged at 18.5%. Book depreciation does not need to conform to tax depreciation. Unabsorbed tax depreciation not set off against the income of the year is carried forward and added to depreciation of the assets of the same business in the following year. Tax depreciation can be carried forward without limit until fully absorbed.

STOCK / INVENTORY

Inventories are to be stated at the lower of cost or market. The first in first out (FIFO) and average methods are accepted. Conformity of methods used for book and tax reporting is desirable, and the method used should be consistently applied.

CAPITAL GAINS ON IMMOVABLE PROPERTY

After amendment through the Finance Act 2017-18, capital gains tax on the disposal of immovable property has been divided in two types i.e. on property acquired before 1 July 2016 and on property acquired on or after 1 July 2016. The following tax rates are to be applicable on such gains based on the property's holding period.

Holding Period	Tax Rate
	Before 1 July 2016	On or After 1 July 2016
Less than 12 months	5%	10%
12 to 24 months		7.5%
24 months or more but the security was acquired on or after 1 July 2013		5%
Where the security was acquired before 1 July 2013	0%	0%

CAPITAL GAINS ON DISPOSAL OF SECURITIES

Capital gains arising as a result of the disposal of securities shall be taxed depending upon the holding period. For each slab of holding period a separate tax rate shall be applicable.

Holding Period	Tax Rate
	Acquired before 1 July 2016	Acquired on or after 1 July 2016
Less than 12 months	15%	15%
12 to 24 months	12.5%
24 months or more but the security was acquired on or after 1 July 2013	7.5%
Where the security was acquired before 1 July 2013	0%	0%

DIVIDENDS

Dividend income is subject to a 15% withholding tax or a lower double tax treaty rate. Withholding tax at 20% on dividend income applies for Non-Filers. The deduction at source shall be the full and final discharge of tax liability on dividend income. Gains on the disposal of future commodity contracts shall be taxed at 5% regardless of the holding period.

INTEREST INCOME

Interest earned by a company is taxed as its income from other sources. Interest earned by a non-resident company without a permanent establishment in Pakistan attracts withholding tax at the rate of 10%, except where a lower rate is provided in the related double tax treaty. The withholding tax on interest income is also the final tax on such income, except in the case of companies, where it is taxed on normal rates.

LOSSES

Operating losses may be carried forward and set off against the profits of the succeeding six years of the same business in which the losses were incurred. Unabsorbed depreciation can be carried forward indefinitely. Unabsorbed depreciation can be carried forward without any limitation. Carried forward losses of an entity in the case of group relief cannot be utilised if the ownership of the holding company is reduced to less than 55% and 75% if one of the companies is a listed company or none of the companies is a listed company, respectively.

Business losses can be carried forward up to a period of six years in the case of the amalgamation of two companies, under the condition that the same business is continued for a minimum period of five years. The carrying back of losses is not permitted.

The group taxation is available if the companies are designated as entitled to avail group relief by the Securities and Exchange Commission of Pakistan.

The Group Relief where the loss of a subsidiary company is surrendered to a holding company for set off against its profit will be calculated as a percentage of shareholding held by the holding company. Previously, any company that is the subsidiary of a holding company may surrender its loss for the year to its holding company or its subsidiary, or between other subsidiaries of the holding company, provided that the holding company directly holds 55% or more of the subsidiary's capital if one of the companies is a listed company. However, if none of the companies is a listed company, the holding requirement is 75% or more. - Dividends (including remittance of profits to head office) are generally subject to a final withholding tax at the rate of 15% from 1 July 2017 (20% for non-filers) of the gross amount. The rate of 7.5% applies to dividends paid by a power project privatised by the Water and Power Development Authority.
- Interest (profit on debt) is subject to withholding tax at the rate of 10% (17.5% for non-filers, unless the yield or profit paid is PKR 500,000 or less) on the gross amount.
- Effective from 1 July 2018.
- No reduction under the treaty, the domestic rate applies.
- Where a US corporation has no permanent establishment in Pakistan and is a public company that owns more than 50% of the voting power in a Pakistani company engaged in an industrial undertaking, the domestic rate is reduced by 1 anna in the rupee (1 rupee = 16 annas). Otherwise, the domestic rate applies, i.e. no reduction under the treaty available.

- Corporate income tax is only chargeable on revenue arising from business activities and assets situated in Panama.
- An alternative minimum income tax system applies to all companies except small companies invoicing up to USD 1,500,000 per annum.
- Tax is chargeable at 10% on the net profit arising on the sale of real estate property. A different tax calculation method applies to the sale of shares and securities.
- VAT is charged on the supply of goods and services at a standard rate of 7%, although some goods are subject to higher rates and others are exempt.
- Withholding taxes apply to the payment of dividends by Panamanian companies to all recipients. Services and fees, interest, commissions, royalties or technical assistance fees, etc., paid or accrued to foreign recipients are subject to withholding tax only if the local payer will take it as a deductible expense.
- All individuals are subject to income tax on Panamanian source income. Progressive tax rates apply.

A. TAXES PAYABLE

COMPANY TAX

Panama's income tax law affects aggregate and annual revenue from business activities conducted in Panama or from assets situated in the country, when any of the causes of such revenue occur within the national territory. The standard tax rate for companies is 25%. Companies in which the State has more than a 40% share will pay 30% income tax.

The fiscal year of companies normally corresponds to the calendar year but it is allowable to have fiscal years ending on other dates if a request is made to the Tax Department authorities. Corporate tax returns and payments are due by the end of the third month following the end of the fiscal year. An extension of one additional month may be granted if requested. Extensions to file a tax return, however, do not affect the time for payment of tax. Corporations are required to prepay their estimated tax liability in three instalments, based on the income tax of the previous fiscal year.

ALTERNATIVE MINIMUM INCOME TAX

A tax rate of 25% is applied to the net taxable income on whichever is higher between:

- (1) The amount of the net taxable income (traditional calculation of deducting costs and expenses from gross taxable income); and,
- (2) The net taxable income that arises after deducting 95.33% from gross taxable income.

If, after applying the second alternative, the company incurs losses due to the payment of the tax or, if the effective rate of the income tax exceeds 25%, it can request the Tax Department not to apply the alternative calculation. Small companies that invoice less than USD 1,500,000 gross taxable income in the fiscal year are exempt from applying the alternative calculation.

CAPITAL GAINS TAX

On sales of real estate there are two taxes involved. One is a 2% transfer tax and the other is a 10% income tax on the net profit. The 2% transfer tax rate is applied on the higher of the sales price or the registered value of the property in the Public Registry plus a 5% surcharge for each complete calendar year for which the property is held.

Panama

The 10% income tax is calculated on the net profit of the transaction. Net profit is calculated by deducting the cost of the property plus any related expenses from the sales price. The buyer of the real estate will withhold 3% of the higher amount between the sale price or the cadastre value and remit it to the Tax Department. The seller will calculate a 10% tax on the profit. If this result is higher than the 3% withheld by the buyer, the seller can choose to consider the 3% as the final tax. If the 10% of the profit is lower than the 3% withheld by the buyer, the seller can request a reimbursement for the difference.

Income from the sale of securities is taxable as follows. The buyer will withhold 5% of the sale price and remit it to the Tax Department. The seller will calculate a 10% tax on the profit. If this is higher than the 5% withheld by the buyer, the seller can choose to consider the 5% as the final tax. If the 10% of the profit is lower than the 5% withheld by the buyer, the seller can request a reimbursement for the difference. Income from the sale of government securities and those issued by companies registered with the National Securities Commission is not taxable.

BRANCH PROFITS TAX

Branches of foreign companies are subject to the same tax rates as Panamanian companies. In addition to corporate income tax, branches of foreign registered companies are subject to a 10% branch remittance tax on after-tax profits. The withholding tax is final and must be remitted along with the filing of the annual tax return.

SALES TAXES/VALUE ADDED TAX (VAT)

Many consumer services and goods are subject to a 7% value added tax. Alcoholic beverages and hotel room rentals have a 10% tax rate and cigarettes and tobacco products have a 15% tax rate. The following items are exempt from VAT:

- Food (except restaurants that serve alcoholic beverages which are taxed);
- Medicines and medical services;
- House rentals with a contract period of more than six months. House rentals with contract periods of less than six months are subject to VAT.

Companies with purchases of over USD 5,000,000 in the previous year become withholding agents, and are required to retain 50% of VAT included in their vendors' bills. Institutions that manage credit and debit cards will withhold 50% of VAT included in sales of goods or services paid with credit and debit cards. The tax authorities have published a list of companies designated as withholding agents.

LOCAL TAXES

Panama's income tax law affects the whole national territory equally.

OTHER TAXES

Other taxes are also applicable, including:

PREPAID DIVIDEND TAX

Local corporations must pay a 4% complementary tax on each fiscal year's net taxed profit on behalf of their shareholders if no dividends are declared. This 4% will be applied to dividend tax when dividends are declared. The rate for companies established in a Free Zone is 2%.

FRANCHISE TAX

Foreign and domestic corporations registered in the Public Registry are subject to an annual tax of USD 300, regardless of whether they are doing business in Panama. There is a penalty of USD 50 for late payment and, after two years of non-payment of the franchise tax, there is a restoration fee of USD 300 per year.

ANNUAL LICENCE TAX

All industrial or commercial business, except those exempted by specific laws, are required to have a license to operate. This tax is 2% of the company's net worth, including amounts owed to the foreign home office or foreign affiliated companies. The tax is payable annually up to a maximum of USD 60,000. For companies established in a Free Zone, this tax is 0.05% of the company's net worth, including amounts owed to the foreign home office or foreign affiliated companies. The tax is payable annually up to a maximum of USD 50,000.

MUNICIPAL TAX

Lucrative activities in any municipality shall pay local tax upon gross income, calculated according to the companies' category and activity.

SOCIAL SECURITY TAX

These are payments that are made monthly by employers and employees on the payroll of companies for the purpose of guaranteeing the functioning of the worker social security system and retirement benefits at the national level.

A new law comes into force on 1 January 2019 and modifies the tax rate applied to all types of properties and to the owners, regardless of their citizenship.

The law exempts 100% of properties valued up to USD 120,000, when these are declared as tax family property or main residence, as of 1 January 2019. The rates are as follows:

Tax family property or main residence

From	To	Tax rate
USD 0	USD 120,000	0%
USD 120,001	USD 700,000	0.5% on the amount exceeding USD 120,000 up to USD 700,000

B. DETERMINATION OF TAXABLE INCOME

The net taxable income of a corporation or partnership is determined by subtracting all allowable deductions from gross taxable income. Generally, expenditures and/or losses are deductible provided they are incurred in gaining or producing taxable income, or preserving the source of income. Special rules apply in respect of certain expenditures.

ALTERNATIVE METHOD OF CALCULATING A MINIMUM NET TAXABLE INCOME

The net taxable income under this method arises after deducting 95.33% from the gross taxable income. Under this formula, the net taxable income will be 4.67% of the gross taxable income. The larger of the two amounts will be the net taxable income for the fiscal year. The alternative method of calculating a minimum net taxable income is applicable to companies with gross taxable income of USD 1,500,000 and above.

DEPRECIATION AND DEPLETION

Depreciation is normally calculated by the straight-line method over the estimated useful life of the asset. The regulations also permit the use of the sum-of-the-digits and declining-balance methods. Depletion of mines and other natural resources is based on units extracted or produced. Using any other method requires the approval of the Income Tax Department.

STOCK / INVENTORY

The Income Tax regulations allow the use of the specific cost, FIFO, retail-inventory, or average-cost method according to the normal course of operations. The method used cannot be changed by the taxpayer for at least five years and will require a written notification to the Tax Department authorities.

DIVIDENDS

The corporation declaring the dividend must withhold a 10% tax on all dividends declared from income earned within the Republic of Panama. However, dividends on bearer shares are subject to a 20% dividend tax. Dividends declared by branches or domestic subsidiaries of foreign corporations on income earned within the Panamanian territory are subject to the 10% tax as well. However, dividends on bearer shares are subject to a 20% dividend tax. Companies requiring a commercial operating license must withhold a 5% tax on dividends declared from income obtained on exports or from foreign source.

Companies established in a Free Zone must withhold a 5% tax on dividends, regardless of the source of income. Loans and advances to shareholders are subject to 10% dividend tax, except for bearer's shares which are subject to a 20% withholding tax. Capital shares can be reduced only if the total retained earnings have been distributed and the dividend tax paid.

The dividend tax may vary subject to the application of a double tax treaty.

INTEREST INCOME

The following types of interest earned are not subject to income tax:

- Savings and time deposits with banks;
- Panamanian government securities;
- Securities issued by companies registered with the National Securities;
- Commission, provided the securities were acquired through a securities exchange duly established to operate in Panama;
- Loans granted to the agricultural and agro-industrial sectors;
- Loans granted to the tourism sector.

INTEREST DEDUCTIONS

Interest is normally deductible on an accrual basis but must be capitalised if it relates to financing of real estate construction. Once the construction is completed, interest is then deductible from income.

LOSSES

Losses incurred in any given year can be taken as a valid deduction over the next five years at a carry forward rate of 20% of the loss per year, as long as this deduction does not reduce the current taxable income by more than 50%. Excess over this limitation for any given year will be lost.

SOURCE OF INCOME

Foreign-sourced income is not subject to income tax. Only income earned in the territory of Panama is subject to Panama income tax. Income received by persons or companies domiciled outside of Panama will be considered from a Panamanian source if it arises from services or actions that benefit persons or companies located in Panama, including fees, interests and royalties. The income tax to be withheld is at the regular rates for individuals or corporations but only on 50% of the amount of income received by the recipient and may be deductible.

INCENTIVES

- a) The following incentives are available to these qualifying industries and corporations:
- b) Companies operating in the Colon Free Zone, or any other Free Zone in the country, are tax-exempt on profit derived from sales from the Free Zone to foreign countries;
- c) Companies operating in "Ciudad del Saber" (City of Knowledge) and "Panamá Pacífico" (Pacific Panama) are exempt of income tax, import duties and VAT. Dividend tax of 10% or 5% applies when dividends are declared;
- d) For "small business" companies, income tax is calculated over a combination of the personal tax rate and corporate tax rate. Companies are considered small as long as they:
 - Are not related or affiliated to other companies;
 - Are not a result of the fractionalisation of other corporations;
 - Have an annual gross income of less than USD 200,000; and,
 - Their shareholders are individual persons.
- e) Financial entities, including savings and loans associations or any other legal entity that previously registers with the Tax Authorities and whose commercial line of business is that of granting mortgage loans or engaging in construction and that meet the requirements and formalities provided for, may benefit from the tax regime called "Preferential Mortgage Loans":
 - The referred preferential portion may not exceed 4% in housing loans, whose value registered at the time of financing is greater than forty thousand balboas (USD 40,000) and does not exceed eighty thousand balboas (USD 80,000);
 - The preferential portion in housing loans, whose value registered at the time of financing is greater than eighty thousand balboas (USD 80,000) and does not exceed one hundred and twenty thousand balboas (USD 120,000), shall be 2%.

C. CORPORATE GROUPS

Group taxation is not permitted in Panama.

D. RELATED PARTY TRANSACTIONS

Transactions between related parties are treated normally as long as an "arm's length" basis is used. They are shown individually in the income tax return. For purposes of paying the annual operations notice tax, the amount owed to related parties abroad is not reduced as an obligation, causing an increase in this tax.

TRANSFER PRICING

There is a transfer pricing system for import and export with non-resident related parties of goods, services and rights. These prices are based on the following methods; comparative independent price method, resale price less profit method, production cost plus profit method, profit-split method, or the transaction net margin method.

The tax authorities require a study of transfer prices with the chosen method according to the agreements between companies and also the annual presentation of a declaration of transactions with related parties.

E. WITHHOLDING TAX

Services and fees paid or accrued to individuals and to resident corporations are not subject to withholding tax, except for payments on dividends distributed from retained earnings arising from Panama-sourced income. Services and fees, interests, commissions, royalties or technical assistance fees, etc., paid or accrued to foreign recipients are subject to withholding tax only if the local payer will take it as a deductible expense. The withholding tax is at the regular rates for individuals or corporations but only on 50% of the amount of income received by the recipient. The withholding tax must be remitted to the tax authorities within 10 days following the retention or registration, whichever comes first.

The withholding tax may vary subject to the application of a double tax treaty. In order to invoke the treaty for the first time, it is necessary to submit an application through a memorial, the tax residence certificate, original invoice and identification of the legal representative.

A. TAXES PAYABLE

TAXES AND FEDERAL LEVIES

CORPORATE TAX

The Paraguayan tax system relies heavily on four basic taxes: Value Added Tax (VAT), Tax on income from commercial and industrial activities (IRACIS), Tax on Agricultural Income (IRAGRO) and Selective Consumption tax (ISC).

Corporate income tax (Impuesto a la Renta de Actividades, Comerciales, Industriales y de Servicios, IRACIS) is levied upon all resident and non-resident legal entities deriving Paraguayan-source income. Non-residents without a permanent establishment or presence in Paraguay are only taxed on certain types of Paraguayan-source income. For corporate income tax purposes, taxable persons are: companies, individuals undertaking large-scale business activities, state-owned companies and government agencies, subsidiaries, branches, agencies and permanent establishments of foreign companies located in Paraguay and registered with the Paraguayan tax authorities. Companies engaged in agricultural activities are subject to a special income tax regime.

The Paraguayan tax system uses the territorial source criterion to tax income. This means that all income from property or rights within the national territory are taxed. However, the yields obtained from capital placed abroad and exchange differences thereof, are considered to be Paraguayan-sourced when the investing or beneficiary institution is based in Paraguay. An inflation adjustment is not taken into account but taxpayers are required to revalue their assets each year according to the rates set by the Government.

Corporate income tax is assessed at the rate of 10%. Additionally, a tax is levied on the distributing company at the rate of 5% on dividends or profit distributions to resident and non-resident shareholders. The tax is due at the time the dividends or profit distributions are declared by the shareholder or member's meeting, or at the time they are registered in the company's accounting books (in case the company does not carry out meetings under its by-laws). Dividends or profit distributions are considered as accrued by the recipient at that time, independently of the time of payment. The taxable base is the net amount of dividends or profit distributions, which excludes the corporate income tax paid and the profits capitalised or allocated to reserves. The taxable person is the company making the payment or distribution. The company must pay the 5% tax within 2 months from the shareholders' or members' meeting or registration in the company's accounting books.

SMALL TAXPAYER INCOME TAX (IRPC)

There is also a special tax for Small Taxpayers, which taxes income derived from commercial, industrial or non-personal services activities and whose income earned in the previous calendar year does not exceed PYG 500,000,000 (approximately USD 89,000).

The income tax on small business (impuesto a la renta del pequeño contribuyente, IRPC) is levied annually at the rate of 10% on the lesser of (i) the actual net income or (ii) a presumed net income.

Effective 1 January 2014, tax amendments were introduced regarding persons subject to this tax:

- a proprietorship carrying on commercial or industrial activities or performing services may be subject to this tax provided its annual accrued income in the previous tax year does not exceed PYG 500 million;
- if a proprietorship derived income in excess of this amount, it will become a taxpayer of the "income tax for commercial or industrial activities, or performance of services (IRACIS)" as from the following tax year, and will be registered as such by the tax administration; and
- a proprietorship registered as an IRACIS taxpayer may not become an IRPC taxpayer.

Subsidiaries and permanent establishments of foreign companies and companies carrying on import and/or export activities are excluded from the scope of this tax.

BRANCH PROFITS TAX

Branches are taxed at the same rate of 10% as Paraguayan domestic corporations. Profits transferred or credited to the head office are subject to a 15% withholding tax when remitted to the foreign head office. Furthermore, the payment of dividends is subject to a 5% tax rate, which has to be paid at the time of remittance and is charged to the local entity.

CAPITAL GAINS TAX

Gains on all assets, tangible and intangible, are taxable as part of profits and subject to income tax at a rate of 10%. Foreign currency exchange gains are also taxable at the same tax rate.

VALUE ADDED TAX (VAT)

VAT (impuesto al valor agregado, IVA) is levied on taxable supplies of goods and services as well as on imports of taxable goods and services into Paraguay. Exports are zero rated. Some specified transactions are exempt without credit for previously paid VAT. In computing tax liability, input VAT may be credited against output VAT, so that in practice only the value added to the taxpayer's supplies is taxed. VAT applies to all stages of the distribution process. VAT taxes the asset disposal or sale of services, the provision of services (excluding personal information rendered in a dependent relationship) and the importation of goods.

Are subject to payment of VAT individuals, sole proprietorships domiciled in the country, cooperatives with the scope set forth in Law No. 438/94, and companies engaged in commercial, industrial or service activities. The tax is calculated on the sales price of the goods or the services. The standard VAT rate is 10% while a 5% rate applies to the sale of pharmaceuticals, the basic family basket and agricultural, horticultural and fruit products as well as to property rentals.

Exports of goods and services of international freight for the transport of goods are not subject to VAT. In these cases the local exporter has the right to recover the tax credit associated with the exported products, which depends on the completion of certain formalities with the Tax Administration. Paraguayan law establishes a system of withholding tax on local suppliers by exporters and certain taxpayers appointed by the Tax Administration.

SELECTIVE CONSUMPTION TAX

Excise tax is payable at the time of the import or the first sale (by local manufacturers) of certain products such as soft drinks and alcoholic beverages, cigarettes, toiletries, fuels, among others, constituting a cost to the importer or local manufacturer. The tax is paid monthly, with the exception of fuels which is on a weekly basis. The settlement and payment are carried out before removal of goods from customs, i.e. before the warrant and order release of goods for departure.

MUNICIPAL TAXES

Municipal Patent for Industries

Over the asset value applies a fee plus a fixed rate of 0.05% on the excess of the minimum amount according to the scale provided by law. Industrial companies have a discount of 20% on the resulting patent. The new industrial plants and those that expand their facilities have a discount of 25% on the resulting patent for 3 years.

Commercial Patent

Over active value applies a fixed fee plus a rate of 0.05% on the excess of the minimum amount according to the scale provided by the Act.

Vehicles Patent

A tax is applied over the value for duty consisting of a fixed fee plus a rate of 0.6 to 1% on the excess of the minimum amount according to the scale provided in the Act. The law provides reductions for certain types of vehicles as taxis and remise cargo vans, buses and hearses.

Building

A tax over the value of the work sheet is applied, according to the intended scale in the Law between 0.2 and 4%.

SOCIAL SECURITY REGIME

Are mandatorily subject to a social security scheme, salaried workers, regardless of their age and the amount of compensation they receive. The percentage of current worker- employer contribution is 25.5% monthly, corresponding to 9% and 16.5% for workers and employers respectively. The basis for calculation is the current employee remuneration which is the total remuneration received by the worker in money, species or royalties, including extraordinary, additional or piecework work, commissions, perks, severance pay, awards, fees, interests and any other accessory remunerations with a normal character in the company or workplace, except for bonuses.

B. DETERMINATION OF TAXABLE INCOME

The taxable amount for purposes of calculating the tax on annual income is determined by deducting from the taxable gross income (difference between total income from commercial, industrial or service operations and the cost thereof), the expenses necessary to obtain and maintain the production source.

Paraguay

DEPRECIATION

Depreciation of property constituting the fixed assets is calculated annually based on the estimated life of each type of asset. When an activity involving depletion of the production source is made, the tax law allows depreciation proportional to such exhaustion. Intangible assets such as trademarks, patents and others are amortised using an annual percentage of 25%.

STOCK / INVENTORY

The cost of inventory includes all cases arising from its acquisition and processing, as well as other costs incurred to put it on deposit or application to the production process.

The valuation methods supported by the local tax rules are:

- a) Acquisition Cost;
- b) Conversion Cost;
- c) Any other valuation method prescribed in the International Financial Reporting Standards (IFRS), prior authorisation of the Tax Administration.

DIVIDENDS

The distribution of dividends is subject to Income Tax headed by the local taxpayer (entity distributing the dividends) with an additional fee of 5%, which must be applied to the amount of profits paid, remitted or credited, being either local or foreign shareholders. That tax will be non-deductible at the level of the taxpayer for the purpose of liquidating its tax expense. Partners and shareholders domiciled or established abroad, such as the head office abroad, tax the IRACIS by means of deduction, at the time that they are paid, remitted or credit profits by companies or branches opened in the country. In this case, the company or the local branch should act as a retainer agent, applying the rate of 15% on net amounts referred rotated or credited.

INTEREST DEDUCTION

Interest paid, which will be taxed in the hands of the receiver (creditor), will be allowable as a deduction for tax purposes. Interest paid to an overseas head office, other branch or agency by a Paraguay branch, agency or permanent establishment (on the capital, loans or any other investment made by the overseas head office, other branch or agency) will be allowable as a deduction for Paraguay tax purposes as long as the interest is subject to tax in the hands of the recipient and any Paraguay withholding tax has been accounted for.

There are no thin capitalisation rules in Paraguay.

LOSSES

Tax losses may not be carried forward or back.

However, the tax losses generated under the Agricultural Income Tax (IRAGRO) can be offset against taxable net income following five years.

FOREIGN SOURCE INCOME

The Paraguayan corporate income tax system is based on the territoriality principle, whereby tax is only due on business income generated by companies operating in Paraguay. Foreign-sourced income is not taxable. However, interest, commissions, and capital gains are considered Paraguayan-sourced income and subject to corporate income tax when the investor is resident in Paraguay.

TAX INCENTIVES

Paraguay has established free zones (FZs) in different areas of its territory. These areas can be used to carry on qualifying transactions. The incentives can be summarised as follows:

- taxpayers conducting qualifying activities and exporting abroad may opt to be taxed at a 0.5% rate on their total export turnover;
- taxpayers may sell finished products and services within the FZ, subject to a 0.5% tax, as long as the related sales turnover in the relevant tax period does not exceed 10% of the taxpayer's total gross income, otherwise, the latter may be subject to income tax at an effective rate of 3% on the ratio of the sales within the FZ and net income after deduction of related expenses; and
- the import of goods into the FZ is exempt from customs taxes and duties. The export of goods and services is also exempt.

MAQUILADORA REGIME

The Maquila Regime is regulated by Law 1064/97 under which a local company/subsidiary/branch ('Maquiladora') signs a contract with a foreign entity to produce goods and/or to provide services for export only, operating for account and risk of the foreign entity, who can supply all the raw materials and other inputs to the Maquiladora from any local or foreign supplier.

Any person or company, national or foreign, domiciled in Paraguay may be licensed for a Maquila export program. Such companies may be incorporated under any form: corporations, limited liability companies, foreign branches, or individual limited liability enterprises, without any ownership restrictions, having total or partial foreign, national or joint venture participation. There are no restrictions as to minimum capital or minimum/maximum production.

The Maquiladora must file an application for a Maquila Program to the Maquila Council with details of the estimated undertaking. Once the program is approved, it can be modified as necessary, and the following benefits are granted:

Paraguay

- Suspension of all applicable taxes and duties on raw materials and other inputs required for the performance of the Maquila Program that can enter on Paraguayan territory;

- Maquiladoras can perform production by themselves or can subcontract to other local companies, and tax benefits might extend to subcontractors under certain conditions.

Requirements include a guarantee (insurance policy, warrant or bank guaranty) for customs duties for a value equal to the suspended taxes.

C. FOREIGN TAX RELIEF

As foreign-source income is not subject to corporate income tax in Paraguay (see above under 'Foreign Source Income'), no credit is granted for foreign taxes.

D. CORPORATE GROUPS

There are no provisions in Paraguayan law for the filing of consolidated tax returns.

E. RELATED PARTY TRANSACTIONS

Paraguayan law does not contain transfer pricing provisions. However, it contains some provisions dealing with certain payments that affect the transfer price on the cost of goods for importation and exportation activities, like soybeans and soybean products.

There are no CFC (Controlled Foreign Company) provisions in Paraguayan law.

F. WITHHOLDING TAX

Domestic-source income derived by non-residents without a permanent establishment in Paraguay is generally subject to a final withholding tax levied on the gross amount of income.

Dividend payments or profit distributions to non-resident shareholders are subject to a 15% withholding tax on the gross amount. Interest paid to non-residents is subject to a 30% withholding tax. As the withholding rate is applied on 50% of the interest, Paraguayan-sourced interest payments are taxed at an effective rate of 15%. Interest paid to non-resident financial institutions is subject to a 6% effective withholding tax rate. Royalties paid to non-residents are subject to a 30% withholding tax. As the withholding rate is applied on 50% of the royalty payment, Paraguayan-sourced royalty payments are taxed at an effective rate of 15%.

Branch profit remittances paid to head offices are subject to a withholding tax at the rate of 15% on the amount remitted (in addition to the corporate income tax rate of 10% and the additional income tax of 5% levied at the time of distribution). The withholding tax applies only if the profits are actually distributed or remitted to the head office.

Fees and commissions paid to non-residents are subject to a tax of 30%, which is withheld at source. As the withholding rate is applied on 50% of the payment, domestic-source fees and commission payments are taxed at an effective rate of 15%. Deemed taxable income derived by non-residents from leasing immovable or movable property is 50% of the gross rental amount, which is subject to a tax of 30%. Consequently, Paraguayan-sourced rental payments are taxed at an effective rate of 15%.

Capital gains derived by non-residents are subject to a tax of 30%, which is applied on 50% of the gain. Consequently, domestic-source capital gains are taxed at an effective rate of 15%.

G. EXCHANGE CONTROL

The Paraguay Central Bank does not control the foreign-exchange market. A free-market rate of exchange prevails.

H. PERSONAL TAX

Personal Income Tax (IRP) is levied on income from Paraguayan sources generated by conducting personal income generating activities. IRP taxpayers are individuals and single companies whose income exceeds 10 minimum monthly wages or the equivalent of 120 monthly minimum wages in the course of a year. The threshold to be subject to tax is reduced by 12 monthly minimum salaries per year, until it reaches the level of 36 minimum salaries in 2019. The individual income tax has been introduced progressively since 2012 when it entered into force. Individuals whose annual income exceeds the following amount are subject to income tax:

- 2012: 120 minimum salaries;
- 2013: 108 minimum salaries;
- 2014: 96 minimum salaries;
- 2015: 84 minimum salaries;
- 2016: 72 minimum salaries;
- 2017: 60 minimum salaries;
- 2018: 48 minimum salaries; and
- as from 2019: 36 minimum salaries (final minimum amount).

The rates are:

- 10% for income above 10 minimum monthly wages (approximately USD 3,800);
- 8% for income not exceeding 10 minimum monthly wages and 20% on 50% of the amount earned by individuals domiciled abroad by performing taxable activities in the country. In the latter case the payor should act as a withholding agent on any payment, credit or remittance.

KEY TAX POINTS

- Corporate Income Tax (CIT) is payable at a rate of 29.5% applicable from 2017 onwards.
- Value Added Tax is imposed on the sale of goods, the supply and use of services in the country and the import of goods made at different stages of the economic cycle. The general tax rate is 18%.
- Royalties and similar income are subject to withholding income taxes at source.
- Peruvian citizens residing in Peru are taxed on their worldwide income, regardless of where the income is generated or where it has been paid or the currency received for it. In the case of non-resident citizens, they are taxed only on their Peruvian-source income.

A. TAXES PAYABLE

NATIONAL TAXES AND LEVIES

COMPANY TAX

Resident companies are taxed on its worldwide income. Any profits, including capital gains, are included in the taxable income of a corporation and taxed at the regular corporate rate. Resident companies are those incorporated or established in Peru.

Corporate Income Tax (CIT) is payable at a total rate of 29.5%. An additional 5% applies for distribution of dividends.

The tax year for a company is its accounting year, which ends on 31st December. Companies are required to make monthly advance payments of CIT based on one of the following methods:

- 1.5% of monthly net revenue; or,
- The monthly net revenue times a ratio between the income tax and the net revenue, both from the preceding year.

Companies must file their Annual Income Tax Return and pay any balance due up to the end of March or the first days of April each year.

Mining companies are, in addition to their specific corporate rates of tax, subject to a royalty calculated on the gross sales relating to the transfer of mineral resources. The royalty is calculated in terms of a specific formula and, depending upon the operating margin, is in a range from 1% to 12%.

CAPITAL GAINS TAX (CGT)

Strictly speaking, CGT is not a tax in its own right but rather forms an integral part of Peruvian Income Tax legislation. As a general rule, capital gains are defined as any income obtained from capital assets disposal.

Capital assets are those not intended to be traded within any business or company. Subject to any exclusions and exemptions, a taxable gain is calculated by taking the difference between the proceeds received on disposal of the asset and the base cost and then multiplying this amount by the tax rate (which varies depending on the nature of the taxpayer).

BRANCH PROFITS TAX

Peruvian branches of foreign companies are subject to tax on Peruvian-source income only at the regular corporate rate.

VALUE ADDED TAX (VAT)

Peruvian VAT is imposed on the sale of goods, the supply and use of services in the country and the import of goods made at different stages of the economic cycle. The general tax rate is 18%. It is a monthly basis tax operating under the system of debit / credit, offsetting the tax generated from sales with the tax paid on purchases.

Exports are zero-rated and very few exemptions exist.

There are two particular systems for recovering the tax credit generated by the Peruvian VAT:

- Early Recovery: Companies at a pre-operative stage longer than two years with Large projects may apply for early recovery of VAT, which allows them to obtain a VAT credit refund prior to starting operations. An investment agreement with the Ministry of this sector is required and a minimum investment of USD 5 million is required;
- Definitive Recovery: This applies mainly to the mining, oil and gas industries. Thus, the system applies to holders of mining claims which are not in the production phase and enter into an Exploration Investment Agreement with the State, while those who have entered into Contracts of Services or License under the Hydrocarbons Law may request this benefit during the exploration stage.

FRINGE BENEFITS TAX

Employees are taxed on the value of the fringe benefits they receive as determined in accordance with Peruvian Income Tax Law. The tax levied is in accordance with the tax rates applicable to natural persons.

LOCAL TAXES:

REAL ESTATE TAX

It is an annual tax levied on the value of urban and rural properties. Lands, buildings and fixed and permanent facilities are deemed properties for Real Estate Tax purposes. The taxpayer status is determined as of 1 January each year and the payment will be made at the District Municipality where the property is located.

The rate is progressive and cumulative as detailed below (measured in UIT tax units, see note):

Real State Tax - Progressive Cumulative Scale	Rate
From 0 UIT to 15 UIT - (up to PEN 63,000)	0.2%
From 15 UIT to 60 UIT - (up to PEN 252,000)	0.6%
Above 60 UIT - (for the excess of PEN 252,000)	1.0%

Note: UIT = Annual Tax Unit. 2019 UIT = PEN 4,200.00

VEHICLE OWNERSHIP TAX

This is an annual tax levied on property consisting of cars, four-wheel drive and station wagons manufactured locally or imported during the three fiscal years following the year in which the vehicle was first registered with the Vehicle Property Registry. The Provincial Municipality within which jurisdiction the owner resides will be the creditor administering and collecting the tax. The tax base is the original value of the acquisition, import or entry into the patrimony.

Vehicle Ownership Tax ¹	Rate
Rate Applicable	1%

Note:

1. Tax sum cannot be lower than 1.5% of the UIT effective as of 1st January of each tax year.

REAL ESTATE TRANSFER TAX (ALCABALA)

This is a tax levied on the transfer of title to real estate located in urban or rural areas, on gratuitous or onerous title, as the case may be, including sales with reservation of the right to ownership. Taxable base is the transfer value of the property and is paid by the buyer, who shall pay the tax at the District Municipality where the property is located.

Real Estate Transfer Tax (Alcabala) - Progressive Scale	Rate
From 0 UIT to 10 UIT - (up to PEN 42,000) ¹	0%
For the excess of 10 UIT	3%

Note: 1. Exempted portion.

OTHER TAXES

TEMPORAL NET ASSETS TAX (ITAN)

Temporal Net Assets Tax (known by its Spanish acronym as ITAN) is levied at a rate of 0.4% on the company's net assets with a value exceeding PEN 1,000,000.00, as assessed at 31 December of the previous year. The amount paid for the ITAN by the taxpayer is a credit to be offset against corporate income tax. If not totally offset, the remaining ITAN may be refunded by the Peruvian Tax Administration (SUNAT).

In the case of subsidiaries or branches of foreign companies, they can offset the ITAN obligation with the Income Tax amount paid in Peru, so as to use the whole income tax paid as a tax relief in its country of origin.

Companies which are in pre-operative stages or have begun operations as from 1 January of the year for which the ITAN must be paid are exempted from ITAN.

TAX ON FINANCIAL TRANSACTIONS (ITF)

The Tax on Financial Transactions (known by its Spanish acronym 'ITF') levies transactions (deposits and withdrawals) made through the Peruvian financial system and is deductible as an expense for income tax purposes. Its rate is 0.005%.

The ITF is a complementary measure of the so-called "bankarisation" or banking usage which requires companies to pay any amounts exceeding USD 1,000 or PEN 3,500.00 through so-called "means of payment", which include account deposits, money orders, money transfers, payment orders, debit cards or credit cards issued in the country and "not negotiable" checks. Otherwise, cost or expense not performed using such methods shall not be recognised for tax purposes.

EXCISE TAX (ISC)

Excise Tax is levied on specific goods such as cigarettes, beer, liquor, soft drinks, fuel, vehicles, gambling/betting services and other luxury items. It is levied on the sale in the country of such goods at producer level and/or import of them. It is applied using three systems:

- Specific, which applies a fixed amount in Soles per unit of measure;
- To the value, which is applied based on a percentage on the sale price;
- To the sale price, which involves applying a percentage of the suggested retail price.

CUSTOMS DUTIES

The import of goods into Peru is subject to payment of Customs Duties with ad valorem rates. Additionally, Value Added Tax, the Excise Tax, Antidumping rights, Compensation and others depending on the type of goods imported, are applied, as detailed below:

	2018
Customs tariffs ¹	0%, 4%, 6%, 11%
Value Added Tax ²	18%

Notes:

- Rates are applied on CIF value and according to the imported goods.
- VAT is applied on CIF Value plus Customs tariffs. Depending upon the type of goods, excise tax is also applied.

Customs duties are subject to a refund system or drawback, which entitles the producers/exporters to apply for a refund of all or part of customs duties affecting imports of raw materials or inputs used or consumed during the production process of exported goods, provided that the CIF value of imports of such goods does not exceed 50% of the FOB value of the export product.

B. DETERMINATION OF TAXABLE INCOME

The taxable income of a company is determined by deducting expenditures and costs incurred in the production of income and other permitted expenses and allowances from the company's income.

ALLOWANCES: PLANT, MACHINERY AND EQUIPMENT USED IN MANUFACTURE

Depreciation is calculated using the straight-line method or any other system provided they do not exceed the maximum rate of depreciation and the cost of acquisition of fixed assets. The following are some of the rates allowed by Peruvian Income Tax Law:

Notes:

- Pursuant to the provisions of Law 29342.
- Limited-time intangibles (software, copyrights, patents, etc.) should be amortised over just one tax year, or under the straight-line system over a ten-year term.

STOCK / INVENTORY

All trading stock on hand at the end of the tax year must be added to income while all trading stock on hand at the beginning of the year ranks as a deduction. Inventories should be carried at cost and will be determined specifically or using the "first in, first out" method (FIFO), average cost method or the basic inventory. The "last in, first out" method (LIFO) of valuing trading stock is not permitted.

RESEARCH AND DEVELOPMENT EXPENDITURE (R&D)

Generally, tax is applied to taxable income, which is the accounting profit in the tax period after adjustments provided for by the Peruvian Income Tax Law. Exemptions are usually insignificant. Expenses are deductible to the extent incurred in producing taxable income, subject to certain restrictions and limitations. Expenses given to projects of scientific and technological research and technological innovation are deductible for purposes of income tax, linked or not to the line of business of the company, provided that the projects are classified by the National Council for Science, Technology and Technological Innovation (CONCYTEC). Starting in 2016, the 30309 Law came into effect, with the purpose of promoting scientific research, technological development and innovation. The law provides tax benefits related to deductions for projects starting in 2016 which are not already included in the deduction established by the law on Income Tax.

INTELLECTUAL PROPERTY

As stated above, deduction of limited-time intangibles (software, copyrights, patents, etc.) should be amortised over just one tax year or by the straight-line system for a ten-year term.

INTEREST AND FINANCE CHARGES

Interest paid and financial charges incurred in the production of income are deductible expenses for Income Tax purposes. Interest paid to non-residents (or related entities) is generally subject to withholding tax at a rate of 30%. For interest paid by Peruvian resident financial institutions for the use of credit lines in Peru, or unaffiliated foreign lenders, the withholding tax rate is 4.99%, subject to the following conditions:

- The proceeds of the loan are brought into Peru as foreign currency through local banks or are used to finance the import of goods;
- The proceeds of the loan are used for business purposes in Peru;
- The interest rate does not exceed the prime rate plus three percentage points. In the case of loans obtained in the American money market of the United States of America and in the European money market, the prevailing LIBOR rate plus 4 points is considered a prime rate. The three or four percentage points are designed to cover expenses, commissions and any other additional charges related to the loan.

If the first two aforementioned conditions are met and the interest rate exceeds the prime rate plus three points or the LIBOR plus four points, the excess interest is subject to withholding tax at the regular rate of 30%.

TAX LOSSES

Tax losses may be carried forward subject to the following two systems:

- (a) Offset in full for a four-year term limit subsequent to the year in which it was generated;
- (b) Offset indefinitely during the subsequent years, only up to 50% of annual net income. No carry back is allowed.

INTEREST RECEIVED

Interest received (or accrued) is included in gross income of any corporation.

P C. FOREIGN TAX RELIEF

Peruvian resident individuals and corporations are subject to tax in Peru on their worldwide income. However, this general principle may be overridden by the provisions of a double tax treaty.

CREDIT FOR INCOME TAX PAID ABROAD

Taxes paid abroad on income from foreign taxable sources are deductible from Peruvian income tax, provided that these do not exceed the amount obtained by applying the average rate on income earned abroad, or the tax effectively paid abroad. The amount of credit that for any reason is not used in the taxable year cannot serve as compensation in other taxable years and will not be entitled to any reimbursement.

D. CORPORATE GROUPS

Group taxation is not applicable. There are no provisions for filing consolidated returns and relieving losses within a group.

E. RELATED PARTY TRANSACTIONS

Thin capitalisation: Pursuant to the Peruvian Income Tax Law, interests paid by entities domiciled in Peru, to related entities or related companies over the "3" factor resulting from applying the "debt/equity" ratio on the taxpayer's net equity at the end of the previous year, shall not be deductible in determining the Income Tax.

Transfer Pricing: Peruvian Income Tax Law includes transfer pricing rules based on the arm's length principle according to the guidelines of the Organisation for Economic Cooperation and Development (OECD). However, these rules do not apply solely to transactions between related parties but to transactions with offshore entities whose domicile are located in territories with low or no taxation (tax havens) and are applicable for purposes of Income Tax. The law provides the following transfer pricing methods:

- Comparable Uncontrolled Price Method;
- Resale Price Method;
- Increased Cost Method;
- Utility Partition Method;
- Residual Method of Utility Partition; and,
- Transactional Net Margin Method.

Peruvian Tax Administration requires special declarations in which the taxpayer must prove the reasonableness of its transfer pricing policies.

F. WITHHOLDING TAXES

Royalties and similar income are subject to withholding income taxes at source.

- A withholding tax applies to interest paid in the production of income at a rate of 30%.
- Interest paid by banks or financial institutions for the use of credit lines in Peru, or loans obtained from unaffiliated foreign lenders are subject to a 4.99% withholding tax, subject to the following conditions:
 - The proceeds of the loan are brought into Peru as foreign currency through local banks or are used to finance the import of goods;
 - The proceeds of the loan are used for business purposes in Peru.

Dividends or other forms of distribution of profits, including remittances of profits from Peruvian networks or subsidiaries of foreign companies, are subject to 5% of the withholding of income tax from the year 2017 onwards. It should be noted that for the years 2015/16 the applicable withholding rate was 6.8%.

Royalties are subject to a 30% withholding income tax.

- Technical assistance services for commercial purposes in Peru are subject to withholding income tax of 15% provided that the purchase consideration for the service does not exceed 140 UIT at effect at the time of conclusion. If the service exceeds the amount described, a report from an audit firm will be submitted to SUNAT, which will certify that the assistance was provided effectively. The report in question must be issued by an audit firm domiciled in Peru, that has current registration in the Register of Audit Firms in an Institute of Public Accountants or other audit firms entitled under the provisions of the country in which they are established to provide such services.

In case of not having this report, the applicable rate will be 30%.

- Digital services economically used in Peru are subject to a 30% withholding income tax. In the event that they are rendered together with technical assistance. The amount for each of them shall be distinguished on an individual basis. If it is not possible, the transaction will be treated as appropriate to the essential or predominant operation.
- Property Leasing is subject to a 30% Withholding Income Tax, to be applied on income received by non-resident legal entities. A 5% Withholding Income Tax applies on income received by non-resident individuals.
- Capital gains from the disposal, redemption or ransom of transferable securities issued by companies incorporated in Peru are subject to a 30% Withholding Income Tax except where the transaction is performed through a centralised mechanism of negotiation in Peru (stock market), in which case the rate is 5%.

In order to consider the disposal of securities to be made in Peru, they should be registered at the Public Registry of Transferable Securities and negotiated at the domestic stock market.

In case of some activities performed partly in Peru and partly overseas by non-domiciled individuals, including income generated by their subsidiaries or permanent establishment, the following schemes of withholding income tax apply:

Activity	% Gross Income Qualifying as Net Income from Peruvian Source	Effective Rate (%)
Air transport	1	0.3
Lease of vessels	80	8.0
Lease of aircrafts	60	6.0
Supply of shipping containers	15	4.5
Transport containers demurrage	80	24.0
Insurance	7	2.1
International news agencies	10	3.0
Maritime transport	2	0.6
Motion picture distribution	20	6.0
Transfer of television broadcasting rights	20	6.0
Telecommunications services	5	1.5

G. EXCHANGE CONTROL

Foreign-exchange controls have been eliminated. Consequently, transactions are carried out in a free market at prices set by supply and demand.

H. PERSONAL TAX

Pursuant to Peruvian Income Tax Law, Peruvian citizens residing in Peru are taxed on their worldwide income, regardless of where the income is generated or where it has been paid or the currency of receipt. In the case of non-resident citizens, they are taxed only on their Peruvian-source income.

In case of foreign citizens, they are deemed to be residents if they have been physically present in Peru for more than 183 days within a 12-month period.

For both cases, resident status shall be determined at the beginning of each tax year. Changes regarding such condition that may occur during the fiscal year shall become effective from the start of the next fiscal year.

For domiciled individuals, tax on income from work either independently or as employees (wages, salaries, etc.) shall be determined by applying a progressive cumulative rate based on the amount of income received during the tax year, according to the following detail:

Progressive Cumulative Scale

Income	Rate
Up to 5 UIT	8%
For the excess of 5 UIT and up to 20 UIT	14%
For the excess of 20 UIT and up to 35 UIT	17%
For the excess of 35 UIT and up to 45 UIT	20%
Above 45 UIT	30%

DEEMED EMPLOYEES

Labor brokers and personal service providers are regarded as employees. A labor broker is a natural person who, for reward, provides a client with other persons to render a service for the client or procures such other persons for the client and remunerates such person.

A personal service provider is a company or trust where any service rendered on behalf of the entity to its client is rendered personally by any person who is a connected person in relation to such entity and certain provisions are met.

A. TAXES PAYABLE

COMPANY TAX

Company tax is payable by domestic companies on all income derived from sources within and outside of the Philippines. Foreign corporations, whether resident or non-resident, are taxable only on income derived from sources within the Philippines. However, non-resident foreign corporations are, in certain circumstances, subject to a final withholding tax on passive (investment) income at rates generally higher than the applicable tax rates applying to domestic and resident foreign corporations.

Resident companies are those that are created or organised under the laws of the Philippines or foreign companies duly licensed to engage in trade or business in the Philippines. The corporate income tax rate both for domestic and resident foreign corporations is 30% based on net taxable income. Excluded from the income tax are dividends received from domestic corporations, interest on Philippine currency bank deposit and yield or any other monetary benefit from deposit substitutes and from trust funds and similar arrangements, and other passive income previously subject to final taxes.

Interest income derived from the expanded foreign currency deposit is subject to a final tax of 15%. All other interest earned by domestic and resident foreign corporations is subject to a 20% final withholding tax except for long-term time deposits of five (5) years or more that is exempt from final withholding tax rates, those with a term of four years to less than five years are taxed at 5%, and those between three and four years are subject 12% tax. Regional operating headquarters are taxed at 10% on taxable income.

Special economic zone enterprises duly registered with the Philippines Economic Zone Authority (PEZA) are taxed at the rate of 5% on gross income in lieu of national and local taxes, except real property tax. The term 'gross income' refers to gross sales or gross revenue derived from the business activity within the Ecozone, net of sales discount, sales returns and allowances, less the cost of sales or direct costs but before deduction is made for administrative expenses and incidental losses during the taxable period. Likewise, Tourism Infrastructure and Enterprise Zone Authority (TIEZA) registered entities enjoy a special income tax rate of 5%.

The tax year runs for the calendar year although approval of the Commissioner of Internal Revenue can be obtained for the adoption of a fiscal year. Tax is payable in four quarterly instalments, with every corporation filing quarterly income tax returns for the first three quarters and tax being payable 60 days following the end of each quarter. A final return covering the full year is required to be lodged 105 days after year end at which time the balance of tax, after deducting the prior three instalments and creditable withholding tax, is payable. Any excess is refundable or can be claimed as a tax credit against future tax payments.

MINIMUM CORPORATE INCOME TAX

A minimum corporate income tax of 2% based on gross income is imposed from the beginning of the fourth taxable year immediately following the commencement of the business operation of the corporation. Any excess of the minimum corporate income tax over the normal income tax may be carried forward and credited against the normal income tax for the three taxable years immediately succeeding. The computation and the payment of MCIT shall likewise apply at the time of filing of the quarterly corporate income tax.

The term 'gross income' for the purpose of applying the minimum corporate income tax shall mean the gross sales less sales returns, discounts and allowances and cost of goods sold. The Secretary of Finance, however, may suspend the imposition of the minimum corporate income tax on any corporation which suffers losses on account of prolonged labour dispute, force majeure or legitimate business reverses.

CAPITAL GAINS TAX – ON SHARE OF STOCK

The net capital gains from the sale of shares of stock of a domestic corporation not listed and traded through the Philippine Stock Exchange are taxed on a per transaction basis at the rate of 5% on the first PHP 100,000 and 10% in excess of said amount if the transferor or assignee is a corporation. If the transferor or assignee is an individual, the net gain shall be subject to 15%. The value of the shares of stock is computed based on the Adjusted Net Asset Method, whereby all assets and liabilities are adjusted to fair market values.

On the other hand, the sale of shares of stock of a domestic corporation through the Philippine Stock Exchange or through the initial public offering is subject to a percentage tax on the transaction at the rate of 6/10 of 1% of the selling price. Any gain or loss from said transaction is not considered for income tax purposes.

CAPITAL GAINS TAX – ON SALE OF REAL PROPERTY

The sale of land, building and other real properties classified as capital asset is subject to 6% final capital gains tax based on the gross selling price, current fair market value or zonal value at the time of sale, whichever is higher.

IMPROPERLY ACCUMULATED EARNINGS TAX

The 10% improperly accumulated earnings tax (IAET) is imposed on improperly accumulated taxable income earned by closely-held corporations. The term 'closely-held corporation' refers to corporations where at least 50% of the capital stock or voting power is owned directly or indirectly by or for not more than 20 individuals. The tax base of the 10% IAET is the taxable income of the current year plus income exempt from tax, income excluded from gross income, income subject to final tax, and the amount of net operating loss carry forward deducted. It is reduced by income tax paid for the current year, dividends actually or constructively paid, and amount reserved for the reasonable needs of the business. The IAET does not apply to the following corporations:

- (a) Banks and other nonbank financial intermediaries;
- (b) Insurance companies;
- (c) Publicly-held corporations;
- (d) Taxable partnerships;
- (e) General professional partnerships;
- (f) Non-taxable joint ventures; and,
- (g) Duly registered enterprises located within the special economic zones declared by law which enjoy payment of special tax rate on their registered operations or activities in lieu of other taxes, national or local.

BRANCH PROFITS TAX

A branch is classified as a resident foreign corporation. As such, it is subject to income tax at the rate of 30% on its net income derived within the Philippines. Any branch profit to be remitted to the Head Office is additionally taxed at the rate of 15%. For purposes of branch profit remittance, income items which are not effectively connected with the conduct of its trade or business in the Philippines are not considered branch profits.

Such income items include interests, dividends, rents, royalties, including remuneration for technical services, salaries, wages, premiums, annuities, emoluments or other fixed or determinable annual, periodic or casual gains, profits, income and capital gains received during each taxable year from all sources within the Philippines. To be 'effectively connected', it is not necessary that the income be derived from the actual operation of the branch's trade or business. It is sufficient that the income arises from the business activity in which the branch is engaged. However, the 15% branch profit tax does not apply to profits remitted by a branch coming from those activities duly registered with the Philippine Economic Zone Authority (PEZA).

VALUE ADDED TAX (VAT)

A 12% value added tax (VAT) of the gross selling price or gross value in money of the goods is imposed to all importation, sale, barter, exchange or lease of goods or properties and sale of services. 'Gross selling price' means the total amount of money or its equivalent that the purchaser pays or is obligated to pay to the seller in consideration of the sale, barter or exchange of the goods or properties, excluding the value added tax. The excise tax, if any, on such goods or properties shall form part of the gross selling price.

FRINGE BENEFITS TAX

Fringe benefits furnished or granted in cash or in kind by an employer to an individual employee (except rank and file employees) are taxed at the rate of 35% based on the grossed-up monetary value of the fringe benefits.

LOCAL TAXES

There are no local taxes other than local authority rates and local (business) taxes and permit fees. Special economic zone enterprises are not subject to local taxes.

OTHER TAXES

Other taxes include the following:

PERCENTAGE TAXES

Percentage taxes are imposed on carriers (domestic or international), franchises, banks, financial intermediaries, finance companies, life insurance companies, agents of foreign insurance companies, overseas communications, amusement, winnings, and stock transactions.

INITIAL PUBLIC OFFERING (IPO) TAX

Sale, barter, exchange or other disposition through initial public offering of shares of stock in closely held corporations is taxed at the rates provided below based on the gross selling price or gross value in money of the shares of stock sold, bartered, exchanged or otherwise disposed of in accordance to the total outstanding shares of stock after the listing in local stock exchange:

	Rate
Up to 25%	4%
Over 25% but not over 33.33%	2%
Over 33.33%	1%

EXCISE TAXES

Excise taxes are imposed on alcohol and tobacco products, petroleum and mineral products, automobiles, sweetened beverages, cosmetic products and certain non-essential goods.

DOCUMENTARY STAMP DUTY

Documentary stamp tax is imposed on certain documents including shares certificates, bank cheques, bonds, sales documents of real properties and mortgages. Effective 1 January 2018, rates for most of the documents subject to documentary stamp tax were increased twofold.

REAL PROPERTY TAX

Real property tax is imposed on owners of real property and is calculated on the assessed value of the property.

B. DETERMINATION OF TAXABLE INCOME

A company's taxable profit is calculated by deducting ordinary and necessary expenses paid or incurred during the tax year in carrying on business. Typical expenses include salaries, travelling expenses and rentals, all of which need to be substantiated to be deductible. Additionally, taxes that relate to the business other than income, estate, gift and energy taxes and taxes charged to local benefits of a kind likely to increase the value of property are deductible. In calculating taxable income, special rules and exemptions apply in the circumstances outlined below.

DEPRECIATION

Any recognised depreciation method may be used if it is 'reasonable'. The annual depreciation allowance is determined on the basis of depreciable property, estimated useful life and salvage value. For extraction industries, a distinction is made between petroleum and other mining activities. Distinctions are also made between different categories of expense (e.g. tangible or intangible, exploration or drilling etc.), and different methods apply (e.g. expenditure, cost depletion, etc.).

STOCK / INVENTORY

For taxpayers engaged in a trade or business, the valuation of inventories must meet the following conditions:

- It must conform as nearly as possible to the best accounting practice in the trade or business; and,
- It must clearly reflect the income.

As such, although it cannot be uniform for all taxpayers, the system used must come within the scope of the best accounting practice in the particular trade or business. In order to clearly reflect income, the inventory practice of a taxpayer should be consistent from year to year as greater weight is given to consistency than to any particular method or basis of valuation. As long as the method is substantially in accord with these regulations, it is likely to be accepted.

The basis of valuation which is most commonly used by business concerns and which meets the requirements of the tax laws is the cost price or the lower of cost or market price.

Regardless of the basis of valuation, inventories are subject to investigation by the Commissioner of Internal Revenue and the taxpayer must satisfy the Commissioner of the correctness of the price adopted.

CAPITAL GAINS AND LOSSES

See discussions above. Ordinary assets include:

- (a) Stock in trade of the taxpayers, or other property of a kind which would properly be included in the inventory of the taxpayer if on hand at the end of the taxable year;
- (b) Property held by the taxpayer primarily for sale to customers in the ordinary course of trade or business;
- (c) Property used in trade or business of a character which is subject to allowance for depreciation;
- (d) Real property used in trade or business.

All properties held by the taxpayer, whether or not connected with trade or business, not included in the enumeration of ordinary assets are capital assets. Capital gains arise from the disposal of 'capital assets'.

DIVIDENDS

Dividends received by a Philippine corporation or by a resident foreign corporation from a Philippine corporation are not subject to income tax. However, resident individuals receiving dividends are subject to 10% final income tax. No credit is granted for underlying corporate profits out of which the dividends are declared. However, a domestic corporation that owns a majority of the voting stock of a foreign corporation from which it receives dividends is deemed to have paid the underlying foreign taxes.

INTEREST DEDUCTIONS

Interest is deductible on a cash or accrual basis depending upon the taxpayer's method of accounting but shall be reduced by 33% to the extent that a portion of interest income has been subjected to final tax. Where interest is paid to a foreign lender, it will remain deductible so long as it is incurred in connection with the trade or business of the taxpayer.

LOSSES

Losses may be offset against all income and capital gains in the same tax year. Losses must be sustained by the taxpayer during the taxable year and must be incurred in relation to the trade and business and evidenced by completed transaction. Operating loss for any taxable year immediately preceding the current taxable year which had not been previously offset as deduction from gross income may be carried over as a deduction from gross income for the next three consecutive years immediately following the year of such loss. This is known as the Net Operating Loss Carryover or the excess of allowable deduction over gross income in a taxable year. However, there are certain limitations to be followed:

- (a) Any net loss incurred in a taxable year during which the taxpayer is exempt from income tax shall not be allowed as deduction;

Philippines

(b) Allowed only if no substantial change in the ownership in that:

- Not less than 75% in nominal value of the outstanding issued shares, if the business is in the name of the corporation, is held by or on behalf of the same persons; or,
- Not less than 75% of the paid in capital of the corporation, if the business is in the name of the corporation, is held by or on behalf of the same persons.

For mines other than oils and gas wells, a net operating loss without the benefit of incentives provided for under Executive Order No. 226, as amended, otherwise known as the Omnibus Investment Code of 1987, incurred in any of the first ten years of operation may be carried over as a deduction from gross income for the next five years immediately following the year of loss.

FOREIGN SOURCE INCOME

A Philippine (domestic) corporation is taxed on worldwide income. Foreign income is taxed when earned or received, depending on the accounting method used by the taxpayer. Resident foreign corporations are taxed in the Philippines only on Philippine source income.

TAX INCENTIVES

Tax incentives available to enterprises registered with the Board of Investments (BOI) or the Philippine Economic Zone Authority (PEZA) include six years' income tax holidays for pioneer firms and four years for non-pioneer firms with expanding firms granted three years. For PEZA registered enterprises, a 5% tax on the modified gross income is imposed after the end of the income tax holiday. Likewise, Tourism Infrastructure and Enterprise Zone Authority (TIEZA) registered entities enjoy a special income tax rate of 5%.

The tax holiday may be extended for an additional year in specified circumstances but in no case may the aggregate period of the tax holiday exceed eight years.

For the first five years, an enterprise registered with the BOI or PEZA is, in specified circumstances, allowed an additional deduction from the taxable income of 50% of the wage expense corresponding to the increment in the number of direct labour for skilled and unskilled workers.

Enterprises located in less developed areas are, in specified circumstances, allowed a 100% deduction of said wages and a 100% deduction for construction costs. Enterprises located in export processing zones and special economic zones are likewise entitled to income tax holidays and tax and duty-free importation of raw materials and equipment. 'Gross income earned' shall refer to gross sales or revenues derived from business activity within the respective zones, net of sales discounts, sales returns and allowances and minus cost of sales or direct costs but before any deduction is made for administrative, marketing, selling and/or operating expenses or incidental losses during a given taxable period.

TAX CREDITS

Tax credits are available for taxes and duties paid on purchases of raw materials of products for export, domestic capital equipment, and domestic breeding stock and genetic materials. A number of Special Economic Zones, some of which are operated as separate customs territories also exist. (Refer also to 'Tax Incentives' above.)

OPTIONAL STANDARD DEDUCTION (OSD)

In lieu of the itemised deduction of ordinary and necessary expenses paid or incurred to calculate the net taxable profit, domestic and foreign corporations are allowed an OSD in the amount not exceeding 40% of gross income. Companies intending to avail of the OSD are required to indicate such intention upon filing the first quarter income tax return.

The computation and the payment using the OSD shall likewise apply at the time of filing of the quarterly corporate income tax. There are taxpayers (corporations, partnerships) not entitled to avail of the OSD, listed below:

- a) Those exempt under the Tax Code, as amended, and other special laws, with no other taxable income;
- b) Those with income subject to special/preferential rates; and,
- c) Those with income subject to regular income tax rate, and also with income subject to special/preferential tax rates.

C. FOREIGN TAX RELIEF

Relief from double taxation is provided by way of double tax treaties and/or by means of foreign tax credits. The treaties generally define when a taxpayer will be deemed for income tax purposes to be doing business in the Philippines.

D. CORPORATE GROUPS

Group taxation is not permitted. The grouping of corporations has no tax implications as the tax laws treat each corporation in isolation.

E. RELATED PARTY TRANSACTIONS

Philippine corporations can claim a deduction for royalties, management services and interest charges paid to foreign affiliates provided the amount represents an arm's length price and the appropriate withholding taxes are withheld and remitted. Some interest deductions can be affected by related party transactions involving non-residents. See Section B above.

F. WITHHOLDING TAX

Non-resident foreign corporations

Interest on foreign loans, royalties and dividends paid to non-resident foreign corporations are subject to withholding tax at source at the time of their accrual in the taxpayer's books. The only exemption to this rule is when, at the time of the accrual of the income, there is a governmental restriction which prevents the actual remittances of the income due to the non-resident.

Dividends

Dividends received by non-resident foreign corporations from domestic corporations are subject to a final tax of 30%. However, tax is withheld at the reduced rate of 15% in certain circumstances.

Interest

Interest received by non-resident foreign corporations is subject to the following final withholding tax:

- (a) 20% on interest paid or accrued from foreign loans contracted on or after 1 August 1986;
- (b) 30% on other interest.

Royalties

Royalties received by non-resident foreign corporations are subject to a final withholding tax of 30%. However, said tax rate may be reduced under applicable double tax treaties.

Technical assistance and service fees

Technical assistance and service fees received by non-resident foreign corporations are subject to a final withholding tax of 30%.

G. EXCHANGE CONTROL

The Bangko Sentral ng Pilipinas (BSP) administers the exchange control laws of the Philippines including establishing minimum and maximum rates for the foreign exchange dealings of banks. However, banks may set their own rates for trading foreign exchange with the public. The value of the peso generally floats freely, although intervention by the BSP does occur when deemed necessary.

H. PERSONAL TAX

Income is divided into the following three categories which are taxed separately, as summarised below.

Compensation Employment Income

This income is taxed at progressive rates on gross income after deduction of personal and additional exemptions but without deductions for expenses. Remuneration for services performed by an employee for his employer are considered compensation subject to income tax, except for facilities and privileges, called as 'de minimis benefits'. Thirteenth month pay and other benefits not exceeding PHP 90,000 (previously PHP 82,000) are also exempt from income tax.

Passive Income

This income (i.e. dividends, certain interest, royalties, etc.) is subject to final withholding tax only.

Business Income and Professional Income

This income is taxed at progressive rates on net business income, or income from the practice of a profession, after deduction of certain specified expenses. However, if the annual gross receipts/revenue from business or the practice of a profession does not exceed PHP 3 million, the taxpayer may opt to be taxed at 8% based on gross income in lieu of income tax and percentage tax.

TAXABLE INCOME

Resident Citizens

Resident citizens of the Philippines are taxed on all their net income derived from sources within and outside of the Philippines.

Alien Individuals

An alien individual, whether a resident or not of the Philippines, is taxable only on income derived from sources within the Philippines. Resident aliens are taxed in the same manner as resident citizens on income sourced within the Philippines. Tax is generally withheld in sufficient amounts from salary and wages to satisfy the final tax liability. If not, then the balance must be paid when filing the return, which is required on or before 15 April of the year following the year of income. In some cases, income tax liability may be paid in two equal instalments.

Resident Individuals

Income of residents is subject to the following rates:

- a. Tax Schedule effective 1 January 2018 until 31 December 2022:

Taxable Income per Year (PHP)	Income Tax Rate (% and PHP)

Over 8,000,000	2,202,500 + 35% of the excess over 8,000,000

The above rates also apply to individuals who derive income from business (including capital gains from the sale transfer or exchange of shares in a foreign corporation) or from the practice of a profession whose gross receipts/revenue exceeds PHP 3 million.

Optional Standard Deduction (OSD)

Except for individuals earning compensation income, resident citizens, non-resident citizens, and resident aliens shall be allowed to claim OSD in lieu of the itemised deductions of ordinary and necessary expenses paid or incurred during the year. A. TAXES PAYABLE

COMPANY TAX

Polish resident companies are subject to corporate income tax (CIT) on all sources of their worldwide income, while non-residents are subject to corporate income tax only on income derived from the territory of Poland. A company is deemed resident in Poland if it is incorporated or managed in Poland. The corporate tax rate for 2019 is levied at 19% of the taxable base. As from 1 January 2019 the CIT rate for small taxpayers will be reduced from 15% to 9%. The lower corporate tax rate will be applied to small taxpayers whose sales revenue (including the amount of tax payable on goods and services) does not exceed PLN 1.2 million in the previous fiscal year. This regime will also affect taxpayers that are start-ups. The preferential tax rate cannot be used by tax capital groups.

In general, the tax year for corporate taxpayers is the calendar year. Taxpayers are obliged to submit their tax declaration, together with the balance sheet, to the fiscal office within three months from the end of their tax year. Taxpayers are obliged to pay tax monthly in advance, based on the current year's income. Taxpayers can also make monthly advance payments based on specific rules if they meet certain conditions.

CAPITAL GAINS TAX

Capital gains from the disposal of fixed business assets are aggregated with income from other sources and are subject to corporate income tax at the standard CIT rate (19% in 2019).

BRANCH PROFITS TAX

The tax rate of income derived by a foreign corporation from a branch located in Poland is the same as for Polish entities (19% in 2019).

VALUE ADDED TAX (VAT)

As a result of Poland's accession to the European Union, the Polish VAT Act has changed in line with the regulations of the 112th Directive and other EU Directives related to VAT. Under the Polish VAT regulations, VAT applies to the following transactions:

- Supply of goods and services made in Poland for consideration;
- Export of goods outside the EU;
- Import of goods from outside the EU;
- Intra-Community acquisition of goods effected for consideration in Poland, including the movement of goods between different Member States within the same business;
- Intra-Community supply of goods including the movement of goods between different Member States within the same business.

VAT payers who have no registered seat in Poland nor a fixed place of business nor a place of residence are obliged to appoint a fiscal representative. This obligation does not apply to EU residents. The current tax point is the date of delivery or performance of the goods and services, respectively. However, there are some exceptions to this rule. VAT is charged at the standard tax rate of 23% on the supply of most goods and services or at the reduced rates of 8%, 5% and 0%:

- 8% supplies include, amongst others, hotel services and passenger transport supply, construction and assembly services, restoration and conservation of building included in social housing programs;
- 5% rate applies to certain foods, e.g. meat, fish, dairy products, vegetables, fruit, bread, etc.;
- 0% supplies include, amongst others, exports and intra-Community supplies of goods and international transport services.

In addition, there are a number of exemptions from VAT including education and health care services. However, other than those taxpayers using the cash-basis settlement method, taxpayers may submit tax returns quarterly, having notified the head of a revenue office in writing by the 25th day of the second month of the quarter. A taxpayer who starts carrying out taxable acts during a tax year must make the notification by the 25th day of the month following the month in which it started performing these acts. Taxpayers who have chosen to make quarterly VAT settlements may resume filing monthly tax returns but not until they have submitted at least four quarterly tax returns.

SPLIT PAYMENT

From 1 July 2018, a new tax mechanism has come into force, aiming at a more effective VAT collection, i.e. split payment. The essence of this mechanism is that the payment for the purchased goods or services will be automatically split between the net sales value and VAT. The payment for a given good or service paid by the buyer will be sent to the supplier's bank account at the net amount. However, the value of VAT will be collected separately on a special VAT account. The supplier will be free to only use the funds accumulated by the net amount and access to funds on the VAT account will be significantly limited. The option to pay using the split payment mechanism will be voluntary and completely dependent on the buyer's decision.

This mechanism applies only to entities that are VAT payers. It will therefore not be possible in case of transactions concluded between a VAT payer and an entrepreneur.

FRINGE BENEFITS TAX (FBT)

Benefits in kind are included in taxable income of employees.

LOCAL TAXES

Real property tax and transport tax are charged as local taxes in Poland. Real property tax is paid by owners of real estate. The tax base depends on the type of asset concerned:

- Buildings - the usable area;
- Structures - value of the structure;
- Land - the area.

The tax rates are established by the Commune Council. A tax on 'methods of transport' is imposed on lorries, tractors and trailers. The tax rates are also established by the Commune Council.

OTHER TAXES

CIVIL LAW ACTIVITY TAX (CLAT)

Some of the civil acts may be subject to civil law activity tax. These are, in general:

- Contracts of sale, lease, hire (if not subject to VAT);
- Loan agreements;
- Foundation deeds of a partnership or company.

CLAT rates are from 0.1% - 2%. The following are not liable to tax:

- (1) Acts in civil law if, in respect of performing such an act, at least one party is:
 - (a) Liable to goods and services tax (other than the articles of association and its amendments);
 - (b) Exempt from goods and services tax, except for:
 - Contracts of sale and exchange whose object is immovable property or part thereof, or the right of perpetual usufruct, cooperative member's ownership right to a living accommodation, right to a single-family house in a housing cooperative or right to a parking lot in a multi-lot car park or a share in such rights;
 - Contracts of sale for shares in commercial partnerships or companies;
- (2) Partnership or company deeds or amendments relating to:
 - (a) Company mergers;
 - (b) Transformation of a company into a different company;
 - (c) Contribution to a company, in exchange for its shares, in some circumstances.

Loans granted by a shareholder to a company are also exempt from this tax.

STAMP DUTY

Subject to Stamp Duty are public administration actions (application forms, certificates, permissions).

BANK TAX - taxation of assets of selected financial institutions

From 1 February 2016 a new tax on certain financial institutions has been put in place in Poland. According to the new tax bill, domestic banks, branches of foreign banks, branches of credit institutions, cooperative credit unions, national insurance and reinsurance, branches and main branches of foreign insurance and reinsurance companies are subject to this tax, as well as lending institutions. The tax rate is 0.0366% of the tax base per month.

The taxable base is the total value of the assets of the taxpayer, resulting from the trial balance within the meaning of the Accounting Act, exceeding PLN 4 billion (for domestic banks, branches of foreign banks, branches of credit institutions, cooperative savings and credit unions) or exceeding PLN 2 billion (for national insurance, national reinsurance undertakings, branches of foreign insurance companies and foreign reinsurance main branches of foreign insurance companies and foreign reinsurance) or exceeding PLN 200 million (for consumer loan lending institutions). As for banking institutions, the taxable base may be reduced by the amounts listed in the bill, including the value of equity and Polish Treasury bonds. For associating banks and cooperative banks, the taxable base may be reduced by the amount of funds collected on all accounts of affiliated cooperative banks, led by the taxpayer. In the case of assets acquired by the taxpayer from the Polish National Bank (representing collateral for a loan refinanced by the bank) all of the assets are deductible from the tax base. For other taxpayers, the tax base is reduced by the value of assets in the form of Treasury securities within the meaning of article 95 paragraph 1 of the Act on public finance.

Some entities may reduce the tax base by the value of assets accumulated as part of contracts for the conduct of the Employee Capital Plans.

Taxpayers are required, without call from the competent tax authority to submit tax returns, calculate and pay tax on account of the competent tax office for monthly periods by the 25th day of the month following the month to which the tax relates.

TAX ON COMMERCIAL REAL ESTATE

As of January 2019, tax on revenue from buildings was introduced for every fixed asset that is a building located in Poland, owned or co-owned by the taxpayer, also if it has been leased out in whole or in part pursuant to a tenancy agreement, a lease agreement, or other similar contract.

The tax rate is 0.035% of the tax base for each month (the annual rate is 0.42%) and is payable by the 20th day of the month following that in which it was calculated. The taxable basis is the total revenue corresponding to the initial value of fixed assets determined on the first day of each month as a result of records kept, minus an amount of PLN 10 million (approx. EUR 2.33 million). If a fixed asset is co-owned by a taxable person, when calculating its initial value, the value resulting from the taxable person's records is adopted.

The amount of tax paid on revenue from buildings is deducted by taxpayers from the advance payment of income tax. Paid and not deducted tax on this revenue for a fiscal year can be deducted from the income tax for a given fiscal year.

SOCIAL SECURITY CONTRIBUTION

Resident individuals and employees within the territory of Poland are subject to mandatory old age and disability insurance. Rates of social security contributions are as follows:

	Employer	Employee
Old age pension	9.76%	9.76%
Disability insurance	6.50%	1.50%
Sickness benefits	-	2.45%
Accident insurance	0.67% – 3.86%	-
Health insurance	-	9.00%

Contributions to the old age and disability pensions are paid by the employer and employee. The 9.76% employee contribution is transferred to the Open Pension Fund. Contributions by employees are based on their gross income for income tax purposes. The ceiling of income on the basis of which contributions for the old age pension and disability insurance are calculated 2019 is 142,950.00 PLN. There is no ceiling for health and maternity insurance.

The employer withholds the employees' contributions. Employees' contributions are deductible for income tax purposes and employers' contributions are deductible for corporate income tax purposes. The contribution for accident insurance is paid by the employer. The contribution for sickness benefit is paid by the employee.

In addition:

- 9% of gross pay (less contributions for old age and disability insurance) for mandatory health insurance contribution (covering medical expenses) is payable by employees;
- 2.45% of gross pay is paid by the employer to the Labour fund;
- 0.10% of gross pay is paid by the employer to the Guaranteed Welfare Benefits Fund.

B. DETERMINATION OF TAXABLE INCOME

Corporate entities are subject to corporate income tax on the net profit shown on their respective yearly Balance Sheet, calculated in accordance with the statutory accounting and bookkeeping rules, after adjustment for deductions and additions provided under the tax law. Generally, expenses incurred for the production of income are allowed as deductions.

DEPRECIATION

Current rates range from 1.5% to 30% depending on the type of asset. As a general rule, the straight-line method must be applied although the reducing method is possible under some conditions.

INVENTORY

Stock in trade, or inventory, is valued at its historic cost price or market value. The cost of inventory may be calculated at a standard cost, at a weighted average cost, or on the UFO or FIFO basis, as long as the method selected is used consistently.

CAPITAL GAINS AND LOSSES

Capital gains and losses are subject to CIT tax at a rate of 19% for 2018.

DIVIDENDS

Dividends received from resident companies are taxed separately at a rate of 19% unless the participation exemption applies (see Section 'F' below). The tax is withheld by the distributing company. Dividends may be distributed only from net profits of the company. Sums allocated for distribution among shareholders cannot be deducted from the taxable base.

THIN CAPITALISATION

As a result of the implementation of the ATAD (Anti-Tax Avoidance Directive) into domestic legislation, effective 1 January 2018, taxpayers are entitled to deduct from their taxable base interest expenses up to 30% of their EBITDA (a definition is included in the CIT Act). As a derogation to the general rule, this limitation only applies if the excess is greater than PLN 3 million in a tax period (i.e. up to PLN 3 million in borrowing costs in excess of this 30% limit is deductible).

The limit does not apply to financial institutions, which are domestic banks, credit institutions, co-operative savings and credit unions, domestic and foreign insurance and reinsurance companies and open investment funds established on the basis of the Investment Fund.

According to the regulations disallowed deductions may be carried forward for 5 years, with some exceptions.

LOSSES

Losses must be considered within individual sources of revenue. CIT provides for a division of sources into "capital gains" and "other sources".

Regarding losses incurred until 31 December 2018, taxpayers can offset a loss within the source for five subsequent tax years, provided that the amount deducted in any one year cannot exceed 50% of the loss incurred. Regarding losses incurred after 31 December 2018, taxpayers may choose whether they want to use the settlement of the loss according to the above method, or if they prefer to reduce the income obtained from each source of revenue by the value of the loss not exceeding PLN 5,000,000 on a one-off basis, in one of the following five consecutive tax years. The non-deducted amount is subject to settlement in the remaining years of this five-year period. However, the amount of deduction in any of these years may not exceed 50% of the loss.

The loss settlement rules do not apply to losses from paid disposal of virtual currencies.

FOREIGN SOURCED INCOME

Resident companies are subject to tax on their worldwide income, including foreign-sourced income and gains. However, double tax treaties may apply to reduce or extinguish the tax liability imposed under domestic tax law.

INCENTIVES

• Special Economic Zones

Polish law provides for corporate income tax incentives, such as special economic zones (SEZs). In principle, companies operating within special economic zones may enjoy tax holidays, which involve a tax exemption from corporate income tax within certain time limits. Investments in SEZs may be made subject to a permit issued by the authorities. Currently, the entire Polish territory is to be treated as a SEZ. However, until 30th June of 2018 there were 14 SEZs in Poland: Mielecka, Katowicka, Suwalska, Legnicka, Walbrzyska, Lodzka, Kostrzynsko-Slubicka, Slupska, Tarnobrzaska, Warminsko-Mazurska, Starachowicka, Kamiennogorska, Pomorska and Krakowska (Krakow Technology Park).

Undertaking business activities within a SEZ requires a special permit issued by the Minister of Economy or the authorities of the SEZ. An administrative decision (permit) will be given for up to 10-15 years depending on the extent of public aid intensity in certain regions of Poland varying also according to specific investment criteria. In case a new permit would be issued for a company in an already existing SEZ a permit will be given for 15 years.

• For R&D activities

The CIT Act also puts in place an additional deduction for qualifying expenses (from 2018: from 100% to 150% of qualifying expenses) incurred for R&D activities.

• Innovation Box

The IP Box – as R&D's extension – is a new mechanism introducing a preferential 5% tax rate applicable to income derived from intellectual property rights such as: patents, protection rights for utility model, rights from registration of industrial designs and topographies of integrated circuits, extensions of patent protection for medicinal products and plant protection products, rights for medical products or authorised veterinary products or plants and animal varieties, protected rights to computer programs (software). The tax base subject to the preferential tax rate is calculated using a proper formula – based on the OECD recommendations (nexus approach) – included in the CIT act. This formula rewards taxpayers who create or develop qualifying IP rights, on their own or with the help of unrelated entities. The more R&D activity the taxpayer undertakes by himself (or in cooperation with an unrelated party), the higher the amount of the relief the taxpayer is entitled to claim under the Innovation Box regime.

- For small and start-up taxpayers

A one-time depreciation write-off of up to EUR 50,000 may be available (excluding depreciation of passenger cars).

RESTRICTION ON TAX DEDUCTIBILITY OF INTANGIBLE ASSETS AND LEGAL SERVICES

Expenses incurred for certain intangible services (e.g. fees for and advisory and promotional services and royalties for licenses, copyrights, patents and know-how) acquired from a related party or from a person resident in a country or territory engaging in harmful tax competition are deductible up to 5% of the taxpayer's EBITDA (a definition is included in the CIT Act). An annual amount of PLN 3 million of such expenses is fully deductible.

C. FOREIGN TAX RELIEF

Foreign-sourced income received by a resident company is included in its taxable base unless otherwise provided by the double tax treaty. Taxes paid abroad may be credited against the tax due. However, the amount of tax credit may not exceed the amount of domestic tax that would have been due on the income derived abroad, had it been derived in Poland.

D. CORPORATE GROUPS

In accordance with the Corporate Income Tax Act, a "tax capital group" may be established and accordingly corporate tax is then due on the income of the group as a whole. Such a group can be established only by joint stock companies and limited liability companies. The parent company must own at least 75% of the equity of each of the daughter companies. There are also other conditions which must be met to establish the 'tax capital group', such as:

- An average share capital of all companies not lower than PLN 500,000;
- Capital group agreement period - minimum three years;
- Registration of the agreement with the tax office;
- No outstanding tax liabilities to state budget;
- The daughter companies do not hold any shares in the share capital of other companies in the group;
- Profitability ratio of the group not lower than 2% for each year; and,
- All of the companies included in the group must be registered in Poland.

E. RELATED PARTY TRANSACTIONS

New conditions of documenting transactions: On 1 January 2019 significant changes were introduced in Poland regarding the requirement to prepare transfer pricing documentation for controlled transactions with affiliated entities. Controlled transaction is defined as activities identified on the basis of the parties' actual behavior, including the attribution of income to a foreign plant, the conditions of which have been established or imposed as a result of connections.

According to the new regulations, the requirement to prepare documentation does not depend on the income or costs of the taxpayer in a given financial year.

Taxpayers obliged to prepare such documentation are those whose conduct transactions with related entities whose value, reduced by VAT, exceeds the following documentary thresholds in the fiscal year:

- PLN 10,000,000 – in the case of a commodity transaction;
- PLN 10,000,000 – in the case of a financial transaction;
- PLN 2,000,000 – in the case of a service transaction;
- PLN 2,000,000 – in the case of other transactions.

Documentation has to include a description of business restructuring operations carried out by the taxpayer in a given tax year.

The obligation to prepare local transfer pricing documentation generally does not apply to controlled transactions concluded only by related entities having their place of residence, registered office or central management in the territory of the Republic of Poland, if each of these related entities jointly meet the following conditions in a fiscal year:

- not benefiting from a tax exemption;
- not benefiting from certain exemptions from tax;
- not suffering a tax loss.

Pursuant to the new regulations the threshold level for equity ties is still 25%. Are also considered related entities a company without legal personality and its partners as well as a taxpayer and its foreign plant.

Extending the content of documentation: The documentation includes the data indicated below.

Local File:

1. Information about a related entity includes:
 - a) a description or scheme of the organisational structure of the related entity;
 - b) a description of the management structure of a related entity;
 - c) a description of the core activity of the related entity, including:
 - the subject of the business activity;
 - indication of geographical markets in which the related entity operates;
 - description of the industry and the market environment in which the entity operates, with an indication of the impact of economic and regulatory conditions and an indication of key competitors;
 - description of the economic strategy;
 - information on transfers of economically significant functions, assets or risks affecting the related entity, carried out in the financial year or the year preceding the financial year.
2. The description of transactions, including functions, risks and assets, should include:
 - a) the subject and type of transaction, including the indication of relationships with other transactions;
 - b) information about related entities involved in a controlled transaction;
 - c) functional analysis of the parties to the transaction, including significant changes compared to the previous financial year;
 - d) the method of calculation of transfer pricing, along with the adopted assumptions;
 - e) the value of transactions in the financial year, broken down into counterparties, resulting from:
 - invoices or contracts received or issued, or other documents, if invoices are not issued; and
 - payments received or forwarded;
 - f) agreements, intra-group agreements or other documents regarding transactions;
 - g) agreements or tax interpretations regarding transfer pricing concluded with or issued by tax administrations of countries other than the Republic of Poland, in particular prior to pricing agreements;
 - h) transfer pricing analysis including:
 - analysis of data of unrelated entities, transactions concluded with unrelated parties or between unrelated parties recognised as comparable to the conditions established in controlled transactions, referred to as "comparative analysis"; or
 - analysis demonstrating compliance of the conditions under which the controlled transaction was concluded with conditions that would be set by unrelated entities, referred to as "compliance analysis" - where comparative analysis is not appropriate in the light of a given transfer pricing method or it is not possible to maintain due diligence.
3. The description of financial data includes:
 - a) approved financial statements for the financial year, if a related entity was obliged to prepare it on the basis of accounting regulations;
 - b) description allowing the assignment of financial data concerning a controlled transaction to the items of the financial statements referred to in point a, or other information contained therein.

Unlike the previous legal state, a comparative analysis is a mandatory element of Local File documentation. The new provisions regulate safe harbours, the use of which results in the price being regarded as the market price. The CIT Act regulates safe harbours for the following transactions:

- loans, credits and bonds;
- low value-added services.

The new provisions also regulate the possibility of transfer pricing adjustment after the end of the tax year.

Master File: Related entities who are consolidated using the full or proportional method, are required to attach to the local transfer pricing documentation also group transfer pricing documentation prepared for the financial year, if they belong to a group of related entities:

- a) for whom consolidated financial statements are prepared;
 - b) whose consolidated income exceeded PLN 200 million or its equivalent in the previous financial year.
- Group documentation should include information about a group of related entities to which the taxpayer belongs and includes the following elements:

- a) description of the group;
- b) description of significant intangible assets of this group;
- c) description of significant financial transactions of this group;
- d) financial and tax information of this group.

Country-by-country reporting: The largest Polish groups of companies (with consolidated income exceeding EUR 750 million) are obliged to draw up statements of income, tax paid, and places of business. Based on the specimen form published, taxpayers have to provide a list of entities in the group, countries where they have their seats, their main business activity, tax paid and profit earned, the number of employees and fixed assets. Analogous statements are drawn up by groups of companies in other countries, while tax authorities will exchange this information pursuant to the OECD guidelines in this respect.

Additional disclosure obligations (TP-R): According to the new regulation, a taxpayer who prepared documentation is required to file an annual transfer pricing disclosure (Form TP-R). Form TP-R summarises a taxpayer's transactions with related parties.

Before filling out the form, it will be necessary not only to gather basic data on intragroup transactions, but also to analyse the taxpayer's activity based on transfer pricing regulations. Reporting will cover information on controlled transactions, methods and transfer prices.

Deadlines: The deadline for possession of local transfer pricing documentation by related entities obliged to prepare it, was determined at the end of the ninth month after the end of the fiscal year. During the same period, these entities are obliged to submit to tax offices a statement on the preparation of documentation in electronic form, as well as to provide the Head of the National Revenue Administration with transfer pricing information for the fiscal year.

In the case of group documentation, the deadline for its inclusion in the local documentation expires at the end of the twelfth month after the end of the fiscal year.

After the abovementioned deadlines, taxpayers are obliged, at the authorities' request, to submit tax documentation (local or group) within 7 days of the date of being served with the request.

F. ANTI-TAX AVOIDANCE CLAUSE

The purpose of this clause is to prevent fictitious transactions that taxpayers carry out to achieve tax advantages. Practically speaking, this means transactions which are hardly justifiable from an economic or business point of view. The Tax Ordinance Act which includes this regulation also defines what a tax advantage means, namely avoidance, deferral or reduction of a tax liability, creation or overstatement of a tax loss, creation or overstatement of a tax overpayment or a reclaimed amount. As from the beginning of 2019, the tax benefit threshold (PLN 100,000), which excluded the application of the clause, was cancelled.

G. STANDARD AUDIT FILE

Taxpayers holding tax books using computer programs are obliged to transmit data in a unified form, the so-called Standard Audit File (SAF/JPK) at the request of the tax authorities. The main purpose of the SAF is to eliminate barriers in electronic data reporting, reducing the administrative burden and costs of audits for both tax authorities and taxpayers, and speeding up tax audits. The SAF format covers a wide data catalogue including:

- Accounting records;
- VAT registry;
- Revenue registry;
- Tax revenues and expenses ledger;
- Invoice statements; and
- Receipt statements.

The data submitted using SAF shall have to be presented in accordance with a specific scheme (logical structure) which allows the tax authorities to conduct compatibility checks.

All enterprises are obliged to submit monthly VAT reports to the tax authorities using SAF. Other files should be submitted at the request of the tax office, such as information regarding accounting books (JPK_KR), bank statements (JPK_WB), inventory (JPK_MAG), VAT invoices (JPK_FA), tax revenue and expense ledgers (JPK_PKPIR), and revenue records (JPK_EWP).

H. WITHHOLDING TAXES

For certain categories of income, the payer of income is obliged to withhold tax at source, file tax returns and submit the amount of tax withheld to the tax authorities.

The statutory rate of withholding varies from 10% to 20%, but it may be reduced or eliminated by the provisions of a Double Tax Treaty (DTT).

Foreign corporations are subject to withholding tax (WHT) on revenue earned in the territory of Poland:

- 1) from interest, copyright or related rights, rights to inventive designs, trademarks or ornamental designs, including the sale of those rights, compensation for disclosure of a secret of a recipe or production process, for use or right to use an industrial device, including means of transport, a commercial device or a scientific device, for information associated with industrial, commercial or scientific experience (know-how);
- 2) from fees for the provision of services related to artistic, entertainment or sport-related activities conducted by legal persons having their registered office abroad, organised via natural persons or legal persons operating in the field of artistic, entertainment or sports events in the territory of the Republic of Poland;
- 3) for the provision of: advisory services, accounting services, market research services, legal services, advertising services, management and control, data processing, personnel recruitment services, guarantees and sureties and similar services
 - shall be 20% of the revenue;
- 4) from fees due for transport of cargo and passengers from Polish ports by foreign commercial sea transport companies, except transit cargo and transit passengers;
- 5) by foreign air navigation companies, excluding revenue earned from scheduled passenger air transport services for which a passenger is required to have an air ticket
 - shall be 10% of the revenue;
- 6) from dividends and other revenue (income) arising from a share in the profits of legal persons having their registered office or management within the territory of the Republic of Poland
 - shall be 19% of the revenue (income) earned.

The above provisions apply, unless double taxation treaties provide otherwise.

However, under the provisions implementing the EU Parent-Subsidiary Directive, dividend distributions by resident subsidiaries to their non-resident EU parent or EEA (European Economic Area) parent companies or resident parent company are exempt. In order to benefit from this regulation, the following conditions must be met:

- The resident parent company or EU parent or EEA parent company in receipt of the dividends must be subject to corporate income tax in Poland or the EU member country or EEA country on worldwide income and must not use an exemption to prevent it from being taxed on the dividends;
- The parent company must have owned at least 10% of the capital in the Polish company continuously for a period of at least two years.

The EU Interest and Royalties Directive was implemented into domestic law on 1 July 2005. The rate was 5% between 1 July 2009 and 30 June 2013. From 1 July 2013 the rate is 0%. In order to benefit from this regulation, the following conditions must be met:

- The payer must be a company which is resident in Poland or is resident in another EU member state and has a taxable permanent establishment in Poland;
- The payee must be a company, which is a tax resident in an EU Member State other than Poland;
- The company receiving the income must be subject to tax on its worldwide income;
- The Polish company must have owned at least 25% of the capital of the EU company continuously for a period of at least two years; or the EU company must have owned at least 25% of the capital of the Polish company continuously for a period of at least two years.

The tax exemption or the preferential rate does not apply in case of tax avoidance or abuse.

In some cases, additional conditions for getting an exemption from WHT or applying the preferential rate are:

- Submitting the residence certificate issued by a state government of the taxable person;
- Determining the status of payee – so called beneficial owner;
- Requirement of "due-diligence".

"Due diligence" requirements were introduced in domestic law from 1 January 2019. As from 1 July 2019, the principle of tax collection by the taxpayer will depend on the amount of payments. If a company makes a payment for the same taxpayer exceeding an amount of 2 million PLN (approximately 500,000 EUR) that company will always be obliged – as a tax remitter – to collect WHT on those payments and then the tax remitter or taxable person may apply for a tax refund to the tax authorities. In this case, named terms must be fulfilled. Procedure for dealing with amounts exceeding 2 million PLN does not apply in the event that the tax remitter or taxable person goes through a special procedure.

I. CFC RULES

Polish taxpayers are subject to Polish tax on income earned by their CFCs even if the income is not distributed by the non-Polish entity. The tax rate on such income is 19%.

A foreign entity could mean:

- legal person;
- limited company in organisation;
- organisational unit without legal personality other than company without legal personality;
- company without legal personality;
- foundation, trust or other fiduciary entity;
- tax capital group;
- separated (legally or organisationally) part of foreign entity,

which does not have its registered office or the management within the territory of the Republic of Poland, in which the Polish taxpayer holds, individually or jointly with its affiliates, directly or indirectly, a share in the capital, a right to vote in the supervisory or decision-making bodies or a right to participate in profits.

Subsidiaries subject to CFC rules are those where:

- the Polish parent company holds at least 50% of shares of the subsidiary, directly or indirectly; and
- minimum 33% of the income of the subsidiary is generated by passive income (e.g. from dividends, shares, copyrights, interest) and;
- the income tax actually paid by the subsidiary in the country of its registered office or management is lower than the difference between the corporate income tax, which would be due if the subsidiary was a Polish taxpayer and the income tax actually paid in the country of its registered office.

Subsidiaries in tax havens are also treated as CFCs. The CFC provisions will not apply if the foreign corporation conducts genuine business activities.

J. EXCHANGE CONTROL

With effect from 2003, most foreign exchange transactions are allowed by the Foreign Exchange Act, and do not require a special permit from the National Bank of Poland. Domestic persons doing business in Poland, which normally operates wholly in Zlotys, generally may hold foreign currency accounts for foreign receivables. Invoices and services purchased abroad may be paid in foreign currencies at the official exchange rate on the day that the payment is made or from their foreign currency accounts.

K. PERSONAL TAX

Polish resident taxpayers are subject to tax on their worldwide income, subject to double tax treaties. Non-residents are taxed only on the income derived from work performed within the territory of Poland. Tax is levied on all taxable income at progressive tax rates. The tax scale for 2017 is as follows:

Tax base	Rate
Up to PLN 85,528	18%	minus personal allowance
Over PLN 85,528	PLN 15,395.04 + 32% surplus over PLN 85,528

The personal allowance amounts to:

Income (PLN)	Personal allowance (PLN)
Up to 8,000	1,440
8,000 – 13,000	883.98 * (taxable base – 8,000) / 5,000
13,000 – 85,528	556.02
85,528 – 127,000	556.02 * (taxable base – 85,528) / 41,472
Over 127,000	0

Personal income tax is reduced if, in the financial year, the taxpayer incurred expenditure as specified in the law, within the proper limits. Payers of the income tax referred to in the PIT law are obliged to calculate and collect tax payments in advance, within the year, and transfer them to the bank account of the relevant tax office by the 20th of the month following the month when the tax advance payment was collected.

Taxpayers are obliged to file an annual tax return by 30th April of the following year. This obligation does not apply to taxpayers for whom the annual tax return is made by the tax collector. The submission of the tax return has to be accompanied by payment of the difference between the income tax due, as calculated in the tax return, and the sum of any tax paid in advance. The income tax arising from the tax return is the tax due for a given year, unless the tax office issues a decision establishing a different amount of tax due.

Individuals who receive inheritances or gifts are liable to tax for the portion they receive. Polish citizens and persons who are domiciled in Poland are also liable to this tax if the property received by them is located abroad. Gifts and inheritances of property located in Poland are exempt if neither party is a Polish citizen or domiciled in Poland. The rates are progressive depending on the category of taxpayer and value of property received and will vary from 3% to 20%.

Solidarity Tax

Starting 1 January 2019 an additional tax has been implemented (apart from Personal Income Tax basic 18% and 32% tax rate). Solidarity tax comes at a tax rate of 4%. The taxation base is the amount of taxable income surplus over 1 million PLN. The taxable income for purposes of this tax is calculated by adding taxable income from all sources (after including any deductibles if they apply for each source of income separately accordingly to other regulations).

Solidarity tax is calculated by the taxpayer and submitted (paid) by 30th April of the following year (2020), that is also the date for submitting the tax form that includes those calculations to the tax authorities.

Notes:

*Multilateral Convention to Implement Tax Treaty Related Measures to Prevent Base Erosion and Profit Shifting (2017) is or shortly will be in force, so the application of the provisions of the Double Taxation Treaties might be affected.

1. Different treaty rates may apply depending on whether the dividend is received by a company or an individual, or the participation percentage in the Polish company held by the recipient of the dividend. It is important to consult the relevant treaty for further details.
2. The domestic rate applies.
3. The domestic rate applies, apart from where the dividend is received by a company holding at least one-third of the capital of the Polish company.
4. The domestic rate applies to royalties for the use of, or the right to use cinematograph films, or works recorded on tapes for television or broadcasting.

M. THE TAX SCHEME REPORTING – THE MANDATORY DISCLOSURE RULES IN POLAND

The Mandatory Disclosure Rules (MDR) were entered into the Polish tax law system on 1 January 2019.

The new law implements the Directive of the Council of the European Union No 2018/822 of 25 May 2018 amending Directive 2011/16/EU regarding mandatory automatic exchange of information in the field of taxation in relation to reportable cross border arrangements ("DAC6 Directive"). It can be found in the Tax Ordinance Act, in the new chapter 11a. The new regulations create the obligation of reporting the tax schemes.

The tax scheme is an activity or a set of related activities where at least one party is a taxpayer or have or may have an impact on the occurrence or the lack of a tax obligation (so-called arrangement) and fulfils the criteria set out in law.

The Tax Ordinance Act implements casuistic distinguishing features of the occurrences which determines the reporting obligation. In general, they are connected with the ways of tax savings and their characteristics. The special attention is paid to the main benefit criterion. It is a situation when only one or main reason of an arrangement is a tax advantage.

The tax schemes, which are the subject of reporting, can be divided into:

- the cross border tax schemes - the reporting depends on the fulfilment of the one of the cross border criteria;
- the domestic tax schemes - the tax schemes which are not the cross border tax schemes; without the cross border elements;
- the standardised tax schemes - the tax scheme which can be implemented or made available for more than one beneficiary without the need to important changes. Both of them – the cross border and the domestic tax schemes - can be the standardised tax schemes.

The Polish MDR regulation requires the reporting of:

- the cross border tax schemes, in relation where the first activity is appropriate to their implementation made after 25 June 2018;
- the domestic tax schemes, in relation where the first activity is appropriate to their implementation made after 1 November 2018.

The entities responsible for reporting these is:

- promoter – i.e. a person who develops, offers, makes available, implements or manages the implementation of the arrangement – in particular a tax advisor, legal counsel or attorney-at-law;
- user (taxpayer, beneficiary) – i.e. an entity for whom the scheme is made available or who is prepared for this implementation or performed an activity related to implementation of the scheme;
- supporter – each person who undertakes providing assistance, support or advice regarding development or implementation of the scheme - i.e. a public notary or an accountant.

The information about the tax scheme should be submitted to the Head of the National Tax Administration within a deadline – not later than 30 days after (it depends on which event mentioned below takes place earlier):

- the scheme was made available;
- the scheme was prepared for implementation;
- the first step related to the implementation of the scheme was performed/introduced.

Furthermore, some entities are responsible for the preparations and the implementations of the own, internal procedures to counteract the failures in the reporting process of the information about the tax schemes. It can be mandatory for entities who:

Poland-Portugal

- are promoters,
- employs promoters,
- in fact pays promoters the fee,

and their income or costs exceeded 8 million PLN in the previous year.

If the obligations related to the tax scheme reporting are not respected it may lead to a penal tax liability because of binding the Penal Fiscal Code. The maximum financial penalty for the infringement is 21,600,000 PLN and depends on the circumstances of the infringement.

KEY TAX POINTS

- Resident corporations are subject to Portuguese corporate income tax (CIT) on their worldwide income. Non-resident companies with a permanent establishment in Portugal are liable for CIT on the income attributable to that permanent establishment.
- Foreign-sourced income, gross of tax paid abroad, is included in taxable income. A unilateral credit for foreign income tax suffered can be set off against the Portuguese corporate income tax.
- Group taxation is available where all companies in the group are resident in Portugal. The parent company must hold, directly or indirectly, at least a 75% shareholding in the remaining companies of the group.
- The standard rate of VAT is 23%. In addition, an intermediate rate of 13%, and a reduced rate of 6% are applicable to a range of goods and services.
- Transfer pricing legislation enables the tax authorities to make corrections to taxable income when the conditions (and prices) agreed between related parties are different from those that would have been agreed and accepted between independent entities (arm's length principle).
- Resident individuals are subject to income tax on their worldwide income whilst non-residents are liable to income tax only on income sourced in Portugal. There is a special tax regime for non-habitual resident taxpayers.
- Social security is due on remunerations at a 23.75% rate for the employer and 11% for the employee. An additional 1% contribution is due by the employer for the unemployment Compensation Fund.

A. TAXES PAYABLE

COMPANY TAX: GENERAL REGIME

Resident corporations are subject to corporate income tax (CIT) on their worldwide income. Resident companies are those which have their head office or place of effective management in Portugal.

Non-resident companies with a permanent establishment in Portugal are liable for CIT on the income attributable to that permanent establishment. A non-resident company having no permanent establishment in Portugal is taxed on the following types of income sourced in Portugal: rental income, capital gains, dividends, services, interest and royalties.

The taxable profit is taxed at a rate of 21%. Companies qualifying as small and medium enterprises are taxed at 17% on the first EUR 15,000 of taxable income. A municipal surcharge of up to 1.5% is also levied on the taxable profit amount.

An additional state surcharge is levied at the following progressive rates:

Taxable income (EUR)	Tax rate
First 1.5 million	0%
From 1.5 million to 7.5 million	3%
From 7.5 million to 35 million	5%
Over 35 million	9%

Certain expenses, such as costs related to vehicles and non-documented expenses, are subject to an autonomous taxation at rates varying from 5% (e.g. travel and kilometres allowances) to 50% (confidential expenses). These rates are increased by an additional 10% in the years where a company has incurred tax losses.

The tax year usually coincides with the calendar year (1 January to 31 December). However, different tax years may be adopted. Tax is payable by the end of the fifth month following the end of the tax year – generally 31 May.

Payments on account of the final tax liability are due in July, September and December of the respective tax year. Such payments are computed by applying the following percentages to the previous tax year's CIT liability, net of any tax withheld at source, depending on the taxpayer's turnover, as follows:

- Three instalments of 26.67% each (total 80%) – for taxpayers with turnover up to EUR 500,000;
- Three instalments of 31.67% each (total 95%) – for taxpayers with turnover exceeding EUR 500,000.

Permanent establishments of non-resident companies are taxed at the rates applicable to resident companies. The tax rate for non-resident companies having no permanent establishment obtaining Portuguese-sourced income is 25%, except for entities which are resident in a listed offshore jurisdiction in which case the rate is 35%.

CAPITAL GAINS TAX

Worldwide capital gains obtained by resident companies are included in their taxable income.

BRANCH PROFITS TAX

All income attributable to a Portuguese branch (permanent establishment) is subject to corporate tax. No tax is imposed on the eventual remittances of profits from the branch to the head office.

VALUE ADDED TAX (VAT)

As a member of the European Union, Portugal has adopted VAT which is a sales tax levied on the supply of goods and services as well as on the import of goods from non-EU countries into Portugal (for VAT purposes, Portugal includes Azores and Madeira islands), and acquisition of goods from other EU Member States. The standard rate is 23%. In addition, an intermediate rate of 13% and a reduced rate is 6% is applicable to a range of goods and services. The standard, intermediate and reduced VAT rates in the Azores are 18%, 9% and 4%, and in Madeira 22%, 12% and 5%, respectively.

FRINGE BENEFITS TAXATION

In general, benefits provided to employees are added to their remuneration and taxed as such. There are, however, some exceptions, such as lunch allowances, travel allowances and the use of a car (provided such use is not formally agreed in the employment contract).

OTHER TAXES

STAMP TAX

Stamp tax is due on several documents, acts and transactions, which occur or are presented for legal purposes in Portugal and are not subject to or exempt from VAT. The rates may be set in specific amounts or on a percentage basis.

Among others, stamp tax is due on the following transactions/acts:

Tax base	Tax rate (%)
Real Estate Transfer	0.8
Loans (on the principal)
- Current account, undetermined term or term less than one year	0.04 per month or fraction
- Term for one year or more	From 0.5 to 0.6
Guarantees
- Term less than one year	0.04 per month or fraction
- Term from one year and less than five years	0.5
- Undetermined term and term for five years or more	0.6
Transactions by Financial Institutions
- Interest and commissions charged	4
- Commissions on banking guarantees	3
- Commissions on insurance brokerage	2
Insurance premiums	From 3 to 9
Letting or sub-letting (on one-month rent)	10
Sale of business as going concern	5
Social gambling prizes exceeding EUR 5,000	20

Some stamp tax exemptions apply on the above listed transactions/acts, depending on the fulfilment of certain conditions.

REAL ESTATE MUNICIPAL TAX

The owners of real estate located in Portugal as at 31 December of each year are subject to the annual Real Estate Municipal Tax (REMT).

The applicable tax rate for rural properties is 0.8% and for urban properties the tax rates vary between 0.3% and 0.45%, both on the tax registration value. A 7.5% rate applies when the real estate is owned by a resident entity of an offshore jurisdiction, as defined in a 'black list' published by the Finance Ministry (not for individuals).

ADDITIONAL REAL ESTATE TAX

Owners of real estate located in Portugal, intended for residential purposes and land for construction (regardless of the purpose of the construction) are subject to an Additional Real Estate Tax. The taxable basis corresponds to the sum of the tax registration value of all residential properties and land for construction held by each taxpayer, reported as per 1 January of each year. For individuals a tax exemption applies up to a taxable basis of EUR 600,000.

The tax rate for individuals varies from 0.7% to 1.5% and for entities it is 0.4%. A 7.5% rate applies when the real estate is owned by a resident entity of an offshore jurisdiction, as defined in a 'black list' published by the Finance Ministry (not for individuals). An exemption applies if the property was exempt from (or not subject to) REMT in the preceding year.

MUNICIPAL REAL ESTATE TRANSFER TAX

The Municipal Real Estate Transfer is levied on the transfer of real estate and is normally due by the acquirer. This tax is levied on the higher of the purchase price or the tax registration value (tax value appraised by the tax authorities).

The tax rates vary according to the type of use of the real estate:

- i. From 0% up to 6% in case of residential real estate above EUR 550,836;
- ii. 6.5% in case of other urban real estate such as retail, offices or land for construction; and
- iii. 5% in case of rural land.

A 10% rate applies when the purchaser of the property is a resident of a black-listed offshore jurisdiction. Transactions which are subject to this tax are exempt from VAT.

B. DETERMINATION OF TAXABLE INCOME (CIT)

General regime: Taxable income is calculated by adjusting the accounting profits from non-taxable income and non-deductible expenses. As a general principle, costs are only deductible when necessarily incurred with the purpose of producing taxable income.

DEPRECIATION AND AMORTISATION

Tangible fixed assets and intangible assets can be depreciated/amortised for tax purposes. The depreciation rates are set by specific legislation and include 2% for office buildings and 5% for industrial buildings. No depreciation is allowed on land. The normal method of calculation is the straight-line basis, but the declining-balance method may be used except for items such as buildings, machinery, cars and office furniture. The acquisition cost of intangible assets with no limited period of exclusive use, acquired from 2014 onwards, may be tax depreciated over 20 years (not applicable for the depreciation of Intangible assets acquired from related parties, or for goodwill included in the acquisition of shares).

Depreciation is not allowed regarding investment properties that are accounted for using the fair value method. Nevertheless, for tax purposes they may be tax depreciated over the maximum period of the useful lifetime of the real estate, i.e. at 1%. The taxable basis for tax depreciation corresponds to the acquisition/construction cost, disregarding any fair value variations.

STOCKS / INVENTORY

Inventory must normally be valued at the effective cost of acquisition or production (historic cost). Other methods which may be adopted include:

- The standard cost method, which must be calculated in accordance with the appropriate technical and accounting principles;
- The sale price method based on the market value less a normal profit margin.

CAPITAL GAINS AND LOSSES

Capital gains (or losses) are calculated as the difference between the sales proceeds and the acquisition cost which may be updated using official inflation coefficients. If the proceeds of the sales are reinvested in other assets, 50% of the gain obtained (net of the related losses) will be excluded from taxation. For this purpose, reinvestments made in the preceding year, in the year of sale and in the two subsequent years will be taken into account. This is applicable to tangible, intangible and biological assets. Investment properties do not benefit from this regime, although recognised for accounting purposes as tangible fixed assets.

When only part of the consideration is reinvested, only the corresponding part of the gain qualifies for the relief.

Generally, gains derived from the disposal of shares are not subject to taxation, if, among others, the participation has been held for at least 1 year and corresponds to a minimum of 10% of the share capital in the participated company. Gains derived from the disposal of shares in which the value of real estate, directly or indirectly held, represents more than 50% of the assets (except for real estate attributable to an agricultural, industrial or commercial activity which does not consist in the acquisition and disposal of real estate) are subject to taxation.

As a general rule, gains obtained by non-resident entities from the disposal of shares are exempt from tax, except for entities resident in listed offshore jurisdictions. However, some exceptions apply, whereby capital gains are taxed at the rate of 25% for corporations:

- Gains realised by non-resident entities on the sale of shares in a company resident in Portugal whose assets are attributable for more than 50% to real estate located in Portugal. Some double tax treaties signed by Portugal override this rule and give the right to tax those gains solely to the state of residence of the seller.

- Gains resulting from the transfer of share capital or similar rights in any entity (non-resident in Portuguese territory), when, at any moment during the previous 365 days, the value of those shares or rights consist, directly or indirectly, in more than 50% of real estate located in Portugal (except if attributable to an agricultural, industrial or commercial activity which does not consist in the acquisition and disposal of real estate).

DIVIDENDS

There is a full participation exemption on dividend payments between Portuguese resident companies when the recipient of the dividends is a company that has held a participation of not less than 10% of the share capital of the distributing company for a minimum period of one year. If such conditions are not met, the dividend amount is subject to taxation. Subject to some additional conditions, this full participation exemption is also available for dividends derived from non-resident companies.

Dividends paid to non-resident shareholders are normally subject to withholding tax at 25% (or at the treaty rate if applicable). When the parent company is resident of an EU Member State or on a territory with which Portugal has signed a Double Tax Treaty, and has held a participation of at least 10% for one year in the share capital of the Portuguese company distributing the dividends, no withholding tax shall apply provided the company receiving the dividend is subject to one of the taxes listed in the Parent-Subsidiary Directive, or, in case of non-EU shareholders, at a nominal rate of no less than 60% of the Portuguese CIT rate.

INTEREST DEDUCTIONS

The deductibility of net financing costs is limited to the higher of:

- EUR 1 million; or,
- 30% of the tax EBITDA.

The net financing costs are calculated as the balance of financing costs and financing income. Non-deductible net financing costs may be deducted in the following five years, provided the total financial costs (costs of the year plus costs carried forward) do not exceed the above limits.

Financial costs that are not deductible because of the limitation may be carried forward for a period of 5 tax years. Moreover, if the financial costs are below 30% of the EBITDA, the amount of the limit that was not used may be carried forward to offset financial costs of the following 5 tax years.

This limitation applies to all types of financing (banks, intra-group, domestic and foreign financing). However, this limitation is not applicable to banks and other financial institutions.

TAX LOSSES

From 2017 onwards, losses incurred by resident companies, or by a branch of a non-resident company, may be carried forward to be offset against taxable profits for five years. If these entities are certified as small or medium-sized enterprises, this period is extended to twelve years. However, companies are only allowed to deduct tax losses up to 70% of the taxable profits in any given period. No deduction is allowed if the ownership of 50% or more of the share capital has changed, compared to the year in which the losses were incurred, unless the change of ownership is justified by special economic relevance and the deduction is accepted by the tax authorities.

Tax loss carry-back is not allowed.

FOREIGN SOURCED INCOME

Resident companies are taxed on their worldwide income.

COLLECTIVE INVESTMENT VEHICLES (INVESTMENT FUNDS)

Investment funds are subject to CIT at the general rate (currently 21%). However, both securities and real estate funds, are exempt from tax on income derived from their "core business" (capital gains, rental income and investment income).

Income obtained by foreign investors regarding distributions and gains arising from the redemption of participations units or shares in the fund are taxed as follows (i) securities funds – exempt; (ii) real estate funds – taxed at a 10% final tax rate.

Additionally, funds are subject to stamp tax on their global net value on a quarterly basis at a rate of 0.0025% for the securities funds and 0.0125% for real estate funds.

INCENTIVES

Incentives under Portuguese tax legislation include: the free-trade zones of Azores and Madeira; investment tax credits; incentives for small companies; and tax credits for research and development investments.

C. FOREIGN TAX RELIEF

Foreign-sourced income, gross of tax paid abroad, is included in taxable income. A unilateral credit for foreign income tax suffered can be offset against Portuguese CIT. Portugal's tax treaties also apply the ordinary credit method. The tax credit is restricted to the lower of:

- The income tax paid abroad;
- The Portuguese income tax chargeable on that foreign income, net of related expenses.

D. CORPORATE TAX GROUP

Companies meeting certain conditions can choose to be taxed on a group basis. Among other conditions:

- All companies in the Tax Group are resident in Portugal;
- The parent company must hold, directly or indirectly, at least 75% in the remaining companies of the group. The 75% control can be held either by a Portuguese company or by a parent company resident in another EU State.

Under this regime, the taxable income of the group is computed by summing up the taxable income and losses of the companies included in the group.

E. RELATED PARTY TRANSACTIONS

Transfer pricing legislation enables the tax authorities to make corrections to taxable income when the conditions (and prices) agreed between related parties are different from those that would have been agreed and accepted by independent entities. Taxpayers with a turnover equal to or above EUR 3 million must keep a documentation set to support the transfer pricing policy within the group.

F. WITHHOLDING TAX

Certain types of earnings are subject to withholding tax rates generally at a 25% rate and in case of payments made to a listed offshore jurisdiction the withholding tax rate is 35%. The withholding tax rate may be reduced if there is a double tax treaty in force with the country of the beneficiary of the income.

G. EXCHANGE CONTROL

There are no exchange control regulations.

H. PERSONAL TAX

Income tax is payable by individuals on income obtained from employment, a business activity or independent profession, investment income, immovable property, capital gains and pensions. Resident individuals are subject to income tax on their worldwide income while non-residents are liable to income tax only on income sourced in Portugal. Tax residence is determined by physical presence in Portugal for more than 183 days, consecutive or not, during any period of 12 months. Having remained for less time, residence is also determined by having a place of abode in a way that may lead to the supposition of an intention to keep and occupy it as a habitual home/ residence.

When determining the taxable income, certain tax credits are allowed in addition to some specific deductions concerning each category of income. These include a percentage of expenses incurred on health, education and family overheads.

Husbands and wives living together, and their dependent children, may choose to be taxed on their joint income. Normally, the tax year coincides with the calendar year but may be split in situations of partial fiscal residence. Nonetheless, whenever a taxpayer has two different tax residence statuses (resident and non-resident) in the same tax year, they may be obliged to submit a tax return for each residence status.

Special rules apply for the calculation of gains on immovable property, shares or other corporate rights, securities and patents. Exempt income includes various employment allowances (up to certain limits); a portion of pension income; capital gains from the sale of the habitual private residence when the proceeds are reinvested in another private residence.

Tax returns can only be submitted via the internet during a period running from 1 April until 30 June of the subsequent tax year for all taxpayers, regardless of the source of income. The following progressive tax rates apply to the aggregate net results of employment income, business income, investment income (if subject to a final withholding tax), income from land, capital gains and pension income:

Taxable income (EUR)	Marginal rate on excess over lower limit (%)	Average rate on lower limit (%)
Up to 7,091	14.5	14.5
7,091 – 10,700	23	17.367
10,700 – 20,261	28.5	22.621
20,261 – 25,000	35	24.967
25,000 – 36,856	37	28.838
36,856 – 80,640	45	37.613
Over 80,640	48

In addition, a surtax ("solidarity tax") of 2.5% applies on the part of the income exceeding EUR 80,000 while on the part of the income exceeding EUR 250,000, a 5% rate applies:

Taxable income (EUR)	Tax Rates (%)
From 80,000 to 250,000	2.5
In excess of 250,000	5

Domestic income may be subject to withholding tax. In most cases, tax withheld from residents represents a payment on account of the recipient's ultimate tax liability. In other cases, such as interest on bank deposits or dividends the tax withheld represents the final tax, but the individuals have an option to include such income in the tax return, in which case the withholding tax will be treated as a payment on account.

Special Tax Regime for Non-Habitual Residents

A special tax regime for non-habitual residents is available. Individuals becoming tax residents and who have not been resident in Portugal for tax purposes for the past five years may apply for being covered by this regime. Under this regime, certain foreign-sourced income, such as investment income, capital gains, and pension income may be exempt from taxation in Portugal, if certain conditions are met, for a period of 10 years. In addition, non-habitual residents may benefit from a reduced tax rate of 20% on Portuguese-sourced employment and self-employment income, if derived from high value-added activities performed in Portugal. Such activities are listed in Ordinance No. 12/2010 (January 7) and defined as those with a scientific, artistic or technical nature, including: engineers, architects, consultants, doctors, designers, tax consultants, university lecturers and artists.

Special Tax Regime for Former Residents returning to Portugal in 2019 or in 2020

This special tax regime applies to individuals that did not qualify as tax residents during the three years prior to their return but qualified as tax residents in Portugal prior to 31 December 2015 and did not apply for the special tax regime for non-habitual residents.

For qualifying individuals, 50% of employment income or professional/self-employed income is excluded from taxation for a five-year period between 2019 and 2023 or between 2020 and 2024, depending on the first year of residence.

Notes:

- Dividends (other than stock dividends) paid to a non-resident company without a permanent establishment in Portugal are subject to a 25% final withholding tax. A 35% withholding tax applies to (i) dividends paid to accounts held on behalf of non-identified third parties and (ii) dividends paid or made available to persons resident in a black-listed jurisdiction without a permanent establishment in Portugal.
- Under Portuguese domestic law implementing the provisions of the EU Parent-Subsidiary Directive, outbound dividends and other profit distributions by Portuguese subsidiaries to their parent companies may be exempt from withholding tax. To qualify for the withholding tax exemption, the non-resident parent company must (i) be resident in an EU Member State or a resident country that has signed a tax treaty with Portugal (ii) be subject to, and not exempt from, corporate income tax, provided that the tax rate is not less than 60% of the applicable general CIT rate (i.e. 12.6% for 2019) (iii) maintain a direct holding of at least 10% in the share capital or voting rights of the Portuguese subsidiary and (iv) have maintained the holding continuously for at least 1 year prior to the date of distribution. Distributions within a holding period of less than 1 year qualify for the relief, provided that the parent company maintains the holding until the 1 year requirement is met.
Reduced withholding tax rates on dividends (qualifying companies) are also available under the treaties with non-EU member states, subject to certain conditions and participations.
- Interest payments to non-resident companies are generally subject to a 25% final withholding tax. A 35% withholding tax applies to (i) interest paid to accounts held on behalf of non-identified third parties and (ii) interest paid or made available to persons resident in a black-listed jurisdiction without a permanent establishment in Portugal. The EU Interest and Royalties Directive precludes any taxation on interest and royalty payments to associated EU companies. Two companies are associated companies if (a) one of them has a direct minimum holding of 25% in the capital of the other or (b) a third EU company has a direct minimum holding of 25% in the capital of the two companies. The relevant companies must have a legal form listed in the Annex of the Directive and be subject to a corporate income tax. A minimum holding period of 2 years is required.
- Royalties (including payments in respect of know-how, leasing of equipment and technical assistance) are generally subject to a 25% final withholding tax. A 35% withholding tax applies to royalties paid or made available to persons resident in a black-listed jurisdiction without a permanent establishment in Portugal. For the EU Interest and Royalties Directive, see footnote 3.
- The Double Tax Treaty between Portugal and Angola is in the final stages of approval proceeding.
- Entrance into force depends on notification.

A. TAXES PAYABLE

FEDERAL TAXES AND LEVIES

COMPANY TAX

Companies organised in Puerto Rico are subject to Puerto Rican tax on their worldwide income. Non-resident companies are only subject to tax on income from sources within Puerto Rico.

The corporate income tax rate is a basic 18.5% rate (for tax years commencing after 31 December 2018) plus an additional graduated surcharge.

Alternative minimum tax (AMT)

AMT is applied at a 30% rate on alternative minimum net income and may be reduced by the AMT credit for foreign taxes paid.

For tax years commencing after 31 December 2018, the AMT for taxpayers with business volumes not exceeding USD 3 million will be the greater of USD 500 or 18.5% of the alternative minimum net income. In the case of taxpayers with business volumes exceeding USD 3 million or more the AMT rate will be 23%.

CAPITAL GAINS TAX

Capital gains are subject to a 20% tax rate.

BRANCH PROFITS TAX

A resident foreign corporation deriving less than 80% of its income from Puerto Rico activities is subject to a 10% branch profits tax, instead of the 10% withholding tax on dividends. This is determined annually at the time the income tax return is submitted. Branch profits tax is due even when an annual dividend has not been paid.

SALES TAX / VALUE ADDED TAX (VAT)

Sales and Use Tax (SUT) is levied on the sale and use of tangible personal property, taxable services, and admission rights in Puerto Rico. The SUT standard rate is 10.5% at state level plus an additional 1% at municipal level.

A reduced 4% rate applies for designated professional services and B2B services.

B. DETERMINATION OF TAXABLE INCOME

The gross income of a corporation generally includes business income, profits from the sale of property, interest, dividends, and income derived from any source, unless specifically exempted by law.

A corporation's net income is generally calculated in accordance with the method used for financial statement purposes, except for various items of income and expenses, which are treated differently.

DEPRECIATION

A reasonable depreciation allowance is deductible for the exhaustion, wear and tear, and obsolescence of property used in business. The most common depreciation method used by corporations is the straight-line method. Nevertheless, any other consistent method may be used in lieu of the straight-line method as long as it is in accordance with the recognised trade practice.

STOCK / INVENTORY

In general, inventory is valued at the lower of cost or market. Retail merchants can use the retail method of accounting.

INTEREST DEDUCTIONS

Interest expense is deductible without limitation. However, interest expenses related to exempt income are not deductible. If interest is paid to a non-Puerto Rico resident related party, a 29% withholding at source applies. If the 29% withholding is not withheld, no deduction is available.

LOSSES

For net operating losses (NOLs) incurred in taxable years commencing after 31 December 2004 and before 1 January 2013, they may be carried forward to the subsequent 12 taxable years. For taxable years commencing after 31 December 2012, NOLs may be carried forward to the subsequent 10 taxable years. For tax years commencing after 31 December 2012, but before 1 January 2015, the amount of NOLs allowed to be carried forward will be limited to 90% of net income. For taxable years commencing after 31 December 2014, the amount will be limited to 80% of net income. No carry-back is allowed. For taxable years commencing after 31 December 2018, the taxable income limitation is increased to 90% of net income.

C. FOREIGN TAX RELIEF

Puerto Rico provides a foreign tax credit for the amount of income and excess profits taxes imposed by the United States of America (i.e. federal and state taxes paid) and foreign countries. For purposes of the foreign tax credit, the term "income and excess profits taxes" includes a tax paid in lieu of these taxes.

The credit is allowed for foreign taxes incurred but limited to the equivalent Puerto Rican tax on the foreign-source portion of the taxable income.

D. CORPORATE GROUPS

There is no consolidated return treatment.

E. WITHHOLDING TAX

- Dividends paid by resident companies to non-resident companies not engaged in a trade or business in Puerto Rico are subject to a 10% withholding tax. Subject to certain conditions, a 7% withholding tax applies for certain dividends received by non-resident companies derived from industrial development income;
- Interest on related party loans (if the non-resident company is a related person of the debtor) received by non-resident companies not engaged in a trade or business in Puerto Rico is subject to a 29% withholding tax on the gross amount;
- Royalties received by a non-resident company that is not engaged in a trade or business in Puerto Rico are subject to a 29% withholding tax on the gross amount.

F. PERSONAL TAX

The tax rates are as follows:

Net taxable income (USD)	Tax Payable (USD)
Not over 9,000	Nil
Over 9,000, but not over 25,000	7% of the excess over USD 9,000
Over 25,000, but not over 41,500	USD 1,120 plus 14% of the excess over USD 25,000
Over 41,500, but not over 61,500	USD 3,430 plus 25% of the excess over USD 41,500
Over 61,500	USD 8,430 plus 33% of the excess over USD 61,500

I. TREATY AND NON-TREATY WITHHOLDING TAX RATES

There are no tax treaties between foreign countries and Puerto Rico.

- Corporate income taxes are chargeable on resident companies as well as non-resident companies with a permanent establishment in Romania. Capital gains are generally treated as ordinary business income and taxed accordingly.
- Residents and non-residents owning more than one building are subject to real estate tax.
- Dividends paid to non-resident companies are subject to withholding tax, subject to some exceptions. Generally dividends paid by resident companies to other resident companies are tax exempt.
- Transactions between legally related parties are subject to arm's length requirements for tax purposes. Starting from 2016 proper transfer pricing documentation is mandatory for large taxpayers.
- There is no concept of group tax relief. Profits and losses cannot be transferred between related parties.
- The standard VAT rate is 19%, while also reduced rates of 9% and 5% apply to certain goods and services.
- Residents, and certain non-residents are subject to individual income tax on their worldwide income and capital gains.

A. TAXES PAYABLE

NATIONAL AND OTHER TAXES COMPANY TAX

The following entities are subject to corporate income tax in Romania:

- Legal entities registered in accordance with Romanian law;
- Foreign legal entities doing business in Romanian through permanent establishments;
- Foreign legal entities which derive income from or in connection with real estate transactions or from transactions with participations in Romanian legal entities;
- Foreign legal entities and individuals doing business in Romania through associations with or without legal personality (partnerships);
- Resident individuals associated with Romanian legal entities for revenues derived in or outside Romania, through associations without legal personality, for which the individual tax is determined, withheld and paid by the Romanian legal entity;
- Companies with a registered office in Romania incorporated in accordance with EU legislation.

Romanian residency is determined based on the location of the head office or place of effective management. The standard corporate income tax rate is 16%, payable quarterly up to the 25th of the following month with a final adjustment for the year end. The final corporate income tax return and afferent payment is due by March 25th of the following year. However, certain categories of corporate income taxpayers are required to submit the tax return to the authorities and pay the final tax by 25 February of the following year.

Resident banks, credit institutions and other similar legal entities as well as Romanian branches of foreign-based banks are liable for quarterly advance payments of the annually determined corporate income tax.

Starting 1 January 2017 all income derived from hotel and restaurant businesses is taxed according to a specific tax regime based on different indicators such as the town rank where the unit is established, its surface and its seasonality coefficient, irrespective of whether a profit is registered or not. This particular system replaces the regularly applicable corporate income tax regime.

Another applicable taxation regime is for micro-companies, i.e. entities that meet the following conditions:

- They have generated income of up to 1,000,000 EUR during the past tax year; and
- They are privately owned.

Depending on whether the company has at least one full time employee, the flat income tax rate applicable to generated turnover can be at either 1% (1 or more employees) or 3% (no employees).

The tax year coincides with the calendar year. The law allows for motivated changes in respect to a company's tax year provided they are affiliates of a non-resident company applying a different tax year than the calendar one (i.e. to follow the same regime as the parent company).

Companies may choose an annual corporate income tax system whereby quarterly payments are also required. This system must be applied for at least two consecutive years once adopted and a prior notification to the tax authorities is mandatory. However, some categories are exempted from the application of these provisions, namely:

Romania

- Newly established companies;
- That have registered a tax loss in the previous year;
- That been temporarily suspended;
- That have had no activity either at the registered or at the subsidiary office; and
- That have been registered as a micro-company.

BRANCH PROFIT TAX

Foreign entities are generally subject to income tax in Romania, provided that the income was derived from Romania. This is determined based on the type of activities it has undertaken in Romania and whether they are indeed related to Romania. Income derived from Romanian established branches, permanent establishments or representative offices of foreign entities shall also be subject to Romanian corporate income tax.

Branches have to be registered with the Romanian tax authorities. The registration, filing and payment requirements are similar to those imposed on a Romanian company. A distribution of funds to the head office is not treated as a dividend distribution and no withholding tax liability should arise (no branch remittance tax). However, profits are transferred at year-end, after the head office approves the financial statements of the branch. The taxable profits of the branch are subject to general Romanian tax rules, provided that the following conditions are met:

- Taxable income shall consist only of that income which can be assigned to the branch;
- Expenses deducted shall consist only of those expenses incurred in relation to the branch's activity.

A permanent establishment is not necessarily a legal entity but is taxable in Romania. The income obtained by a permanent establishment is taxable in Romania, provided that it is recognised as the place through which the activity of a non-resident is conducted, fully or partially, directly or through a dependent agent. Once a permanent establishment is created, the profits of the foreign enterprise derived from the activity performed by the permanent establishment may be taxed in Romania.

A representative office may only conduct auxiliary or preparatory activities. A representative office cannot trade in its own name and cannot engage in any commercial activity. Any representative office registered in Romania is subject to a RON 18,000 yearly tax. The payment of rep office tax has been changed from two instalments to a single instalment, which is due by the end of February of the tax year.

VALUE ADDED TAX (VAT)

Companies with an annual turnover of at least RON 300,000 (approximately EUR 63,000) must register for VAT purposes. Companies with a turnover below this threshold may register upon request.

The general VAT rate is 19%, while a 9% VAT rate is applicable to various goods and services such as:

- Food including non-alcoholic beverages destined for human as well as for animal consumption;
- Medicine and certain medical products such as prosthetics;
- Water supply and sewerage services as well as the supply of water for irrigation in agriculture.

Additionally, a 5% VAT rate is applied to:

- The sale of property carried out as a part of the country's social policy; as from 2019 the restriction to purchase a single dwelling at a 5% reduced rate is abolished (the restrictions which limited the application of the reduced 5% VAT rate on immovable property to one property per individual, and with a maximum land surface area of 250 m² including the land footprint of the dwelling, have been lifted).
- Changes to the rules on purchase of immovable property with the reduced 5% VAT rate will encourage the development of the real estate market by lifting the limitation on the ownership of such property by individuals.;
- Books, newspapers and magazines, school books;
- Admission fees to castles, museums, sport events, cinemas, etc.
- Restaurants and catering services;
- Hotel, camping and other assimilated services.
- The right to use sports facilities for the purpose of practicing sport and physical education, other than those already VAT exempt.

Local reverse charge is applicable in some cases between two Romanian VAT payers, for example:

- Cereals and technical plants, including oilseeds and sugar beets;
- Certain waste and recyclable materials;
- Wood and alike material;
- Gas emission and “green” certificates;
- Electric energy to traders;
- Land and buildings;
- Investment gold, subject to certain conditions;
- Mobile phones, integrated circuits such as microprocessors and central processing units, portable automatic data processing devices (such as laptops, tablets etc., video game consoles
(If the value of the goods delivered, excluding VAT, entered in an invoice, is equal to or greater than RON 22,500).

A VAT split payment mechanism has entered into force since the beginning of October 2017. VAT taxable persons have to use a distinct bank account for cashing and payments representing VAT. With effect from 1 January 2018 the VAT split payment system has been amended. The split system is mandatory only for public and private companies under insolvency or that have VAT liabilities to pay. VAT-registered persons that meet one of the following criteria are required to open and use at least one VAT account:

- As of 31 December 2017, taxpayers with outstanding VAT liabilities exceeding RON 15,000 (large taxpayers), RON 10,000 (mid-sized taxpayers), or RON 5,000 (small-sized companies and individuals), if they are not paid by 31 January 2018;
As a result, operators having registered liabilities exceeding the abovementioned thresholds as per 31 December 2017 and not paying VAT due by 31 January 2018 will fall under the scope of the split system with effect from 1 March 2018.
- With effect from 1 January 2018 taxpayers with outstanding VAT liabilities exceeding 60 working days as of the due date of more than RON 15,000 (large taxpayers), RON 10,000 (mid-sized taxpayers), RON 5,000 (small companies and individuals).

The VAT split system can be applied optionally by other companies (not covered by the aforementioned criteria). Taxable persons who opt for the application of the VAT split payment system after 1 January 2018 will be granted a 5% reduction on the tax on profit/income of microenterprises for the entire period in which they apply the scheme.

The new VAT method does not change any existing VAT rules. Companies that apply the VAT system will have to use different bank account in respect of receipts and payments of VAT. VAT accounts will be opened, by default, with the various treasury units within the tax offices where taxpayers are registered. However, any taxpayer can opt to open an account with a commercial bank.

The VAT cash accounting system: This system is optional for taxpayers with a previous year turnover not exceeding EUR 500,000 (RON 2,250,000) and for newly established companies. However, non-resident taxpayers are not eligible to apply for this system.

Taxpayers who are subject to this system must only pay VAT on sales after invoices have been paid by the recipients of goods or services they have been supplied to. Also, the right to deduct the input VAT for the acquisition of goods/services is deferred until payment is done.

Taxpayers not making use of the VAT cash accounting, regardless of the tax system to which they are subject, may exercise their right to deduct the input VAT for their acquisitions from suppliers who are subject to VAT cash accounting – but only upon payment of the relevant invoices.

As from 1 January 2010, Romania has transposed various EU VAT directives into its domestic law, namely:

- 2008/8/CE Directive regarding the place of supply of services (B2B and B2C rules);
- 2008/9/CE Directive regarding VAT reimbursement for individuals established in the EU;
- 2008/117/CE Directive regarding the fight against tax fraud related to community operations.

In addition to the abovementioned changes, certain amendments have been made to allow for the harmonisation of Romanian legislation with the EU VAT Directives, such as:

- A clarification of the definition ‘established in Romania’ in the sense of ‘fixed establishment’;
- Rules regarding the chargeability of VAT for consignment stock, goods supplied for testing and conformity checking, call of stock and supply of immovable property;
- Turnover for small enterprises includes the operations for which the place of taxation is deemed to be abroad (provided the tax would be deemed as deductible should the operations be performed in Romania).

Romania

The provisions of 2010/45/CE directive regarding invoicing have also been transposed. The import of goods is subject to VAT at the standard rate while all exports are VAT exempted.

FRINGE BENEFITS

Under Romanian tax law fringe benefits are benefits received by employees under their employment contract, if any. Benefits in kind or cash must be taxed along with the salary income at the same time they have been granted by the employer. The income tax rate is 10% and subject to withholding by the income payer.

LOCAL TAXES

The Tax Code sets Romanian local taxes at a maximum percentage, applicable to both individuals and legal entities. EU or EEA (European Economic Area) individuals are granted the right to own land in Romania. Non-EU individuals may acquire land in Romania, provided that there is an international treaty between Romania and the relevant state, and that reciprocal arrangements are in place.

BUILDING TAX

Residents or non-residents owning one or more properties in Romania are subject to real estate tax. All buildings, regardless of their purpose are taxed based on declared value (which for buildings destined for the use of all economic activities shall be determined periodically by an authorised appraiser). Tax rates for buildings differ depending on their destination (residential, mixed or business) at rates ranging from 0.08% to 2% per year as set by local council decree. Building tax exemptions are granted for limited periods to those owners performing architectural improvement work on buildings.

LAND TAX

Land tax is due at a fixed rate per hectare owned, depending on the location of the land within a certain determined area and depending on the use of the land. The tax is payable annually in equal instalments.

VEHICLE TAX

Vehicle tax is payable by owners of both land/water vehicles registered in Romania. The tax depends on the capacity of the engine and is determined as a fixed amount per 200 cubic centimetres. The tax is payable annually in equal instalments.

Other local taxes and duties include fees for certificate and permit issuing, for using advertising and publicity material.

OTHER TAXES

Local Councils and County councils may charge duties for the temporary use of public spaces as well as for entrance to museums, memorial houses or historical, architectural or archaeological monuments. Duties are also payable for the possession or use of certain special purpose constructions or assets, as well as for activities impacting the environment.

The Waste Directive 2008/98/CE has been implemented in Romanian legislation starting 2005 giving rise to environment tax for producers and distributors of goods damaging to the environment as well as packaged goods.

EXCISE DUTY

Excise duty is due at a fixed amount per unit or as a percentage of a specified taxable base. Romania has imposed excise duties on among others: beer, wine, fermented beverages other than beer and wine, intermediate products, ethylic alcohol, tobacco products, energy products and electricity.

Excise duty legislation is in line with EU Directive 2008/118/CE concerning the general arrangements for excise duty.

CONTRIBUTIONS TO SOCIAL SECURITY

Starting 1 January 2018, according to the new legislation approved by the Romanian Government, contributions for both employees and employers were modified as follows:

- The total amount of employer/employee contributions to the social security system decreased by two percentage points (from 39.25% to 37.25%).

- The new social security contribution rate currently stands at 35%, consisting of a general rate of 25% and a health insurance contribution of 10%.
- Employers' contributions to social security have largely been eliminated. Employers are currently only subject to a 2.25% labour insurance contribution. Employers are also subject to additional pension contributions of 4% or 8% for employees subject to specific working conditions.
- The income tax rate was reduced from 16% to 10%.

The result was an increase in the overall tax burden on employees from social security income and taxes from 32.5% (16% plus 16.5% respectively) to 45% (35% plus 10%). Social security contributions for employers were decreased from 22.75% to 2.25% from the total payroll.

In Romania, for the year 2018, the gross minimum wage was RON 1,900, and in 2019, the gross minimum wage increased to RON 2,080 per month (any industry, except construction, except upper studies), and RON 2,350 per month for persons who are employed which require higher education and have at least 1 year seniority in higher education. For the construction industry, the gross minimum wage is RON 3,000 per month starting January 2019.

From 1 January 2019 until 31 December 2028, employees who work for employers in the construction sector benefit from the following exemptions, subject to certain conditions:

- Exemption from payment of tax on salaries;
- Exemption from the payment of social health insurance contributions;
- Reduction of social security contribution, which will be 21.25% instead of 25% for other sectors;
- For the employment insurance contribution paid by employers, a reduction will be applied to the contribution. The reduction is calculated as 15% from the result of the initial contribution calculated as 2.25% of gross salary. As per the new provisions of the local legislation, the calculation of the new contribution for construction industry is the value obtained from $15\% \times 2.25\%$. The value obtained is the new contribution that the employers have to pay for the employee in the construction industry (i.e. $15\% \times 2.25\% = 0.33\%$). Considering that the legislation has been changed in a short period of time, the final conclusion published by the Authorities is that the contribution that the employers which are operating in the construction sector have to pay is equal to 2.25%. The reason for changing the legislation is that the state aid scheme is not yet approved. In this respect, all companies that have applied the favourable share contribution (i.e. 0.33%) will submit rectifications from the beginning of the year and have to pay the differences related to the initial value of the contribution (i.e. 2.25%).

For the construction sector, exemptions apply only if the following conditions are met simultaneously:

- Employers achieve turnover in construction/building materials/architecture to an extent of at least 80% of total turnover, calculated cumulatively from the beginning of the year, including the month as from which the exemption applies;
- Monthly gross wages and wages assimilated to salaries earned by individuals for whom the exemption applies are between 3,000 and 30,000 RON per month all-inclusive and are made on the basis of the individual labour contract.

The insurance contribution for work (2.25% from gross salary) collected for the state budget shall be distributed monthly, by the end of the current month, a share of:

- 12%, which is paid to the Guarantee Fund for the payment of salary claims; (amended on 18 March 2019 by the Law, from 15% until 18 March 2019 to 12% after this date);
- 17%, which is paid to the Unemployment Insurance Budget;
- 2%, which is paid to the Insurance system for accidents at work and occupational diseases;
- 21%, which is paid to the budget of the National Health Insurance Fund for the payment of medical leave;
- 48%, which is paid to the state budget in a separate account.

Between 1 January 2019 and 31 December 2028 inclusive, the insurance contribution for work collected to the state budget from employers who carry out activities in the construction sector and who meet the conditions stipulated in the Tax Code shall be distributed in full to the Guarantee Fund for the payment of salary claims constituted. Once the modifications of the Fiscal Code start, the employers who carry out activities in the construction sector will pay a share of 2.25%.

B. DETERMINING THE TAXABLE INCOME

DEPRECIATION

Romanian tax legislation makes a specific distinction between accounting and tax depreciation. For fixed assets, tax depreciation is calculated based on rules set out by local tax legislation and deductibility no longer depends on the depreciation determined by accounting rules only.

The straight line method is generally preferred by tax legislation, but in certain conditions the declining balance method may also be used. Under the accelerated method, the maximum depreciation in the first year of use is limited to 50% of the asset value.

STOCK / INVENTORY

Inventory must be valued according to generally accepted accounting principles at the lower of cost or market value.

CAPITAL GAINS AND LOSSES

Taxable capital gains are included in taxable income and taxed at the normal rate. Income earned by non-residents from the sale of real estate located in Romania is also taxed at the general corporate income tax rate of 16%.

DIVIDENDS

Dividends paid to resident companies are subject to a final withholding tax of 5%, except where the company receiving the dividends holds at least 10% of the shares for a period of minimum 1 year at the date the dividend is paid.

As a general rule, dividends paid to non-resident companies are subject to 5% withholding tax.

However, as Romania is an EU member state, the EU Parent-Subsidiary directive can be applied. Therefore, dividends paid by Romanian companies to resident companies in one of the EU member states are exempt from taxation if the beneficiary of the dividend has held, at the time of distribution, a minimum of 10% of the shares of the Romanian company for an uninterrupted period of at least one year.

Starting from Q3 of 2018, companies may opt for quarterly distribution of profits to shareholders. Reconciliation of such amounts is done after the annual financial statements have been approved. Those who opt for the quarterly distribution of dividends are required to prepare interim financial statements. Any differences resulting from the reconciliation are payable within 60 days of the date of approval of the annual financial statements. Failure to meet that deadline results in penalty interest being due.

INTEREST DEDUCTIONS

Thin capitalisation rules applicable to the deductibility of interest expenses have been replaced by new rules as of 1 January 2019. The limitation applies to the deductibility of debt related costs, which are defined as having a very wide meaning so as to cover a wide range of costs related to financing. Excess debt related costs, calculated as the difference between debt related costs and income from interest and other equivalent income incurred in a tax period exceeding the equivalent in RON of 1,000,000 EUR, can be considered deductible for corporate income tax purposes only within the limit of 30% of the following calculation base: gross accounting profit including corporate income tax payable minus non-taxable revenue plus excess debt related costs and tax depreciation. If the tax base described above is zero or negative, the excess debt related costs are treated as non-deductible for corporate tax purposes during the current tax period, but can be carried forward indefinitely.

LOSSES

Ordinary losses incurred after 1 January 2009 can be carried forward for seven years.

FOREIGN SOURCED INCOME

Resident companies are subject to tax on their worldwide income. Foreign losses may be deducted only from foreign income on a source-by-source basis. Foreign exchange gains from the revaluation of an asset or liability at year-end are deemed to be realised and are taxable.

C. FOREIGN TAX RELIEF

In the absence of a double tax treaty, unilateral relief is provided by way of an ordinary credit for income taxes paid abroad. This credit may not exceed the tax owed in Romania on the same income.

D. CORPORATE GROUPS

There is no consolidation or group taxation in Romania. Members of a group must file separate tax returns. Losses incurred by members of a group cannot be offset against profits made by other group members.

E. RELATED PARTY TRANSACTIONS

Transactions between related parties should adhere to the arm's length principle, otherwise the Romanian tax authorities have the right to adjust the income or expenses incurred by the taxpayer in order to reflect market (arm's length) value. Traditional transfer pricing methods as well as any other methods which are in line with OECD Guidelines may be used for setting transfer prices. Starting 1 January 2016 transfer pricing files have become mandatory for large and medium sized companies undertaking operations with related parties exceeding certain thresholds, namely:

- a) Yearly for large companies registering related party transactions of:
 - EUR 200,000 for interest received/paid for financial services;
 - EUR 250,000 for services received/rendered;
 - EUR 350,000 euro for transactions concerning the acquisition/sale of tangible or intangible assets.
- b) Large taxpayers not fulfilling criterion (a), as well as other taxpayers performing annual transactions with all related parties for amounts greater than or equal to any of the below mentioned thresholds are required to prepare the transfer pricing report at the request of the tax authorities during the course of a tax audit:
 - EUR 50,000 for interest received/paid for financial services;
 - EUR 50,000 for services received/rendered;
 - EUR 100,000 for transactions concerning the acquisition/sale of tangible or intangible assets.

Taxpayers who do not fall into any of the above categories are not required to prepare the transfer pricing report. However, during a tax audit, this category of taxpayers should be able to provide documents that substantiate that the arm's length principle was adhered to.

F. WITHHOLDING TAX

As a general rule, non-resident companies are subject to 16% withholding tax on income derived from Romania such as interest, royalties and revenue derived from liquidation of a Romanian legal entity. The applicable tax rate for interest and royalties is 16% unless a lower tax treaty rate applies.

A 5% flat tax is withheld as dividend tax, except where a lower tax is provided by a tax treaty. In order for the latter to apply, all non-resident taxpayers must provide a tax residency certificate.

G. EXCHANGE CONTROL

The Romanian National Bank manages the exchange control regulations applicable in Romania. A notification to the Romanian National Bank is required 10 days prior to concluding monetary capital operations on a short-time basis, and some limitations to such transactions apply.

H. PERSONAL TAX

The following categories of taxpayers are subject to personal income tax:

- a) Resident individuals, namely any person who meets at least one of the following conditions:
 - Has an address located in Romania;
 - The centre of his vital interests is located in Romania;
 - Resident in Romania for more than 183 days in any 12-month period;
- b) Non-resident individuals who perform an independent activity through a permanent establishment in Romania;
- c) Non-resident individuals who perform dependent activities in Romania;
- d) Non-resident individuals who obtain other income from Romania.

INDIVIDUAL SOCIAL CONTRIBUTIONS

Individuals obtaining revenue from independent activities, agricultural activities and associations without legal personality are considered to be taxpayers to the public pension insurance and public health insurance systems. The general applicable individual social contributions are:

- Social insurance contribution: 25%;
- Health insurance contribution: 10%.

However, effective from 2018, the calculation basis of the abovementioned contributions within a tax year are limited to the equivalent of 12 minimum basic salaries.

Individuals who carry out independent activities from one or more sources of income are required to pay a CAS pension if they meet one of the following criteria:

- The net income realised in 2018/19, excluding social security contributions, in relation to the number of months of activity during the year, is at least equal to the minimum basic salary;
- The estimated net monthly income to be achieved is at least equal to the minimum gross salary per country in force in the month in which they start their activity;
- In the case of taxpayers earning intellectual property rights, the net monthly income earned in the previous year, remaining after the deduction of deductible expenses (40% of gross income), in relation to the number of months of activity during the year, is at least equal to the minimum basic salary in the country in force in January of the year for which the contribution is established.

The monthly basis for calculating the social security contributions for persons who earn income from independent activities is the income chosen by the taxpayer, which cannot be lower than the minimum basic salary.

Individuals who owe the health insurance contribution, subject to the condition that they reach an annual cumulative income equal to at least 12 basic minimum wages from one or more sources of income, are persons who obtain income from one of the following categories:

- Net income from independent activities;
- Income from Intellectual Property Rights;
- Income from association with a legal person;
- Net proceeds from the disposal of the use of the goods;
- Investment income;
- Net income from agricultural activities, forestry and fish farming;
- Gross income from other sources, defined according to the Tax Code.

The basis for calculating the social health insurance contribution due by self-employed individuals is the minimum basic salary.

Tax on income derived from self-employment represents:

- 10% of net income, which is calculated as the difference between the income received and the deductible expenses incurred during the fiscal year; or
- 10% of the income rule.

TAX RESIDENCY

In the absence of a tax residency certificate, regardless of the existence of a tax treaty between two states, foreign citizens will be taxed as Romanian residents if one of the following criteria is met:

- Has an address located in Romania;
- The centre of their vital interests is located in Romania;
- They spend more than 183 aggregate days in Romania within 12 consecutive months ending in the concerned calendar year.

I. TREATY AND NON-TREATY WITHHOLDING TAX RATES

The rates in the table below contain the withholding tax rates applicable to dividend, interest and royalty payments by Romanian companies to non-residents under the double tax treaties currently in force. In a specific case, where a treaty rate is higher than the domestic rate, the latter will apply.

KEY TAX POINTS

- The taxation system in the Russian Federation is based on a combination of federal, regional, and local taxes and levies.
- Federal taxes and levies include: Value Added Tax (VAT), Excise Duties, Personal Income Tax, Corporate Income Tax, Mineral Extraction Tax, Water Tax, State Duty, and fees for the use of wildlife resources and aquatic biological resources. Tax on additional income from hydrocarbon extraction is introduced as from 2019.
- Regional taxes include: Corporate Property Tax, Gambling Tax and Transport Tax.
- Local taxes and levies include Land Tax, Individual Property Tax and Sales Tax.
- There are also special tax regimes comprising lower tax rates and some simplifications: for agricultural manufacturers, for product sharing agreements, patent tax regime (for individual entrepreneurs regarding specific activities), single tax on imputed income regarding specific activities and a simplified taxation regime. Professional income tax is introduced as from 2019 for a trial period of 10 years.
- The tax period is a calendar year or other specified period of time in relation to specific taxes at the end of which the tax base is calculated and the tax payable is assessed. The tax period may cover more than one reporting period.
- The standard corporate income tax rate is currently 20% and this is also the rate of the income tax paid by foreign companies deriving income which is not connected with carrying out their business activities through a permanent establishment in Russia. In some cases other tax rates may apply.
- Capital gains are treated as ordinary business income and therefore subject to income tax.
- Consolidated group of taxpayers regime may apply under Corporate Income Tax.
- Value Added Tax (VAT) is levied at a standard rate of 20% as from 2019 (before 2019 - 18%) and applies to the sale of goods, works and services in Russia and the import of goods into the Russian Federation. In certain cases 10% and 0% rates may apply.
- CFC (Controlled Foreign Companies) rules apply.
- Thin capitalisation rules apply to restrict the deduction of interest where it is paid to a related foreign person that holds directly or indirectly more than 25% of the share capital of a Russian company. These rules also apply in some other situations. As from 2019 there are exemptions for certain investment projects.

- Transfer pricing rules apply to transactions between related parties. Taxpayers need to prove the arm's length nature of their transactions. For large taxpayers it is possible to enter into Advance Pricing Agreements (APA) with the tax authorities (TA), which are typically for a three year period.
- Foreign legal entities deriving income in connection with activities within Russia may be subject to withholding taxes on dividends, interest, royalties and some other income. In some cases a withholding tax rate of 30% may apply in respect of income from securities issued by Russian companies.
- There are special preferential rules (e.g. lower tax rates, tax reliefs, etc.) for taxpayers acting within the scope of different kinds of special zones and projects (e.g. Special Economic Zones, regional investment projects, special investment contracts and others).
- Individuals are considered to be resident if they spend more than 183 days in Russia during a continuous 12-month period. Residents are subject to income tax on their worldwide income and non-residents on their Russian-sourced income only.
- Registration (de-registration) with the tax authorities of the foreign company at its place of business in the territory of the Russian Federation:
 - Through an accredited branch or representative office based on the data contained in the state register of accredited branches and representative offices of foreign legal entities;
 - Through other separate subdivisions based on the application for the registration (de-registration) of such company.
- The personal income tax rate for residents and foreign highly skilled specialists is 13%. A special 35% rate is applied to some types of income, e.g. the cost of some prizes and wins, interest on certain bank deposits. A 13% rate is applied to income in the form of dividends received from shareholdings. All personal income of non-residents, excluding dividends, is taxed at the rate of 30%. General withholding tax rate for dividends received by non-residents is 15%. In some cases tax rates may differ.
- Russia has concluded over 80 Double Tax Treaties.
- Exchange of financial information: effective 2018, Russia implemented provisions regarding CRS (Common Reporting Standard). Under these provisions Russian financial institutions are obliged to provide the Russian Tax Authorities with certain information regarding different types of accounts opened with such institutions. Information regarding accounts opened in the name of foreign residents (or if the beneficiary owner or controlling person is a foreign resident) will be automatically exchanged with other jurisdictions on an annual basis. The first reporting period is 2017.
- In 2017 Russia along with other jurisdictions signed the Multilateral Convention to Implement Tax Treaty Related Measures to Prevent Base Erosion and Profit Shifting ("Multilateral Instrument" or "MLI"). The MLI offers concrete solutions for governments to close the gaps in existing international tax rules by transposing results from the BEPS Project into bilateral tax treaties worldwide. The MLI modifies the application of thousands of bilateral tax treaties concluded to eliminate double taxation. It also implements agreed minimum standards to counter treaty abuse and to improve dispute resolution mechanisms while providing flexibility to accommodate specific tax treaty policies. When the MLI is in force, its provisions should be taken into account when applying a certain tax treaty: depending on the provisions admitted by certain jurisdictions they may significantly change the provisions of a certain tax treaty.
- In 2017 a new provision containing a general anti avoidance rule (GAAR) was implemented. The principle of this GAAR is that a transaction should not have a tax economy as its main purpose.

A. TAXES PAYABLE

R

CORPORATE INCOME TAX

Corporate taxpayers include:

- Russian companies;
- Foreign companies which operate in the Russian Federation through permanent establishments and/or receiving income from sources in the Russian Federation;
- Foreign companies recognised as tax residents of the Russian Federation are considered to be Russian companies.

Companies which are responsible participants of the consolidated group of taxpayers are considered taxpayers of such consolidated group of taxpayers.

The following companies are considered tax residents of the Russian Federation:

Russia

- 1) Russian companies;
- 2) Foreign companies recognised as tax residents of the Russian Federation in accordance with international tax treaties - for the purpose of applying this international treaty;
- 3) Foreign companies actually managed in the Russian Federation unless established otherwise under a double tax treaty.

Tax base

The tax base for Russian companies is defined as profit. There is some specificity for foreign companies.

Tax period

The tax period is one calendar year. The reporting periods for tax purposes are the first quarter, a half-year, and nine months of a calendar year. With the exception of foreign legal entities, companies are obliged to make monthly advance payments of their quarterly liabilities. Advance payments are due not later than the 28th day of the corresponding month.

Tax rates

The standard tax rate is currently 20%, of which 2% is normally paid to the federal budget and 18% to the budgets of constituent entities of the Russian Federation (i.e. regional budgets). For the period 2017-2024 this apportionment between budgets is 3% and 17% respectively. The tax rate of the tax payable to regional budgets may be reduced by the laws of constituent entities of the Russian Federation for specific categories of taxpayers, for example for taxpayers acting within the scope of different kinds of special zones and projects. There are also other tax rates for specific types of income (e.g. 13% for dividends received by a Russian company).

Foreign companies deriving income which is not connected with carrying out their business activities through a permanent establishment pay income tax at a standard rate of 20%. A rate of 10% applies to foreign companies on income from the use, maintenance or rent (freight) of ships, aircrafts and other moving vehicles or containers (including trailers and ancillary equipment required for traffic) in connection with international traffic. A rate of 15% applies to non-residents receiving dividends. There are also special tax rates for specific interests. In such cases tax is assessed and withheld by a tax agent.

Foreign companies carrying out their business activities in Russia through permanent establishments make quarterly advance payments.

Tax returns

In general, income tax returns must be filed no later than 28 March following the tax year.

The following types of income are tax exempt:

- Income received as payments to the charter capital;
- Income received as special-purpose financing from foreign entities in the form of capital investments for industrial purposes provided that such investments are used during the year;
- Assets received by Russian companies free of charge as assets contribution (certain conditions should be met) or from entities which hold more than 50% of the share capital of the recipient. In the latter case, the assets should not be distributed to a third person within a year of the original transfer (except money) and others.

CONTROLLED FOREIGN COMPANIES (CFC) AND CONTROLLING PERSONS

A foreign company is considered a controlled foreign company (CFC) if it meets the following conditions:

- 1) The company is not recognised as a tax resident of the Russian Federation;
- 2) The company's controlling parties are companies and (or) individuals recognised as tax residents of the Russian Federation.

A controlled foreign company is also a foreign unincorporated entity which is controlled by Russian tax resident(s). CFC profit (loss) is the profit (loss) of such company before taxation as per its annual financial statements, provided that certain conditions are met.

In other cases, CFC profit (loss) is the profit (loss) of such company determined under the regulations established by the Tax Code of the Russian Federation for Russian companies.

Profit (loss) of each CFC should be proved by its financial statements for the corresponding period accompanied by its tax returns or in some cases by other documents.

The tax rate for the tax base defined by controlling companies based on profit of the CFC is 20%, and if defined by controlling individuals - 13%.

There are some specific cases when CFC profit is tax exempt.

CAPITAL GAINS TAX

Capital gains are treated as ordinary business income and are therefore subject to income tax according to the general rule.

BRANCH PROFITS TAX

There is no special branch profits tax in Russia. Branches are not separate taxpayers and their profit is included into the tax base of a company. There is no branch remittance tax in Russia.

VALUE ADDED TAX (VAT)

VAT is levied on the sale of goods and services in Russia and the import of goods into the Russian Federation. The taxable base is the sale price.

The standard rate of VAT as from 2019 is 20% (before 2019 - 18%). Some supplies are taxed at a reduced rate of 10% (e.g. basic foodstuff, children's clothing and footwear, certain medical goods). Some sales are subject to a 0% rate (e.g. export of goods, international transportation of goods, etc.). Zero rate sales are entitled to input VAT refund/offset (as well as 20% rate and 10% rate sales).

Some sales are tax exempt (e.g. certain medical goods and services, interests in companies, securities, scientific research (provided specific conditions are met), cultural, educational services, services rendered by attorneys and others). Such sales are not entitled to input VAT refund/offset.

Import of certain medicines, medical and technological equipment (including components and spare parts) is exempt from VAT.

The tax period for VAT is a quarter.

Since 1 January 2017 foreign companies are obliged to charge VAT on the sale of e-services in Russia (to Russian customers).

As from 1 January 2019, foreign companies are obliged to pay VAT themselves both if they provide e-services to Russian individuals and to Russian companies. Foreign companies providing e-services to Russian clients must be registered with the Russian tax Authority. Before 2019, if services were provided directly to a Russian individual, VAT was to be paid by the foreign company (foreign company needed to be registered with the Russian tax Authority); if services were provided to a Russian legal entity, the buyer of services was obliged to withhold tax as a tax agent. Intermediaries participating in payments were also considered tax agents before 2019 as well as currently.

OTHER FEDERAL TAXES

State Duty is paid by companies and individuals for legal actions performed by state and local authorities as well as other authorities and officials who are entitled to performing such actions.

Excise Duties are levied on some goods such as alcohol, beer, cigarettes, cars and petrol.

A mineral extraction tax applies to companies engaged in the mineral extraction industry.

Companies and individuals consuming water for specific purposes are subject to water tax. The tax rates are fixed and depend on the water volume used.

Tax on additional income from hydrocarbon extraction is introduced as from 2019.

SPECIAL TAX REGIMES

Single Tax on imputed income regarding specific activities

Local authorities may determine an alternative income tax for certain small business activities such as personal services, retail sales and some other. The tax is paid instead of income tax, VAT (except on the import of goods into the Russian Federation) and property tax. In this case, taxpayers calculate 'common tax' at the rate of 7.5%-15% based on imputed earnings.

It should be noted that Single Tax will no longer apply as from the year 2021.

Simplified taxation regime

Simplified taxation regime may be applied if a taxpayer's income does not exceed a specified income threshold per tax period (usually a year). Some taxpayers are not allowed to apply this regime (e.g. banks, companies with affiliated branches, etc.). These taxpayers do not pay profit tax, VAT (except on the importation of goods to the Russian Federation) and partially property tax. The taxpayer can choose the taxable base for this tax, either gross income at a 6% tax rate or income minus expenses at a 15% tax rate.

Professional income tax is introduced as from 2019 for a trial period of 10 years.

There are also special tax regimes for agricultural manufacturers, for product sharing agreements and there is a patent tax regime (which has nothing to do with inventions and intangibles).

REGIONAL TAXES

Regional authorities can define certain tax rules but are not allowed to impose taxes not stipulated by federal tax law (Tax Code).

Corporate property tax

Russian and foreign companies that own property within the territory of the Russian Federation are liable for property tax. The tax rates are set by the regional authorities but cannot exceed 2.2%. In some cases the taxable base is the average annual depreciated value of fixed assets on the balance sheet of the resident company or permanent establishment concerned. In other cases the tax base is the cadastral value (e.g. business and trade centres, etc.). Foreign companies which do not have a permanent establishment in Russia are subject to property tax only with respect to their immovable property. As from 2019 corporate property tax applies only to immovable property (movable property is no longer subject to tax).

Transport Tax

The owners of transport vehicles (cars, motorcycles, buses, etc.) are subject to transport tax. The tax rates depend on the technical specification of the vehicles owned.

Gambling Tax

Companies operating gambling establishments are subject to a tax on the gambling industry. The taxable objects are defined as specified physical objects (e.g. gambling machine, etc.). The tax rates are fixed and are not related to income/profit.

LOCAL TAXES

Local authorities can define certain tax rules but are not allowed to impose taxes not stipulated by federal tax law (Tax Code).

Land tax

Land tax is due at a maximum rate of 0.3% on agricultural and residential land and at a maximum rate of 1.5% on other types of land. The taxable base is the cadastral value of land (as stated in the state land register as at 1 January of the relevant tax year). There are tax incentives for some taxpayers, such as residents of special economic zones, free economic zones, etc.

Individual property tax

Taxable objects include:

- 1) Residential building;
- 2) Residential unit (apartment, room);
- 3) Garage, parking space;
- 4) Real estate complex;
- 5) Construction in progress;
- 6) Other buildings, constructions, structures or premises.

The tax base is a cadastral value of the object or in some cases a special inventory value. It should be noted that the special inventory value will no longer be used as from the year 2020.

Maximum tax rates are 0.1% for certain residential objects, 2% for specified objects (e.g. business and trade centers, etc.) and 0.5% for other objects.

B. DETERMINATION OF TAXABLE INCOME

Taxable profits are calculated as the difference between taxable income and deductible expenses. In general, companies may deduct all necessary justified documented expenses incurred during the year in their income deriving activity. However, there are some specified restrictions which should be taken into account.

DEPRECIATION

Depreciation is calculated on a monthly basis and is deductible whether or not a company makes profits in the period. There are two methods of depreciation; straight-line method and non-straight-line method.

In some cases it is allowed to apply accelerated depreciation (with coefficient up to 2 or 3).

From 2018 until 2027 (including), regional authorities may introduce a special investment deduction instead of depreciation. If a certain region introduces this deduction it will apply directly to tax payable, i.e. tax payable may be reduced by costs of newly acquired fixed assets. Conditions for such deduction are to be installed by regional authorities.

Nine regions introduced investment deduction by 2019, almost all of them introduced this deduction for certain categories of taxpayers.

STOCK / INVENTORY

Inventory is valued at its acquisition cost. The cost of materials transferred to production may be determined by the following valuation methods: average cost, cost of item or FIFO.

CAPITAL GAINS AND LOSSES

As mentioned above, capital gains and losses are subject to income tax at regular corporate rates. In certain cases a 0% tax rate may apply.

DIVIDENDS

Dividends paid by Russian companies are subject to a final withholding tax whether they are paid to resident or non-resident recipients.

As from 2019 liquidation proceeds, i.e. income in excess of what a shareholder actually paid for shares, will be taxed as dividends for both personal income tax and corporate income tax purposes. Taxpayers are liable for tax regarding such dividends (not tax agents).

Dividends received by resident companies are subject to a 0% withholding tax rate if:

- The recipient holds at least 50% of the capital of the payer; and,
- The participation has been held continuously for the past 365 calendar days.

It should be noted that a 0% rate applies to foreign companies only if they recognised themselves as Russian residents voluntarily.

The tax rate for dividends paid to a non-resident company or individual is 15%. The tax rate for dividends paid to a resident is 13%.

INTEREST DEDUCTIONS

Thin capitalisation rules apply where interest is paid to a related foreign person that holds directly or indirectly more than 25% of the share capital of a Russian company. These rules also apply in some other situations. If the debt-to-equity ratio exceeds 3:1 (for bank companies, more than 12.5:1), the amount of deductible interest by the Russian company is restricted. The difference between the real amount of interest and that calculated under Russian tax legislation is treated as a dividend paid out by the Russian entity to its foreign shareholder and is subject to 15% withholding tax.

As from 2019 exemptions for some investment projects have been introduced (thin capitalisation rules will not apply subject to certain conditions).

LOSSES

Taxpayers who suffered a loss (losses) in the previous tax period(s) have the right to reduce the tax base for the current reporting (tax) period by the total amount of loss or by the part of such amount (to carry forward the loss). From 1 January 2017, losses realised in relation to tax periods starting from 1 January 2007 may be carried forward indefinitely (before 2017, this was limited to 10 years). In tax periods from 1 January 2017 until 31 December 2020, the set-off of ordinary losses may reduce the tax base in those periods by no more than 50%. Losses cannot be carried back.

FOREIGN SOURCED INCOME

Foreign sourced income and gains are subject to income tax at the regular rates.

C. FOREIGN TAX RELIEF

Russian tax law provides a tax credit for foreign taxes paid on foreign-sourced income subject to a limit which is equal to the amount of Russian tax due on the same income. Any excess foreign tax may not be carried back or forward.

D. CONSOLIDATED GROUPS

The concept of a consolidated group of taxpayers is applied in Russia from 1 January 2012. The regime is optional and applies only to Russian companies (i.e. no cross-border consolidation is allowed). Banks, insurance companies and some other types of entities are excluded. This regime only applies to Corporate Income Tax. In order to form a group, certain conditions have to be met. The most important are:

- a participation of at least 90% (directly or indirectly) in the capital of another company;
- the total amount of VAT, excise duties, corporate income tax and mineral extraction tax is at least RUB 10 billion per year;
- the combined turnover of the group members is at least RUB 100 billion per year; and
- the combined value of the assets is at least RUB 300 billion as of 31 December.

E. RELATED PARTY TRANSACTIONS

Inter-company pricing between related parties must be carried out on an arm's length basis. Otherwise the results of transaction of the parties are adjusted for tax purposes. Taxpayers are obliged to provide the tax authorities with transfer pricing documentation regarding controlled transactions. Such documentation is supposed to justify that applied price comply with the arm's length principal. It should contain data about the activities of the taxpayer and other parties to the transaction, description of the transaction (its terms), functions, risks and assets analysis, pricing methods, comparison analysis, etc.

The largest taxpayers can conclude Advance Pricing Agreements (APAs) with the tax authorities regarding the determination of prices and application of pricing methods in controlled transactions. Such agreements shall be valid for no longer than three years.

On 28 November 2017, Russia published Federal Law No. 340-FZ, implementing the BEPS Action 13 documentation requirements (i.e., CbC reporting, Master File, and Local File). The measures entered into force on 27 November 2017 and will apply from that date.

Country-by-Country Reporting

Russian taxpayers who are members of an international group and whose total revenue for the preceding fiscal year was at least RUB 50 billion are required to submit annual CbC reports to the Russian tax authorities. The CbC reporting requirements apply retroactively from 1 January 2017. Taxpayers are allowed to voluntarily file CbC reports in Russia for the 2016 reporting period.

The following taxpayers must submit a CbC report:

- Parent company of a multinational group (member that directly or indirectly participates in the capital of other group members);
- Authorised participant (authorised by the parent company, referred to as a "surrogate parent" as defined in the BEPS Action 13 final report);
- Member of a multinational group whose parent company is not required under domestic law to submit a CbC report, or which is a tax resident of a jurisdiction that does not have an international agreement with Russia on the automatic exchange of CbC reports.

Federal Law No. 340-FZ defines a "member of an international group" as:

- 1) An organisation whose financial statements are included in the consolidated financial statements of the international group; or
- 2) An organisation whose financial statements are not included in the consolidated financial statements of the international group due to size or materiality of data.

"International group" is defined as related companies and includes at least one Russian tax resident entity or an entity that is liable for tax for a permanent establishment in Russia and one non-Russian tax resident entity. Except for CbC reports filed by foreign-parented groups, CbC reports, Master Files, and Local Files must be filed in Russian.

Notification Requirements

MNE taxpayers have to notify the Russian tax authorities of their participation in the group within 8 months from the end of the group's fiscal year. The notice must be filed by the ultimate or surrogate parent if they reside in Russia. Otherwise, each Russian constituent entity (or a designated entity) must submit the notice. Failure to notify or submitting false information will incur a penalty of RUB 50,000. The first reporting period is 2017. The penalty will apply as from the 2020 reporting period.

CbC Report Content

The CbC report must include the following information for each country in which the group operates:

- Income (revenue) from transactions between related and independent parties.
- Income (loss) before income tax;
- Corporate income tax paid during the reporting period;
- Corporate income tax accrued for the reporting period;
- Share capital;
- Retained profit;
- Number of employees;
- Value of tangible assets, excluding cash and cash equivalents;
- Identification information of each MNE group member.

Penalties

Failure to submit a CbC report, Master File, and Local File, or submitting false information, will incur a penalty of RUB 100,000. The penalties discussed above relating notification, CbCR and Master File will not apply until the 2020 reporting period.

CbC Reporting Deadline

Reports must be submitted within 12 months from the end of the relevant financial year (reporting period). CbC reports are to be submitted for financial years starting from 1 January 2017. Reports for 2016 may be submitted on a voluntary basis.

Master and Local Files

Federal Law No. 340-FZ introduces master and Local File requirements for Russian resident entities that are members of a MNE group. The filing threshold for the master and Local Files is RUB 50 billion.

The Master File requirements apply retroactively from 1 January 2017. The Local File requirements will apply from 1 January 2018. The Master File requirements apply for all Russian constituent entities and the Local File must be submitted by all constituent entities located in Russia that have had transactions with foreign related parties.

The Local File must list all related-party contracts and transactions (e.g. APAs), unlike the BEPS Action 13 recommendations that require a listing of material related-party contracts and transactions. The Local File requirements do not replace current Russian transfer pricing documentation requirements.

The Master File must be filed within 3 months of any request by the Russian tax authority and the Local File within 30 working days of any request by Russian tax authority.

F. WITHHOLDING TAXES

Foreign legal entities obtaining profits in connection with activities within Russia may be subject to withholding taxes on dividends, interest, royalties and some other specified income. Dividends paid to non-resident companies directly are subject to a 15% final withholding tax on the gross amount, unless a treaty provides otherwise. The same applies to interest that has been reclassified as dividends under the thin capitalisation rules (see higher under 'Interest deductions'). Interest not connected to a permanent establishment is subject to a 20% final withholding tax on the gross amount, unless a treaty provides otherwise, subject to certain exceptions. Royalties not connected to a permanent establishment are subject to a 20% final withholding tax on their gross amount, unless a treaty provides otherwise.

A withholding tax rate of 30% is applied in respect of income from securities issued by Russian companies (except dividends), the rights to which are recorded in the custody account of a foreign nominee holder, foreign authorised holder account and/or foreign depository programs account. This rate applies if information about the person exercising the rights under securities was not provided to the tax agent.

G. EXCHANGE CONTROL

Currency operations between currency residents and non-residents are not restricted. But there are a lot of strict requirements and limitations that Russian currency residents are obliged to comply with. Otherwise they will be liable to high fines up to 75% - 100% of the illegal currency operation amount.

Currency exchange is allowed only through authorised banks. Currency operations between Russian currency residents are forbidden except for specified operations.

H. PERSONAL INCOME TAX

Personal income tax is levied on resident and non-resident individuals, whether or not they are citizens of the Russian Federation. Individuals are considered to be resident if they spend more than 183 days in Russia during a continuous 12-month period. Residents are subject to income tax on their worldwide income and non-residents on their Russian-sourced income only.

The personal income tax rate for residents and foreign highly skilled specialists is 13%. A special 35% rate is applied to some types of income, e.g. the cost of prizes and wins received in advertising actions, received interest on certain bank deposits (exceeding specified rates), benefit (economy) on paid interests.

A 13% rate is applied to dividends received by residents and a rate of 15% is applied if the dividend income is received by non-residents. All personal income of non-residents, excluding dividends (and some other specific income), is taxed at the rate of 30%.

The tax rate of 30% is applied in respect of income from securities issued by Russian companies, the rights to which are recorded in the custody account of a foreign nominee holder, foreign authorised holder and/or foreign depository programs if information about persons exercising rights under securities was not provided to the tax agent.

The following types of income are exempt from tax:

- Welfare payments (except for temporary disability) and compensations paid out in compliance with legislation currently in force;
- All kinds of compensatory payments, prescribed by legislation, relating to labour duties;
- Alimonies received;
- Grants for the purpose of science, education, culture and art, given by international and foreign organisations;
- Scholarships and some others.

Income derived from the sale of real estate is exempt as follows (as from 2019 this exemption also applies to non-residents):

- Full exemption: for real estate that has been held for over five years;
- In a limited number of cases, the personal income tax exemption can be applied after three years of ownership.

Gifts received from individuals are exempt from income tax. However, gifts of immovable property, vehicles and securities are taxable unless these items are received from close relatives. Gifts received from individual entrepreneurs and legal entities are exempt up to RUB 4,000 in a calendar year. The excess is taxable at a rate of 13% for residents and 30% for non-residents.

Inherited property is exempt from tax.

Individuals are entitled to the following statutory deductions:

- Property-related deduction;
- Social deduction;
- Professional deductions;
- Investment deduction
- Standard deduction
- and some other.

These deductions apply only to residents. Regarding non-residents they apply only to income taxed at the 13% rate.

SOCIAL CONTRIBUTIONS

Payers are:

- 1) Persons paying remunerations to individuals (companies, individual entrepreneurs, individuals not recognised as individual entrepreneurs);
- 2) Individuals who do not pay remunerations to individuals: individual entrepreneurs, lawyers and notaries engaged in private practice, and other persons engaged in private practice.

The general rates of social contributions for payers who pay remunerations to individuals:

- 1) Pension Fund of the Russian Federation:
 - 22% within the established limit of social contribution base for compulsory pension insurance;
 - 10% over the established limit of social contribution base for compulsory pension insurance;
- 2) Social Insurance Fund of the Russian Federation: 2.9% within the established limit of insurance contribution base for compulsory social insurance against temporary disability and in respect of maternity benefit;
- 3) Federal Compulsory Medical Insurance Fund: 5.1%.

In case of benefits and other remunerations payable to foreign citizens and stateless persons residing temporarily on the territory of the Russian Federation (except for highly qualified specialists), the rate of social contributions to the Social Insurance Fund of the Russian Federation is 1.8%.

Payers who do not pay benefits or do not provide other remuneration to individuals shall pay the corresponding social contributions to the Pension Fund of the Russian Federation and the Federal Compulsory Medical Insurance Fund at the specified fixed amounts depending on their revenue.

Special rates are established for certain groups of employers and professions.

I. TREATY AND NON-TREATY WITHHOLDING TAX RATES

The table below shows the withholding tax rates on dividends, interest and royalties under tax treaties concluded by the USSR and the Russian Federation. The Russian Federation has announced that it would honour the international agreements existing between the USSR and other countries. The table is for general guidance only. The relevant treaty should be consulted to confirm the applicable rates in each case.

Special provisions regarding the beneficial owner of the income were introduced in 2015. These provisions put in place the attributes of a beneficial owner. If a foreign person does not meet these attributes he is not allowed to invoke the benefits provided by international tax treaties concluded by the Russian federation.

The provisions of the MLI should also be taken into account once the Instrument comes into force.

KEY TAX POINTS

- A resident company is subject to income tax on its worldwide income. A non-resident company is subject to tax only on income sourced in Rwanda through a permanent establishment in Rwanda.
- A foreign tax credit is granted for income tax paid on foreign-sourced income.
- The effective corporate income tax rate is 30% for both domestic companies and branches of foreign companies. However, certain special categories of investors benefit from preferential corporate income tax rates of 0% and 15%.
- A 15% withholding tax is levied on dividends, interest, royalties and technical and management fees paid by resident entities including tax-exempt entities.
- A new income tax law was introduced in 2018 which brought about some fundamental changes in capital gains tax, withholding tax, taxation of employment fringe benefits, new anti-avoidance rules on payments of management, technical and royalty fees to non-resident entities, etc.

A. TAXES PAYABLE

CORPORATE INCOME TAX

Rwanda administers two corporate income tax regimes:

- a) Real corporate tax regime where companies are subject to a standard tax rate of 30% of taxable profits.
- b) Lump sum tax regime – This option is available to businesses with a turnover below RWF 20 million (approximately USD 22,500) at a standard tax rate of 3% of turnover. It is effectively a turnover tax.

Registered investors in priority sectors such as energy, transport, export investments, affordable housing projects, and registered venture capitalists are entitled to preferential income tax rates of either 0% or 15% subject to meeting certain investment criteria.

Taxpayers are required to declare and pay their taxes not later than 31 March of the following tax period. If the taxpayer uses a tax period that does not coincide with the calendar year, tax is paid not later than the last day of the third month of the following tax period.

CAPITAL GAINS TAX

Capital gains are taxed at a rate of 5% of the gain calculated as the difference between sales price and purchase price. The Law is not explicit on whether indexation is applicable for long-term investments. However, the following are exempt from capital gains tax:

- a) Capital gains on secondary market transaction on listed securities.
- b) Capital gains arising from corporate re-organisations.

BRANCH PROFITS TAX

Branches of a non-resident entity pay tax at the standard corporate income tax rate of 30%.

VALUE ADDED TAX (VAT)

Supplies of goods and services for Value Added Tax (VAT) purposes are either exempt, zero rated or standard rated. The standard rate of VAT is 18%.

EMPLOYMENT BENEFITS TAX

Generally, benefits in kind received by an employee are included in taxable income in consideration of market value for tax purposes. The following specific benefits are valued as follows:

- 1) Motor vehicles benefit is valued at 10% of the employment income where the car is company owned. In the case where a company has leased a car for an employee, the fringe benefit is the actual lease cost paid by the employer.
- 2) Housing benefit is valued at 20% of the employment income where the residential property is company owned. In the case where a company has rented a residential premise for an employee, the fringe benefit is the actual rent cost paid by the employer.
- 3) Fringe benefit tax - applies to loans or salary advances exceeding three month's salary granted to employees on interest free or low interest terms. The benefit is valued as the difference between the interest rate offered to commercial banks by the National Bank of Rwanda and the actual rate paid by employees.
- 4) Benefits provided by an employer to a person related to an employee when there is no service rendered, are treated as if provided to the employee. Benefits provided by a company to one of its members are considered in the same manner as benefits an employer gives to an employee.

R

EMPLOYMENT TAXES

Employment income is taxed on a withholding tax basis known as Pay-As-You-Earn (PAYE) at a graduating scale of 0% to 30%.

CONTRIBUTION TO SOCIAL SECURITY FUND (RSSB)

Contributions are set at 3% for employees and 5% for employers in respect of the employees' monthly income. Total remittance is 8%. Included in the 5% contribution by employers is a 2% contribution for occupational hazard.

CONTRIBUTION TO MATERNITY LEAVE BENEFIT FUND (RSSB)

Contributions are set at 0.3% for employees which is matched by employers in respect of the employees' monthly income. Total remittance is 0.6%.

B. DETERMINATION OF TAXABLE INCOME

Taxable income is accounting income adjusted for non-taxable income and for non-deductible expenses. Expenses are deductible if they are incurred wholly and exclusively for the purpose of the business.

CAPITAL ALLOWANCES

The rates for wear and tear allowances for business assets deductible from taxable profits are as follows:

Type of Asset	Rate %
Land, fine arts, antiquities, jewellery and any other assets that are not subject to wear and tear or obsolescence	0
Cost of acquisition, construction, refining, rehabilitation, or reconstruction of buildings, equipment and heavy plant and machinery (straight line)	5
Cost of acquisition, development, improvement, rehabilitation or reconstruction of intangible assets, including goodwill that is purchased from a third party (straight line)	10
Computers and accessories, information and communication systems, software products and data equipment (reducing balance)	50
All other assets (reducing balance)	25

INVESTMENT DEDUCTION

Accelerated depreciation of 50% is granted in the first year of asset use for qualifying new/used assets.

LIQUIDATION

Proceeds on the sale of any business asset and liquidation proceeds received during the tax period are included in business profit.

DIVIDENDS

Dividend payments to residents are subject to a final withholding tax at a rate of 15% with the exemption of dividends from collective investment schemes. A preferential withholding tax rate of 5% applies to dividends from shares listed on the stock market where the beneficial owner of the dividends is a resident of Rwanda or the wider East Africa Community (EAC) bloc. Dividends paid to non-resident companies are subject to a 15% withholding tax, subject to provisions of double taxation relief, where applicable.

Foreign-sourced dividend income is included in the taxable income of residents based on the worldwide principle of taxation.

INTEREST DEDUCTIONS

Interest incurred wholly and exclusively in the production of income is allowable. However, interest paid on loans and advances from related entities is not tax deductible to the extent that the loan/advanced amount is more than four times the amount of equity during the tax period. In this case, equity does not include provisions and reserves (thin capitalisation ratio of 4:1). This provision does not apply to commercial banks, microfinance institutions and insurance companies.

LOSSES

Tax losses may be carried forward over the next 5 tax periods in the determination of taxable profits, earlier losses being deducted before later losses excluding foreign sourced losses. If during a tax period, the direct and indirect ownership of the share capital or the voting rights of an unlisted company, changes by more than 25% by value or number, the tax losses incurred in that tax period and previous tax periods are forfeited.

A loss carry-back is allowed for long-term contracts.

FOREIGN SOURCED INCOME

Resident companies are subject to tax on their worldwide income. Therefore, foreign-sourced income is subject to tax in Rwanda. A foreign tax credit is granted for income tax paid on foreign-sourced income to the extent that the foreign tax paid does not exceed the tax that would have been paid had the same income been taxed in Rwanda.

INVESTMENT INCENTIVES

In addition to preferential corporate income tax rates described above the following are other incentives that are available to registered investors in Rwanda:

- Custom duty exemption/concessions for products used in the Export Processing Zones.
- Capital gains tax exemption excluding income derived from the sale of commercial immovable property which shall be included in the investor's taxable income.
- Seven-year tax holiday on income derived by a registered investor investing at least USD 50 million and contributing at least 30% of such investment in the form of equity.
- Five-year tax holiday on income derived by Microfinance institutions.
- Prompt settlement of VAT refunds within 15 days after request.
- Immigration incentives – three guaranteed work visas for expatriate staff.

C. FOREIGN TAX RELIEF

Relief for foreign taxes paid is granted in accordance with double tax treaties with other countries. If foreign tax is paid in a country that does not have a double tax treaty with Rwanda, the tax paid may be subtracted from tax payable in Rwanda, subject to certain restrictions.

D. CORPORATE GROUPS

The income tax law does not provide for filing of consolidated returns, the combining of profits and losses of affiliated companies or the transfer of losses from loss companies to profitable members of the same group of companies. Generally for tax purposes, a corporation tax rate of 30% applies to all separately incorporated companies irrespective of groups both in Rwanda and outside for profits derived in Rwanda.

E. RELATED PARTY TRANSACTIONS

Related party transactions are allowable expenses if incurred wholly and exclusively in the generation of income and taxed as income if earned or accrued as business activities. Transfer pricing rules apply.

The Rwandan law on direct taxes on income stipulates that where conditions are made or imposed between related persons carrying out their commercial relationship which differ from those which would be applied between independent persons, the Commissioner General, may direct that the income of one or more of those related persons be adjusted to include profits that would have been made if they operated as independent persons.

F. WITHHOLDING TAX

Withholding tax is levied not only on cash payments but also on other methods of extinguishing an obligation. These methods may include barter-type transactions, debt offsets etc. Withholding tax is applicable if such payments or other methods of extinguishing an obligation are made to either:

- A person not registered with the tax administration;
- A person who does not have a recent income tax declaration.

The payments which are subject to withholding tax at the rate of 15% include:

- i. Dividends, except for dividends derived from collective investment schemes;
- ii. Interest, except interest derived from term deposits with a maturity period exceeding one year, interest on loans from FDIs and interest paid by commercial banks to other financial institutions. Interest derived from treasury bonds with a maturity period of 3 years and above attracts a rate of 5%.
- iii. Royalties;
- iv. Service fees;
- v. Performance payments for sportsmen, musicians, etc.;
- vi. Gambling activities; and
- vii. Goods sold in Rwanda.

A withholding tax of 5% of the value of goods imported for commercial use shall be paid at Customs on the CIF value before the goods are released by Customs.

Withholding tax of 3% on the sum of invoice, excluding the value added tax, is retained on payments by public institutions to the winner of public tenders.

G. EXCHANGE CONTROL

The currency in Rwanda is the Rwandan franc (RWF). Rwanda does not impose foreign exchange controls.

H. PERSONAL TAX

Taxable income consists of income from domestic and foreign sources such as employment income, business profits and investment income. The tax rates are as follows:

Annual taxable Income (RWF)	Rate
0 - 360,000	0%
360,001 – 1,200,000	20%
1,200,000 and above	30%

The allowance is calculated using a reducing balance method. An initial allowance of 20% is granted on industrial buildings or structures and in respect of capital expenditure incurred on plant and machinery by a person carrying on a trade or undertaking. In addition, an annual allowance of between 2% and 5% is allowed on all buildings constructed after 1 March 1994. Concrete buildings are depreciated at a rate of 2%, while the rate varies for other buildings depending on the type of material used in construction. There are no provisions regarding depreciation or amortisation of expenditure on intangible property such as patents or goodwill, or pre-incorporation and similar expenses.

STOCK / INVENTORY

Inventory is generally stated at the lower of cost or net realisable value. The first in first out (FIFO) and average cost methods of valuation are generally used. However, the tax authorities will generally accept a method of valuation that conforms to standard accounting practice in the trade concerned. The last in first out (LIFO) method is not allowed.

LOSSES

Losses can be carried forward for up to 5 years while losses cannot be carried back. Losses may only offset 50% of chargeable income in an income year.

A. TAXES PAYABLE

FEDERAL TAXES AND LEVIES COMPANY TAX

The following are chargeable to income tax:

- Saudi-Arabian resident companies;
- Non-resident companies who do business in the Kingdom through a permanent establishment; and,
- Non-resident companies with income subject to tax from sources within the Kingdom.

A company is considered to be a resident company if it meets either of the following two conditions:

- It is formed under the Kingdom of Saudi Arabian Companies Regulations; and,
- Its place of central control and management is situated within the Kingdom of Saudi Arabia.

A permanent establishment of a non-resident in the Kingdom, unless otherwise provided by the Income Tax Regulation, arises where a non-resident has a permanent place through which it carries out business, in full or in part, including business carried out through an agent. The applicable income tax rate is 20%, with the exception of tax rates for the Oil and Gas industries. The income tax rate applicable to companies engaged in natural gas investment activities is 30% (such companies are subject to a higher tax rate from 30% to 85% based upon the cumulative rate of return). The income tax rate applicable to companies engaged in the production of oil and other hydrocarbons is 85%.

Income tax can be paid in instalments throughout the tax fiscal year and is payable within 120 days of the fiscal year end. Previous years' approved tax losses may be carried forward until fully recovered (using up to 25% of a year's taxable profit to offset approved losses). Heavy penalties, levies and the seizure of taxpayer's property may be imposed for the non-payment of tax and/or for tax evasion.

CAPITAL GAINS TAX

Capital gains on transferable securities are exempt from tax if the securities are acquired on or after 30 July 2004 and the transfer is effected in accordance with the provisions of the Saudi stock market regulations. Capital gains or losses on non-depreciable assets are taxable or deductible under the standard rules as the case may be. Capital gains and losses on depreciable assets are not taken into consideration in determining the tax base. The effect of such gains or losses on the tax base is (partly) reflected by the depreciation method provided for in the Decree and regulations.

BRANCH PROFITS TAX

Non-resident companies are taxed in Saudi Arabia in so far as they carry on an activity through a permanent establishment (PE) or derive an income in Saudi Arabia. Taxable income of a permanent establishment (branch) is subject to tax at a rate of 20%. The following are considered to constitute a permanent establishment:

- Construction sites and assembly facilities;
- Installations and sites used for surveying for natural resources, drilling equipment, and ships used for surveying for natural resource;
- A fixed base where a non-resident natural person carries out business; and,
- A branch of a non-resident entity which is licensed to carry on business in the Kingdom.

A place is not considered a permanent establishment of a non-resident in the Kingdom if it is used in the Kingdom only to do the following:

1. Store, display, or deliver goods or products belonging to the non-resident;
2. Hold a stock of goods or products belonging to the non-resident only for the purposes of processing by another person;
3. Purchasing goods or products only for the collection of information for the non-resident;
4. Performance of any other activities that is preparatory or auxiliary in nature to the interests of the non-resident;
5. Drawing up contracts for signature with regard to credits (loans), delivery of goods, or provision of technical services; or,
6. Execution of any combination of the activities indicated in subparagraphs 1 to 5 above.

As far as capital gains are concerned, non-residents are taxed in the same way as residents.

VALUE ADDED TAX (VAT)

At the end of 2016, the Ministry of Finance announced the introduction of VAT as from January 2018.

On 28 July 2017, the General Authority of Zakat and Tax published the VAT law and on 26 August 2017 the VAT implementing regulations were published:

- A taxable person in the Kingdom: a person who conducts an economic activity independently in order to generate income with an annual turnover of at least SAR 375,000 must register for VAT purposes (taxable supplies do not include exempt supplies, supplies falling outside the scope of VAT and revenues derived from the sale of capital assets). However, during a transitional period until 1 January 2019, registration is only required for persons whose annual turnover exceeds SAR 1 million.
- Non-resident persons are required to pay VAT in respect of supplies made or received by them in the KSA and to register for VAT irrespective of the value of the supplies for which they are obliged to collect and pay VAT.

The standard rate of Value Added Tax (VAT) is 5%.

There are three categories of supplies:

- 1) Standard rate: All supplies of goods or services and imports in the KSA unless they are exempt or zero-rated.
- 2) Zero rated supplies: is applicable to the following goods and services:

Saudi Arabia

- Exports of goods from the KSA;
 - Services provided to non-GCC;
 - Transportation services for goods or passengers outside the KSA;
 - Medicines and medical equipment (shall be considered as qualifying medicines and medical goods in accordance with such classifications as issued by the Ministry of Health or any other competent authority in the KSA);
 - The first supply of qualifying metal by its producer or refiner. Qualifying metal includes gold, silver and platinum at a purity level of no less than 99%.
- 3) Exempt supplies: is applicable to:
- Life insurances;
 - Lease or license of residential real estate;
 - Financial services (financial products based on profit margin; operation of current accounts; deposits and savings; interest or lending charges charged with an implicit profit margin for any form of lending including credit cards; interest or lending charges charged with an implicit profit margin for financing including lease financing and issuing or transferring bonds and securities).

INPUT TAX DEDUCTION:

A person who is VAT registered may deduct input VAT charged on goods it purchases or receives and in the course of carrying out an economic activity. Input VAT may be deducted on:

- VAT charged by a VAT-registered supplier in the KSA;
- Self-accounted VAT by the VAT-registered person under the reverse charge mechanism; or
- Import VAT paid to the customs department on the importation of goods.

As a general rule, input VAT which is related to the taxpayer's VAT exempt activities is not deductible. In addition, input VAT may not be deducted on any costs incurred that do not relate to the economic activity of the taxable person (including some blocked expenditure types such as entertainment and motor vehicles), or on any costs which relate to making exempt supplies. This input VAT is a credit entered on the VAT return which is offset against the VAT charged on supplies (output VAT) made during that period.

Companies with annual income in excess of SAR 40 million must file returns on a monthly basis, while companies under this threshold must file returns on a quarterly basis, with payments required to be made within a month of the end of the relevant period.

The Excise Tax has been imposed in mid-2017, with tobacco products subject to a 100% excise tax, soft drinks at 50% and energy drinks at 100%.

FRINGE BENEFITS TAX

There is no tax on employment income in Saudi Arabia.

LOCAL TAXES

There are no local duties payable in Saudi Arabia.

REAL ESTATE TAX

There is no real estate tax in Saudi Arabia but Zakat (religious tax) may be payable on real estate if held for speculative purposes.

ZAKAT

Zakat is payable by individual Saudis and other GCC nationals. Zakat is calculated at a rate of 2.5% and is chargeable on the total of the taxpayer's capital resources and income that are not invested in fixed assets. These include the company's capital, net profits, retained earnings and reserves not created for specific liabilities. Only resources (including income) which have been held for at least 12 months are subject to zakat. Except for financing activities, effective 1 January 2019 the zakat base is calculated based on sources of a zakat payer's Zakatable finance, which is used to finance Zakatable assets. Zakat base is calculated based on the ratio of zakatable assets to total assets. Zakat would be limited to between four times and eight times the amount of net profit while in case of a net loss, Zakat would be limited to between four times and eight times the amount of gross profit.

B. DETERMINATION OF TAXABLE INCOME

Income is from a source in the Kingdom of Saudi Arabia if it is:

- Derived from an activity that occurs in Saudi Arabia;
- Derived from immovable property located in Saudi Arabia, including gains from the disposal of an interest in such immovable property and from the disposal of shares or partnership interests in a company, the property of which consists, directly or indirectly, principally of interests in such property;
- Derived from the disposal of shares or a partnership interest in a resident company;
- Derived from the rental of movable property used in Saudi Arabia;
- Derived from the sale or license of industrial or intellectual property in Saudi Arabia;
- Shares' profits, management fee, or director's fee paid by a resident entity;
- Payments for services made by a resident entity to its head office or to an affiliated company;
- Payments made by a resident for services performed in whole or in part in Saudi Arabia;
- Amounts for exploitation of a natural resource in Saudi Arabia;
- Attributable to a permanent establishment of a non-resident located in Saudi Arabia.

Tax rates apply to net profits, which are defined as the difference between:

- The gross income, i.e. the sum of all profits, earnings or compensations (regardless of their nature or mode of payment) received in relation to the business activity, including capital gains on fixed assets and occasional profits but excluding exempt income; and,
- Deductible expenses.

The regulations specify that proceeds from the following are part of gross income: buying and selling, financial and commercial transactions, activities pertaining to the dealing in or development of oil or other mineral resources, and transactions concerning movable or immovable property. In addition, commissions, profits on shares and securities and, in general, proceeds from any business transaction the object of which is profit or from any source of wealth are included in gross income. Exempt income includes capital gains related to the alienation of negotiable securities on the stock market (subject to conditions) and capital gains on the sale of properties which are not part of business assets.

DEDUCTIBLE EXPENSES

All costs and expenses paid or incurred during the tax year to earn taxable income such as salaries and wages, travel expenses which are connected with the business or enterprise, and rent on properties used in the business, are deductible from the tax base. As a general rule, however, expenses are only deductible if they satisfy the following conditions:

- They are actual/real;
- They are related to taxable income (which means that costs related to exempt income will not be deductible);
- They are related to the tax year during which they were incurred;
- They do not increase the value of fixed assets.

The regulations provide for a certain number of other expenses which may be deducted from the tax base. Specifically, the regulations provide for the deduction of:

- Employers' contributions paid for the employees to retirement funds (as defined by the applicable regulations) and to (appropriate) savings funds. The deduction is limited to a maximum of 25% of the employee's income;
- Research and development (R&D) expenses incurred in Saudi Arabia during the tax year. The deduction does not apply to the cost of land and other fixed assets acquired for the purposes of R&D activities. These assets remain depreciable under the standard rules;
- Costs of repair, maintenance and improvement of (depreciable) fixed assets. These costs are deductible from the tax base in the year in which they are incurred. The deduction is limited to 4% of the residual value of the group of assets concerned at the end of the tax year. Any excess over this amount is added to the residual value and depreciated accordingly.

NON-DEDUCTIBLE EXPENSES

The following expenses are not deductible:

- Salaries, wages and the like paid to an entrepreneur, partner or shareholder or to their dependents or relatives, except in the case of stock companies;
- Any amount paid in excess of the actual value of a transaction made with one of the abovementioned persons;
- Leisure expenses such as costs of parties, sports events, travelling expenses, etc.;
- Income tax and related penalties whether due in Saudi Arabia or elsewhere;
- Penalties and fines due to the infringement of applicable regulations;
- Bribes;
- Commissions paid to insurance agents in excess of 3% of the premiums collected by the insurance company in Saudi Arabia;
- Payments made by Saudi branches to headquarters that are wholly owned by foreign companies for:
 - Royalties;
 - Interest or other financial costs;
 - General administrative costs determined by apportionment on a lump-sum basis (see indirect expenses below);
- Amounts paid in excess of normal market prices for transactions made between associated enterprises.

DEPRECIATION

All fixed assets, whether tangible or intangible (except land) are depreciable using the straight-line method of depreciation only. Depreciation is normally calculated on a full-year (12 months) basis. However, where a depreciable asset is brought into the taxpayer's business part way through a fiscal year, the amount of depreciation must reflect the date on which the asset was first put into use. Normally, a monthly pro-rata basis is acceptable. Depreciation allowances are calculated for groups of assets (and not individually for each asset) at the following rates:

- Buildings: 5%;
- Movable industrial and agricultural facilities: 10%;
- Machinery, factories and equipment, including computer programmes and means of transport: 25%;
- Costs of geological studies, exploring and drilling expenses and costs of preparatory operations for the exploitation and development of natural resources: 20%;
- All other fixed assets, whether tangible or intangible, not covered by the above (including ships, aircraft, trains, furniture, etc.): 10%.

Goodwill may not normally be depreciated whilst the business is run as a going concern. Where goodwill has been purchased for value, it may be treated as a depreciable asset if an individual ruling to that effect is obtained from the Department of Zakat and Income Tax (GAZT).

STOCK / INVENTORY

The cost of inventory is calculated using the absorption cost method. Taxpayers using cash-based accounting may use the direct (or prime) cost method. Closing stock is valued at the book value or the market value whichever is lower. Book value is determined by using the weighted average method. However, the taxpayer may use another method, after obtaining written permission from the GAZT. He may not change this method without the prior approval of the GAZT.

DIVIDENDS

Saudi Arabia resident companies are taxable on dividends receivable whether or not those dividends are received from other Saudi Arabian companies or from overseas.

INTEREST DEDUCTIONS

Interest expenses are deductible up to the following limit (except for banks): (Income from loans + 50% x other income) – Deductible expenses (other than interest).

LOSSES

Operational losses of a business may be carried forward indefinitely. However, the annual deduction is limited to 25% of the profits as shown in the annual return. Losses related to exempt activities may not be deducted or carried forward.

FOREIGN SOURCED INCOME

Resident companies are taxed on their worldwide income, i.e. including income from transactions carried on, or branches situated, abroad. This means that all forms of overseas income are subject to tax under standard rules.

INCENTIVES

Incentives are contained in the Investment Law and its implementing regulations which are:

- 50% of the annual training costs for the Saudi labour; and,
- 50% of their annual wages paid to the Saudis.

C. FOREIGN TAX RELIEF

No relief for foreign taxes is granted under Saudi tax regulations.

D. CORPORATE GROUPS

There is no group tax regime in Saudi Arabia.

E. RELATED PARTY TRANSACTIONS (Transfer Pricing)

In 2019 the GAZT issued transfer pricing rules for transactions with affiliated companies including the transfer of goods, services, loans, capital and intangibles. The prices are based on five methods: Comparable Uncontrolled Price, Resale Price, Cost Plus, Transactional Net Margin and Transactional Profit Split.

Each taxable person is required to maintain and make available upon request by the GAZT a Master File containing information on the global business operations and transfer pricing policies of the Multinational Enterprise Group to which the taxable person belongs.

A taxable person shall be required to maintain at all times and, when requested in writing, provide the GAZT with all or any part of a Local File containing detailed information on all controlled transactions of the taxable person.

Each Ultimate Parent Entity or, when applicable, each Surrogate Parent Entity of a Multinational Enterprise Group (MNE Group) that is a tax resident in KSA and whose economic group has generated consolidated revenue exceeding SAR 3.2 billion in the tax year prior to the tax year of the report will be required to file a Country-by-Country (CbC) Report.

The taxpayer must disclose transfer pricing methods in its annual tax return and eventually prove that the corresponding costs, expenses and charges that exceed the elected transfer pricing method must be added back as taxable income.

F. WITHHOLDING TAX

Distributed income (including dividends) paid to non-residents is subject to a 5% withholding tax. However, the withholding tax does not apply to distributions made by companies operating in the Oil and Gas sectors. The regulations define distributed income as any distribution made by a resident company to a non-resident shareholder. Distributed income is also deemed to include profits transferred by a PE to a related entity.

Income from loans paid to a non-resident is subject to a 5% withholding tax. Royalties paid to non-residents are subject to a final 15% withholding tax. Other withholding taxes are as follows:

- Management fees: 20%;
- Payments made to head office or an associated entity against services: 15%;
- Rent, technical and consultancy services, payments made for air tickets, air freight or marine freight, international telecommunication, dividend, loans fees (interest) and insurance or reinsurance premiums: 5%;
- Any other payments: 15%.

G. EXCHANGE CONTROL

There is no exchange control in operation in Saudi Arabia.

H. PERSONAL INCOME TAX

The following persons are subject to taxation:

- A resident Saudi individual who does business in the Kingdom;
- A non-resident who does business in the Kingdom through a permanent establishment;
- A non-resident with income subject to tax from sources within the Kingdom.

A natural person is resident in the Kingdom for a tax year if he meets either of the following two conditions:

- 1) He or she has a permanent place of abode in the Kingdom and physically resides in the Kingdom for a period in aggregate of not less than 30 days during the taxable year; or
- 2) He or she physically resides in the Kingdom for a period of not less than 183 days in the taxable year.

For the purpose of this paragraph, presence in the Kingdom for part of a day is considered presence for the whole day. Presence in case of transit between two points outside the Kingdom is not included. Only business income earned by individuals is taxable. There is no tax on employment income. Business and professional income is taxed in the same way and under the same rules as corporate profits. Individuals not carrying on a business or professional activity are not taxed on interest and dividend income. Individuals carrying on a business or professional activity are taxed at the same rate (i.e. 20%) and under the same rules as corporate entities. Income tax can be paid by instalments throughout the tax fiscal year. Income tax is payable within 120 days of fiscal year end.

SOCIAL SECURITY CONTRIBUTIONS

With effect from 26 March 2001, employees pay a contribution of 9% for insurance relating to old age, disability and death. Certain employees such as civil servants, artisans, farmers, seamen, domestic servants, etc. are excluded from the insurance scheme. Note, however, that the three latter categories of persons may be covered by the scheme on the basis of a ministerial decision. Furthermore, persons carrying on independent business activities such as professionals, tradesmen, artisans, etc. and employer's family members employed in a family-run enterprise where no other workers are employed may request to be covered by the scheme.

KEY TAX POINTS

- Corporate income tax is payable by a resident who is a legal entity established or has its place of effective management and control in the territory of the Republic of Serbia. Non-residents are taxed only on their income sourced through a permanent establishment in Serbia.
- The standard rate of Value Added Tax is 20%. A reduced rate of 10% applies to certain hospitality-related and other goods and services.
- A 20% withholding tax is applicable to various forms of payments to non-residents including: interest, dividends, royalties, rental fees, capital gains and certain service fees.
- Income tax is chargeable on all Serbian residents in respect of income generated in Serbia and other countries and non-residents on income sourced in the Republic of Serbia.

A. TAXES PAYABLE

CORPORATE TAX

Corporate income tax is payable by the following:

- Resident who is a legal entity established or has its place of effective management and control in the territory of the Republic of Serbia. Residents are taxed on their income generated in the territory of the Republic, as well as on worldwide income.
- Non-residents are taxed only on their income sourced through a permanent establishment in Serbia. A permanent establishment is any permanent place of business through which a non-resident conducts his business.

A taxable entity includes a company registered as a joint stock company, a limited liability company, a general partnership, limited partnership, a socially owned company or a public enterprise, co-operative, branch office or any other legal entity generating income from the sale of goods or rendering services to the market. The tax year is the same as the calendar year, although a different tax year may be used if approved by the tax authorities. A tax period may not exceed 12 months in length and may only be changed once every five years. A tax return must be filed with the tax authorities within 180 days after the end of the tax year. A monthly instalment payment system is applicable during the year and it is based on profit computed in the previous period. The tax rate on all profits and gains is 15%.

BRANCH PROFITS TAX

Branch profits are treated as ordinary income and taxed accordingly.

CAPITAL GAINS TAX

Gains from the sale of capital assets are included in a company's taxable income and taxed at the same rate as other profits. Capital losses may be offset against capital gains in the year they arose. Capital losses may be carried forward for five years but may not be carried back.

VALUE ADDED TAX (VAT)

According to the VAT law, a taxpayer is an entity that independently trades in goods and services as a producer, trader or provider of services for the purpose of profit. The VAT rules also apply to the following:

- Tax representative of foreign entities;
- Recipients of goods and services if a foreign entity does not assign a tax representative;
- Entities that account for VAT in their invoices but are not obliged to pay tax according to the Law on VAT;
- Entities that import goods;
- Recipient of construction services;
- Recipient of electrical energy and natural gas if they are purchased for resale;
- Recipient of secondary raw materials.

Taxpayers whose total turnover did not exceed RSD 8,000,000 in the preceding calendar year are not obliged to register as VAT taxpayers. The taxable amount for domestic goods and services is the sales price, including excise and duty costs and all secondary expenses charged to the recipient of the goods and services. The standard rate is 20%. A reduced rate of 10% applies to certain hospitality-related and other goods and services.

CUSTOMS DUTIES

Goods imported into Serbia are subject to customs duty rates provided in the Law on Customs Tariff. These rates are ad valorem (the only exception is related to the importation of other cigarettes containing tobacco, where a combined ad valorem and specific customs duty rate is prescribed) and apply to goods originating in countries that have a most favoured nation (MFN) status in trading with Serbia.

Goods originating in other countries are subject to MFN duty rates increased by 70%. At the moment, the only trading partner with Serbia that does not have MFN status is Taiwan. Customs duty rates in Serbia range from 0% to 57.6%, with most being under 30%. At the moment, the 57.6% rate only applies to cigarettes containing tobacco.

EXCISE DUTIES

Special excise duties apply to the following:

- Oil derivatives;
- Biofuels and biodiversity;
- Tobacco products, including tobacco products which are heated but not burned;
- Alcoholic beverages;
- Coffee;
- Fluids for filling electronic cigarettes and
- Electricity for final consumption.

Excise duty in Serbia is specific (for oil derivatives, alcoholic beverages, cigars, cigarillos, and coffee), ad valorem (for pipe tobacco), and combined (specific + ad valorem on retail price for cigarettes). Excise duties stated in Serbian currency are adjusted on a current year basis according to variations in the consumer price index (CPI) declared for the previous year by the relevant government body in charge of statistics. For oil derivatives, the government can modify the specific excise duty amounts during the year according to changes in market prices of crude oil.

REAL ESTATE TRANSFER TAX

This is payable by the person or entity acquiring the real estate. The tax rate is 2.5%. The tax base is the contract value unless it is lower than market value on the date of acquisition.

LOCAL TAXES

There are no local taxes on income in Serbia.

PROPERTY TAX

Property tax is payable in Serbia by all legal entities and individuals who own or have rights over real estate located in the Republic of Serbia such as:

- Rights to usufruct;
- Right to use and inhabit;
- Tenancy right of one year or for indefinite period of time; and,
- Urban usage right (municipal, public and other state-owned land) exceeding 1,000 square meters in area.

If the legal owner of real estate is not known or cannot be determined, the property tax is levied on the person with beneficial ownership of the property (e.g. a tenant). Where the taxpayer keeps books, the property tax on real estate is levied at a flat rate of 0.40%. Where the taxpayers do not keep books, the maximum property tax on land is 0.30%. If the taxpayer is an individual or entrepreneur who is taxed on the so-called lump-sum income basis, the rates of property tax on real estate are progressive, as shown in the following table:

Number	Tax Base	Tax Liability
1.	To RSD 10,000,000	Until 0.40%
2.	From RSD 10,000,000 to RSD 25,000,000	Tax from point 1 plus 0.6% on amount over RSD 10,000,000
3.	From RSD 25,000,000 to RSD 50,000,000	Tax from point 2 plus 1.0% on amount over RSD 25,000,000
4.	Over RSD 50,000,000	Tax from point 3 plus 2.0% on amount over RSD 50,000,000

The tax base of immovable property is determined by evaluation of two elements:

- 1) Useful area; and
- 2) The average price of a square meter of immovable property in the corresponding zone in which the real property is located. The average price is determined every year by act of the municipality. If a legal entity prepares financial statements in accordance with IFRS the tax base of property will be the fair value measured in accordance with IFRS.

A taxpayer does not pay property tax relating to the ownership of real estate with a total value not exceeding RSD 400,000. Property tax is assessed on the basis of the facts reported in the tax return in the first taxable year applicable to that property. In subsequent years, the tax return should only be submitted if the facts relevant to the liability have changed. Property tax is paid quarterly within 45 days from the beginning of the three month period.

TRADE NAME TAX

This is payable by individuals and legal entities which are liable to pay corporate income tax or personal income tax and are registered for the performance of a business activity.

PAYROLL TAXES

Employers are liable to withhold personal income tax (PIT) and social security contributions on payment of salaries to employees, at the following rates:

- 10% PIT;
- 19.9% social security contributions payable by the employee;
- 17.9% social security contributions payable by the employer.

The tax and contributions base is gross salary. The social security contributions base is limited to five average monthly salaries in Serbia. The personal income tax base is reduced by a non-taxable part of RSD 15,000 (approximately EUR 120).

B. DETERMINATION OF TAXABLE INCOME

Taxable profits are those calculated under the accounting regulations, adjusted in accordance with the provisions of the Corporate Income Tax Law.

OPERATIONAL EXPENSES

Expenses which are not recognised as expenses for corporate income tax purposes and lead to significant adjustments include:

- Expenses which cannot be documented;
- Bad debt provisions for receivables to entities that are also creditors, to the liability amount;
- Gift and contributions to political organisations;
- Gifts if the recipient is a related entity;
- Interest payable for untimely payment of interests between related parties;
- Interest payable for untimely payment of taxes, contributions and other public charges;
- Cost of forced collection of tax and other debts and cost of tax offence proceedings and other proceedings conducted by competent authorities;
- Fines levied by competent authorities, penalty clauses and penalties;
- Expenses incurred other than for the purpose of conducting business activities.

Expenditure recognised for corporate income tax purposes up to certain amounts including:

- Depreciation computed in accordance with tax depreciation rules;
- Bad debt provisions, write-off of receivables and general provisions;
- Expenses for health care, scientific, educational, humanitarian, religious, ecological and sport-related purposes are tax-deductible up to 5% of total revenue;
- Expenses for cultural purposes are tax-deductible up to 5% of total revenue;
- Membership fees paid to chambers of commerce and other associations (except political parties) are deductible up to 0.1% of gross revenue;
- Business entertainment expenses are tax deductible up to 0.5% of total revenue.

FIXED ASSETS

According to the Corporate Income Tax Law, fixed assets are tangible and intangible assets of which the service life is longer than a year and recognised in the records as fixed assets except natural resources and goodwill. Fixed assets are divided into five groups with depreciation rates prescribed for each as follows:

Depreciation Group	Depreciation Rate
I	2.5%
II	10.0%
III	15.0%
IV	20.0%
V	30.0%

The straight-line depreciation method is prescribed for all groups. Detailed regulations of the division of fixed assets into groups, and the method of determining depreciation, are prescribed under the special Rulebook issued by the Ministry of Finance. If the accounting depreciation of a mentioned group of fixed assets is lower than the depreciation obtained by application of the tax depreciation rates then the accounting depreciation will be recognised for tax purposes.

Accounting depreciation of intangible assets is tax deductible.

VALUATION OF INVENTORY

Cost of materials and the purchase value of merchandise are tax deductible up to the amount calculated by applying the average weighted cost method or FIFO method. If another method is used, an adjustment for tax purposes should be made.

PROVISIONS AND RESERVES

Provisions for bad and doubtful debts are tax deductible if at least 60 days have expired from the due date. A provision has to be made individually for each debt. A write-off of an individual debt, (except for those from debtors which are also creditors) is recognised as an expense under the following conditions:

- The debt has been written off as uncollectible;
- Related revenue has already been recognised;
- The taxpayer has initiated a court procedure to collect debt or duly reported the receivables in case of liquidation or bankruptcy procedure over the debtor.

Long-term reserves are recognised for tax purposes if they are made for the renewal of natural resources, warranty period costs and retained caution money and deposits.

DIVIDENDS

Dividends and other income that constitutes a share in the profit of resident companies is not included in the tax base if received from resident companies.

INTEREST DEDUCTIONS

Interest payable is generally tax deductible except for interest payable on taxes, contributions and other public charges, fines and penalties. However, rules restrict deductions for interest on any loan owed to related parties if the loan is more than four times the net asset value of the company.

R&D EXPENSES

R&D expenses that fulfil certain conditions as prescribed by the government are tax deductible at double of the value. In exceptional cases this incentive cannot be granted for research costs incurred for the purpose of finding and developing oil, gas or mineral resources in the extractive industry.

A special rulebook will regulate more in detail the manner in which the provisions in question will apply.

LOSSES

Ordinary losses may be carried forward for five years but may not be carried back.

C. FOREIGN-SOURCED INCOME

Companies resident in Serbia are taxed on their worldwide income. When profit generated in another country is taxed in the foreign country, a company has the right to decrease its tax liability by claiming a tax credit from the tax authorities in Serbia. There are no provisions that provide for the possibility that taxation of income earned abroad may be deferred.

D. INCENTIVES

A taxpayer who invests at least RSD 1 billion in fixed assets and additionally employs at least 100 employees is entitled to tax relief for the next ten years in respect of the invested asset. Every non-profit organisation with excess income up to RSD 400,000 is tax exempt if it fulfils several conditions.

A taxpayer who makes monetary investments in the capital of a newly created company performing innovative activities shall be entitled to a tax credit of 30% of the completed investment. This tax credit cannot be used before the expiration of 3 years from the completed investment.

The law details the conditions that must be fulfilled for the entitlement to the tax credit, as well as the manner of its use.

E. FOREIGN TAX RELIEF

Double tax relief is available under the provisions of various double tax treaties with other territories.

Unilateral relief is available in other cases by means of a credit for overseas taxes against the Serbian tax payable on the same income.

F. CORPORATE GROUPS

Parent and subsidiary companies are recognised as a group for tax consolidation purposes if the parent has direct or indirect control of at least 75% of the subsidiary's share capital. All members of the group must be resident companies. Once approved, tax consolidation must be applied for the next five years.

G. RELATED PARTY TRANSACTIONS

A transfer price is the price of transactions between related parties. Related parties exist if there is a possibility of control or influence over business decisions between them. Ownership of 25% or more, or a majority of shares, is considered as potential control. Influence over business decisions exists when an associated party holds 25% or more, or individually holds the greatest portion, of votes in the taxpayer's management bodies. If the same persons participate in management or control of both companies, a connection between them will be deemed to exist.

Close family members are also regarded as related parties. Non-resident entities from tax havens are considered as related parties of resident entities. The Serbian Ministry of Finance prescribed the list of countries that are to be considered as tax havens for the application of relevant CIT Law provisions. A company should disclose transactions with related parties separately at transfer prices and at arm's length prices in its CIT calculation. Positive difference between these prices (adjustments of expenses) and negative difference (adjustments of revenues) are included in taxable profit.

Serbian CIT Law recognises the following methods for determining at arm's length prices:

- Comparable uncontrolled price (CUP);
- Cost plus;
- Resale minus;
- Transactional net margin (TNMM);
- Profit split;

- Any other method that allows determination of at arm's length prices if none of the above methods can be applied.

It is mandatory to prepare and submit transfer pricing documentation together with the CIT return for periods starting from 1 January 2013.

Transfer pricing rules for intra-group loans

Any interest incurred on related party loans exceeding the at arm's length interest rate is not tax deductible. At arm's length interest is deemed to be the:

- weighted average key policy rate for the tax period, for loans denominated in dinars, and
- weighted average interest rate at which domestic banks borrowed from foreign lenders in related tax period, for foreign currency loans.

These indicators are determined by the National Bank of Serbia and published by the Ministry of Finance. However, taxpayers are entitled to determine market interest rates by using all general methods for determining at arm's length interest rates. In case the taxpayer decides to determine interest rates by applying general methods, he will have to apply such interest rates for the assessment of all related party loans.

Transfer pricing rules in this respect are applied up to the amount of tax deductible interest determined in accordance with the thin capitalisation threshold.

Thin capitalisation

The interest and related costs will be fully deductible if the loans from related parties do not exceed four times the taxpayer's net equity, i.e. a debt-to-equity ratio of 4:1 (ten times for banks and leasing companies). The amount of a taxpayer's net equity for this purpose is calculated as the average of the total assets less total liabilities at the beginning and the end of the year, while the amount of loans from related parties is calculated as a daily average for the year. In cases where the loans from related parties exceed the prescribed threshold, the amount of non-deductible interest will be calculated as proportional to the amount of loans exceeding the 4:1 (10:1) threshold.

H. WITHHOLDING TAX

A 20% withholding tax is applicable to various forms of payments to non-residents including:

- Interest;
- Dividends;
- Royalties;
- Rental fee;
- Capital gains; and,
- Certain service fees.

Special withholding tax rules apply in case of non-resident entities from tax havens. Withholding tax is payable at the rate of 25% on royalties, interest, income from lease of immovable property and other assets, and service fees paid to non-resident entities from tax havens. Dividend payments to non-residents from tax havens are subject to withholding tax at 20%. The Serbian Ministry of Finance publishes a list of jurisdictions that are regarded as tax havens. Withholding tax rates envisaged by applicable DTTs are provided in the following table in section K.

I. EXCHANGE CONTROL

There are no exchange controls in Serbia.

J. PERSONAL TAX

INCOME TAX

Income tax is chargeable on all Serbian residents in respect of income generated in Serbia and other countries and non-residents on income sourced in the Republic of Serbia.

A Resident of the Republic of Serbia (hereinafter referred to as "resident") is each person who:

- Has a personal residence or his centre of interests in Serbia;
- Resides in Serbia for at least 183 days, whether or not consecutively, within a period of 12 months

Serbia

beginning or ending in the respective taxation year.

Serbian residents are taxed on their worldwide income including:

- Income from wages (tax rate - 10%);
- Income from agricultural activity and forestry (tax rate - 20%);
- Income from independent personal activities (tax rate - 10%);
- Income from royalties etc. (tax rate - 20%);
- Income from capital (tax rate - 15%);
- Income from property and property rights (tax rate - 15% and 20% on rental fees);
- Capital gains (tax rate - 15%); and,

Annual personal tax is paid under a withholding tax system. Tax credits are available for overseas taxes up to the amount of tax suffered in Serbia on the income concerned.

INCOME FROM WAGES

Income from wages represents earnings based on the full and part-time employment based on contracts concluded with the employer, or with the Youth Cooperative, until the age of 26. Income from wages is tax chargeable either earned in cash or cash equivalents, shares (except the shares assigned in process of privatisation) and similar.

The taxable person is the employee, but the employer is responsible for calculating and withholding personal income tax on behalf of his employees. The tax rate is currently 10%. Specified types of income, up to the prescribed amounts, are tax exempt. They include public transportation cost for home to office travel and daily allowances for business trips. In certain cases, non-residents working for diplomatic and consular missions or international organisations in Serbia are not taxable.

ANNUAL INCOME TAX

Annual income tax is also payable on any amount exceeding three times the annual average wage. It is payable based on the following rates:

- Any amount up to six times the average annual salary - 10%;
- Any amount higher than six times the average annual salary - 10% of six times the average annual salary + 15% on the amount which exceeds six times the average annual salary.

S

A. TAXES PAYABLE

FEDERAL TAXES AND LEVIES

The National Revenue Authority (NRA) in Sierra Leone administers most of the taxes payable including the major revenue contributors. The Domestic Taxes Department (DTD) of the NRA was established as a 'one-stop shop' for the administration of all Sierra Leone's domestic taxes – namely the Goods and Services Tax, Pay-As-You-Earn (PAYE), Income Tax, Withholding Tax and Payroll Tax. The tax year of assessment is 1 January to 31 December.

RESIDENTS AND NON-RESIDENTS

Resident Individual

1. An individual shall be treated as resident in Sierra Leone for the entire year of assessment if that individual:
 - Has a normal place of abode in Sierra Leone and is present in Sierra Leone at any time during the year of assessment;
 - Is present in Sierra Leone on more than one hundred and eighty two days (182) in a twelve month period that commences or ends during the year of assessment; or
 - Is an official of the Government of Sierra Leone posted overseas during the year of assessment.
2. An individual who was not a resident in the preceding year of assessment shall not be treated as a resident for the period preceding the day the individual was first present in Sierra Leone during the year of assessment.
3. An individual who is not a resident in the following year of assessment shall not be treated as a resident for the period following the last day on which the individual was present in Sierra Leone during the year of assessment if during that period the individual had a closer connection to a foreign country than to Sierra Leone.
4. For the purposes of this section an individual shall not be treated as present in Sierra Leone on any day when:
 - The individual crosses the border to Sierra Leone to perform services as an employee in Sierra Leone;
 - The individual is in transit between two points outside Sierra Leone;
 - The individual is present in Sierra Leone for the purpose of medical treatment or full-time study; or
 - The individual is present in Sierra Leone by of diplomatic status or being dependant of a person with diplomatic status.

Temporary Resident Individual

An individual treated as resident, shall be treated as temporarily resident in Sierra Leone for the entire year of assessment if that individual:

- Is not a citizen of or domiciled in Sierra Leone;
- Does not intend, during the year of assessment, to reside in Sierra Leone for a total period of more than four years, and
- As of the end of the year, has not been resident in Sierra Leone for more than four years.

A company is a resident company if it (a) is incorporated or formed under the laws of Sierra Leone (b) has its effective management and control in Sierra Leone or undertakes the majority of its operations in Sierra Leone. A branch in Sierra Leone of a non-resident company is deemed to be a separate person, which is a resident company.

COMPANY TAX

Corporate Income Tax [CIT] is based on computed chargeable income. Resident companies pay tax at 30% on their worldwide income.

The Finance Act 2018 made amendments to section 85 of the Income Tax Act 2000 with regards to retained earnings. The new provision states that retained earnings in excess of 50% post tax profit in a current year of assessment for all corporate entities including parastatals shall be taxed at a 30% rate.

Temporarily Resident Taxpayer

The calculation of the chargeable income of a temporarily resident taxpayer is similar to that for a resident taxpayer except assessable income includes only Sierra Leone source income and income from other sources that is remitted to Sierra Leone.

A company is considered a resident if it satisfies the three alternative tests of residence; place of incorporation; place of management and control; and place of majority of operations. Subject to subsection (2), a company that does not satisfy any of these tests is a non-resident person for the year of assessment.

Non-resident companies pay tax at the rate of 30% on income sourced in Sierra Leone. A permanent establishment of a non-resident person in Sierra Leone shall be treated as a resident person separate from but associated with its non-resident owner.

CAPITAL GAINS TAX

Capital gains tax shall be payable by a chargeable person at the rate of 30% of the capital gain accruing to or derived by that chargeable person from the disposal of a chargeable asset owned by a chargeable person. Chargeable asset includes land and sea, property attached and integrated equipment, fixtures, improvements including leases, anything growing on the land and all interest in the property including sea which may be right to future ownership, right to occupy as tenant, life estate, the right to explore, develop, extract or produce oil, and other minerals, the right to shares, stocks and other investment opportunities in an entity, business or company, intellectual property rights, reversion of property, if it is not used for its current purpose, an easement across another person's property and any other privileges relating to the property, business and business asset including goodwill wherever situated;

Chargeable disposal means the sale, realisation or change of hands of a chargeable asset other than those specifically exempt from capital gain and chargeable person means a person, individual, corporation and related organisations including permanent establishment, associates, affiliates and joint ventures which have made chargeable disposal of a chargeable asset during a year of assessment.

Exemption from capital gains

- capital gain of a person that is up to and under the minimum chargeable income of SLL 3,600,000 per annum or per transaction;
- capital gain accruing to or derived by a company out of a merger, amalgamation or re-organisation of the company where there is continuity of underlying ownership in the asset of at least one quarter;
- capital gain resulting from a transfer of ownership of the asset by a person to that person's spouse, children, parent, brother or sister;
- capital gain resulting from a transfer of ownership of the asset between former spouses as part of a divorce settlement or a genuine separation agreement;
- capital gain where the amount received on realisation is, within one year of realisation, used to acquire a chargeable asset of the same nature (referred to as "replacement asset"); and
- where part only of the amount received or realised is used in the manner referred to in paragraph (e), any part of the capital gain represented by the amount used to acquire the replacement asset is less than the cost base of the asset realised at the time of realisation.

BRANCH PROFITS TAX

A branch in Sierra Leone of a non-resident company shall be subject to tax on repatriated income at the rate of 30% as though such income were a dividend taxable at the rate of 10%, this tax being in addition to income tax on the chargeable income of the branch.

Repatriated income is the higher of:

- Funds repatriated in the year out of accumulated profits; and
- The chargeable income of the branch; minus
- Sierra Leone income tax paid on that chargeable income and any profit reinvested or retained in the branch.

- For mining companies, all non-production related items;

- For agricultural companies all non-agricultural related items.

The classification of items that are non-production related, non-construction related and non-agricultural related shall be determined by the Commissioner-General.

New businesses that invest at least USD 10 million and existing businesses that invest USD 5 million in the expansion of their business will be granted duty free importation of 3 years for the imports of plants, machinery excluding spare parts and general purpose vehicles (vehicles for personal use are excluded) for use in their business operations.

- The cost of trading stock sold in a year of assessment shall be determined by adding to the value of opening trading stock the cost of goods acquired during the year and subtracting the value of closing trading stock.
- A cash-basis taxpayer may calculate the cost of trading stock on the prime-cost or absorption-cost method and an accrual-basis taxpayer shall calculate the cost of trading stock on the absorption-cost method.
- The value of trading stock on hand at the end of the year of assessment shall be the lower of its cost or market value at that date.
- Where particular items of trading stock are not readily identifiable, a taxpayer may account for the trading stock on the first-in-first-out method or the average-cost method, but once chosen, a stock valuation method may only be changed with the written permission of the Commissioner, and a taxpayer using the last-in-first-out method shall change to the first-in-first-out or the average stock method within five years from the date of commencement of this Act.

DIVIDENDS

Dividends received from an investment in Sierra Leone by a resident and a non-resident person is subject to a final withholding tax at 10%. The withholding tax on dividend does not apply to a dividend paid by a resident company to another resident company or to a complying retirement fund resident in Sierra Leone. Under certain conditions, payments other than distributions out of profits may be treated as dividends.

INTEREST DEDUCTIONS

A taxpayer that is not a bank is entitled to a deduction of eighty percent of the interest expenses paid in respect of a debt obligation incurred by the taxpayer to produce assessable income.

Furthermore, the standard gearing ratio applicable to mining companies is 3:1. Excess interest is deemed a dividend.

Management and Technical Fees

The Withholding Tax [WHT] rate on management and technical fees has been amended in the Finance Act of 2019, resulting in an increase of tax from 15% to 20% of the value of such services. This is applicable to all management and technical services relating to professional, managerial, scientific or engineering advisory and other support services provided to a taxpayer.

EMPLOYMENT OF WOMEN

Businesses that employ females in management positions from 1 January 2016 to 31 December 2018 would be eligible for a tax credit of 6.5% of the PAYE paid for its female employees. However the Finance Act 2016 does not define the term "management position".

C. FOREIGN TAX RELIEF

- A resident taxpayer is entitled to an allowable tax credit in respect of foreign income tax borne by the taxpayer on assessable income derived from a foreign source.
- The allowable tax credit in respect of any foreign-source income may not exceed the Sierra Leone income tax on that foreign-source income, calculated by applying the average rate of Sierra Leone income tax to the foreign-source income reduced by any deduction properly allocated to that income.
- The allowable tax credit in respect of foreign-source income and the Sierra Leone income tax imposed on that income are calculated separately for each amount of foreign-source income derived by a taxpayer.
- Foreign-source income derived by a foreign branch of a resident company is aggregated and considered a single receipt of income.

Foreign Employment Income of Residents

Foreign-source employment income derived by a resident individual during a year of assessment from employment in a foreign country shall be exempt from income tax if the income is chargeable to tax in the foreign country.

D. CORPORATE GROUPS

There are no special rules existing for the taxation of groups.

E. RELATED PARTY TRANSACTIONS

Expenses incurred in these transactions are allowable. But the Commissioner General has power to re-characterise a transaction entered into as part of a tax avoidance scheme.

In line with paving the way for the enactment of Transfer Pricing regulations, the 2016 Finance Act requires transactions with a related party during the assessment year to disclose;

- The relationship with the related party;
- The volume and value of the transaction;
- The price charged and the basis or method of ascertaining that price;
- The comparative price for a similar transaction made with non-controlled entities or charged by non-controlled entities.

In light of the above, there will be increased scrutiny from the tax authorities on transactions between related parties.

F. EXCHANGE CONTROL

Exchange controls are under the direct supervision of the Corporate Affairs Commission (CAC) and the Bank of Sierra Leone (BoSL). Application must be made in first instance to the CAC for approval before proceeding to the BoSL for concurrence and granting of an Exchange Control Permit (ECP).

Foreign Exchange: In order to improve transparency and efficiency in foreign exchange transactions and achieve a market-determined foreign exchange rate, the Bank of Sierra Leone (BoSL) has initiated weekly auctions of non-cash foreign exchange. While the auction is primarily designed as a mechanism for the BoSL to efficiently inject foreign exchange into the market, it also envisages a window for the sale of foreign exchange by other economic agents at market rates.

DIAMOND EXPORTING

- Residents and non-residents are allowed to finance their diamond operations in Sierra Leone in United States Dollars, in notes, drafts or bank transfers.
- Diamond Exporters should ensure that moneys brought into Sierra Leone for their transactions are channelled through the banking system. Foreign exchange could be brought into Sierra Leone in any of the following ways:
 - a) Letter of Credit
 - b) Telegraphic Transfer
 - c) Cash Dollar Notes
- For b) and c) above, Diamond Exporters will be allowed to export up to the amount of funds confirmed by the commercial banks as brought in.
- On a quarterly basis, commercial banks will be required to submit to the Bank of Sierra Leone returns on the inflows and outflows in respect of each licensed exporter.
- The list of commercial banks in Sierra Leone at any point in time would be obtained from the Bank of Sierra Leone.

G. PERSONAL TAX

Pay-As-You-Earn [PAYE] Rates of Tax Applicable to Individual Resident in Sierra Leone

The minimum monthly wage is SLL 500,000 and non-taxable monthly allowance is SLL 500,000. PAYE tax calculation is done on a graduating scale as follows:

Chargeable Yearly Income	Tax rate
SLL 6,000,000 and less	0%
SLL 6,000,000 – SLL 12,000,000	15%
SLL 12,000,000 – SLL 18,000,000	20%
SLL 18,000,000 – SLL 24,000,000	25%
Above SLL 24,000,000	30%

The higher tax band of 35% was reduced to 30% in the Finance Act 2019. The 30% higher tax rate is paid on yearly salaries above SLL 24,000,000 (SLL 2,000,000 per month).

INVESTMENT INFORMATION

The Investment Promotions Act 2004 was enacted to promote and attract both domestic and foreign private investment for the development of production and value adding opportunities, to improve export and employment opportunities. The Act provides for several incentives for investors (Sections 8-10):

- Expatriate personnel with work permits shall be permitted to make remittances abroad through their commercial banks, subject to such withholding tax obligations as are contained in the Income Tax Act 2000.

- The remittance of profits, after taxes, earned by a foreign investor from a business enterprise, is guaranteed as constituting current international transactions in respect of which payments transferred abroad shall be allowed without restriction.
- An investor may freely repatriate proceeds received from the liquidation of a business enterprise and awards resulting from any settlement of disputes in respect of such business enterprise.
- There shall be no restriction on the transfer of repayments of principal and interest on an arms-length third party loan contracted outside Sierra Leone and registered with the Bank of Sierra Leone but interest payments due on such loans may be subject to the withholding tax obligations in the Income Tax Act, 2000.

Residence and Work Permit

All foreign citizens are required to obtain a work permit from the Ministry of Labour.

Other Provisions

Section 25 (1) of the 2018 Finance Act within the Common External Tariff gives NRA the following option - "The National Revenue Authority may install a prescribed device or software in a taxable premises, facility or installation in order to obtain information on all business transactions undertaking including supplies made for goods and services and payment received in a year of assessment in order to determine the tax liability for the period of assessment".

However, in practice the National Revenue Authority currently does not have the prescribed infrastructure to deploy such software and in practical terms they would require that a recognised accounting software package and/or a point of sale system is used by businesses which would enable the tax authority to capture the correct tax data during a tax audit.

Common External Tariff

Section 26 of the 2018 Finance Act states that the ECOWAS Common External Tariff (CET) shall come into force on the date ECOWAS accepts Sierra Leone's 3% ECOWAS preferential rates.

KEY TAX POINTS

- Resident and non-resident companies are liable for corporate income tax on income accruing or derived in Singapore, or income received in Singapore from outside Singapore. Companies and individuals are taxed on a preceding year basis.
- Goods and service tax, a value added tax, is levied on taxable goods and services in Singapore and on imports into the territory.

- Subject to certain conditions, foreign branch profits and certain foreign-sourced income remitted into Singapore by any resident person are exempt from tax.
- Dividends received from Singapore-resident companies are exempt from tax.
- Capital gains are not taxable, although transactions may be categorised as being trading in nature, and thus taxable.
- There are various tax exemptions and incentives to encourage trading and investment in Singapore.
- With effect from the Year of Assessment 2020, the first SGD 100,000 of chargeable income (CI) will be 75%-exempt while the next CI of SGD 100,000 will be 50%-exempt.
- Related party transactions are expected to be carried out at arm's length while additional documentation is expected in situations of substantial related party transactions. There are no thin capitalisation or controlled foreign company (CFC) provisions.
- Payments between resident companies do not attract withholding tax. Interest, royalty and certain other payments by Singaporean companies to non-resident companies are, however, subject to withholding tax.
- Individual residents are subject to tax on income accruing in or derived from Singapore, or received in Singapore. Foreign income received by residents is otherwise generally exempt from tax. Non-residents are generally subject to tax on income accruing in or derived from Singapore, but not on foreign income remitted to Singapore.

A. TAXES PAYABLE

FEDERAL TAXES AND LEVIES

COMPANY TAX

Resident and non-resident companies are taxed on income accruing in or derived from Singapore as well as on foreign income received (actual or deemed) in Singapore. Remittance of foreign income (dividends, branch profits, services income) may be tax exempt when remitted by a resident company under certain conditions. A company is tax resident in Singapore if the management and control of its business is exercised in Singapore.

The standard corporate tax rate is 17%, a partial tax exemption is given for the first SGD 300,000 of chargeable income (CI). Under this scheme, 75% of the first SGD 10,000 of CI is tax exempt and 50% of the next SGD 290,000 of CI is tax exempt (reduced to SGD 190,000 from the current SGD 290,000 from the year of assessment 2020). This exemption does not apply to income of a non-resident company subject to the final withholding tax regime. Qualifying newly incorporated Singaporean companies may enjoy a separate tax exemption scheme for their first three consecutive years of assessment.

The tax year, referred to as the year of assessment (YA), runs from 1 January to 31 December of each year. Income for the YA is computed based on the income derived in the preceding calendar year (known as the basis year) from all sources. For a trade, business, profession or vocation with a non-31 December accounting year-end, the Inland Revenue Authority of Singapore (IRAS) normally accepts the accounting year as the basis year instead of the calendar year. Under such circumstances, tax is assessed for each YA on the income for the accounting year preceding that YA.

A company is generally required to provide an estimate of its CI within three months after the end of its financial year. The estimated tax payable can be paid via instalments. The number of instalments available depends on when the estimated CI is filed within the three month window period and on the method of filing. The annual corporate income tax return must be filed by 30 November of the YA. After the submission of the tax return, IRAS will issue a notice of assessment to collect any tax shortfall. The tax shortfall has to be paid within one month after the date of issue of the notice of assessment in the absence of an instalment plan.

GOODS AND SERVICES TAX (GST)

GST is a broad-based consumption tax aimed at taxing the final consumer of the goods and services. The supply of goods and services made in the ordinary course of business in Singapore by a GST registered person is subject to GST. The importation of goods into Singapore is also subject to GST. Persons carrying on businesses that make taxable supplies are required to register for GST if their annual turnover (retroactive or prospective) is more than SGD 1 million. A GST registered person (GST taxpayer) has to charge GST on their supplies (output GST) and pay GST on their purchases (input GST). The GST taxpayer has to file a monthly or quarterly GST return to declare the Output GST collected and the Input GST incurred. They will pay (or claim) the difference (after netting the Output GST against the Input GST) together with the GST return.

The current standard GST rate is 7%. The export of goods and the provision of international services are zero-rated. The sale and rental of residential properties and specified financial services are exempt from GST.

STAMP DUTY

Stamp Duty is levied on legal instruments relating to the sale, mortgage or lease of immovable property and the sale or mortgage of stocks and shares.

B. DETERMINATION OF TAXABLE INCOME

Singapore-incorporated companies are required to prepare their financial accounts according to Singapore Financial Reporting Standards (FRSs). The FRSs are closely modelled after the International Accounting Standards (IAS) and International Financial Reporting Standards (FRS) issued by the International Accounting Standards Board (IASB). The accounting profits are adjusted in accordance with Singapore tax rules to arrive at the taxable income.

Companies are required under FRSs to prepare their financial accounts according to their functional currency. Those with non-Singapore dollar functional currency accounts are required to furnish their tax computations to the IRAS in that functional currency. Expenses must be incurred wholly and exclusively for the production of income in order to be tax deductible unless specifically disallowed or restricted (e.g. non-commercial motor vehicles, medical expenses, expenses of a capital nature). Special rules apply to expenses incurred by investment holding companies, companies that commence business activities during the financial year and expenses incurred in respect of foreign-sourced income.

INTEREST DEDUCTIONS

Interest expenses are tax deductible unless they are incurred in respect of non-taxable income or are regarded to be of a capital nature. There are no thin capitalisation rules in Singapore.

STOCK / INVENTORY

There are no prescribed valuation methodologies under domestic income tax law. As such, the IRAS will generally accept the valuation methodology under the FRSs.

CAPITAL GAINS AND LOSSES

There is no separate capital gains tax regime in Singapore. Gains of a capital nature are not subject to income tax. Similarly, expenses of a capital nature are not deductible for income tax purposes. The IRAS will look at the facts and circumstances of the transaction to determine whether the gain is capital in nature or a trading gain which is subject to income tax.

DIVIDENDS

Dividends paid by Singapore companies are currently exempt from tax in the hands of the shareholder. Foreign-sourced dividends remitted into Singapore may be tax-exempt under certain circumstances.

CAPITAL ALLOWANCE

Capital allowances, instead of accounting depreciation, are granted for plant and machinery acquired and used in a trade or business. Most plant and machinery qualify for three-year straight line tax depreciation. Low cost items (costing not more than SGD 5,000 per item) may be tax depreciated in full, subject to a total claim of SGD 30,000 for each YA. Certain equipment (such as computers, automation equipment, pollution-control equipment and energy-saving equipment) may qualify for 100% tax depreciation in the year of acquisition.

Current year unutilised capital allowances can be carried back (up to a total of SGD 100,000 for both unutilised capital allowances and unutilised tax losses) to the YA immediately preceding the YA in which the capital allowance arose. The unutilised capital allowances can also be carried forward indefinitely. The utilisation of unutilised capital allowances carried back or carried forward is subject to the business continuity test and the shareholding test.

The business continuity test requires the business/trade for which the capital allowances were granted to continue. The shareholding test requires that there is no substantial change (no more than 50%) in the ultimate shareholders and their respective shareholdings on certain dates.

TAX LOSSES

Current year unutilised trade losses can be carried back (up to a total of SGD 100,000 for both unutilised capital allowances and unutilised tax losses) to the YA immediately preceding the YA in which the trade losses were incurred. The unutilised tax losses can also be carried forward indefinitely. The carry back/forward of tax losses is subject to the same shareholding test as for the carry back/forward of unutilised capital allowances.

TAX INCENTIVES

Singapore has a comprehensive list of tax incentives and development schemes to attract investments and to assist investors in expanding their businesses. Highlights of key incentives and schemes are summarised below. The Regional and International Headquarters Awards encourages companies to use Singapore as a regional or global base. A customised package of tax incentives (such as Pioneer Certificate Incentive, Development and Expansion Incentive and Investment Allowances) and grants will be given to qualifying companies.

The Pioneer Certificate Incentive encourages the introduction and growth of new industries in Singapore. A pioneer enterprise is granted full income tax exemption on its qualifying profits for up to 15 years. Investors undertaking projects that will generate significant economic benefits for Singapore may apply for the Development and Expansion Incentive. This incentive provides preferential income tax rates on all qualifying profits above a pre-determined base for a set period.

Other than the above, Singapore also offers a range of tax incentives with respect to the banking, finance and shipping industries. In addition, companies investing into new equipment that introduces new technology to the industry or contributes to its efficiency can apply for Investment Allowances. This is a capital allowance given to partially offset the costs of acquiring qualifying equipment within a set period and is in addition to the normal tax depreciation.

The Approved Royalties Incentive encourages companies to transfer their cutting edge technology and know-how to Singapore by providing full or partial withholding tax exemptions for royalty payments or technical assistance fees payable to non-residents. Grants are also available with respect to productivity/process improvement projects, staff training, new product development, business capabilities improvements, R&D, intellectual property protection initiatives and overseas ventures.

C. FOREIGN TAX RELIEF

Under Singapore's network of comprehensive double tax treaties, Singapore will grant a tax credit for foreign tax suffered in the treaty country. The tax credit granted is limited to the lower of the foreign tax suffered and the Singapore tax payable on that income. Singapore also grants a unilateral tax credit for certain income derived from countries that have not entered into tax treaties with Singapore.

D. CORPORATE GROUPS

A corporate group (comprising of a Singapore-incorporated holding company and its Singapore-incorporated subsidiaries) can transfer current-year unutilised losses, unutilised capital allowances and unutilised donations within companies in the corporate group. There is a 75% ownership requirement that needs to be maintained to remain within the corporate group while the companies should also share the same financial year end.

E. RELATED PARTY TRANSACTIONS

Under domestic tax law, related party transactions have to satisfy the arm's length principle. The IRAS can make adjustments if it is of the opinion that the arm's length principle is not applied appropriately by the taxpayer. Additional documentation is expected in situations of substantial related party transactions.

F. WITHHOLDING TAX

1.	Interest, fees, payments in connection with any loan or indebtedness	15% (final tax)
2.	Royalty or other payment for the use of movable property	10% (final tax)

Over 320,000	22

A Singapore citizen is considered tax resident if the individual normally resides in Singapore except for temporary absences that are consistent with the claim to be a resident. A foreigner is considered resident in Singapore for tax purposes if the individual is physically present or exercises a Singapore employment for 183 days or more during the basis year.

Non-resident individuals exercising an employment in Singapore are subject to income tax depending on the number of days spent in Singapore. Employment income derived from short-term employment (not more than 60 days) is exempt from Singapore income tax for the non-resident employee. This exemption does not apply to non-resident company directors, non-resident public entertainers or non-resident professionals including foreign experts, foreign speakers, queen's counsels, consultants, trainers, coaches etc. Non-resident employees exercising an employment in Singapore for a period of 61-182 days will be taxed at the higher of 15% (without personal tax reliefs) or the progressive resident rates (with personal tax reliefs). Non-residents deriving rental income are taxed at 22%.

Dividend income from Singapore companies, interest income from savings, current or fixed deposit accounts with approved banks or finance companies in Singapore and foreign-sourced income are tax-exempt for individuals (regardless of residency).

I. TREATY WITHHOLDING TAX RATES

The chart shows the withholding tax rates applicable under the Singapore tax treaties that are currently in force. The domestic withholding tax rate will apply if it is lower than the treaty rate. Singapore does not levy any withholding taxes on dividend payments. Special rates with respect to distributions by Real Estate Investment Trusts have not been reflected in this summary.

In addition, Singapore has pending treaties with Brazil, Gabon, Ghana, and Tunisia; it is also in the process of negotiating treaties with Armenia, Argentina, Botswana, Cape Verde, Croatia, Greece, Kyrgyzstan, Maldives and Peru. Transport treaties have also been concluded with Bahrain, Brazil, Chile, Hong Kong, Norway, Oman, Saudi Arabia, United Arab Emirates and United States of America.

KEY TAX POINTS

- Resident companies are subject to corporate income tax on their worldwide income. Non-residents are subject to corporate income tax only on income sourced in the Slovak Republic.
- The corporate tax rate is 21%.
- VAT is paid on the supply of goods and services. The standard rate is 20%, with a reduced rate of 10% for specific items.
- Capital gains are considered as taxable income and taxed at the applicable flat tax rate of 21%.
- There is no concept of group relief.
- All transactions between related companies realised both inside the Slovak Republic and across borders must be conducted at an arm's length basis. Any difference arising between the price of the actual transaction and the one regarded as the arm's length price will be adjusted for tax purposes.
- Dividends are subject to personal income tax and taxed at a separate rate of 7% for countries with which Slovak Republic has a double tax treaty and 35% in the absence of a tax treaty.
- Income sourced in the Slovak Republic (including interest, royalties and technical and management fees paid to non-residents) is subject to 19% withholding tax.
- Personal income tax is payable by permanent residents within the Slovak Republic on their worldwide income. Non-residents are only subject to tax on Slovak-sourced income.
- An annual property tax is levied on the owner or beneficial owner of a building, flat or land situated within the Slovak Republic. There is no inheritance tax, gift tax or real estate transfer tax.
- In addition to income tax, employees also pay mandatory social and health insurance premiums and prepay tax, all of which are withheld from their gross pay. Employers are likewise subject to payroll contributions and taxes on their employees' salaries.
- Individuals can request the tax authorities to donate 2% of their Slovak personal income tax liability to an eligible Slovak non-profit organisation, while legal entities similarly can request between 1.5 and 2% of their corporate income tax liability.

A. TAXES PAYABLE

COMPANY TAX

Slovak resident companies are subject to corporate income tax on income derived from worldwide sources, while non-residents are subject to corporate income tax only on income sourced in the Slovak Republic. Resident companies are those which have their legal seat or place of effective management in the Slovak Republic. Corporate income tax is levied at a rate of 21%. This is the final tax burden on corporate profits because dividends paid out of profits derived as from 1 January 2017 are not taxed in the hands of shareholders if the shareholders are corporate entities based in another state than a non-contracting state, i.e. a state not on the "white list" published by the Slovak Ministry of Finance (basically non-treaty countries or countries that have not signed the Convention on Mutual Administrative Assistance in Tax Matters).

The fiscal year is the calendar year or the taxpayer's fiscal year (subject to notification to the tax authorities). Tax is due and payable:

Slovak Republic

- In a single payment if the previous tax liability was less than EUR 2,500;
- In quarterly instalments if the previous tax liability was between EUR 2,500 and EUR 16,600;
- In monthly instalments if the previous tax liability was over EUR 16,600.

Tax returns for the applicable period should be filed by 31 March of the following year. A three-month extension of the deadline may be requested with a simple notice to the tax authorities.

Withholding tax is 35% for payments made in favour of a taxpayer residing in a non-contracting state, i.e. a state not on the “white list” published by the Slovak Ministry Finance (basically non-treaty countries or countries that have not signed the Convention on Mutual Administrative Assistance in Tax Matters). A list of such countries is published by the Ministry of Finance of the Slovak Republic on its website: www.finance.gov.sk. Taxpayers can donate 1.5% to 2% of their paid taxes to non-profit organisations. Based on a written request, the tax authorities will provide the donated amount to the designated non-profit organisation. There is an opportunity to inform the tax authorities in writing about any change of the tax period from the calendar year to a fiscal year.

CAPITAL GAINS TAX

There is no separate capital gains tax. However, the taxable amount for calculating personal income tax includes income generated from capital assets, regardless of whether the income was earned inside or outside the Slovak Republic. This is taxed at 19%. Gains from sales of assets are incorporated into taxable income when determining the company's tax liability.

BRANCH PROFITS TAX

There is no separate branch profits tax in the Slovak Republic. The income of Slovak branches of foreign companies is subject to taxation in the Slovak Republic at the flat rate of 21%. There is no branch remittance tax in the Slovak Republic. Dividends are not subject to personal income tax unless they are paid out or received from entities in a non-contracting state, i.e. a state not on the “white list” published by the Slovak Ministry of Finance (basically non-treaty countries or countries that have not signed the Convention on Mutual Administrative Assistance in Tax Matters).

VALUE ADDED TAX (VAT)

VAT is paid on the supply of goods and services within the country, the intra-Community acquisition of goods, and on the importation of goods from countries outside the EU. The standard rate is 20%. There is a reduced rate of 10% for medicines, books and other printed matter, and specific foods such as meat, fish, milk and bread. A complete list is provided in an annex to the VAT Act. Goods and some services exported from the Slovak Republic are exempt from tax. There is also a special excise tax imposed on selected commodities such as petroleum, wine, spirits, tobacco, beer, electricity, coal and natural gas.

FRINGE BENEFITS TAX

Fringe benefits (goods or services) to employees are taxed as part of their total taxable amount at a flat rate of 19%. Any tax levied on an employee is deducted by the employer. There is an increased rate of 25% levied on personal income earned during the year in excess of EUR 35,268.06.

LOCAL TAXES

The main local taxes that a municipality can levy are property tax (on land, buildings and flats), hotel tax, tax on the operation of vending machines and machines that do not offer cash prizes, as well as local fees on community waste disposal and low-value construction waste. Motor vehicle tax is also charged for categories of vehicles used by businesses or self-employed persons. Local taxes paid are a recognised deduction from income tax.

OTHER TAXES

An annual tax is levied on the owner or beneficial owner of a building, flat or land situated within the Slovak Republic. The rate of tax depends on the size, quality, type and location of the property. This tax is deductible on a cash basis for income tax purposes. There is no inheritance tax, gift tax or real estate transfer tax levied in the Slovak Republic. Employers pay contributions to social security and health insurance amounting to 35.2% of gross income paid to employees as shown on payroll records up to a maximum assessment set by law. These contributions are deductible when determining taxable income. The rates are as follows:

Health insurance	10.00%
Hospitalisation	1.40%
Retirement insurance	14.00%
Disability	3.00%
Unemployment insurance	1.00%
Accident insurance	0.80%
Guaranty insurance	0.25%
Reserve fund	4.75%

B. DETERMINATION OF TAXABLE INCOME

A company's taxable income is determined by ascertaining assessable income according to official accounting and then subtracting all deductions. Generally, to be deductible, expenditure must be wholly and exclusively incurred for the purposes of the business. Certain income that has already been subject to withholding tax is not included in taxable income, with some exceptions such as royalties. Special additional conditions apply to deductions of some expenses. For example, special expenses defined by tax law are tax-deductible only for the period in which they are fully paid. Examples include legal and consulting services and sports sponsorships. On the other hand, special income such as marketing studies and marketing research, as well as contractual penalties and late fees is taxable only for the period in which it is received.

DEPRECIATION

The tax law prescribes the rules under which a business depreciates its assets. Property, plant and equipment are divided into six groups according to their expected useful life (periods ranging from 4 to 40 years). The straight-line depreciation method is used, although accelerated (declining-balance) depreciation may be applied in the case of machinery and technological equipment in depreciation groups 2 and 3 (in general, NACE Classifications 25-32, although the amended Income Tax Act specifically outlines the applicable statistical classification numbers).

The choice of method is carried out on an asset-by-asset basis and, once the method is selected, it cannot be changed. Intangible assets (capitalised development costs) can be amortised over five years from when they were expensed. Amortisation may be postponed without the taxpayer losing the right to amortise in future periods. (Note: Starting from 1 January 2012, assets are depreciated in the first year pro rata according to the number of months.)

STOCK / INVENTORY

All trading stock on hand is valued at purchase price including any additional procurement costs incurred. Internally generated inventory must be valued on the basis of production costs. In the event that a temporary impairment in inventories is found during stocktaking, an allowance is made. Accepted valuation methods include FIFO, average acquisition costs or pre-defined (planned) prices but not LIFO.

CAPITAL GAINS AND LOSSES

Capital gains are considered taxable income and taxed at the applicable tax rate of 21%. Losses from the sale of securities are recognised as a tax deduction only up to the amount of income. There are two exceptions when the loss is fully recognised for tax purposes:

- A loss from the sale of bonds to the extent of income received from the bond included in its price;
- A loss from the sale of stock certified by a broker.

DIVIDENDS

Dividends paid out of profits generated after 31 December 2003 are not subject to personal income tax, unless the distributing company is based in a non-contracting state, i.e. a state not on the "white list" published by the Slovak Ministry of Finance (basically non-treaty countries or countries that have not signed the Convention on Mutual Administrative Assistance in Tax Matters), in which case dividends paid out of profits are subject to tax at a rate of 35%.

Please note that the provisions of the Income Tax Act covering personal income tax levied on dividends paid out of profits generated before 1 January 2004 are quiet structured. Consult with a local tax adviser about how you will be affected in your own particular case.

INTEREST DEDUCTION

Interest paid by a company is treated as an ordinary business expense. Since 2015 the Slovak Republic has applied thin-capitalisation related restrictions on the deduction of interest from loans. These restrictions apply to interest expenses arising in tax periods starting on or after 1 January 2015 and cover all resident legal entities and non-resident legal entities having a permanent establishment in the Slovak Republic, with the exception of financial institutions (banks, insurance companies, reinsurance companies and bodies of collective investments) and leasing companies). The deduction of interest expenses on loans from related parties exceeding 25% of a company's earnings before interest, taxes, depreciation, and amortisation (EBIDTA) will be prohibited.

LOSSES

As from 1 January 2014, losses in a year may be carried forward and set off against profits in the subsequent four years uniformly with no obligation to reinvest the deducted losses.

FOREIGN SOURCED INCOME

The Slovak authorities levy taxes on all foreign-sourced income received by Slovak residents and companies whose registered office is in the Slovak Republic.

INCENTIVES

Incentives for investors are governed by legislation on investment aid (No. 561/2007 Coll., as amended) and investment assistance (Act 561/2007 Coll.), under which tax benefits and relief may also be an incentive to invest. Specific tax benefits have to be negotiated with the Economics Ministry.

C. FOREIGN TAX RELIEF

No unilateral double taxation relief is provided. Double taxation is relieved only on the basis of tax treaties. Tax paid in a foreign country is offset against tax liabilities in the home country in accordance with double tax treaties with the applicable country (either by a deduction or exemption). Income earned by individuals (i.e. from wages and salaries) is tax-exempt where proof is given that the income will be taxed abroad and where the Slovak Republic has no double tax treaty with the other country which has taxed the income. If a double tax treaty exists, exemptions stipulated in the treaty take precedence.

D. CORPORATE GROUPS

There is no concept of corporate groups in the Slovak Republic. For tax purposes, profits and losses of holding and subsidiary companies may not be consolidated.

E. RELATED PARTY TRANSACTIONS

All transactions between related parties must be conducted on an arm's length basis with the meaning of arm's length price depending upon each individual transaction. Any difference arising between the price of the actual transaction and that regarded as the arm's length price will be adjusted for tax purposes. It is possible to negotiate an advance pricing agreement (APA) with the tax authorities. The APA may cover up to five tax periods and is renewable. Mandatory transfer pricing documentation requirements exist, which generally follow the recommendations contained in the OECD Guidelines.

There is no CFC legislation in the Slovak Republic.

F. WITHHOLDING TAX

Dividends

- Dividends distributed by a Slovak entity out of profits generated as from 2017 to a non-resident entity resident in a country with which Slovakia has concluded a tax treaty are exempt from withholding tax;
- Dividends distributed by a Slovak entity out of profits generated as from 2017 to a non-resident individual in a country with which Slovakia has concluded a tax treaty are subject to a 7% withholding tax;
- Dividends distributed out of profits generated as from 2017 and paid to a non-resident entity or individual in a non-contracting state (i.e. a state not on the 'white list' published by the Slovak MoF) are subject to a 35% withholding tax.

Interest and royalties

- Interest or royalties paid to a non-resident are subject to a 19% withholding tax, unless the rate is reduced under a tax treaty or exempt under the EU Interest and Royalties Directive;
- A 35% withholding rate applies where the payment is made to a resident of a non-contracting state (i.e. a state not on the 'white list' published by the Slovak MoF).

G. EXCHANGE CONTROL

The Slovak Republic has been using the euro as its currency since 1 January 2009. The Foreign Exchange Act allows the euro to be used freely to pay for business and other costs, for direct investment and reinvestment and for purchase of real estate property abroad. Also, it is legal to accept financial credit (i.e. receive loans) from companies with no registered office within the Slovak Republic but, in certain circumstances, there is a requirement to report such credit.

The Foreign Exchange Act partially restricts the ability for companies without a registered office in the Slovak Republic to acquire real property in the Slovak Republic. Capital transfers are regulated and there is a duty to report and obtain a special permit or licence from the central bank. Since 2013 cash payments are restricted under a separate law to a ceiling of EUR 5,000, except for individuals not operating an undertaking, where the ceiling for payments in cash is EUR 15,000.

H. PERSONAL TAX

Personal income tax is payable by permanent residents within the Slovak Republic on their worldwide income. Non-residents are only subject to tax on Slovak-sourced income. If an individual spends 183 days or more of the relevant calendar year in the Slovak Republic, that person is deemed to be a resident in the Slovak Republic. Under Slovak law, employees hired under an employment contract pay contributions for social security, retirement and health insurance amounting to 13.4%. This is withheld by the employer. The rate of contributions is as follows:

Health insurance	4.00%
Hospitalisation	1.40%
Retirement	4.00%
Disability	3.00%
Unemployment insurance	1.00%

Different rates apply to contributions made by self-employed persons. The personal income tax rate in the Slovak Republic is 19% for annual earnings up to EUR 35,268.06 and 25% above that figure. In addition and in all cases, the personal allowance is reduced on a sliding scale to zero when taxable income is more than 176.8 times subsistence income.

The taxable amount includes income generated from capital assets, which is taxed at 19%.

Old dividends are exempt if paid from profits derived by the distributing company between 1 January 2004 and 31 December 2016. Dividends paid out of pre-2004 profits and profits derived as from 1 January 2017 are taxable at a rate of 7%, or a rate of 35% if the dividends are from sources in non-contracting states (see higher on the concept of a non-contracting state).

Tax returns for the applicable period should be filed by 31 March of the following year, although a three-month extension can be requested with a simple notice to the tax authorities. Income tax on earnings from employment is withheld monthly. Provisional payments on income from business operations, rental income, etc. are paid quarterly or monthly depending on the last known tax liability (between EUR 2,500 and EUR 16,000 or over EUR 16,600 respectively) and as a single payment if the last tax liability did not exceed EUR 2,500.

Individuals can request the tax authorities to donate 2% of their Slovak personal income tax liability to an eligible Slovak non-profit organisation. The Act sets out who can receive such charitable contributions, for example, civic associations, foundations and religious organisations. These recipients must meet several conditions.

Real property tax is paid on land, flats and buildings, with the tax rate depending on the quality of land and location of the buildings or flats (number of citizens).

- Dividends are subject to personal income tax but not to corporate income tax, except for non-contracting states (i.e. a state not on the 'white list' published by the Slovak MoF), in which case a 35% rate applies. A rate of 19% applies for profits generated before 1 January 2004.
- Interest and royalties are tax exempt for associated companies in EU Member States in accordance with EU Directives (see Section 'F' above).
- The lower tax rate generally applies to interest on loans provided by the government or the central bank. It is advisable to check the applicable double taxation treaty for specific details.
- Separate tax rates for royalties are generally applied so that the higher rate is for industrial royalties and the lower rate is for cultural royalties. It is advisable to check the applicable double taxation treaty for specific details.
- The withholding rate is reduced to 5% if a bank or financial institution receives the interest.

- Relief for double taxation is provided by means of credit for overseas tax suffered on overseas income. The credit is the lower of the foreign tax paid and the Slovenian tax on the income concerned.
- Withholding taxes are due in respect of various types of payments to residents and non-residents. Withholding taxes do not apply to dividends distributed to legal persons where a common system of taxation applies or in respect of dividends and similar income distributed through a business unit of a non-resident located in Slovenia.
- Resident individuals are subject to personal income tax on their worldwide income. Non-residents are taxable on Slovenian source income.

A. TAXES PAYABLECOMPANY TAX

A company is resident in Slovenia if it has its legal seat or place of effective management in Slovenia. Resident companies are taxed on their worldwide income. Non-resident companies are taxed on their Slovenian source income. Corporate income tax is levied on the taxable profits of legal persons at a rate of 19% with a special rate of 0% for investment funds, pension funds and insurance undertakings for pension plans (under certain conditions). As of 1 January 2013 there is an optional flat-rate taxation regime. In accordance with this flat-rate regime, the tax base was determined on the basis of lump-sum costs accounting for 80% of income. The income shouldn't exceed EUR 50,000 per year (EUR 100,000 under certain conditions).

BRANCH PROFIT TAX

Non-resident companies are subject to corporate income tax in Slovenia on business activities carried on through a permanent establishment in Slovenia.

VALUE ADDED TAX (VAT)

General

All companies pay VAT except those carrying out certain defined activities, small businesses and farmers with a turnover and income below defined thresholds, and those dealing with products intended for export and international transport. VAT is payable on all supplies of goods and services effected by a taxable person acting as such for consideration within the territory of Slovenia, on intra-Community acquisition (including intra-Community acquisition of new means of transport) and on importation of goods. It is also imposed on the transfer of ownership of buildings or parts thereof if the transfer is made before first occupancy or within a period of two years after first occupancy.

Slovenia adopted a value added tax system in July 1999. In May 2004, when Slovenia became a member of the European Union, all provisions concerning intra-Community trade were enacted. The Slovenian VAT Act was generally changed with effect from 1 January 2010. The purpose of those changes was to follow the development of European VAT regulations.

Taxable Persons

A taxable person must apply for registration if the value of his supplies within the period of the last 12 months exceeds the threshold of EUR 50,000. There is a separate threshold for registration in the VAT system for agricultural activities exceeding EUR 7,500 in accordance with the cadastral income of agricultural and forestry land. A foreign taxable person who makes supplies where the place of supply is Slovenia is liable to be registered irrespective of the fact that his turnover does not meet the prescribed threshold of EUR 50,000. Small businesses (including farmers) may apply for voluntary registration which is valid for at least a five-year period.

Rates

There are two VAT rates applicable in Slovenia:

- (1) The standard rate of 22% applies to all supplies of goods and services not specified as being subject to the reduced rate or to exemptions.
- (2) The reduced rate of 9.5% applies to goods and services specifically defined by the VAT Act. These include food, medicines, the supply of medical appliances for the personal use of disabled persons, supply of water, supply of books and other printed materials, tickets to cultural and sports events and the construction, renovation and supply of residential property unless it is built or supplied as part of social policy.

VAT Declaration – Payment / VAT Return

VAT shall be paid no later than the last working day of the month following the expiration of the tax period. Registered persons shall calculate their tax liability and submit a VAT return for the tax period (calendar month or calendar quarter). Taxable persons who are obliged to submit recap statements shall submit a monthly VAT return on the 20th day of the month following the expiration of the tax period. In principle, tax credits (excess of input tax over output tax in the tax period) shall be carried forward to the next tax period. However, VAT may be refunded to a taxable person upon his request within 21 days after the VAT return is submitted.

The Place of Supply of Services

There are different rules depending on the place of the provision and type of service. Business-to-business (B2B) supplies of services are taxed where the buyer is situated, rather than where the seller is located. For business-to-consumer (B2C) supplies of services, the place of taxation is where the seller is established. However, in certain circumstances, the place of supply is the place of consumption. These exceptions include services such as intermediary services, services connected with immovable property, transport services, cultural, artistic, sporting, scientific, educational, entertainment or similar services, ancillary transport services, valuations of movable tangible property or work on such property, restaurant and catering services, the hiring of means of transport, and electronic services supplied to consumers.

For services provided in the fields of culture, art, sports, science, education, entertainment, fairs, exhibitions to businesses, the place of consumption is the headquarters of the purchaser.

Foreign Taxable Persons VAT Refund

Foreign taxable persons are entitled to a refund of VAT paid in the Republic of Slovenia on supplies of goods and services and upon importation of goods if the conditions defined by law are fulfilled. The claim for a refund of VAT must be filed electronically in the claimant's own territory. To obtain a refund of VAT in Slovenia, the taxable person, if established in another Member State, must address an electronic refund application to Slovenia and submit it to the Member State in which he is established via the electronic portal set up by that Member State. Minimum refund limits are as follows:

- EUR 400 or the equivalent in national currency if the refund period is between three months and less than a calendar year;
- EUR 50 or the equivalent in national currency if the refund period is of a calendar year or the remainder of a calendar year.

VAT refunds due to taxable persons established outside the EU are only granted according to the conditions of reciprocity. Refund applications must be submitted by 30 June of the calendar year following the refund period to the competent tax authority.

Special Scheme for Small Taxable Persons

Small enterprises whose turnover does not exceed EUR 50,000 are exempt from charging VAT and have consequently no right to recover input VAT.

Special Scheme for Farmers

Farmers are exempt from charging VAT if their farming income does not exceed EUR 7,500. They are not able to recover VAT incurred on their purchases, but they are allowed to charge VAT at a flat rate of 8% on supplies to taxable persons and retain it.

Special Cash Accounting Scheme

Small businesses with a taxable turnover of up to EUR 400,000 per year, exclusive of VAT, may opt for the cash accounting scheme under which a taxable person may account for VAT on the basis of cash paid and received. Certain transactions are excluded from the scheme, e.g. exports, imports, intra-Community supplies, intra-Community acquisitions, etc.

FINANCIAL SERVICES TAX

Financial Services Tax Act is introducing liability to pay tax on financial services that are exempt from VAT according to current regulations governing the VAT system and services performed by insurance brokers and insurance agents. Subject of taxation are:

- (a) Grant and negotiation of credits or loans in the form of money and the management of credits or loans in the form of money by the person granting them;
- (b) Negotiation of or any dealings in credit guarantees or any other security for money and the management of credit guarantees by the person who is granting the credit;
- (c) Transactions, including negotiation, involving deposit and current accounts, payments, transfers, debts, cheques and other payment instruments;
- (d) Transactions, including negotiation, involving currency, bank notes and coins used as legal tender;
- (e) Services provided by insurance brokers and insurance agents.

The tax base is the fee or commission paid on the basis of a concluded financial service. Transactions in shares, interests in companies or associations, debentures and other securities and management of investment funds are not subject to the financial services tax, even though these services are exempt from VAT. Liability to pay the tax arises when the financial service is performed. A financial service is considered to have been performed when a fee (commission) has been paid for this service.

Any person performing financial services in the territory of the Republic of Slovenia is subject to the financial services tax. A financial services tax return must be filed by anyone subject to the tax. It is a transaction tax and is charged at the moment when the financial service is performed. A financial service is considered to have been performed when a fee (commission) has been paid for this service. The tax rate increased from 6.5% to 8.5% of the tax base in 2015 and forward.

FRINGE BENEFITS TAX

In principle, all fringe benefits given by employers or other persons to their employees or family members of employees in connection with employment, such as the private use of company cars, rental benefits, zero-interest loans, discounts on products and services, gifts and share options, are taxed.

LOCAL TAXES

There are no special regional or local taxes in Slovenia.

OTHER TAXES

Other taxes not covered above are:

- Personal income tax;
- Derivative instruments gains tax;
- Contractual work tax;
- Contributions to social security insurance;
- Taxes on lottery winnings;
- Tax on gambling;
- Inheritance and gift tax;
- Property tax (new Real Estate Tax has not been enforced yet);
- Tax on vessels;
- Circulation tax;
- Tax on insurance services;
- Immovable property transfer tax;
- Customs Duties and Excise Duties.

B. DETERMINATION OF TAXABLE INCOME

DEPRECIATION

Depreciation costs are allowed in Slovenia. Rates applicable to the main types of assets are:

Description	Rate
Building projects, including investment property	3%
Parts of building projects, including parts of investment property	6%
Equipment, vehicles and machinery	20%
Parts of equipment and equipment for research	33.3%
Computers and computer equipment, software	50%
Long-term plantations	10%
Breeding and working herds	20%
Other investments	10%

RECEIVABLES

The write-off of a receivable is recognised as an expense when recorded in the business accounts. However, the amount of receivables value adjustment must not exceed the lower of the following two amounts: the arithmetical average of the actual write-off of the last three years or the amount representing 1% of taxable revenue in the tax period.

CAPITAL GAINS AND LOSSES

Capital gains from regular income are subject to tax. Capital gains are included within the profits chargeable to corporation tax for an accounting period. Capital losses can be offset against income of an accounting period when they are realised. 50% of capital gains derived on the disposal of shares are exempt where:

- The shares represent at least an 8% participation in capital or voting rights of the company;
- The shares have been held for at least six months;
- The company has at least one employee;
- The participation is not in a company in a low tax jurisdiction (where the nominal tax rate is less than 12.5% and the jurisdiction is listed with the Ministry of Finance).

DIVIDENDS

Domestic dividends are exempt from corporate income tax in the hands of corporate shareholders if:

- The payer is liable to corporate income tax in Slovenia; and
- The dividends result from income that was taxed at the level of the payer in a previous tax year.

A lump-sum amount equal to 5% of the dividends received is excluded from the exemption, representing deemed expenses incurred with respect to the exempt dividend income.

No withholding tax is levied on dividends and other profit distributions paid by a resident company to another resident company that communicates its tax identification number to the paying company.

INTEREST DEDUCTIONS

Interest paid on borrowed money is treated as a regular financial expense and can be offset against income arising in the same accounting period. Thin capitalisation rules apply to loan finance received from shareholders who have at least a 25% participation in the company unless the taxpayer can demonstrate that the loan finance would have been provided on the same terms by a non-related entity. These rules apply also to loans by related parties and prescribe a maximum debt to equity ratio of 4:1.

LOSSES

Losses are calculated as the surplus of expenses over revenues defined by the Corporate Income Tax Act. Losses may be offset against taxable profits in the following years. Losses may be carried forward indefinitely but the carry back of losses is not permitted. The tax base may be decreased by the amount of losses from previous tax periods up to a maximum of half the tax base and may be carried forward indefinitely (unless more than 50% ownership of the capital has changed in the meantime and under some other additional circumstances).

FOREIGN SOURCE INCOME

Slovenia has no special rules that apply to foreign source income. All legal persons carrying out commercial activities and having their head office in Slovenia or having their place of effective management in Slovenia (partnerships and other corporate forms, investment funds, banks, insurance companies, co-operative enterprises, public enterprises and other legal persons) are subject to corporate income tax.

Non-residents (legal persons who do not have their headquarters in Slovenia or their place of effective management in Slovenia) are subject to corporate income tax to the extent that their income has its source in Slovenia for certain types of income.

INCENTIVES

A 100% deduction is available for research and development (R&D) investment activities and the purchase of R&D services not exceeding the amount of the taxable base. There is also a 40% deduction for amounts invested in equipment and intangibles, again only up to the amount of the taxable base. There are also further general tax incentives under certain conditions for entities that provide work for employees, trainees or disabled persons, as well as relief for donations and voluntary supplementary pension insurance. Unused tax reliefs may be carried forward for 5 years.

A tax relief of 45% of eligible salary payments (subject to a maximum of the employer's tax base) is granted to a taxpayer who employs a person under the age of 26 or a person above the age of 55 who has been registered as unemployed with the Employment Service of the Republic of Slovenia for at least six months and has not been employed with this taxpayer or his/her associated enterprise for the last 24 months. There are further general tax incentives available to entities that provide work for apprentices or disabled persons. A taxpayer who employs disabled persons may claim a tax deduction equal to 50% of the salaries of such persons but not exceeding the amount of the taxable base. A taxpayer who employs disabled persons with a 100% physical or hearing disability may claim a reduction in the taxable base in the amount of 70% of the salaries of such persons but not exceeding the amount of the taxable base.

If a taxpayer under a teaching agreement employs an apprentice or student to perform practical work in professional education, the taxpayer may claim a reduction in the taxable base in the amount of the salary paid but not exceeding 20% of the average monthly salary in Slovenia for each month of performing practical work and for each individual person who takes part in such professional education.

Relief is available for voluntary supplementary pension insurance up to 24% of the compulsory contributions for pension and disability insurance for an insured employee but no more than EUR 2,819.09 annually (for the year 2018) per employee may apply under certain conditions. Additional tax incentives for eligible costs for initial investments and employment costs are given to companies which operate in an economic zone.

C. FOREIGN TAX RELIEF

Relief for double taxation is provided by means of credit for overseas tax suffered on overseas income. The credit is the lower of the foreign tax paid and the Slovenian tax on the income concerned.

D. CORPORATE GROUPS

Groups cannot be taxed as a single entity in Slovenia.

E. RELATED PARTY TRANSACTIONS

Transactions of Slovenian resident companies with non-resident companies must be carried out on an arm's length basis or adjustments are required for tax purposes. The rules also apply to transactions between Slovenian resident companies with which they are related where one is in a tax advantageous position (e.g. through losses brought forward from an earlier period). Companies are related by virtue of a 25% participation of one in the other or a common 25% participation by a third company.

F. WITHHOLDING TAX

Companies paying dividends withhold tax at a rate of 15% on each dividend distributed to residents and non-residents of Slovenia. If double tax treaties stipulate a tax rate lower than 15%, the treaty tax rate applies. No withholding tax applies where a resident taxpayer notifies the payer of its tax number or if a non-resident taxpayer with activities in a business unit in Slovenia notifies the payer of its tax number. No tax is withheld from payments of dividends and similar income distributed to companies resident in the EU with a minimum 10% equity stake which has been held for at least 24 months prior to the dividend payment.

There is no withholding tax on dividends paid to a non-resident who is a resident of the EU or EEA (excluding the Principality of Liechtenstein) if the recipient of the dividend is not able to offset the applicable Slovenian withholding tax in his country of residence. This also applies to payments of dividends and interest paid from Slovenia to EU and EEA (excluding the Principality of Liechtenstein) investment and pension funds. Companies are, in most cases, exempt from tax on dividends if the payer is:

- Liable to pay tax by the Corporate Income Tax Act; or,
- A taxpaying resident in an EU Member State under that State's domestic tax law is not deemed to be resident outside the EU under a tax treaty concluded with a non-member state; or,
- Liable to pay the equivalent of Slovenian corporate income tax and is resident in a country in which the rate of tax on corporate profits is at least 12.5%.

Withholding tax at a rate of 15% applies to interest payments. In the case of interest on loans raised and securities issued by the government of Slovenia and interest paid by banks there is no withholding tax.

Withholding tax at a rate of 15% applies to royalties. There is no withholding tax if a resident taxpayer notifies the payer of its tax number and if a non-resident taxpayer for activities in a business unit in Slovenia notifies the payer of its tax number.

G. EXCHANGE CONTROLS

There are no exchange controls in Slovenia.

H. PERSONAL TAX

Personal income tax is levied on six categories of income:

- Income from employment;
- Business income (from self-employment);
- Income from basic agriculture and forestry;
- Income from rents and royalties;
- Income from capital;
- Other income accruing to persons liable to tax in the Republic of Slovenia. Residents are liable to income tax on their worldwide income (i.e. income derived in Slovenia as well as abroad). Non-residents are liable to income tax on income derived in Slovenia.

An individual, regardless of his nationality, is a resident in Slovenia for personal income tax purposes if he has a formal residential tie with Slovenia i.e. has permanent residence in Slovenia, is a Slovenian public employee employed abroad or was a Slovenian resident but is currently employed in an EU institution). A person who is present for more than 183 days in a taxable year in Slovenia is deemed to be resident there in that tax year. Each individual is treated as a separate taxpayer. There is no taxation of spouses or a family as a whole. The tax year is the calendar year.

Tax on income from capital (on interest, dividends and capital gains) is paid according to a flat income tax rate. Any such tax payment is treated as a final tax for residents and non-residents alike. Tax rates are the following:

- Interest: 25%;
- Dividends: 25%;
- Capital gains: 25% for a holding period of up to five years, 15% for a holding period from five to 10 years, 10% for a holding period from 10 to 15 years, 5% for a holding period from 15 to 20 years, and 0% for a holding period greater than 20 years.

Income tax on other categories of income (income from employment, business income, income from basic agriculture and forestry, rental income, royalties and other income hereinafter referred to as active income) is paid during the tax year in the form of advance tax payments. The rate for advance tax payment is prescribed by the Personal Income Tax Act. Any such advance tax payment of a non-resident is treated as a final tax while, in the case of a resident, it is treated as a prepayment of tax.

The tax schedule for the year 2018 is as follows:

Taxable income (EUR)	Tax (EUR)	Rate on excess (EUR)
Up to 8,021.34	0	16%
8,021.34 – 20,400.00	1,283.41	+ 27% over 8,021.34
20,400.00 – 48,000.00	4,625.65	+ 34% over 20,400.00
48,000.00 – 70,907.20	14,009.65	+ 39% over 48,000.00
Over 70,907.20	22,943.46	+ 50% over 70,907.20

Advance tax payments are deductible from the annual active income tax liability of a resident and any difference is collected upon receipt of an assessment from the tax authorities. The Tax Administration is obliged to generate an annual tax return based on its own information, to assess the tax and submit the return to the taxpayer. If the taxpayer does not dispute the tax assessment, the tax will be due (the difference between the total tax payable and the total amount of tax paid in advance) within 60 days of the day the tax assessment is submitted.

When the total sum of advance payments exceeds the annual tax payable, a refund will be provided within the same time limit. If the tax assessment has not been submitted to the taxpayer by the end of May, then the taxpayer is obliged to file an annual income tax return by the end of June. Then the tax liability of the taxpayer will be calculated by the Tax Administration which is obliged to issue a written order before 31 October of the same year. The tax due (the difference between the total tax payable and the total amount of tax paid in advance) must be paid within 30 days of the day the written order is submitted. When the total sum of advance payments exceeds the annual tax payable, a refund is provided within the same time limit. A tax return is required for all taxpayers regardless of the annual taxable base.

All taxpayers (except for basic agricultural and forestry activity) must keep records of their income. They are obliged to keep records for at least five years from the year to which they relate. To avoid double taxation of income, Slovenia has concluded a considerable number of double tax treaties.

EXEMPTIONS

There are a number of exemptions within each category of income which are defined by the Personal Income Tax Act.

ALLOWANCES AND DEDUCTIONS

Allowances that reduce the aggregated taxable base (deductions) for a resident taxpayer on an annual level include (for the year 2018):

General allowance:

- EUR 6,519.82 for residents with active income up to EUR 11,166.37;
- EUR 3,302.70 + (19,922.15 – 1.49601 x total income) for residents with active income between EUR 11,166.37 and EUR 13,316.83;
- EUR 3,302.70 for residents with active income in excess of EUR 13,316.83.

Personal allowances:

- Disabled person's allowance: EUR 17,658.84 if the resident is a disabled person;
- Independent artists, journalists and sportsmen: a special deduction of 15% of their revenues (up to EUR 25,000 of revenues);
- Student allowance: 75% of the basic yearly allowance (amount of 2,477.03 for 2016 and 2017) for income earned by pupils or students for temporary work done on the basis of a referral issued by a special organisation dealing with job-matching services for pupils and students.

Family allowances:

Family allowances are granted to residents who are supporting their family members, as follows:

- EUR 2,436.92 for the first dependent child; for each subsequent dependent child this amount is increased;
- EUR 8,830.00 for a dependent child who requires special care;
- EUR 2,436.92 for any other dependent family member;

Special deduction for voluntary additional pension insurance payments:

Premiums paid by a resident to the provider of a pension plan based in Slovenia or in an EU Member State according to a pension plan that is approved and entered into a special register, but limited to a sum equal to 24% of the compulsory contribution for compulsory pension and disability insurance for the taxpayer, or 5.844% of the taxpayer's pension, and no more than EUR 2,819.09 annually.

Pensioners and working disabled persons are entitled to a tax credit in the amount of 13.5% of the pension/compensation received from compulsory pension and disability insurance.

WAGE FOR BUSINESS SUCCESS

Part of the wage for business success is not subject to tax for personal income tax purposes if the amount doesn't exceed 70% of the average wage in Slovenia but is subject to regular social security contributions. It can only be paid once in a single year and should cover all the employees. Such wages should also be paid in accordance with the employer's general act and collective agreement.

DIRECT TAXES ON PROPERTY
INHERITANCE AND GIFT TAX

Inheritance and gift tax applies to transfers of property. The tax is paid by individuals or legal persons of private law receiving property in the form of inheritance or gifts. Taxpayers are divided into four categories according to their relationship with the deceased or donor as follows:

- Class I: all direct descendants and spouses;
- Class II: parents, siblings and their descendants;
- Class III: grandparents;
- Class IV: others.

The tax base of inherited or given property is the value after deduction of debts and other liabilities. For real estate, this value is set at 80% of gross appraisal value. For movable property - except money - this value is set as market value. Exemptions to the inheritance and gift tax include:

- Individuals classified under Class I;
- Taxpayers who inherit a house or apartment and who own only one house or apartment themselves and have lived in the same house as the decedent;
- Farmers who inherit agricultural land or an entire farm; and,
- Legal persons of private law, established for religious, humanitarian, educational, cultural, charitable and certain other activities.

Movable property up to a value of EUR 5,000 is also exempt from taxation. The tax is levied progressively depending on the value of the property and the category under which the relation to the deceased or donor is classified. Inheritance and gift tax rates are as follows:

Category	Tax Rate Ranges
Class II	5% to 14%
Class III	8% to 17%
Class IV	12% to 39%

Taxpayers must declare their liability to the local tax authority within 15 days of receiving a gift. The assessment of inheritance tax is made according to the inheritance decision sent by the court to the tax authority. The tax is payable within 30 days of the assessment being issued.

PROPERTY TAX

A fee for the use of construction land is charged to owners by municipalities (% depending on individual municipality).

Notes:

- Dividends and other profit distributions paid to non-residents are subject to a 15% final withholding tax levied on the gross amount, unless a reduced rate applies under a tax treaty. Under Slovenian domestic tax law implementing the provisions of the EU Parent-Subsidiary Directive, outbound dividends are exempt from withholding tax if the recipient is an EU company subject to a corporate income tax listed in the directive and holds directly at least 10% of the capital or voting rights of the paying company. A minimum holding period of 2 years is required. If the 2-year holding period has not yet elapsed, the exemption can be directly applied if the recipient lodges a bank guarantee. The benefits of the directive do not apply if the main purpose or one of the main purposes of the transaction is to achieve a tax advantage.
Reduced withholding tax rates on dividends (qualifying companies) are also available under the treaties with non-EU member states, subject to certain conditions and participations.
- Interest paid to non-residents is subject to a 15% final withholding tax levied on the gross amount, unless a reduced rate applies under a tax treaty. Under Slovenian domestic tax law implementing the provisions of the EU Interest and Royalties Directive, interest and royalty payments by resident companies are exempt from withholding tax, provided that the recipient company is resident in another EU Member State and is subject to corporate income tax in that state, and is an associated company of the paying company. Two companies are associated companies if (i) one of them holds directly at least 25% of the capital of the other or (ii) a third EU company holds directly at least 25% of the capital of the two companies. In both cases, a continuous minimum holding period of 2 years is required.
- Royalties paid to non-residents are subject to a 15% final withholding tax levied on the gross amount, unless a reduced rate applies under a tax treaty. For the implementation of the EU Interest and Royalties Directive, see footnote 2.

- Dividends paid or that become payable by a South African company to a shareholder are subject to a 20% withholding tax. Withholding tax is not levied on dividends paid to another South African company and dividends paid by headquarter companies.
- Where a branch of a foreign company operates in South Africa, a branch profits tax at the rate of 28% of taxable income applies.
- VAT is imposed at 15% (prior to 1 April 2018: 14%) on most goods and services supplied by a vendor. Exports are zero-rated and very few exemptions exist.
- Employees are taxed on the value of fringe benefits as determined in accordance with a separate schedule to the Income Tax Act.
- Although group taxation is not applicable, corporate rules provide relief in respect of transactions between group companies and between founding shareholders and their company.
- The South African Revenue Services are empowered to make adjustments to cross-border transactions between related parties that are not conducted on arm's length terms. While no specific thin capitalisation rules apply, the normal arm's length transfer pricing principle applies in respect of loans as well.
- Royalties and similar income are subject to withholding taxes at source, at a rate of 15% (effective 1 January 2015). Royalties paid by headquarter companies are exempt from the withholding tax.

- A 20% withholding tax applies to dividends earned by non-residents and a 20% withholding is also applicable to dividends in specie (where the company declaring the dividends will be liable for the tax).
- A 15% withholding tax on interest paid or payable to non-residents was imposed from 1 March 2015. Notable exclusions include interest paid on so-called portfolio debt capital, i.e. government bonds, listed securities, debts owing by local banks, domestic brokerage accounts, etc., international bank finance and interest paid by a headquarter company.
- Resident individuals are generally subject to personal income tax on their worldwide income irrespective of the source. Non-resident individuals are generally subject to tax on their South African-sourced income only.

A. TAXES PAYABLE

COMPANY TAX

A company is resident in South Africa (SA) if it is incorporated, formed or established in SA or has its place of effective management in SA. Subject to certain limited exemptions, South African resident companies and close corporations (companies) are taxed on their worldwide income. Furthermore, and again subject to certain exemptions, the international 'anti-avoidance' practice of taxing income earned by Controlled Foreign Companies (CFCs) applies to South African residents.

Normal tax is payable by South African companies on their worldwide taxable income at the rate of 28%. The tax is payable by both public and private companies as well as close corporations.

Small business corporations are close corporations and private companies with only natural persons as shareholders, gross income of less than ZAR 20 million during a year of assessment, and where not more than 20% of its gross income consists of investment income or income from the rendering of a personal service. These corporations qualify for taxation at the following rates in respect of the years of assessment ending between 1 April 2019 and 31 March 2020:

Taxable income	Rates of tax
ZAR 0 – ZAR 79,000	Nil
ZAR 79,001 – ZAR 365,000	7% of the amount over ZAR 79,000
ZAR 365,001 – ZAR 550,000	ZAR 20,020 + 21% of the amount over ZAR 365,000
ZAR 550,001 +	ZAR 58,870 + 28% of the amount over ZAR 550,000

Life assurers are taxed according to the four fund approach. The taxable income of what is known as The Individual Policyholder Fund is taxed at 30%. The Company Policyholder Fund and The Corporate Fund are taxed at 28%. Retirement Fund's receipts and accruals are exempt from tax.

Mining companies are, in addition to their specific corporate rates of tax, subject to a royalty calculated on the gross sales relating to the transfer of mineral resources. The royalty is calculated in terms of a specific formula and can range from 0.5% to 7% depending on whether refined or unrefined minerals are transferred.

TRUSTS

South African trusts pay tax at a flat rate of 45% (2017: 41%) on each Rand of taxable income. Notwithstanding the aforementioned, special provisions apply to testamentary trusts (for so long as the beneficiaries remain minors under the age of 18 years) and trusts created for the benefit of mentally or physically challenged persons. These trusts pay tax at rates applicable to resident individuals. Founders and donors of trusts may be taxed on income earned by the trust in terms of certain attribution rules (deeming provisions). The same can apply to beneficiaries of non-resident trusts in certain circumstances.

CAPITAL GAINS TAX

CGT was introduced with effect from 1 October 2001. South African residents are taxed on their worldwide assets while non-residents are only subject to CGT on any direct or indirect interest or right in or to immovable property situated in SA, and assets of a permanent establishment through which they carry on a trade in SA. CGT is triggered on the disposal or deemed disposal of an asset which includes but is not limited to any event, act, forbearance or operation of law that results in the creation, variation, transfer or extinction of an asset.

A noteworthy deemed disposal arises on emigration from SA or termination of SA tax residence (exit charge). CGT not only affects assets purchased and sold after 1 October 2001 but it also affects assets acquired prior to this date and disposed of subsequent to 1 October 2001. In the case of assets acquired prior to 1 October

South Africa

2001 and disposed of subsequent thereto, the gain is calculated based on the growth in value after 1 October 2001 which, of necessity, has resulted in legislation providing for complex alternatives to determine the gain at the time of disposal.

Strictly speaking, CGT is not a separate tax but rather forms an integral part of SA's income tax legislation. In short, subject to any exclusions and exemptions, a taxable gain is calculated by taking the difference between the proceeds received on disposal of the asset and the base cost and then multiplying this amount by an inclusion factor (which varies depending on the nature of the taxpayer). The resultant sum is then added to the taxpayer's normal taxable income and taxed accordingly.

A capital loss results where the base cost exceeds the proceeds on disposal.

Capital losses are however ring-fenced and may not be set off against a taxpayer's taxable income from revenue sources but may be set off against capital gains, with any excess capital losses carried forward for set off against any capital gains arising in subsequent years of assessment. A summary of some of the more relevant inclusion rates and effective rates are set out below:

Nature of taxpayer	Inclusion rate	Maximum tax rate	Effective rate
Company/close corporation	80%	28%	22.4%
Natural person	40%	45%	0% to 18%
Trust	80%	45%	36%

BRANCH PROFITS TAX

Where a branch of a foreign company operates in South Africa, a branch profits tax at the rate of 28% of taxable income applies. There is no branch remittance tax in SA.

DIVIDENDS TAX (DT)

Dividends paid or that become payable by a South African company to a shareholder are subject to a 20% withholding tax. Notable exclusions from the DT are dividends paid to another South African company and dividends paid by headquarter companies. The DT may be reduced for dividends paid to foreign shareholders in terms of any applicable Double Tax Treaty.

VALUE ADDED TAX (VAT)

VAT is imposed on most goods and services supplied by a vendor at 15% (prior to 1 April 2018: 14%). Exports are zero-rated. Very few exemptions exist. Compulsory VAT registration is triggered when the value of taxable supplies in a 12 month period exceeds or is expected to exceed ZAR 1 million. As from 1 April 2014, compulsory VAT registration is triggered when the value of taxable supplies have already exceeded the ZAR 1 million threshold within the preceding 12 months or there is a written contractual commitment to make taxable supplies exceeding ZAR 1 million within the next 12 months.

FRINGE BENEFITS TAX

Employees are taxed on the value of fringe benefits as determined in accordance with a separate schedule to the Income Tax Act. The tax levied is in accordance with the tax rates applicable to natural persons.

DONATIONS TAX

Subject to certain exemptions, donations tax is levied at the rate of 20% on the value of any property disposed of under any donation (or deemed donation) made by a natural person, company, municipality or trust resident for tax purposes in SA.

SECURITIES TRANSFER TAX

With effect from 1 July 2008, securities transfer tax is levied on every transfer of a security. A security in essence is any share in a company, member's interest in a close corporation or any right or entitlement to receive any distribution from a company or close corporation. Only securities issued by companies incorporated, established or formed inside SA and companies incorporated, established or formed outside SA, which are listed on a South African exchange, are taxable. The tax rate is 0.25% and is applied to the taxable amount in respect of any transfer of a security.

TRANSFER DUTY

Transfer duty is imposed on the transfer of immovable property (on or after 1 March 2017) at the following rates:

On the first ZAR 900,000	0%
For ZAR 900,001 to ZAR 1,250,000	3% on the value above ZAR 900,000
For ZAR 1,250,001 to ZAR 1,750,000	ZAR 10,500 + 6% on the value above ZAR 1,250,000
For ZAR 1,750,001 to ZAR 2,250,000	ZAR 40,500 + 8% on the value above ZAR 1,750,000
For ZAR 2,250,001 to ZAR 10,000,000	ZAR 80,500 + 11% on the value above ZAR 2,250,000
For ZAR 10,000,001 and above	ZAR 933,000 + 13% on the value above ZAR 10,000,000

OTHER TAXES

These include, amongst others, customs and excise duties, and skills development levies.

B. DETERMINATION OF TAXABLE INCOME

The taxable income of a company is determined by deducting expenditure incurred in the production of income and other allowable expenses and incentives from the company's income. Capital gains are subject to CGT with effect from 1 October 2001.

Certified Emission Reductions

Income received by a person disposing of credit emission reductions (CERs) emanating from Clean Development Mechanism (CDM) projects as envisaged in the Kyoto Protocol, will be wholly exempt from income tax and capital gains tax. This exemption includes 'in specie' distributions and applies in respect of CERs disposals on or after 11 February 2009. This concession ceases to apply from 1 January 2021. As CERs will, by default, be exported, they will be zero-rated for VAT purposes.

STOCK / INVENTORY

All trading stock on hand at the end of the tax year must be added to income while all trading stock on hand at the beginning of the year ranks as a deduction. Trading stock is valued at the lesser of cost or net realisable value. Consumable stores and work-in-progress on hand constitute trading stock. The LIFO method of valuing trading stock is not permitted in respect of years of assessment commencing on or after 1 July 2000.

RESEARCH AND DEVELOPMENT EXPENDITURE

As from 2 November 2006, specific deductions are allowed for expenditure incurred in respect of qualifying research and development activities. The department of Science and Technology must approve the entire 150% deduction. Only expenditure incurred on or after the date of receipt of the application is eligible for this deduction. Plant and machinery used for research and development qualify to be written off over four years (40:20:20:20). As from 1 January 2015, these assets can be written off over three years (50:30:20). Buildings used for research and development activities qualify for a 5% annual allowance.

INTELLECTUAL PROPERTY

Where the expenditure was incurred before 29 October 1999, the deduction is allowed over the number of years of the duration of use or 4% of the expenditure, whichever is greater.

Where the expenditure was incurred on or after 29 October 1999 and exceeds ZAR 5,000 the annual deduction is limited to:

- 5% of the expenditure in the case of an invention, patent, copyright, knowledge or other property of a similar nature;

South Africa

- 10% of the expenditure in the case of a design or other property of a similar nature.

No allowance is allowed in respect of any expenditure incurred on or after 29 October 1999 in respect of the acquisition of any trademark or property of a similar nature.

INTEREST AND FINANCE CHARGES

Interest incurred in the production of income is a deductible expense. Where the loan or instrument in respect of which interest is incurred complies with certain requirements, such interest is deemed to be incurred on a day-to-day basis. Interest incurred prior to the commencement of trade is deductible in the year in which trade commences. In certain circumstances the interest deduction is limited by means of the application of a complex formula. This is generally the case where interest is paid to a person that is not subject to tax in South Africa or where the interest is due to a reorganisation transaction.

TAX LOSSES

Subject to certain anti-avoidance provisions, company tax losses are carried forward to the following year provided the trading activity is perpetuated and income is derived from that trade. For natural persons, tax losses from secondary trades are ring-fenced in certain circumstances.

There is no carry back of assessed losses to prior years.

INTEREST RECEIVED

Interest received (or accrued) is included in gross income. Where the loan or instrument in respect of which interest is received complies with certain requirements, such interest is deemed to accrue on a day-to-day basis.

FOREIGN SOURCE INCOME

South African resident individuals and corporates are subject to tax in SA on their worldwide income.

However, this general principle may be overridden by the provisions of a double taxation treaty or certain unilateral relief provisions contained in South African tax legislation. A comprehensive set of rules govern the determination of the source of income. Foreign dividends, i.e. dividends paid or payable by a foreign company, in respect of a share in that company are taxable, subject to certain exemptions. The following foreign dividends are fully exempt from tax:

- If the shareholder (whether alone or together with any other company forming part of the same group of companies as that person) holds at least 10% of the total equity shares and voting rights in the company. This is however subject to certain exclusions.
- If the shareholder is a company which is in the same country as the foreign company paying the dividend;
- If the dividend is in respect of foreign shares listed on the Johannesburg Stock Exchange and from 1 March 2014 includes a dividend in specie;
- If the dividend is declared out of net income which has already been taxed in SA in terms of the legislation regulating the taxation of CFCs, in the hands of the shareholder. Certain limitations apply in respect of this exemption.

Foreign dividends that are not fully exempt from tax are exempt in part based on a specified formula, the effect of which is that the foreign dividend will be subject to an effective 20% tax.

TAX INCENTIVES

The Department of Trade and Industry provides an additional industrial investment allowance for qualifying industrial assets and projects. No tax holiday scheme is in force.

Regional headquarter company and investment fund regimes

A headquarter company regime applies from years of assessment commencing on or after 1 January 2011. Qualifying criteria for a headquarter company are:

- For the duration of the year of assessment each shareholder of the headquarter company must have held at least 10% of the headquarter company's equity shares and voting rights;
- Where the company in question was dormant for a part of the year of assessment in which the qualifying 10% shareholding stands to be determined, the shareholding during the dormant part of the year must be ignored;
- At the end of the year of assessment and all previous years of assessment of that company, 80% or more of the cost of the total assets of the company was attributable to one or more of the following:

- any interest in equity shares in;
- any amount loaned or advanced to;
- any intellectual property that is licensed by the company to any foreign company in which that company (whether alone or together with any other company forming part of the same group of companies as that company) held at least 10% of the equity shares and voting rights (qualifying investments);
- where the foreign company in question is dormant, the 80% of the cost of its total assets requirement should be ignored for that part of the year of assessment or previous years of assessment during which it was dormant);
- for years of assessment commencing 1 January 2013, no regard need be had to any year of assessment in which the company had assets with total market value of ZAR 50,000 or less.
- Where the gross income of that company for that year of assessment exceeds ZAR 5 million, 50% or more of that gross income consisted of amounts in the form of one or both of the following:
 - any rental, dividend, interest, royalty or fee paid or payable by any foreign company that constitutes a qualifying investment; or
 - any proceeds from the disposal of any interest in a foreign company or in intellectual property licensed to a foreign company that constitutes a qualifying investment; and
- The company elects to be classified as a headquarter company.

The SA tax implications of qualifying as a headquarter company are:

- The company is resident in SA for normal tax purposes but is excluded from the definition of a resident for purposes of the corporate roll over rules.
- Dividends declared are not subject to Dividends Tax.
- Dividends received from a headquarter company do not enjoy the general local dividend exemption and are treated as foreign dividends, subject to the foreign dividend taxation rules.
- The disposal of shares by the headquarter company in foreign companies could qualify for CGT exemption in SA in terms of the participation exemption rule.
- No application of transfer pricing rules for back to back cross-border loans to foreign companies that constitute qualifying investments.
- No application of transfer pricing rules for back to back licensing of intellectual property (losses as result of back to back licensing will however be ring-fenced).
- Exemption from the pending withholding tax on interest in respect of back to back loans.
- Exemption from withholding tax on royalties in respect of back to back royalties paid to a foreign shareholder (applicable from 1 January 2015).
- Exemption from securities transfer tax.

A regional investment fund regime also applies from years of assessment commencing on or after 1 January 2011. Qualifying foreign investors will be regarded as passive investors with no exposure to South African tax because of the use of a South African portfolio manager.

C. FOREIGN TAX RELIEF

Tax credits are granted in respect of foreign taxes paid on foreign sourced income in accordance with unilateral provisions contained in the Income Tax Act and numerous Double Tax Treaties. Where income is sourced in SA, no foreign tax credit will be allowed but a deduction of the foreign taxes suffered is likely to be allowed.

D. CORPORATE GROUPS

Group taxation is not applicable. However, corporate rules exist which provide relief in respect of transactions between group companies and between founding shareholders and their company. The relief provisions deal with the following transactions:

- Asset-for-share transactions;
- Intra-group transactions;
- Unbundling transactions;

South Africa

- Transactions relating to liquidation, winding-up or deregistration;
- Amalgamation transactions.

Briefly, the corporate rules provide for the following tax relief in respect of the abovementioned transactions, provided certain requirements are met:

- CGT;
- STC (until 31 March 2012);
- Dividends tax (effective from 1 April 2012);
- Securities transfer tax;
- Income tax, specifically with respect to capital allowances claimed, recovery of capital allowances and the transfer of trading stock;
- Transfer duty;
- VAT.

The corporate rules have been expanded to include most inbound and foreign-to-foreign restructuring transactions that fall within the list of transactions set out above. These rules are complex. However, for the most part they require that the transactions be effected within a group of companies and that only built in capital gains assets would qualify for the roll over relief.

E. RELATED PARTY TRANSACTIONS

The Commissioner for the South African Revenue Services is empowered to make adjustments to cross-border transactions between connected persons that are not conducted on arm's length terms. While no specific thin capitalisation rules apply, the normal arm's length transfer pricing principle applies in respect of loans as well. There are also limitations on certain deductions and allowances on transactions between connected parties.

For years of assessment commencing on or after 1 October 2016, entities which enter into cross border transactions with connected persons, and the value of the transactions exceed or are reasonably expected to exceed ZAR 100 million are required to maintain transfer pricing policy documentation. Where the value of a specific transaction exceeds ZAR 5 million, detailed records of the transaction must be maintained.

For years of assessment commencing on or after 1 January 2016, the ultimate parent company of a multinational enterprise (MNE) group that is tax resident in South Africa will be required to file a country-by-country report to the South African Revenue Service. The threshold for reporting is a consolidated turnover of at least ZAR 10 billion in the fiscal year prior to the year in which the report must be submitted. The first report was due for filing from 31 December 2017. However, an extension was granted to 28 February 2018.

F. WITHHOLDING TAX

Royalty and similar income are subject to withholding taxes at source. The applicable rate increased from 12% to 15% on 1 January 2015. As from 1 July 2013, royalties paid by headquarter companies are exempt from the withholding tax.

A 20% withholding tax on dividends earned by non-residents applies from 1 April 2012. Dividends in specie will be subject to the 20% tax but the company declaring the dividends will be liable for the tax.

A 15% withholding tax on interest paid or payable to non-residents applies from 1 March 2015. Notable exclusions include interest paid on so-called portfolio debt capital, i.e. government bonds, listed securities, debts owing by local banks, domestic brokerage accounts, etc., international bank finance and interest paid by a headquarter company.

There is no withholding tax on cross border consultancy, management and technical fees from a South African source.

G. EXCHANGE CONTROL

Subject to certain limited exclusions, South African residents are subject to exchange controls. Exchange controls have been relaxed somewhat in recent years. Non-residents are excluded from the ambit of exchange controls.

H. PERSONAL TAX

As a result of the change from a source-based system of taxation to a resident-basis of taxation, SA resident individuals are subject to tax on their worldwide income irrespective of the source of the income, except for certain exclusions. Non-resident individuals, subject to certain exclusions, are subject to tax on their SA-sourced income only. A natural person will be regarded as a resident for tax purposes if he is ordinarily resident in SA or where the person is not ordinarily resident in South Africa but spends more than a certain number of days in SA (the physical presence test).

The income tax rates applicable to natural persons for the tax year ending 29 February 2020 are:

ZAR 0 – ZAR 195,850	18% of each ZAR 1
ZAR 195,851 – ZAR 305,850	ZAR 35,253 + 26% of the amount over ZAR 195,850
ZAR 305,851 – ZAR 423,300	ZAR 63,853 + 31% of the amount over ZAR 305,850
ZAR 423,301 – ZAR 555,600	ZAR 100,263 + 36% of the amount over ZAR 423,300
ZAR 555,601 – ZAR 708,310	ZAR 147,891 + 39% of the amount over ZAR 555,600
ZAR 708 311 – ZAR 1,500,000	ZAR 207,448 + 41% of the amount over ZAR 708,310
ZAR 1,500,001 +	ZAR 532,041 + 45% of the amount over ZAR 1,500,000

In respect of the 2020 year of assessment, the first ZAR 23,800 (2013: ZAR 22,800) of local interest earned is exempt from tax for individuals younger than 65 years and the first ZAR 34,500 (2013: ZAR 33,000) for individuals aged 65 years or older.

As from 1 March 2015, natural persons can invest in approved saving instruments, subject to a lifetime investment limit of ZAR 500,000 and an annual investment limit of ZAR 33,000 (2017: 30,000) with the resulting returns which include interest, dividends and capital gains being fully exempt from tax. Where the investment limits are exceeded a 40% penalty will apply to excess amounts invested.

Deductions available to salaried employees and directors are restricted to the following:

- Bad debt allowance;
- Doubtful debts allowance;

DEEMED EXPENSES

Labour brokers and personal service providers are regarded as employees. A labour broker is a natural person who, for reward, provides a client with other persons to render a service for the client or procures such other persons for the client and remunerates such person. A personal service provider is a company or trust where any service rendered on behalf of the entity to its client is rendered personally by any person who is a connected person in relation to such entity and certain provisions are met.

A labour broker who is not in possession of an exemption certificate will be subject to employees' tax at the rate applicable to individual taxpayers. A personal service provider will be subject to employees' tax at a rate of 28% in the case of a company and 45% in the case of a trust.

Deductions available to deemed employees are limited to remuneration for services rendered, contributions to pension and provident funds, legal expenses, bad debts, rent, finance charges, insurance, repairs and maintenance and fuel, incurred wholly and exclusively for trade.

I. TREATY AND NON-TREATY WITHHOLDING TAX RATES

Withholding tax rates for dividends, royalties and interest (from 1 March 2015) paid to non-residents from SA are set out in the table below. The rates below assume a South African domestic withholding tax rate of 15% as it applies in respect of interest and royalties paid to non-residents from 1 January 2015. For the purposes of dividends the assumed South African domestic withholding tax rate is 20% as it applies to dividends paid on or after 22 February 2017. For the rates as they would have applied in respect of royalties and dividends paid to non-residents prior to 1 January 2015 and 22 February 2017 respectively, please refer to earlier versions of this guide.

KEY TAX POINTS

- Corporate Income Tax: Domestic corporations are taxed on their worldwide income, whereas foreign corporations are taxed only on their Korean-source income. The corporate income tax rates vary from 11% (including local income tax) to 27.5% (including local income tax) depending on the level of total taxable income for the year.
- Value Added Tax: VAT is imposed at a rate of 10% on supplies of goods and services. However, zero-rated VAT or exemption is applied to certain supply of goods and services.
- Individual Income Tax: Any person domiciled in Korea or having resided in Korea for 183 days or longer is subject to individual income tax on his/her worldwide income (i.e. Korean-sourced income and foreign-sourced income). Individuals are taxed at progressive rates from 6.6% (including local income tax) to 46.2% (including local income tax) depending on their total taxable income for the year.
- Withholding Tax: Taxes are required to be withheld at rates ranging from 2.2% to 22%, from certain cross-border payments made to non-resident individuals or corporations without a permanent establishment in Korea, unless exempted or reduced under a relevant double tax treaty.

A. TAXES PAYABLE

TAX LAWS AND REGULATIONS

Taxes in Korea are comprised of national and local taxes. While national taxes, imposed by the central government, are divided into internal taxes and customs duties, local taxes are imposed by three-tier local authorities – province, city and county. Internal taxes consist of direct taxes (individual income tax, corporate income tax, inheritance and gift tax and comprehensive real estate tax), indirect taxes (VAT, individual consumption tax, liquor tax, stamp tax and securities transaction tax) and three earmarked taxes (transportation, energy and environment tax (or TEE tax), education tax and agriculture and fishery community special tax).

Presidential Decrees can be formulated by the executive branch of the Korean legal system in order to enforce the tax laws. The Minister of Strategy and Finance also formulates Ministerial Decrees to enforce the Presidential Decree and to publish rulings and authoritative interpretations of the laws. In addition to the Presidential and Ministerial Decrees, the Commissioner of the National Tax Service (NTS) may issue administrative orders and rules to ensure consistent application of the laws. The courts have the final authority in interpreting the tax laws. In this regard, taxpayers are not generally bound by such interpretations by the tax authorities, except for advance rulings.

CORPORATE INCOME TAX

Corporate income tax is imposed by the central government under Corporate Income Tax Law ("CITL"). There are two classifications of corporate taxpayers in Korea, i.e. Domestic Company vs. Foreign Company and Profit-making Corporation vs. Non-profit Corporation. For tax purposes, if a company has its head office or principal place of business in Korea or the place of effective management is located in Korea, the company is deemed to be a domestic company. While a domestic company is liable for taxes on its worldwide income, a foreign company is taxed on Korean-sourced income only.

Corporate income tax rates are as follows:

Taxable income (Tax base)	Tax rates (including local income tax)
Under KRW 200 million	11%
From KRW 200 million to KRW 20 billion	KRW 22 million + 22% in excess of KRW 200 million
From KRW 20 billion to KRW 300 billion	KRW 4.378 billion + 24.2% in excess of KRW 20 billion
In excess of KRW 300 billion	KRW 72.138 billion + 27.5% in excess of KRW 300 billion

Corporate taxpayers are liable for the alternative minimum tax before certain tax deductions and tax credits:

- For small and medium-sized companies: 7%(*) of taxable income (before tax incentives); and
- For other corporations: 10%() on taxable income (before tax incentives) up to KRW 10 billion, 12%() of taxable income exceeding KRW 10 billion but up to KRW 100 billion and 17%(*) of taxable income exceeding KRW 100 billion.

(*) Local income tax rate (i.e. 10% of corporate income tax rate) which will increase the total tax rate is not taken into account.

VALUE ADDED TAX (VAT)

VAT is a broad base consumption tax aimed at taxing the end consumers of the goods and services. If an entity or person engages in supplies of goods or services independently in the course of carrying on business, such supplies of goods or services attract VAT. Furthermore, supplies of goods or services for business purposes are VAT chargeable, regardless of whether the business aim is to make profit.

VAT taxpayers include individuals, corporations, national and local governments, associations of local authorities, any bodies of persons, and unincorporated organisations.

VAT taxpayers must file a quarterly VAT return to declare output VAT and input VAT. After filing the VAT return, VAT taxpayers will pay or receive the net VAT payable or refundable, amounting to the difference between the output VAT and the input VAT. VAT is also imposed on imported goods.

The standard VAT rate is 10%. The export of goods and the provision of certain cross-border services are zero-rated. However, zero-rated VAT is applied to certain supplies of goods and services (e.g. exports of goods and provision of eligible services to non-resident customers or clients) and an exemption is applied to certain supplies of goods and services (e.g. basic life necessities, finance and insurance services and duty-exempt goods).

Electronic VAT invoicing is required pursuant to the VAT law. If a taxpayer fails to issue the electronic VAT invoice or to report electronically to the tax authority, the relevant penalty tax shall be levied

B. DETERMINATION OF TAXABLE INCOME

The tax base of corporate income tax is defined as revenue minus expenses incurred in the operation of the business. Expenses can be deducted for tax purposes if they are incurred wholly and exclusively for producing income, unless specifically disallowed or restricted under appropriate tax laws and regulations (e.g. entertainment expenses exceeding the prescribed limits, non-business expenses, excessive or unreasonable expenses, penalties, fines, losses on valuation, etc.).

TRADING STOCK / INVENTORY

Securities can be valued using either the weighted average cost method or the moving average cost method. Also, a taxpayer can choose the individual cost method for the valuation of bonds.

A corporation may elect one of the following methods for inventory valuation and submit a report on its valuation method by the due date. The method elected is required to be applied consistently every year unless an application for change has been submitted three months before year-end at the latest.

1. Cost method:
 - a) Individual cost method;
 - b) First-in first-out method (FIFO);
 - c) Last-in first-out method (LIFO);
 - d) Weighted average cost method;
 - e) Moving average cost method;
 - f) Gross profit method.
2. Lower of cost or market price (LCM).

CAPITAL GAINS AND LOSSES

Capital gains derived by a company are regarded as assessable income that should be included in the calculation of its tax base for corporate income tax purposes, unless such capital gains are derived from capital transactions such as capital surplus or gains on reduction of paid-in capital.

However, a company's disposals of non-business purpose land or houses attract an additional corporate income tax at the rate of 10% (or 40% in case of non-registered land or houses) on top of the regular corporate income tax attributed to the capital gain already included in the tax base. Therefore, such capital gains are taxed twice under the CITL in Korea.

DIVIDENDS

Dividends paid by domestic companies in Korea are taxed at the level of the corporate recipient. However, to avoid double taxation on the dividend income earned by the corporate recipient, the prescribed portion of such dividend income is excluded from the calculation of the tax base of the corporate recipient. For instance, in case of a holding company established in accordance with Anti-trust and Fair Trade Law, its dividend income paid by its subsidiaries is not taxable to the extent of the exclusion ratio specified under CITL. Likewise, a corporation other than a holding company is not taxed on dividends paid by its subsidiaries up to the prescribed exclusion ratio under CITL.

Foreign-sourced dividends received by a domestic entity in Korea are also subject to corporate income tax. In order to avoid double taxation on the foreign-sourced dividend income, taxes imposed by foreign governments on such foreign-sourced dividends are allowed as a foreign tax credit up to the foreign tax credit limit or as tax deductible expense in computing the taxable income.

INTEREST DEDUCTIONS

Interest expenses incurred in the ordinary course of business are tax deductible. However, interest expenses are not deductible if such expenses are incurred in respect of non-business activities, etc.

Limiting Base Erosion Involving Interest Deductions

- Debt-based interest deduction limitation ("Thin Capitalisation Rules")

Where a domestic corporation borrows funds from its foreign controlling shareholder, or from a third party under a payment guarantee provided by its foreign controlling shareholder (including the offer of a collateral etc. for the guarantee of payment), and such borrowing exceeds twice (or six times for financial institutions) the share capital contributed by the relevant foreign controlling shareholder to the domestic corporation, the portion of total interest paid and discount on the borrowing that corresponds to the excess amount over the foregoing threshold shall not be tax deductible and is re-characterised into a deemed dividend paid to the foreign controlling shareholder or a deemed other outflow paid to the third party. The domestic corporation would furthermore be required to adjust the withholding tax which has already been withheld at the time of the payment of interest income to the foreign controlling shareholder or the third party in such a way that the above is taken into account.

- Income-Based interest deduction limitation (“Income Base Rules”)

From the fiscal year which commences at 1 January 2019 and thereafter, if the net interest expense on funds borrowed by a domestic corporation from its foreign related parties exceeds 30% of the adjusted gross income, the excess amount shall not be tax deductible and is re-characterised into a deemed other outflow. Net interest expense can be calculated as interest paid and discount on the borrowing from the foreign related parties less the amount of interest income received from the foreign related parties. Adjusted gross income is the income before depreciation and the net interest expense referred to above.

- Interest deduction limitation in relation to Hybrid Financial Instrument Transactions (“Hybrid Financial Instrument Transaction Rules”)

From the fiscal year which commences at 1 January 2018 and thereafter, interest paid and discount on the borrowing of a domestic corporation in relation to transactions involving prescribed hybrid financial instruments with a foreign related party are not tax deductible if the foreign related party treats the interest received (including the discount) as dividend income that is either 1) not included as taxable income or 2) taxable only up to less than 10% of the dividend income, according to the laws and rules of the jurisdiction in which the foreign related party is located, within the end of the fiscal year commencing within 12 months from the end of the fiscal year in which the domestic corporation bears the interest and the discount. The non-deductible interest and discount according to the Hybrid Financial Instrument Transaction Rules would be re-characterised into a deemed other outflow.

Where both Thin Capitalisation Rules and Income Base Rules can be applicable, the one with larger non-deductible expenses shall be applied. If the amounts calculated according to both rules are the same, Thin Capitalisation Rules shall apply. Thin Capitalisation Rules and Income Base Rules shall take precedence over Hybrid Financial Instrument Transaction Rules.

LOSSES

Deductions denote expenses or outgoings that decrease the net assets of a corporate taxpayer, except for return of capital and appropriation of surplus or unless otherwise stipulated under the CITL. In this respect, a loss for tax purposes is considered to be the deduction in excess of taxable revenue. Unutilised tax losses can be carried forward for up to 10 years. However, as from 2016 a company can only deduct the loss carry-forward up to 80% (70% for a fiscal year starting in the year 2018 and 60% for a fiscal year starting in the year 2019 and thereafter) of its tax base for a particular year under the CITL, except for small and medium-sized enterprises and certain qualifying companies under recovery process, etc.

FOREIGN SOURCE INCOME

As domestic corporations are subject to corporation tax on a worldwide basis, their foreign source income is also taxable. The tax treatment of foreign income is generally the same as for Korean-sourced income.

TAX INCENTIVES

Various tax incentives aimed at achieving specific national economic objectives have been provided under domestic tax law. For example, Special Tax Treatment Control Law provides various tax incentives to stimulate R&D activities including a tax credit for research and manpower development expenses and a tax credit for investment in facilities for technology and human resources development. A domestic company may be liable for the alternative minimum tax (see higher under “CORPORATE INCOME TAX”) before certain tax deductions and tax credits, subject to certain exceptions.

C. FOREIGN TAX CREDIT

Where a domestic corporation pays or is liable to pay income tax abroad, the amount of tax paid or payable abroad is allowed as a tax credit against corporate income tax up to an amount equivalent to the ratio of the foreign sourced income to total worldwide taxable income, or as tax deductible expenses in computing the taxable income. If the foreign tax paid or payable for a fiscal year exceeds the prescribed foreign tax credit limit, the excess of the tax credit may be carried forward for up to 5 years.

An indirect foreign tax credit is also available. Foreign taxes paid by a qualifying subsidiary may be creditable against corporate income tax payable by a parent company, attributable to its dividend income. In this regard, a qualifying subsidiary means a corporation the shares of which are owned for 25% or more by a domestic corporation for more than six consecutive months prior to the date of dividend declaration.

D. CORPORATE GROUPS

As from tax year 2010 a consolidated tax return system is in effect, the scope of which is limited to parent-subsidary companies with 100% ownership, subject to certain technical exceptions that only allow a 5% deviation. Sister companies may join a group indirectly through a common parent company. Under the consolidated tax regime, the parent company pays corporate tax for the group, and the subsidiaries pay their share of corporate tax to the parent company. Companies in a group assume the tax liability jointly and severally. Tax consolidation can only be elected once every 5 years.

E. RELATED PARTY TRANSACTIONS

Pursuant to the Law for Coordination of International Tax Affairs (the "LCITA") and its regulations in Korea, foreign related party transactions must meet the arm's length principle. When a price charged between related parties is not at arm's length and the Korean tax authorities therefore consider that the corporate income tax is unreasonably reduced, they could recalculate the corporation's taxable income using what is considered to be an arm's length price or margin.

The LCITA regulates transfer pricing issues surrounding cross-border transactions with foreign related parties. Cross-border transactions are defined under the LCITA as transactions where one party or both parties are foreign entities. Therefore, if a domestic company enters into any transaction with its foreign related parties, the transaction would be subject to transfer pricing regulations in Korea. The Korean transfer pricing rules generally follow the OECD guideline whereby the price for transactions between related parties should be determined at arm's length. Therefore, if the domestic company does not recognize arm's length revenue or expenses in relation to the transactions with its foreign related parties, the transfer pricing rules would be triggered to force the domestic company to recognize the arm's length income or expenses.

Similarly, under the CITL, the tax authorities may also reject the transaction of a company with its specially-related party if the transaction price is higher or lower than the market price, and may assess tax on the basis of the market price ("Principle of Rejecting Unfair Transaction"). Under the CITL, in case of a transaction price continuously used in arm's length transactions with third parties (other than with specially-related parties) or a transaction price generally used in transactions between unrelated parties, then such transaction price can be treated as the market price. If the market price cannot be determined based on the foregoing method, however, the market price can be determined by an appraisal price (excluding shares) or the value calculated according to the method stipulated in the Inheritance and Gift Tax Law of Korea.

F. WITHHOLDING TAX

Corporate income tax

A person paying interest income and distribution of profit from securities investment trusts to a domestic company is required to withhold the corporate income tax on such income at the rate of 14% (15.4% including local income tax). Regarding the interest from a non-commercial loan, the withholding tax rate is 25% (27.5% including local income tax).

Individual income tax

A person paying interest, dividends, business income, salary income, pension income, retirement income or other income to a resident is required to withhold the individual income tax on such income.

For the reference, interest income except the interest from non-commercial loans or excess refund from a workplace mutual-aid association and dividend income except dividend of joint investment business operators are subject to withholding tax at the rate of 14% (15.4% including local income tax).

G. PERSONAL INCOME TAX

Any person domiciled in Korea or having resided in Korea for 183 days or longer is subject to individual income tax on his/her worldwide income, i.e. both Korean-sourced income and foreign-sourced income.

Resident individuals are subject to the following progressive tax rates based on their taxable base. Various personal reliefs are available to resident individuals.

Individual income can be classified into global income, capital gains and severance pay under the Income Tax Law. Each of them is subject to tax under a unique tax calculation structure. Global income includes interests, dividends, business income, wages and salaries, pension income and other income.

Basic individual income tax rates are as follows:

Tax base of global income (KRW)	Tax Rates (including local income tax) (KRW)
12 million or less	6.6% of tax base
12 million - 46 million	0.792 million + 16.5% of the amount exceeding 12 million
46 million - 88 million	6.402 million + 26.4% of the amount exceeding 46 million
88 million - 150 million	17.49 million + 38.5% of the amount exceeding 88 million
150 million - 300 million	41.36 million + 41.8% of the amount exceeding 150 million
300 million - 500 million	104.06 million + 44% of the amount exceeding 300 million
In excess of 500 million	192.06 million + 46.2% of the amount exceeding 500 million

A Korean citizen is considered a tax resident in Korea if he or she normally resides in Korea. Korean public officials working overseas and directors and personnel dispatched to foreign affiliates of a Korean resident employer are deemed tax residents in Korea.

A foreigner is considered a resident in Korea for tax purposes, if he or she resides in or undertakes employment in Korea for 183 days or more during the year. A foreigner can opt for a flat tax rate of 20.9% (including local income tax) on Korean-sourced earned income without claiming a tax deduction for 5 years from the year of his or her first employment in Korea, provided that he or she commences his or her employment in Korea by 31 December 2021.

H. TAXATION OF NON-RESIDENTS

Corporate Income Tax

Resident corporations are taxed on their worldwide income, whereas non-resident corporations are taxed only to the extent of their Korean-sourced income. Non-resident corporations without a permanent establishment in Korea are generally subject to a withholding tax on Korean-sourced income.

	Resident corporation	Non-resident corporation
Definition	A corporation having its head office or principal office, or a place of effective management in Korea	Any corporation not regarded as a resident corporation
Taxable place	Head or principal office or a place of effective management	Permanent establishment or place of income source
Tax liability	Worldwide income	Korean-sourced income
Methods of taxation	Global taxation	Global taxation (In case of having a permanent establishment in Korea) Withholding tax (In case of having no permanent establishment in Korea)

Individual Income Tax

A non-resident individual is liable for tax on income derived from sources within Korea. Two methods of taxation are applied: global taxation and separate withholding taxation. Global taxation is applied to non-resident taxpayers who have a place of business in Korea or those with income from real estate located in Korea (excluding capital gains from the transfer of land, buildings or certain securities). All domestic source income is subject to global taxation, except for severance pay and capital gains, all of which are taxed in the same manner as if they would be earned by a resident. Withholding taxation is applied to each domestic item of income of non-residents who do not have a place of business in Korea and do not have income from real estate located in Korea.

	Resident individual	Non-resident individual
Definition	Residence or domicile in Korea for more than 183 days	Any person not deemed a resident
Taxable place	Residence or domicile	Place of business (fixed base) or place of income source
Tax liability	Worldwide income	Korean-sourced income
Methods of taxation	Global taxation Scheduled taxation for capital gains and retirement income Withholding taxation	Global taxation (in case of having a fixed base in Korea) Scheduled taxation for capital gains and retirement income Withholding taxation

Withholding Tax Rates

Withholding tax rates for non-resident corporations without a permanent establishment in Korea and non-resident individuals without a place of business in Korea are as follows:

Items of income	Tax rates (including local income tax) (*)
Interest	22% (15.4% in case of interest on bonds)
Dividends	22%
Lease Income	2.2%
Business Income	2.2%
Independent Personal Services	22% (3.3% in case of income deemed accrued in Korea under a tax treaty)
Capital Gains Income	Lesser of 11% of sales price or 22% of capital gains
Royalties	22%
Capital Gains from Securities Transaction	Lesser of 11% of sales price or 22% of capital gains
Other Income	22%

* If there is a tax treaty between Korea and the country of a non-resident, the reduced tax rate stipulated in the applicable treaty applies to such income derived by the non-resident.

I. TREATY AND NON-TREATY WITHHOLDING TAX RATES

Taxes are required to be withheld at applicable rates, ranging from 2.2% to 22%, from certain cross-border payments made to non-resident individuals or corporations without a permanent establishment in Korea, unless exempted or reduced under the relevant tax treaty.

As of the end of December 2018, Korea has entered into bilateral tax treaties with 93 countries globally. The chart below shows the withholding tax rates applicable under the Korea tax treaties that are currently in force. The applicable domestic withholding tax rate will apply if such a rate is lower than the reduced rate under the tax treaty or if there is no tax treaty. There are various reduced rates under the tax treaty applicable to residents of the following tax treaty countries. As for dividends, interest, and royalties, set out below are the reduced tax rates under applicable tax treaties.

A. TAXES PAYABLE

COMPANY TAX

A company, partnership or other entity that is established in South Sudan or has its place of effective management in South Sudan is a resident. Resident companies are liable for tax on their worldwide income while non-resident companies are liable for tax on their South Sudan-sourced income only.

For corporate income tax purposes, companies are classified into three categories on the basis of their gross annual turnover: small, medium-sized and large. The 2014/2015 Finance Act revised the gross annual turnover limits as follows:

- Entities with a turnover of less than SSP 1 million are small;
- Entities with a turnover between SSP 1 million and SSP 30 million are medium-sized;
- Entities with a turnover of over SSP 30 million are large.

Small companies are subject to corporate income tax at a rate of 10%, medium-sized companies at a rate of 20% and large companies at a rate of 25%. The tax year is the calendar year unless the tax authorities approve a different tax year.

Type of Business	Tax Rate
Small Business Enterprise (SSP 0 to 1,000,000 annual gross turnover)	10%
Medium Business Enterprises (SSP 1,000,001 to 30,000,000)	20%
Large Business Enterprises (SSP 30,000,001 and above)	25%

All imports are charged advance income tax at the rates of 2% for food items and 4% for non-food items.

CAPITAL GAINS TAX

Capital gains are deemed as business income subject to the abovementioned applicable corporate tax rate.

BRANCH PROFITS TAX

Branches are subject to the same corporate rates as resident companies (10%, 20% and 25%). There is no branch remittance tax in South Sudan.

SALES TAX

Sales tax applies to the import of goods into South Sudan, production of goods in South Sudan and provision of hospitality services in hotels, bars and restaurants at a rate of 20% as from 2017 at the level of small, medium sized and large companies. Manufacturers and service providers are required to file a VAT return and pay the tax due not later than the 15th day of every month for the tax collected in the prior month.

STAMP DUTY

There are no stamp duty provisions.

REAL PROPERTY TAX

There is no legislation, although, in practice, rates vary by locality.

EXCISE TAX

Taxpayers are subject to Excise Duty at the rate of 5% (e.g. mineral water) to 300% (e.g. alcohol) depending on the type of excisable goods and services stipulated by the Taxation Act. Other examples of goods that attract excise duty are: fruit juices, soft drinks, cigars, cigarettes, petroleum products, motor vehicles and transport services, etc.

TAX INCENTIVES

Various incentives are available for foreign investors on a case-by-case basis including concessions for machinery and equipment in qualified investment priority areas, capital and deductible annual allowances, certain depreciations and access to land for investment.

B. DETERMINATION OF TAXABLE INCOME

Taxable income generally comprises worldwide income for resident companies and business profits derived from South Sudan by non-resident companies less expenditure incurred wholly and exclusively in the production of the income for the year. Certain expenses are specifically disallowed like e.g. the cost of acquisition and/or improvement of land, cost of acquisition, improvement, renewal and reconstruction of assets that are depreciated or amortised, corporate income tax and fines and penalties.

DEPRECIATION

Depreciation rates for tangible assets are as follows:

- Buildings and other structures: 10% (straight-line method);
- Vehicles, office equipment and computers: 33% (reducing balance method);
- Any other property: 25% (reducing balance method).

CAPITAL ALLOWANCES

Allowances are granted for certain capital expenditure, e.g. initial allowance on plant and machinery (50% or 75% depending on the development of the area), start-up and development costs (25% or 40% depending on the development of the area), scientific and research expenditure (100%), etc.

In addition to the aforementioned capital allowances, investments in priority sectors enjoy annual allowances ranging from 8% (intangible assets) to 40% (Class 4 depreciable assets like railroad cars, locomotives and equipment, vessels, tugs and similar water transportation equipment, air craft, specialised public utility plant, equipment and machinery, office furniture, fixtures and equipment, etc.).

DIVIDENDS

Dividends that have been subjected to final withholding tax are exempt from corporate income tax. Domestic dividends are subject to a 10% final withholding tax.

INTEREST DEDUCTIONS

There are no thin capitalisation rules in South Sudan.

LOSSES

Business losses may be carried forward and set off against taxable income for up to five successive years. Losses cannot be carried back.

FOREIGN SOURCE INCOME

South Sudan operates a worldwide system of taxation on the basis of which the income of a resident company includes all economic benefits regardless of their source.

C. FOREIGN TAX RELIEF

A resident taxpayer generating profit from business activities outside South Sudan through a permanent establishment and paying foreign tax on such income is entitled to a foreign tax credit, provided the other country allows a similar treatment for tax paid in South Sudan. The foreign tax is creditable for the year in which the income is taxable in South Sudan. The foreign tax credit is the foreign tax or the South Sudan tax applied to the part of the foreign-sourced income liable for tax in South Sudan, whichever is less. The credit is limited on a country-by-country basis.

D. CORPORATE GROUPS

There is no legislation on the consolidation of accounts for companies within a group.

E. RELATED PARTY TRANSACTIONS

Transfer pricing

The arm's length principle applies to all transactions between related parties. The difference between the arm's length price and the transfer price needs to be included in the taxable profit. The preferred method for determining the arm's length price is the comparable uncontrolled price method and where it is not possible to use this method, the resale price method or the cost-plus method may be used. Advance price agreements (APAs) cannot be negotiated with the tax authorities.

Controlled Foreign Companies (CFC)

There are no CFC rules in South Sudan,

F. WITHHOLDING TAX

Dividends, interest and royalties paid by a South Sudan resident company to a non-resident company are subject to a 10% final withholding tax on the gross amount. With effect from 20 December 2016, technical fees (i.e. fees paid for technical, managerial and consultancy services performed in South Sudan) paid to non-resident companies without a permanent establishment in South Sudan are subject to a 15% final withholding tax for amounts exceeding SSP 10,000. Rent and contract payments by government institutions (GRSS) to non-resident companies are subject to a 20% final withholding tax rate.

Up to SSP 600	0%
SSP 601 – SSP 5,000	10%
SSP 5,001 and above	15%

A. TAXES PAYABLE

FEDERAL TAXES AND LEVIES COMPANY TAX

Spanish resident companies are liable to corporation tax on all sources of income and capital gains, wherever arising. A company is treated as resident in Spain if it is incorporated in Spain, has its registered office in Spain or its effective management is in Spain. A non-resident company is taxed on income and gains of a branch carrying on a trade in Spain.

Trading profits, other income and capital gains are liable to corporation tax at the rate of 25%. Special tax rates are chargeable on portfolio investment funds (1%), on mutual insurance societies (25%), on co-operatives (except for capital gains) (20%), and on non-profit institutions (10%). For companies established after 1 January 2015, the applicable tax rate for the first profitable period and the following will be 15%.

The Spanish tax year is the calendar year but companies can establish a different tax year. The main condition is that the tax year must not exceed 12 months. Corporation tax is due for payment 6 months and

Spain

25 days after the financial year-end (on 25 July 2019, for example, for the year ended 31 December 2018). The tax return must be filed by the same date. There are two systems for advance payments:

- (1) Payments are calculated as 18% of the previous year's tax liability. The payments are due on 20 April, 20 October and 20 December.
- (2) Payments are based on the forecasted taxable income of the period as follows:

General rate for companies with an annual turnover lower than EUR 10 million is 17%. For companies with an annual turnover higher than EUR 10 million, the general rate is 24%. Additionally, for companies with an annual turnover higher than EUR 20 million, the minimum payment is the 23% of the accounting result after taxes, less the advance payments of the period. Three payments due on:

- 20 April: Taxable income of the period January - March less withholdings.
- 20 October: Taxable income of the period January - September less withholdings and advance payment of 20 April.
- 20 December: Taxable income of the period January - November less withholdings and advance payments of 20 April and 20 October.

The second system is mandatory for companies whose annual turnover exceeds EUR 6,010,121.

CAPITAL GAINS

Capital gains are taxed as ordinary income. Foreign-sourced capital gains are fully liable to Spanish corporate income tax with a credit for any foreign taxes payable, although such gains can be exempt under the terms of a double tax treaty.

Personal income tax

The personal income tax rate for capital gains as a result of the sale of wealth goods is 19%. Capital losses realised on the sale of goods may be offset against capital gains and saving incomes (with a limit of 25% from 2018) or carried forward for four years to offset against capital gains realised in subsequent years.

The losses not generated from the disposal of any wealth good may be set off against up to 25% of ordinary income and the remainder may be carried forward for up to four years to be offset against future capital gains realised on the sale of assets.

BRANCH PROFITS TAX

Foreign branch profits of a Spanish company will be liable to Spanish tax.

VALUE ADDED TAX (VAT)

VAT is levied on the supply of taxable goods and services. The normal VAT rate is 21%. There is a reduced rate of 10% and a super-reduced rate of 4% on certain basic goods and services. A zero rate exists for exports and international services provided to EU and non-EU countries.

FRINGE BENEFITS TAX (FBT)

There is no fringe benefits tax in Spain.

LOCAL TAXES

The main local taxes comprise: transfer tax, economic activity tax (trade licenses), property tax, tax on the increase of the value of urban land, tax on motor vehicles, tax on construction, planning permission and opening licenses for each business premises.

OTHER TAXES

The transfer of real estate is generally subject to VAT at 21%. This is reduced to 10% for private residential property and to 4% in the case of some housing. If the transferor is not within the VAT system, transfer tax at 6% is applicable. Transfer tax is also payable on the transfer of movable property. The rate is 4% of the value. The Spanish autonomous regions are allowed to modify the transfer tax rate and to set their own rates (e.g. the tax rate for real estate properties is 10% in Catalonia and 6% in Madrid).

B. DETERMINATION OF TAXABLE INCOME

Trading profits are calculated for tax purposes in accordance with financial accounts but adjusted for the main items as follows.

DEPRECIATION

Depreciation can be deducted on a straight-line basis, reducing-balance basis (in the case of new tangible assets with a life of more than three years) or on an individual basis (if approved by the tax authorities). The Ministry of Finance issues guidelines on the maximum straight-line rates as follows:

Asset	Rate (%)
Motor vehicles	16
Office equipment	10
Industrial buildings and hotels	3
Office and shop buildings	2
Machinery	12
Computer equipment	25
Software	33

Land cannot be depreciated.

STOCK

Stock and work in progress are valued at the lower of cost or market value. FIFO and average cost methods are acceptable.

CAPITAL GAINS AND LOSSES

As discussed above, capital gains and losses are included in the overall taxable profits of companies.

DIVIDENDS

Dividends paid are subject to a 19% withholding tax when paid to residents. Dividends paid to EEC residents are subject to a 19% withholding tax rate while dividends paid to non-EEC residents are subject to a 24% withholding tax rate. The withholding tax rate may be reduced under the relevant double tax treaties. Dividends received by certain companies (EU parent companies) are not subject to withholding tax if the holding is more than 5% and has been held for more than 12 months. All withholding tax suffered may be credited against the recipient company's corporate income tax liability.

INTEREST DEDUCTIONS

Interest is normally deductible on an accruals basis. Withholding tax of 19% is generally deductible from interest paid although this may be reduced or eliminated by a double tax treaty. Interest paid to certain companies (EU companies) is not subject to withholding tax. Since 2012 there are certain limits to some financial expenses deductions.

LOSSES

As from 1 January 2015 there is no time limit to carry forward tax losses with future profits. The loss carry forward is normally not restricted by a change in the ownership of a company's shares. As from 2016 companies can only offset part of their positive tax basis with previous year's tax losses. The general rate of losses that can be compensated is limited to 70% as from 2017. Stricter rates apply to big companies:

- Companies with an annual turnover between EUR 20 million and 60 million are only allowed to compensate 50% of the positive tax basis.
- Companies with an annual turnover exceeding EUR 60 million are only allowed to compensate 25% of the positive tax basis.

However, there exists a deductible minimum amount of EUR 1,000,000.

FOREIGN SOURCED INCOME

Under the International Fiscal Transparency regime, Spanish resident companies can be subject to tax on profits earned by certain non-EU resident subsidiaries in which they have a more than 50% interest. These rules apply to passive income earned by the subsidiary and taxed at a rate less than 75% than it would have been taxed at if it had been earned by the Spanish resident company.

INCENTIVES

A credit against tax payable may be taken for 25% of research and development expenses. Where the expenses exceed the average amount incurred in the preceding two years, a credit equal to 42% is available on the amount exceeding the average amount. In addition there is a credit against tax payable of 12% of the cost of technological innovation of existing products. Industrial development banks and companies and venture capital companies and funds are subject to special tax regimes.

C. FOREIGN TAX RELIEF

Foreign taxes may be credited against Spanish corporation tax regardless of whether a double tax treaty exists with the foreign country. There is no system of global foreign tax credits. Under certain circumstances, profits arising in permanent establishments of Spanish companies may be exempt from Spanish tax if they have suffered a similar tax overseas. Foreign tax credits are not available for the underlying taxes which the foreign company pays on the profits.

D. CORPORATE GROUPS

Permission may be obtained from the tax authorities to consolidate the results of a group of companies for corporate income tax purposes. The group must be headed by a company which directly or indirectly owns more than 75% of its subsidiaries. All subsidiaries must be Spanish resident companies. The result of consolidation is that all income, gains and losses of the group are brought together for tax purposes.

E. RELATED PARTY TRANSACTIONS

For tax purposes, transactions between related companies will be treated as if they had been made at arm's length prices. In certain cases (if certain thresholds are exceeded), the companies must disclose related party transactions made during the year in a separate informative form (form 232).

F. WITHHOLDING TAX

Withholding taxes paid to Spanish resident companies must generally be deducted from dividends, from interest at 19% and from royalties at 24%. A 0% rate applies to royalties paid to associated EU resident companies. There are also withholding taxes due on technical assistance fees and management fees payable to non-residents. All types of interest paid to EU resident companies (excluding Cyprus holding companies) are exempt.

G. EXCHANGE CONTROLS

In principle, all direct investments into Spain require previous verification by the Dirección General del Tesoro y Política Financiera (DGTFP). Outward direct investments also require approval by the DGTFP.

H. PERSONAL TAX

Individual residents are liable to Personal Income Tax (IRPF) in respect of their worldwide income. Non-residents are liable to IRPF only on their Spanish-sourced income. An individual is deemed to be resident for tax purposes if:

- (i) He or she stays in Spain for more than 183 days in any calendar year;
- (ii) His or her centre of vital interests is in Spain;
- (iii) His or her spouse and minor dependent children qualify as residents of Spain. Fringe benefits in cash or kind constitute employment income. Ordinary gains and losses are treated as ordinary income.

All businessmen and self-employed professionals are required to file quarterly returns and make advance payments by 20 April, 20 July and 20 October of the current year and 30 January of the next year on account of final income tax liability for the current year. All resident employees and self-employed individuals must register and pay monthly contributions to the Spanish social security system. The general rate of the employee's general social security contributions is 6.35% and the employer's contribution is 30.15%.

The current tax rates for taxpayers are as follows:

Tax basis (EUR)	2019 tax rate
Up to 12,450	19%
From 12,450 to 20,200	24%

From 20,200 to 35,200	30%
From 35,200 to 60,000	37%
From 60,000	45%

The current tax rates for savings income are as follows:

Tax basis (EUR)	2019 tax rate
Up to 6,000	19%
From 6,000 to 50,000	21%
From 50,000	23%

The autonomous governments can establish different taxation rates. Usually when earned income is less than EUR 22,000 the individual is not obliged to prepare a tax return.

Until 31 December 2018, resident individuals were subject to net wealth tax in respect of their worldwide assets. However, as from 1 January 2019 the tax has been eliminated. The tax could be reinstated by the Spanish tax authorities in the future.

Inheritance tax is also levied on the recipient of property passing by way of gift or death. The inheritance tax rate can be charged at progressive rates, from 0% to 34% from father to son, and increased rates in other cases. The different autonomous governments can establish different reductions. The rate is determined with reference to the total value of assets gifted to each beneficiary.

Notes:

- Under domestic law implementing the provisions of the EU Parent-Subsidiary Directive, dividends paid to qualifying parent companies in other EU Member States are exempt from withholding tax. To qualify as a parent, a company must hold a direct participation of at least 5% or its acquisition value must be higher than EUR 20 million in the capital of the subsidiary for a continuous period of at least 1 year prior to the declaration of the dividends. If dividends are declared before the participation has been held for a year, there is no exemption from withholding tax, but the parent may apply for a refund if it meets this condition later. However, the exemption from Spanish withholding tax does not apply (i) where the parent is resident in any of the listed tax havens (within the European Union this only applies to Gibraltar) and (ii) where the ultimate parent of the company to which the dividend is paid is resident outside the European Union, i.e. where the majority of the voting rights in the EU parent company is directly or indirectly held by individuals or companies not resident in any EU Member State, unless it can be established that the constitution and operations of the parent company are based on valid economic reasons and substantial business motives.

Reduced withholding tax rates on dividends (qualifying companies) are also available under the treaties with non-EU member states, subject to certain conditions and participations.

- The withholding tax rate on Spanish-source interest is 19% on the gross amount while the following types of interest paid to non-residents are exempt: (i) interest on bank deposits (ii) interest on all types of government bonds (iii) interest on securities issued in Spain by certain international organisations, e.g. the European Investment Bank. The EU Interest and Royalties Directive precludes any taxation on interest payments to associated EU companies.
- The withholding tax rate on Spanish-source royalties in general, including film royalties, is 24% on the gross amount. However, for EU and EEA residents the applicable rate is 19% on the gross amount. The EU Interest and Royalties Directive precludes any taxation on royalty payments to associated EU companies. Thus, royalty payments by Spanish companies are not subject to withholding tax, provided that the recipient is an associated company of the paying company and is resident in another EU Member State. Two companies are associated companies if (i) one of them holds directly at least 25% of the capital of the other or (ii) a third EU company holds directly at least 25% of the capital of the two companies. In both cases, a continuous minimum holding period of 1 year is required. This exemption will not apply where the ultimate parent of the company to which the royalty is paid is resident outside the European Union, i.e. where the majority of the voting rights in the EU parent company is directly or indirectly held by individuals or companies not resident in any EU Member State, unless it can be established that the constitution and operations of the parent company are based on valid economic reasons and substantial business motives.
- Effective date: 1 January 2019 (income taxes).
- Spain has agreed to honour the tax treaty concluded between Spain and the former USSR with respect to the CIS member states. The treaty is still applicable to Belarus, Kyrgyzstan, Tajikistan, Turkmenistan and the Ukraine.

KEY TAX POINTS

- Corporate tax is levied on the worldwide income of companies resident in Sweden and also on profits which arise from activities carried out in Sweden through a branch or an agency.
- In general, output VAT is levied on all domestic sales, but not on export or EU sales.
- Stamp duty of 4.25% is levied on real property, 1.5% if the buyer is an individual.
- Dividends received from other Swedish companies are exempt from tax if the dividends derive from business-related holdings.
- Controlled foreign corporation (CFC) legislation exists to ensure that profits originating from low tax jurisdictions are included in the controlling Swedish company's taxable income.
- Double taxation is generally relieved by providing credits for the foreign tax paid. However, some older Double Taxation Conventions exempt foreign income from Swedish tax if it is taxed abroad.
- Transactions at a non-arm's length price are covered by transfer pricing rules, which allow the tax authorities to make an adjustment to impose arm's length prices where profits have been shifted to a company not subject to Swedish tax.
- There are no withholding taxes on interest, royalties and rent paid from Sweden to non-residents. Dividends paid to a non-resident shareholder are subject to a 30% withholding tax that may be reduced by Double Taxation Conventions.
- Under certain circumstances, dividends paid to a non-resident company are tax exempt provided that the receiving company has held 10% or more of the voting power in the distributing company for 12 months and the receiving company is taxed in the country where it is resident.
- Residents must pay tax on their worldwide income and capital gains. Non-residents are subject to tax only on income from sources in Sweden.
- Capital gains derived by a company are taxed as part of its normal business income although there are special rules for the disposal of shares. Gains on the disposal of shares in resident and non-resident companies are exempt from tax if they constitute a business-related holding. This generally applies to unquoted shares and also to quoted shares held for at least the year prior to the date of disposal and which represent at least 10% of the company's voting rights or considered necessary for the business conducted by the shareholding company or any of its affiliates.

A. TAXES PAYABLE

COMPANY TAX

Corporate tax is levied on the worldwide income of companies resident in Sweden and also on profits which arise from activities carried out in Sweden through a branch or an agency. A company is resident for tax purposes when it is registered in Sweden. Royalties received from Swedish licensees are taxable in Sweden as income from a permanent establishment situated in Sweden. Where a treaty exists, the right to tax may be waived or limited. Since 2004 Sweden has adopted Directive 2003/49/EC on a common system of taxation applicable to interest and royalty payments made between associated companies of different Member States.

In accordance with the Directive, royalty payments shall be exempt from withholding tax provided that the beneficial owner is a company or a permanent establishment in another Member State and the payor and payee are associated (one holds 25% or more of the capital of the other or a third company holds 25% or more of both companies). The corporate tax rate is 21.4% for fiscal years starting 1 January 2019 or later. The fiscal year depends on the company's financial year. A split financial year may end on the last day of any month during the calendar year. The assessment year follows the applicable financial year and is for a twelve month period. Permission from the tax authorities is needed to change from a calendar year to a split financial year or from a split financial year to another split financial year. Tax returns are filed annually and should be submitted within six months of the end of the tax year.

BRANCH PROFITS TAX

A branch's taxable trading profits and capital gains are calculated on the same basis as for Swedish resident companies.

VALUE ADDED TAX (VAT)

In general, output VAT is levied on all domestic sales but not on export or EU sales. The general rate of VAT for goods and services in Sweden is 25% of the assessed value. Certain goods and services are exempt from tax or taxed at a lower rate. A 12% rate applies to the sale of foodstuffs, restaurant, catering and hotel accommodation.

A 6% rate applies to newspapers and periodicals, transport of passengers and concert tickets. Returns for input and output VAT need to be settled each month or quarter with the Swedish tax authorities. However, for companies with a turnover not exceeding SEK 1 million VAT may be reported in an annual VAT return.

FRINGE BENEFITS TAX

There is no specific FBT.

SOCIAL SECURITY CONTRIBUTIONS

Employers are liable to pay social security contributions relating to salaries and benefits paid to their employees. The social security fees levied for national social security is 31.42%. For individuals born between 1938 - 1953 the rate is 16.36% and for those born 1937 or earlier the rate is 6.15%. Employers also should pay social security fees at a rate of 24.26% on pension costs.

LOCAL TAXES

There are no local taxes imposed on companies.

OTHER TAXES

Stamp duty of 4.25% is levied on real property and 1.5% if the buyer is an individual. A stamp duty is also levied on mortgage loans at a rate of 0.4%, 1% or 2% of the principal amount of the loan where secured on businesses, aircraft, immovable property or ships.

B. DETERMINATION OF TAXABLE INCOME

Corporate taxable income is primarily based on the financial accounts. The net profit for the year is adjusted for certain tax-related items. The taxable income of a company is determined using the accruals basis of accounting. Taxable income is based on worldwide income less allowable deductions. Generally, to be deductible, expenditure must be incurred for the purposes of the business. For flow-through entities such as partnerships and limited partnerships, taxable income is determined in a similar way as for corporations. The difference is that they are not taxable persons. Hence, the income is taxed at the partner/owner level. Companies can make provisions to a tax allocation reserve (periodiseringsfond) of up to 25% of taxable income. The provision must be dissolved (added to income) after six years at the latest.

DEPRECIATION

Short-life Items

Equipment and machinery with a value of less than SEK 23,250 or with an expected economic life of three years or less may be fully depreciated in the year of acquisition.

Machinery and equipment

- (1) Depreciation of up to 30% per annum of the book value at the end of the year may be deducted.
- (2) An alternative rule allows a straight-line depreciation of 20% per annum if this results in a lower book value in any year.
- (3) If the taxpayer can prove that the real value of machinery and equipment is lower than that derived under both the above depreciation methods, depreciation resulting in the real value may be used instead.

Intangible assets

Intangible assets are depreciated in the same way as machinery and equipment, see above. However, it is not necessary to use the same method for all assets, i.e. machinery and equipment may be depreciated with 30% and the intangible assets with 20%.

Buildings

Depreciation is allowed on an annual straight-line basis calculated on the acquisition cost at the rates of 2% to 5%. This method is independent of the depreciation made in the financial accounts.

STOCK / INVENTORY

Stock and work in progress is valued at the lower of acquisition cost or market value on a FIFO basis. However, stock may be valued at 97% of its aggregate acquisition value, excluding real property, debt claim and securities.

CAPITAL GAINS AND LOSSES

Capital gains derived by a company are taxed as part of its normal business income although there are special rules for the disposal of shares. Gains on the disposal of shares in resident and non-resident companies are exempt from tax if they constitute a business-related holding. This generally applies to unquoted shares and to quoted shares held for at least the year prior to the date of disposal and which represent at least 10% of the company's voting rights or considered necessary for the business conducted by the shareholding company or any of its affiliates.

DIVIDENDS

Dividends received from other Swedish companies are exempt from tax if the dividends derive from business-related holdings (using the same definition as above).

INTEREST DEDUCTIONS

Interest is normally deductible on an accruals basis rather than a paid basis as far as companies are concerned. There are no specific thin capitalisation rules but interest paid between affiliated companies must be at an arm's length rate. There are certain restrictions on tax deductions for interest payments on intra-group loans for acquisition of shares.

LOSSES

Losses can be carried forward indefinitely, provided there is continuity of ownership. Losses arising on the disposal of portfolio shares may only be offset against gains arising on the disposal of similar shares. Portfolio shares are those where the shareholder has not held 10% of the voting power in the company concerned for the requisite 12-month period.

FOREIGN SOURCE INCOME

Controlled foreign company rules apply such that some corporate shareholders of foreign legal entities with low-taxed income are taxed on their share of the income as normal Swedish business income. The rules apply where the shareholder has a direct or indirect interest in at least 25% of the capital of voting rights in the foreign legal entity. The net income of a foreign legal entity is considered low taxed if it is not taxed at all or taxed at a rate lower than 55% of the Swedish tax rate (11.8% in 2019).

There are extensive exceptions for foreign legal entities that are domiciled in, and with income from, jurisdictions on the so-called 'white list', although certain types of income received by entities in those jurisdictions are excluded. From 1 January 2008, an exemption from these rules applies to income from a controlled foreign entity that is resident within the EEA if the shareholder can prove that the foreign entity is established in the other country for business reasons and is engaged in real economic activities.

TAX INCENTIVES

There are no particular tax incentives for companies operating in under-developed areas. However, companies acting in certain thinly populated areas will be charged reduced social security tax.

C. FOREIGN TAX RELIEF

Double taxation is generally relieved by providing credits for the foreign tax paid. However, some older Double Taxation Conventions exempt foreign income from Swedish tax if it is taxed abroad. Costs related to exempt income cannot be deducted. If international double taxation cannot be avoided by credit or exemption, the taxpayer may deduct the foreign tax as a cost or carry forward any surplus credit for five years. Many Swedish Double Taxation Conventions include rules about tax sparing (matching credit). These rules can be used when investing in developing countries.

D. CORPORATE GROUPS

Consolidated tax returns cannot be filed in Sweden. However, profits may be transferred between the entities in a Swedish group of companies by group contributions. Group contributions are deductible by the contributing company and taxable income of the receiving company. The main requirements for group contributions are:

- (a) The companies must be registered in the EU and taxed in Sweden and none of them must be an investment company. Due to discrimination rules, group contributions between Swedish companies are accepted even if a foreign group company holds one of the Swedish companies. Group contributions between a foreign branch in Sweden and a Swedish company are also accepted due to discrimination rules.
- (b) The parent company must hold – directly or indirectly – more than 90% of the shares in the group company for the entire fiscal year. If the operation in a company starts during the fiscal year, the parent company must have held the shares from the time when the operation started.

From 1 July 2010, a Swedish resident company may deduct a group contribution paid to its subsidiary which is resident in another EU Member State, provided the parent company holds at least 90% of the shares of the foreign subsidiary and the subsidiary has been dissolved through liquidation. The deductible amount cannot, however, exceed the lower of (i) the amount of the loss of the subsidiary in its final period and (ii) the loss of the subsidiary in the previous year (i.e. the year before liquidation) calculated under the tax rules in both countries in question.

E. RELATED PARTY TRANSACTIONS

Transactions at a non-arm's length price are subject to transfer pricing rules which allow the tax authorities to make an adjustment to impose arm's length prices. Assets may be transferred between Swedish companies without any tax consequences provided that group contributions between the companies are possible. Interest paid between affiliated companies must be at an arm's length rate if group contribution rules are not applicable.

F. WITHHOLDING TAX

There are no withholding taxes on interest, royalties and rent paid from Sweden to a receiver abroad (although see the commentary in A. above regarding the deeming of royalty payments by Swedish licensees as income derived from a permanent establishment). Dividends paid to a non-resident shareholder are subject to a 30% withholding tax that may be reduced by Double Taxation Conventions.

Dividends to a company resident within the EU holding 10% or more of the voting power in the distributing company are exempt from withholding tax. Dividends to a company resident in a non-EU-country are also tax-exempt provided that the shares constitute fixed business assets of the receiving company which has held 10% or more of the voting power in the distributing company for 12 months and is taxed in the country where it is resident.

G. EXCHANGE CONTROL

There is no exchange control in Sweden.

H. PERSONAL TAX

Swedish residents are subject to tax on their worldwide income and capital gains. Taxable income includes all remuneration received from employers, whether in cash or in kind, such as free food, free accommodation, company cars etc. Pensions, unemployment benefits etc. are also included in the taxable income. It is permissible to deduct certain costs from the income, e.g. travelling costs between work and home up to a maximum amount set annually. A foreign national will be liable to tax if he is regarded as resident in Sweden, which will be if he has an essential connection to Sweden, is present in Sweden for a period of more than 183 days or has his principal home in Sweden during the tax year.

Individuals pay both national income tax and municipal income tax. In 2018 taxable income of less than SEK 468,700 will be subject to municipal tax only. The municipal income tax is imposed at a flat rate which varies from region to region (32.19% average; 29.82% in Stockholm), in addition to this, a church rate of about 1% should be paid; for an individual who is not a member of a church the rate is lower. For taxable income exceeding SEK 504,400 there is also a national income tax calculated at a rate of 20% on income up to SEK 703,000.

On taxable income exceeding this amount the rate is 25%. Taxable income is reduced by a tax allowance of between SEK 13,700 and SEK 35,900 depending on the income. Individuals over 65 year of age are entitled to a higher tax allowance. Since 2007 there is also a general tax reduction linked to income from active work.

Non-residents are subject to tax only on income from sources in Sweden. Employment income is taxed at a flat rate of 25%. Capital income is taxed separately from income from employment at a rate of 30% and is not subject to municipal income tax. Capital income is comprised of interest, gains from the sale of capital assets, gains from the sale of real estate, dividends etc. Interest expenses and capital losses can be set off against capital income. 30% of the net capital loss up to SEK 100,000 can be set off against tax on income from employment. 21% of any excess above SEK 100,000 can be utilised in this way.

I. TREATY AND NON-TREATY WITHHOLDING TAX RATES

Sweden has concluded approximately 100 multilateral or bilateral Double Taxation Conventions with other States. These conventions are often renegotiated which means that the withholding tax rates frequently change. A withholding tax rate in a convention where Sweden is one of the parties may also change because of a change in a convention concluded by third parties due to a most-favoured nation provision. Therefore, it is important to consult the relevant treaty to check the withholding tax rates listed in the table below.

KEY TAX POINTS

- In Switzerland, taxes are governed by federal law and 26 different cantonal tax laws.
- Corporate income tax is payable by Swiss resident companies on corporate net profit.
- Foreign branch income of a Swiss corporation is exempt from Swiss taxation.
- Capital gains on real estate (if a part of business assets) for direct federal tax and several cantonal tax purposes are aggregated with and taxed as part of ordinary income.
- VAT is charged on the domestic delivery of goods and rendering of services and a tax on the importation of goods and services into Switzerland. The standard VAT rate is 7.7% (as of 2018). Special lower rates (2.5% or 3.7%) apply (as of 2018) to various services and goods, subject to some exemptions.
- Dividends paid from Swiss capital companies to Swiss residents and non-residents are subject to 35% withholding tax. Shareholders resident abroad may obtain relief under the appropriate double taxation treaty.
- There is no federal withholding tax on interest or royalties (some exceptions apply).
- Deemed distributions may arise to the extent that prices between related parties exceed those on at arm's length terms. Withholding tax may be applied to the deemed distributions.
- A Swiss resident individual is subject to Swiss federal, cantonal and communal taxes on his worldwide income and net wealth, with the exception of income from investments in foreign permanent establishments and real estate situated abroad. Basically, foreigners are regarded as residents from the date of registration.
- Net wealth taxes, inheritance and gift taxes are levied by most cantons, but they are not levied at federal level.

A. TAXES PAYABLE

FEDERAL AND CANTONAL TAXES AND LEVIES

Taxes are governed in Switzerland by federal law and 26 different cantonal tax laws. The cantonal tax laws were harmonised with effect from 1993. Tax declaration procedures and the determination of the taxable income in the various cantons are similar and in line with the federal law. However, the cantons do set their own tax rates. The presence of different tax legislation means that the fiscal burden on a Swiss company depends not only on the size of its income and assets but, to a considerable degree, also on the location of its registered office, its business objects and the nature of its operations. Taxation may vary significantly from one canton to another. In general, the cantonal laws are flexible and include tax privileges for special purpose companies, e.g. holding companies (it is expected that as a reaction to BEPS, Swiss privileged tax regimes will be abolished in 2020/2021).

CORPORATE TAX

Corporate income tax is payable by Swiss resident companies on corporate net profit (i.e. on the profit after taxes). Exceptions to this rule may be found in some cantons where a special tax on capital gains realised on the sale of immovable property may be levied (cf. "key tax points"). Income of Swiss resident companies from business operations, permanent establishments and immovable property situated abroad is exempt from income tax but included in calculating progressive corporate income tax rates. Each resident taxpayer has to file an annual tax return. As a rule, non-resident taxpayers have to file tax returns only if they maintain a permanent establishment or own immovable property in Switzerland including gains on the sale of such property and on income from debts secured by real estate situated in Switzerland.

Cantonal income tax rates are predominantly flat rates. Some cantons use graduated rates. The federal income tax is 8.5% (statutory tax rate applicable on taxable income after taxes, effective tax rate is 7.83%). Effective ordinary corporate tax rates on income vary significantly from one canton to another (from approximately 12% up to a maximum of approximately 24% in 2018. An annual capital tax is due at the cantonal and communal level on taxable capital which is usually at least the value of paid in share capital. The effective ordinary capital tax rates vary from 0.01% to 0.52% depending on the canton of residence. Reduced rates are usually applicable for special purpose companies.

There are a number of special purpose companies in Switzerland, i.e. domiciliary and holding companies. Domiciliary companies only have administrative activities in Switzerland and are exclusively engaged in international business. Companies qualifying for domiciliary status are completely exempt from cantonal tax on dividend income and on capital gains from qualifying participation. Other Swiss-sourced income is taxed at ordinary income tax rates whereas profits from trading outside are usually also subject to tax at reduced rates. Swiss federal tax does not provide for any particular relief for domiciliary companies (it is expected that as a reaction to BEPS, Swiss privileged tax regimes will be abolished in 2020/2021).

Holding companies are exempt from cantonal and communal corporate income tax and are often also subject to capital tax at reduced rates. Holding companies may own real estate in Switzerland. However, as an exception, any income or capital gains generated from such real estate is subject to ordinary taxation. Federal income tax is levied at ordinary corporate income tax rates (it is expected that as a reaction to the BEPS Swiss privileged tax regimes will be abolished in 2020/2021).

Corporate tax reforms (CTR III) / Tax Proposal 17 / “TRAF”- Brief Summary

The third series of corporate tax reforms was meant to abolish the reduced taxation of holding, domiciliary and mixed companies. This taxation is no longer in line with international standards. To prevent a loss of competitiveness for Switzerland, internationally accepted tax relief measures were to be introduced. In doing so, the focus was on the promotion of innovations. The Confederation also wanted to support the in profit tax reductions envisaged by the cantons.

A referendum was held on the reform. Opponents expected significant losses of tax receipts. They feared that the people would be required to pay for these losses. The reform was rejected by 59.1% of the voters and the cantons on 12 February 2017. The Federal Council started the consultation process on 6 September 2017 by releasing its draft suggestion for the Tax Proposal 17 as a reaction to the rejected CTR III. This suggestion was based on the parameters published in June 2017 by the Confederation and is also strongly influenced by CTR III – but in a slimmed-down version. The Tax Proposal 17 has been later extended by particular AHV-measures and Parliament passed the Federal Act on Tax Reform and AHV Financing (“TRAF”) on 28 September 2018. The aim of the proposal is to create an internationally compliant, competitive tax system for companies and to help secure AHV pensions. A referendum was called against the Federal Act on Tax Reform and AHV Financing. The public vote will take place on 19 May 2019. Consequently, entry into force of the new legislation is expected no earlier than 2020.

CAPITAL GAINS TAX

Capital gains on real estate (if a part of “business assets”) for direct federal tax and several cantonal tax purposes are aggregated with and taxed as part of ordinary income. In other cantons, recaptured depreciation is taxed with ordinary income, while the realised increase in value is subject to a special real estate gains tax. The capital gains on real estate which is a part of “non-business assets” of an individual is always subject to a special real estate gains tax.

Capital gains realised on the sale of investments are (partially) tax exempt, provided:

- (1) The sales price exceeds the (historical) acquisition costs of the investment;
- (2) The securities sold amount to at least 10% of the sold company's share capital or entitle the purchaser to at least 10% of the profit or reserves of the sold company;
- (3) The investment was held for a period of at least one year.

BRANCH PROFITS TAX

Foreign branch income of a Swiss corporation is exempt from Swiss taxation. Swiss branches of foreign companies are assessed on the profit and capital attributable to the branch. For income tax purposes branches of foreign companies are treated basically the same way as local corporations. In the context of the bill on tax reform and AHV financing (“TRAF”), the Federal Tax Administration does no longer apply the federal practices concerning principal companies and Swiss finance branches to new companies from 2019 (so called privileged tax regimes on the federal level). It is expected that Swiss privileged tax regimes will be abolished in 2020/2021 also on the cantonal level (subject to the public vote to be held on 19 May 2019 regarding the TRAF).

VALUE ADDED TAX (VAT)

VAT is charged on the domestic delivery of goods and rendering of services and a tax on the importation of goods and services into Switzerland. The standard VAT rate is 7.7% as from 2018. Special lower rates (2.5% or 3.7%) apply for various services and goods as from 2018. In addition, various exemptions exist.

LOCAL TAXES

The municipalities levy income taxes, mostly in the form of annually determined surcharges on the cantonal taxes. The tax rates may differ from one community to another.

PROPERTY TAXES

Some cantons levy a tax just on the holding of real estate. The tax rates and how this tax is calculated vary from canton to canton.

CHURCH TAX

Almost all cantons levy a church tax for registered members of one of the respective official religious affiliations. The determination of the religious affiliation is part of a registration process with the municipal authorities. Individuals without religious denomination or members of other than the official Swiss churches (e.g. Muslims, Jews, Anglo-Saxon church members) are not subject to cantonal church tax.

SOCIAL SECURITY

If an individual is subject to the Swiss social security the following social security contributions are payable on gross salaries:

Insurance	Contribution rate		Cap (CHF)
	Employer (%)	Employee (%)
Old age, survivors' and disability insurance	5.125	5.125	No cap
Unemployment insurance	1.1	1.1	148,200
Supplementary unemployment insurance	0.5	0.5	Above 148,200
Family Compensation Fund	1 to 3	0	No cap
Occupational accident insurance	0.17 to 13.5	0	148,200
Non-occupational accident insurance	0	1 to 4	148,200
Occupational pension scheme	Depending on pension plan, employer specific	Depending on pension plan, employer specific
Medical insurance		Depending on coverage, private insurance

All social security taxes (except for the medical insurance) are the employer's responsibility. The employer must withhold and remit the total deduction and deducts the employee's share from his gross pay. If the individual is self-employed, they basically have to cover the employer's and the employee's share, however different contribution rates may be applicable.

ISSUANCE STAMP DUTY TAX

The issuance and increase of the nominal capital of the following securities are generally subject to issuance Stamp Duty tax:

	Rate (%)
Shares of Swiss corporations	1*
Quotas of Swiss private limited companies	1*
Shares in Swiss co-operative societies	1*

* 0% up to a paid-in capital of CHF 1,000,000.

Further, capital contributions made by shareholders and credited to reserves (capital surplus) are subject to 1% issuances Stamp Duty tax. Since 1 March 2012 issuance Stamp Duty tax is no longer due on the issuance of debentures and money market papers.

SECURITIES TRANSFER STAMP DUTY TAX

The transfer of taxable deeds (securities, debentures) is generally subject to securities transfer Stamp Duty tax if a Swiss securities dealer is involved. The tax rate is 0.15% for Swiss taxable deeds and 0.3% for foreign taxable deeds. Various exemptions exist. Except from Swiss banks and brokers, capital companies with taxable deeds of more than CHF 10 million in their balance sheet qualify as a Swiss securities dealer with regard to Stamp Duty law.

RADIO AND TV FEE

From 1 January 2019 the new device-independent fee will be collected from households and undertakings. It replaces the current device-dependent fee, which was terminated at the end of 2018. In Switzerland, undertakings which are subject to VAT (with registered office, domicile or permanent establishment in Switzerland) and have a global turnover of CHF 500,000 or more are automatically subject to the radio and television fee. These companies will automatically receive an annual bill from the Federal Tax Administration FTA.

B. DETERMINATION OF TAXABLE INCOME

The starting point for determining taxable income of corporate entities is the net income reported as per the statutory accounts. This means all types of income, including capital gains, are part of the taxable income. The reported profit may be adjusted for tax purposes by adding back e.g. expenses that are not commercially justified such as excessive depreciation and provisions, hidden profit distributions and costs in connection with the purchase or improvement of fixed assets.

DEPRECIATION

Depreciation of tangible and intangible assets is allowed where 'commercially justified' and recorded in the books. For tax purposes, both the straight-line and the declining balance methods may be used. The use of one method should be constant over the years and should only be changed if absolutely necessary. Safe haven rates have been published by the federal tax authorities, which are considered commercially justified.

STOCK / INVENTORY

Inventories must be carried at the lower of cost or market value. Cost is generally determined using the FIFO or average method. As a concession, a reserve against stock contingencies may be set up in the books. If this reserve does not exceed one-third of the lower of cost or market value of the inventory at the balance sheet date, it will be admitted by all tax authorities without enquiry.

CAPITAL GAINS AND LOSSES

See discussion above. As a rule, capital gains realised by corporations are not taxed separately but are added to any other income in the year of realisation and taxed at ordinary tax rates. Exceptions may apply to capital gains realised on the disposal of immovable property. The sale of an investment of at least 20% in another company's share capital by a Swiss company to a foreign or Swiss group company may, under certain circumstances, be made at either book value (tax-exempt restructuring) or fair market value. The sale of an investment of less than 20% in another company's share capital to a foreign affiliated entity or to a Swiss company regardless of the investment may only be completed at fair market value.

Capital gains realised by a foreign shareholder on the sale of a Swiss subsidiary company are not subject to Swiss taxation, except for the sale of Swiss real estate companies, which would be considered as a direct sale of the Swiss properties owned by such companies.

DIVIDENDS

Dividends received are classified as business income but federal law and all cantonal laws allow a relief of taxes payable if the shareholding company owns more than 10% of the share capital or is entitled to at least 10% of the profit or reserves of the dividend distributing company or if the investment has a fair market value of more than CHF 1 million (qualifying investment). If the recipient of a dividend is a holding company (it is expected that as a reaction to BEPS, Swiss privileged tax regimes will be abolished in 2020/2021), dividend income is exempt from corporate income taxes at cantonal and communal level. Dividends paid from Swiss capital companies to Swiss residents and non-residents are subject to 35% Swiss withholding tax. Shareholders resident in Switzerland may apply for the notification procedure under certain circumstances or can reclaim the withholding tax. Shareholders resident abroad may obtain relief under the appropriate double taxation treaty or the tax savings agreement between Switzerland and the EU.

INTEREST DEDUCTIONS

A company may generally deduct all interest paid or accrued during a business year, although loan arrangements between related parties must be made on an arm's length basis. If the funds raised by interest bearing loans are loaned-on to affiliates, an interest spread of one-quarter to one-half per cent is basically required for the Swiss company if lending and on-lending are made in the same currency. Safe haven rates are published annually by the Swiss Federal Tax Administration for loans from and to affiliates.

Thin capitalisation rules apply to reduce the deduction available where the interest relates to monies borrowed from related parties. The Swiss Federal Tax Administration has issued thin capitalisation guidelines in a Circular Letter ("Kreisschreiben"). In general, any interest paid on loans from related parties that are classified as hidden equity are treated as hidden profit distributions, i.e. may be added back to taxable income and be subject to withholding tax. The excessive portion of the loan, reclassified as equity, may be subject to capital tax.

LOSSES

A limited loss carry forward mechanism is available (for seven years) for federal and cantonal income taxes (there is an unlimited use of loss carry forward in certain recapitalisation scenarios "Sanierung"). Swiss tax law provides neither for loss carry back nor for the consolidation of profitable and unprofitable group companies.

FOREIGN SOURCED INCOME

Switzerland has no controlled foreign company legislation and a foreign company may be treated as a conduit only in instances where it is used for tax avoidance purposes. All income reported by a Swiss company is, in principle, subject to Swiss federal, cantonal and communal taxes (exception see e.g. domiciliary companies).

INCENTIVES

Tax incentives are granted on a case-by-case basis and their extent and duration largely depend on the size of the investment and the importance attributed to the economic development of the canton or region concerned by the cantonal and federal governments. Such an incentive may be either relief or exemption from income and annual capital tax for up to ten years. Provisions for future expenses relating to research and development payable to third parties are tax deductible up to a maximum of 10% of the net profit, with a ceiling of CHF 1 million.

Under certain conditions, companies are allowed to set up a tax privileged 'recession reserve' up to an amount of 20% of the company's annual gross salaries paid. The amounts are deductible for federal, cantonal and communal tax purposes. Accelerated write-down on fixed asset investments is granted in certain cantons. A wide variety of non-tax incentives are granted by these regions, such as cash grants, participation in project costs, partial or entire assumption of interest expenses on loans required for realisation of the project, subsidies for training personnel, etc.

C. FOREIGN TAX RELIEF

Double tax relief is granted by means of tax exemption of foreign branch and real property income and by the deduction of any non-recoverable foreign withholding taxes. Based on most double taxation agreements, a credit against Swiss income taxes is granted for the unrelieved portion of foreign withholding taxes on dividends, interest and royalties or similar fees but not for underlying income taxes on dividends received from subsidiaries.

The tax credit is granted for taxes derived from treaty countries under which Switzerland has committed itself to such a tax credit. Foreign taxes of these countries are creditable only if they are irrecoverable and actually paid or, in respect of treaties that provide for a tax-sparing credit, if they are deemed to be paid.

D. CORPORATE GROUPS

Each entity in Switzerland is subject to taxes independent from the corporate group and tax returns have to be filed for each Swiss subsidiary and branch. Revenue and capital losses cannot be transferred within a corporate group.

E. RELATED PARTY TRANSACTIONS

Intra-group transactions are not challenged by the tax authorities if they are made on an arm's length basis. There are neither provisions in tax laws nor any administrative practices that would challenge a transaction solely on the grounds of being made between related parties. However, intra-group transactions, where the consideration paid for goods or services is higher than what an independent third party would be willing to pay or the consideration for goods or services sold is less than what an independent third party would require, may be deemed as hidden profit distributions and be adjusted for determining taxable income. Hidden profit distributions are, in addition, subject to withholding tax in the same way as dividends.

Payments to foreign affiliates in respect of management fees, research and development, general and administrative expenses are deductible, if made on an arm's length basis. They should, however, be specific and identifiable as a commercially justified charge to the Swiss entity.

F. WITHHOLDING TAX

The company must withhold a tax of 35% and remit this amount to the tax authorities on all cash dividends and dividends in kind, including bonus shares and surplus liquidation proceeds. As per 1 January 2011 reserves that have been paid in directly by shareholders can be distributed withholding tax-free. This tax is in general levied at source. However, it can be applied through the notification procedure under certain circumstances. Most treaties provide for a reduction of the normal 35% rate. Withholding tax on interest is levied at a rate of 35% but only on bonds, bond-like loans and deposits accepted by Swiss banks from non-bank clients. No withholding tax is levied on inter-company loans. There is no withholding tax on royalties.

G. EXCHANGE CONTROL

There are, at present, no currency restrictions on inward investments, and the Swiss franc is freely convertible into any other currency. Bank accounts may be maintained in local or foreign currencies either in or outside Switzerland without restriction. There is no distinction between resident and non-resident accounts. If the Swiss accounts are kept in a currency other than Swiss francs (i.e. in a functional currency), exchange gains or losses from the conversion of the functional currency accounts to CHF accounts are no longer taxable or tax deductible since the issuance of a respective federal court law decision in October 2009.

H. PERSONAL TAX

A Swiss resident individual is subject to Swiss federal, cantonal and communal taxes on his worldwide income and net wealth, with the exception of income from investments in foreign permanent establishments and real estate situated abroad. Basically, foreigners are regarded as resident from date of registration (usually within one week of arrival where the individual intends to stay permanently in Switzerland). The cantons levy a wage source tax on salaries paid by domestic employers to expatriates. The tax is deducted monthly from the expatriate's gross income, including any benefits in kind, based on the cantonal tax table.

Individuals resident abroad and drawing income from or owning net assets in the form of a permanent establishment or real estate in Switzerland are subject to Swiss taxes thereon at the rates that would apply to their worldwide taxable income or net assets. The tax liability is, however, limited to their Swiss taxable income and net assets. Income tax is payable on assessable income less allowable deductions. The assessable income must include, in gross income, all compensation received as salary, living and housing allowances, dividends and interests on financial assets, and the fair market value of any benefits in kind.

If an individual Swiss taxpayer owns more than 10% of a company, dividends are subject to special tax reductions depending on each cantonal law. The tax rates of direct federal tax on income and all cantonal taxes on income and net wealth are on a progressive basis. The federal tax rates apply separately to single and married taxpayers. These rates are valid as per 1 January 2019. The married taxpayers' rate also applies to registered couples of the same sex living together and to widowed, separated and divorced or single persons living with children who are minors and studying at their expense. The tax rates for unmarried taxpayers are as follows:

If taxable Income is between (CHF)	Tax on lower amount is (CHF)	Tax on excess for each further CHF 100 (CHF)
0 - 14,500	–	0
14,501 - 31,599	–	0.77
31,600 - 41,399	131.65	0.88
41,400 - 55,199	217.90	2.64
55,200 - 72,499	582.20	2.97
72,500 - 78,099	1,096.00	5.94
78,100 - 103,599	1,428.60	6.60

134,600 - 175,999	5,839.60	11.00
176,000 - 755,199	10,393.60	13.20
755,200 or above	86,848.00	11.50

Taxable income exceeding CHF 755,200 is subject to a flat rate of 11.50%.

The tax rate for married taxpayers is as follows:

If taxable Income is between (CHF)	Tax on lower amount is (CHF)	Tax on excess for each further CHF 100 (CHF)
0 - 28,300	–	0
28,301 - 50,899	–	1

58,400 - 75,299	376	3
75,300 - 90,299	883	4
90,300 - 103,399	1,483	5
103,400 - 114,699	2,138	6
114,700 - 124,199	2,816	7
124,200 - 131,699	3,481	8
131,700 - 137,299	4,081	9
137,300 - 141,199	4,585	10
141,200 - 143,099	4,975	11
143,100 - 144,999	5,184	12
145,000 - 895,799	5,412	13
895,800 or above	103,016	11.5

Taxable income exceeding CHF 895,900 is subject to a flat rate of CHF 11.50%.

In addition, cantonal and municipal taxes are payable which are considerably higher. The tax rates are dependent on the canton in which the individual is resident. There are also net wealth taxes, inheritance and gift taxes levied by most cantons (with exception of the Canton of Schwyz).

I. TREATY AND NON-TREATY WITHHOLDING TAX RATES

The standard rate of Swiss withholding tax is 35%. Relief, when granted, is generally by way of refund. The table below stipulates the remaining tax for the recipient for each type of income. The information contained therein is valid as per 1 January 2019. On 1 July 2005 the agreement on the taxation of savings income between Switzerland and the EU came into effect. A limited company with a direct participation of 25% or more which is held longer than two years can file a request for the application of the declaration procedure.

In this case, a 0% rate results. Switzerland started transferring a retention tax on the interest income of EU taxpayers to the EU member states every year from July 2008 onwards. Switzerland and the EU signed an agreement regarding the automatic exchange of information in tax matters in May 2015 which adopts the global standard set by the OECD. It entered into force on 1 January 2017, with the result that financial institutions in Switzerland and the EU member states collect account information on non-tax residents. This account information has been exchanged for the first time in the autumn of 2018. A referendum was successfully called against the Federal Act on Tax Reform and AHV Financing. The popular vote will take place on 19 May 2019.

KEY TAX POINTS

- Domestic entities are taxed on a worldwide basis, while other entities pay tax only on income sourced in Taiwan. Where a non-resident company has Taiwan-sourced income but no place of business or agent in Taiwan, the company's income is taxed at source under the withholding tax regime.
- Taiwan taxes all profit-seeking enterprises operating in Taiwan with total taxable income over NTD 120,001 at 20% effective 1 January 2018 (but the tax may not exceed 50% of the portion of taxable income over NTD 120,000).
- Profits that are earned in a year but not distributed by end of the following year are subject to 5% advance tax.
- All gains and losses on the disposal of capital assets are taxable as current year income or deductible as expenses with the exception of marketable securities and futures.
- 5% value-added business tax is applied to business entities in most industries under the VAT system. Export sales and export-related services, however, are subject to a zero tax rate. Financial institutions are subject to non-value-added business tax.
- There are no local income taxes.
- Foreign tax suffered on overseas income is creditable against Taiwanese tax subject to a limit of Taiwanese tax payable on such income. Any unused tax credits may not be carried back or forward to other years.
- Domestic corporations paying certain types of income are required to withhold tax between 5% and 21%.
- Individuals are only subject to income tax on Taiwan source income with income derived from foreign sources being exempt from income tax. Residents, both Taiwanese and foreign nationals, pay tax on net consolidated income calculated as the total income received from all Taiwan sources less exemptions and deductions.
- If the amount of regular income tax for a company or an individual is less than the amount of basic tax, the total tax payable is the amount of the basic tax.

A. TAXES PAYABLE

BUSINESS INCOME TAX

Taiwan taxes all profit-seeking enterprises operating in Taiwan. Domestic entities are taxed on a worldwide basis, while other entities pay tax only on income sourced in Taiwan. Where a non-resident company has Taiwan-sourced income but no place of business or agent in Taiwan, the company's income is taxed at source under the withholding tax regime. Domestic entities include companies that are incorporated under Taiwan Company Law. A domestic company is incorporated when it is duly registered with the central competent authority and issued with an approval letter on its registration. Income tax rates for profit-seeking enterprises are as follows:

- Less than NTD 120,000: 0%
- NTD 120,001 and over: 20%, effective 1 January 2018 (but the tax may not exceed 50% of the portion of taxable income over NTD 120,000).

TAX ON INTEREST

Interest received by a resident profit-seeking enterprise is taxable as non-operating income and 10% creditable withholding tax is imposed.

Tax on interest received by a non-resident profit-seeking enterprise is withheld according to the following rules:

- (1) For interest from the portion of the pecuniary amount realised by short-term commercial papers at their maturity in excess of the selling price at their initial issuance, 15% of the payment is withheld.
- (2) For interest distributed derived from beneficiary securities or asset-backed securities issued in accordance with the Financial Asset Securitisation Act or the Real Estate Securitisation Act, 15% of the distribution is withheld.
- (3) For interest on government bonds, corporate bonds or financial bonds, 15% of the payment is withheld.
- (4) For interest derived from repo (RP/RS) trade whereby a taxpayer purchases securities or short-term commercial papers as described above in paragraphs 1 to 3 which shall be the net amount of the sale price at their maturity in excess of the original purchase price, 15% of the payment is withheld.
- (5) For all other types of interest, 20% of the payment is withheld.

TAX ON RETAINED EARNINGS

Tax on retained profits

Retained profits attract an additional 5% income tax. Profits that are earned in a year but not distributed by end of the following year are subject to 5% advance tax.

Tax imputation system

Effective 1 January 2018, the imputation system is abolished to simplify the income tax system.

CAPITAL GAINS TAX

All gains and losses on the disposal of capital assets are taxable as current year income or deductible as expenses with the exception of marketable securities and futures.

Securities Transactions

The levy of tax on gains derived from the sale of marketable securities was suspended. However, gains from marketable security transactions shall be subject to Income Basic Tax, please see 'Alternative minimum tax' below.

Futures Transactions

The levy of tax on gains from transactions of futures under Statute for Futures Transaction Tax was suspended. However, gains from futures transactions shall be subject to Income Basic Tax, please see 'Alternative minimum tax' below.

Land and Buildings Transactions

Effective from 1 January 2016, gains or losses on the disposal of land and buildings of resident companies are taxable as current year income or deductible as expenses. However, for non-resident companies, gains on disposal of land and buildings shall be subject to income tax which shall be computed separately at a rate of 35% or 45% in accordance with the period held by the seller before the transaction occurred.

BRANCH PROFITS TAX

A foreign company's branch or any other permanent establishment in Taiwan is subject to income tax only on its income from Taiwanese sources. If the foreign enterprise has neither a branch nor a business agent in Taiwan, it is subject to withholding tax on its Taiwanese source income. The repatriation of profits by Taiwanese branches of foreign enterprises is not taxable. It is proposed, but not yet put into practice, that a branch profits tax be imposed on the repatriation of profits by the Taiwanese branch of foreign enterprises so that a branch does not have a tax-preferable treatment over a subsidiary.

ANTI-TAX-AVOIDANCE CLAUSE

Anti-tax-avoidance rules were put into the Income Tax Act in 2016 as follows:

- For any profit-seeking enterprise and its related parties directly or indirectly holding up to 50% of shares or capital of a foreign affiliated enterprise registered in a low-tax burden country or jurisdiction, or having a significant influence on such a foreign affiliated enterprise, the surplus earnings of the foreign affiliated enterprise shall be recognised as the profit-seeking enterprise's investment income which is calculated according to the ratio and holding period of the shares or capital, and such investment income shall be included in taxable income of the current year.
- Any foreign profit-seeking enterprise established according to foreign law but with a place of effective management in Taiwan shall be deemed a profit-seeking enterprise having its head office within the territory of Taiwan, and shall be subject to profit-seeking enterprise income tax in accordance with the Income Tax Act and other relevant laws.

The effective date of the above clauses has not yet been announced by the government.

BUSINESS TAX

5% value-added business tax is applied to business entities in most industries under the VAT system. Export sales and export-related services, however, are subject to a zero tax rate. Financial institutions are subject to non-value-added business tax. Professional practitioners are not subject to VAT or business turnover tax for service revenue earned. Profit-seeking enterprises (e.g. manufacturers, wholesalers and retailers) are collectors of VAT and are required to pay the net VAT, being taxes collected from sales less taxes paid on purchases and business expenses, to their district tax offices and file returns. Zero rates and exemptions exist for some items. A 5% non-value-added business tax rate shall apply to banking and insurance enterprises for their sales amounts which are connected with banking and insurance business, but the sales amounts from reinsurance premiums shall be taxed at 1%. A 2% non-value-added business tax rate shall apply to the enterprises for their sales amounts which are connected with investment trusts, securities, futures, commercial paper and pawnshops.

FRINGE BENEFITS TAX

Although there is no separate FBT, perquisites or other benefits supplementing normal wages and salaries are included in the computation of employment income and are taxable as such. Minor exceptions do exist. See 'Personal tax' below.

LAND TAX

Three types of land tax are imposed: rural land tax, land value tax, and land value increment tax.

Land used for other purposes is subject to a progressive rate of tax ranging from 1% to 5.5%.

- (3) Land Value Increment Tax: The sale of land gives rise to tax imposed on the increase in the assessed value since the previous sale or transfer. Rates vary from 20% to 40% on a progressive scale except for:

Effective from 1 January 2016, specifically selected goods and services tax ceased to apply on buildings and land which has been held for a period of no more than two years.

B. DETERMINATION OF TAXABLE INCOME

In arriving at taxable income, certain expenses are allowed against total income. Expenses relating to the earning of business income are generally deductible to the extent that they are ordinary and necessary business expenses. The expenditure must be incurred in the course of operating a business or subsidiary. Certain foreign enterprises are permitted to calculate their taxable income as a percentage of their net income rather than claiming deductions for expenses. A foreign enterprise engaged in certain sectors (e.g. international transport, construction contracting, technical services, equipment leasing), regardless of whether it has a branch or a business agent in Taiwan, may apply to the Tax Authorities to consider a percentage of its gross business income as taxable. This percentage is 10% for an international transport business and 15% for all other businesses.

The following adjustments are required when calculating taxable income.

DEDUCTIBLE TAXES

All taxes with the exception of income tax and taxes relating to capital acquisitions (e.g. taxes on the purchase of land) are deductible. However, the deduction is only available in the year the taxes are paid or accrued. Fines or penalties under Taiwanese law are not deductible.

DEPRECIATION

The following methods are acceptable to the Tax Authorities: straight-line, declining-balance, sum-of-year's-digits, production quantity and machine/working hour methods. In specified circumstances, revaluation of fixed assets so as to increase claims for depreciation is allowable. Property with a useful life of less than two years or a value of less than NTD 80,000 is fully deductible in the year the purchase occurs. There is a depreciation limit of NTD 2.5 million on passenger cars.

STOCK / INVENTORY

Inventory may be valued at cost or the lower of cost or net realised value. Cost may be determined using the specific identification, first-in first-out, moving average, weighted average, or other methods approved by competent authority. Uniformity between book and tax reporting is not required.

DIVIDENDS

A domestic company which owns shares in another domestic company is, regardless of the percentage of ownership, exempt from business income tax on the dividends from another domestic company.

A domestic company is taxable on dividends received from foreign companies although a unilateral foreign tax credit is generally available subject to the requirement of reciprocal treatment by that foreign country and limited to the lesser of foreign tax paid or the tax which would otherwise have been payable in Taiwan.

INTEREST DEDUCTIONS

Interest payable on loans necessary for business operations is deductible in the period it is actually incurred. Interest on borrowings from individuals or firms other than financial institutions over the standard rate prescribed by tax offices will be disallowed to the extent of the excess.

Thin capitalisation

The excess interest expenditure on the debts owed directly or indirectly by an enterprise to a related party shall not be considered as expenses or losses if the proportion of related party debt-to-equity of the enterprise exceeds the specified ratio of 3:1.

LOSSES

The carry forward of losses is limited to ten years, while loss carry back is prohibited. In the case of loss carry forwards, these are only available to companies which keep a complete set of accounting records and which file blue returns or returns certified by a CPA.

FOREIGN SOURCE INCOME

Foreign income of Taiwanese corporations is taxable in Taiwan with double taxation being relieved by way of foreign tax credits.

TAX INCENTIVES

Based on the Statute of Industrial Innovation, a company may select one of the following incentives for crediting the company's total expenditure on R&D against its business income tax payable. However, this credit shall not exceed 30% of the business income tax payable by the company in that year.

- Up to 15% of the R&D expenses may be credited against the business income tax payable by it in the current year.
- Up to 10% of the R&D expenses may be credited against the business income tax payable by it within three years from the year the R&D expenses incurred.

The deduction is limited to 35% of the total amount invested in R&D and personnel training and may be credited against the business income tax within five years from the year the tax liability is incurred. The total amount of investment credited against the payable corporate income tax in each year shall not exceed 50% of the amount of business income tax payable in a year. However, this restriction shall not apply to the amount to be offset in the last year of the aforesaid five-year period.

Furthermore, enterprises investing in biotechnology and new pharmaceutical companies and holding the shares for more than three years are entitled to a deduction from the business income tax payable for a period of five years starting from the year the tax liability is incurred, up to 20% of the acquisition cost of the shares.

The Act for Promotion of Private Participation in Infrastructure Projects provides tax incentives and government support for a private company investing in government-approved infrastructure projects. The tax incentives include:

- A company may enjoy a five-year tax exemption on business profits derived from government-approved infrastructure projects.
- Corporate shareholders holding registered stock issued by a private company in government-approved infrastructure projects for at least four years can offset the shareholder investment tax credit against their business income tax liability. The tax credit is 20% of the cost of the shares.
- A private company investing in government-approved infrastructure or transportation construction projects may credit 5% to 20% of qualified expenditure incurred against its business income tax liability within five years starting from the year the expenditure is incurred.

Under the Offshore Banking Act, domestic and foreign banks can conduct an offshore banking business exempt from income tax, business tax, stamp duties, and withholding tax on interest.

ALTERNATIVE MINIMUM TAX

According to the Income Basic Tax (IBT) Act, if the amount of regular income tax for a company or an individual is greater than or equal to the amount of basic tax, the income tax shall be calculated in accordance with the Income Tax Act and if the amount of regular income tax is less than the amount of basic tax, the total tax payable is the amount of the basic tax. According to the Act, capital gains derived from marketable securities and futures and some other income exempted from regular income tax by incentives shall be included in the basic income of the company and subject to IBT.

C. FOREIGN TAX RELIEF

Foreign tax suffered on overseas income is creditable against Taiwanese tax subject to a limit of the Taiwanese tax payable on such income. Any unused tax credits may not be carried back or forward to other years.

D. CORPORATE GROUPS

Generally, group taxation is not permitted except for meeting the requirements of consolidated tax returns in Business Mergers and Acquisitions Act.

E. RELATED PARTY TRANSACTIONS

Royalties, interest and service fees paid to foreign (and Taiwanese) affiliates require adequate supporting transaction vouchers and documents to be deductible. Such payments are subject to withholding tax. Transactions between related parties are subject to Transfer Pricing Guidelines and contemporaneous documentation is required on an annual basis.

F. WITHHOLDING TAX

Domestic corporations paying certain types of income are required to withhold as follows:

Recipient	Salaries %	Dividends %	Interest %	Royalties/ rentals %	Professional fees/ commissions %
Resident corporations	--	–	10	10	10
Resident individuals	5 ²	–	10 ¹	10	10
Non-resident corporations	--	21	15/20 ³	20	20
Non-resident individuals	18	21	15/20 ³	20	20

Notes:

G. EXCHANGE CONTROL

At present there is no limit on genuine trade-related remittances whether inward or outward. For non-trade-related remittances, the long standing controls were relaxed from 1997. Business entities can remit up to USD 50,000,000 (or the equivalent) into or out of Taiwan each year without advance approval from the Central Bank. The limit for individuals remains unchanged at USD 5,000,000 per year. Each remittance in excess of USD 1 million for a corporate or USD 500,000 for an individual requires supporting documentation.

H. PERSONAL TAX

Individuals are only subject to income tax on Taiwan source income with income derived from foreign sources being exempt from income tax. Residents, both Taiwanese and foreign nationals, pay tax on net consolidated income calculated as the total income received from all Taiwan sources less exemptions and deductions.

Non-residents who stay in Taiwan for no more than 90 days within a calendar year are taxed on their gross income under the withholding tax system without allowance for deductions and exemptions. A non-resident staying in Taiwan over 90 days but less than 183 days within a calendar year who has no Taiwanese source income other than salaries from local employers is not required to file an income tax return if 18% tax on local salaries is withheld. In practice, however, a non-resident may prefer to file an annual tax return voluntarily, without allowance for deductions and exemptions, in order to keep a clean tax record in Taiwan.

Residence is determined on the basis of whether a person is domiciled in Taiwan and lives in Taiwan on a regular basis. An individual will also be considered to reside in Taiwan when, although not domiciled in Taiwan, they reside in Taiwan for 183 days or longer within a calendar tax year. The types of compensation deemed to be taxable income include:

Remuneration for services rendered in Taiwan received from an employer outside Taiwan is also exempt if received by non-resident directors, managerial officers and technicians of an approved FIA entity who are sent to Taiwan for no more than 183 days in a tax year to undertake preparatory work such as investment planning, plant construction or market surveys.

Licensing requirements and conditions:

- Mandatory for all licensed activities - compliance with Tajikistan legislation, environmental, epidemiological, sanitary, fire norms and rules, as well as provisions on licensing of specific types of activity;

Licensing on the entire territory of Tajikistan, supervision over compliance with licensing requirements and conditions, suspension and renewal of the licence, the formation and maintenance of the register of licences are the responsibility of the appropriate licensing authority.

Currently, in Tajikistan there are more than 70 types of licensing. They represent a variety of activities of organisations for implementation, for which obtaining a permit (license) is necessary. Law on Licensing of separate types of activities classifies licensing under the following types:

Conventional types of such activities are all kinds of special environmental management, including, for example, subsoil water intake for industrial purposes, the release of pollutants into the atmosphere, the discharge of wastewater, etc.

In accordance with environmental laws, various forms of documents are used implementing the functions of the licence. In addition to the licenses, the following permissions are applied:

- Permission for release of harmful substances into the atmosphere;
- Permission for special water use;
- Permission on the use of animal and plant life;

INCOME FROM A BUSINESS

"Business" includes a trade, concern in the nature of trade, manufacture, profession, vocation or isolated arrangement with a business character and a past, present or prospective business, but excludes employment. If the activities of the company are in line with the above definition of a 'business' according to the Tanzania tax laws, the company will be treated as conducting a business and its taxable income will be subject to tax at a rate of 30%. Taxable income is determined by taking business income and deducting allowable expenditure as explained below.

INCOME FROM INVESTMENT

A corporation's income from investment is its income from activities not directly related to its business. This class of income may include dividends, interest and rent which are not the core business of a corporation. Income from investments is calculated as follows:

G. RELATED PARTY TRANSACTIONS

TRANSFER PRICING

The Tax Administration (Transfer Pricing) Regulations 2018 were issued by way of a gazette notice published on 27 April 2018. The regulations revoked the Income Tax (Transfer Pricing) Regulations, 2014. The regulations apply to taxpayers dealing with related parties located both inside and outside the United Republic of Tanzania. The regulations address the potential mismatch between profit allocation and distribution of risks, assets and functions across the associated enterprises. The Regulations require corporations to provide documented evidence that an arm's-length amount was paid for goods (both tangible and intangible) and services between related parties.

Documentation requirement

Entities whose total related party transactions within a particular year exceed TZS 10 billion are mandatorily required to submit a Transfer Pricing documentation at the time of submitting their tax returns.

For the rest of the entities with related party transactions, the Transfer Pricing documentation should be prepared before filing the tax returns and should be submitted within 30 days upon request by the Commissioner.

Stiff Penalties for non-compliance

The penalties for any transfer pricing adjustment made as part of a tax audit is 100% of the adjusted amount.

Failure to comply with the regulations is an offence, and upon conviction, the taxpayer is liable to imprisonment for a maximum of 6 months and/or a fine of not less than TZS 52.5 million or both.

Advance Pricing Arrangements

The regulations also provide that a taxpayer can request the Commissioner to enter into an Advance Pricing Arrangement ("APA"). Basically these APAs can be unilateral, bilateral or multilateral based on the taxpayer's request and they determine in advance the prices of the future controlled transactions over a fixed period of time, but not exceeding five years of income.

H. EXCHANGE CONTROL

Under the Investment Act 1997, investors are guaranteed unconditional transferability (through any authorised dealer in freely convertible currency) of net profits, foreign loan services, royalties, fees and technology transfer charges, emoluments of foreign personnel and repatriation of capital, after taxes on the sale of the investment. However, all transactions in foreign currency are regulated by the Foreign Exchange Act which permits any person, resident or not, to:

- Hold any amount of foreign currency;
- Sell any amount of specified foreign currency to an authorised dealer;
- Open and maintain a foreign currency account with a bank which is an authorised dealer.

FOREIGN LOANS

The Bank of Tanzania (BoT) requires that all foreign loans borrowed by the private sector are registered with the BoT. The loan registration has to be done within 14 days after approval of the loan by the lender. The BoT shall provide a unique Debt Record Number which shall be used while making repayments. K. MINERAL AND PETROLEUM TAX REGIME

The Finance Act 2016 has introduced a specific Mineral & Petroleum Tax Regime for income tax purposes with the following key issues highlighted:

- Mining and oil and gas companies are taxed at the same fixed corporate tax rate of 30% of taxable income but as per the Finance Act 2016;

- Ring-fencing rules: applicable to each separate mineral operation and each mineral right constitute a separate mineral operation (subject to special considerations relating to the interactions of the prospecting and mining licence and extension of mining licences);
- Transfer pricing: applied to ring-fenced activities of the same business person;
- Loss restrictions: offset of brought forward losses limited to 70% of current year profits, with any balance carried forward, it is applicable to mineral operations, processing, smelting and refining activities;
- Alternative minimum tax: not applicable;
- Capital allowance: 20% straight line on all assets used in mining operations; jointly holding of mineral rights: treated for tax as a partnership;
- Disclosure of subcontractors: all persons contracted and subcontracted (list names, nature of subcontracted work and duration of work). Failure to comply will result to a punitive fine not exceeding 25% of the quantum payable under the project or a fine of not exceeding TZS 60 million, whichever is greater.

L. TREATY AND NON-TREATY WITHHOLDING TAX RATES

	Dividends (%)	Interest (%)	Royalties (%)	Management and technical fees (%)
Non-treaty countries	10	10	15	15
Treaty countries:
Canada	20/25 ¹	15	20	20 ⁴
Denmark	15 ¹	12.5	20	20 ⁴
Finland	20 ¹	15	20	20 ⁴

South Africa	10/20 ¹	10	10	15 ⁵
Sweden	15/25 ¹	15	20	20 ⁴

Notes:

1. The 10% domestic withholding tax rate for dividends applies unless the tax treaty rate is lower, in which case the lower treaty rate applies (specifically for a substantial shareholding under the India treaty, see also note 2).
2. The 5% rate applies if the beneficial owner is a company that owns at least 25% of the shares of the paying company.
3. Dividends, interest and royalties are exempt from withholding tax in Tanzania where the recipient is a Zambian resident and the income is subject to tax in Zambia.
4. The 20% domestic withholding tax rate for management and technical fees applies unless the tax treaty rate is lower, in which case the lower treaty rate applies (i.e. specifically the case for Canada, Denmark, Finland, Norway and Sweden).
5. Tanzania levies a 15% withholding tax on technical services rendered by a South African resident company without a permanent establishment in Tanzania. The South Africa-Tanzania treaty precludes the TRA from levying this withholding tax under the general profits article. However, the TRA's view, in the absence of a specific article offering relief with regard to technical service fees is that Tanzania may levy the withholding tax. This is not in line with the OECD guidelines, which provide that the general profits article would apply in the absence of a specific article.

Tanzania has signed DTTs with the East Africa Community (Kenya, Uganda, Rwanda and Burundi), South Korea and Zimbabwe but these have yet to be ratified.

KEY TAX POINTS

- The tax residency of a company is determined by the place where the company is located. Resident companies for tax purposes are those incorporated in Thailand. Companies incorporated outside Thailand are non-resident companies.
- A resident company is subject to Corporate Income Tax (CIT) on its worldwide income and gains. Non-resident companies are subject to CIT on their Thai sourced income and gains. The current CIT rate is 20%.
- The tax residency of an individual is determined by the period in which the individual is present in Thailand. Resident individuals are those who are present in Thailand for at least 180 days in a calendar year. Resident individuals are subject to income tax on Thai sourced income and income arising or earned overseas if remitted to Thailand in the year in which it is derived. Non-resident individuals are subject to tax on income from sources in Thailand. Personal income tax is calculated using progressive tax rates with a maximum rate of 35% for taxable income over THB 5 million.
- Thailand relies on a self-assessment system and capital gains are treated as part of assessable income.
- A 10% profit remittance tax is imposed on profits remitted out of Thailand by Thai branches of foreign companies. Such branches are not tax resident in Thailand and thus cannot access treaty benefits under Thailand's Double Tax Treaties (DTTs).
- Thailand has entered into a DTT with many countries that provide for the elimination of double taxation using credit or exemption methods. The DTTs also provide for the exchange of information between treaty partners, including under a Mutual Agreement Procedure.
- By virtue of either Thai domestic tax laws or a relevant DTT, credit relief is provided for overseas taxes against taxation in Thailand up to a maximum of the Thai tax on the overseas income concerned so as to mitigate double taxation. Offshore dividend income can be exempt from income tax if certain conditions are met under Thai domestic laws.
- To make Thailand a regional hub of investment, the Thai Government has introduced in recent years several preferential tax regimes to attract multinational enterprises to establish international and regional headquarters, trading centers, and treasury centers in Thailand. Most recently, the Thai Revenue Department (TRD) has introduced the International Business Center scheme, which will effectively replace the existing Regional Operating Headquarters, International Headquarters and International Trade Center structures.
- Thai domestic tax laws do not include provisions on general anti-avoidance (such as a General Anti-Avoidance Rule), Controlled Foreign Corporations (CFCs) or thin capitalisation. However, since the recent OECD initiative on Base Erosion and Profit Shifting (BEPS) the TRD has paid much more attention to anti-avoidance and transfer pricing issues as evident from several legislative attempts to crack down on tax evasion and aggressive or unjustifiable tax planning.

- Value Added Tax (VAT) is payable on imports and the supply of goods and services in Thailand. A standard rate of 7% is currently being applied, although certain supplies are zero-rated or exempt. There are also other taxes such as Specific Business Tax imposed on certain transactions and Stamp Duty payable on certain types of instruments.

A. TAXES PAYABLE

CORPORATE INCOME TAX

Corporate Income Tax (CIT) is a direct tax levied on a juristic person that is established under Thai or foreign laws and carries on business in Thailand or derives certain types of income from Thailand. The term 'juristic person' (hereinafter referred to as a 'company' or collectively as 'companies') means a juristic company or partnership operating in Thailand. The term also includes any unincorporated joint venture and any trading or profit-seeking activity carried on by a foreign government or its agency or by any other juristic body incorporated under a foreign law. Resident companies are those incorporated for general business activities in Thailand. They are subject to CIT on taxable net profits by considering their worldwide income for each 12-month accounting period.

One exception to a general business activity applies to the business of international transport, which is instead subjected to CIT at a taxable rate at 3% of their fares, fees and other benefits collectible in Thailand with respect to such carriage before deduction of any expenses.

The ordinary fiscal year for tax submission is for the 12-month period ending 31 December. However, with the consent of the Director-General of the Thai Revenue Department (TRD), they may choose a different accounting period as their fiscal year-end for the purpose of determining taxable income.

Resident companies subject to CIT in Thailand can access Thailand's DTTs. Although Thailand is not a member of the OECD, the Commentaries on the Articles of the OECD Model Tax Convention on Income and Capital play an important role as a secondary source for interpreting Thailand's DTTs. The OECD's Transfer Pricing Guidelines for Multinational Enterprises and Tax Administrations also assist in the interpretation of Thai legislation (see Section E below).

Non-resident companies are those incorporated under foreign laws. They are treated as carrying on business in Thailand if they have a 'taxable presence' in Thailand. A taxable presence generally refers to either a fixed place through which the business is carried on (e.g., an office, a branch, or any other physical place of business) or an agent acting on behalf of the non-resident company to carry on business in Thailand (e.g., an employee, a representative, or a go-between). To this effect, the concept of a 'taxable presence' under the Thai Revenue Code (TRC) is broader than that of a 'permanent establishment' (PE) under a DTT.

Non-resident companies carrying on business in Thailand are subject to CIT on taxable net profits arising from, or in consequence of, business carried on in Thailand. The statutory CIT rate in the TRC is 30% and has been reduced to 20% since 2013. The National Legislative Assembly approved the draft of an Act to reduce the statutory CIT rate to 20%, becoming effective from accounting periods beginning on or after 1 January 2016 and there appears to be no suggestion that the statutory CIT rate will increase in the foreseeable future. Depending on the type of corporate taxpayer, CIT rates can vary and are applied at graduated rates depending on the level of taxable income starting from 0% up to 20%. CIT is payable twice a year, using Form PND50 for year-end filing and Form PND51 for mid-year filing.

Thai and foreign companies carrying on business in Thailand are required to file their annual tax return (Form PND50) within 150 days from the closing date of their fiscal accounting period. Form PND50 is submitted to the TRD together with the company's audited financial statements. Any tax payment must be submitted together with the tax return. Any companies that are subject to CIT on taxable net profits are also required to file their half-year tax return (Form PND51) within two months of mid-year. They are obliged to estimate their annual taxable net profits as well as their tax liability and pay half of the estimated tax amount within two months after the end of the first six months of each accounting period. The prepaid tax is creditable against the annual tax liability. Foundations, associations and foreign companies carrying on the business of international transportation services are subject to CIT on gross income. The applicable CIT rates vary depending on facts and circumstances.

CAPITAL GAINS TAX

There is no separate capital gains tax in Thailand. Capital gains are treated as assessable income for tax purposes.

BRANCH PROFITS TAX

There is no specific branch profits tax in Thailand. Thai branches of foreign companies will generally only be taxed in Thailand on their taxable net profits arising from the business carried on in Thailand. The Thai branches are subject to the same CIT rate as resident companies. Branch profits are subject to a profit remittance tax of 10%, regardless of whether these branch profits are actually remitted to the foreign head office or remain inside the branch in Thailand.

VALUE ADDED TAX (VAT)

VAT is an indirect tax levied on the supply of goods and provision of services in Thailand, irrespective of where the service is used, and the import of goods into Thailand. A service performed abroad but made use of in Thailand is also deemed to be a provision of services in Thailand. Any person or entity that regularly supplies goods or provides services in Thailand and has an annual turnover exceeding THB 1.8 million is subject to VAT registration in Thailand. Suppliers of goods and services collect VAT output tax. Purchasers of goods and services pay VAT input tax. Input tax is deducted from output tax to determine the VAT liability. Certain businesses are exempt from VAT.

A foreign supplier temporarily carrying on VAT-able business in Thailand is subject to VAT on a reverse charge basis, whereby the payer is required to self-assess any applicable VAT and remit it to the TRD.

VAT is currently levied at a rate of 7% on gross receipts, although a zero rate applies to exported goods and services (that are totally used abroad). The official VAT rate is actually 10%, not 7%. However, the VAT rate was reduced to 7% in 1997 and this reduced rate has since been extended by the TRD continuously thereafter. There appears to be no suggestion that the VAT rate will increase in the foreseeable future.

SPECIFIC BUSINESS TAX (SBT)

There are some businesses that are not subject to VAT but are subject to SBT, although certain entities and activities may be exempt from SBT. The tax is imposed on gross revenue and the rate of tax differs according to the nature of the business performed as follows:

Business	Tax Base	Tax Rate (%)
Banking, finance and similar business	Interest, discounts, service fees, other fees, profits from foreign exchange	3.0
Life insurance	Interest, service fees and other fees	2.5
Pawn brokerage	Interest, fees, remuneration from selling overdue property	2.5
Real estate	Gross receipts	3.0
Factoring	Interest, discounts, service fees and other fees	3.0

Note: Local tax at the rate of 10% is imposed on top of SBT, resulting in an effective SBT rate of 3.3% on interest, for example.

STAMP DUTY

Stamp Duty is payable on most documents filed by companies with the Government agencies or entities and on official documents of the company, including: transfers of land, leases, stock transfers, debentures, mortgages, life assurance policies, annuities, Powers of Attorney, promissory notes, letters of credit, cheques, etc. Stamp Duty is levied on instruments and not on transactions or persons. For the purposes of Stamp Duty, an instrument is defined as any document chargeable with duty under the TRC. The Stamp Duty rules are contained in Chapter VI of Title II of the TRC.

Only instruments listed in the Stamp Duty Schedule are subject to Stamp Duty and the persons liable to pay said Stamp Duty are those associated with the instrument. They are, for example, the persons executing the instrument, the holders of the instrument or the beneficiary. General exemptions are available under the TRC. Rates vary according to the class of the instrument. Non-compliance can result in a penalty or surcharge of tax. For certain categories of instruments, the liable person may pay Stamp Duty in cash instead of affixing stamps on the instruments, including: the lease of land, building, other construction or floating house (where the rental fee for the entire lease period is at least THB 1,000,000 or where registration by a Land Department Officer is required under Thai land law) and a hire-of-work service agreement for which the service fee is at least THB 1,000,000.

OTHER TAXES: PETROLEUM INCOME TAX

Income derived from petroleum operations is subject to the Petroleum Income Tax Act. It is levied on net profit adjusted under the conditions specified by the Petroleum Income Tax Act and profit distributions outside Thailand. Petroleum income is taxed at various rates up to the maximum rate of 50%. The income tax rate is reduced to 10% of net taxable profit derived from the gross revenue on the export and import of fuel oil not less than THB 2 billion per annum into or between duty free zones.

The Petroleum Act (No. 7) B.E. 2560 and the Petroleum Income Tax Act (No. 7) B.E. 2560 have both recently been enacted. These introduce production sharing agreements (“PSAs”) and service contracts as an alternative to the granting of concessions for the exploration and production of petroleum. The new Act stipulates relevant conditions, revised benefits or rights of concessionaires, and applicable rates for remittance of royalties. Production sharing producers have been added to the list of petroleum operators governed by the Petroleum Income Tax Act and will be taxed at the rate of 20% of net profits, in which their computation of net profits includes the ability to deduct certain parent company expenditures made on behalf of the Thai subsidiary.

The last update, the Petroleum Income Tax Act (No. 8) B.E. 2561, has been enacted with effect from 21 November 2018. The amendment has added guidelines on bad debt expense for tax deduction and Petroleum Income Tax refund period of 3 years from the filing due date of the tax return to be aligned with Thailand Revenue Code.

EXCISE TAX

Excise Tax is levied on certain types of products such as alcoholic beverages, tobacco and sugary drinks with varying tax rates.

INHERITANCE TAX

With effect from 1 February 2016 the Inheritance Tax Act applies to individuals or juristic entities that receive a legacy from a deceased testator. Certain properties are subject to Inheritance Tax and only the value of a legacy that exceeds THB 100 million obtained from each deceased testator together either once or on several occasions is subject to Inheritance Tax at 10%. The rate is reduced to 5% if the heirs are ascendants or descendants of a deceased testator. A legacy received by the spouse of a deceased testator is exempt from Inheritance Tax.

GIFT TAX

With effect from 1 February 2016 a gift given by a living person is subject to Personal Income Tax under the TRC. Only the value of a gift exceeding the prescribed threshold is subject to Personal Income Tax at 5%, depending on the type of gifts and donor. An exemption may be granted in certain circumstances.

LOCAL TAXES: SIGNBOARD TAX

This tax may be imposed at various rates per square meter (depending on the language) on any signs or billboards that display a name, trademark or product for the purpose of advertising or providing information on businesses.

PROPERTY TAXES

Owners of land and buildings in designated areas may be subject to either local administration tax (based on the unimproved capital value of land) or house and land tax (calculated at a percentage of actual or imputed annual rental value). Local administration tax is based on the appraised value of land as determined by the local authorities. Land that is subject to house and land tax is not subject to this tax. House and land tax cover all properties with the exception of an owner-occupied residence. The annual value is the official assessment of rental income that could be derived from such premises.

B. DETERMINATION OF TAXABLE INCOME

Income tax is payable by both individuals and companies on their taxable income. Taxable income is defined as assessable income less allowable deductions. For individuals, certain additional allowances can also be deducted against the assessable income.

Thailand

CIT of a company carrying on business in Thailand is calculated from the company's net profit on an accrual basis under the TRC. A company shall take into account all revenue arising from or in consequence of the business carried on in an accounting period and may deduct all expenses in accordance with the conditions prescribed by the TRC. Additional deductions on certain types of expenditure may also be allowable.

Notes:

1. Small and Medium Enterprise

A 'small and medium enterprise' refers to companies with paid-up capital not exceeding THB 5 million at the end of each accounting period and revenue from sales of goods and services of not more than THB 30 million in the relevant accounting period.

In addition to the paid-up capital, if the amount of revenue derived from sales of goods and services is more than THB 30 million, the company no longer qualifies for the income tax reductions as a small and medium enterprise, even if the amount of revenue falls below THB 30 million in subsequent years. The sale of goods excludes the sale of assets where the business is operated and is not in the business to buy such assets for direct sale.

2. Board of Investment activities

Depending on the location (investment zone) and type of activity undertaken, a company may qualify for a tax exemption (tax holiday) for three to eight years on corporate profits as well as a reduction of import duty on imported machinery and materials, as well as an exclusion of income tax on dividends derived from BOI activities.

3. International Headquarters (IHQ)

For more than a decade, the Thai government has been actively attempting to boost Thailand's profile as a regional hub for the group operations of foreign multi-nationals. Incentive rules were introduced in 2002 in the form of the Regional Operating Headquarters (ROH). The requirements of the ROH regime, however, were complex and the benefits limited. In December 2014, the IHQ regime was announced as a replacement and was enacted in May 2015. Requirements to qualify as an IHQ are less onerous than the previous ROH regime, and the incentives are more attractive.

IHQ - Conditions Required

An IHQ entity must:

- Be incorporated in Thailand;

- Have paid-up capital of at least THB 10 million at the end of each accounting period;
- Incur annual operating expenses in Thailand of at least THB 15 million in each accounting period;
- Provide qualifying services to at least one associated enterprise outside Thailand.

Qualifying services comprise managerial, technical, supporting and financial management services. An IHQ can access the tax concessions available for financial management services if it has obtained a treasury center (TC) license from the Bank of Thailand.

An IHQ must continue to monitor the conditions above as the incentives may be withdrawn for any accounting year if the conditions are not met in that year.

IHQ - Incentives

- A registered IHQ entity is entitled to the following incentives:
 - An exemption from CIT on:
 - Income derived from international trading of goods that remain outside Thailand, or from the provision to overseas entities (associated or non-associated) of services related to such international trading;
 - Income derived from qualifying services provided to overseas associated entities;
 - Income derived from dividends and royalties from overseas associated entities;
 - Capital gains derived from the transfer of shares in overseas associated entities.
- A reduced CIT rate of 10% on:
 - Income derived from qualifying services provided to Thai associated entities;
 - Income derived from royalties from Thai associated entities.
 - (to the extent that they do not exceed income of the same nature from overseas associated entities).
- An exemption from withholding tax on:
 - Dividends paid to the IHQ's overseas corporate shareholders (provided the dividend is paid from income that is exempt from CIT);
 - Interest paid to overseas lenders (provided the loan was drawn for re-lending to associated entities as part of a financial management service).
- An exemption from Specific Business Tax on interest income derived on loans to Thai or overseas associated entities as part of a financial management service.
- A flat PIT rate of 15% for expatriates working for the IHQ full-time and meeting certain conditions.
- Various non-tax incentives including:
 - An exemption from import duty on machinery used in R&D and training activities;
 - The ability to operate under 100% foreign ownership;
 - The ability to bring skilled personnel into Thailand from abroad.

IHQ - Initial and On-Going Compliance

A formal application is required in order to establish an entity as an IHQ. A registered IHQ must then continue to isolate income and expenses that arise in providing qualifying services for the purposes of its CIT returns.

IHQ - Term

IHQs are entitled to incentives for 15 accounting periods. After this period, the entity will exit the regime and regain their obligations under the standard tax and corporate legislation.

4. International Trading Center (ITC)

The ITC regime was announced at the same time as the IHQ regime and grants tax incentives to eligible companies that are engaged in the business of buying and selling goods, raw materials and parts, including providing services relating to international trade to overseas entities.

ITC - Conditions Required

An ITC entity must:

- Be incorporated in Thailand;
- Have paid-up capital of at least THB 10 million at the end of each accounting period;
- Incur annual operating expenses in Thailand of at least THB 15 million in each accounting period.

An IHQ can also apply for ITC status and receive the same tax concessions.

ITC - Incentives

A registered ITC is entitled to the following incentives:

- An exemption from CIT on income from buying and selling goods abroad without importing such goods into Thailand, including income from services relating to international trade provided to overseas entities and received in or from a foreign country;
- An exemption from withholding tax on dividends paid to the ITC's overseas corporate shareholders (provided the dividend is paid from income that is exempt from CIT);
- A flat PIT rate of 15% for expatriates working full time for the ITC and meeting certain conditions.

ITC - Initial and On-Going Compliance

The registration and reporting requirements are similar to those of an IHQ.

ITC - Term

ITCs are entitled to incentives for 15 accounting periods. After this period, the entity will exit the regime and regain their obligations under the standard tax and corporate legislation.

DEDUCTIBLE EXPENSES

For the purpose of calculating CIT, the following items are allowed to be deducted:

- 1) Ordinary and necessary expenses. However, the deductible amount of the following expenses is allowed at a special rate:
 - 200% deduction of research and development expenses;
 - 200% deduction of job training expenses;
 - 200% deduction of expenditure on the provision of equipment for the disabled;
 - 200% deduction for donations made to private schools or educational institutions;
 - 200% deduction for donations made to Thai sports authorities and associations;
- 2) Interest, except interest on capital reserves or funds of the company;
- 3) Taxes paid to the Thai government except CIT and VAT;
- 4) Net losses carried forward from the last five accounting periods;
- 5) Bad debts;
- 6) Repairs and maintenance;
- 7) Donations up to 2% of net profits;
- 8) Provident fund contributions;
- 9) Entertainment expenses up to 0.3% of gross receipts but not exceeding THB 10 million;
- 10) Depreciation: Special accelerated depreciation rates are available for certain asset classes. Alternatively, a company can use the rate based on the estimated life of the asset;
- 11) Exhibition or expo costs incurred either domestically or overseas;
- 12) 200% deduction for domestic employee training expenses which can include seminar room rental costs, accommodation, transportation, food and other expenses; and,
- 13) Full depreciation for car purchase in respect of a car rental business for the expenses incurred. Previously, a cost limit of THB 1 million in respect of depreciation applied.

DIVIDENDS

A resident individual taxpayer who derives dividends from a Thai company has a choice of including the dividend in assessable income or suffering a final withholding tax of 10% and excluding such dividend from their assessable income. Taxpayers who choose the first option must gross up the dividend to include the 10% withholding tax deducted as well as the company tax paid on that dividend (normally 20%). A tax credit is granted for both the withholding tax and company tax deducted. Dividends received by a company listed on the Stock Exchange of Thailand are exempt from tax as are those received by any other company incorporated in Thailand holding at least 25% of the voting shares in another Thai company, without any cross shareholding either directly or indirectly, provided that the related investments have been held for a period of at least three months before and three months after the receipt of the dividends.

Where a Thai company does not qualify for the conditions specified above including the 25% voting shareholding and no cross-shareholding criteria, it will nevertheless only need to include in its assessable income an amount of 50% of a dividend received from another company incorporated in Thailand if it can maintain the three-month holding periods before and after distribution of the dividend.

Offshore dividend income will be exempt from Thai CIT if the Thai company owns at least 25% of shares with voting rights in the foreign entity paying dividends; the shares are held for a period of at least 6 months from the date of acquiring the shares until the date of receiving the dividends; and the dividends have been paid out of profits having been subject to tax of at least 15% in the foreign jurisdiction.

INTEREST

Interest income derived by a resident individual may, at the taxpayer's election, be excluded from the computation of income tax provided that tax at 15% is withheld at source. However, the following forms of individual's interest income are exempt from any tax:

- Interest on bonds or debentures issued by a government organisation;
- Interest on saving deposits in commercial banks if the aggregate amount of interest received is not more than THB 20,000 during a taxable year.

With respect to interest expenses, there are no thin capitalisation provisions that restrict deductibility.

INCOME FROM SALE OF IMMOVABLE PROPERTY

There are special rules applicable to individuals calculating the gains on sale of immovable property that may allow the taxpayer to pay final withholding tax to the Land Department in lieu of including the gain on sale as assessable income.

LOSSES

A tax loss, being the excess of allowable deductions over assessable income, can only be carried forward for a maximum number of years as follows:

- Non-BOI Company: 5 years
- BOI Promoted Company: net taxable loss incurred during the BOI promoted period can be deducted against net taxable profit after the expiration of the BOI promoted period but not more than 5 years from the expiry date of the BOI promoted period.

C. FOREIGN TAX RELIEF

For income derived from overseas foreign tax credits are allowed, subject to certain conditions, up to the amount of Thai tax that would have been payable had the income been derived in Thailand. The rules apply whether or not Thailand has a relevant DTT with the overseas country from which the income is derived.

D. CORPORATE GROUPS

Each company is taxed as a separate legal entity. Losses incurred by one affiliate may not be offset against profits made by another affiliate.

E. RELATED PARTY TRANSACTIONS

The new Transfer Pricing legislation was announced in Thailand by the TRD under the Act Amending The Revenue Code (NO. 47), B.E. 2561, dated 18 November 2018. This enacts regulations for Transfer Pricing that apply to all juristic persons who have total revenues in an accounting period exceeding THB 200 million and have related company(ies) according to the Act's specified characteristics. The amendment requires the submission of "intercompany transactions reports" together with statutory year-end CIT return (PND50) as per the TRD's defined statutory format. TRD Officers have clear powers to request transfer pricing documents for review and assessment and/or adjustment of income and expenses that result from transfer pricing transactions, for which adjusted income or expenses will be applicable for calculating net profit for CIT calculation, plus penalties and surcharge. In addition to applicable tax assessments, penalties and surcharge, a taxpayer who does not submit, or files incomplete/incorrect reports, documents or evidence of transfer pricing transactions without justifiable reasons will be subject to fines of THB 200,000 per case. Any over-paid tax amounts caused from tax assessment adjustment and/or income or expenses is refundable from the tax return filing due date or within 60 days from the date of receipt for written notification of such income and expense adjustment.

F. WITHHOLDING TAX

1. Withholding Tax Rates: Payments to resident individuals

For certain categories of income, the payer of income must withhold tax at source, file the necessary return (Form PND 1, 2, or 3 as the case may be) and submit the amount of tax withheld to the District Revenue Office. The tax withheld is then credited against the tax liability of a taxpayer at the time of filing the PND return. The following are the withholding tax rates on some categories of income:

No.	Type of income	Withholding tax rate
1.	Employment income/hire of work	0 - 35% (depending on level of income and applicable allowances)
2.	Interest	15%
3.	Dividends	10%
4.	Royalties	5 – 15%
5.	Rents ¹	5%
6.	Prizes	5%
7.	Service and professional fees ¹	3%
8.	Public entertainer remuneration	5%
9.	Advertising fees ¹	2%
10.	Capital Gains ²	0 – 35%

Notes:

1. Not applicable if an individual is the payer of income.
2. Not applicable for sales of shares on the SET.

2. Withholding Tax rates: Payments to resident corporations and branches of foreign companies

Certain types of income paid to companies are subject to withholding tax at source. The withholding tax rates depend on the types of income and the tax status of the recipient. The payer of income is required to file the return (Form PND 53) and submit the amount of tax withheld to the District Revenue Office within seven days of the month following the month in which the payment is made. The tax withheld is credited against the final tax liability of the taxpayer. The following are the withholding tax rates on some important types of income:

No.	Type of Income	Withholding tax rate
1.	Interest	1% if paid to local companies 10% if paid to associations or foundations
2.	Dividends	10%
3.	Royalties	3% if paid to local companies 10% if paid to associations or foundations
4.	Rents	5% if paid to local companies 10% if paid to associations or foundations
5.	Prizes	5%
6.	Service and professional fees	3% if paid to local companies 10% if paid to associations or foundations
7.	Hire of work	3% if paid to a local company or registered branch of a foreign company in Thailand; 5% if paid to a foreign company that does not have a registered branch in Thailand but carries on business in Thailand
8.	Advertising fees	2% if paid to local companies

Notes:

1. 10% withholding tax on dividends does not apply if the recipient of the dividend is a listed company or is a Thai company holding at least 25% of the shares with voting rights in the company paying the dividends without any cross-shareholding, either directly or indirectly.
2. Government agencies are required to withhold tax at the rate of 1% on all types of income paid to Thai companies.

3. Withholding Tax Rates - Payments to non-residents

Apart from dividends, which attract withholding tax at 10%, some other payments to a non-resident that resides in a non-DTT country (including interest, royalties, rent, management fees, consultancy payments and capital gains) would attract withholding tax at 15%. The rates of withholding tax may be reduced under applicable DTTs (see treaty and non-treaty WHT rates below).

G. EXCHANGE CONTROL

Exchange control regulations are in place to govern the importation and repatriation of funds by residents and non-residents, and the import and export of goods. Subject to certain criteria and thresholds, forms are required.

H. PERSONAL TAX

Personal Income Tax (PIT) is a direct tax levied on the taxable income of a person. A 'person' means an individual, an ordinary partnership, a non-juristic body of persons, a deceased person and an undivided estate. In general, a person liable to PIT must compute his or her tax liability, file tax returns and pay tax, if any, on a calendar year basis. Taxpayers are classified into 'resident' and 'non-resident'. A 'resident' means any person residing in Thailand for a period or periods aggregating 180 days or more in any tax (calendar) year. A resident of Thailand is liable to pay tax on income from sources in Thailand regardless of where the money is paid, as well as on the portion of income from foreign sources that is brought into Thailand in the same year that the foreign income is derived. A 'non-resident' is subject to PIT only on income from sources in Thailand.

Income chargeable to PIT is called 'assessable income'. The term covers income both in cash and in kind. Therefore, any benefits provided by an employer or other persons, such as rent-free housing or the amount of tax paid by the employer on behalf of the employee, are also treated as assessable income of the employee for the purposes of PIT if they are ascertainable in terms of money. Assessable income is divided into eight categories under the TRC. Certain PIT deductions and allowances can be offset against assessable income in order to calculate taxable income. Taxpayers shall make deductions from assessable income before the allowances are granted.

On 27 January 2017, Thailand's Revenue Code Amendment Act (No 44) BE 2560 and Royal Decree (No 629) BE 2560 were published in the Government Gazette, increasing some personal tax deductions and allowances and reducing some others from and including the 2017 tax year. PIT deductions and allowances are summarised in the tables below for 2017 going forward.

A. TAXES PAYABLE

FEDERAL TAXES AND LEVIES COMPANY TAX

Companies, partnerships and cooperatives are liable to corporate income tax on their profits stemming from any business they carry on in Tunisia and also lottery gains since 2016. Foreign companies not carrying on business in Tunisia but deriving certain types of income from Tunisia are subject to company tax.

Tax rates: Companies are liable to corporate income tax at the rate of 25% (it was reduced from 30% to 25% since 2014). However, a number of companies and legal entities such as companies operating in handicraft activities, agriculture and fishing are taxable at the rate of 10%. Other companies operating in sectors of banks, insurance, production and services linked to petroleum, telecommunications, car dealers and franchise companies are subject to a rate of 35% on their income. Hypermarkets will be taxed at 35% as from 1 January 2020 (instead of 25%).

Small companies are taxed at 20% if turnover is less than TND 1 million in commerce and industry or TND 500,000 in services (2018 Finance Law).

Exporting companies are liable to income tax at standard rates as from 2019, after an exemption period.

Minimum tax liability: A corporation has to pay a minimum tax liability of 0.2% of the total gross turnover with a minimum amount, due even in the absence of turnover of TND 300 for companies taxable at the rate of the 10%. For those taxable at the rate of 25% or 35%, the minimum amount is TND 500.

Legal entities liable to company tax and individuals liable to personal income tax carrying on a trade business are subjected to three tax instalments each representing 30% of the total levy calculated on income and profits of the previous year.

Tax instalments should be paid by 28 June, September and December following the balance sheet date.

Exceptional contribution: Banks and insurance companies have to pay 5% on taxable income of 2018 with a minimum of TND 5,000 and 4% on taxable income of 2019 with the same minimum. Income tax since 2018 will effectively be increased for all individuals and companies by 1%.

CAPITAL GAINS TAX

For non-resident legal entities, gains derived from the disposal of buildings established in Tunisia or related rights are subject to corporate income tax. A capital gain is the difference between the sale price (or the quoted price on the Tunis stock exchange) and the cost price or purchase price. These entities are liable for withholding tax at a rate of 25% on the capital gain. For closed-end investment companies and credit institutions, capital gains related to securities are deductible from taxable income.

For both residents and non-residents, interest is subject to a 20% withholding tax (or a more favourable rate if a double tax treaty applies). For a non-resident, the amount withheld is offset against ordinary income tax on this income.

From 1 January 2011, the following are exempt from capital gains tax for the sale of securities:

- The capital gain derived from the sale of shares listed on the Tunis Stock Exchange acquired or subscribed before 1 January 2011 and the sale of shares in a transaction introductory to the Tunis Stock Exchange are deductible from taxable income.
- The capital gain derived from the sale of shares listed on the Tunis Stock Exchange acquired or subscribed as from 1 January 2011 is also deductible from taxable income when the transfer takes place after the expiry of the year following the year of acquisition or subscription with a maximum of TND 10,000 per year. Otherwise the gain described above shall be subject to income tax at 10% with a maximum of 2.5% of the sales price (for individuals) or to income tax at 25% with a maximum of 5% of the sales price (for companies).
- Corporation tax is payable by non-resident legal persons not established in Tunisia at a rate of surplus value cited above. The capital gain subject to tax on companies is equal, in this case, to the difference between the sale price (or the quoted price in stock exchange of Tunis) and the purchase price of stocks, shares or units or the subscription price and from transfer operations performed during the year preceding the tax after deduction of capital loss from the operations in question.

VALUE-ADDED TAX

VAT is an indirect tax, in that the tax is collected from someone who does not bear the entire cost of the tax. All economic activities conducted in Tunisia, including industrial and handicraft activities, liberal or commercial professions, are subject to VAT. Exports by definition are consumed abroad and are usually not subject to VAT and any VAT charged under such circumstances is usually refundable. This avoids downward pressure on exports and, ultimately, export-derived income or revenue.

VAT charged by a VAT-registered business and paid by its customers is known as 'output VAT' (that is, VAT on its output supplies). VAT that is paid by a business to other businesses on the supplies that it receives is known as 'input VAT' (that is, VAT on its input supplies). A business is generally able to recover input VAT to the extent that the input VAT is attributable to (i.e. used to make) its taxable outputs. Input VAT is recovered by setting it off against the output VAT for which the business is required to account to the Tunisian government or, if there is an excess, by claiming a reimbursement from the Tunisian government.

Four different VAT rates apply in Tunisia (VAT rates were increased by 1% as a result of the 2018 Finance Law):

- 7%: information technology services, hotels and restaurant activities and equipment;
- 13%: raw materials, craft industry products, medical activities, and canned food;
- 19%: operations related to services and goods not subject to another rate;
- 29%: luxury articles.

According to article 18 of the Tunisian VAT code, a sales invoice issued by a VAT-registered business should contain certain mandatory information including client name, address and fiscal register, date of the transaction, price of the goods or services sold, VAT rate and amount.

FRINGE BENEFITS TAX

Fringe benefits are considered to be a part of the salary paid to an employee and are therefore subject to social security and income taxes. Taxable fringe benefits are evaluated on the basis of their market value.

LOCAL TAXES

The tax on the rental value is a municipal tax on buildings or plants. The owner of the property is liable for collection of the tax. The tax base is the gross rental value determined in accordance with a general census carried out every three to five years by the local authorities. The rate is fixed per local authority which may be divided into two zones, urban and suburban (where the rate is lower). The land tax on undeveloped land is owed by occupiers, owners or persons benefiting from the land.

OTHER TAXES AND LEVIES SOCIAL SECURITY TAXES

The social security rates are 9.18% on behalf of the employee, 16.57% on behalf of the employer and 0.5% for employer's compensation on behalf of the employer.

REAL ESTATE TAX

The purchase of real estate is subject to the following:

- A registration duty of 5% on the purchase price increased by VAT;
- A stamp duty of TND 25 per sheet of contract;
- A real estate property Conservation Duty of 1% on the purchase price increased by VAT;
- A registration will be increased by 1% of the purchase price for non-registration of the property purchased;
- A supplementary charge of 3% in cases where the owner has failed to declare the value of his property;
- A supplementary charge of 2% when the purchase price exceeds TND 500,000 and 4% if it exceeds TND 1,000,000, except for professional buildings or acquisition by incentive companies.

Any real estate buyer who is an individual or a corporate entity subject to a regular accounting system must withhold tax on the real estate purchase price. This tax is 2.5% on the purchase price increased by VAT (15% for a non-resident). The buyer shall pay 5, 10 or 15% on the capital gain on real estate.

EXCISE TAX

This is a federal tax on specific goods and services either imported or manufactured in Tunisia. It is levied on a variety of items such as cigarettes, tobacco, alcoholic beverages, cosmetics, perfume and private cars. Excise tax is levied on the sale price or customs value for imported goods, the rates of which were increased effective 1 January 2018 by the Finance Law. According to the Tunisian Excise Tax Code, several rates apply to different goods. A joint list is available in the code, setting different rates.

GIFTS, WEALTH, ESTATE AND / OR INHERITANCE TAX

Inherited property and gifts are subject to tax at the following rates:

- Direct line relatives (children, spouses, parents, etc.): 2.5%;
- Brothers and sisters: 5%;
- Collateral line relatives: 25%;
- Relatives beyond the fourth degree: 35%;
- Unrelated individuals: 35%.

VOCATIONAL TRAINING TAX

This is payable monthly at the rate of 2% of the total gross wages. A special rate of 1% is applicable to the manufacturing sector.

TAX FOR PROMOTING EMPLOYEES' ACCOMMODATION

Employers have to pay a tax at the rate of 1% of total gross salaries to promote the employee's accommodation. Farmers are exempt from this tax.

B. DETERMINATION OF TAXABLE INCOME

Taxable income is determined on the basis of regular accounting results. When there are discrepancies between fiscal rules and accounting principles, adjustments are made to the accounting results.

Profits are generally considered gross revenue less production, salary and wages and rental expenses. Generally, all expenses generated by the conduct of business are deductible if they are incurred in gaining or producing assessable income and not paid in cash for amounts exceeding TND 5,000.

Taxable income also includes capital gains, except for capital gains stemming from the disposal of securities listed on the Tunisian Stock Exchange (TSE) and capital gains from an initial public offering on the TSE.

DEPRECIATION

Fixed assets owned by the company are normally written off over their normal useful life. For tax purposes, the straight-line method is normally adopted. Assets of a lower value than TND 500 may be fully written off during their first year. Companies may choose the declining-balance method to calculate depreciation on hardware, agriculture equipment and newly purchased manufacturing equipment (from 1 January 1999). From 1 January 2008, a company is eligible to use the declining balance method to compute depreciation on manufacturing equipment financed by leasing.

STOCK / INVENTORY

For the determination of net income, inventories must be valued at their cost price. If market value or realisable value is lower at the end of the year, the company must set up reserves for depreciation of inventories, which are deductible within the limit of 30% of taxable income.

DIVIDENDS

Collected dividends that are distributed by Tunisian companies are tax-exempt in the hands of resident companies. Non-residents companies and individuals are subject to withholding tax at 10% since 2018 (25% if resident in a tax haven). The non-capitalised earnings, amounts given to partners or shareholders and attendance fees given to members of the board of directors are assimilated to a dividend payment.

Gains from stock option exercises: in Tunisia, stock options are recognised only in the following sectors of activities:

- Software engineering;
- Software services;
- Telecommunications and new technologies sectors;
- Listed companies.

When the plan is recognised by Tunisian Law to be a stock option, the gain is not subject to taxation. This advantage is granted under the double condition that:

- At the date the stock option is granted, the employee does not hold more than 10% of the subscribed share capital; and,
- The shares are not sold during a period of three years starting from 1 January of the subsequent year in which the option is exercised.

When Tunisian law does not recognise the stock option plan, the exercise gain made by the employee (difference between the exercise price and the fair market value of the shares at the date of exercise) will be subject to income tax.

INTEREST DEDUCTION

Interest from foreign currency deposits or from convertible Dinar is deductible from taxable income. The interests on loans granted, or left at the disposal of the Tunisian company by partners or shareholders, are fully deductible from the taxable income of shareholders or partners, under the following conditions:

- The interest rate does not exceed 8%;
- The amounts do not exceed 50% of the capital which should be fully paid up.

A limitation of interest rates is not applicable when the partner or shareholder who benefits from the interest is a bank, in which case interest is deductible from the taxable base to the limit applicable on the market.

LOSSES

The deficit recorded during a business year which resulted from a regular accounting record in compliance with corporate accounting legislation is deducted successively from the results of the following business years up until and including the fourth year. For any profit business year, the deduction of deficits and depreciation is carried out according to the following order:

- (a) Reportable deficits;
- (b) The depreciation of the concerned business year;
- (c) Deferred depreciation in deficit periods.

During a business year when the profit is not sufficient to carry out the total deduction of the deficit and depreciation, the remaining part is added back successively to the results of the subsequent business years up until and including the fourth year.

FOREIGN SOURCED INCOME

According to the Tunisian tax legislation, foreign-sourced revenues realised by individuals and which were subject to tax payment in the country of origin are not taxed. Non-resident legal entities are taxable on their Tunisian source income and on the gain from the disposal of buildings and the disposal of shares in real estate companies. The taxable capital gain is the difference between the sale price and the purchase cost.

Relief from foreign taxes in Tunisia depends on the double tax treaty, if any, concluded by Tunisia.

INCENTIVES

Tunisian tax legislation has established a certain number of incentives for investment and creation of projects in certain sectors of activity, either by Tunisian or foreign promoters being resident or non-resident or in partnership according to the overall development strategy. These are mainly aimed at accelerating growth rate and job creation within activities related to fields determined in Article One of the new 2016 Investment Incentives Code.

Various tax incentives are available for total exporting companies. From 1 January 2015 until the end of 2021 exporting activity income is taxable at the rate of 10% with a minimum of 0.1% of gross turnover, after an exemption period.

Major incentives are available for investments made by enterprises settled in areas that need development (regional development zones). Income stemming from investments carried out in these areas is fully deductible from the taxable income during the first ten years of activity but, for subsequent business years, income tax is at 10%.

As part of the promotion of small and medium-sized enterprises, the 2019 Finance law has renewed management measures to support businesses created as from 1 January 2019. It concerns new investments announced in 2019 and 2020 for which an exemption of income tax is granted for 4 years.

C. FOREIGN TAX RELIEF

Relief from foreign taxes in Tunisia depends on whether a double tax treaty has been concluded by Tunisia.

D. CORPORATE GROUPS

When a Tunisian company holds 75% or more of the shares of one or more Tunisian companies, the group may choose to be taxed as a single entity. Hence, the subsidiaries are treated as branches of the parent company and corporate tax is payable only by the parent company. To benefit from the results integrating scheme, the parent company must make the commitment to list its shares on the stock market before the end of the year. Under this system, the profits and losses of all controlled branches, subsidiaries and partnerships in Tunisia and abroad are consolidated.

E. WITHHOLDING TAX

For certain categories of income, the payer of income has to withhold tax at source, file a tax return and submit the amount of tax withheld to the Treasury. In all cases, purchases exceeding TND 1,000 (VAT included) are subject to withholding tax at 1.5%.

Different rates of withholding taxes apply:

- 2.5% for study fees not subject to real system of VAT, real state selling price;
- 10% on dividends distributed to resident or non-resident individuals and companies;

Tunisia

- 5% for fees subject to real system of VAT or hotel leases;
- 15% on fees, commissions or leases;
- 20% on capital gains or fees of directors;
- 25% on capital gains derived by non-residents located in tax free areas.

F. PERSONAL TAX

With respect to the international taxation agreements, personal income tax is a direct tax levied on income of an individual exceeding TND 5,000 per year. Taxpayers are classified into residents and non-residents. According to Tunisian laws, three criteria are used to indicate that an individual has a habitual residence in Tunisia:

- (1) Main residence of the person is in Tunisia;
- (2) Principal place of residence (period equal to, or more than, 183 days during a civil year) is in Tunisia;
- (3) Civil servant or state employee carrying out his/her duty in a foreign country, where they are not subject to personal income tax on global income.

A non-resident is subject to tax only on personal income from Tunisian sources. Income chargeable to personal income tax is called assessable income and is divided into seven categories:

- (1) Income from commerce and industry;
- (2) Income from non-trading professions;
- (3) Income from agriculture and fishing activities;
- (4) Wages, salaries, pensions and life annuities;
- (5) Land income;
- (6) Income in the nature of dividends and interests resulting from the detention of securities and bonds;
- (7) Income from any other activity not specified above.

For each category of income, certain deductions and allowances are granted in calculating taxable income. A taxpayer shall keep the books in compliance with the accounting legislation in order to benefit from these deductions. In general, a person liable to personal income tax has to compute his tax liability, file a tax return and pay tax, if any, accordingly on a calendar year basis. Married couples file tax returns as separate individuals. The income of children is reported on the tax return of the head of the family. A spouse can report income of the children on his/her tax return under certain circumstances.

Income tax rates (effective 1 January 2018):

Amount (TND)	Rate	Effective Tax Rate of the Upper Limit
0 to 5,000	0%	0%
5,001 to 20,000	27%	19.50%
20,001 to 30,000	29%	22.33%
30,001 to 50,000	33%	26.20%
over 50,000	36%

For trading and non-trading activities in accordance with the revenue code, a minimum tax liability is due of 0.1% of the total gross turnover or receipts, except for turnover or receipts from export activities, with a minimum amount of TND 200 (and TND 100 due in the absence of turnover).

A. TAXES PAYABLE

COMPANY TAX

Corporations in Turkey can be regarded as either limited or full taxpayers. Full taxpayers are liable for tax on their worldwide income. Limited taxpayers are subject to tax on income derived in Turkey. Corporations are regarded as full taxpayers if their statutory head office or actual business centre is located in Turkey as stated in the articles of association. Thus, foreign-owned subsidiaries wholly established in Turkey are regarded as unlimited taxpayers whereas foreign branches are treated as limited taxpayers.

A foreign corporation is regarded as a limited taxpayer in Turkey and is taxable on its Turkish-sourced income only. In accordance with Regulation No. 7061 (gazetted on 5 December 2017), the corporate tax rate for the years 2018-2020 has been increased from 20% to 22%. The increased rate will apply to earnings to be included in the corporate income tax returns to be submitted after 1 January 2018.

The tax year is the calendar year although a special permit can be obtained from the Ministry of Finance for a different fiscal period. Returns are due by the fourth month (until 25 April) from the fiscal year-end. Corporation tax is normally payable until the end of the 4th month. The taxpayer also has to pay a quarterly advance tax throughout the accounting period which is credited against the tax liability of the same period to be calculated in the return for that tax year.

CAPITAL GAINS TAX

Capital gains are normally regarded as part of ordinary corporate income. Capital gains derived from the sale of shares in a local company by either a foreign company or a local company are, in principle, taxable. Taxation of capital gains derived from the sale of shares between non-residents (individuals or corporations) differs according to the legal status of the company whose shares are held. The existence of a double tax treaty between the country of residence of the non-resident shareholder and Turkey may generally result in capital gains tax being avoided in Turkey subject to the condition that the holding period exceeds one year.

Turkey

In general, this is also true for capital gains arising from the sale of a shareholding in a limited company. Tax resident companies are eligible for the participation exemption scheme in respect of certain shareholdings. Under this scheme, 50% of the gains derived from the sale of shares in subsidiaries are exempt from 5 December 2017. Two conditions must be met:

- The shares must have been held for two years prior to the disposal; and,
- The amount of the gain must be kept in a special reserve account for at least five years.

The sale revenue must be collected by the end of the second calendar year following the year of sale.

BRANCH PROFITS TAX

There is no specific branch profits tax in Turkey. Permanent establishments of foreign companies are taxed on the profits earned in Turkey at the standard rate of 22%. However, a 15% branch remittance tax also applies when the profits are remitted to the head office. If they are not remitted, no branch remittance tax applies. Branch remittance tax might be reduced under the scope of a double tax treaty.

VALUE ADDED TAX (VAT)

VAT is levied on all goods and services supplied within the scope of commercial, industrial, agricultural and self-employment income and on the importation of goods and services. The supply of all goods and services is subject to VAT unless exempt. The standard rate is 18%. Currently, there are also various rates ranging from 1% to 18%. VAT is levied on a monthly basis. Returns have to be filed on or before the 24th day of the next month and the tax has to be paid by the 26th.

SPECIAL CONSUMPTION TAX

Special consumption tax was introduced on 12 June 2002 in order to simplify the Turkish tax system. When special consumption tax came into force, the high level VAT taxes were decreased to a maximum of 18%. The Council of Ministers Decision No. 2015/8353 published in the Official Gazette and on the website of the Revenue Administration became effective on 1 January 2016. It renders the increased rates and fixed amounts of special consumption taxes applicable to certain types of goods (i.e. tobacco products, alcoholic drinks, mobile phones and all non-electric cars with an engine over 1,600 cc).

Special consumption tax is realised during importation or at the end of production at rates ranging from 0.5% to 160% and is set as relative or fixed. There are four different types of main product groups that are listed under the special consumption tax law. The lists and the related product groups are classified as follows:

1. Petroleum and solvent products;
2. Vehicles (Transportation vehicles are included, tractors are excluded);
3. Tobacco products and alcoholic / non-alcoholic beverages;
4. White goods, electrical home products, luxury goods.

LOCAL TAXES

There are general municipal taxes and real estate taxes on building and land.

B. DETERMINATION OF TAXABLE INCOME

Basically, corporate income is calculated as the difference in the value of the net assets on the last day and the first day of the calendar year. Assets which are added or withdrawn during this period should either be subtracted from or added to the resulting difference. Deductible and non-deductible expenses and tax-exempt corporate income also affect the calculation of taxable income.

DEPRECIATION

The taxpayer may choose either the ordinary or the declining-balance depreciation method. A taxpayer who initially chooses the declining balance method for an asset may switch to the straight-line method but the taxpayer who starts using the straight-line method is not permitted to switch to the declining balance method. Depreciation rates to be applied to fixed assets are determined and announced by the Ministry of Finance through communiques based on the asset's useful life. The maximum depreciation rate is 50%.

STOCK / INVENTORY

Inventory is valued at cost using the FIFO or weighted average method.

CAPITAL GAINS AND LOSSES

Capital gains and losses of resident companies constitute regular business income.

DIVIDENDS

Dividends distributed by resident companies to other resident companies are not subject to withholding tax. Such dividends are also exempt from corporate income tax (participation exemption) at the level of the receiving company.

Dividends distributed to non-resident companies are subject to a final 15% withholding tax, unless a double tax treaty provides for a lower rate. The taxable base is the gross amount of the dividend.

INTEREST DEDUCTIONS

Interest paid for business purposes in an operational period may be deducted but must be capitalised in the first year if it relates to the acquisition of a fixed asset. It is optional in the following years.

Thin capitalisation

Interest and similar payments deemed paid or calculated on the basis of hidden equity capital are non-deductible whereby hidden equity capital refers to loans which:

- are taken directly or indirectly from shareholders or persons related to the shareholders;
- are used in the conduct of business; and
- exceed, at any time in a taxable period, 3 times the borrowing company's equity (i.e. the maximum debt-to-equity ratio is 3:1 for financing by related persons.)

Interest and other items paid, with the exception of realised exchange rate differences, on loans taken from shareholders and persons related to shareholders in excess of the 3:1 debt-to-equity ratio are treated as hidden profit distributions for tax purposes. At the level of non-residents, such hidden profit distributions are deemed to be profits remitted to the head office and corresponding adjustments are made for previous taxes of both parties.

LOSSES

Net operating losses can be carried forward for five years. The loss must be covered by the first available year's income. There is no indexation of carry-forward losses. Losses may only be carried back in the case of liquidation.

FOREIGN SOURCED INCOME

Resident companies are subject to taxation on their worldwide income.

INCENTIVES

The "Decision on Government Supports in Investments" has been finalised through the Council of Ministers Decision No. 2012/3305 published in the Official Gazette dated 19 June 2012 and the "Communique on the Implementation of the Decision on Government Supports in Investments" No. 2012/1. The new incentive system can be categorised under four main headings:

- General incentive applications;
- Regional incentive applications;
- Incentivising large scale investments;
- Incentivising strategic investments.

The "Reduced Corporate Tax" application is arranged under article 32A of the Corporate Tax Law No. 5520 and was enforced by the "Law on the Amendment of Certain Laws" No. 5838, which was published in the Official Gazette on 28 February 2009. Reduced corporate taxes have been introduced to encourage new investments and further investment in existing projects.

Under article 32A, income arising from qualifying investments with an incentive certificate are subject to corporate tax at reduced rates. The tax savings are capped by a specified investment subsidy limit. The rate of tax applicable to such projects is calculated by dividing the investment contribution limit by the total investment made. This is illustrated in the tables below.

For example, if an investment is made in region I of TRY 200 million in 2017 under the regional investment application, the said investment is subject to corporation tax at 50% of the normal rate up to (%20x%50) and an investment subsidy limit of 15% of the investment amount (i.e. TRY 30 million). There is no time limit on the application of the reduced tax rate although it is not available in certain periods where there is no tax base due to loss deduction, exempted gains and other deductions. The reduced rate applies until the investment contribution limit has been reached.

Turkey

Rates for 2018:

Regions	Regional Investment Applications		Large Scale Investments
	Investment Contribution rate (%)	The corporate tax or income tax reduction rate (%)	Investment Contribution rate (%)	The corporate tax or income tax reduction rate (%)
I	15	50	25	50
II	20	55	30	55
III	25	60	35	60
IV	30	70	40	70
V	40	80	50	80
VI	50	90	60	90

* For expenses made in 2017-2018, the above investment contribution rates will be increased by 15 points.

Rates for 2019:

Regions	Regional Investment Applications		Large Scale Investments
	Investment Contribution rate (%)	The corporate tax or income tax reduction rate (%)	Investment Contribution rate (%)	The corporate tax or income tax reduction rate (%)
I	15	50	25	50
II	20	55	30	55
III	25	60	35	60
IV	30	70	40	70
V	40	80	50	80
VI	50	90	60	90

* For expenses made in 2017-2018-2019, the above investment contribution rates will be increased by 15 points.

The corporate tax and income tax reduction rate will be applied at 100% in all regions. Apart from that, the percentage that will be applied to investors' other operating income during the investment period regarding investment contribution is 100%.

The tax reduction rate and investment contribution rate applicable in all regions for specified strategic investments are 90% and 50% respectively.

WAGE TAX / SOCIAL SECURITY CONTRIBUTIONS

Social insurance premiums are calculated on the basis of monthly wages and are paid jointly by the worker and the employer at the following rates:

BRANCHES	EMPLOYEE (%)	EMPLOYER (%)	TOTAL (%)
Short Term Social Security Branches including occupational accidents and diseases (varies according to the job)	-	2	2

Disability, old age, death	9	11	20
General Health Insurance	5	7.5	12.5
Total	15	22.5	37.5
Unemployment Insurance	1	2	3

The above rates are applied to the gross total of salaries, wages and bonuses up to a current monthly maximum of TRY 19,188.00 from 1 January until 31 December 2019. The premiums are paid each month to the Social Insurance Institution at the place where the worker is employed before the 30th day of the subsequent month.

THE NEW TURKISH COMMERCIAL CODE

The New Turkish Commercial Code, which was accepted by the Turkish Parliament on 13 January 2011 and took effect on 1 July 2012, requires financial reports to be prepared in compliance with the TFRS. The Council of Ministers can determine which companies are subject to independent audit. Financial statements of corporations and conglomerates subject to independent audit shall be audited by an independent auditor according to the Turkish Audit Standards issued by the Turkish Public Oversight, Accounting and Auditing Standards Authority, which is compliant with International Auditing Standards.

Financial statements of companies subject to independent audit must be organised according to Turkish Accounting Standards in accordance with international financial reporting standards or General Communiqué on Accounting System Application. Other companies' financial statements must be organised according to Tax procedural Law. The Companies which will be subject to independent audit pursuant to the Turkish Commercial Code (No. 6102) have been re-determined. The companies meeting at least two of the following criterion shall be subject to independent audit;

- a) Total asset size of TRY 35 million or more;
- b) Annual net sales revenue of TRY 70 million or more;
- c) Minimum of 175 employees or more.

To determine whether or not the abovementioned conditions have been met the financial statements of 2017 and 2018 and the average number of employees for 2017 and 2018 will be taken into consideration.

C. FOREIGN TAX RELIEF

Double taxation of resident companies is unilaterally relieved by an ordinary tax credit. Foreign taxes may be offset against corporate income tax up to the amount of the Turkish tax attributable to the foreign income. The limitation is calculated on an overall basis. The foreign tax that cannot be credited in the relevant taxable period because of this limitation may be carried forward for 3 taxable periods.

Where foreign-source income qualifies for exemption, a unilateral relief is granted by way of the full exemption method.

D. CORPORATE GROUPS

Group consolidation for tax purposes is not available.

E. RELATED PARTY TRANSACTIONS

From 1 January 2006, transfer pricing rules apply to resident companies with transactions with related parties, whether resident or not in Turkey.

If a transaction between a company and a related person is performed under prices determined contrary to the arm's length principle, the said transaction is fully or partially considered to be a hidden profit distribution. Relevant transactions include production or construction, the sale/purchase of goods, services, salary payments, leasing and loan transactions. At the level of non-residents such hidden profit distributions are deemed to be profits remitted to the head office and corresponding adjustments are made for previous taxes of both parties.

However, transfer pricing rules are not applied to domestic transactions between related companies unless a treasury loss occurs, i.e. the total tax burden arising from a transaction effected between related parties. As long as profits are taxed in the hands of one or more related parties (i.e. there is no treasury loss), transfer pricing legislation is not applied.

When a transaction is performed with a resident of a low-tax jurisdiction, it is always deemed to be performed with a related party. As from 9 August 2016, when it is determined through a direct or indirect connection that the person is considered to be a related person, the application of hidden profit distribution provisions requires a minimum 10% of partnership or voting rights. For the calculation of the ratio, related persons are considered on an aggregate basis.

Prescribed arm's length pricing methods in the law are those described in the OECD transfer pricing guidelines, including:

- Comparable uncontrolled price method;
- Cost-plus method;
- Resale price method;
- Operational profit method.

Alternatively, companies can also use alternative methods if these are considered more appropriate.

Controlled Foreign Companies (CFC)

Controlled foreign company (CFC) rules exist in Turkey. They apply where a resident company has at least a 50% interest in a non-resident company and the following conditions apply:

- 25% or more of the gross revenue of the foreign subsidiary must be composed of passive income;
- The CFC must be subject to an effective income tax rate of less than 10% on its commercial profit in its home country;
- Gross revenue of the CFC must exceed the equivalent of TRY 100,000 in a foreign currency in the related period.

F. WITHHOLDING TAXES

The following are liable to withholding taxes when paid to a non-resident entity:

Type of Income	Rate
Contract Progress Income	3%
Profit Shares/dividends	15%
Leasing	1%
Wages and services fees	15-35%
Professional services in general	20%
Petroleum exploration services	5%
Rentals	20%
Deposit interest	15%
Bills and bonds	0 - 10%
Income from sales of securities	15%
Sum derived from sale or transfer of copyrights patents and trademarks	20%
Royalties	20%

Withholding taxes on dividends, interest and royalties may be reduced under the terms of the various double tax treaties with Turkey.

G. EXCHANGE CONTROL

The flow of capital in and out of Turkey is regulated by Decrees to protect the value of the Turkish currency.

H. PERSONAL TAX

Individuals resident in Turkey are liable for income tax on their worldwide income but non-resident individuals are liable for income tax only on income earned in Turkey. Turkish nationals are deemed to be tax resident unless they have evidence of residence abroad. Foreigners are regarded as resident if they stay in Turkey without interruption for more than six months in a calendar year, other than for reasons of imprisonment or assignments for specific and temporary projects. Income tax is charged on commercial and agricultural gains, fees, self-employment earnings, real estate income, income from moveable capital, other income and earnings. The general rule is that taxpayers must remit the amount of tax due in two equal payments. Taxpayers carrying on business or professional activities must make quarterly income tax payments during the tax year. Instalments paid at the end of the year are deducted from the income tax return given for the income taxpayers in March of the following year and corporate tax is deducted from the corporate tax return given in April of the following year. The following income tax rates for 2019 are applicable to income other than employment income:

Taxable Income Amount (TRY)	Tax on lower amount (TRY)	Rate on Excess (%)
0 – 18,000	0	15
18,001 – 40,000	2,270	20
40,001 – 98,000	7,100	27
Over 98,000	22,760	35

The following income tax rates for 2019 are applicable to employment income:

Taxable Income Amount (TRY)	Tax on lower amount (TRY)	Rate on Excess (%)
0 – 18,000	0	15
18,001 – 40,000	2,270	20
40,001 – 148,000	7,100	27
Over 148,000	36,260	35

KEY TAX POINTS

- Resident companies are taxable on their worldwide income and gains whereas non-residents are subject to tax on income sourced in Uganda.
- The standard rate of corporate income tax applicable to resident and non-resident companies is 30%, although special rates apply to small businesses and mining companies.
- Capital gains and losses only arise in respect of non-depreciable assets owned by a business. Gains are added to and taxed along with ordinary income.
- A tax at 15% is charged on repatriated profits of overseas companies with branches in Uganda.
- VAT is charged at a standard rate of 18% but some supplies are zero rated or exempt.
- Dividends are generally subject to withholding tax where paid to residents or non-residents at a rate of 15% (or 10% where the payer is listed on the Ugandan Stock Exchange).
- Other payments for goods and services are subject to withholding tax with different rates in some cases depending on whether the recipient is resident in Uganda.
- Income tax is levied on the worldwide income of resident individuals (a foreign tax credit is granted for foreign sourced income not exceeding the appropriate Uganda income tax payable) and on the income of non-resident individuals sourced from Uganda.
- A Tax Procedure Code Act, assented on 19 October 2014, came into force with effect from 1 July 2016, to provide a code to regulate the procedures for administration, to harmonize and to consolidate tax procedures.

A. TAXES PAYABLE

COMPANY TAX

Resident companies are taxable on their worldwide income and gains whereas non-residents are taxed on income sourced in Uganda. Uganda-sourced income is clearly defined for purposes of the Income Tax Act.

The tax rates applicable to residents and non-residents are as follows:

- For companies (other than mining companies) and retirement funds – 30%;
- For mining companies – calculated according to the following formula:
 - $70 - 1500/X$ where X is the number of percentage points represented by the ratio of the chargeable income to the gross revenue of the company.
 - If the rate of tax calculated above exceeds 45%, then the rate of tax shall be 45% and, if the rate of tax calculated above is less than 25%, then the rate of tax shall be 25%.

Special rates of tax apply to income from small businesses (i.e. those businesses where the income does not exceed UGX 150 million per year). These presumptive tax rates fall in defined bands/ranges of gross income.

The fiscal year in Uganda runs from 1 July to 30 June. Companies must file a return of income each year by 31 December following the end of the tax year. A different accounting period (referred to as substituted year) can be opted for by seeking permission from the revenue authorities. In such cases, return of income should be filed within six months of applicable year end.

CAPITAL GAINS TAX

Capital gains are added to the income from all other sources and taxed at the rate applicable to that person.

BRANCH PROFITS TAX

Non-resident companies are subject to Ugandan corporate income tax in respect of profits earned from branches in Uganda. In addition, the branch is taxed on the repatriated income at the rate of 15%.

RENTAL INCOME TAX

Effective July 2014, rental income, expenditure and losses generated by a taxable individual or company is required to be declared in a rental income tax return separate from the usual business income tax return.

VALUE ADDED TAX (VAT)

VAT is payable on:

- Every taxable supply in Uganda made by a taxable person;
- Every import of goods other than an exempt import;
- The supply of any imported services by any person.

A taxable supply is defined as 'a supply of goods or services, other than an exempt supply, made by a taxable person for consideration as part of his business activities'. A taxable person is a person who is required to be registered under the statute. Persons who are required to be registered are those who:

- During any period of three calendar months make taxable supplies, the value of which exclusive of any tax exceeds one quarter of the annual registration threshold;
- Have reasonable grounds to expect that in any period of three calendar months will make taxable supplies, the total value of which will exceed one-quarter of the annual registration threshold;
- The annual registration threshold is, at present, UGX 150 million.

RATES OF TAX (VAT)

There are three categories of supplies for VAT purposes: exempt, zero-rated and standard rated.

The standard rate is 18%. Some types of supplies are zero rated or exempt.

FRINGE BENEFITS TAX

This is not applicable in Uganda but benefits to employees are valued as per rules of valuation under the Income Tax Act 1997 and added to the employment income to determine the tax.

LOCAL TAXES

Local service tax is levied by local authorities on resident individuals (with a few exceptions) who are above the age of 18 and are in gainful employment with effect from 1 July 2008. Local Hotel Tax was also introduced with effect from 1 July 2008, collected and remitted to the local authority monthly based on the tax bands.

OTHER TAXES

Excise, import and custom duties are applicable on several items either on ad valorem basis or at specific rates.

B. DETERMINATION OF TAXABLE INCOME

CAPITAL ALLOWANCES

The Industrial building deduction is 5% on straight-line basis. Effective July 2014, initial allowance deduction on eligible items (50% off the cost base of the property is allowed on eligible property put into service for the first time outside a radius of 50 km. from the boundaries of Kampala) and industrial buildings (20%) was re-enacted. The mining allowance is 100% of capital expenditure incurred in searching for, discovering and testing or winning access to deposits of minerals in Uganda. Start-up costs for a business or expenditure incurred in the initial public offering at the stock market are allowed at a rate of 25% on a straight-line basis. Horticulture business allowance is 20% on straight-line basis of the capital expenditure incurred in the acquisition or establishment of a horticultural plant or the construction of a greenhouse.

DEPRECIATION

Depreciation is allowable on written-down value basis (reducing balance method) at the following rates:

No.	Details	Rate
1.	Computers and data handling equipment	40%
2.	Automobiles, buses and minibuses with a seating capacity of less than 30 passengers, goods vehicles with a load capacity of less than 7 tonnes, construction and earth-moving equipment	35%
3.	Buses with a seating capacity of 30 or more passengers, goods vehicles designed to carry or pull loads of 7 tonnes or more; specialised trucks, tractors, trailers and trailer-mounted containers, plant and machinery used in farming, manufacturing or mining operations	30%
4.	Railroad cars, locomotives and equipment, vessels, barges, tugs and similar water transportation equipment, aircraft, specialised public utility plant, equipment and machinery, office furniture, fixtures and equipment, any depreciable asset not included in another group.	20%

STOCK / INVENTORY

A deduction is allowed for the cost of trading stock disposed of during a year of income. The closing value of trading stock is the lower of cost or market value of trading stock on hand at the end of the year.

CAPITAL GAINS AND LOSSES

Capital gains or losses are taxable only if the asset on which the gain or loss arises is owned by a business and is a non-depreciable asset. This is determined by subtracting the cost base of the asset from the consideration received on sale of the asset. Cost base of the asset is the original cost to the taxpayer as increased by any expenditure incurred to alter or improve the asset which has not been allowed as a deduction. In case of immovable property purchased prior to 31 March 1998, the taxpayer may substitute the market value of the property as on 31 March 1998 for the original cost of the asset. Capital gains and losses are added or subtracted from the other income of the taxpayer for that year of income and not taxed separately.

DIVIDENDS

Dividends are subject to 15% withholding tax except dividends paid by companies listed on the stock exchange to resident individuals which is 10%. Effective July 2013, dividends have been expanded to include issue of bonus shares. However, the shares are only taxable upon disposal.

INTEREST DEDUCTIONS

Allowable in full except where a foreign-controlled resident company which is not a financial institution has a foreign debt-to-equity ratio in excess of 1:5 at any time during a year of income. A deduction is disallowed for the interest paid by the company during the year on that part of the debt which exceeds the 1:5 ratio. The restriction does not apply where debt amount does not exceed the arm's length debt amount.

LOSSES

Assessed losses are allowed to be carried forward and allowed as a deduction in determining the taxpayer's chargeable income in the following year of income. These are allowed to be carried forward indefinitely.

FOREIGN SOURCED INCOME

The gross income of a resident person includes income derived from all geographic sources and the gross income of a non-resident includes only income derived from sources in Uganda.

INCENTIVES FOR HOLDERS OF FREE ZONE DEVELOPERS LICENCES

Industrial zones for the production of exports are being set up and investors located in these zones will be entitled to a 10-year tax holiday on exportation of finished consumer and capital goods; duty exemption on raw materials, plant and machinery and other inputs; stamp duty exemption; and no export tax on goods exported.

C. FOREIGN TAX RELIEF

A resident taxpayer is entitled to a credit for any foreign income tax paid by the taxpayer in respect of foreign-sourced income included in the gross income of the taxpayer, but shall not exceed the Uganda income tax payable on such foreign-sourced income.

D. RELATED PARTY TRANSACTIONS

In order to regulate transactions between related parties, Transfer Pricing Regulations have been introduced with effect from 1 July 2011. The regulations shall apply to a “controlled transaction” where a taxpayer, who is a party to the transaction, is located in or outside Uganda. The regulations expressly require that a taxpayer who has transactions with related non-resident or resident entities must prepare transfer pricing documentation. This documentation, for a year of income, must be in place prior to the due date of filing the income tax return for that year. Related party transactions are also governed by section 90 of the Income Tax Act which provides that the commissioner may distribute or apportion incomes, deductions or credits between taxpayers who are associates. A penalty of UGX 50 million is levied where a taxpayer fails to provide records in respect of transfer pricing within 30 days upon request by the Commissioner.

E. WITHHOLDING TAX

Withholding tax is a final tax on:

- Interest paid by a financial institution to a resident individual;
- Interest paid to any person on treasury bills by the Bank of Uganda;
- Dividends paid to a resident individual.

RATES OF WITHHOLDING TAX

Description	Resident	Non-resident
Management fees and royalties	6%	15%
Consultancy, agency fees, etc.	6%	15%
Professional fees	6%	15%
Dividends ¹	15% or 10%	15%
Interest ²	15%	15%
Sports persons and public entertainers	Nil	15%
Re-insurance premiums	Nil	10%

Notes:

1. It does not apply where the dividend income is exempt from tax in the hands of a shareholder.
2. It does not apply to residents where: (i) interest is paid to a natural person; and (ii) interest other than interest from government securities paid to a financial institution.

The 6% withholding tax does not apply to taxpayers whom the Commissioner has exempted from withholding tax. Interest on deposit auction funds issued by Bank of Uganda is taxable at 20%. Withholding tax at 10% is applicable on purchase of an asset by a resident person from a non-resident. Interest payment on government securities to non-residents is subject to tax at 20%. Besides the above, withholding tax is also applicable and charged on import of goods at the rate of 6%. In case of local transactions of goods and services, 6% withholding tax is applicable where the payer is the Government, a Government body or a company/person designated by the Minister.

The rate of withholding on payments to non-residents is reduced in some cases under the provisions of double taxation agreements entered into with a small number of overseas territories (see Section I below).

From July 2014, a person who makes payments for winnings of sports betting or pool betting shall withhold tax on the gross amount of the payment at of 15%. From July 2014, a resident person who makes a payment of premium for reinsurance services to a non-resident person shall withhold tax on the gross amount of the payment at a rate of 15%. This does not apply to reinsurance services provided by a few specified reinsurers.

F. EXCHANGE CONTROL

There are no restrictions on foreign currency flows in and out of the country. Realised exchange gains and losses are taxable/allowable in the year of realisation. The only specific requirement is to notify the Commissioner of Uganda Revenue Authority in writing of the existence of such transactions that give rise to foreign exchange movements. This applies if it concerns foreign currency debt.

G. PERSONAL TAX

Income tax is levied on the worldwide income of resident individuals and on the income of non-resident individuals from sources in Uganda. An individual will be regarded as resident in Uganda if he or she:

- Has a permanent home in Uganda;
- Is present in Uganda for a period of, or periods amounting in aggregate to 183 days or more in any 12-month period that commences or ends during the year of income;
- Is present in Uganda during the year of income and in each of the two preceding years of income for periods averaging more than 122 days in each year of income;
- Is an employee or official of the government of Uganda posted abroad during the year of income.

The income tax rates applicable to resident individuals are as follows:

Chargeable income (UGX)	Rate of tax
Not exceeding UGX 2,820,000 (235,000 pm)	Nil
Exceeding UGX 2,820,000 (235,000 pm) but not exceeding UGX 4,020,000 (335,000 pm)	10% of the amount by which chargeable income exceeds UGX 2,820,000 (235,000 pm)
Exceeding UGX 4,020,000 (335,000 pm) but not exceeding UGX 4,920,000 (410,000 pm)	UGX 120,000 (10,000 pm) plus 20% of the amount by which chargeable income exceeds UGX 4,020,000 (335,000 pm)
Exceeding UGX 4,920,000 (410,000 pm)	a) UGX 300,000 (25,000 pm) plus 30% of the amount by which chargeable income exceeds UGX 4,920,00 (410,000 pm); and b) Where the chargeable income of an individual exceeds UGX 120,000,000 (10,000,000 pm) an additional 10% charged on the amount by which chargeable income exceeds UGX 120,000,000 (10,000,000 pm)

The income tax rates applicable to non-resident individuals are:

Chargeable income (UGX)	Rate of tax
Not exceeding UGX 4,020,000 (335,000 pm)	10%
Exceeding UGX 4,020,000 (335,000 pm) but not exceeding UGX 4,920,000 (410,000 pm)	UGX 402,000 plus 20% of the amount by which chargeable income exceeds UGX 335,000
Exceeding UGX 4,920,000 (410,000 pm)	a) UGX 582,000 (48,500 pm) plus 30% of the amount by which chargeable income exceeds UGX 4,920,000 (410,000 pm); and b) Where the chargeable income of an individual exceeds UGX 120,000,000 (10,000,000 pm) an additional 10% charged on the amount by which chargeable income exceeds UGX 120,000,000 (10,000,000 pm)

Where a taxpayer's income consists exclusively of employment income derived from a single employer and from which tax has been withheld, no tax return needs to be filed. Small businesses with income not exceeding UGX 150 million per year run by resident individuals do not need to file a return.

KEY TAX POINTS

- The Ukraine Tax Code determines taxable profits as net profits before tax as per accounting records, either Ukrainian statutory or International Financial Reporting Standards (IFRS), and adjusted for 'tax differences'. Companies with total revenue from all types of business activities not exceeding UAH 20 million are allowed to define taxable profits without taking 'tax differences' into consideration.

Ukraine

- Companies generally pay corporate income tax (CIT) at a flat rate of 18%. Special tax rates apply to certain types of businesses. Reduced rates of 0% or 3% apply to qualified insurance activities. Income (profit) of a non-resident derived from Ukrainian sources is taxable at a rate of 0%, 4%, 6%, 12%, 15% or 20%.
- Value Added Tax (VAT) is currently levied at a rate of 20% of the taxable value of domestic supplies, imported goods and auxiliary services. The rate on exported goods and auxiliary services is 0%. The VAT rate on supply of medicines and medical devices is 7%.
- Ukrainian tax residents are subject to personal income tax (PIT) on their worldwide income, whereas non-residents are only subject to taxation on the Ukrainian-sourced portion of their income. The tax rate varies from 0% to 18% of the tax base and depends on the type of income. The standard applicable rate for PIT is 18%.
- All types of income subject to PIT are also subject to military duty. The rate of this duty is 1.5% of the taxable income.
- When paying wages (or similar payments) the source of payment needs to accrue and transfer a single contribution for mandatory state social insurance (SC) to the Budget. In 2018, the rate is set at a standard 22% while a reduced rate may apply for some categories of individuals.
- Legal entities and individuals (including non-residents) are the debtors of property tax. Property tax is divided into real estate tax, other than land plot, land tax and vehicle tax. The real estate tax rates are set by local self-government bodies at a percentage (not exceeding 1.5%) of minimum salary, established by law as of 1st January of the tax (reporting) year, per 1 square metre of tax base. The land tax rate is established at a percentage as well by local self-government bodies. However, the tax base is the monetary valuation of the land plot and the tax rate can't exceed 3%.

A. TAXES PAYABLE

COMPANY TAX

The tax that companies pay is known as corporate income tax (CIT). Currently, this tax is calculated at a flat rate of 18%. At the same time, special tax rates apply to certain types of businesses.

For insurance activities, there is an additional tax, which is 3% on the amount of insurance contracts from the tax object. The rate of this tax for the contracts with term life insurance, a voluntary health insurance and insurance contracts within the non-state pension is 0%.

Income (profit) of a non-resident derived from Ukrainian sources is taxable at a rate of 15% (basic rate for non-resident's income), 0% (insurance activities), 4% (insurance activities), 5% (interest), 6% (freight), 12% (insurance activities) or 20% (advertising activities).

Additional rates of 10% or 18% are applied to income concerning gambling or bookmaking activities.

The CIT rate on income derived from lottery activities is 30%.

The reporting period for entities with income for the previous year exceeding UAH 20 million is defined as a quarter. For other taxpayers it is a year.

Restrictions apply for transactions between related parties and transactions with non-residents from "low-tax" jurisdictions. Transactions between such parties with an amount exceeding UAH 10 million are considered as 'controlled'. At the same time the total taxable income of the entity should exceed UAH 150 million.

The taxable base for such transaction should be comparable to the taxable base of similar transactions performed by non-related parties (transfer pricing rules are based on the OECD approach).

CAPITAL GAINS TAX

There is no separate capital gains tax. Capital gains are treated as ordinary income.

BRANCH PROFITS TAX

There is no special profits tax on branches of foreign companies in Ukraine. Permanent establishments of foreign companies are CIT taxpayers in Ukraine.

VALUE ADDED TAX (VAT)

VAT is levied on the sale of most merchandise and services and on imported/exported goods and services.

The taxable base for VAT is defined as the contractual value of the goods or services supplied. At the same time, the base for taxation of supplies of goods/services cannot be less than the purchase price of goods/services. The tax base of operations of supplying manufactured goods/services cannot go below normal prices and the base of taxation of supplies of fixed assets cannot be less than the book value according to accounting, established at the beginning of the reporting (tax) period during which such operations are carried out.

VAT is currently levied at a rate of 20% of the taxable value of domestic supplies, imported goods and auxiliary services. The VAT rate on exported goods and auxiliary services is 0%. The rate on supply of medicines and medical devices on the list approved by the Cabinet of Ministers of Ukraine is 7%.

Ukrainian VAT legislation for the taxation of services applies the concept of "place of supply". Only supplies of goods/services with a place of supply in Ukraine are subject to VAT in Ukraine.

In general, services rendered within the Customs territory of Ukraine are taxed at the general VAT rate, regardless of whether they are rendered to residents or non-residents. However, there are certain exceptions to this rule. Certain transactions are exempt from VAT and are not subject to VAT.

If entities meet certain criteria, they may be subject to mandatory registration as VAT payers. One such criterion is the volume of taxable supplies of goods/services during the previous 12-month period, with the taxable threshold set at UAH 1,000,000. However, if an entity's volume of taxable supplies in this period was less than UAH 1,000,000, then it can opt to register voluntarily. There is no mechanism for a non-resident to register for VAT purposes without a PE in Ukraine. Accordingly, any Ukrainian VAT incurred by a non-resident is non-recoverable.

If an entity imports goods to Ukraine in taxable quantities, it is obliged to pay VAT during the customs clearance process without the need to register as a VAT payer.

In addition to taxable entities, the Tax Code of Ukraine defines the concept of a tax agent (individual responsible for accruing and withholding VAT) and states that, when non-residents provide services that are qualified as taxable supplies in Ukraine, VAT should be accrued and remitted to the budget by the Ukrainian customer.

For VAT accounting purposes, the so-called "first event" rule is normally used. According to this rule, output and input VAT on domestic sales are assessed on the first of the following events: the date on which goods/services are supplied/received or the date on which payment is received/paid.

In general, the tax period for VAT purposes is a calendar month. Entities liable to pay VAT must therefore submit tax returns and remit VAT on a monthly basis. For some types of taxpayers, the tax period for VAT purposes is a calendar quarter (for single taxpayers).

Electronic VAT administration

A special electronic administration system, which includes VAT accounts for all VAT payers in the State Treasury, is used for settlement of VAT to the Budget. Both input VAT and output VAT should be reflected in this system. For these purposes, VAT accounting documents (VAT invoices) are issued electronically and are subject to mandatory registration with the Unified Register of Tax Invoices.

The aim of this system is to make VAT input of the customers (i.e. VAT payers) guaranteed by payment of VAT liabilities by the suppliers. VAT input on domestic purchases can be recognised by the taxpayer only if the supplier issued a duly registered VAT invoice. In order to register a VAT invoice, the supplier should have sufficient balance in the electronic VAT administration system. Otherwise, it may be required to transfer cash to the VAT account (i.e. to prepay their VAT liabilities).

Since 1 July 2017, a special procedure for temporary suspension of VAT invoice registration by the tax authorities is in place in Ukraine. This procedure allows the tax authorities to suspend registering VAT invoices that meet certain risk criteria.

VAT recovery and refunds

Generally, VAT incurred by a registered entity on the purchase and/or importation of goods and services used for the purpose of its own business (except for VAT incurred in relation to exempt supply) may be recovered by way of a credit against output VAT. If the VAT credit exceeds VAT output, a VAT refund is available in the form of a cash payment.

FRINGE BENEFITS TAX (FBT)

There is no separate fringe benefits tax. Both residents and non-residents are subject to personal income tax (PIT) on fringe benefits (treated as a payment-in-kind). The value of the benefits form part of the taxable employment income of individuals by grossing up for PIT.

SOCIAL SECURITY CONTRIBUTIONS

Employers are liable to pay a single contribution for mandatory state social insurance (SC) relating to salaries and benefits paid to their employees.

The maximum SC base is capped at fifteen minimum monthly salaries and is equal to UAH 62,595.00 in 2019. The minimum amount of SC per month is UAH 918.06 in 2019.

The applicable SC rates are as follows:

Type	Single contribution for mandatory state social insurance rate
	Employer's Contribution	Employee's Contribution
Enterprises and PEs using hired labour force (labour contracts)	22%	0%
Employers paying remuneration under civil law contracts	22%	0%
PEs registered as taxpayers under the simplified tax system	22%
Individuals engaged in independent professional activities	22%

There is a special reduced SC rate of 8.41%, 5.5% or 5.3% for payments to individuals with physical disabilities.

LOCAL TAXES

There are a number of taxes at local level, including property tax (divided into real estate tax, other than land plot, land tax and vehicle tax), single tax, fee for parking of vehicles and tourist tax. In general, local taxes (except for single tax) and duties do not have a significant impact on a taxpayer's tax position.

LAND TAX

Land tax is imposed on owners and users of land. Land tax is divided into land fee and rent. The land fee is paid by owners of land plots and the rent is paid by users of land plots. The tax base is the monetary valuation of the land plot.

The rate of land tax depends on the category, location, and the existence of a state valuation for each particular land plot. The land tax rate is established every year at a percentage by local self-government bodies. In general, the tax rate cannot exceed 3%.

Land tax is calculated annually for the current year and paid annually in full (by natural persons) or monthly in equal instalments (by legal entities).

VEHICLE TAX

A local vehicle tax shall be charged on owners (natural persons and legal entities) of passenger cars with an average market value exceeding 375 minimal salaries as of 1st January of the reporting year (i.e. UAH 1.5 million in 2019) and not older than 5 years.

The tax rate is UAH 25,000.00 per year for each passenger car.

Vehicle tax is calculated annually for the current year and paid annually in full (by natural persons) or monthly in equal instalments (by legal entities).

REAL ESTATE TAX, OTHER THAN LAND PLOT

Real estate tax, other than land plot, is imposed on owners of residential and non-residential property in Ukraine, both individuals and legal entities, including non-residents. Real estate tax rates are set by local authorities but cannot exceed 1.5% of the statutory minimum salary established as of 1st January of a reporting year per square metre of an apartment, house or non-residential real estate (for 2019, the maximum is UAH 62.60 per square metre).

In addition, owners of apartments exceeding 300 square metres or houses exceeding 500 square metres should pay an additional UAH 25,000.00 on an annual basis. Tax relief for up to 60 square metres per apartment and 120 square metres per house (this will also be the case for an individual holding more than one property item the total size of which exceeds 180 square metres) is given to individual real estate taxpayers if property is used for private purposes only.

There are statutory tax exemptions (e.g. production facilities and warehouses of industrial enterprises, buildings and constructions used in agricultural production, property owned by government agencies and some kinds of non-profit organisations (NGOs)).

Real estate tax is calculated annually for the current year and paid annually in full (by natural persons) or monthly in equal instalments (by legal entities).

SPECIAL PENSION FUND CHARGES

The following special charges are payable to the State Pension Fund:

- 3%, 4% or 5% charge on the initial registration of vehicles (new cars, which are first subject to a registration with the government agency), depending on their value. In 2019, the following criteria are applicable: up to UAH 305,745.00 – 3%; above UAH 305,745.00, but not exceeding UAH 537,370.00 – 4%; above UAH 537,370.00 – 5% (the base is the value of the new car).
- 1% charge on the acquisition of real estate payable by individuals and legal entities that purchase real estate (the base is the value of the real estate).
- 10% charge on the value of precious metals contained in jewellery during its marking on the public enterprises of assay control (the base is the value of the precious metal).

STAMP DUTY

There is no stamp duty in Ukraine. However, special duties are imposed on certain transactions, including notarisation of contracts (state duty) and the filing of documents with the courts (court fee). In most cases, the amounts involved are nominal, although there are some exceptions.

EXCISE TAX

Excise tax applies to certain goods imported to or produced in the Ukraine. Excisable goods include ethyl alcohol, alcoholic beverages, beer, tobacco and tobacco products, cars, car bodies, motorbikes, liquefied gas, petrol, diesel fuel, other fuel material, and electric power.

The rates of excise tax can be ad valorem (a percentage of the value of the goods), specific (in monetary units per unit of goods), or combined.

There exists a special electronic administration system for excise tax on fuel. This system is aimed to control income and outcome flows of fuel in the market. The system requires entities to issue and register excise accounting documents (excise invoices) electronically on each operation of fuel sale, its usage for the company's needs, and for manufacturing non-excisable goods.

CHARGE ON ENVIRONMENTAL POLLUTION

The Ukraine Tax Code provides for an environmental tax. Environmental tax is imposed on any legal entity that discharges contaminants into the environment (air or water) or disposes of waste.

The environmental tax base depends on the amount and types of contaminants. The actual environmental tax rate depends on the type and toxicity of each contaminant. The minimum rate is UAH 0.49 per ton of contaminant, and the maximum rate is UAH 3,121,217.74 per ton.

B. DETERMINATION OF TAXABLE INCOME

Taxable profit is defined as the financial result before tax, determined under Ukrainian accounting standards or under International Financial Reporting Standards, that is subject to several adjustments. Add-back adjustments increasing the financial result for tax purposes include the following:

- Thirty percent of the cost of goods, fixed assets, works and services purchased from non-residents registered in low-tax and non-transparent jurisdictions, or from non-profit organisations if the amount of purchase from non-profit organisations exceeds 50 minimum salaries. This limitation does not apply if the taxpayer substantiates the arm's length level of the expenses by preparing transfer pricing documentation.
- Royalties paid to non-residents exceeding the sum of royalty income and 4% of the taxpayer's net sales income for the preceding reporting year (excluding VAT and excise tax). In some cases, royalties are added back in full. The limitation does not apply if the taxpayer substantiates the arm's length level of the royalties by preparing transfer pricing documentation.
- Transfer pricing adjustments.
- Provisions and allowances accrued for financial accounting purposes (except salary provisions).
- Bad-debt allowances.

Ukraine

- Funds or cost of goods, works or services provided to non-profit organisations in an amount exceeding 4% of the taxpayer's taxable profit for the preceding year.
- Impairment of fixed assets and intangible assets.
- Expenses on repairs and reconstruction of non-production fixed assets and intangible assets.
- Non-repayable financial aid (goods/services), which was provided free of charge for the benefit of its recipients (other than duly registered non-profit organisations) that are not CIT payers or which are taxed at a 0% CIT rate.
- Losses from fines, penalties, forfeits, which were accrued in accordance with civil legislation for the benefit of entities that are not CIT payers (except for private individuals), or which are taxed at a 0% CIT rate.
- Losses from participation in the equity of other companies.

Industry-specific adjustments apply for banks and financial institutions. Tax loss carry forwards decrease the pre-tax financial result for CIT purposes.

If a taxpayer's income does not exceed UAH 20 million, the taxpayer may opt not to make any adjustments to the financial result before tax for CIT purposes.

According to domestic tax accounting rules, taxable items are normally recognised on the basis of the accrual method. In accordance with this method, income is generally recognised in the reporting period in which it was accrued. In general, expenses are recognised when they are incurred (i.e. upon receipt of goods or services), regardless of the period of payment. The expenses must be recognised in the reporting period in which the income related to these expenses is recognised.

Resident entities are taxed on the worldwide income they receive or accrue within the reporting period. Gross taxable income is defined as any income, from domestic or foreign sources, that is received or accrued by the taxpayer in the course of conducting any activity. This income may be in monetary, tangible or intangible form.

Tax holidays until 2021 are introduced for taxpayers with an annual income of less than UAH 3 million provided they meet certain requirements:

- (i) Payroll amount (not less than two statutory minimum wage monthly per employee),
- (ii) A defined average number of employees in the previous periods (for the entities established prior to 1 January 2017); and
- (iii) Are compliant with limitations on types of activities (according to the specific list).

DEPRECIATION

Depreciation allowances are permitted for all capital assets, including both fixed and intangible property, except for land, goodwill, fixed assets under conservation and non-business-related capital assets. For tax purposes, fixed assets are defined as assets that are designated for use in a taxpayer's business activity for more than one year and that have a value exceeding UAH 6,000.00.

According to the Ukraine Tax Code, fixed assets are divided into 16 groups according to their minimum useful life for tax depreciation purposes.

Groups	Fixed assets and other non-current assets included in this group	Minimum useful life, years
Group 1	Plots of land	-
Group 2	Capital expenditure on land improvements unrelated to construction	15
Group 3	Buildings	20
	Facilities	15
	Transmission devices	10

Group 4	Machinery and equipment	5
	Computers and other automatic data processing equipment; related information read-out and printing equipment; related computer programs (except for payments for programs that are classified as royalties and/or programs treated as intangible assets); other information systems; switch boxes, routers, modules and modems; uninterrupted power supplies and means connecting them to telecommunications networks; telephones (including satellite phones), microphones and portable radio transmitters worth over UAH 6,000.00	2
Group 5	Motor vehicles	5
Group 6	Instruments, devices, furniture	4
Group 7	Animals	6
Group 8	Perennial plants	10
Group 9	Other fixed assets	12
Group 10	Library funds	-
Group 11	Low-cost non-current tangible assets	-
Group 12	Temporary facilities	5
Group 13	Natural resources	-
Group 14	Reusable containers	6
Group 15	Rented assets	5
Group 16	Long-term biological assets	7

For tax purposes, fixed assets are depreciated during their useful lives using one of the following four methods:

- Straight line method;
- Reducing balance method;
- Accelerated reducing balance method;
- Cumulative method.

The tax depreciation method used should correspond with the taxpayer's UAS (Ukrainian Accounting Standards) policy. Each fixed asset is accounted for separately and depreciated over its useful life, as defined in the taxpayer's tax policy, but which should be at least the minimum useful life period indicated in the Ukraine Tax Code. Taxpayers should use the longer of the tax accounting indicated by Ukraine Tax Code or financial accounting depreciation terms. According to the Ukraine Tax Code, intangible assets are divided into six groups. Each intangible asset should be accounted for separately and amortised using one of the abovementioned methods over its useful life, taking into consideration the minimum useful life established by the Ukraine Tax Code.

Groups	Fixed assets included in this group	Minimum useful life, years
Group 1	Rights to use natural resources	According to the entitling document
Group 2	Rights to use property	According to the entitling document
Group 3	Rights to use commercial branding (trademarks, etc.)	According to the entitling document
Group 4	Industrial property rights	According to the entitling document, but not less than five years
Group 5	Copyrights and related rights	According to the entitling document, but not less than two years
Group 6	Other intangible assets	According to the entitling document

STOCK / INVENTORY

Generally, stock is valued at its purchase cost. The cost of materials transferred to production may be determined by the following valuation methods: average cost, cost of item, FIFO, price of sales or standard cost.

CAPITAL GAINS AND LOSSES

As mentioned above, capital gains and losses are subject to profit tax at regular corporate rates.

DIVIDENDS

Dividends paid by Ukrainian companies are subject to advanced corporate income tax (ACIT), which is calculated based on the statutory tax rate – 18%. Advance payment is calculated on the excess amount of dividends to be paid over the value of the object of taxation for the reporting year on the results of which the dividends are paid and for which the liability is paid. In the case of an outstanding liability, advance payment is calculated on the full amount of dividends to be paid. ACIT is due prior to or upon payment of dividends.

Ukrainian companies may use paid ACIT to reduce their CIT liability for future periods.

ACIT does not apply to dividends paid by the following entities:

- Dividends paid to individuals;
- Dividends paid by joint investment vehicles;
- Dividends paid to shareholders of the taxpayer's parent company, up to the amount of dividends received by the parent company from third companies;
- Dividends paid to companies whose profits are exempt from tax, up to the amount of such exempt profits in the period for which dividends are paid.

Dividends distributed to non-residents are subject to withholding tax at a rate of 15%, unless an applicable double tax treaty provides otherwise. Ukrainian CIT payers do not include dividends received from other Ukrainian CIT taxpayers that pay ACIT on their taxable profit.

INTEREST EXPENSES

Any interest expenses incurred by a taxpayer in the course of carrying out business activities are generally deductible.

However, interest payments to non-resident related parties are capped at the level of 50% of financial profit before tax, financial expenses and depreciation charges of the taxpayer, provided that the taxpayer's debt-to-equity ratio exceeds 3.5 (10 for financial institutions and companies engaged exclusively in leasing activity).

Disallowed interest expenses may, in principle, be carried forward indefinitely (subject to a 5% reduction each tax period). The deduction of payments to tax havens is limited.

LOSSES

Tax losses may in principle be carried forward indefinitely and should be reported in CIT returns for subsequent periods as a separate deductible difference although there are specific limitations for utilising such losses in future tax periods. Losses may not be carried back.

FOREIGN-SOURCED INCOME

Foreign-sourced income and gains are subject to CIT at the regular rate except for dividends, unless an applicable double tax treaty provides otherwise.

INCENTIVES

Small businesses may choose to adopt the simplified tax system and become a simplified taxpayer. The simplified tax system is designed to reduce the tax and administrative burden on legal entities and private individuals. Taxpayers eligible to use this system, tax rates and permitted types of business activities are described in the table below:

Group	Maximum annual income (UAH)	Maximum number of employees	Types of permitted activities*	Rate (%)

C. FOREIGN TAX RELIEF

Tax residents are allowed to offset foreign taxes paid in respect of the income received abroad against their Ukrainian tax liabilities if it is provided by a double tax treaty (DTT) between Ukraine and the relevant foreign state. The amount of foreign tax credit is limited to the amount of Ukrainian tax that would arise from the same income in Ukraine. To claim a tax credit, the taxpayer must obtain an official confirmation of the amounts of income subject to tax abroad and the tax paid thereon, issued/verified by the relevant foreign tax authority.

D. CORPORATE GROUPS

There is no group taxation.

E. RELATED PARTY TRANSACTIONS

The Ukraine Tax Code adheres to the main standards of the OECD Guidelines. It requires certain transactions to be recognised as “controlled transactions” (CT) which must be performed according to the arm’s length principle and are subject to control by the tax authorities.

The following business transactions carried out by Ukrainian taxpayers are deemed to be controlled (if they have an influence on the corporate income tax base):

- Transactions with non-resident related parties;
- International transactions on the sale of goods and/or services through non-resident commission agents;
- Transactions with non-residents that do not pay CIT and/or are not tax residents of the country where they are registered as legal entities and are incorporated under specific legal forms (the list of such legal forms of non-residents has been approved by the Cabinet of Ministers. This list currently includes 95 specific legal forms from 26 countries);
- Transactions with non-residents (both related and non-related parties) registered in a jurisdiction listed by the Cabinet of Ministers (the full list of low tax jurisdictions now includes 79 jurisdictions), i.e.:
 - a state (territory) where the income tax rate is lower than in Ukraine by at least 5 percentage points;
 - a state which is not a party to international agreements with Ukraine containing provisions on information exchange;
 - a state, where the respective agencies do not provide for timely and full exchange of tax and financial information at the request of tax agencies;
- Business transactions (including intrafirm settlements), between a non-resident and its permanent representative office in Ukraine.

Transactions stated above (except for transactions between a non-resident and its permanent representative office in Ukraine) are treated as CT, if both of the following conditions are met:

- The annual income of a taxpayer from any activities, defined in accordance with the accounting standards, exceeds UAH 150 million (net of indirect taxes) for the reporting year;
- The volume of such transactions of the taxpayer with one counterparty, as defined under the accounting standards, exceeds UAH 10 million (net of indirect taxes) for the reporting year.

Transactions between a non-resident and its permanent representative office in Ukraine are treated as CT, if the volume of such transactions, as defined under the accounting standards, exceeds UAH 10 million (net of indirect taxes) for the reporting year.

Based on OECD rules, Ukrainian TP rules provide for five methods to determine whether the conditions of commercial and financial relations between related parties satisfy the arm’s length principle:

- Comparable uncontrolled price method;
- Resale price method;
- “Cost plus” method;
- Transactional net margin method;
- Profit split method.

The comparable uncontrolled price method has priority. In cases where the resale price method, “cost plus” method, net margin or profit split methods may be applied by the taxpayer with the same reliability, the resale price or “cost plus” method shall be used.

The deadline for submitting the report on controlled transactions since 2017 is stated as 1st October of the year following the reporting year. Transfer pricing documentation should be submitted at the request of the Ukrainian tax authorities within 30 days.

The transfer pricing documentation should contain the following information:

- Comprehensive information about parties of CT and taxpayer’s related parties, including information on entities, which are owned 20% or more by the taxpayer (either directly or indirectly) and information on entities-owners of 20% or more in the taxpayer (either directly or indirectly);

- Information about the group (parent company and subsidiary companies), including: structure, description of activities, group transfer pricing policies, information on entities which the taxpayer provides with local management reports (names of the countries in which these entities hold their head offices);
- Description of the management structure of the taxpayer, its organisational structure scheme and number of employees;
- Description of business and strategy of business, implemented by the taxpayer, in particular, economic terms of business, analysis of respective markets of goods (works, services), where the taxpayer operates, major competitors;
- Information about the taxpayer's participation in business restructuring or transfer of intangible assets during the reporting or preceding year, with an explanation of the aspects of those operations that had or still have an impact on the operations of the taxpayer;
- Description of the CT and copies of the agreements (contracts);
- Description of goods (work, services), including physical characteristics, quality and reputation in the market, country of origin and manufacturer, trademarks, etc.;
- Information about the payments actually made in the CT (amounts and currency of payment, date, payment documents);
- Factors that impact the price, in particular business strategies of the parties (if any);
- Functional analysis of the CT: information on the functions of CT's parties and assets which they used and which are associated with such CT, and economic (commercial) risks taken into account by such persons in the implementation of the CT;
- Economic and comparative analysis: amount of income or expenses, profitability level; transfer pricing method applied, its substantiation; information about and approach to selection of comparables data and sources of information; substantiation of use of information for several tax periods (years) during calculation of profitability range and calculation of average weighted profitability index (if any); profitability level calculation of the arm's-length price or profitability range; description and calculation of adjustments of terms in controlled and comparables transactions (if any) etc.;
- Information about adjustments of tax base and tax amount made by the taxpayer (if any).

The terms for selection of comparable companies are specified in the Ukraine Tax Code. One may use information on comparable companies in order to determine profitability level subject to all the following conditions being met:

- A comparable company conducts activities comparable to the activities of the taxpayer and performs comparable functions (comparability of activities is determined under national and international classifiers);
- A comparable company does not have losses according to accounting (financial) statements in more than one reporting period out of all periods used for the calculation of financial indicators;
- A comparable company does not own, directly and indirectly, more than 20% of corporate rights in another legal entity or does not have as a participant (shareholder) a legal entity with a direct/indirect participatory share of more than 20%.

Criteria for grouping several CTs for TP purposes are also prescribed. The principle of grouping allows to unify several CTs (to confirm that the arm's length principle has been applied), subject to the following conditions: such transactions are interconnected or they are a continuation to each other or have a continuous or regular nature.

An option of concluding an advance pricing agreement (APA) with the Ukrainian tax authorities is available to large taxpayers, whereby an approach to pricing in CTs can be agreed upon with the tax authorities in advance. APAs should guarantee that the tax authorities accept the selected transfer pricing methodology for CTs.

To monitor a taxpayer's compliance with TP rules, the Ukrainian tax authorities are authorised to conduct specialised TP audits. The tax authorities have a right to audit CTs and request TP documentation to be presented for review for a period of seven years following the date of submission of the report on CTs.

Implementation of BEPS

According to the information of the Ministry of Finance, the Ukraine has joined the implementation of the Base Erosion and Profit Shifting (BEPS) action plan from 1 January, 2017.

The official letter with Ukraine's commitment to implement the BEPS plan was handed over by the Finance

Ukraine

Minister to the OECD Secretary-General on 22 November, 2016. At present, no changes to domestic tax legislation have been implemented.

In October 2018 the Ministry of Finance and the National Bank of Ukraine have presented the Ukraine draft Law "On Amendments to the Tax Code of Ukraine to Implement the Action Plan for the Prevention of Tax-Base Erosion and Profit Shifting". The Law is aimed at ensuring the financial stability of the country on its way to the free movement of capital, to improve the effectiveness of tax regulation and to implement consolidated business transparency requirements in Ukraine in line with international standards.

The draft Law is currently being worked on in accordance with law-making procedures.

F. WITHHOLDING TAX

The domestic withholding tax rates (CIT) are set out in the table below (although more favourable treaty rates may apply). In order to benefit from any applicable treaty relief, a non-resident should provide the Ukrainian taxpayer with a residency certificate issued annually by the tax authorities of their country of residence. The amount withheld should be remitted to the government when the income is paid to the non-resident.

Income from Ukrainian sources	Withholding CIT rate
Dividends	15%
Interest	15%
Royalties	15%
Income from international freight transportation	6%
Other Ukrainian-sourced income	15%

A special tax is levied on insurance and advertising income payable from the Ukraine to non-resident companies. This tax should be accrued on top of the income from Ukrainian sources payment (i.e. the gross amount) at the following rates and is non-recoverable for the taxpayer (see table below).

Income from Ukrainian sources	CIT rate
Insurance income	0% / 4% / 12%
Income from advertising services	20%

G. EXCHANGE CONTROLS

Currency operations that take place in Ukraine fall under state currency control regulations, a key feature of which is the concept of residency.

Only the local currency (UAH) may be used in business transactions between residents. Residents and non-residents involved in international trade and investment transactions generally use a foreign currency.

On 7 February 2019 the new Ukraine Law "On currency and currency transactions" came into force establishing the freedom of currency transactions as the main principle of regulation of currency transactions. It further provides for key principals of regulation in the fields of licensing in the financial services market, monitoring of currency transactions and liability for offences.

Foreign currency proceeds received by a company from its foreign clients must be credited to a local bank account within 365 days of the export date of the goods (export transactions). Failure to comply with this provision will result in the Ukrainian company being liable to pay a penalty of 0.3% of the proceeds for each day of delay.

Goods must be imported into Ukraine within 365 days of prepayments being made by a Ukrainian company to its suppliers (import transactions). Failure to comply with this provision will result in the Ukrainian company being liable to pay a penalty of 0.3% of the proceeds for each day of delay.

These terms (concerning enrollment within 365 days) are not being applied if the transaction amount is lower than UAH 150,000.00 (approximately USD 5,500.00 or EUR 5,000.00).

Cash receipts in foreign currency received by entities from abroad are subject to mandatory sale on the foreign exchange market. All entities are required to sell at least 50% (from 1 January 2019 until 28 February 2019) or 30% (from 1 March 2019) of revenue they receive in foreign currencies.

Several temporary restrictions may be imposed on cross-border payments in foreign currency.

H. PERSONAL TAX

The Personal Income Tax (PIT) base for Ukrainian and foreign nationals depends on their tax residency status. Ukrainian tax residents are subject to PIT on their worldwide income, whereas non-residents are only subject to taxation on the Ukrainian-sourced portion of their income. The Ukraine Tax Code also provides for a self-recognition procedure, according to which an individual can voluntarily elect to be a Ukrainian tax resident. Domestic laws provide tax residency rules and these provisions may be overruled by the respective provisions of relevant double tax treaties.

The following PIT rates are generally applied:

- 18% - general rate for the income of tax residents and the Ukrainian-sourced income of non-residents.
- 0% - on inheritance from immediate family members, income from the sale of qualifying residential property and plots of land not exceeding the limit for free land transfers (provided that the property has been in ownership for more than three years).
- 5% - on income from the sale of commercial property; income from the second and subsequent sales of residential property within one reporting year; income from the sale of movable property by its owner, other than the first sale of a vehicle; income from the sale of plots of land over the maximum area for free land transfers; on dividends issued by a resident issuer (except accrued dividends on shares and/or investment certificates); and on inheritance paid to non-relatives.
- 9% - on dividends accrued on shares and/or investment certificates, issued by a resident CIT non-payer.

The Ukraine Tax Code also provides a list of items that must be included in an individual's taxable income. These include, among other things, salary, gifts, insurance contributions and premiums, rental income and fringe benefits. Contributions to unqualified pension plans made on behalf of a taxpayer by another person/ an employer will also be included into an individual's taxable income. Income received from the sale of real estate is not taxable if the property is sold only once during a calendar year, regardless of the size of property. Revenue earned from the sale of a house, apartment, part of an apartment, room or cottage (including the plot of land, on which it is located) is:

- Not subject to tax if sold only once during a calendar year, and if the property has been owned for more than three years; or,
- Subject to 5% tax, which is levied on the amount received for a second sale of the property within a reporting year.

Foreign individuals, who are considered Ukrainian tax residents, are taxed in the same manner and according to the same rules as Ukrainian citizens.

I. MILITARY DUTY

Since 2014, all types of income subject to PIT are also subject to military duty. The rate of this duty is 1.5% of taxable income.

J. TREATY AND NON-TREATY WITHHOLDING TAX RATES

As of January 2019 the Ukraine has up to 73 double tax treaties in effect. Withholding taxes on interest, dividends and royalties are typically reduced by tax treaties. A summary of withholding rates under the various treaties is provided in the table below. But it should be noted that in every specific case the terms and conditions of the treaty in question need to be examined. Taxpayers do not require confirmation from the tax authorities before claiming relief under a treaty. However, the withholding agent must hold a certificate of residence from the treaty country for the person to whom income is paid.

In addition to the above, the Ukraine Tax Code requires the recipient of all types of income from the Ukraine to be the beneficial owner (actual recipient) of the respective income. Agents, nominee holders and other intermediaries in respect of the received income cannot be beneficial owners of income sourced in Ukraine, and, therefore, are not entitled to favourable treaty provisions.

KEY TAX POINTS

- There are no taxes levied by the Federal Government on income or wealth of companies and individuals. However, most emirates have issued tax decrees of general application.
- The tax decrees issued by the emirates impose income tax at varying rates on taxable income of 'bodies corporate, where so ever incorporated', but the enforcement is generally limited to foreign oil exporting companies and foreign banks.
- There are no withholding taxes on outward remittances, whether of dividends, interest, royalties or fees for technical services etc. from businesses operating in the United Arab Emirates.
- UAE free zones, which permit 100% foreign ownership, grant specific tax exemptions ranging from 15 to 50 years to companies operating in the free zones. There are more than 40 free zones around the UAE.
- There are no personal taxes except municipal taxes ranging from 1% to 7.5% on the annual rental of residential property(ies).
- Municipal fees for hotels, apartments and restaurants have been reduced during the year 2018 for some emirates.
- 5% VAT is applicable on most goods and services.
- UAE cabinet has made a major announcement approving a new investment law permitting 100% foreign ownership of companies in the UAE. The law is yet to be implemented.
- Cabinet Decision introducing long term visas to specified category of persons (investors, entrepreneurs, Individuals with specialised talents and researchers in various fields of science and knowledge and Honours students with promising scientific potential) has been gazetted.
- With a commitment to implement the anti-BEPS minimum standards, UAE has joined the Inclusive Framework (IF) on BEPS and has signed the Multilateral Convention ("MLI") to Implement Tax Treaty Related Measures to Prevent BEPS.
- UAE implemented Common Reporting Standards ('CRS') with financial institutions filing its first report on or before 30 June 2018.

A. TAXES PAYABLE

FEDERAL TAXES AND LEVIES DIRECT TAXES

There are no taxes levied by the Federal Government on income or wealth of companies and individuals. However, most emirates have issued tax decrees of general application. These impose income tax of varying rates on taxable income of 'bodies corporate, where so ever incorporated'. In practice, however, enforcement of the decrees is limited to oil exporting companies and foreign banks. Corporate income tax is imposed on foreign oil companies, i.e. companies dealing in oil or oil exploration rights.

Although the tax rate applicable to oil companies is generally 55% of operating profits, the amount of tax actually paid by the oil companies is calculated on the basis of a rate agreed mutually on the basis of specific individual concessions between the company and the respective Emirate. The tax rate may range between 55% and 85%.

The tax of foreign banks is not enforced in all the emirates. Branches of foreign banks are taxed at 20% of their taxable income in the Emirates of Abu Dhabi, Dubai, Sharjah and Fujairah. The basis of taxation does not differ significantly between the various Emirates. Dubai, Sharjah and Fujairah have issued specific tax legislation for branches of foreign banks, while Abu Dhabi does not have a specific decree. Special arrangements also exist for major government-controlled joint venture companies and some foreign banks. No tax returns are requested or required of other businesses operating in the United Arab Emirates (UAE). Further, there are no withholding taxes on outward remittance, whether of dividends, interest, royalties or fees for technical services, etc. from the other businesses operating in the UAE.

In view of the above, detailed consideration is not given to the income tax decrees. Companies establishing major ventures in the UAE might, however, be well advised to seek formal tax exemptions from the respective ruler in order to avoid future assessments. Arrangements may also on occasion be made by foreign companies wishing to pay tax (for example, where profits from foreign branches are not subject to home state taxation if foreign taxes are paid) for tax to be paid at less than the tax decree rates. UAE free zones, which permit 100% foreign ownership, grant specific tax exemptions ranging from 15 to 50 years to companies operating in the free zones.

The UAE cabinet has made a major announcement in 2018 approving a new investment law permitting 100% foreign ownership of companies in the UAE. Formerly, as mentioned above, this was limited to those companies based in Free Zones. The Ministry of Economy is in the process to coordinate the implementation of these new rules and preparation of detailed reports to ensure these developments. This new law is yet to be enforced.

B. INDIRECT TAXES

Municipal taxes are charged in all of the Emirates. For example, in Dubai, a 7% municipal tax is charged on hotel revenues and entertainment (reduced from 10% formerly with effect from 1 July 2018). Municipal taxes on renting of residential premises range from 1% in Ajman, 5% in Dubai and in Abu Dhabi – 5% for all premises other than Residential Villas, and 7.5% for Residential Villas (increased from 3% formerly with effect from 17 May 2018). Customs (import) duties are levied generally at a rate of 5% but there are many items which are duty exempt such as medicines, most food products, capital goods and raw material for industries etc. Imports by free zone companies are also exempted unless products move outside the zone. If the products are moved outside the zone, Customs Duty is levied at 5%.

After the introduction of the new uniform customs tariff on 1 January 2003, all non-Gulf Co-operation Council (GCC) products, except for those exempted, are subject to 5% Customs Duty, while the products of GCC countries shall enter into each other's markets free of customs duties. Products are considered as originating in a GCC country if the value added to such product in the said country is more than 40% of the value of the product in question and if the factory that manufactured the product is at least 51% owned by GCC nationals.

In the event of re-export to non-GCC countries, a customs deposit has to be made and this will be refunded when proof of re-export is given to the authorities. In the event of re-export to GCC countries, Customs Duty at 5% will be levied at the first point of entry. The provisions of the GCC Customs Union have applied since 1 January 2003. There are currently no consumption taxes in the UAE, but individual Emirates may charge levies on certain products such as liquor and cigarettes and on certain services such as those provided in the hospitality industry.

The Federal Tax Authority (FTA) was set up as the government entity responsible for the collection and management of federal taxes in the UAE. The FTA works in conjunction with the UAE Ministry of Finance (MOF). So far, the FTA has introduced the laws relating to excise tax and Value Added tax (VAT) along with the relevant rules and procedures for implementing the taxes.

In line with the GCC unified agreement on excise tax, the UAE implemented an excise tax, effective from 1 October 2017. The excise tax rates to be applied in the UAE are as follows: 50% for carbonated drinks; 100% for tobacco products; 100% for energy drinks.

VAT was introduced in the UAE with effect from 1 January 2018. VAT is intended to provide the UAE with a new source of income which will be continued to be utilised to provide high-quality public services. VAT is charged in the UAE at the standard rate of 5% on most goods and services and at a zero rate for some categories of supplies such as export of goods and services outside the GCC, certain education services and healthcare services and international transportation and related supplies. Residential properties, bare land, local passenger transport and supply of some financial services are exempt from VAT.

Many of the popular free zones in the UAE like Jebel Ali Free Zone, Abu Dhabi Airport Free Zone, Sharjah Airport International Free Zone and others, that have specific fenced geographic areas, security measures and customs controls, have been included in a list of Designated Zones (DZs) released by the MOF. These DZs have certain advantages under the VAT regime, whereby no VAT is chargeable for a transfer of goods between DZs, subject to certain conditions and a transfer of goods from one entity to another within the same DZ, as long as it is part of a supply chain and not meant for final consumption by the receiving entity, may not be subject to VAT. The tax authority in the UAE has clarified that dividend income received by merely holding shares in a company does not constitute consideration for a supply. Passively earned dividend income is therefore outside the scope of VAT.

C. TREATY AND NON-TREATY WITHHOLDING RATES

The UAE has entered into the avoidance of double taxation treaties (DTT/tax treaties) with more than 100 countries. The UAE has also signed agreements for the Protection and promotion of Investments with 78 countries. Tax treaties signed by the UAE may have little relevance from the UAE tax perspective as a UAE tax liability is predetermined (no withholding tax on dividends, interest and royalties among others). The taxes paid in the UAE can be claimed as a credit in the home country of the foreign company depending on the relevant DTT and the domestic laws of that country.

UAE DTTs are in force/under negotiation with the following countries:

KEY TAX POINTS

- A company resident in the UK is generally chargeable to Corporation Tax on all its sources of income and capital gains, wherever arising. Companies with overseas permanent establishments may however make an election to exempt profits and losses from those permanent establishments from UK tax if conditions are met.
- A company not resident in the UK but receiving rental income from UK property is liable to UK income tax. From 6 April 2020 such companies will be subject to corporation tax.
- Dividends received by UK companies from both UK and non UK companies are generally exempt from Corporation Tax if conditions are met. These conditions are stricter for smaller recipient companies.
- Where income or gains arising overseas are taxable on a UK resident company due to the conditions for exemption not being met, double taxation relief is generally available in respect of foreign tax suffered.
- Non-resident companies are liable to Corporation Tax if they carry on a trade in the UK through a permanent establishment in the UK. Capital gains arising on a non-resident company in respect of the sale of assets used in, or for the purposes of a trade carried on through a UK permanent establishment are also subject to Corporation Tax.
- Controlled foreign companies (CFC) legislation is in place to ensure that profits diverted from the UK to subsidiaries resident in low tax jurisdictions are included in a controlling UK company's taxable income.
- Transfer Pricing rules impute arm's length pricing to transactions between connected parties whether located overseas or in the UK. For Small or Medium sized entities (SMEs) the application of the rules are generally restricted to transactions with countries with which the UK does not have a suitable double tax treaty.
- The 'Diverted Profits Tax' came into force in April 2015. This imputes a tax charge of 25% on profits 'artificially diverted' from the UK through transactions which have no economic substance, where the arrangements are not otherwise caught by CFC or Transfer Pricing rules. This tax is not covered by UK Tax treaties, the charge may not be creditable for overseas tax purposes.
- Country-by-Country reporting regulations apply to multi-national groups with a UK parent company and turnover of EUR 750 million (approximately GBP 685 million) or more. For accounting periods commencing on or after 1 January 2016, such entities must provide HMRC with an annual report which discloses certain financial and fiscal information for each country in which the group carries on its business.

- Companies, partnerships, groups or sub-groups with a turnover of GBP 200 million or more or a balance sheet total over GBP 2 billion in the previous tax year, are required to publish their tax strategy on the internet. If part of a multinational group, the strategy should cover matters relevant to UK tax. The first strategy should be published before the end of the first financial year commencing after 15 September 2016.
- Companies incorporated in the UK with, either alone or when its results are aggregated with other UK companies in the same group, a turnover of more than GBP 200 million and/or a balance sheet total of more than GBP 2 billion must comply with the Senior Accounting Officer regime. Qualifying companies are required to appoint a Senior Accounting Officer (SAO) and notify HMRC that they have done so. The SAO is responsible for taking reasonable steps to ensure that a company has appropriate tax accounting arrangements and certifying this to HMRC. The SAO can be held personally liable to a penalty in the event there is a failure in this duty.
- UK companies/groups with net UK interest exposure above GBP 2 million are required to apply new rules effective from 1 April 2017 to limit corporate tax deductibility of interest expenditure. A fixed interest rate will apply, limiting the allowable net interest exposure to 30% of a group's UK EBITDA. Also a group ratio rule can apply replacing the current worldwide debt cap. If an election is made this will be beneficial if the group rate is higher than the 30% fixed ration. This group rate will be based on the external net interest to EBITDA for worldwide group.
- From 1 April 2017 businesses will be able to use carried forward losses against profits from other income streams other than those that created the loss or against trading profits generated by other group companies. Where group taxable profits exceed GBP 5 million, the amount of loss that can be offset will be restricted to 50% of the amount of profit that could be offset against the carried forward losses.
- VAT is charged on the supply of most goods and services in the UK, the acquisition in the UK from other EU Member States of any goods, and the importation of goods from places outside the EU Member States.
- Income Tax at 20% must be withheld from payments of interest or royalties, although since April 2016 banks are no longer required to deduct Income Tax from certain payments of interest, principally where the recipient is a UK resident individual. Double tax treaties reduced or removed this charge in many cases historically, but this had to be claimed formally from HMRC prior to making any payment at a reduced rate of withholding. There is no withholding tax on dividends.
- Resident and UK domiciled individuals are subject to Income Tax on their worldwide income as it arises. Non-residents are normally only subject to Income Tax on income arising in the UK.
- UK resident but non-UK Domiciled individuals can choose to be taxed only on their Income and Capital gains arising in the UK together with Income and Gains remitted to the UK from overseas in a given tax year (the Remittance Basis). However, long term residents are required to pay an annual charge to qualify for this treatment. From 6 April 2017 new rules are also in existence to treat certain individuals as UK domiciled for income tax and capital gains tax purposes if they were born in the UK (i.e. had a domicile of origin), and since 6 April 2017 have been resident in the UK for at least 15 out of the past 20 tax years, or have returned to the UK since 6 April 2017 and become UK resident.
- Non-domiciled individuals who come to work in the UK, and who were not resident in the UK for any of the previous three tax years, can claim overseas work day relief for the first three tax years following arrival in the UK.
- A UK domiciled or deemed domiciled individual is potentially subject to Inheritance Tax on the transfer of any property owned by him, whilst a non-UK domiciled individual may only be subject to Inheritance Tax on the transfer of property situated in the UK. Inheritance Tax is a combination of gift and death tax. For UK inheritance tax purposes an individual will be treated as UK domiciled if they have been UK domiciled within the three years preceding the relevant date, or from 6 April 2017 they have been resident in the UK for at least 15 out of the past 20 years and at least one of the four years ending with the relevant year, or from 6 April 2017 the individual returns to the UK to become UK resident, having had a UK domicile at birth but later emigrated and acquired a foreign domicile.
- From 6 April 2015, non-residents owning UK residential property are subject to Capital Gains Tax in respect of gains arising on disposal of that property. In most cases, only increases in value from that date will be subject to charge. There is also a requirement to complete and lodge a Non Resident Capital Gains Tax return within 30 days of disposal and in some cases and capital gains tax needs to be paid within that period.
- Non-resident landlords owning UK commercial property will be subject to UK tax on gains arising from April 2019. Also, from April 2020, it is proposed that non UK companies carrying on UK property rental businesses will be charged to corporate tax rather than income tax at present.

- UK residential property owned by non-natural persons (e.g. companies) is subject to an annual tax (Annual Tax on Enveloped Dwellings) but there are reliefs where the property is used in certain property businesses, including letting.
- UK resident trusts are liable to UK tax on worldwide income and gains. Non-resident trusts are liable to UK tax only on UK income.
- Anti-avoidance legislation exists to attribute the income and gains of offshore trusts and companies to UK residents who set up such structures and their UK resident beneficiaries.
- Trusts are subject to their own Inheritance Tax regime on worldwide assets. However foreign assets settled by a non-UK domiciled person (who was also not deemed domiciled) are excluded.
- Devolved taxes – with effect from 1 April 2018 the Scottish government introduced new tax rates applicable to employment, trading, pension and rental income for Scottish resident taxpayers. Land and Buildings Transaction Tax applies to Scottish situated properties – See I below. There are separate Land and Buildings Transaction Tax and Landfill Tax regimes in Scotland. Separate devolved powers apply for Northern Ireland; see H below.
- HMRC wish to become one of the most digitally advanced tax administrations in the world. From 1 April 2019 HMRC will require most businesses, self-employed people and landlords to maintain digital tax accounts and submit quarterly digital returns where VAT registered.

A. TAXES PAYABLE

COMPANY TAX

A UK resident company is liable to Corporation Tax on all its sources of income and capital gains, wherever these arise. A company is deemed to be resident in the UK, for tax purposes, if it is incorporated in the UK or its central management and control is exercised in the UK. A non UK resident company carrying on a trade in the UK through a permanent establishment (located in the UK) is liable to Corporation Tax on all income and gains attributable to that permanent establishment.

Corporation Tax rates are fixed for each financial year commencing 1 April. If a company's accounting period does not coincide with the financial year, its profits must be time apportioned and the Corporation Tax rate applied accordingly. Prior to 1 April 2015, the applicable rate of Corporation Tax varied depending upon a company's taxable profits. From 1 April 2015, however, a company is subject to a standard rate of Corporation Tax, irrespective of the level of its taxable profits:

	1 April 2017 to 31 March 2018	1 April 2018 to 31 March 2019	April 2019 to 31 March 2020
Standard rate	19%	19%	19%

The UK standard rate of corporate tax is expected to reduce to 17% with effect from 1 April 2020.

Large companies are those companies with taxable profits in excess of GBP 1,500,000. Where a company is a member of a group of companies, the limit of GBP 1,500,000 is reduced proportionately by the number of 'active' companies within the group. Where a company is 'large' for a second successive period, or where its taxable profits exceed GBP 10,000,000 (divided by the number of active companies within the group, where appropriate), it will be required to pay its Corporation Tax liability for that period in quarterly instalments. The first payment is generally due 6 months and 13 days after the start of the accounting period and quarterly thereafter. Companies with an annual Corporation Tax liability of GBP 10,000 or less are not required to pay taxes by instalments. For companies which are not required to pay their Corporation Tax in instalments, the payment date is 9 months and 1 day after the end of the relevant accounting period.

For accounting periods starting on or after 1 April 2019 companies with annual taxable profits of GBP 20 million or more (reduced by number of active companies in the group) are required to pay quarterly on the 3rd, 6th, 9th and final month of its 12 month accounting period. (For a 31 December year end, payments will be due on the 14 March, 14 June, 14 September and 14 December of that year.)

CAPITAL GAINS TAX

Capital gains made by companies are taxed at the standard rate of Corporation Tax. Non-resident companies are only taxed on capital gains from the sale of assets used in, or for the purposes of, a trade which is carried on through a permanent establishment located in the UK. From April 2015 non UK residents are chargeable on certain disposals of residential property in the UK and further changes are planned for UK commercial property. There are special provisions allowing tax deferrals by UK resident and non-resident companies for reinvestment / migration. Capital losses can only be offset against capital gains arising in the same financial year, or carried forward indefinitely to set against future capital gains. It is not possible to carry back capital losses.

A capital gain or loss arising on the disposal of shares in a trading company may be exempt from UK Corporation Tax where at least 10% of the ordinary share capital has been held for a minimum period of 12 months. This relief is called the "Substantial Shareholdings Exemption" (SSE). The rules are relaxed for disposals on or after 1 April 2017. The changes mean that the company making the disposal no longer has to be a trading company or member of a trading group. The company being sold no longer needs to meet a trading condition immediately after the disposal to an unrelated party and also the holding of a 10% stake requirement is relaxed provided at least 10% was held for a 12 month period within the 6 years prior to the disposal.

BRANCH PROFITS TAX

There is no branch profits tax in the UK. Foreign branch profits of a UK company are liable to UK Corporation Tax with relief (generally) available for overseas taxes paid on the same profits. An irrevocable election may be made to exempt the overseas branch profits from UK tax. Where an election is made any branch losses are not available to offset against the company's profits and previous losses relieved against UK profits are clawed back. The election is irrevocable and applies to all branches of a UK company. A UK branch of a non-resident company is taxable on its profits and gains in the same way as a UK resident company.

VALUE ADDED TAX (VAT)

VAT is charged on the supply of most goods and services made by businesses in the UK. VAT is collected at each stage of the supply chain, generally when title to the goods passes or when services are performed. The burden of the tax falls on the ultimate consumer. Supplies of goods or services made in the UK by foreign entities can give rise to a requirement to register for VAT in the UK. VAT registration is compulsory for businesses established in the UK making annual taxable supplies in excess of the registration threshold. VAT registration is required if a business' VAT taxable turnover is more than GBP 85,000. This will not change for 2 years from 1 April 2018. Voluntary registration is sometimes available for businesses trading below this level. There is no VAT registration threshold for businesses making taxable supplies in the UK that have no UK business address. Such businesses must register for VAT immediately upon making taxable supplies in the UK unless the reverse charge simplification applies. The UK reverse charge simplification applies to most services when provided by a non-UK supplier to a UK VAT registered business customer.

The standard rate of VAT in the UK is 20%. Some supplies, such as the grant of certain interests in land, insurance, education, financial services, and health and welfare, are exempt from VAT (i.e. no VAT is charged but recovery of VAT on related purchases may be restricted). There is the 'option' for businesses to charge VAT on non-residential property transactions in order to recover VAT incurred, however, this is subject to anti-avoidance restrictions.

The export of goods from the UK, plus UK supplies of some other goods and services (e.g. books, food, children's clothing) are zero-rated. Other UK supplies may also be subject to VAT at the reduced rate of 5% (e.g. certain building works and energy saving products). VAT-registered businesses with an annual taxable turnover not exceeding GBP 150,000 may elect to simplify their VAT accounting by using the 'flat rate' scheme. Under the scheme, businesses account for VAT at a flat rate on turnover rather than on every single transaction. They are, however, not able to recover VAT on expenditure other than capital items over GBP 2,000.

The UK's VAT regime is derived from its membership of the European Union. Should the UK leave the EU at the end of October 2019 (or later) VAT will remain in broadly the same form as present. There may however be significant changes relating to international trade procedures and taxation.

Digital Services Tax (DST)

The UK government has signalled its intention to introduce from April 2020 a narrowly targeted 2% tax on the UK revenues of digital businesses that are considered to drive significant value from the participation of their users. The type of business targeted include social media platforms, search engines and online marketplaces. A business will be taxable if it generates more than GBP 500 million in global annual revenues from in scope activities and generates more than GBP 25 million in annual revenues from in scope activities linked to UK users. Businesses will not pay DST on the first GBP 25 million of UK taxable revenues.

The tax will be deductible against UK Corporation Tax but will not be within the scope of the UK double tax treaties and therefore not creditable against UK CT.

A public consultation is underway and more details will be available in Finance Bill 2019-2020.

APPRENTICESHIP LEVY

An apprenticeship levy applies at a rate of 0.5% of an employer's pay bill. A GBP 15,000 allowance for employers means that the levy is only paid on employers' pay bills over GBP 3 million.

Employers can use their levy funding to contribute towards training costs, subject to a number of qualifying conditions.

FRINGE BENEFITS TAX (FBT)

No FBT is payable by the employer as the employees are normally taxed on benefits provided by virtue of their employment. However, National Insurance may be payable by the employer on the cash equivalent of the benefit provided.

BENEFITS IN KIND

There are 2 ways to report benefits, either through payroll reporting each time a payment is made or annually. An annual return is required regardless of which way benefits are reported.

LOCAL TAXES

Local authority rates are charged on the occupier of commercial property in the UK based on the rateable value of real estate at a level determined by central government.

OTHER TAXES

Insurance Premium Tax will be payable at the standard rate of 12% from 1 June 2017. Stamp Duty, at a rate of 0.5%, is payable by the purchaser (whether or not UK resident) on the transfer of shares in a UK incorporated company. Stamp Duty Land Tax (SDLT) is payable on UK land and building transactions and the rates are between 0 and 12% on the consideration paid for residential properties. SDLT is charged at increasing rates for each portion of the price. From 1 April 2016, an additional 3% charge applies to purchases of certain residential properties.

In Scotland, Land and Buildings Transaction Tax (LBTT) replaced SDLT with effect from 1 April 2015. The rates of LBTT for residential property range from 0 to 12%, with the 12% applying to consideration over GBP 750,000 as opposed to over GBP 1,500,000 for SDLT. LBTT is also applied progressively. From 1 April 2016, an additional 3% charge applies to purchases of certain residential properties.

For non-residential property, SDLT applies at rates ranging from 0 to 4% on a block basis. Non-residential property transaction in Scotland are subject to LBTT rather than SDLT from 1 April 2015. Rates applicable range from 0 to 4.5% with 4.5% applying where the consideration exceeds GBP 350,000. Special rules apply to leases.

Special rates of SDLT apply where the residential property is purchased by a 'non-natural person' which includes companies. This rate is 15% for property costing over GBP 500,000. In addition, such properties are also subject to an annual tax, called the "Annual Tax on Enveloped Dwellings" or "ATED". Exemptions from ATED will apply where the property is used for specified, qualifying purposes, including certain letting arrangements.

For the year to 5 April 2017, Social Security Contributions are charged on employees at a rate of 12% on earnings over GBP 162 per week up to earnings of GBP 892 per week and 2% thereafter. There is no upper limit to the employer's contribution which is broadly charged at 13.8% of an employee's earnings over GBP 162 per week.

B. DETERMINATION OF TAXABLE INCOME

TRADING PROFITS

Taxable trading profits are calculated by determining assessable income and subtracting allowable deductions. Generally, to be deductible, expenditure must be incurred wholly and exclusively for the purposes of the trade and be revenue in nature rather than capital. Tax adjustments are made to the profit derived using UK accounting standards.

DEPRECIATION

Depreciation is not deductible and relief is instead given for investment through Capital Allowances. Capital Allowances are granted for depreciation of equipment and other assets at the following rates (using the reducing balance method, unless stated otherwise):

- An Annual Investment Allowance (AIA) provides for 100% tax relief on expenditure of up to GBP 200,000 on most types of plant and machinery costs but excludes cars. AIA will be increased to GBP 1,000,000 per annum for a temporary period from 1 January 2019 to 31 December 2020. Businesses with accounting periods that straddle the commencement date or the final date will need to calculate the amount of AIA they can claim for the accounting period. AIA is expected to decrease to GBP 200,000 on 1 January 2021.
- Plant, machinery and equipment: 18% where working life is less than 25 years. For certain assets where the working life is at least 25 years or the asset is one on a list of 'integral features' incorporated in a building, the writing down allowance is 8%. From 1 April 2019 and 6 April 2019, the writing down allowance for 'integral features' is reduced from 8% to 6% with regards to corporation tax and income tax respectively.
- Motor cars: cars used in the business with CO² emissions of up to 130g/Km from April 2013 onwards form part of the general plant and machinery pool and attract allowances at 18%, whereas cars with higher emissions go into a special rate pool with annual allowances limited to 8% (6% from the above referenced dates). The emissions figure goes to 110g/km for expenditure incurred on or after 1 April 2018.
- Research and development (R&D): 100% Capital Allowances are available to companies which incur capital expenditure on facilities or equipment for the carrying out of R&D. In addition, enhanced relief for revenue expenditure may be available in some cases. See 'Incentives' below.
- Investment in energy-saving equipment and environmentally-friendly equipment: 100% first year Capital Allowances are available for expenditure on designated energy efficient equipment and cars with very low CO² emissions (75g/km or less, or electric cars).

The amortisation on many intangible assets is deductible for tax. Relief can also be obtained in certain circumstances where the assets are not amortised for accounting purposes. No relief for the amortisation of goodwill or certain other business related intangibles is available where the goodwill or other intangible is acquired on or after 8 July 2015.

For 'relevant assets' acquired or created on or after 1 April 2019, relief may be available at a fixed rate of 6.5% of cost per annum provided certain conditions are met. 'Relevant assets' include goodwill, customer related intangibles, unregistered trademarks and licences on such items.

STOCK / INVENTORY

Stock and work in progress are valued at the lower of cost and net realisable value, being the only basis acceptable for tax purposes.

CAPITAL GAINS AND LOSSES

As discussed above, capital gains are included within the profits chargeable to Corporation Tax for an accounting period. Gains are normally computed by deducting the cost of an asset from its sale proceeds. An indexation allowance for inflation (calculated to December 2017) is available to companies. Capital losses can only be set against current or future capital gains, and not against income.

DIVIDENDS

Dividends received by UK companies from both UK and overseas companies are generally exempt from Corporation Tax subject to various conditions. For further details see section 'C' below.

INTEREST DEDUCTIONS

Interest is generally deductible on an accruals basis as long as the borrowing is for an allowable purpose but there are many anti-avoidance rules to restrict relief. The main exception is where, under certain circumstances, the interest is payable to a connected party and remains unpaid for more than 12 months after the end of the accounting period. Relief for such interest is deferred until it is paid unless the lender is liable to UK Corporation Tax and has brought the interest receivable into account.

The UK's transfer pricing rules apply to debt. Interest paid to a parent or fellow subsidiary (under common control and whether UK or overseas) is not deductible to the extent that the payment would not have been made if the companies had not been connected. There are no statutory debt/equity restrictions or safe harbours.

UK companies/groups with net UK interest exposure above GBP 2 million are required to apply new rules effective from 1 April 2017 to limit corporate tax deductibility of interest expenditure. A fixed interest rate will apply, limiting the allowable net interest exposure to 30% of a group's UK EBITDA. Alternatively, a group ratio rule may apply based on the ratio of external net interest to EBITDA for the worldwide group.

LOSSES

Trading losses may be:

- Set off against income and capital gains of the same accounting period;
- Carried back for set off against income and capital gains of the previous year;
- Carried forward against future trading profits from the same trade. Where within a period of three years there is both a greater than 50% change in a company's ownership and a major change in the nature or conduct of a trade, relief from the carry forward or carry back of losses will be denied from the date of the change in ownership.
- With effect from 18 April 2015, anti-avoidance provisions apply to deny the use of brought forward losses to certain arrangements where a company seeks to obtain a Corporation Tax advantage through the use of brought forward losses and it is reasonable to assume that the value of the Corporation Tax advantage exceeds the value of any non-tax advantages.
- From 1 April 2017 businesses will be able to use carried forward losses against profits from other income streams other than those that created the loss; or against profits generated by other group companies. Where group taxable profits exceed GBP 5 million, the amount of loss that can be offset will be restricted to 50% of the amount of profit that could be offset against the carried forward losses.

FOREIGN SOURCED INCOME

The UK has controlled foreign company (CFC) legislation which is designed to tax holding companies on the profits of subsidiary companies in a 'low tax territory' (countries where the tax rate is less than three-quarters of the corresponding UK tax on those profits). UK resident companies that hold a 25% or greater interest in a CFC may be taxed on the profits of the CFC but there are a number of exceptions to this rule. From 2012, the regime is targeted specifically at overseas profits that have been artificially diverted from the UK and a number of exemptions exist to take some companies or a proportion of their profits out of the charge. There is also a gateway test that companies can pass to avoid a CFC charge. A partial exemption for finance companies ensures that, in broad terms, profits caught under these rules are taxed at a quarter of the main Corporation Tax rate. From 1 January 2019 there are 2 amendments to the rules to ensure that they comply with ATAD. The definition of control has been extended to take into account interests held by associated enterprises (UK resident or not) and the finance company exemption is no longer available in relation to certain non-trading finance profits.

From 6 April 2019 there will be a UK Income Tax charge on gross income received by a person resident in a low tax jurisdiction (without a full tax treaty with the UK) in respect of intangible property to the extent that those amounts are referable to UK sales. There is a GBP 10 million de minimis threshold and a number of exemptions to this charge.

INCENTIVES

There are a number of grants and other forms of assistance available to businesses in the UK. Certain expenditure incurred in respect of qualifying research and development activities carried on by companies qualifies for enhanced tax relief. If the qualifying expenditure is incurred by small and medium sized companies, the relief is generally an additional deduction of 130%. Where such companies have a tax adjusted loss for a period, all or part of the losses can be surrendered for a repayable credit at a rate of 14.5%. From 1 April 2018, large companies may claim a taxable credit equal to 12% of the qualifying expenditure (from 1 April 2016 to 31 March 2018, the taxable credit was equal to 11% of the qualifying expenditure). Prior to 1 April 2016, large companies have the alternative option of claiming an enhanced deduction equal to 30% of the qualifying expenditure. In some circumstances, a small or medium sized company may be required to claim relief at the large company rates.

Research and development (R&D): 100% Capital Allowances are available to companies, which incur capital expenditure on facilities or equipment for the carrying out of R&D.

The Patent Box allows companies with qualifying patent income to be taxed on that income at an effective rate of 10% by way of a deduction against profits. The way in which the Patent Box relief is calculated will change with effect from 1 July 2016; however, if a company elects into the Patent Box regime for periods ended prior to 30 June 2016, it will be entitled to claim relief calculated under the existing rules until 30 June 2021, but only in respect of income from patents which existed as at 30 June 2016.

A 100% business rate discount is available to businesses that move into an Enterprise Zone. In addition, 100% Capital Allowances are available in respect of certain types of expenditure by businesses and companies based in some Enterprise Zones.

C. FOREIGN TAX RELIEF

Certain foreign taxes paid on income and gains of a UK resident company may be credited against the Corporation Tax on the same profits or relieved by way of deduction against profits. The foreign tax relief cannot exceed the UK Corporation Tax charged on the same profits. Domestic and foreign dividends received by UK resident companies from 1 July 2009 are generally tax exempt. Various conditions need to be met and those conditions are different depending on whether the recipient is a small company.

D. CORPORATE GROUPS

Tax losses (other than capital losses but see below) may be surrendered within a 75% UK group effectively allowing consolidation of losses against profits and capital gains. Where a UK group company takes over the trade of a 75% fellow UK group member, the unused trading losses and Capital Allowances are transferred to the acquiring company. The trade losses are offset against future profits of the trade transferred. Companies may also benefit from consortium relief. A company is owned by a consortium if at least 75% of the ordinary share capital is held by companies, each of whom owns at least 5%.

The transfer of assets within a 75% group of UK companies does not give rise to a capital gain. If the transferee company leaves the group within six years of such a tax free transfer, a capital gain may arise based on the market value of the asset at the time of the transfer. If the company leaves the group as a result of another company making a disposal of its shares, the gain forms part of the disposal proceeds deemed to be received by the company selling the shares.

A company with capital losses may elect to treat a gain which would have been realised by another UK group company as if it had been realised by it. The practical effect is to give a form of 'group relief' for capital losses.

E. RELATED PARTY TRANSACTIONS

UK transfer pricing legislation requires companies and partnerships to calculate profits and losses on connected party transactions in accordance with the arm's length principle. There is a requirement to prepare and retain reasonable documentation to demonstrate that the arm's length standard has been met. However, in certain circumstances, small and medium-sized groups may be exempted from the UK's transfer pricing provisions.

F. WITHHOLDING TAX

No withholding tax applies to dividends paid by UK resident companies.

Subject to the terms of the applicable tax treaty, withholding taxes must usually be deducted from interest and royalties. No withholding tax applies to interest and royalty payments where the conditions of the EU Interest and Royalty Directive are met.

G. EXCHANGE CONTROL

There are no exchange controls in the UK.

H. CORPORATION TAX (Northern Ireland) BILL

The Corporation Tax (Northern Ireland) Bill provides for the devolution of the rate-setting power for Corporation Tax to the Northern Ireland Assembly. The new rules will have effect from a date to be appointed by HM Treasury and is expected to be in April 2019. The rate is expected to be similar, if not lower, than the Republic of Ireland's Corporation Tax rate of 12.5%.

I. PERSONAL TAX

Taxable persons comprise resident individuals, trustees and executors as well as non-resident individuals, trustees and executors in respect of their UK-source income. Resident persons are generally subject to Income Tax on their worldwide income as it arises. Non-residents are normally only subject to Income Tax on income arising in the UK. Broadly, UK resident individuals are liable to capital gains tax whilst non-residents are not. However, from 6 April 2015 non-resident individuals will be liable to UK CGT on UK sited residential property on the portion of the gain arising after 6 April 2015.

A new statutory residence test was introduced from 6 April 2013 and provides clarity to individuals on their residence status. For individuals who have been residing outside the UK for some time it is important that care is taken with the number of visits to the UK, as being in the UK for too long a period could make an individual UK resident. HMRC treat an individual as being in the UK for a day if the individual remains in the UK at midnight. Under the new statutory residence test it is possible to be UK resident in certain circumstances when in the UK for as little as 16 days. Different rules apply to individuals leaving the UK as to those coming to the UK and in every case it is important to take professional advice and review current residence status.

Broadly, individuals are domiciled in the country or state regarded as their permanent home. Individuals acquire a domicile of origin at birth, normally that of their father, and it is retained until a new domicile of choice is acquired. To acquire a domicile of choice, a person must sever ties with the domicile of origin and settle in another country with the clear intention of making a permanent home there.

There are special rules which allow non-domiciled individuals from being taxed on their non-UK source income and gains until they are remitted to the UK. The rules regarding remittance to the UK are complicated and some UK residents are subject to a GBP 30,000, GBP 50,000 or GBP 90,000 annual charge for using this facility. As of 6 April 2014, specific anti-avoidance rules prevent a non-domiciled individual from using the remittance basis in respect of income earned from an overseas employment that is deemed to be connected with the individual's UK employment.

Non-domiciled individuals who come to work in the UK, and who were not resident in the UK for any of the previous three tax years, can claim overseas work day relief for the first three tax years following arrival in the UK. These rules allow a proportion of the individual's emoluments from employment to escape UK taxation until such time as those amounts are remitted to the UK, based on the number of UK and non-UK work days carried out by the individual during the true year.

Husbands and wives are taxed separately and each is entitled to a personal allowance. This has been set at GBP 11,850 for the year to 5 April 2019 and GBP 12,500 for the year to 5 April 2020 (although the allowance is reduced by GBP 1 for every GBP 2 above which an individual's annual income exceeds GBP 100,000). The income of a minor unmarried child is also taxed separately, unless it originates from funds given to the child by the parent and it is in excess of GBP 100.

Donations to UK registered charities are made net of basic rate tax. For each GBP 80 donated by an individual, the charity receives a total of GBP 100. Higher or additional rate tax relief is given by extending the basic rate or higher rate band by the grossed up amount of the gift (see below).

A UK resident individual under the age of 75 may join a personal pension scheme and make contributions. Tax relief for all contributions in a tax year is given on the higher of 100% of relevant UK earnings and GBP 3,600 (gross), and is further restricted to the annual allowance. This is GBP 40,000 from 6 April 2014 onwards and was previously set at GBP 50,000 from 6 April 2011 to 5 April 2014. A tapered reduction in the annual allowance applies from 6 April 2016 for those with an adjusted income over GBP 150,000. The reduction is GBP 1 for every GBP 2 of income over GBP 150,000 and the minimum allowance is GBP 10,000.

Individuals are able to carry forward their unused annual allowances for up to three years. The total amount an individual may contribute into a pension over his or her lifetime (including any capital growth) is determined by the lifetime allowance (which is GBP 1,055,000 from 6 April 2019).

Interest on loans taken out wholly and exclusively for business purposes qualify for tax relief. This includes interest on loans taken out to:

- (a) Acquire shares in a closely controlled company;
- (b) Acquire shares in an employee-controlled company;
- (c) Acquire an interest in a partnership or to acquire machinery or plant for use in a partnership or employment.

The amount of unrestricted Income Tax reliefs an individual is entitled to take advantage of in any one tax year is restricted to the higher of GBP 50,000 and 25% of the individual's adjusted total income. Restricted reliefs include the interest relief referred to above, as well as relief for trading and property business losses off-set against general income. Individuals are entitled to a tax credit of up to 30% of the value invested in qualifying shares in the Enterprise Investment Scheme (EIS) on investments of up to GBP 1 million per annum (GBP 2 million from 6 April 2018 if at least GBP 1 million is invested in knowledge intensive companies; and in venture capital trust (VCT) companies on investments up to GBP 200,000 per year. A more generous relief of 50% is available on investments of up to GBP 100,000 into small start-up companies from April 2012 onwards under the seed enterprise investment scheme (SEIS).

In addition to Income Tax relief, dividends received from ordinary VCT shares are exempt from Income Tax. EIS shares also qualify for capital gains deferral relief and there is no upper limit. For SEIS shares up to 50% of a qualifying investment can exempt other gains realised in the year SEIS income tax relief is claimed.

Individual Savings Accounts (ISAs) are tax favoured savings accounts. Any income or gains from investments in an ISA is tax-free. The ISA annual contribution allowance for 2019/20 is GBP 20,000. Junior ISAs for children are set at GBP 4,368 for 2019/20.

Capital gains chargeable on taxpayers other than companies are subject to capital gains tax at a rate of 10% or 20% for 2018/19 and 2019/20 depending on the total of income and gains arising in the tax year. An 8% supplementary charge applies on gains realised on the disposal of residential property. A rate of 10% is also available (known as entrepreneurs' relief) in certain circumstances, such as on the disposal of shares held in a trading company, all or part of a business or an interest in a partnership, provided certain conditions are met. A further 10% rate tax relief was also introduced and will be able to apply from 2019/20 tax year onwards, called Investors Relief. Various conditions require to be met for there to be a disposal of 'qualifying shares' or an interest in such shares in an unlisted company by an individual or trustees. Where the relief is available then a lifetime limit of GBP 10 million of gains is also available, like entrepreneurs' relief at a 10% tax rate. There is an annual exemption from tax on capital gains available per individual which for the year ended 5 April 2019 is GBP 11,700 and GBP 12,000 for the year ended 5 April 2020.

Capital gains derived from assets outside the UK will not be subject to UK tax in the hands of a foreign domiciled individual unless remitted to the UK provided the remittance basis has been claimed for that tax year. Individuals who leave the UK and become not resident for a period of less than five complete tax years may still be liable to tax on their return on any capital gains realised on assets owned prior to departure from the UK. This rule applies to those individuals who were resident for at least four out of seven tax years immediately preceding the year of departure.

INHERITANCE TAX (IHT)

A UK domiciled or deemed domiciled individual is potentially subject to IHT on the transfer of any property owned by him or her, whilst a non-UK domiciled individual may only be subject to IHT on the transfer of property situated in the UK. IHT is a combination of gift and death tax. The first GBP 325,000 is free of IHT (the 'nil rate band'). It normally only arises on death but, in certain circumstances, lifetime gifts can also be chargeable to IHT. The rate on lifetime chargeable transfers is 20% and property passing on death is charged at 40%. The rate (applicable on death) was reduced to 36% from 6 April 2012 where the deceased leaves at least 10% of his or her net estate to charity. On death, IHT may also be levied on gifts made within the previous 7 years. Special rules apply to IHT on trusts.

There are some lifetime exemptions, which are completely free of IHT and are not subject to the 7 year rule. These include; an annual exemption of GBP 3,000; small gifts exemption of GBP 250 per donee; wedding gifts to a child GBP 5,000, grandchild/great-grandchild GBP 2,500 or to anyone else GBP 1,000.

From 6 April 2017, an additional nil-rate band will apply if the value of a deceased's estate includes a property which has been their residence at some point and is left to one or more direct descendants on death. The additional nil-rate band will also apply where the deceased has either down-sized to a less valuable residence or has ceased to own a residence on or after 8 July 2015. In such circumstances, the nil-rate band will be available in respect of the value of the original main residence, provided that the deceased has left the smaller residence, or assets of equivalent value, to direct descendants. The additional nil-rate band is being phased in and it is set at GBP 100,000 for the tax year from 6 April 2017 to 5 April 2018, before gradually increasing to GBP 175,000 from 6 April 2020. For 2018/19 GBP 125,000 applies. If the value of the estate is in excess of GBP 2,000,000, the additional nil-rate band will be reduced by GBP 1 for every GBP 2 by which the value of the estate exceeds GBP 2,000,000.

Transfers between spouses and civil partners are exempt from IHT except when the transfer is made to a foreign domiciled spouse/civil partner by a UK-domiciled spouse/civil partner. A foreign domiciled individual automatically acquires a 'deemed' domicile in the UK for IHT purposes if he or she has been resident in the UK for 17 out of the previous 20 tax years, unless he or she is excluded from this rule under the terms of a double taxation treaty.

In addition, the non-domiciled individual may elect to be treated as UK domiciled for IHT purposes only. The effect of this would be that assets could be transferred from one member of a married couple/civil partnership to another, or left to them on death with no IHT arising. However, there may be IHT consequences in respect of any gifts or bequests made by the person treated as UK domiciled irrespective of the location of the assets concerned.

J. TREATY AND NON-TREATY WITHHOLDING TAX RATES

The table is for general guidance only. The rates in the table below reflect the lower of the treaty rate and the rate under domestic tax law. Where a treaty rate is higher than the domestic rate, the domestic rate applies. There is no withholding tax on dividends. If the conditions for the EU interest and royalties directive are satisfied, no tax is withheld.

Notes:

- Many treaties provide for an exemption for certain types of interest, e.g. interest paid to the state, local authorities, the central bank, export credit institutions, or in relation to sales on credit. Such exemptions are not considered in this column.
- The domestic rate applies; there is no reduction under the treaty.
- A most favoured nation clause may be applicable with respect to interest and royalties.
- The 3% rate applies to royalties paid for news; the 5% rate applies to copyright royalties (other than films, etc.); the 10% rate applies to industrial royalties.

5. A most favoured nation clause may be applicable with respect to interest.
 6. The zero rate applies to interest paid to financial institutions (as defined).
 7. The higher rate applies if the recipient company controls more than 50% of the voting stock in the UK company.
 8. The lower rate applies to copyright royalties.
 9. The zero rate applies, inter alia, to interest (i) paid to an individual, a pension scheme, a financial institution and a company in whose principal class of shares there is substantial and regular trading on a stock exchange, provided that such interest is not paid as part of an arrangement involving back-to-back loans; and (ii) interest paid by the state or a bank, or interest on a quoted Eurobond. The domestic rate applies in other cases (no reduction under the treaty).
 10. The lower rate applies to interest paid to financial institutions (as defined).
 11. The general rate under the treaty is 5%. However, in respect of royalties relating to the use of or right to use industrial, commercial or scientific equipment the following applies: (i) the 5% rate is limited to the amount calculated as the difference between the gross amount of the payment and confirmed expenses related thereto, and (ii) a 0% rate applies where the contract under which the payments are made was concluded, and the equipment provided under the contract was delivered to the territory of the other contracting state, before 26 September 2017.
 12. The zero rate applies, inter alia, to (i) interest paid in respect of a loan granted or a credit extended by an enterprise to another enterprise; and (ii) interest paid to a pension scheme (under conditions).
 13. A most favoured nation clause may be applicable with respect to interest.
 14. The general rate under the treaty is 15%. However by virtue of a most favoured nation clause the rate is reduced to 0% for royalties for the use of, or the right to use, any copyright of literary, dramatic, musical or artistic work (excluding royalties relating to cinematograph films, videotapes for use in connection with television, or magnetic gramophone records or tapes). Under the Bolivia and Spain treaty, the rate for such royalties is 0%.
 15. The treaty concluded between the United Kingdom and the former Yugoslavia.
 16. The zero rate applies to interest paid (i) in case of the sale on credit of any equipment, merchandise or services, (ii) on any loan of whatever kind granted by a financial institution, (iii) to a pension scheme or (iv) between companies, where one company holds directly at least 10% of the capital of the other company for at least 1 year prior to the payment of the interest or where both companies are held by a third company which holds directly at least 10% of the capital of both aforementioned companies for at least 1 year prior to the payment of the interest.
 17. The zero rate applies, inter alia, if the beneficial owner of the interest is a resident of the other Contracting State and is dealing with the payer at arm's length, unless the interest is contingent or dependent on the use of or production from property or unless it is computed by reference to revenue, profit, cash flow, commodity price or any other similar criterion, or if it is computed by reference to dividends paid or payable to shareholders of any class of shares of the capital stock of a company.
 18. The lower rate applies to copyright royalties (excluding films), computer software, patents and know-how.
 19. The interest rates under the treaty are 5% and 15%. The 5% rate applies to interest from loans granted by banks and insurance companies, bonds or securities that are regularly and substantially traded on a recognised securities market, and to interest in relation to sales on credit. However, by virtue of a most favoured nation clause, under the Chile-Japan treaty the rates are reduced as follows:
 - (a) from 1 January 2017, the rate for certain types of interest is reduced to 4% (restrictions may apply to back-to-back loans); and
 - (b) from 1 January 2019 the general rate is reduced to 10%.
- For further details, including the updated text of article 11, see Circular No. 22/2018 issued by the Chilean tax administration and the update of 28 February 2018 issued by HMRC.
20. The royalty rates under the treaty are 5% and 10%. The 5% rate applies to equipment leasing. However, by virtue of a most favoured nation clause, the rate for equipment leasing is reduced to 2%. Under the Chile and Japan treaty the rate for such royalties is 2%.

For further details, including the updated text of article 12, see Circular No. 22/2018 issued by the Chilean tax administration and the update of 28 February 2018 issued by HMRC.
 21. For royalties received as a consideration for the use of, or the right to use, industrial, commercial, or scientific equipment, this rate applies to 60% of the gross amount of the royalties.
 22. The zero rate applies for interest paid (i) in connection with the sale on credit of any industrial, commercial or scientific equipment, (ii) in connection with the sale on credit of any merchandise by one enterprise to another enterprise, or (iii) on any loan of whatever kind granted by a bank.
 23. A most favoured nation clause may be applicable with respect to interest and royalties.
 24. The lower rate applies to copyright royalties (including films, etc.).
 25. The rate under the treaty is 10%. However, by virtue of a most favoured nation clause, the rate is reduced to 0% on interest paid to a bank (as defined). Under the 2005 amending protocol of the Estonia-Netherlands treaty, the rate on such interest is 0%. In addition, the tax rate on interest paid in respect of a loan made, guaranteed or insured by a financial institution of a public character is also reduced to 0%. Under the 2014 amending protocol of the Estonia-Switzerland treaty, the rate on such interest is 0%.

26. The rates under the treaty are 5% (equipment rentals) and 10%. However, by virtue of a most favoured nation clause the rates are reduced to 0% for royalties (as defined). Under the 2014 amending protocol of the Estonia-Switzerland treaty, the rate is 0%.

Otherwise the domestic rate applies.

33. The higher rate applies to films, etc.
34. Lower rate applies to interest paid in connection with sale on credit of industrial, commercial or scientific equipment; or sale on credit of goods delivered by one enterprise to another enterprise.
35. The 10% rate applies to interest determined by reference to receipts, sales, income, profits or other cash flow of the debtor, to any change in the value of any property of the debtor or to any dividend, partnership distribution or similar payment.
36. The protocol contains a 'most favoured nation' clause where, if Kazakhstan signs a tax treaty with an OECD member providing for a lower withholding tax rates for interest and royalties, such lower rate will apply with respect to this treaty.
37. Lower rate applies to equipment rentals.

However, by virtue of a most favoured nation clause, from 1 January 2019, the rates for certain types of royalties (as defined) are reduced to 0%. Under the Japan-Lithuania treaty the rate is 0% for certain types of royalties.
41. The lower rate applies to interest paid on a loan by one enterprise to another.

KEY TAX POINTS

- Taxes are chargeable at the federal, state and local level.
- Corporations incorporated in the United States (US) are generally subject to tax on their worldwide income. Certain dividends received from a foreign corporation are eligible for a 100% participation exemption when the requirements are met. To avoid any double taxation on foreign branch income, foreign tax deductions or credits are available. To prevent a double utilisation of foreign branch loss by both US and foreign jurisdiction, the US tax owner can file a domestic use election in order to utilize such loss in the US.
- Foreign corporations are generally subject to tax on their income effectively connected to a US trade or business.
- A US corporation is entitled to a special deduction for dividends received from other domestic corporations.
- For corporations, capital gains are taxed at the same rates applicable to ordinary income.
- The tax on a foreign corporation's US branch's profits and earnings is the same as regular corporate tax, but an additional 30% branch profits tax (BPT) is imposed if the after-tax earnings of the branch are not reinvested in the business by the close of the tax year, or are repatriated in a later tax year. Certain tax treaties could reduce this tax rate.
- The US does not impose any VAT. However, most states impose single stage sales and use tax. Following a supreme court decision in 2018, many states have implemented new rules requiring out-of-state sellers to collect and remit sales tax to the state under certain circumstances, even without having physical presence in that state.
- Related party transactions negotiated at arm's length and meeting rigid substantiation standards are treated the same way as non-related party transactions.
- Taxes are required to be withheld from US source portfolio dividends, interest, rents, and royalties and certain other types of income paid to non-US payees. US tax treaties with a foreign country may provide reduced rates when certain requirements are met.
- The Foreign Account Tax Compliance Act of 2010 (FATCA) imposes broad reporting and withholding obligations (directly and indirectly) on most non-US entities receiving US-source income in addition to regular tax withholding.
- US citizens and residents are subject to taxation and reporting requirements on their worldwide income even if they are not residing in the US. US citizens and residents living abroad may be entitled to a Foreign Earned Income Credit or foreign tax credit, as allowed by treaty, to mitigate double taxation on income.
- Non-resident individuals are generally subject to tax on their income from US sources.
- Special lower tax rates apply to capital gains and dividend income of individuals, depending on how long the asset has been held, the type of asset and the taxpayer's income tax bracket.
- Other taxes for individuals which may be levied include alternative minimum tax (AMT), self-employment tax, social security and Medicare tax and qualified retirement plan tax. Taxes paid to the states and municipalities are generally deductible on the federal income tax return in the year paid, subject to limitations. However, for taxable years beginning after 31 December 2017 and before 1 January 2026, the state and local deduction is limited to USD 10,000 for individual taxpayers (USD 5,000 for married individuals filing separate returns).

- Other taxes for individuals which may be levied include alternative minimum tax (AMT), self-employment tax, social security and Medicare tax and qualified retirement plan tax. Taxes paid to the states and municipalities are generally deductible on the federal income tax return in the year paid, subject to limitations. However, for taxable years beginning after 31 December 2017 and before 1 January 2026, the state and local deduction is limited to USD 10,000 for individual taxpayers (USD 5,000 for married individuals filing separate returns).

A. TAXES PAYABLE

COMPANY TAX

Company tax is payable by all corporate entities, except for certain exempt organisations and pass-through corporations subject to special rules. Corporations incorporated in the US are generally subject to tax on their worldwide income. Domestic corporations that are US shareholders of a foreign corporation may be eligible for a 100% dividends received deduction under certain circumstances. The newly implemented Global Intangible Low-Taxed Income rules (GILTI) and the Base Erosion and Anti-abuse Tax (BEAT) need to be considered. Foreign corporations are generally only subject to tax on their income effectively connected to a US trade or business.

For tax years beginning after 31 December 2017, the US corporate tax rate has been reduced to a flat 21% on all levels of taxable income.

Generally, a large US corporation, defined as having at least USD 1 million gross taxable income in any of its 3 previous tax years, is required to prepay its estimated tax liability in up to four instalments. Corporations not meeting the large corporation income test can opt to pay 100% of the prior year tax under the "safe harbour" method. Penalties and interest may be assessed if estimated instalments are less than 100% of the actual liability.

The US imposes income taxation at both the corporate and shareholders' individual level. Corporate earnings are taxed first at the corporate level and again when distributed as dividends to shareholders. Business can also be conducted through flow-through entities such as traditional partnerships, limited liability companies (LLC), and certain tax-election corporations ('S corporations'). S corporations may not have non-resident individuals or corporations as shareholders. After the federal corporate tax rate being reduced to 21% under the new tax law, a thorough analysis is needed when considering how to structure the US operations to lower the tax burden as much as possible, particularly with the potential availability of a 20% qualified business deduction for businesses conducted through a pass-through entity.

Significant planning opportunities are available for both US domestic and foreign taxpayers through the use of 'hybrid' entities. These companies are treated as flow-through entities by one jurisdiction and as taxable entities by another. US rules are often flexible in allowing US taxpayers to select the desired % status of the entity under the "check-the-box" regime. However, attention must be paid to newly enacted anti-hybrid rules.

Corporate tax returns and payments are due by the 15th day of the fourth month following the end of the corporation's fiscal year. Flow-through entities are due on the 15th day of the third month following the end of the year. The original due date for calendar year taxpayers is April 15. An automatic extension to file the corporate federal and state tax return from five to seven months is permitted if requested by the original due date of the return. Extensions to file a return, however, do not extend the time for payment of tax due. Failure to pay sufficient taxes could result in an invalid extension.

CAPITAL GAINS TAX

For corporations, the excess of the net gains from the sale of capital assets over net losses from the sale of assets is taxed at the same rates applicable to ordinary income. However, capital losses may only be used to offset capital gains and the excess of losses over gains may be carried back years or forward five years. Under certain circumstances, carry back is prohibited but carry forward is extended. Losses must be applied to the earliest carry back year before any carry forwards maybe used. Capital gains invested in qualified opportunity funds may be excluded from taxable income temporarily or permanently.

ALTERNATIVE MINIMUM TAX (AMT)

For years beginning after 31 December, 2017, the US corporate AMT has been repealed.

BRANCH PROFITS TAX

A foreign corporation's US branch's profits and earnings are subject to the tax same as a US resident corporation. In addition, a 30% branch profits tax (BPT) is imposed on the after-tax earnings of the US branch that are not reinvested in the US business by the close of the tax year, or that are repatriated in a subsequent tax year. The branch profits taxable base is adjusted for any changes in the net equity of the US branch. The BPT may be reduced or eliminated by any relevant tax treaties or replaced by the secondary withholding tax.

In addition to the branch profits tax, a branch-level interest tax of 30% is imposed on any interest paid by the US branch to a foreign entity not engaged in the same business activity. The tax also is assessed on any excess interest deducted on the US tax return over the amount actually paid.

SALES AND USE TAX

Sales and use tax are imposed at the state and municipality levels and vary in rates and in bases. It can be imposed on the sale, transfer, purchase or exchange of a taxable item or service. In the US, generally only tangible personal property and enumerated services are subject to sales and use tax. Sales tax generally applies on the sale to the end user or ultimate consumer. Use tax is imposed on the storage, use, or consumption of a taxable item or service on which no sales tax has been paid. Sales and use tax rates vary from state to state and generally range from 2.9% to 7.25% at the state level. Most states also allow a 'local option' that permits local jurisdictions, such as cities and counties, to impose an additional percentage on top of the state-level tax and to keep the related revenues.

Following a US Supreme Court decision in June 2018 many states have implemented new rules to require out-of-state sellers to collect and remit sales tax even without having a physical presence in that state. This was not the case prior to this decision. In the past only vendors with a physical presence in a state were required to collect and remit sales tax. Out-of-state sellers located outside the US are also impacted by the new rules. They may have to register for sales tax purposes in states where they are selling their products and services, collect sales tax and remit it to the state.

CUSTOMS DUTIES AND IMPORT TARIFFS

All goods imported into the US are subject to entry and are dutiable or duty-free in accordance with their classification under the applicable items in the Harmonised Tariff Schedule of the US. The classification also identifies eligibility for special programs and free trade agreement preferential duty rates.

When goods are dutiable, ad valorem, specific, or compound duty rates may be assessed. An ad valorem rate, which is the type of duty mechanism most often applied, identifies the percentage of tax that will be assessed on the value of the merchandise, such as 7% ad valorem. A specific rate is a specified amount per unit of weight or other quantity, such as 6.8 cents per dozen. A compound rate is a combination of both an ad valorem rate and a specific rate, such as 0.8 cents per kilo plus 8% ad valorem. Customs requires that the value of the goods be properly declared regardless of the dutiable status of the merchandise.

Liability for the payment of duty becomes fixed at the time an entry is filed with US Customs and Border Protection (CBP), although the amount of duty owed may change subsequently if any of the information declared on entry is later determined to be erroneous. The obligation for payment is upon the person or firm in whose name the entry is filed, the importer of record.

VALUE ADDED TAX (VAT)

The US does not impose any VAT.

FRINGE BENEFITS TAX (FBT)

The US does not impose any corporate level tax on fringe benefits provided to its employees. However, certain fringe benefits are taxable to employees receiving the benefits and are required to be reported on their personal income tax returns. The US does require employers and employees to pay certain payroll related taxes including:

- (1) Social Security (FICA), taxable at 6.2% of the wage base (currently in 2019 USD 132,900, annually adjusted). The employer pays an equal amount.
- (2) Federal unemployment tax (FUTA) to be paid by employers at 6.0% in 2019 of the first USD 7,000 of wages to each employee (less credits of up to 5.4% for state unemployment tax).
- (3) State unemployment tax (SUT) to be paid by employers which varies from state to state.
- (4) Medicare at 1.45% of total wages paid (with no wage limitation cap). The employer pays an equal amount.

United States

- (5) Additional Medicare 0.9% (0.009) on employees only for wages in excess of USD 200,000 (USD 250,000 for couples filing joint returns and USD 125,000 for a married taxpayer filing a separate return).

LOCAL TAXES

Most states and some municipalities of the US impose income or franchise taxes on corporations. Tax rates vary as do the measurement of tax bases. Most states allow income to be apportioned to various states if business is conducted in more than one state. Historically, a three-factor allocation formula consisting of tangible assets, sales and receipts, and payroll has generally been used. However, many states are moving to formulas that are more heavily weighted to sales. Increasingly, US states utilize the single sales factor to apportion income and tax bases. Most states begin with federal taxable income in the computation of their taxable base, followed with some required adjustments to calculate state taxable income.

Several states have imposed a tax on gross margin or gross sales in lieu of a tax on net income. It is also important to note that some states honour provisions of US tax treaties and some states do not. Therefore, some states consider foreign companies to be subject to their state income tax even if the company is not subject to US federal income tax by virtue of a double tax treaty.

While particular rules vary from state to state, state tax authorities generally assert income or franchise tax jurisdiction over a business whose presence within the state is sufficient to form a "nexus" with that state. Unbound by treaty terms, states often seek to define "nexus" broadly, setting a lower evidentiary hurdle than what may be needed to find a permanent establishment under US income tax treaties. Accordingly, a non-US company operating in the US should remain aware of potential state income tax liabilities, even where treaty benefits may be claimed at the US federal income tax level. It is also important to note that foreign sellers may be required to collect state sales tax even if not subject to state or local income taxes. The impact of the aforementioned US Supreme Court decision in regards to sales tax on the requirement for out-of-state vendors to register for income tax purposes is unknown yet.

Other taxes that may be levied at the state level include real and personal property tax, franchise tax, intangibles tax, transfer tax, commercial activity tax, and tax on capital. Taxes paid to the states and municipalities are deductible on the federal income tax return in the year paid or accrued. For individuals there is limitation on deductions in the amount of USD 10,000 (USD 5,000 in the case of a married individual filing a separate return) for taxable years 2018 through 2025.

OTHER TAXES

In addition to corporation income taxes, the US also imposes the following taxes.

ACCUMULATED EARNINGS TAX

Corporations (other than S corporations, domestic and foreign personal holding companies, corporations exempt from tax under Subchapter F of the Code, and passive foreign investment companies) accumulating earnings and profits for the purpose of avoiding shareholder personal income tax (PIT) are subject to a penalty tax in addition to any other tax that may be applicable. The accumulated earnings tax is equal to 20% of 'accumulated taxable income'. Generally, accumulated taxable income is the excess of taxable income with certain adjustments, including a deduction for regular income taxes, over the dividends paid deduction and the accumulated earnings credit.

PERSONAL HOLDING COMPANY (PHC) TAX

Closely-held corporations that receive substantial income from passive activities and do not distribute this income to shareholders are subject to the PHC tax. The tax is imposed at a rate of 20% on the undistributed income. This tax is in addition to the regular corporate tax.

B. DETERMINATION OF TAXABLE INCOME

Corporate taxable income is determined by ascertaining assessable gross income and reducing it by allowable deductions. Allowable deductions must be segregated into ordinary and special deductions. Corporations are taxed at the entity level. For flow-through entities such as partnerships, limited liability companies and 'S' corporations, taxable income is determined in a similar fashion. However, these entities pass on income or losses and special deductions to its shareholders, members or partners and taxed at their level.

DEPRECIATION AND DEPLETION

Property, plant and equipment may be written off over a statutory cost recovery system life. For property acquired or placed in service after 31 December 1986, the capitalised costs must be depreciated using the Modified Accelerated Cost Recovery System (MACRS) over a life of 3 - 39 years. Most tangible personal property is in the three, five and seven-year category while real property is categorised as 27.5 or 39 years for residential and non-residential property, respectively. However, depreciation on certain components of buildings and real property improvements can be accelerated to shorter lives through the use of cost segregation studies designed to identify the proper categorisation of costs for tax asset classification purposes.

For some smaller corporations, an election may be made to treat the cost of assets as an expense rather than as a depreciable capital expenditure. The maximum deduction for the year 2019 is USD 1 million and is limited to taxable income determined without regard to the above election. This expense benefit is phased out on a dollar for dollar basis if qualified purchases exceed a certain threshold amount (USD 2,500,000).

Taxpayers may also qualify for a 100% bonus depreciation for qualified property, long production property or non-commercial aircraft placed in service. The property can be new or "original use" as well as used property.

A deduction for depletion is allowable for expenditures on natural resources. Generally, depletion may be calculated using either a cost or percentage method. Cost depletion is based on the adjusted basis of the property and an estimate of the number of units that make up the deposit and the number of units extracted during the year.

Under the percentage depletion method, a flat percentage of gross income is taken as the depletion deduction. It may not exceed 50% (100% for oil and gas properties) of the taxable income from the property before the depletion deduction. For independent oil and gas producers and royalty owners, the depletion deduction may not exceed 65% of the taxpayer's taxable income.

STOCK / INVENTORY

Inventories are generally stated at the lower of cost or market value on the first in, first out (FIFO) method, or cost only on the last in, first out (LIFO) method. Uniform capitalisation rules may require the inclusion in inventory or capital accounts of certain otherwise deductible indirect and administrative costs incurred for real or personal property produced or acquired for resale.

The tax law requires capitalisation for tax purposes of several costs allocable to the manufacturing process that frequently are expensed as current operating costs for financial reporting (e.g. a portion of general and administrative costs, significant cost variances, and the excess of tax depreciation over financial statement depreciation).

When inventory is sold, the cost of goods sold is subtracted from sales to compute gross income. Amounts included in cost of goods sold are not subject to the BEAT unless the payments are made to an 'expatriated entity'.

GOODWILL

The cost of goodwill generally is capitalised and amortised rateably over 15 years, beginning in the month the goodwill is acquired.

START-UP EXPENSES

Generally, start-up expenditures must be amortised over a 15-year period; however, certain taxpayers may elect to deduct some expenses in the tax year in which the trade or business begins.

CAPITAL GAIN AND LOSSES

See above Capital Gains Tax discussion.

DIVIDENDS

For tax years beginning before 31 December 2017, a US corporation generally may deduct 70% of dividends received from other US corporations in determining taxable income. The dividends received deduction (DRD) is increased from 70% to 80% if the recipient of the dividend distribution owns at least 20% but less than 80% of the distributing corporation. Generally, dividend payments between US corporations that are members of the same affiliated group are deferred or eliminated until a transaction with a third party occurs. With minor exceptions, a US corporation may not deduct dividends it receives from a foreign corporation. For tax years beginning after 31 December 2017, the new tax act reduces the 70% DRD to 50% and the 80% DRD to 65%. A 100% DRD is provided for the foreign-source portion of dividends received by a US corporation from certain foreign corporations with respect to which it is a 10% US shareholder. The 100% DRD applies to distributions made after 31 December 2017.

Stock dividends - A US corporation can distribute a tax-free dividend of common stock proportionately to all common stock shareholders. If the right to elect cash is given, all distributions to all shareholders are taxable as dividend income whether cash or stock is taken. There are exceptions to these rules, and extreme caution must be observed before making such distributions.

INTEREST DEDUCTIONS

A taxpayer generally may deduct business interest paid or accrued within the tax year on indebtedness. However, such debt must pertain to the debt of the taxpayer and must result from a genuine debtor-creditor relationship. Numerous exceptions and limitations exist regarding the deductibility of interest. For example, if a corporation's average annual gross receipts (on an aggregated basis of a controlled group) for the prior three years exceed USD 25 million, then a significant limitation applies. Interest deductions are limited to 30% of taxable income before interest, depreciation, amortisation and depletion for tax years beginning before 1 January 2022. For tax years beginning after 31 December 2021, depreciation, amortisation, and depletion must be deducted in determining taxable income. Any interest disallowed under this limitation can be carried forward indefinitely.

LOSSES

Generally, net operating losses from a trade or business arising in tax years ending after 2017 may not be carried back as allowed in past years but can only be carried forward for an indefinite period.

Losses generated in tax years beginning before 2018 can still offset 100% of taxable income. Under the new law the deduction of losses arising in tax years beginning after 2017 is limited to 80% of taxable income. A successor corporation may use carryovers of a predecessor to a limited extent in a change of ownership, a subsidiary liquidation or a specified reorganisation. Significant limitations could apply for corporations which have experienced a "change of control".

FOREIGN SOURCE INCOME

US corporations are generally taxed on worldwide income, i.e., foreign-source income may be subject to US taxation under certain circumstances. Subject to certain limitations, foreign taxes may be taken as a deduction or as a foreign tax credit.

Foreign income (Subpart F income) of US taxpayers

In the case of controlled foreign companies (CFCs), certain types of undistributed income are taxed currently to certain US shareholders (Subpart F income). More specifically, in situations in which a foreign corporation is a CFC, every US shareholder owning 10% or greater of the total value of shares of all classes of stock or the total combined voting power of all classes of stock entitled to vote of such a foreign corporation (US shareholder) must include in gross income its pro rata share of the Subpart F income earned by the CFC, regardless of whether the income is distributed to the US shareholders.

With certain exceptions, Subpart F income generally includes passive income and other income that is readily movable from one taxing jurisdiction to another (i.e. income that is separated from the activities that produced the value in the goods or services generating the income). In particular, Subpart F income includes insurance income, foreign base company income, and certain income relating to international boycotts and other violations of public policy. There are several subcategories of foreign base company income, the most common of which are foreign personal holding company income (FPHCI), foreign base company sales income (FBCSI), and foreign base company services income (FBCSVI).

FPHCI is passive income (e.g. dividends, interest, royalties, and capital gains). FBCSI and FBCSVI are sales and services income earned in cross-border, related-person transactions. There are a number of common exceptions that may apply to exclude certain income from the definition of Subpart F income, including exceptions relating to highly taxed income, certain payments between related parties, and active business operations.

In situations in which the US shareholder is a domestic corporation, the domestic corporate shareholder may claim a foreign tax credit for foreign taxes paid or accrued by a CFC. Furthermore, certain rules track the earnings and profits of a CFC that have been included in the income of US shareholders as Subpart F income to ensure that such amounts (known as previously taxed income or PTI) are not taxed again when they are actually distributed to the US shareholders.

The new act also requires a US shareholder to include in income the 'Global Intangible Low-Taxed Income' (GILTI) of its CFCs, effective for tax years of foreign corporations beginning after 2017. Despite the name, this provision is not limited to low-taxed income from intangible assets.

The full amount of GILTI is includable in the US shareholder's income, and generally is then reduced through a 50% deduction in tax years beginning after 31 December 2017 and before 1 January 2026, and a 37.5% deduction in tax years beginning after 31 December 2025. A corporate taxpayer generally also can claim a credit for 80% of the foreign taxes associated with GILTI.

Three new significant tax regimes introduced by the new law should be noted.

Global Intangible Low-Taxed Income rules (GILTI)

US shareholders of controlled foreign corporations (CFCs) have to include on a current basis the aggregate amount of certain income generated by its CFCs, regardless of actual repatriation, effective tax years beginning after 31 December 2017.

Foreign-Derived Intangible Income (FDII)

The Tax Act provides US companies with a new permanent deduction in regards to Foreign-Derived Intangible Income (FDII). The incentive is available to C-corporations or corporations that have not made an S-election to be treated as a flow-through entity. The incentive allows C-corporations who generate income from foreign markets to deduct a portion of their eligible export income, or FDII. Thus the effective tax rate on such eligible export income after the FDII deduction is 13.125%. Beginning in tax years after 2025, the deduction is reduced and the effective tax rate will be 16.406%. FDII is a new category of income and it does not have to come from intangible assets. Instead, the new tax law assumes a fixed rate of return on a corporation's tangible assets. Any remaining income is deemed to be generated by intangible assets.

The FDII deduction may represent a significant deduction for C corporations if they generate income from the sale of property to a non-US person for foreign use. A sale includes any lease, license, exchange, or other disposition. FDII applies to services provided to any foreign person or with respect to any property outside of the United States. Many related-party property and service transactions are also eligible for the deduction, although special rules apply.

Under the new tax act for tax years beginning after 2017 and before 1 January 2026, a new deduction is allowed equal to 37.5% of a domestic corporation's FDII plus 50% of the GILTI amount included in gross income of the domestic corporation. For tax years beginning after 31 December 2025, the deductions are reduced to 21.875% and 37.5%, respectively. If, in any tax year, the domestic corporation's taxable income is less than the sum of its FDII and GILTI amounts, then the 37.5% FDII deduction and the 50% GILTI deduction are reduced proportionally by the amount of the difference.

Both calculations are complex and require companies to keep track of the data needed.

Base erosion and anti-abuse tax (BEAT)

The Tax Act creates a new US federal tax called the 'Base Erosion and Anti-abuse Tax' (BEAT). BEAT targets US tax-base erosion by imposing an additional corporate tax liability on corporations (other than regulated investment companies [RICs], real estate investment trusts [REITs], or S corporations) that, together with their affiliates, have average annual gross receipts for the three-year period ending with the preceding tax year of at least USD 500 million and that make certain base-eroding payments to related foreign persons during the tax year of 3% (2% for certain banks and securities dealers) or more of all their deductible expenses apart from certain exceptions. The most notable of these exceptions are the Net Operating Loss (NOL) deduction, the new Dividends Received Deduction (DRD) for foreign-source dividends, the new deduction for Foreign-Derived Intangible Income (FDII) and the deduction relating to the new category of Global Intangible Low-Taxed Income (GILTI), qualified derivative payments defined in the provision, and certain payments for services.

The BEAT is imposed to the extent that 10% (5% for the 2018 calendar year) of the taxpayer's 'modified taxable income' (generally, US taxable income determined without regard to any base-eroding tax benefit or the base-erosion percentage of the NOL deduction) exceeds the taxpayer's regular tax liability net of most tax credits. The above percentages are changed to 11% and 6%, respectively, for certain banks and securities dealers.

A base-eroding payment generally is any amount paid or accrued by the taxpayer to a related foreign person that is deductible for acquiring property subject to depreciation or amortisation, or for reinsurance payments. The category also includes certain payments by 'expatriated entities' subject to the anti-inversion rules of Section 7874. The provision is effective for base-erosion payments paid or accrued in tax years beginning after 31 December 2017. For tax years beginning after 31 December 2025, the percentage of modified taxable income that is compared against the regular tax liability increases to 12.5% (13.5% for certain banks and securities dealers) and allows all credits to be applied in determining the US corporations regular tax liability. Special rules apply for banks, insurance companies, and 'expatriated entities'.

INVESTMENT TAX CREDIT

The Investment Credit comprises five components:

- (1) The rehabilitation credit;

United States

- (2) The energy credit;
- (3) The qualifying advanced coal project credit;
- (4) The qualifying gasification project credit; and
- (5) The qualifying advanced energy project credit.

For flow-through entities, the credits must be allocated to the individual partners, shareholders or beneficiaries on a pro rata basis. Generally, the credit is 10% of qualifying expenses (20% in the case of certified historic structures). It should be noted that no investment credit is allowed for investment credit property to the extent it is financed with nonqualified non-recourse debt and also that the 2018 tax reform repealed the 10% credit for pre-1936 buildings for amounts paid or incurred after 2017.

INCENTIVES

In addition to investment tax credits, other preferential tax incentives are available for activities such as those related to export, activities engaged in US possessions, qualified private activity bonds, research and development expenditures, and for hiring certain specified individuals. Also, a deduction of up to 9% of taxable income attributable to domestic production activities before 2018 is available. However, such incentive is repealed for the corporations' production activities after 2017.

OTHER

Other issues that need to be mentioned include the following:

- (1) Deductions are generally allowable for charitable contributions, but for corporations may not exceed 10% of taxable income computed without regard to the contributions. Excess contributions may be carried forward for five years.
- (2) Organisational and business start-up expenditures are deductible up to USD 10,000, subject to certain limitations and the remainder must be written off over 180 months.
- (3) The cost of business meals is subject to a 50% limitation. In general, entertainment expenses are entirely non-deductible.
- (4) Bad debts, except for certain financial institutions, are deductible only under the specific write-off method for receivables that become uncollectible in whole or in part during the tax year. Other debts can only be deducted for tax purposes if worthlessness can be proved as a result of an identifiable event.
- (5) Life insurance premiums paid on key employees are deductible only to the extent that they are:
 - (a) Included in the employees' compensation;
 - (b) Not unreasonable in amount (statutory limited amount);
 - (c) The employer is not directly or indirectly a beneficiary.

C. FOREIGN TAX RELIEF

A US corporation or a foreign corporation engaged in trade or business in the US may elect to claim either a credit or a deduction for income taxes paid to another country if the taxes are connected with or related to its business and if the income is also taxed by the US. Generally, the tax credit is available only if such foreign tax is based on foreign source income. The tax credit may not reduce the US tax liability on income from US sources. Any unused foreign tax credit in one year may be carried back to the prior year and forward ten years.

The tax reform modified foreign tax credit rules in several ways. Included in the changes is the introduction of two new foreign tax credit limitation categories which are the Global Intangible Low-Taxed Income (GILTI) and the foreign branch category income. For instance, deemed paid foreign taxed credits related to GILTI are limited to 80% of the taxes paid or accrued, and the unused foreign tax credit are lost permanently which is different than the general foreign tax credit as mentioned above.

D. CORPORATE GROUPS

Affiliated groups of US corporations (parent has 80% ownership) are permitted to offset the losses of one affiliate against the profits of another via the filing of consolidated federal income tax returns. A parent's usage of prior subsidiary losses before its acquisition may be limited. State and local rules vary from federal rules in this regard and may not permit loss offsetting. Some may also require, alternatively, that returns are filed to include results of all related companies, including companies that are not includable in a federal consolidated income tax return.

E. RELATED PARTY TRANSACTIONS

Related party transactions negotiated at arm's length are treated the same as non-related party transactions. However, in general, a deduction may not be taken by one party until the transaction has been included in gross income by the other party. Deductions are also not allowed for certain amounts paid or accrued pursuant to a hybrid transaction or by, or to, a hybrid entity. The Internal Revenue Service may make any adjustments necessary to reflect the income of the related parties.

For multi-national groups, additional emphasis is placed on the 'transfer price' among members of the group. Several methods are provided to determine a proper arm's length price such as the comparable uncontrolled price, cost plus, comparable profits and various profit split methods. Significant compliance burdens now apply in these situations. Failure to maintain contemporaneous documentation of pricing determinations could result in substantial penalties (up to 40% of the tax adjustment due). US regulations require taxpayers to conduct transfer pricing studies to determine the 'best method' under the applicable circumstances.

Transfer pricing determinations must often meet standards in multiple jurisdictions. US rules for determining transfer pricing may vary from the rules of other countries that have introduced transfer pricing standards and from OECD guidelines. US states are increasingly interested in both multi-national and multi-state transfer pricing and may at times take positions differing from those of the Internal Revenue Service (IRS).

F. WITHHOLDING TAXES - NON-US PAYEES

Taxes are required to be withheld from portfolio dividends, interest, rents, and royalties, and certain other types of income paid to non-US payees. The statutory rate is 30% but reduced rates may apply if the recipient is qualified to obtain the benefits of a US tax treaty. US source income that is connected with a US trade or business is not subject to withholding, but instead is taxed at the highest tax rate applicable to the beneficiary (i.e., currently 21% for corporations or 37% for individuals). This exemption from withholding is not available unless the foreign recipient provides notice to the US payor prior to payment. Exemptions from withholding include portfolio interest, interest earned on US bank deposits if such interest is not effectively connected with the conduct of a trade or business within the US and interest earned on obligations payable 183 days or less from the date of original issue.

Special withholding tax rules apply to non-US partners in US or foreign partnerships with a US trade or business or income treated as effectively connected. The highest rate in effect will be used as the withholding tax rate and is applied to a foreign partner's annual allocable share of the partnership's US source income (whether an individual or corporation). The current rates are 37% for individuals and 21% for corporations. Special withholding tax rules also apply to direct or indirect sales or other dispositions of US real property by foreigners. A 15% withholding rate applies to the gross amount realised or sales price on the disposition of US real property. Certain exceptions may apply, e.g., the sales price is USD 300,000 or less or specific permission is granted for a reduction in the withholding.

A further, more recent, addition to the framework of US withholding obligations is found in the Foreign Account Tax Compliance Act of 2010 (FATCA). Intended as a countermeasure against perceived tax abuse through the use of foreign accounts, FATCA imposes broad reporting and withholding obligations (directly and indirectly) on most non-US entities receiving US-source income, including the proceeds from sale or disposition of US property that can produce interest or dividends. While many FATCA rules focus on what the law refers to as "FFIs", or foreign financial institutions, FATCA's impact extends to financial and non-financial operating companies. Further, FATCA compliance may be required as a condition to eligibility for benefits under any applicable US tax treaty.

G. EXCHANGE CONTROL

No direct exchange controls exist. Transactions in currency of USD 10,000 or more must be reported to the US Department of Treasury. Multiple related transactions must be treated as a single transaction for disclosure purposes. The direct or indirect transportation of currency or other monetary instruments exceeding USD 10,000 to a foreign jurisdiction must also be reported. Transfers through normal banking procedures that do not involve the physical transportation of currency are not required to be disclosed. However, US financial institutions are required to report cash transactions exceeding USD 10,000.

H. PERSONAL TAX

US citizens and other resident individuals are subject to the same tax rules. Taxes are assessed on worldwide income reduced by certain adjustments, deductions, and exemptions. Non-resident individuals are generally subject to tax on their income from US sources. Certain credits are available to reduce the tax liability. Generally, income consists of compensation from employment services, interest and dividends, income or loss from self-employment, capital gains and losses, rents and royalties and income or loss from pass-through entities. Allowable deductions include medical expenses, home mortgage and investment interest, state, local and real estate taxes (USD 10,000 limit), certain casualty losses, charitable contributions.

U

Limitations exist for the amount of losses and deductions that may be claimed by a taxpayer. Most deduction limitations are based upon the income levels of the individual. Income tax rates vary depending upon the filing status of the taxpayer. The five categories of filing status are:

- (1) Single;
- (2) Married filing a joint return;
- (3) Married filing separate returns;
- (4) Head of household; and,
- (5) Qualifying widow(er) with dependent child.

The current maximum personal income tax rate is 37%. Effective 1 January 2013, a new 3.8% tax applies on certain net investment income for taxpayers with modified adjusted gross incomes in excess of USD 200,000 (USD 250,000 for married filing joint returns, USD 125,000 for married filing separately and USD 250,000 for qualifying widow(er)). Examples of income that would be subject to the 3.8% investment tax are dividends, interest, royalties, capital gains, passive income from businesses, and net rental income.

The US requires employers to withhold federal and state income taxes, social security and Medicare tax from an employee's salary. These taxes must be remitted to the government on a periodic basis. Self-employed individuals are required to make quarterly estimated payments equal to at least 90% of their actual tax liability in most cases. Higher income individuals may need to pay in 100% of the current year's tax or 110% of the prior year's tax. Penalties and interest may be assessed for underpayment of these taxes.

Special tax rates apply to long term capital gains and "qualified" dividend income of individuals. The tax rate is based on the length of time that the asset is held, the type of capital asset, and the overall tax bracket of the individual. Many dividends also receive a preferential tax rate. Non-resident individuals are typically subject to tax on income from US sources and are generally not taxed on US source capital gains unless the gains are directly or indirectly related to sales of US real property. Many non-resident individuals do not receive preferential tax rates on dividend income. The current federal top marginal rate for qualified dividends and long term capital gains is 20% (23.8% total inclusive of the net investment income tax).

In addition to the regular income tax, individuals may also be liable for other taxes on their tax returns. These taxes include the alternative minimum tax (AMT), self-employment tax, social security and Medicare tax and qualified retirement plan tax. Most states and some municipalities also impose income taxes that vary in rates and bases. The US imposes other taxes on individuals such as gift tax and estate tax.

KEY TAX POINTS

- Corporate net income obtained by legal entities resident in Uruguay and by non-residents operating through a permanent establishment is taxed by IRAE at a rate of 25%. Under certain conditions there are options to be liquidated in a fictional form if it is more convenient (IRAEFIC) - (IRAEFA).
- Uruguay operates a territorial system of taxation.
- Resident and non-resident individuals are subject to personal income tax (IRPF - IRNR) on Uruguayan source income at varying tax rates depending on the type of income concerned. Personal income tax consists of two categories:
 - Category 1: tax capital income (capital gains and leasing of real estate) and equity increases (sales of shares, patents, real estate, etc.).
 - Category 2: tax personal services income (dependent and independent) from Uruguayan source of individuals taxed at progressive rates up to 36%.
- The standard VAT rate is 22% but there is a reduced rate of 10% for certain items while some are VAT-exempt.

A. TAXES PAYABLE

TERRITORIALITY

Uruguay taxes income under the territorial system of taxation. Thus, foreign source income is not taxable in Uruguay. However, this principle has some exceptions such as technical services, advertising, derivative instruments, internet platforms, image rights of athletes and operations with low-taxed companies.

CORPORATE TAX

Resident legal entities (corporations and individuals) and non-resident entities with a permanent establishment in Uruguay are subject to corporate income tax (IRAE) on their net income of Uruguayan source obtained from industrial, commercial and agricultural activities at a rate of 25%.

Individuals and some corporate types with income not exceeding certain threshold amounts may choose to be taxed under IRAEFIC instead of IRAE at progressive rates from 3.3% to 12% on income.

Companies or individuals deriving income from agricultural activities may opt to be subject to IRAE, IRAEFA or IMEBA, which depends on the type of company, amount of income and amount of hectares exploited. Agricultural income subject to IRAEFA is taxed at a rate ranging from 3% to 3.75% while agricultural income subject to IMEBA is taxed at a rate ranging from 0.01% to 2%.

Non-resident entities without a permanent establishment in Uruguay are subject to a specific tax on income of non-residents (IRNR). It is not a corporate tax since it does not apply to activities that combine capital and labor, except for works of less than 3 months.

Dividends, profit distributions or remittances generated by income taxed under IRAE, paid or credited in Uruguay or abroad by taxpayers subject to IRAE are also subject to a withholding tax at the rate of 7% (otherwise they are exempt from tax). The name of the tax is IRPF for residents and IRNR for non-residents. Dividends, distributions of profits or remittances generated by income taxed under IRAE that remain undistributed after four fiscal years are treated as a deemed distribution and are subject to a 7% deemed dividend tax.

The tax year is the same as the commercial year of the company, provided that adequate accounting records are kept. Otherwise, the fiscal year is the calendar year (31 December). The fiscal ending date for agricultural companies is mandatorily 30 June and for non-residents without a permanent establishment in Uruguay it is 31 December. In all cases, companies must file their tax returns before the end of the fourth month following the end of their tax year. Advance tax payments are made on account of the final liability for the relevant tax year. If the total advance payments exceed the final liability, a refund is made by means of credit certificates, which may be used to pay the taxpayer's future taxes but may not be repaid.

CAPITAL GAINS TAX

Capital gains earned by corporations and permanent establishments of non-residents are subject to the same fiscal treatment as normal taxable income and must be included in the same tax return.

Capital gains earned by individuals resident in Uruguay are subjects to IRPF at a rate ranging from 0% to 12%.

Capital gains earned by non-resident entities without a permanent establishment in Uruguay are subject to IRNR at a rate ranging from 0% to 12%.

BRANCH PROFITS TAX

Branches of foreign corporations are subject to IRAE and IMEBA at the same rate as resident companies. Dividends, profit distributions or remittances generated by income taxed by IRAE, paid or credited abroad by taxpayers are also subject to a withholding tax called IRNR at the rate of 7%. Repatriations of branch profits to a head office outside Uruguay are subject to this tax.

VALUE ADDED TAX (VAT)

Imports and the supply of goods and services in Uruguay are subject to VAT at the basic rate of 22%. Land, leases of real estate, cattle, non-industrial agricultural products, agricultural machines, newspapers, foreign currency, precious metals, public and private securities and certain essential goods and services are exempted. Certain essential goods, as well as medicines, new buildings, fruits, flowers, vegetables and land transport of passengers are subject to the minimum rate of 10%. A monthly payment is due on the sales of the previous month. Tax included in the purchases of merchandise, services and fixed assets (input VAT) is deductible from the tax billed to customers (output VAT).

FRINGE BENEFITS TAX

No tax is levied specifically on fringe benefits as they are taxed along with Personal Income Tax (IRPF Category 2) (the taxpayers are the employees) and social security contributions (the taxpayers are the employers and employees).

Note: see section H for Personal Income Tax.

SOCIAL SECURITY CONTRIBUTIONS

Employers (corporations and individuals) are subject to social security taxation on all salaries and fringe benefits paid to employees (subject to some specific exceptions) at the rate of 7.5% plus 5% of medical care.

Employees are subject to a withholding tax on their social security contributions from 18% to 23% on the gross amounts received (excluding withholding tax). In addition, they are subject to a withholding tax on their personal income tax from 0% to 36% on the gross amounts received (excluding withholding tax).

Social security contributions and personal income tax are due monthly on amounts paid for the previous month.

LOCAL TAXES

Two principal municipal taxes are in force. The main one, so-called "Real Property Contribution", is collected by the municipal authorities. Taxpayers are the owners (companies, individuals and non-resident entities) of land and buildings located in urban and rural areas. It represents a percentage (from 0.25% to 1%) of the cadastral value and is due yearly spread over three to six payments.

The second local tax is payable by owners of buildings (companies, individuals and non-resident entities) on a monthly basis for the services rendered by the local authority. This amount is adjusted periodically according to current inflation.

OTHER TAXES

A very important tax is the "Net Wealth Tax" which is determined as a percentage of the net fiscal equity at the end of the tax year.

Corporations, individuals and non-resident entities that pay IRAE are subject to the tax at a standard rate of 1.5% on their net worth, calculated on the difference between taxable assets and deductible liabilities. All must file their tax returns before the end of the fourth month following the end of their tax year. Advance tax payments are made on account of the final liability for the relevant tax year. If the total advance payments exceed the final liability, a refund is made by means of credit certificates, which may be used to offset against the taxpayer's future taxes but may not be repaid.

On the other hand, individuals not taxed under IRAE must file the tax returns related to their net worth as per 31 December before 31 May of the following year. In this case, the tax has several peculiarities regarding its calculation and the tax rates range from 0% to 1%.

Excise tax "IMESI" applies to the first transaction effected in the domestic market by manufacturers or importers of some listed goods, e.g. vehicles, alcoholic beverages, cigarettes and cosmetics. The tax rates vary for each item.

Another tax is the "Tax on Primary Education", which taxes both urban and rural real estate. The former are taxed at a value equivalent to 1/3 of the real estate contribution while the latter are taxed at a rate ranging from 0% to 0.3%.

B. DETERMINATION OF TAXABLE INCOME

DEPRECIATION

Depreciation of assets used in business activities must be computed using the fixed fiscal percentage established by the tax authority. If there is no established percentage, it must be determined based on the number of years of probable useful life of the assets. Depreciation is calculated under the straight-line method. Key depreciation rates include the following:

Asset	Rate
Machinery and equipment	10%
Automobiles	10%
Buildings in rural areas	3%
Buildings in urban areas	2%

STOCKS / INVENTORY

On the basis of original costs in local currency, companies are free to choose between FIFO or average cost. The method chosen cannot be changed without the agreement of the Tax Authority. Tax regulations do not allow generic deductions of any kind (obsolescence) or global increases (revaluations), but it allows the deduction of the value of merchandise that has suffered losses of value.

CAPITAL GAINS AND LOSSES

No special tax rules apply to capital gains or losses. They must be included in the tax return along with the current income.

INTEREST DEDUCTIONS

Interest paid to banks, financial institutions and companies that pay IRAE is deductible without limitation. Interest paid to individuals or to financial institutions located abroad is deductible up to a limited percentage that is established by the Tax Authority.

LOSSES

Losses resulting from the tax return are deductible from gains of the next five years, and, up to that date, are revaluated according to inflation coefficients. The accumulated tax loss can be deducted up to 50% of the net fiscal profit for the year.

INCENTIVES

Uruguay has an Investment Law that could benefit investors, depending on several factors such as who makes the investment in Uruguay. There are benefits for generic areas and others for specific ones, which include tax reduction on the corporate net income tax, net wealth tax and VAT.

FREE TRADE ZONES

Strategically located within Mercosur, Uruguay offers a very liberal treatment for free trade zones. Those areas of the national territory with a distinctive economic regime enjoy customs and tax exemptions and are excluded from the jurisdiction of the state monopolies. All types of export focused activities such as commercial, industrial or service oriented activities may be developed in free trade zones. Uruguay also has a very liberal treatment in the ports areas similar to free trade zone areas.

C. FOREIGN TAX RELIEF

Foreign tax relief is not available under Uruguayan fiscal law because overseas income is not taxable.

D. CORPORATE GROUPS

There are no special tax rules relating to corporate groups.

E. RELATED PARTY TRANSACTIONS

Taxation of related party transactions must be calculated on the basis of the fair market value, independently of the agreement between the parties. Uruguay applies transfer pricing regulations according to the OECD model.

F. WITHHOLDING TAX

The following income paid or credited in Uruguay or abroad by taxpayers subject to IRAE are subject to a withholding tax at the rate of:

Asset	Rate
Dividends, profit distributions or remittances	7%
Interest	7% to 12%
Royalties	12%
Technical assistance fees	12%

The name of the tax is IRPF for residents and IRNR for non-residents.

G. EXCHANGE CONTROL

No exchange controls are in force in Uruguay. All remittances to foreign countries can be carried without limitations through banks, financial institutions and authorised currency exchange houses. All transfers must be verified under money laundry regulations.

H. PERSONAL TAX

Resident and non-resident individuals are subject to personal income tax (IRPF - IRNR) on Uruguayan source income at varying tax rates depending on the type of income concerned. Personal income tax consists of two categories:

Category 1: tax capital income (capital gains and lease of real estate) and equity increases (sales of shares, patents, real estate, etc.). Note: see section A subtitle CAPITAL GAINS TAX for capital gains.

Income from lease of real estate is subject to tax at the standard rate of 12% while equity increases are subject to tax at 12% on the difference between price and tax cost.

Category 2: tax personal services income (dependent and independent) from Uruguayan source of individuals at progressive rates up to 36%.

Individuals not taxed under IRAE are subject to "Net Wealth Tax". Note: see section A subtitle OTHER TAXES.

KEY TAX POINTS

- A new Tax Code entered into force from 1 January 2008 in an attempt to develop a fairer tax system, to ease the tax burden on businesses, to simplify tax procedures, to encourage savings and investment and to promote economic development in the country. With the adoption of the new Tax Code, the main taxes applicable to investor activities are:
 - corporate income tax;
 - individual income tax;
 - value added tax;
 - excise duties;
 - property tax;
 - obligatory contributions to non-budget funds;
 - land tax;
 - tax withheld at the source of payment from non-residents' income;
 - other duties and payments.
- The tax system of Uzbekistan consists of the single tax regime on the one hand and the general tax regime on the other hand. Single taxpayers are micro and small enterprises, and enterprises of trade and catering, legal entities in the implementation of the lottery, sweepstakes and other games based on risk. Other companies fall under the general tax regime.
- Value added Tax (VAT) applies to all taxable sales of goods, works and services at a rate of 20%. There is a zero rate on qualifying exports and certain internal supplies.
- Transfer pricing: In accordance with the Tax Code, the tax authorities may adjust prices used by related parties where these prices differ from the prices, which would have been set for independent customers/suppliers.
- Individuals who are physically present in Uzbekistan for 183 days or more in any calendar year (or during any other period of up to 12 months), are considered to be residents of Uzbekistan for tax purposes. Resident taxpayers are subject to income tax on income gained from sources of their activity both in Uzbekistan and abroad. Non-residents, however, are taxed only on their income from sources in Uzbekistan.
- The majority of businesses in Uzbekistan are organised as limited liability companies, open and closed joint stock companies, partnerships, sole proprietorships, and representative offices of foreign companies. Companies may limit their presence to a permanent establishment (not a legal form and only for tax purposes). The most common types of business presence in Uzbekistan for foreign companies are:

- limited liability companies;
 - joint stock companies;
 - representative offices;
 - permanent establishments.
- Taxable income comprises business and investment income and is calculated as the difference between aggregate income and deductible expenses. In general, expenses incurred wholly and exclusively for business purposes are deductible. For other income sources, expenses may be deducted provided they are incurred wholly and exclusively in the generation of income.
 - Dividends paid to residents and non-residents with a permanent establishment in Uzbekistan from profit that has been subject to Uzbekistan tax are exempt from profit tax (by way of a deduction from taxable income). Profit tax is not imposed on income derived from state securities.
 - Capital gains are treated as ordinary income and are subject to the standard profit tax rate. However, a capital gains tax liability arises only when the gain is attributed to the sale of shares for a higher price.
 - Losses (which should be based on financial year results) may be carried forward for five years (except for losses incurred while the taxpayer was exempt from profit tax). However, total losses carried forward in each subsequent year may not exceed 50% of taxable income for the current tax period. Losses may not be carried back.
 - The general profit tax rate is 14%, with a 22% rate applicable to banks. In addition to general profit tax, as of 2018 non-residents with a permanent establishment in Uzbekistan pay 7% on a percentage of the total expenses directly related to the income-generating activities in Uzbekistan through the PE (branch remittance tax) (previously 10% on net profit after tax).
 - The unified tax rate is 14%. However, the rate differs for a number of industries. For example, IT, construction, publishing companies, and industrial enterprises pay 5%, while entertainment companies and companies with lease income (more than 60%) derived from the rent of sales outlets pay 30%. Different rates have been set for trading and catering companies. The unified tax rate is lower for companies established in remote regions.

A. TAXES PAYABLE

COMPANY TAX

The tax system of Uzbekistan consists of two models: the single tax and general tax regime.

Single taxpayers are micro and small enterprises, and enterprises of trade and catering, legal entities in the implementation of the lottery, sweepstakes and other games based on risk. Accordingly, Uzbek Law on guarantees of freedom of entrepreneurial activity considers small enterprises as follows:

- Individual entrepreneurs;
- Micro-firms whose annual average number of workers employed:
 - (i) In production sector - is not more than 20 persons;
 - (ii) In the sphere of services and other non-production sectors - not more than 10 persons;
 - (iii) Are involved in wholesale, retail trade and catering - not more than 5 persons.

Small enterprises whose annual average number of workers involved in:

- light and food industry, metal-processing and instrument-making industry, woodworking industry, furniture industry and industry of building materials: not more than 100 persons;
- machine-building, metallurgy, fuel-energy and chemical industry, production and processing of agricultural products, construction and other production domain: not more than 50 persons;
- science, science servicing, transport, communication, sphere of services (with the exception on insurance companies), commerce, catering and other non-production domain: not more than 20 persons.

Other companies fall under the general tax regime.

1. The tax rate on profits of legal entities: 14% in general and 22% for commercial banks. A progressive scale applies to mobile phone operators.
2. Exporters of goods and services of their own production for freely convertible currency (USD, CHF, JPY, EUR or GBP) may apply reduced rates of corporate income tax: (i) if the export share in total sales ranges from 15% to 30%, corporate income tax is reduced by 30% and (ii) if the export share in total sales exceeds 30%, corporate income tax is reduced by 50%. The incentive does not apply to wholesale and retail sale or intermediary companies, nor to revenue from the export of commodities (such as cotton fibre, oil, gas, precious metals, etc.).

3. For legal entities receiving income from auctions, the organisation of mass entertainment events by involving legal entities and individuals (including non-residents) licensed to engage in touring activities, the tax rate on retained profit is set at 35% of the taxable basis.

Other corporate taxes

Capital duties: none.

Payroll tax: micro-firms and small businesses make 15% unified social contributions (to pension, employment and professional trade union funds) based on employee salaries. The rate for other eligible companies is 25%.

Property tax: 5% property tax is levied on a legal entity's fixed assets. Equipment not installed in due time is charged at twice the property tax rate.

Social security: companies pay 1.6% of their gross revenue (in addition to unified social contributions) to employee pension funds. Micro-firms and small businesses subject to general taxation regulations do not make pension, road and school fund contributions (from gross revenue) except those companies producing excisable goods and extracting mineral products.

Fines and late payment interest

The Tax Code stipulates the following sanctions for tax violations:

- a late payment of taxes is subject to 0.033% interest for each day payment remains in arrears. Total interest may not exceed total unpaid tax;
- the evasion of tax registration, i.e. operating without registering with the tax authorities, is subject to a fine of up to 50% of net revenue for the period.

CAPITAL GAINS TAX

There is no specific capital gains tax in Uzbekistan.

BRANCH PROFITS TAX

A branch/permanent establishment is subject to 14% profit tax while any remittance from a branch to the head office is subject to a 7% branch remittance tax. This tax is levied as a percentage of the total expenses directly related to the income-generating activities in Uzbekistan through the PE. (Previously 10% on net profit after tax.)

SALES TAX / VALUE ADDED TAX

VAT, like all other taxes, is regulated by the Tax Code and is closely tied to the direct tax legislation. The standard rate of VAT is 20%, which applies to all taxable sales of goods, works and services. There is a zero rate on qualifying exports and certain internal supplies, which is discussed later in this chapter.

VAT taxable persons include all legal entities and their branches engaged in entrepreneurial activity in Uzbekistan, importers of VAT-liable goods/works/services and legal entities that are subject to reverse charge VAT (taxable turnover of foreign suppliers).

For legal entities under the simplified tax regime payment of VAT is optional. VAT is not paid by the legal entities undertaking certain non VAT-able activities. Individuals are not required to charge and account for VAT.

LOCAL TAXES:

LAND TAX

Individuals and enterprises, including foreign legal entities operating in Uzbekistan via a permanent establishment, owning land plots or rights to their use are subject to land tax. It is applied to taxpayers based on fixed fees established and based on the quality, location and level of water supply to each piece of land. Exemption is provided in respect of land plots allocated for construction under the projects included in the Strategic Investment Programme of the Republic of Uzbekistan. This exemption is granted for the period of construction.

Land and property taxes are levied on individuals owning, possessing, renting or otherwise using land, and owning real estate. The taxable base is the area of land. Tax rates are determined regionally, and can vary anywhere between 1.3% and 2.2% of the value of real estate.

TAX FOR IMPROVEMENT AND DEVELOPMENT OF SOCIAL INFRASTRUCTURE

The income remaining with a legal entity after the deduction of income tax is subject to this tax and the rate depends on the nature of goods provided. For example, entities providing certain types of goods and services in the retail trade (as prescribed under the legislation) are subject to tax at a rate of 8%.

The system of local taxes and mandatory payments also permits the application of a simplified taxation by certain types of qualified legal entities. This system of simplified taxation is applied by agricultural enterprises and permits payment of a single tax (with certain exclusions) instead of paying certain generally applied taxes and mandatory payments. The determining factor for application of the single tax by agricultural enterprises is the value of the land parcel.

OTHER TAXESEXCISE TAX

Excise tax is to be paid by all individuals and enterprises that produce, import or export certain products. The Cabinet of Ministers of Uzbekistan established the list of products subject to excise taxes and the applicable rates. The following are examples of excise-liable goods produced in Uzbekistan and applicable rates in 2016: cognac, vodka and other strong alcohol drinks – up to UZS 6,275 per 1 litre, vine natural – 6,055 UZS per 1 litre, beer – UZS 6,416 per 1 litre, cigarettes with filters – UZS 37,432 per 1,000 cigarettes, petrol – UZS 321,430 – 408,890 per 1 tonne (depending on the petrol type), diesels – UZS 284,250 per 1 tonne, natural gas – 25%, jewellery – 25%, General Motors Uzbekistan cars – 29%.

As of 1 January 2012 retail trade of golden jewellery is subject to excise tax of USD 10 for 1 gram of gold. Products sold for export are exempt from excise tax, except for goods specifically listed by the Cabinet of Ministers of Uzbekistan as subject to excise. Examples of such goods with respective excise tax rates, as set by Resolution of the Cabinet of Ministers No. 554 of 31 December 1999, are: cigarettes 50%, alcohol 50%, paper 50%, construction materials 50%, home electronic appliances 50%, General Motors Uzbekistan cars EUR 3 per 1 cubic centimeter, etc. These goods, if exported by the manufacturers and their official distributors for hard currency, are not subject to export excise tax.

Certain goods imported in the Republic of Uzbekistan are also subject to import excise tax. For examples of import excise rates please refer to the relevant section of this Guide.

SCHOOL TAX

A Resolution of the Cabinet of Ministers of 28 December 2004 requires all legal entities to pay a tax equal to 1% (reduced by VAT and applicable excise tax amounts) of their annual turnover to the Non-budgetary Fund for School Education Development.

ROAD TAX

Every legal entity in Uzbekistan must generally pay 1% (with certain variations for different businesses) of their annual turnover to the Road Fund. This tax is intended for development of roads and highways in Uzbekistan.

WATER USE TAX

The Cabinet of Ministers fixes the rates of a water use tax. This tax applies to legal entities that use water in their activities for production and technical needs.

B. DETERMINATION OF TAXABLE INCOME

Taxable profits include trading profit, capital gains, profits from financial activities and other profit items. The taxable profit of an Uzbek enterprise is based on statutory accounting profits, adjusted for specific items. All Uzbek enterprises are required to maintain their accounts in accordance with accounting regulations that primarily facilitate tax accounting. The list of expenses that may be deductible for tax purposes is also set by the legislation. According to the Law on Accounting, as from 1 January 1998 enterprises must account for both revenue and expenditure on an accrual basis. This norm also extends to tax accounting. The accounting period for both tax and statutory accounting purposes is a calendar year. Tax treatment of entities with foreign investment is broadly similar to other Uzbek legal entities.

A foreign legal entity (FLE) that is considered to have a taxable permanent establishment (PE) in Uzbekistan is subject to tax in respect of the portion of profits relating to the business activity in Uzbekistan. In order to determine the portion related to the activity in Uzbekistan, the PE is obliged to maintain limited book-keeping records only.

If a foreign enterprise derives income from sources in Uzbekistan, but does not carry on activities that lead to the creation of an Uzbek taxable PE, it becomes subject to CIT through withholding at source (please refer to the relevant section of this Guide). Income from services provided outside Uzbekistan is not considered as Uzbek-sourced income, and thus, is not subject to withholding tax.

Effective 1 January 2010, when determining taxable income of a FLE carrying on activities in Uzbekistan via a PE, the taxable base should not be less than 10% of total expenses directly related to income generating activities in the Republic of Uzbekistan through the PE, whether incurred in or outside of Uzbekistan.

DEPRECIATION

For tax purposes, depreciation/amortisation is calculated with application of rates defined by the Tax Code. If the accelerated depreciation method is used in accounting, the difference between the accounting depreciation and tax depreciation is deferred to future periods as a temporary difference.

Depreciation is calculated from the month following the month when the asset was put into use until it is fully depreciated, disposed or written off. The maximum annual depreciation rates applicable to different types of fixed assets and intangibles are outlined in the table below.

Depreciable Item	Rate
Buildings and other structures	5%
Cars, tractors, special equipment, computers and related hardware	20%
Lorries, buses, special cars and trucks, industrial machinery and equipment	15%
Railway, river and air transport vehicles	8%
Depreciable assets not mentioned above	15%

Intangible assets, including leases and other property rights, are amortised over the asset's useful life or the period of activity of the enterprise, whichever is shorter. Where an asset's useful life cannot be determined, the asset would be amortised over five years.

STOCK / INVENTORY

Under the National Standards of Accounting, stock is valued at its purchase cost. The profits tax law contains no provision concerning valuation of stock. The cost of materials transferred to production may be determined by the following valuation methods: average cost, cost of item, FIFO or LIFO.

CAPITAL GAINS AND LOSSES

Capital gains arising from the disposal of tangible and intangible assets are calculated as the difference between the selling price and the net book value (depreciated value) of an asset.

The capital gain is included in taxable profits, and capital losses are deductible only if the disposed asset had been used for business purposes for three or more years.

DIVIDENDS

Micro-firms and small enterprises, who pay income in the form of dividends to individual shareholders, do not withhold tax at the source of payment.

INTEREST DEDUCTIONS

Interest expense is deductible except for interest on overdue and deferred loans or when such interest is subject to capitalisation, e.g. interest on loans attracted for the purchase/lease of fixed assets that is to be included in the value of such fixed assets.

LOSSES

Losses arising from sale of goods (works/services) below cost are non-deductible. Production wastes and defects, losses resulting in force-majeure circumstances are generally deductible. Losses from fixed assets disposal can also be deducted, if the fixed asset has been used for three and more years.

FOREIGN SOURCED INCOME

Foreign-sourced income and gains are subject to profit tax at the regular rate

INCENTIVES

Current tax law provides many benefits for manufacturing enterprises, including implementing projects in accordance with the localisation Program, development services, and others. The range of benefits is very wide: from a full exemption from all taxes and fees before taxes at reduced rates to an exemption for the whole period of activity of the enterprise or several years.

The income tax at a rate of 16% (whereas generally established rate is 20%) shall be applied to the production enterprises with foreign investments where the foreign investments' share in the charter capital constitutes 50% or more and the amount of that charter capital is equivalent to at least USD 1 million. The cost of technological equipment imported by the foreign investors to the territory of the Republic of Uzbekistan as their contribution into charter capital of the enterprise with foreign investments shall be exempted from VAT.

Production enterprises with foreign investments shall be exempted from payment of land tax for a period of 2 years from the moment of their state registration. Enterprises attracting direct private foreign investments shall be exempted since 1 July 2005 from payment on principal activity of income (profit) tax, property tax, tax on development of social infrastructure and improvement of territories, unified tax for micro-firms and small enterprises, as well as obligatory deductions to the Republican Highways' Fund.

Foreign companies, which conduct prospecting and exploration works on oil and gas, as well as foreign contractor and subcontractor organisations attracted by foreign companies to these works, are exempt from all types of taxes, deductions and payments existing on the territory of the Republic of Uzbekistan, for the period of conducting exploration works.

C. FOREIGN TAX RELIEF

Uzbekistan does not grant unilateral relief from double taxation. Under the double tax treaties entered into by Uzbekistan, a foreign tax credit is available for foreign tax paid on income earned abroad (subject to certain documentary requirements: copy of tax payment order, confirmation from a competent tax authority or any other document confirming payment of tax outside of Uzbekistan).

D. CORPORATE GROUPS

The following entities are generally subject to CIT in Uzbekistan:

- Uzbek legal entities, including entities with foreign investments; and,
- Foreign legal entities carrying on activities in Uzbekistan via a permanent establishment or receiving income from sources in Uzbekistan.

Uzbek legal entities, including entities with foreign investment and their branches outside the Republic are taxable on worldwide profits. FLEs carrying out their activities in Uzbekistan are only taxable on their profits from activities performed in the Republic of Uzbekistan.

Permanent Establishments / Branches

The concept of a PE in Uzbekistan is used solely for tax purposes. PEs of FLEs are not considered as separate legal entities. Requirements for registration of PEs of foreign legal entities extend to tax registration only, as such may allow the tax authorities to tax profits of FLEs attributable to their PEs in Uzbekistan. As of 1 January 2010, PEs are allowed to operate bank accounts and have official stamps. In general, for tax purposes a PE of FLE in Uzbekistan is deemed to be any place of entrepreneurial activity on Uzbek territory, including activity through an authorised person. An Uzbek PE would also be deemed to exist as a result of entrepreneurial activities carried on in Uzbekistan for 183 days and longer during any consecutive 12-month period.

PEs are subject to CIT (14%) as are normal Uzbek enterprises with certain peculiarities as discussed further. As of 2018, the CIT basis of PEs is a percentage of the total expenses directly related to the income-generating activities in Uzbekistan through the PE and this part is taxed at 7% upon remittance to the head office. (Previously 10% on net profit after tax.) Branches of Uzbek legal entities are generally taxed at the head office level, except for local taxes, such as property tax or land tax.

E. RELATED PARTY TRANSACTIONS

As of 1 January 2010 a transfer pricing concept was reintroduced in the Tax Code. Thus, the tax authorities may adjust prices used by interrelated parties in cases when these prices differ from the prices which would have been set for independent customers/suppliers. Interrelated parties are defined as foreign parent companies and their Uzbekistan subsidiaries, Uzbek parent companies and their subsidiaries abroad, as well as Uzbek companies and foreign companies that have the same shareholders.

F. WITHHOLDING TAX

- Dividends and interest paid to non-residents are subject to a 10% final withholding tax, subject to the application of a tax treaty.
- Royalties and lease payments to non-residents that are not connected to a PE are subject to a 20% final withholding tax, subject to the application of a tax treaty.
- Fees for services provided on Uzbek territory (including management services and expert advice) and other income paid to non-residents from Uzbek sources that are not connected to a PE are subject to a 20% final withholding tax, subject to the application of a tax treaty.

G. EXCHANGE CONTROL

All currency restrictions with respect to the export-import of products and services, the buying and selling of hard currency valuables (precious metals, jewellery checks, etc.), interest transfers, dividend payments from investments abroad, dividends and revenue payments abroad for investments in Uzbekistan, as well as certain other currency conversion restrictions, have been abolished. However, certain administrative difficulties in converting UZS to foreign currency for remittance abroad diminish the effect of currency liberalisation in practice.

Uzbek legal entities may not hold bank accounts outside Uzbekistan without permission from the Central Bank. All settlements within Uzbekistan must be made in UZS, except for payments made by non-residents for certain services in hard currency and some other limited instances established by the Cabinet of Ministers and Uzbek currency law.

H. PERSONAL INCOME TAX

Individuals who are physically present in Uzbekistan for 183 days or more in any calendar year (or during any other period of up to 12 months), are considered to be residents of Uzbekistan for tax purposes. Resident taxpayers are subject to income tax on income gained from sources of their activity both in Uzbekistan and abroad. Non-residents, however, are taxed only on their income from sources in Uzbekistan. Certain types of income are exempt from taxation. Such income includes, inter alia, alimony, severance pay, and pension income.

Taxable income

Taxable income includes employment income, income from property, income in the form of material benefit and other income. Certain expenses incurred by legal entities are not viewed as income of individuals, such as, without limitation:

- Costs related to transportation of employees to/from the work place;
- Relocation costs (when an employee is transferred to another work place) including transportation and accommodation;
- Compensation payments (within statutory norms), e.g. for use of private cars for business purposes;
- Compassionate payments;
- Per diem allowances within statutory norms; actual transportation/accommodation in full (if supporting documents are available); and,
- Meal and transportation costs or respective allowances provided by employers.

Employment income

Employment income consists of the following:

- All payments accrued and paid to individuals under employment or civil contracts;
- Motivation payments, e.g. annual bonuses, professionalism and tutorship allowances, long-service premiums;

Uzbekistan

- Compensation payments, e.g. hardship and overtime allowances, per diems exceeding statutory norms; and,
- Payments for time-off, e.g. various vacation pays, time for qualification courses attendance, material assistance.

Assessment scale for groups of taxable income is determined on the basis of the minimum wage established at the beginning of the year on 1 December 2017 (UZS 172,240) and is not revised during the year if you change the size of the minimum wage.

Main languages:	Spanish
Population:	32.75 million (2019 estimate)
Monetary unit:	Venezuelan Bolívar (VEF)
Internet domain:	.ve
Int. dialling code:	+58

KEY TAX POINTS

- Venezuelan resident or domiciled companies are subject to profit tax only on their worldwide income whereas non-residents are subject to tax on their Venezuelan source income even when they do not have a permanent establishment or a fixed base in Venezuela.
- There is a progressive system of corporation tax rates which applies to income and capital gains.
- VAT is payable on imports and the supply of goods and services. The standard rate is 16%.
- Withholding taxes apply to the payment to residents and non-residents of interest and royalties. Dividends are also subject to withholding tax when they represent profits not already charged to corporation tax. A similar principle applies to branch profits repatriated from Venezuela to an overseas territory.
- Credit is available for overseas tax paid on foreign income against Venezuelan tax payable on the same income.
- Resident individuals are subject to income tax on their worldwide income. Non-residents are taxable on their Venezuelan source income.
- Tax on large financial transactions at a rate of 2%. This tax has come into effect on 8 November 2018 ("Law of Tax on Large Financial Transactions").
- In August 2018, the Venezuelan government announced a monetary reconversion which created a new currency, the Sovereign Bolívar (VES), which gradually replaces from 20 August 2018 the previous currency (VEF) at a conversion rate of VES 1 to VEF 100,000. Entities need to adapt their systems and processes to the new currency.

A. TAXES PAYABLE

COMPANY TAX

Venezuelan resident or domiciled companies are subject to profit tax on their worldwide income. Non-resident or non-domiciled companies are subject to corporation tax only on Venezuelan-sourced income even when they do not have a permanent establishment or a fixed base in Venezuela. Foreign resident or domiciled companies who have a permanent establishment or fixed base in the country will exclusively pay taxes on the income of national or foreign source attributable to this permanent establishment or fixed base.

Tax is imposed on a current year basis. The tax year adopted is generally that specified in a company's statutory documents with the standard year being a calendar year. However, it should be noted that other periods are also allowed, including periods of 12 months or less. Final tax is payable when lodging the final corporation tax return, usually required within three months of the end of the accounting period. The taxable income is expressed in tax units. The tax unit (unidad tributaria, TU) is a tax adjustment index. Its value is adjusted annually by the tax authorities in accordance with inflation and amounts to VEF 17 for 2019. The corporate income tax rates are as follows:

Taxable income (Tributary unit (TU))	Rate (%)
0 to 2,000	15
2,001 to 3,000	22
Over 3,001	34

Income from banking activities, financial, insurance and reinsurance are taxed at a fixed rate of 40%.

CAPITAL GAINS TAX

There is no separate or distinct tax on capital gains. However, capital gains and/or losses from the sale of assets belonging to companies that are situated in Venezuela are included in the calculation of the income for the purposes of determining the tax liability of companies (income tax). Under the law, a flat tax of 34% is established for dividends arising from the excess of the dividend payer's net income (on which dividends were declared) over its taxable net income (taxed fiscal net income). Dividends received from companies incorporated and domiciled abroad or incorporated abroad and domiciled in Venezuela are excluded from net income as contemplated in the law but tax paid on such dividends may be applied outside Venezuelan territory.

There is no tax on earnings of branch offices in Venezuela. Venezuelan branches of foreign companies are taxed in Venezuela for income obtained in the country pursuant to corporate tax. According to the income tax law, companies or community estates established abroad and domiciled in Venezuela or established and domiciled abroad, which have a permanent establishment in Venezuela, are liable for paying a tax of 34% on any excess of the net income of the permanent establishment that is neither exempt nor exonerated over its taxed fiscal net income for the fiscal year on behalf of their partners, shareholders or joint owners. This presumed dividend does not apply in cases where the branch can prove to the Tax Administration's satisfaction that it reinvested the full amount of the difference between its net income and its taxed fiscal net income in the country. The reinvestment must remain in the country for at least five years.

VALUE ADDED TAX (VAT)

VAT is applicable to the sales, transmission or transfer of chattels, the rendering of services and the importation of goods, as specified in the law, and is applicable throughout the entire Venezuelan territory (the Free Port of the State of Nueva Esparta, Paraguana Peninsula in the State of Falcon and in the Cultural Scientific and Technological Tax-Free zone in the State of Merida, will be exempt from VAT). It will be paid by individuals and corporations, unincorporated or de facto companies, joint ventures and other public or private legal or economic entities, in their capacity as importers of goods, habitual or not. It will also be paid by manufacturers, producers, assembly plants, independent merchants and service providers, who engage in activities that are defined by the law as taxable acts. Certain imports of goods and services are exempt from tax. Exporters who are regular taxpayers are entitled to recover the tax paid upon the purchase of tangible chattels or receipt of services related to their export activities. This also applies in the case of chattels imported for export.

The VAT amount accruing is determined by taxation periods of one calendar month, subtracting the aggregate tax credit amounts from the respective aggregate tax debit amount. The result is the VAT to be paid. The standard rate, currently 16%, is charged on the net price of the transaction.

This Law establishes a number of contributions that companies must make according to the activities they indulge in, as follows:

- (a) Hydrocarbon companies, 2% of annual gross revenues;
- (b) Companies in mining and electrical power activities, 1% of annual gross revenues;
- (c) Companies engaged in other production sectors of goods and services must contribute annually the equivalent of 0.5% of gross income.

The highest percentage will apply to any company which performs several activities and may as a consequence fall into more than one category above. The Law establishes that such contributions may be made in research developed in the same companies or into Government dependent Funds.

ORGANIC LAW OF DRUGS

This Law establishes a contribution of 1% of annual net income of companies employing 50 or more workers. This contribution must be invested in programs for the prevention of drug traffic and consumption within the same company for its workers and their family environment. Likewise, the Law establishes that 2% of their annual net income must be contributed by companies manufacturing or importing alcoholic beverages, tobacco and its mixtures, like chewing tobacco, to maintain and operate prevention and rehabilitation centres for consumers of these substances.

ORGANIC LAW OF TELECOMMUNICATIONS

In the Organic Law of Telecommunications, various taxes and duties are set forth on the companies indulging in the business of telecommunications and making use of radio-electric spectrum, sound broadcasting and open television, among others. The various taxes and duties they must pay go between 0.05% and 2.3% of their annual gross revenues.

ORGANIC LAW OF TOURISM

The Organic Law of Tourism sets forth a contribution of 1% monthly on gross revenues obtained, that must be paid by those rendering tourist services.

ORGANIC LAW OF SPORT, PHYSICAL ACTIVITY AND PHYSICAL EDUCATION

The law establishing the National Fund for the Development of Sport, Physical Activity and Physical Education will be constituted by the contributions made by companies or other public and private organisations engaged in economic activities in the country for profit. The fund will be used to finance plans, projects and programs for development and promotion of sport and physical activity, and social security and athletes. The contribution by companies or other organisations, will be 1% of the net profit or annual accounting profit when the profit exceeds TU 20,000.

CONSTITUTIONAL LAW OF THE TAX REGIME FOR THE SOVEREIGN DEVELOPMENT OF THE MINING ARC

On 29 December 2017, the Constitutional Law of the Tax Regime for the Sovereign Development of the Mining Arc was published, the purpose of which is the creation of a special tax regime in the field of Income Tax. The tax rate to be applied will be set by the President of the Republic and will depend on the capacity of production and/or processing of the gold of each subject.

B. DETERMINATION OF TAXABLE INCOME

Taxable net income is calculated by deducting the allowable costs and deductions (prescribed under the law) from gross taxable income.

INVESTMENT ALLOWANCE

The benefits of tax investment abatements were eliminated in the Reform of the Income Tax Law 2015 that came into effect on 31 December 2015.

DEPRECIATION

The amount admissible as deduction for depreciation during the tax year is the percentage necessary to recover the cost of such assets during the time that they are available to be used in production. Depreciation may be increased by adjusting depreciable fixed assets for inflation. Only the straight-line or the production unit method is admitted. The Tax Administration may admit other methods. Accelerated depreciation of assets is not admitted.

STOCK / INVENTORY

Taxpayers shall draw up an inventory of all goods intended for sale at the start of their activities and at the close of each tax year. The inventoried goods shall be appraised at the cost price. They can also be appraised at the wholesale market price when that is less than the cost price.

DIVIDENDS

From 1 January 2001, net income from dividends is considered to be a portion of income from dividends paid or credited to account, in cash or in kind, and arising from net income that is neither exempt nor exonerated, that exceeds the taxed fiscal net income, and accordingly, has not been taxed with income tax. Dividend income is taxed at the rate of 34% of the amount paid. The full amount of the tax must be withheld at the time of payment or credit to account. Tax on dividends from companies in the oil and mining industry are taxed at the rate of 67.7% and 60% respectively and tax is to be withheld in full at source.

Dividends received from companies incorporated and domiciled abroad or incorporated abroad and domiciled in Venezuela are excluded from net income as contemplated in the law but tax paid on such dividends may be applied outside Venezuelan territory.

INTEREST DEDUCTIONS

Interest on capital borrowed and invested in income-producing activity is deductible. In the case of interest received by companies abroad, there must be withholding in accordance with the following percentages:

Beneficiary	Rate (%)
Financial Institutions (domiciled)	5.00
Financial Institutions (non-domiciled)	4.95

Parent Company	5.00
Legal entity other than the above	32.30

LOSSES

Operating losses can be used for three consecutive periods from the fiscal year in which they occur but only in a proportion of 25% of the total taxable income of each successive period.

FOREIGN SOURCED INCOME

The current Income Tax Law established the obligation of residents of Venezuela and of companies domiciled in the country to pay income tax on all the revenue they obtain, whether in Venezuela or abroad.

INCENTIVES

The Customs Duty paid on imports of goods and products used in the production of goods for export would be reimbursed by the Banco Central de Venezuela (BCV).

REGULAR ADJUSTMENT FOR INFLATION

The income tax law considers the regular adjustment for inflation, which represents the greater or lesser value of the net worth obtained by recognising the effects of the inflation in non-monetary assets and liabilities through the application of Consumer General Price Index, based on procedures established in the Venezuelan tax legislation. The fiscal adjustment for inflation, thus calculated, is considered as a taxable gain or a deductible loss in determining the income tax expense. According to the reform of the Income Tax Law 2015 (published on 30 December 2015 and effective for periods beginning on 1 January 2016), the financial entities, the insurance and reinsurance activities, and taxpayers qualified as special by the tax administration are excluded from having to make a regular adjustment for inflation.

C. FOREIGN TAX RELIEF

Venezuela has signed wide agreements in order to avoid double taxation and in relation to shipping and air transportation.

D. CORPORATE GROUPS

There is no provision for consolidated tax returns.

E. RELATED PARTY TRANSACTIONS

In cases involving commercial transactions between companies that could be considered related, they must follow the methodology stipulated in this chapter regarding transfer pricing to determine their income. The rules on transfer pricing stipulate that application thereof is mandatory in the case of operations between related parties. The law also determines when a relationship shall be deemed to exist, therefore, when the transaction is between related parties.

F. WITHHOLDING TAX

In the case of tax withholding to domiciliated, the Tax Administration considers it to be a tax advance, which may be deducted from the tax determined in the fiscal year in which it is declared.

G. EXCHANGE CONTROL

Exchange controls are currently in effect. Foreign currency transactions are controlled by the "National Centre for Foreign Trade" Centro Nacional de Comercio Exterior (CENCOEX). Also all foreign currencies entering the territory were to be mandatory sold to the Central Bank of Venezuela. Financial institutions cannot engage in a foreign exchange business without prior approval of (CENCOEX) and/or Central Bank of Venezuela.

In September 2018, the government also introduced certain changes to the currency exchange system. The new exchange system would introduce the possibility for financial institutions to exchange foreign currency, which is in practice exchanged at a single rate regulated by the Venezuelan Central Bank (VCB). However, the relevant regulator has not yet issued the rules and regulations that would enable the application of the new exchange system. Therefore, DICOM continues to operate.

The DICOM exchange system is a single legal exchange rate that is published by the VCB.

H. PERSONAL TAX

The tax of individuals is determined on revenue received annually, provided that such revenue is greater than TU 1,500 and they are allowed personal abatements and abatements for family charges, as well as personal expenses incurred during the fiscal year, e.g. medical expenses, school payment, insurance policies, etc.

The tax rate table is as follows:

Taxable income (Tributary unit)	Rate (%)
0 to 1,000	6
1,001 to 1,500	9
1,501 to 2,000	12

- KEY TAX POINTS
- Corporate Income Tax is charged on any enterprise carrying on a trade, business in Vietnam. All Income (including income from overseas) of the enterprises registered in accordance with the Law of Enterprises are subject to Corporate Income Tax (CIT).
- For resident individuals Personal Income Tax is levied on their income earned within and outside Vietnam's territory, while non-residents are taxed only on their income earned in Vietnam.
- Value Added Tax (VAT) is a tax levied on imported goods and goods and services used in manufacturing, trading or consumption in Vietnam (except for exempted cases stipulated in the law). There are two (2) methods to calculate VAT, which are the deduction method and the direct method.
- Excise Tax is applied to specific luxury goods and services.

A. TAXES PAYABLE COMPANY TAX - CORPORATE INCOME TAX (CIT)

The standard CIT rate is 20% as from 2016. Companies operating in the oil and gas industry are subject to a CIT rate ranging from 32% to 50% depending on the location and specific project conditions. Companies engaged in prospecting and exploration of mineral resources (e.g. silver, gold, gemstones) are subject to a CIT rate of 40% or 50% based on the project's location.

Tax incentives

Tax incentives are granted to new investment projects based on regulated encouraged sectors, encouraged locations and the size of the project. Business expansion projects (including expansion projects licensed or implemented during the period from 2009 to 2013 which were not entitled to any CIT incentives previously) that meet certain conditions are also entitled to CIT incentives. New investment projects and business expansion projects do not include projects established as a result of certain acquisitions or reorganisations.

- The sectors which are encouraged by the Vietnamese Government include education, health care, sport/culture, high technology, environmental protection, scientific research, infrastructural development, processing of agricultural and aquatic products, software production and renewable energy.
- Locations which are encouraged include qualifying economic and high-tech zones, certain industrial zones and difficult socio-economic areas.
- Large manufacturing projects (excluding those related to the manufacture of products subject to special sales tax or those exploiting mineral resources) with a total capital of VND 6,000 billion or more, disbursed within 3 years of being licensed can also qualify for CIT incentives if the projects meet either of the following criteria:
 - minimum revenue of VND 10,000 billion per annum by the fourth year of operations at the latest; or
 - headcount of more than 3,000 by the fourth year of operations at the latest.

From 2015, large manufacturing projects are defined to also include projects with a total capital of VND 12,000 billion or more, disbursed within 5 years of being licensed (excluding those related to the manufacture of products subject to special sales tax or those exploiting mineral resources) and using technologies appraised in accordance with relevant laws.

Further, new investment projects engaged in manufacturing industrial products prioritised for development will be entitled to CIT incentives if they meet one of the following conditions:

- The products support the high technology sector; or
- The products support the garment, textile, footwear, IT, automobile assembly, mechanical sectors and are not produced domestically as at 1 January 2015, or if produced domestically, they meet the quality standards of the EU or equivalent.

The two common preferential rates of 10% and 20% are available for 15 years and 10 years respectively, starting from the commencement of operating activities. From 1 January 2015, a preferential rate of 15% will apply in certain cases. The duration of application of the preferential tax rate can be extended in certain cases. From 1 January 2016, enterprises having projects entitled to the preferential CIT rate of 20% will enjoy a rate of 17% instead. When the preferential rate expires, the CIT rate reverts to the standard rate. Certain socialised sectors (e.g. education, health) enjoy the 10% rate for the life of the project.

Taxpayers may be eligible for tax holidays and reductions. The tax holidays take the form of a complete exemption from CIT for a certain period beginning immediately after the enterprise first makes profits, followed by a period where tax is charged at 50% of the applicable rate. However, where the enterprise has not derived taxable profits within 3 years of the commencement of operations, the tax holiday/tax reduction will start from the fourth year of operation. Criteria for eligibility for these tax holidays and reductions are set out in the CIT regulations.

Additional tax reductions may be available for companies engaging in manufacturing, construction and transportation activities which employ many female staff or employ ethnic minorities.

Tax incentives which are available for investment in encouraged sectors do not apply to other income (except for income which directly relates to the incentivised activities such as disposal of scrap), which is broadly defined.

Administration

Enterprises shall make a self-declaration of CIT payable. The enterprise shall pay the amount of CIT provisionally payable determined each quarter during the year and shall finalize the whole CIT payable for the fiscal year within 90 days after the year end. Generally, the tax year for the purpose of tax finalisation shall be the calendar year, except for the enterprise that is permitted to apply a fiscal year other than the calendar year: the tax year of this enterprise shall conform to its fiscal year.

CAPITAL GAINS TAX

There is no specific capital gains tax in Vietnam. Capital gains are treated as ordinary income for the purpose of calculating income tax.

BRANCH PROFITS TAX

There is no specific branch profits tax in Vietnam. Foreign Enterprises and Foreign Individuals are subject to Withholding Tax on Income that they earn in carrying business.

VALUE ADDED TAX (VAT)

VAT is a tax levied on imported goods and goods and services used for manufacturing, trading or consumption in Vietnam (except for the exempted cases stipulated in law).

VAT Rate

There are three levels of VAT rate. In general, goods or services are mostly subject to a rate of 10%, while some goods or services are subject to a rate of 5% or 0% depending on the type of goods or services.

$$\text{VAT payable} = \text{output VAT} - \text{deductible VAT}$$

Output VAT is the total VAT on goods sold and services recorded on the VAT invoices. Deductible VAT comprises Input VAT which is total VAT on VAT invoices for purchases of goods and services (including fixed assets) serving the manufacture or sale of taxable goods and services, VAT on imported goods at Customs and VAT paid on behalf of foreign enterprises mentioned in the Withholding Tax. VAT shall be declared and paid monthly. For enterprises which have a turnover in the previous year below VND 50,000,000,000 (fifty billion) or newly established enterprises, VAT can be declared and paid quarterly.

VAT refund

Where the taxpayer's input VAT for a period exceeds its output VAT, it will have to carry the excess forward for a period of twelve months. It can then claim a refund from the tax authorities. In certain cases, a refund may be granted on a monthly/quarterly basis. Newly established entities in the pre-operation investment phase may claim VAT refunds on a yearly basis or where the accumulated VAT credits exceed VND 300 million. Newly established entities and certain investment projects which are in the pre-operation stage may be entitled to refund for VAT paid on imported fixed assets based on shorter timelines than normal, subject to certain conditions.

Calculating VAT

There are two (2) methods to calculate VAT, i.e. the Deduction Method and the Direct Method.

- For the Deduction Method, VAT is calculated as follows:
Output VAT = selling price (excluding VAT) x VAT rate
- For the Direct Method, VAT is calculated as follows:
VAT payables = selling price x rate of VAT (in direct method)

VAT payables includes the selling price. The VAT rates that apply to the Direct Method are:

- 1% for distribution or supply of goods;
- 5% for services or construction (excluding building materials);
- 3% for manufacturing, transport, services (associated with goods), construction (including building materials); and
- 2% for other lines of business.

For the enterprises trading and fashioning of gold, silver and gemstones, VAT is calculated as follows:

$$\text{VAT payables} = (\text{selling price} - \text{cost price}) \times \text{rate of } 10\%$$

EXCISE TAX

Excise Tax is applied to specific luxury goods, either imported or manufactured in Vietnam, and services. Excise Tax is calculated based on the quantity of taxable goods (services) sold at their taxable value, and their corresponding tax rate. Taxable value is selling price (excluding VAT) for manufactured goods and services or customs value for imported goods. Specific goods (services) and the tax rate are as follows:

NATURAL RESOURCES TAX

Natural Resources Tax is levied on organisations and individuals conducting the exploitation of natural resources in Vietnam. Natural Resources Tax is determined by the actual natural resources exploited, the unit price and the tax rate stipulated for the specific resources.

B. DETERMINATION OF TAXABLE INCOME

Generally, deductible expenses which are deductible for the purpose of calculation of taxable income include expenses actually used for the production or trading in goods and services and expenses incurred with receipts or source documents issued in accordance with the law.

- $\text{CIT payables} = (\text{Taxed income} - \text{Allocation to R\&D fund}) \times \text{CIT rate}$.
- R&D fund is Science and Technology Development Fund.
- $\text{Taxed income} = \text{Taxable Income} - \text{Exempt Income} - \text{Prior year loss carried forward}$.
- $\text{Taxable income} = \text{Turnover} - \text{Deductible Expenses} + \text{Other Income}$.

DIVIDENDS

Income divided from capital contribution, share purchase, joint venture or economic association with domestic enterprises, after contributed capital recipients, share issuers or joint venture or association parties have paid Corporate Income Tax (CIT) under the Law on CIT shall be exempted from CIT. When the enterprises receive this income (dividends) before the tax calculation, the income shall not be exempted from CIT. In this case, the enterprise must pay CIT on this income at the common rate applied to this enterprise. For individuals, dividends are liable to tax at a rate of 5%.

LOSSES

Enterprises which suffer losses shall be entitled to carry forward those losses to taxable income of the following years. Losses may be carried forward within five (5) years from the year following the year the loss arose.

FOREIGN SOURCE INCOME

Vietnamese enterprises which make an offshore investment and derive income from production and business activities overseas shall declare and pay CIT in accordance with the current Law on CIT of Vietnam.

C. FOREIGN TAX RELIEF

Vietnamese enterprises which make an offshore investment and derive income from production and business activities overseas shall declare and pay CIT in accordance with the current Law on CIT of Vietnam. In case these enterprises have paid income tax on income arising overseas, the paid tax amount may be subtracted (in Vietnam) but must not exceed the CIT amount payable under the Law on Corporate Income Tax.

D. CORPORATE GROUPS

There are no provisions for any form of consolidated filing or group loss relief.

E. RELATED PARTY TRANSACTIONS

Decree 20/2017/ND-CP, which came into force on 1 May 2017, sets out the transfer pricing (TP) regulations. The prescribed TP methodology generally follows the OECD Transfer Pricing Guidelines although some modifications and additional requirements exist.

A 25% control threshold (previously 20%) is sufficient for enterprises to be deemed as related parties. The definition also extends to companies under the common control of an individual through capital contribution or direct management, and where a company is substantially controlled or managed by another company.

The prescribed TP methods are: (i) comparable uncontrolled price (ii) resale price (iii) cost-plus (iv) transactional net margin and (v) profit split. The circular does not stipulate the preference of any method over the others.

Advance pricing agreements (APAs) are possible.

An annual declaration of related party transactions must be submitted together with the taxpayer's annual corporate income tax return, comprising a Master File, a Local File and a Country-by-Country ('CbC') report. Taxpayers are also required to prove that arm's length pricing has been adopted and are required to maintain contemporaneous records.

The taxpayer must perform CbC reporting if (i) the ultimate parent company also is obliged to prepare and submit such documents in its respective tax jurisdiction or (ii) the taxpayer is a Vietnamese ultimate parent company with worldwide consolidated revenue in a tax year exceeding VND 18 trillion.

The taxpayer is exempt from preparing TP documentation if one of the following conditions is met:

- The taxpayer has revenue below VND 50 billion and the total value of related party transactions is below VND 30 billion in a tax period;
- The taxpayer concludes an APA and submits annual APA reports; or
- The taxpayer has revenue below VND 200 billion and performs simple functions and achieves at least the following ratios of EBIT to revenue on its respective business: distribution (5%), manufacturing (10%), processing (15%).

If the pricing strategy is found not to be at arm's length, the tax authorities may impose the deemed appropriate pricing and deemed taxable profits in order to impose the deemed tax.

F. WITHHOLDING TAX

Foreign enterprises and foreign individuals subject to Withholding Taxes are:

- Foreign enterprises and individuals doing business in Vietnam or earning income in Vietnam on the basis of contracts, agreements with Vietnamese organisations, individuals, or between foreign contractors and foreign sub-contractors to perform a part of the Contractor agreement;

- Foreign enterprises and individuals supplying goods in Vietnam in the form of on the spot export/import and earning income in Vietnam on the basis of contracts, agreements with Vietnamese organisations, individuals, or between foreign contractors and foreign sub-contractors to perform a part of the Contractor agreement.

Branches of foreign companies that carry out business or supply services in Vietnam shall be subject to Value Added Tax (VAT) and Corporate Income Tax (CIT) if they fully satisfy the following conditions:

- Having a permanent establishment in Vietnam;
- The business duration in Vietnam is 183 days or more;

A. TAXES PAYABLE

COMPANY TAX

A Company is resident in Zambia for any charge year if it is incorporated or formed under the Laws of Zambia or if the central management and control of the company's business or affairs are exercised in Zambia for that year. In Zambia all companies whether they are resident or non-resident and are in receipt of income, which has a source or deemed source in Zambia are liable for tax. For the purposes of the Zambian Income Tax Act, income for any charge year includes:

- Gains or profits from any business for whatever period of time carried on;
- Emoluments;
- Annuities;
- Dividends;
- Interest, charges and discounts;
- Royalties, premiums or any like consideration for the use or occupation of any property;
- Income from letting of any property;
- Lump sum payments, capital recoveries, etc.

Normal tax is payable by Zambian companies on their taxable income at the rate of 35%. The tax is payable by both public and private companies as well as small businesses. However, there are concessional rates of tax applicable to certain sectors as follows:

- | | |
|--|-----|
| • Agriculture | 10% |
| • Export of non-traditional products | 15% |
| • Charities (on income from business activity) | 15% |
| • Company (Rental income - Final Tax) | 10% |

The tax rates applicable to the Mobile Telecommunications sector are as follows:

- | | |
|--------------------------------------|-----|
| • On income up to ZMW 250,000 | 35% |
| • On income in excess of ZMW 250,000 | 40% |

Small businesses with gross income of up to ZMW 800,000 in a charge year, subject to certain exemptions, can register to pay tax at 4% on gross income, under the turnover tax system. However, small business providing management or consultancy services are not covered by this exemption. Mining companies involved in the mining of base metals that earn income from tolling or processing of purchased mineral ores, concentrates and any other semi-processed minerals pay tax at 30%.

TRUSTS

Zambian Trusts like deceased estates and bankruptcy estates pay tax at a flat rate of 35%. Notwithstanding the aforementioned, the Trust needs not be taxed on all of its net income where a beneficiary is entitled to the whole or part of the income of the trust, as it is taxed in his hands instead of being taxed as income of the Trust. Where tax has already been paid on such income before it reaches the hands of the beneficiary it will be set off against any tax raised on him (beneficiary). In practice under Zambian Law, the beneficiary and not the Trust is to be taxed on:

- Income in which the beneficiary has a vested interest where this is paid or accumulated to him;
- Sums applied for the benefit of the beneficiary under the terms of the Trust; and,
- Sums paid to or applied for the benefit of the beneficiary in exercise of discretion.

Under the tax avoidance rules, the Commissioner-General may avoid a trust where he determines that the main aim or purpose of a trust was to minimise or avoid tax.

CAPITAL GAINS TAX

There is no capital gains tax in Zambia. However, there is a Property Transfer Tax (PTT) which is charged on the realisable value of the property being transferred. PTT is payable by the transferor of the property. It is charged on the sale or transfer of all immovable property and any shares issued by a company incorporated in Zambia. PTT is also chargeable on the sale or transfer of Mining Right/Interest in Mining Right and intellectual property. PTT in relation to immovable property excludes letting or subletting of property and leasing, under-leasing or sub-leasing for a period of less than 5 years. In relation to shares, transfer of property excludes the allocation of the same by the company to the member in whose name the share was first registered. The rate of Property Transfer Tax in charge year 2019 is 5%. In the case of the transfer of a share issued by a company incorporated outside the Republic where that company directly or indirectly owns at least ten (10) percent of a company incorporated in Zambia, tax shall be charged and collected from the Zambian incorporated company.

BRANCH PROFITS TAX

Where a branch of a foreign company operates in Zambia, the branch taxable income is subject to tax at the rate of 35% or any other rate applicable according to the sector the branch is operating in. Effective 1 January 2015, externalisation or repatriation of branch profits attracts a withholding tax of 15%.

DIVIDEND TAX

Dividends paid or that become payable by a Zambian company to its resident or non-resident shareholders are subject to withholding tax at 15% and 20% respectively. Any withholding tax on dividends paid to foreign shareholders can be reduced or tax credits claimed in terms of any applicable double tax treaty.

PARTNERSHIPS

In Zambia a Partnership is not recognised as a distinct taxable entity. For this reason, it is not chargeable to tax instead, each partner is assessed separately. Taxable income for the Partnership is computed jointly and then shared between the partners according to the agreed ratios and each partner is subject to tax on his share of profits as trade income.

VALUE ADDED TAX (VAT)

VAT is imposed on most goods and services supplied by a vendor at 16% except for zero-rated and exempt supplies. All exports are zero-rated and the growing of a selected few agricultural products are also zero-rated. Exempt supplies in most cases constitute mostly agricultural products, food stuffs as well as educational services. Compulsory VAT registration is triggered when the value of taxable supplies in a 12-month period exceeds or is expected to exceed ZMW 800,000. However, other companies may register voluntarily without meeting the threshold. This type of registration is renewable every year.

GOODS AND SERVICES TAX

Following the tax changes for 2019 by Minister of Finance in September 2018, Value Added Tax (VAT) will be replaced by Goods and Services Tax (GST). The effective date of change will be advised by the Ministry of Finance during the tax year 2019.

FRINGE BENEFITS TAX

The Income Tax Act provides that any advantage or benefit which is not capable of being turned into money or money's worth that is provided to employees is not allowed as a deduction for tax purposes. Such benefits or advantages are not subject to tax in the hands of the employees. These include the following:

- Free housing where 30% of employees' annual taxable income is disallowed; and,
- Tax on car benefit where the disallowed amounts are as follows:
 1. Up to 1800 cc engine capacity - ZMW 18,000
 2. Between 1800 cc and 2800 cc engine capacity - ZMW 30,000
 3. Above 2800 cc engine capacity - ZMW 40,000.

In all other cases, where the employer, on behalf of the employee, makes payment of electricity bills, telephone bills, water bills, school fees and association and club membership fees, the employer will be required to gross up and add such payments to the salary of the employee and deduct tax under PAYE. The above expenses are allowable deductions in arriving at the taxable income of the employer. All cash benefits, given in the form of allowances, are taxable in the hands of the employees.

WITHHOLDING TAX

Rent, royalties, dividends, management and consultancy fees, commission and interest are subject to withholding taxes at source. The withholding tax rate applicable to residents is 15% in all instances except for rent which is at 10%.

The withholding tax rate on royalties, commission, management and consultancy fees, dividends, interest, public entertainment and foreign contractors applicable to non-residents is 20%.

B. DETERMINATION OF TAXABLE INCOME

The taxable income of a company is determined by deducting expenditure so allowed to be deducted in terms of the Income Tax Act. In all instances, unless specifically excluded by the provisions of the Income Tax act, expenditure incurred wholly and exclusively for the purposes of generating income from that source is allowable.

The Act provides for three types of deductions which are specific deductions, general deductions and prohibited deductions. Specific deductions are deductions allowable for a specific source. If a source of income does not exist in a charge year no specific deductions relating to that source should be allowed. General deductions are those deductions which are allowable from total income liable for tax from all sources. And prohibited deductions are those deductions which are not deductible in computing income. Capital allowances and tax losses from the same source are also allowable in determining taxable

No initial allowance is granted on an industrial building which has been in existence for some time and is subsequently purchased. But initial allowance can be granted on a new addition to an existing industrial building. Housing units (Low cost housing) constructed or acquired to house employees will qualify for industrial building allowance but the cost of each housing unit should not exceed ZMW 20,000. All housing units constructed or acquired on or after 1 April 1997 will qualify for industrial building allowance provided the cost does not exceed ZMW 20,000 per unit.
2. The investment allowance is also granted on capital expenditure incurred on the construction of, addition to or alteration of any industrial building to be used for purposes of business as a manufacturer.
3. The improvement allowance on constructed industrial and commercial buildings is only granted to those operating in industrial parks and multi facility economic zones.
4. Accelerated wear and tear allowances at 50% are only available on manufacturing, and tourism and leased assets under operating lease.
5. The cost for farm dwelling and low cost housing for wear and tear purposes is restricted to ZMW 20,000 per unit per year.
6. Premium allowance is also granted for the right to use any patent, design, trade mark or copy right or for the use of other property which the Commissioner-General determines is of a like nature, where such right is used for purposes of business. 8. Farm works includes expenditure on stumping, clearing, boreholes, wells, aerial and geophysical surveys, prevention of soil erosion and water conservation.
9. Capital allowances is 100% (wear and tear) on implements machinery and plant used in Farming and Agro-processing,

STOCK / INVENTORY

All trading stock on hand at the end of the tax year must be added to income while all trading stocks on hand the beginning of the year ranks as a deduction. Trading stock is valued at the lesser of cost or net realisable value. Consumable stores and work-in-progress on hand constitute trading stock. The LIFO stock valuation method is not acceptable for tax purposes in Zambia.

RESEARCH AND DEVELOPMENT EXPENDITURE

Qualifying expenditure and other expenditure of a capital nature, incurred in the charge year in carrying out scientific experiments or research relating to the business is allowed in full. Also allowed are contributions to a scientific and educational society or institution or like body approved by the Commissioner-General subject to stipulated conditions.

INTELLECTUAL PROPERTY

A deduction is allowed for the right of use of any patent, design, trade mark or copyright or for the use of other property which the Commissioner- General determines is of a like nature, where such right is used by that person for purposes of his business. The deduction allowed for any charge year shall not exceed the amount of the premium or like consideration divided by the number of years for which the right of use is granted.

SUBSIDIES

The income Tax Act provides for capital allowances only for capital expenditure actually incurred. If the taxpayer is able to recover part of this expenditure from subsidy or grant from public funds the capital allowances will be calculated on the net amount.

INTEREST AND FINANCE CHARGES

Interest incurred in the production of income is a deductible expense. Interest of a revenue nature incurred within 18 months prior to the commencement of trade is deductible in the year in which business commences. Interest of a capital nature is not deductible but ranks for capital allowances as part of the cost of capital expenditure.

However effective 1 January 2019, a deduction shall not be allowed on gross interest expense that exceeds 30% of the Tax Earnings before Interest, Tax, Depreciation and Amortisation. Despite this change, interest including disallowed interest is subject to deduction of Withholding Tax. Interest on which deduction is not allowed may be carried forward and treated as incurred during the next tax year but will not exceed 30% of EBITDA. It will also not be carried forward for more than five (5) years.

TAX LOSSES

Subject to certain anti-avoidance provisions, tax losses are carried forward to the following year provided such losses may not be carried forward for a period of more than 5 years in any other case and 10 years for hydro and thermal power generation and mining operations. Losses carried forward can only be deducted from income of the same source.

INTEREST RECEIVED

Interest received (or accrued) is included in the gross income. Normally interest is regarded as having accrued at the date on which it becomes due as income of the charge year in which that date occurs. If the interest, for some reason, remains unpaid in the year in which it was due and payable, it should nevertheless, still be assessed in that year. The taxpayer can claim, if he can prove to the satisfaction of the Commissioner-General, unpaid interest.

FOREIGN SOURCED INCOME

Foreign interest and dividends received by resident individuals and companies are subject to tax in Zambia. However, this general principle may be overridden by the provisions of a Double Tax Treaty or certain unilateral relief provisions contained in the Zambian tax legislation.

The Commissioner-General of the Zambia Revenue Authority is empowered to make adjustments to cross-border transactions between related parties that are not conducted on arm's length terms. While no specific thin capitalisation rules apply, the normal arm's length transfer pricing principle applies in respect of loans as well. However, for mining companies the Debt to Equity Ratio of 3:1 thin capitalisation principle applies. There are also limitations on certain deductions on transactions between related parties. Effective 1 January 2019, a penalty of ZMW 24 million has been introduced for failure to comply with Transfer Pricing regulations (SI24 of 2018).

- The Revenue Authority Commissioner is empowered to make adjustments to non-arm's length cross-border and local transactions and thin capitalisations between connected parties. Specific transfer pricing rules have taken effect from 1 January 2016. Locally contracted debt with unrelated parties is excluded from the thin capitalisation rule which stipulates a ratio of 3:1.

- A tax amnesty was granted for penalties and interest on all tax heads for taxes that were still outstanding as per 1 December 2017. The amnesty did not exclude taxpayers that were already under audit at that date. The amnesty was granted on condition that all the principal amount of the unpaid tax was paid by 30 June 2018.

A. TAXES PAYABLE

COMPANY TAX

A company is resident in Zimbabwe if it is incorporated, formed or established in Zimbabwe or has its place of effective management (day to day management) in Zimbabwe. Zimbabwe resident companies and private business corporations (companies) are taxed on non-exempt income from a source within or deemed to be within Zimbabwe. Income from a foreign source attracts tax only if it falls within the specific provisions relating to deemed source.

Normal tax is payable by Zimbabwean companies on their taxable income at the rate of 25%. A 3% AIDS levy is imposed on the tax chargeable giving an effective tax rate of 25.75%. The Income tax rate on exporting companies is reduced according to levels of exports: 20% for those exporting 30% to 40% of their products; 17.5% for those exporting 41% to 50%; and 15% for those exporting 51% and above. The reduction was effective from 1 January 2015. The tax is payable by both public and private companies as well as private business corporations.

The tax year usually runs from 1 January to 31 December, although different balance dates are available in certain circumstances. Tax is payable in four quarterly instalments (QPDs) on the 25th of March, 25th of June, 25th of September and 20th of December by which dates 10%, 25%, 30% and 35% of the tax liability for the year must be paid respectively. Small to medium size enterprises without organised records and with annual turnover below USD 60,000 may pay presumptive taxes instead of normal tax. Presumptive taxes are periodic taxes, absolute figures or percentage-based, which are levied on certain specified business operations, usually undertaken by small and medium size enterprises.

Mining companies are, in addition to their specific corporate rates of tax, subject to a royalty calculated on the gross sales relating to the transfer of mineral resources. The royalty is calculated using different percentages applicable to each type of mineral. The percentages range from 1% on base metals to 15% on precious stones.

TRUSTS

Zimbabwe trusts pay tax at the same rate as companies (25% on each dollar of taxable income plus a 3% AIDS levy on the tax chargeable). This rate is apparently, the same as the one applicable to an individual's trade and investment income. There are no personal credits to a trust created in terms of the will of a deceased taxpayer. In cases where the income of a trust that is ordinarily resident in Zimbabwe includes foreign interest or dividends, such income is taxable (dividends at 20% flat rate). Relief is granted for foreign tax suffered.

PARTNERSHIPS

Partnerships are not separate legal entities. This means they have no existence separate from the individual partners that comprise them. Taxable income for the partnership is computed jointly and then shared between the partners according to the agreed ratios and each partner is then subject to tax on his share of profits as trade income.

CAPITAL GAINS TAX (CGT)

CGT is levied on taxable gains from a source within Zimbabwe from the sale or deemed sale of immovable property and any marketable security (specified asset) according to the Capital Gains Tax Act. Non-residents are only subject to CGT on any direct or indirect interest or right in or to immovable property situated in Zimbabwe. CGT is triggered on the disposal or deemed disposal of an asset which includes but is not limited to any event, act, forbearance or operation of law that results in the creation, variation, or transfer of a specified asset, subject to any exclusions and exemptions. Liability of the tax arises regardless of the date of acquisition of the specified asset. In certain circumstances, elections to defer liability are available.

In regard to assets acquired after 1 February 2009, a taxable gain is calculated by taking the difference between the proceeds received on disposal of the asset and the cost of the asset plus any additions, inflation allowance, direct selling expenses, bad debts and certain legal costs incurred in CGT appeals to courts. The all items consumer price index (CPI) is used as the base for the inflation allowance. A capital loss results where the costs exceed the proceeds on disposal. CGT is a separate tax and any amounts included as income or deductions in the calculation for income tax are excluded from CGT. A flat rate of 20% is applicable on the gain.

As for assets acquired before 1 February 2009, the selling price is deemed to be the capital gains and a flat rate of 5% is applicable on this gain. Capital gains from marketable securities listed on the Zimbabwe Stock Exchange are subject to a final withholding tax of 1%. A withholding tax of 5% applies on private securities while a rate of 15% applies on gains from immovable property. This withholding tax is credited on assessment.

CGT now covers any right or title to property that is required to be registered, tangible or not tangible (mineral rights, brands, trademarks, industrial designs etc) with effect from 1 January 2017.

BRANCH PROFITS TAX

Like resident companies, branches of non-resident companies are subject to the standard corporate income tax rate of 25% (+3% AIDS levy). There is no branch remittance tax in Zimbabwe.

INTERMEDIATED MONEY TRANSFER TAX (IMTT)

This is a tax chargeable whenever a financial institution mediates the transfer of money otherwise than by cheque, between 2 or more persons. Prior to 13 October 2018, the tax was levied at a flat fee of 5c per transaction. However, from 13 October 2018 the tax is now levied at 2% of the amount transacted if above RTGS$ 10 and with a maximum tax of RTGS$ 500,000. This tax is not deductible when computing taxable income for the purpose of corporate income tax. There is a list of exempt transactions including transfers into or from nostro accounts.

VALUE ADDED TAX

VAT is imposed on all goods and services supplied by a registered operator at a standard rate of 15%. Exports and some specified goods and services are zero-rated while a few goods and services are exempt. Un-beneficiated chrome is subject to VAT at the rate of 20% upon export. With effect from 1 January 2014 un-beneficiated hides are subject to VAT at the rate of 15%. The rate of export tax on unbeneficiated platinum ranges between 0% and 5% depending on whether one invests in plant for processing, smelting and refining the ore respectively with effect from 1 January 2018. VAT is charged upon export of dimensional stones at 0%, 2.5% and 5% for cut and polished, cut only and uncut respectively with effect from 1 January 2018. Compulsory VAT registration is triggered when the value of taxable supplies in a 12 month period reaches or is expected to exceed USD 60,000. With effect from 1 January 2019, VAT on sales paid in foreign currency is also payable in foreign currency.

FRINGE BENEFITS TAX

Employees are taxed on the value of fringe benefits as determined in the Income Tax Act. The fringe benefits are added to the taxable income of the individual and tax is levied at the tax rates applicable to natural persons.

STAMP DUTY

Stamp Duty is levied on specified instruments and transfer of immovable property. The specified instruments include bonds, brokers' notes, off-market share transfers, cheques and policies of insurance. Transfer Duty is imposed on the transfer of immovable property at the following rates:

Details	Duty (USD)
For transfers of up to USD 5,000 - for every USD 100 or part thereof	1
For transfers between USD 5000 and USD 20,000 - for every USD 100 or part thereof	2
For transfers between USD 20,000 and USD 100,000 - for every USD 100 or part thereof	3
For transfers in excess of USD100 000 – for every USD 100 or part thereof	4

OTHER TAXES

These include, amongst others, Customs and Excise duties, carbon tax, and skills and standards development levies.

B. DETERMINATION OF TAXABLE INCOME

The taxable income of a company is determined by deducting exempt income and expenditure incurred for the purposes of trade or in the production of income and other allowable expenses and allowances from the company's income.

Capital receipts are subject to CGT. Expenditure is allowed to the extent that it is of a revenue nature.

- (6) Includes hotels with liquor and casino licenses.
- (7) SIA for business operating in Special Economic Zones is 50% with the remaining 50% being allowed as Wear and Tear in two equal instalments in the following two years.

STOCK / INVENTORY

All trading stock on hand at the end of the tax year must be added to income while all trading stock on hand at the beginning of the year ranks as a deduction. Trading stock is valued at the lesser of cost or net realisable value. Consumable stores and work-in-progress on hand constitute trading stock. The LIFO method of valuing trading stock is not permitted.

RESEARCH AND DEVELOPMENT EXPENDITURE (R&D)

Qualifying expenditure incurred by the taxpayer during the year of assessment in carrying out experiments and research relating to his trade, other than capital expenditure on plant, machinery, land or premises or on the acquisition by the taxpayer of rights, whether for the purpose of his trade or otherwise is allowed in full. However, contributions to such expenditure by another taxpayer are allowed to that other taxpayer with some restrictions.

EXPORT - MARKET DEVELOPMENT EXPENDITURE

Exporters can claim as a deduction the amount of any export-market development expenditure incurred during the year of assessment, together with an amount equal to 100% of such expenditure. The term "export market development expenditure" means expenditure, not being expenditure of a capital nature, that is proved to the satisfaction of the Commissioner to have been incurred wholly or exclusively for the purpose of seeking opportunities for the export of goods from Zimbabwe or of creating or increasing the demand for such exports and includes expenditure for any one or more of the following purposes:

- (1) Research into, or the obtaining of information relating to, markets outside Zimbabwe;
- (2) Research into the packaging or presentation of goods for sale outside Zimbabwe;
- (3) Advertising goods outside Zimbabwe or otherwise securing publicity outside Zimbabwe for goods;
- (4) Soliciting business outside Zimbabwe or participating in trade fair;
- (5) Investigating or preparing information, designs, estimates or other material for the purpose of submitting tenders for the sale or supply of goods outside Zimbabwe;
- (6) Bringing prospective buyers to Zimbabwe from outside the country; and,
- (7) Providing samples of goods to persons outside Zimbabwe.

INTELLECTUAL PROPERTY

The deduction of expenditure, in any single year, incurred for the right of use of an invention, patent, copyright, knowledge or other property of a similar nature or design or other property of a similar nature is not permitted to exceed an amount determined by dividing the total premium by the number of years representing the duration of the agreement. If the agreement is for a duration of more than ten years, or the duration is indefinite, then the duration is deemed to be ten years.

INTEREST AND FINANCE CHARGES

Interest incurred in the production of income is a deductible expense. Interest incurred prior to the commencement of trade is deductible in the year in which trade commences. However, interest incurred during building operations on a loan used for building purposes is capitalised and ranks for capital allowances as part of the cost of the building. Interest expenditure is adjusted for thin capitalisation rules. Pre-incorporation expenditure is not deductible.

TAX LOSSES

Subject to certain anti-avoidance provisions, tax losses are carried forward to the following year provided such losses may not be carried forward for a period of more than six years, except for losses from mining operations. Losses from trading operations cannot be offset with employment income.

INTEREST RECEIVED

Interest received (or accrued) is included in gross income to the extent that such interest has not been subjected to withholding tax at source. Bank interest is subject to withholding tax at source.

FOREIGN SOURCED INCOME

Zimbabwean resident individuals and corporates are subject to tax in Zimbabwe on foreign interest and dividends. Foreign dividends are subject to tax at a flat rate of 20%. However, this general principle may be overridden by the provisions of a double taxation agreement or certain unilateral relief provisions contained in the Zimbabwe tax legislation.

INCENTIVES

The following table indicates applicable normal tax rates of 25% and indicates the existing tax holiday schemes in the form of reduced tax rates.

C. FOREIGN TAX RELIEF

Tax credits are granted in respect of foreign taxes paid on foreign sources income in accordance with unilateral provisions contained in the Income Tax Act and numerous Double Tax Agreements. Where income is sourced in Zimbabwe, no foreign tax credit will be allowed.

D. CORPORATE GROUPS

Group taxation is not applicable. However, corporate rules exist which provide relief in respect of transactions between group companies and between founding shareholders and their company. The relief provisions deal with the following transactions:

- Asset-for-share transactions;
- Intra-group transactions;
- Unbundling transactions;
- Transactions relating to liquidation, winding-up or deregistration; and,
- Amalgamation transactions.

Briefly, the corporate rules provide for the following tax relief in respect of the above mentioned transactions, provided certain requirements are met:

- CGT;
- Stamp Duty;
- Income tax, specifically with respect to capital allowances claimed, recoupment of capital allowances and the transfer of trading stock; and
- VAT.

E. RELATED PARTY TRANSACTIONS

The Commissioner for the Zimbabwean Revenue Authority is empowered to make adjustments to nonarm's length cross-border transactions and thin capitalisations between connected parties. The new transfer pricing rules extend this to local transactions as well. There are also limitations on certain deductions and allowances on transactions between connected parties.

F. WITHHOLDING TAXES

Income from royalties, dividends, interest, and similar income are subject to withholding taxes at source. Non-residents are subject to withholding tax on dividends, royalties, fees and remittances. Zimbabwean resident individuals are subject to withholding tax at source on dividends and bank interest. Royalties paid by companies operating in SEZs are exempt from withholding tax.

Zimbabwean resident companies are not subject to dividend withholding tax on dividends paid by local companies but their bank interest is subject to withholding tax. The rate of withholding tax is 15% in all cases except for dividends from securities listed on the Zimbabwe Stock Exchange for which the rate is 10%.

G. EXCHANGE CONTROL AND INDIGENISATION

Subject to certain limited exclusions, Zimbabwean residents are subject to exchange controls. Currently the exchange controls continue to tighten up due to shortage of foreign currency to the extent that exportation of dividends and profits is not the priority. Imports are the priority. The exchange rate which had been pegged at 1:1 for the USD against the Real Time Gross Electronic Settlement (RTGS) and bond notes was relaxed in February 2019 when a local currency, Real Time Gross Electronic Dollars (RTGS$) was introduced. The USD is no longer the functional currency with effect from 22 February 2019. Non-residents are excluded from the ambit of exchange controls except when it comes to investing in securities listed on the Zimbabwe Stock Exchange.

The Zimbabwean Authorities have now relaxed the controls over ownership of companies in almost every sector, except for platinum and diamond mining industries. The target in the platinum and diamond mining industries remains that each local company should be owned 51% by indigenous persons and foreigners can own up to 49% only. However, this might still be reviewed any time. Investors can negotiate their way through the Zimbabwe Investment Authority and their respective licensing Ministries.

H. PERSONAL INCOME TAX

Zimbabwean resident individuals are, save for certain exclusions, subject to tax on their income from a source within Zimbabwe. Non-resident individuals, subject to certain exclusions, are subject to tax on their Zimbabwe-sourced income only.

Employers with acceptable accounting records are allowed to use the Final Deduction System for their payroll tax. This system requires that the employers deduct the payroll tax accurately such that the individual employees do not have to submit income tax returns for their employment income to the tax authorities at the end of the year unless they have other income. The income tax rates applicable to natural persons for the tax year ending 31 December 2018 are:

Annual Taxable Income (USD)	Rate	Cumulative Tax Chargeable (USD)
Up to 4,200	0%	0
From 4,201 to 18,000	20%	2,880
From 18,001 to 60,000	25%	7,380
From 60,001 to 120,000	30%	14,580
From 120,001 to 180,000	35%	35,580
From 180,001 to 240,000	40%	59,580
Above 240,000	45%	59,580 + 45%

Note: Husbands and wives are taxed separately. Taxable income from employment is arrived at after deducting pension and social security contributions and trade union subscriptions. An AIDS levy of 3% on tax chargeable is imposed after deduction of credits. The maximum effective rate is therefore 46.35%. The above rates apply only to remuneration from employment and pensions. Credits for medical expenses and medical aid contributions, physically disabled persons and elderly persons are granted with stipulated maxima.

Any taxable income for an individual which is received by or accrues to him from any trade investment or other activity (excluding employment or pension) is taxed at a flat rate of 25%. The 3% AIDS levy is also applicable to the tax on this income, giving an effective rate of 25.75%.

This payroll tax is payable in foreign currency if the remuneration is paid in foreign currency.
